Proposed budget to cut work study

By Todd Welvaert
Politics Writer

President Bush's proposed federal budget will increase the amount of student financial aid available for 1993 but may cut the number of students eligible for aid, a move that could eliminate campus jobs at SIUC.

The proposed budget would increase the amount of financial aid by 17 percent over the amount given in 1992. The president also suggested four changes in eligibility for Pell Grants, the College Work Study program and Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants.

Under the president's proposed budget, education would receive $32.3 billion with $13.69 billion earmarked for financial aid programs, an increase of $1.95 billion over the $11.7 billion it received in 1992.

The budget cuts College Work Study by 20 percent, splitting the cost of the program with the University.

"Here at SIUC the (CWS) program is very important to students," said Pamela Britton, director of Financial Aid. "Since the minimum wage has gone up, the program is an important source of income for students. If we have to go 50-50 with the government we would probably have to cut the amount of CWS workers."

Britton, who was unhappy with the reductions in CWS and SEOG, is confident the budget will not go through Congress unchanged.

"I think it's very likely that congress will support the president's position on changing the requirements for declaring independence," Britton said. "I think the final, approved budget will be very different from the one the president proposed."

SIUC employed 17,046 CWS employees who claimed $2,116 million in earnings for 1990-1991, Britton said.

Jobless bill approved

Congress sends 13-week extension to president

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, in sharp contrast to last year's long battle, Tuesday approved and sent to President Bush for his signature a new 13-week extension of unemployment benefits for jobless Americans.

The House passed the bill on a 404-8 vote and the Senate approved it a short time later 94-2, after first disposing 88-8 an objection that the $2.7 billion bill violates the budget ceiling. Sens. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and Steve Symms, R-Idaho, voted against the bill.

Last year, Bush blocked two Democrat-backed benefits bills before finally agreeing in November to sign a third measure allowing up to 20 weeks of benefits beyond the normal 26 weeks provided by the states.

The new bill will allow unemployed workers who have exhausted their normal benefits to receive an additional 13 weeks of assistance.

Some lawmakers predicted that Congress will have to pass yet another extension in July when the new program expires if there is not significant improvement in the economy.

"Unfortunately, there are no indications that unemployment will recede quickly," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

During House debate on the bill some Democrats used the occasion to attack Bush's economic policies. Rep. Sam Gejdenson, D-Conn., said Bush agreed to support the extension only when "he saw his own poll numbers drop and the possibility that he might soon be unemployed."

Members of both parties said approval of the jobless bill should be followed quickly by passage of a package of bills to revive the economy, although it was clear there is strong disagreement between Democrats and the administration on what steps are needed to accomplish that.

Chicago council: Open JFK files

CHICAGO (UPI) — The City Council Tuesday approved a resolution calling on the Chicago Police Department to open its files on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and Jack Ruby, the man who killed Kennedy's alleged assassin.

Alderman Thomas Murphy introduced the measure, which was approved on a 49-0 vote.

The resolution also calls on the Illinois congressional delegation to support bids to open the FBI, CIA, Warren Commission and House Select Committee on Assassination files. Those files are sealed until 2029.

"If there is nothing to hide, why not put the information before the American people," asked Murphy, who was in grade school when the president was shot Nov. 22, 1963, Dallas. "There are no legitimate security reasons to withhold the files."

Murphy said Chicago police assembled file on Thomas Arthur Valle, an explosives marksman and ex-Marine who was arrested

Shepherd: Blacks should re-invest in themselves

By Sherri L. Wilcox
General Assignment Writer

Nothing is wrong with the United States that the United States cannot fix, the 1992 Black History Month keynote speaker said Tuesday night.

"America is not broken beyond fixing, and black Americans must work to do just that," said

Benjamin Shepherd. "To not do so would signal a cop-out."

Keynote speaker Benjamin Shepherd, vice president for Academic Affairs and Research, addressed faculty and students in the Student Center Auditorium referring to Black History Month as "the month of the year when it is socially acceptable to talk about black issues.

Shepherd urged audience members to re-invest in the family and in themselves.

"While it is true that blacks have paid their dues, many more are coming due, and we must pay those as well," he said. "We must be willing to demand and give more of ourselves."

Shepherd said he was against reparations to blacks for the sufferings of their ancestors.

"I don't see the point," he said. "If you don't deserve it, you shouldn't want it. It's like blood money. My grandmother can't enjoy it, my great-grandmother can't enjoy it."

