No more sanctions?

Administration takes new stand on gulf policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The administration publicly scrapped its policy of relying on economic sanctions against Iraq Wednesday as too little and too slow, triggering what could be an extended debate in Congress over war and peace.

As Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., told Secretary of State James Baker, "The administration appears to be shifting to a new policy based on the premise that sanctions will not work and that an early resort to offensive action may Evidence for Biden's conclusion came from Baker's testimony, from CIA Director William Webster in a simultaneous session on Capitol Hill, and from President Bush, travelling in South America.

"I've not been the one who's convinced that sanctions alone will do the trick," Bush said Tuesday at a news conference in Buenos Aires.

Webster, in his testimony to the House Armed Services Committee, said "Our judgment has been and continues to be that there is no

City petitions state department for civic center, city hall money

A state hearing today could detenaine how soon Carbondale's plans for a civic center and consolidated downtown city hall could become a reality.

The city is requesting $3.075 million dollars from the state to build a civic center at the corner of Illinois Avenue and Walnut Street said Steve Hoffner, city manager.

The city would match that amount with a $331,000 land donation and $1.8 million raised through a bond issue to build a new city hall adjoining the civic center. Hoffner said.

Two representatives of the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs will hear testimony from citizens from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the SIUC Small Business Incubator, said Lynn Morford, spokeswoman for DCCA. Three other communities seeking funding for civic centers, West Frankfort, Sparta and Red Bud. also will go before the DCCA

Under the Metropolitan Civic Center Support program created in 1970, $44.3 million is available for Illinois communities to build civic centers. Morford said.

Twenty-two projects are being considered from 18 civic center authorities requesting $87.7 million, she said.

"It looks like there's some pretty tough decisions to be made, Morford said.

Forest Service sues Pope County over rocky road

By Todd Gardner Staff Write

The Forest Service is taking Pope County officials to court for grading a half mile of road in the newly designated Lusk Creek wilderness area.

Tom Hagerty, spokesman for the Forest Service, said that although the Lusk Creek area was not designated wilderness at the time the grading was done, the road work was in violation of the forest management plan. Since 1986, Lusk Creek was designated a wilderness study area, which barred motorized tools and vehicles from the area without a permit from the Forest Service, he

The injunction against Pope County officials would prevent further road work on Oak-Blanchard Road near Golconda said Assistant U.S. Attorney Bob Simpkins.

Simpkins, who filed the lawsuit at the U.S. District Court in Benton Tuesday, said the lawsuit is the latest event in a year-long dispute between the Fig. 4 Service and Pope county. The county sa he road is public property, and the Forest Service says it's the government's. The suit now puts this question in the hands of the court.

Belcher said he has not seen a copy of the suit filed in Benton but has stopped any plans to continue upgrading the road.

"The public has used that road for no-telling-how-long," said County Road Commissioner Rick Belcher, "By state law a road used for 15 years is a public road."

Hagerty said the road being contested would have to be used by the public in general not just the landowners who have land in the wilderness area. He said the Forest Service collected affidavits from residents who have lived in the area for 40 or 50 years stating the road is only used by the Forest Service and landowners

These affidavits were collected as part of a hearing process conducted by the Forest Service to work with the county to determine ownership outside of court.

"The Forest Service from all the facts gathered considers, with confidence, that Pope County abandoned these roads, if they ever owned them," Hagerty said, adding he thought the Forest Service had shown every courtesy and presented detailed information showing its jurisdiction over the road.

Belcher said he felt he should do . e road work after a public .neeting he organized in September where area residents said they

Illinois could award unpaid scholarships

By Sherri L. Wilcox

Illinois college students could receive $7.7 million in unpaid scholarship money.

Students received 15,472 scholarships of $500 each in 1987 and 1988, but because of a 1988 veto of the bill that authorized the awards, the students never got their morey, said Robert Clement of the Illinois Student Assistance Commission

Gov. James R. Thompson vetoed the bill that authorized payment of the scholarships when funding was not appropriated for the $7 million payout.

Last week, the Illinois House and Senate voted to override Thompson's veto of that bill.

The override means that students who are now "technically eligible" to receive the scholarships will get them if the money is available, Clement said.