"It's just not reasonable," he said. "Where would the money come from?"

Shepherd also vocalized his opposition to the Affirmative Action principles of substantive equality through preferential treatment and the quota system.

"Affirmative Action is not alive and well," he said. "Polls show that both blacks and whites oppose preferential treatment, and historical evidence shows that it is

Football, hoops ticket sales increase

By Tony Mancuso
Sports Editor

Increased ticket sales at Saluki football and men's basketball games have helped make up for the SIUC Athletic Department's state funding losses this spring.

Because of the state's monetary crisis, universities were asked in January to return 3 percent of their general revenue budgets. SIUC requested each department to return 3 percent of its budget to pay back the $3.7 million the University owed. Athletics had returned $30,000.

The department only receives state money for salaries, and Athletic Director Jim Hart said it would have to dip into operating funds to pay staff members.

But Hart said winning football and men's basketball programs have led to an increase in ticket sales for games, which has boosted the department's operating funds and has offset the loss of state funds.

"Without the success of those programs, we would be in a whole heckuva mess," he said. "If we weren't winning at such a pace, things would not look so good."

The Saluki football team, which was 2-9 the previous two seasons, had just four home games scheduled in the 1991 season. But head coach Bob Smith's squad jumped out to a 4-0 start. A record crowd of about 6,500 people saw the Dawgs beat conference rival Illinois State to improve to 5-0.

Although the gridders ended up 7-4 on the season, the Athletic Department reports that ticket sales increased to $113,000 for the four games, up more than $24,000 from the 1990 four-game total.

Hart said he has continued optimism that the football team will draw well in 1992.

"We have six home games this coming year, and an improving team, which can only help our income," he said.

The men's basketball team has had similar success.

Ticket sales were at an all-time high of more than $328,000 for the 14 home games in the 1990-91 season, and that figure had

Saluki senior guard Karrie Redeker, right, practices her defense against junior guard Karen Powell during a scrimmage at the Arena. The women's team, 13-4 on the season, is gearing up for a game Thursday night at Northern Iowa.

Karrie Redeker and Karen Powell play a different style of basketball, but together they are combining for SIUC's 3-point attack.

The SIUC women's basketball team has had success this season, sporting an 8-1 record in the Gateway and a 13-4 overall record. Treys play an important role in SIUC's game plan, coach Cindy Scott said.

"The 3-point shots are important in every game," Scott said. "The two players compliment each other. Karen will fire at any cost, while Karrie is selective about her shots."

When both Powell and Redeker are in the game, they pressure the opponent with outside shooting and present a double whammy, Scott said.

"The two of them have their own little group, and they feed off of each other," she said. "When one's playing on, the other gains confidence."

Redeker, a 5-9 senior guard, holds the school record for most 3-pointers made, 126, and attempted, 338. This season she is shooting 44 percent from the 3-point range and is the Gateway's No. 2 shooter from downtown.

Redeker has notched double digits in scoring in 11 of 17 games and has the team's season high for number of points. She made 25 against Northern Illinois Jan. 15.

The last two years Redeker came off the bench as the sixth player. This season she is a starter, and as a result is playing more minutes.

Redeker said this season she is more confident in her shooting, and one of the main reasons has been her teammates' and coaches' support.

"We don't rely on one person, and we all get along well," Redeker said.

"When I'm open on the outside, they encourage me to shoot. I don't really see myself as a leader. I'm a talker, and I try to get people pumped up."

"I've improved in that I let the game come to me, and that helps me make a better selection on shots. I don't think 3-point shots are bigger than any other shot, but it can really get the team going, and it gets the crowd excited."

Scott said the 3-point shots have been crucial to the team's success, and Redeker has been a real leader.

"I think one of the greatest assets to a player is confidence, and right now Karrie is playing with tremendous confidence," Scott said. "She gives you 100 percent whenever she is in practice, in games, whenever. To have that legitimate 3-point shooter is a high for our team."

Powell, a 5-9 sophomore guard, has scored in double digits in four games this season, and is shooting about 36 percent from behind the arc. She nabbed 13 points for a season high against Bradley Jan. 30.

Powell did not see much playing time last year because of illness, but Scott said she is working hard, and as she improves, she will see more action off the bench.

"She's come in and hit some big 3s for us," Scott said. "The team has more confidence in her. The biggest thing she's improved on since she's been here is her defense."

Mother of alleged victim testifies against Tyson

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The mother of the 18-year-old Miss Black America contestant accusing Mike Tyson of rape testified Tuesday her daughter still sees the boxer's face in nightmares.

The emotional testimony came minutes after defense attorneys lost a bid to call three women who say they saw the accuser and the former heavyweight champion kissing in a limousine.

Tyson, 25, is on trial for rape, confinement and deviate criminal conduct before a nine-man, three-woman jury in Marion County Superior Court. He faces up to 63 years in prison if convicted.

The mother cried as she recalled the time since her family returned home to Rhode Island from the Miss Black America Pageant in Indianapolis. She said her daughter was distraught and distant the five weeks following the pageant and still has trouble adjusting at college, where she is a freshman.

"She wasn't (herself) anymore. One day she secluded herself in her bedroom. She said, 'Mom, I'm not (myself) anymore. And I'm not coming back,'" the mother said.

"She still has nightmares. She ends up sleeping with me. She calls me at 1 a.m. (from college) with nightmares, seeing (Tyson's) face. She's living the whole nightmare over and over and over. I just want my daughter back."

The accuser's mother testified she noticed the change in her daughter the moment they met in Indianapolis late July 19.

"She didn't look like the same daughter I sent down here," the mother said, holding back tears. "I just ran to her and hugged her."

The accuser says Tyson attacked her early July 19 in his suite at the Canterbury Hotel.

The mother said she took her daughter to Methodist Hospital early July 20 to be examined. But though the young woman decided to finish the pageant, she was not the same bubbly, effervescent person who entered the contest, the mother said.

"She wasn't really herself," the mother said. "She's very jovial and happy-go-lucky. She was just basically going through the motions. She faked her smile."

Business delegation makes pitch to keep Mariners afloat in Seattle

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seattle civic leaders offered a proposal Tuesday that would give the Mariners an addition $13 million in revenues over the next three years, while Commissioner Fay Vincent reiterated baseball's policy against franchise ownership from outside North America.

Vincent met for more than 90 minutes with a nine-member delegation headed by Washington Gov. Booth Gardner and Seattle

Mayor Norm Rice, during which the group presented commitments from several Seattle-area businesses to increase the American League club's revenue.

The offer includes $4 million in season-ticket guarantees, $7 million in advertising commitments and $2 million in proceeds from cable television. It also pledges $90 million in capital improvements to the Kingdome over the next 15 years and the examination of building a new facility, perhaps one with a retractable roof.

"We presented that there is a strong and viable foundation for baseball in Seattle," Rice said. "We have asked that based on the progress reported today that this franchise be preserved where it belongs—in Seattle."

The ticket commitment guarantees the sale of 10,000 season tickets.

'Hawk' who soared in 1960s honored as basketball great

NEW YORK (UPI) — In more than 30 years of coaching, Lou Carnesecca has seen all kinds of players. But only one Connie Hawkins.

The St. John's coach still becomes wide-eyed when he recalls the first time he saw Hawkins play.

Hawkins, a schoolboy legend in New York, was playing in a high-school playoff game.

Carnesecca, then a St. John's assistant under Joe Lapchick, was sent to the Harlem gym to scout Hawkins.

"This guy goes up for a jumper from about 25 feet out and 'The Hawk' rushes out and blocks his shot," Carnesecca said Tuesday. "The ball's free and bouncing toward midcourt

COUP ATTEMPT FAILS IN VENEZUELA — Rebel paratroopers attacked the presidential palace in a coup attempt early Tuesday but were beaten back by troops loyal to President Carlos Andres Perez. The last groups of renegade soldiers surrendered more than 12 hours after the assault on the palace. A group of about 80 rebel soldiers holed up in buildings near the Miraflores Palace and the presidential residence of La Casona laid down their weapons Tuesday afternoon.

THREE KILLED IN SALVADORAN VIOLENCE — Two members of an agricultural cooperative were shot and a judge was found dead Tuesday, the first killings since the beginning of a U.N.-monitored cease-fire that ended El Salvador's 12-year civil war. Gummen boarded a bus in the town of Jiquilisco, 48 miles east of San Salvador, and shot two members of the National Federation of Agricultural Cooperatives, affiliated with the country's largest labor central.