Clement said that unless the Illinois General Assembly appropriates funding for the awards the vote will have little meaning for recipients.

"Even if the funding is given, the $500 awards will only go to recipients who are currently enrolled in college, regardless of whether or not they had attended college after becoming eligible for the award," said Clement. Dianna King of the financial aid office at SIUC had no specific information about the scholarship

Low university tuition costs profit from temporary taxes

By Jefferson Robbins

Lower tuition rates at Illinois universities would be impos sible without an extension of the current temporary income tax increase, an Illinois Student Association official said Wednesday night.
David Starrett, executive director of the ISA, addressed a joint session of the Undergraduate Student Govern of the ment and the Graduate and Professional Student Council, arguing that the funds Illinois education receives from the increase sorely will be missed if the surcharge is not continued.

"Higher education gets a little over $111 million from the surcharge," Starrett told the assembly. If the increase is allowed to run out as planned on June 30, 12.1, Starrett said, "there's a $111 million hole in Illinois higher education.'

Illinois guidelines for higher education require that tuition comprise no more than onethird of educational costs, Starrett said, but that rule largely is unenforced. State
Auditor General Robert Cronson reported in August that seven of the 12 state universities in Illinois had exceeded the one-third requirement.

Starrett placed the blame for much of the tuition controversy on Illinois politicians rather than college administrators.

"When your administration tells you that they're trying to keep tuitions low, they're not lying," he said. "It's time the legislators stopped treating students like automa ic teller machines

Starrett also noted the huge loss that all sectors of Illinois government would sustain if the increase is not continued beyond the 1990-91 fiscal

Salukis deal Lady Aces 70-64 loss

Staff Writer

The Evansville Lady Aces didn't

follow the script.
After last season's 70-48 blowout by SIUC and four straight losses to the Saluki women's basketball team. the Aces were supposed to be a breeze, even on their home court Wednesday night

They improvised and clawed back to give the Salukis a run, but SIUC finally ended with a 70-64 victory.

The first act started slowly for SIUC as the Lady Aces held tough early. Then the Salukis upstaged Evansville. With the score 13-12, SIUC went on a 13-0 run to make the margin 26-12.

The remainder of the half, senior forward Amy Rakers and her pals dominated the Aces on the boards.

"We killed them on the boards in the first half," Saluki head coach Cindy Scott said. "We had the game totally in control early and we were doing a great job moving the ball

As has been the trend in the past few Saluki games, SIUC gets a big lead and then the opponent makes a surge to close the gap.

The Lady Aces had a 5-0 run of their own to end the half and continued after the break to nammer away at the Saluki's lead by nailing long shots. Ann Humphries led the way for Evansville with 16 points.

"We plaved great defense in the first half," Scott said. "In the second half we allowed them to penetrate and hit outside shots. Even though we were running our oriense well, we just couldn't get our shots to

With 7:40 left and the Salukis up by a point, sophomore forward Angie Rougeau went down hard on her left hip. After a long break, in which she stayed on the floor, Rougeau walked on her own power to the sidelines Rougeau's bad luck fall might just have been the splash of water in the face the Salukis needed.

Over the next four minutes SIUC blazed on a 12-3 run, that included a basket and an assist by senior center Cvd Mitchell, who sparked the Salukis with 16 points off the bench, to up its advantage to 59-48.

On the edge of extinction the Lady Aces mustered up one last gasp. Three-pointers by Amy Lefever and Diane Starry, who had three trey balls on the night, cut the Salukis lead to four.

But the Salukis held on with the help of the bench again as Colleen Heimstead drained four straight free

the curtain on SIUC's third victory of the season

Saluki scores drowning bests from last year

Both the SIUC men's and women's swimming squads are moving toward last season's best times in every

Although the season isn't even half over in regards to the number of meets on the schedule, several Salukis are on the verge of topping last season's best times.

"The times this season are going to be a little lower than last season's bests because because we haven't reached our peak yet," SIUC head swimming coach Doug swimming Ingram said.

Freshman Rob Siracusano is the only Saluki to have exceeded a season best score from last season. Siracusano scored a 282.90 in 1-meter diving Nov. 16 against Missouri. That tops former Saluki Dave Sampson's las-season best score of 255.70 by

"The more meets we have the more we will be used to diving in meets, and our scores will go up," Siracusano said. "One of our goals is to progress as the season goes Siracusano also topped Sampson's best score of 244.80 in 3-meter diving. Nov. 17 against Southwest Missouri Siracusano scored a 294.90 topping Sampson's score by 50.10.

The swimmer this season with a time closest to to last season's best time in an event is freshman Jennifer Baus. Baus had a time of 1:03.33 in the 200-yard backstroke Nov. 9 against Illinois. Sophomore Janel Patrick had last season's best in the 200 backstroke with a time of 2:13.63.

Junior Deryl Leubner had a time of 21.13 for the men in the 50 freestyle against Aubum Nov. 10. That was the best time of this season for that event and only .70 behind last season's best, 20.43, which also belongs to Track teams ready for indoor seasons

By Tiffany Youther Staff Write

Saluki men's track coach Bill Cornell said SIUC should be able to take the indoor Missouri Valley Conference Championship this season if his athletes are willing to get down to business, and women's coach Don DeNoon expects another Gateway Conference crown to be business as usual for his team.

"We are excited about getting started," Cornell said. "As defending Missouri Valley Conference Champions, we are anxious to defend that title. I feel we are slightly stronger than last season.

DeNoon said he is also anxious to see what kind of shape the women's team is in. He said he is excited about junior Michelle Williams and sophomore Nacolia Moore, his long and triple jumpers, as well as sophomore shot and discuss throwers Jennifer Bozue, Cheryl Evers and Cynthia Grammer.

"i certainly expect us to win our conference championship," DeNoon said. "My second expectation is that we have some kids that gain NCAA championship status."
The regular indoor season begins

Dec. 8 in Normal, where both Saluki teams will compete against conference foes Illinois State and Indiana State. Both teams will not have another meet until after Christmas break. The coaches said the first meet is used to gauge each team's level of training and to see where it stands in its conference.

"We like to find out where our athletes are before Christmas," DeNoon said. "Then they go off on their own and have to do the training

The younger Huff said he always admired his father's job.

"We talk at least a couple times a week," the younger Huff said. "It's usually me calling him for advice. He rarely calls me for advice. I feel like I can go to probably the best SID in the country for advice. I don't have any problem doing that Huff, a 25-year veteran of SIUC's Sports Information Department, said the calls concern everyday sports information problems.

"There's a lot of things they don't teach you in the classroom," Fuff said. "Little things that involve common sense. Things come up that he's never faced before. He'll call up and we'll sit down and talk about it."

Huff said he was concerned about the match-up this weekend because his son had misled him into believing a key player for South Alabama was not going to play.

"He said their big man was not going to be eligible until the fourth game." Huff said. "On Sunday night BUENOS AIRES (UPI) - President Bush lined up support from Argentina Wednesday to his demand that Iraq abandon Kuwait without conditions, and said he is not optimi tic about chances for a withdrawal of occupation forces from the oil kingdom. "I have no feeling whatspever that Saddam Hussein will do nov what he has not done five months ago." Bush said in answer to a question as to whether be felt Iraq was 'softening" its position and seeking a face-saving compromise that will enable it to retreat from Kuwait.

State court uphoids anti-mask laws for Klan

ATLANTA (UPI) - The Georgia Supreme Court Wednesday rejected the Ku Klux Klan's constitutional chailenge to a state law prohibiting klansmen from wearing masks with their robes. In a 6-1 opinion written by Chief Justice Harold Clarke, the court said the 1951 law does not infringe the Klan's First Amendment right to free speech. The racist organization claims the anti-mask law is unconstitutional because it forbids klansmen from hiding their identities.

Inhalant abuse emerges as deadly epidemic

BOSTON (UPI) — A deadly epidemic apparently has emerged of teenagers sniffing butane, propane and other substances to get high, health care workers reported Wednesday. The practice has claimed the lives of at least 20 youngsters in the Cincinatti area alone, including two earlier this year involving boys ages 11 and 15, said Earl Siegel of Children's Hospital Medical Center in Cincinatti. The dimensions of the problem nationwide are not known.

World Color to close down Mount Vernon printing plant

MOUNT VERNON (UPI) — Union workers Wednesday rejected making concessions to World Color Press and the company said that means it will shut down its Mount Vernon printing operation. The company, which is based in Effingham, earlier had asked union employees to make concessions to keep Vernwood Press operating.

Tree planting dedicated to women, environment

By Todd Gardner

The Alpha Alpha chapter of Eta Sigma Gamma, a health education honorary, hopes a tree planted in dedication to women from SIUC serving in Saudi Arabia will also benefit the environment.

While the Gamma's may not support the reason that they are there, they do support the ideals of freedom," Peggy Wilken, president of Eta Sigma Gamma, told the nine people attending the dedication speech in front of Pulliam Hall, Monday. Wilken said health educators know how important the environment is to health, and planting a tree will help provide a cleaner healthier and more beautiful environment.

The planting of this tree may not make a significant difference in improving our environment," she said. "But it is a contribution the environment."

Don Mallonee, vice presiden, of Eta Sigma Gamma, read two poems he wrote on how trees are a symbol of people's connection to the environment and the destruction that can result when people do not recognize this Wilken hopes to see a tree dedicated to SIUC annually.

"Native Americans believe everything is their brother," he said. "If you look at something as a brother, you don't tend to

The University has become the recipient of the tree, and Wilken said she would like to see a tree dedicated to the University each year through the 1990s. She said University laborers provided help to the group by picking the site and digging the hole.

Faner lab faces fall finals frenzy

By Eric Reyes Staff Writer

The December rush at the Faner Computer Lib has begun.

Many students use the lab the two weeks before finals week when it is open 24 hours a day, said Patty Cosgrove, lab anager for the Faner

"It typically is a time for everybody to catch up," said Larry Hengehold, director of computing affairs.

Cosgrove said there is a dramatic climb upward in average number of users during the last two weeks of the semester.

According to computing affairs headcounts, there are several times between 3 p.m. and 10 p.m. when the lab has more than 130 people in it.

Cosgrove said there are only 162 computers for use. The lab has 106 IBM PS2 computers, 45 IBM PC's, seven graphic terminals and four Bill Baron, assistant director for computing affairs said the best times to go to the lab are from 7 to 9 a.m. or after 1 a m.

Headcount figures show there have been around 150 people in the lab at 11:30 p.m.

According to the headcount data, in the evening the To'clock hour is the least crowded. The numbers increase at 8 p.m. and drop after midnight.

The headcounts for the week of Nov. 25 show the lab had more than 150 people during the 3:30 p.m.

Hengehold said there is not an unusual amount of problems with the equipment despite the constant use.

"We ask most students to be aware of other students. They should do their busines and then let other people use the computers," Hengehold said.

Keg policy brochure step in right direction

A NEW BROCHURE outlining laws on keg parties lets students know where they stand without roiling over their rights.

The brochure is informative and nonconfrontational, unlike the keg registry proposal.

Controversy began brewing when students objected to the city's proposal that keg distributors record the name, address and telephone number of customers purchasing kegs.

The information would then be available to the Police

UNDERAGE DRINKING SHOULD be a concern, but the proposal could have easily spilled over into people's

As well as increased bureaucracy, the move could have resulted in privacy violations and selective police enforcement.

The new brochure is a step away from the confrontational proposal. Not only does the brochure inform people who throw keg parties of their rights and responsibilities, but also tosses in a few steps hosts can take to avoid police action.

These include preparing a guest list and informing neighbors of plans to throw a party.

MASS DISTRIBUTION OF the brochure is a good idea. The information will let people know what they are getting into before they decide to throw a keg party.

People should take the brochure seriously.

It will increase awareness about the consequences of noise violation and rowdiness without making people feel their rights have been violated with a registration process.

Tensions need attention

Daily Illini University of Illinois

For about five hours Saturday night a Campustown bar became the focal point for the turbulent state of race relations across the University community

More than 200 African-American students gathered at Kam's to protest a growing history of racially inflammatory events on campus.

Protesters chose to address the volatile issue of racism in a rational, nonviolent manner. For this, they should be praised.

It is infortunate that race relations at this campus have deteriorated to the point where protests are necessary. But events in the past (wo weeks have demonstrated how easily racial tensions can be ignited.

The first occurred Nov. 1, when five African-American students were arrested after police were called to break up a fight during a party held at Kam's. African-American students said the arrests were racially motivated. On Nov. 25, a University junior discovered racist graffiti scrawled on the outside door and walls of her apartment

And on Nov. 28, members of the University law school received racist fliers signed by the American White Supremacist Party in their mailboxes.

These events are unfortunate. But it should come as no surprise that racism continues to thrive on campus.

While the last two weeks have seen witness to an inordinate number of racial incidents, they provide only a glimpse into the University's history of troubled race relations.

These incidents are disturbing. But even neve chilling is the realization that race relations on this campus are not improving, but worse sing.

Ultimately it is up to the student body to end rarism at this University. The only way to combat racism anywhere is to tackle and expose the irrational fears of the racists

The same tactic must be used at the University, with everyone who is concerned about racism addressing the

Saturday's protest was a positive step toward ending campus racism

During the long holiday it will be easy for students to let themselves forget the controversy, but to do so will only reinforce the wall of misunderstanding that has been erected between different races at the University.

Woods too dark, mismanaged to make a trip through Thompson Woods; an expedition of need, not convenience because it was post-

It began with reluctance, because previous experiences with inadequate lighting in the woods, and ended with anger, brought about as response to the negligence of the Physical Plant personnel responsible for replacing bulbs and maintaining the scarce existing

That anger prompted an unofficial count of operable vs. inoperable lamps in the woods. The numbers are staggering. Of the eighteen lamps along major walkways, only five were lit, and of the five, four do not help because they are located at the perimeter which in adequately lit by lights attached to adjacent

So, of the lighting fixtures in Thompson Woods, only one out of 14 works. That's dismal!

In effort of avoiding iteration of the obvious threat of personal asseult, let's deal with the problem of not being able to see where to walk and what to walk around. is not only a matter of being unsafe, it is dangerous!

In the very early part of the 1970s, I recall reading articles (in the DE) about inadequate lighting and the perils of Thompson Woods. I further recall responses from the Physical Plant and the administration that he situation would be looked into

Two decades of "looking" has resulted in no improvement; so, I would like to use this space to offer my list of alternatives. My first idea is based on the premise that while what is there is not much, it is better than nothing, if it worked.

Accomplishing that end then will probably require offering intensive on-the-job-training sessions to the maintenance department; for the foremen, on distinguishing operable from inoperable lamps, and for the helpers (bulbers), recognizing a lamp post that may need to be rebulbed (the rather straight, thin, green poles having one lateral, and terminal, branch with a globuous knot at the free

Alternative two is overed as the sequential step when the first fails, ut it may involve the expenditure of more money and clearly is not as challenging as the first.

It suggests surrounding the area in barbed, chain-link fence with photo-optically operated entrance and exit gates to restrict travel after

This one has potential as a behavioral research tool as well in that, once anyone is locked in for the night, repeat offenses could be significantly reduced.

The third alternative, and my choice is too clearcut and burn the woods and pave the entire 15.9

acres for a parking lot.
The latter offers at least five distinguishable advantages. It eliminates a demonstrated danger area, and, look around, do you see any unlit parking lots of campus?

It would facilitate freedom of movement in how to get from say from the Agriculture Building to the library as opposed to essentially being forced to follow someone else's (paved) route.

It could cause the squirrel population to (if not decline, at least) move to where its presence is less of a detriment to stand regeneration.

It would make for more servient use of the land—a deteriorating stand with no net annual growth satisfies no natural goal and its aesthetic value is largely doubtful.

A parking lot has potential for benefitting any and all those who must park on campus; and finally, it would free the Saluki Patrol to react in more demanding bicycleinfraction areas.

For those who reject the viability of this option based on the alleged Thompson bequeath, refer to options one and two.

But, and clearly, the stand is not in a "natural state." And, if that stipulation ever did exist, it was most probably not enforceable Further, a statute of limitations on that condition has surely expired. Therefore, based on the overwhelming advantages, the best solution to the problem of poor lighting in the woods is to get rid of the woods.

Simple; and it did not take 20 years of tooking (at the problem) to deduce the obvious.—J. E. Lee, student,

Alcohol and driving do not mix well

As the holiday season comes upon us, I find myself preparing to say goodbye to fellow students as they depart home for the holidays.

This is a joyous time of year with all the anticipation of returning home to familiar faces and places.

Along with this however, comes the reality that a percentage of these students will not be returning back in January.

Not because they withdrew, but because they joined the statistics of those killed annually in alcohol related traffic accidents.

I can't help but be concerned that it may be someone close to me that will never see again. Instead of getting down on this thought however, I would like to express my concern through a few tips on increased safety throughout the holiday season.

I realize it will be great to see all your old friends and party at the "old hangout" but piease, keep in mind that there are people in other places anxiously awaiting your return. Be aware of your limitations and be smart if you exceed them.

If you are with friends they If you are with friends they won't mind giving you a lift home. It's one of the best ways to show how much you've "grown up" because going away to college is to set limits and stick to them.

These alternatives come from concern and the desire to keep Christmas" Merry Voirin, Sharon that -D. student, graduate health

Scientists study sounds of silence

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind (UP!)
— Scientists at Purdue University are making noise to enduce, rather than increase, the din of everylay life.

Researchers at Purdue's Ray W. Herrick Leboratories are among the nation's leaders in the development of active noise-control systems that can eliminate unwanted sounds from cars, airplanes, ventilation systems and other sources.

"Sound in air is created by small fluctuations in air pressure," said Jim Jones, assistant professor of mechanical engineering mechanical engineering. "Active noise control involves creating a sound that is equal in amplitude (volume) and identical in frequency (pitch) as the noise we want to eliminate," Jones said. "However, the sound waves are inverted, or opposite in phase, so when the offending noise increases air pressure, the noise-control system causes a corresponding ecrease to cancel the sound

"It works like adding a positive and a negative number together to get zero."

Jones said some people nave referred to active noise control as "anti-noise" or "negative noise," but it is actually just an inverted form of the sound.

Active noise-reduction systems were first patented in the 1930s. While it is relatively easy to cancel a pure tone, carly devices were not able to produce accurately the complex mix of frequences needed to eliminate everythm sounds.

Jones said recent developments in cigital signal processors now make active noise reduction practical.

Active noise-reduction systems use sensors such as microphones to detect the offending sound and send it to a computer. The computer analyzes it and generates the opposing sound, which is reproduced through appropriately placed speakers.

Each spring the Purdue School of Mechanical Engineering conducts a short course in active noise and vibration control for scientists and engineers from businesses and other institutions. Jones said it was the first program of its kind offered in the United States.

Robert Benchard and Rahmataliat Shoureshi, both associate professors of mechanical engineering, teach the course with Jones and conduct research on active noise control at Herrick Labs.

A simple demonstration of active noise reduction uses two loudspeakers, each emitting the same tone.

The cones of the speakers vibrate in and out to create small changes in air pressure and generate the beginning of next year.

Money for the civic center program was increased to $200 million by the General Assembly in 1989, opening up funding for more civic centers and allowing the state to accept more applications, Morford said.

The program is funded by bond sales that are paid off by money raised from horse racing taxes and computer software taxes, she said.

Hoffner said if Carbondale's request is not approved, the city will go back to square the with their plans for a downtown city center.

resolutions."

These resolutions demand an lraqi withdrawal from Kuwait, release of hostages, and restoration of the former Kuwaiti government.

In a debate that generally broke along party lines, Democrat Biden told Baker, "Frankly, Mr. Secretary, I don't hink the administration has made the case yet, and I hink it is going to be tough for you to do

Several senators evoked emotional arguments in which they said they could not look into the eyes of a family that had lost a son in the gulf fighting without the assurance that the U.S. government had first exhausted all steps short of war, including an extended test of the effectiveness of the economic sanctions.

Baker said President Bush has directed himself, Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney and Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, "to work with the other members of the international coalition to reinforce the multinational force in the gulf and to coordinate its efforts. Our aim is to ensure that if force must be used, it will be used suddenly, massively and decisively."

On Tuesday, House Democrats strongly endorsed Bush's handling of the Persian Gulf crisis, but they also Jemanded that Bush seek a declaration from Congress before going to war, unless he needs to protect U.S. lives.

On a vote of 177-37, House Democrats, meeting in a caucus as a prelude to the 102nd Congress convening in January, declared that they "support the actions taken by President Bush to defend Saudi Arabia," his demand that Saddam leave Kuwait, and that they back Bush's diplomatic moves.

Baker acknowiedged the debate, saying, "I know that some here and throughout the country are very uneasy about the prospects of war. No one wants war, none of us.

Not you, not the President, not me. None of us have sought this conflict and we are making every attempt to resolve it peacefully, without appearing the aggressor."

But he said the success of the sanctions has to be judged on whether they change Saddam Hussein's behavior and there is nothing in his violent history to suggest that he will be swayed.

"We have to face the difficult fact that no one can tell you that sanctions alone will ever be able to impose a high enough cost on Saddam to get him to withdraw."

'The Crucible' portrays tale of 16th century love triangle

The Stage Company, 101 N. Washington, in Carbondale offers

Washington, in Carbondaic oners something deeper than the sitcoms on network TV this weekend.

"The Crucible," which opened last weekend, is set in Salem, Mass. during the infamous witch trials

The most important demands of this play are put on the actors and acresses because "The Crucible" is a tragedy with only a couple of light moments. All characters are under constant tension and must show it, not only with an occa-sional clenched fist, but with a tensed body.

Judging from the concentrated effort on stage opening night, all actors were not only emotionally high with excitement after the performance, but also physically tired from the intense hard work under the hot lights.

The complicated plot focuses on a love triangle between John Proctor, played by Michael Lehker, his wife Mary, played by Kimberly

Play Review

Frick, and Abigail Williams, played by Amy Fuesting.

Their triangle is more than a game of love. These three are caught up in a game termed "witch calling." When this game ends, the loser is executed.

Frick does not smile at all during her performance, and although she ars to be a stiff actress, she actually plays a stern

Frick's convincing portrayal lead the audience to sympathize with John. The audience can almost understand why he fools around. On the other hand, Abigaii's character gives off rays warmer than sunshine. She describes sex with John by saying he "clutched (her) back and sweated like a stallion." John tries to sweep the one time sexual encounter with Ahigail by sweeping it under the rug but remains caught in her web. Faesting does well in portraying the image of an ange! with a voice as sweet as honey.

But actions speak louder than

Abigail is con-niving to get her

Abigail's plan is to convince the community that Mary is a witch. After Mary is executed, John could be a free man, and Abigail could natural. At a lowever, Lehker's powerful voice carries from the stage to grab the audience and shake it up a bit.

"The Crucible" investigates the dark side of human nature, exploring it through games people play.

Even though this cast is playing games like "name calling" and "let's dress up like pilgrims," the ga. e in "The Crucible" is serious business.

Curtain times are 8 p.m. this Friday and Saturday, and 2 p.m. Sunday. The box office is open week (ays from 1 to 6 p.m., Saturays from noon to 4 p.m. and also one hour before each show.

MFA thesis films incorporate Spanish flair

By Melynda Findlay

Pia Cseri-Briones' Spanish heritage was the inspiration for her Master of the Fine Arts thesis film "Tapas," shown along with three of her other short films at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Student Center

"Tapas" is the longest and most important film of the four that will important him of the four hat will be shown, Cseri-Briones said.

The film, an experimental documentary, portrays a personal remembrance of the Spanish Civil War that deals with family stories and how time affects the human

'This film doesn't take the conventional approach to a docu-mentary," Cseri-Briones said. "It relies on a collage of images to convey the meaning. I take real stories in terms of an emotional approach rather than just presenting the facts.

The title of the film is taken from a Spanish word that means "hors d'oeuvres.

"I liked the sound of the word," Cseri-Briones said. "People (who see the film) can think of their own meaning for it."

The bilingual film also uses poetry by 19th century Spanish poet Rosalia DeCastro.

Cseri-Briones stresses that despite the avant-garde nature of the film, it is not directed at a limited audience.

"This film is accessible to everyone," she said. "People shouldn't be intimidated by it, but they may have to work harder in making connections about what I'm trying to say."

Other films to be shown in Cseri-Briones' exhibition Saturday will include "A Place of Their Own," a more traditional documentary about Mexican migrant workers in Southern Illinois; "A Leaf Fells," another experimental documentary about acid rain and "Till Somebody Loves You," a "found footage" film.

The "found footage" film was conceived when someone gave Cseri-Briones some old home movies full of people she didn't know — she spliced them together to create a film about people's relationships from the clips.

Cseri-Briones, a native of Hawley, Pennsylvania, did her undergraduate work in Film and Communications at McGill University in Montreal, Canada.

Model 325 386:25 Tower Color VGA Now '2350 (* All with 40 meg. Hard Drive, Floppy Drive, Keyboard, DOS & 640,x 480 VGA Monitor)

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) Illinois State Police officials said Wednesday one of two men arrested for trying to bribe Illinois ransportation secretary allegedly plotted the crime while at his state government job

James Johnson, 59, Springfield, an economic development specialist with the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA), and Elmer Knecht, 72, the owner of a Springfield mobile home park, were arrested by state police Tuesday.

Both men allegedly offered Transportation Secretary Mike Lane $200, 000 to get the state to pay $3.5 million to buy about 66 acres of land on the northeast edge of Springfield.

State police spokesman Bob Fletcher said Lane's assistant, Bobby Orr, was approached first by the two men. They also allegedly promised to contribute funds to Gov.-elect Jim Edgar's campaign if the deal went through.

Lane, however, turned the information over to State Police Director Jeremy Margolis and the men were arrested after a two-week investigation.

They posted bond and were released from the Sangamon County Jail.

Fletcher said he did not know how information was obtained about the pair but the Springfield State Journal-Register reported Orr carried an eavesdropping device to a meeting where the bribe was Knecht was charged with bribery and Thompson faces bribery and misconduct charges.

"That's because he (Thompson) ommitted the alleged offense while on state time," Fletcher said. "It had nothing to do with his capacity over at DCCA but he was abusing his function as a state employee." employee.

If convicted, the men face three seven years in prison on the bribery charges. The misconduct charge carries a sentence of two to five years in prison.

he told me he is eligible now. I had already passed the information to Coach (Rich) Herrin. We're going to talk about that."

The two Huffs have crosse, paths before in athletic competitions. The younger Huff was working for the University of Illinois Sports Information Department in 1985 when the football Salukis met up with the Illini. Huff said his son's Saluki pride showed through.

"He came up to me grin-ning," Huff said. "I told him you've got to realize who you're working for an not show your emot in. He knows that now He better know it?

The younger Huff said he learned his lesson, but he will still have mixed feelings about the game Saturday night.

"I've always been a Saluki fan my whole life," the younger Huff said. "You pull for your team, but you don't let that get in

But whatever the out-come of the game Saturday night, both Huff's will be on the sidelines doing their job.

"We'll still be friends probably after the game is over," Huff said.

TIMES, from Page 16

It stands to reason that the longer the event, the longer the difference between this season's and last season's bests will be times are more spread out in the longer events.

Nov. 10 against Vanderbilt, junior Tonia Maha'ra swam the 1,000 freestyle in a time of 10:23.57, only 1.44 behind last season's best of 10:22.13 by junior.

"Our scores improve as the season goes on," Mahaira said. "The more we swim, the better our times will be."

Mahaira said improving on last year's times is a goal all swimmers

The women's divers have also have had scores closing in on last season's bests.

Ja 3-meter diving, junior Michelle Albrecht scored a 241,20 against Illinois Nov. 9. That was only 13.95 points behind junior Laine Owen's best score of 255.15 last season.

Thus far in the season, senior Chris Gally has the best times in both the 100 and 200 butterfly event. Nov. 17 Gally had a 51.14 against Southwest Missouri, which was 3.38 behind his last season best of 47.76, Incidentally, the 47.76 in the 100 butterfly is the all-time SIUC

Several other Saluki swimmers have had times close to last