POLICEMAN ATTACKS IRA POLITICAL OFFICE — A suspended policeman opened fire Tuesday at the Belfast offices of Sinn Fein, the IRA's political wing, killing three people and wounding two others, then drove to a remote area where he shot himself, officials said. The attack came as Irish Republic President Mary Robinson was making a goodwill visit to the British-ruled province and thousands of Protestant and Catholic workers held a peace rally in the city center.

U.N. FORCES CLAIM SUCCESS IN CEASE-FIRE — The Australian commander of a 50-man multinational contingent of U.N. military liaison officers Tuesday claimed success in helping to maintain the 15th cease-fire between Croatian and Serbian forces. "We are doing good work here," army Col. John Wilson told a news conference in Zagreb, the capital of the newly recognized, independent Croatian Republic.

U.S. MODIFIES HAITIAN EMBARGO — Trying to alleviate the "unintended suffering by innocent Haitians," the administration moved Tuesday to modify an embargo against Haiti by allowing exports of certain assembled products to the United States. Officials said the action in no way signified an end to the embargo established following a military coup last fall that ousted the island nation's democratically elected president.

SENATE AGREES TO MODIFIED ENERGY BILL — The Senate, blocked from acting on a far-reaching bill to set the nation's energy policy well into the next century, agreed Tuesday to consider a stripped-down bill that bars drilling for oil in the pristine areas of Alaska's Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., a strong backer of exploration in ANWR, said the provision was dropped "not out of a lack of conviction (but) a recognition that it cannot pass."

BOY KILLED BY CTA BUS, DRIVER CHARGED — The new head of the Chicago Transit Authority suspended a bus driver Tuesday who allegedly struck and killed a 7-year-old boy and then continued to a garage without stopping. Robert Belcaster, appointed one day earlier to succeed Alfred Savage at the helm of the mass transit agency, said Stephen Grandberry, 25, a bus driver for the last two years, was suspended without pay pending a disciplinary hearing.

REMAP ARGUMENTS AIRED BEFORE PANEL — Minority voting rights will be in jeopardy in Illinois' next legislative election under a map adopted by a Republican-dominated panel and approved by the Illinois Supreme Court. Democrats told a three-judge federal panel Tuesday. However, Republicans argued the map containing 118 new House and 59 new Senate districts meets all the requirements of the law and should be upheld.

Coordinator: Blood drive important for patients

Dianne Levin, researcher for the Academic Affairs and Research Department, offers support to Scott Craig, senior in radio and television, at a blood drive in the Student Center, while a nurse inserts a needle into his arm. Levin was volunteering at the drive Tuesday.

By Trumier Camphor
General Assignment Writer

Diane Levin used to spend much of her daily routine moving about slowly. She suffered from shortness of breath and chronic fatigue.

She also wore a pacemaker and spent much of her time at home sitting with an oxygen machine.

But technological developments in transplant surgery and the ongoing efforts of the American Red Cross made it possible for Levin to have transplant surgery.

Levin, a researcher in the SIUC academic affairs and research office, had heart and lung transplant surgery almost two years ago.

She could run a marathon today if she wanted, Levin said.

Levin actively works with the Red Cross in Southern Illinois to recruit more blood donors.

Many people still think transplant surgery is experimental, Levin said. "I'm living proof that it works," she said. "It's a very successful procedure, but in order to make transplantation possible there has to be an adequate blood supply. I used 40 units for my transplant surgery," she said.

Vivian Ugent, coordinator for Red Cross blood drives in Southern Illinois and Missouri said the blood not only is used for transplants, but also for cancer patients, hemophiliacs and kidney dialysis patients.

"None of the new technology that is part of these surgical procedures would be possible without an adequate blood supply," Ugent said. "For a liver transplant there must be at least 100 units of blood available or you can't even have the surgery."

The SIUC blood drive continues from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. through Friday at the Student Center. After three days, the blood drive has collected 512 units.

Both Levin and Ugent explained the need for donors to donate blood for this week's blood drive and the ones to follow.

Levin said some transplant surgeries have been postponed at times when there is not enough blood supply.

Before the surgery, Levin suffered from Eisenmenger's Syndrome, a disease that occurs when there is a hole in the wall of the heart separating the two chambers with one side of the heart becoming enlarged.

The syndrome produces high blood pressure in the lungs, scarring them and making gas exchange very difficult.

The lungs become damaged and begin to fail.

"Before the surgery, I was on oxygen at home and parked in handicapped parking," Levin said. "I could hardly walk from my car to the office."

Levin said she now encourages people to donate blood for transplant and other procedures.

"I don't think people realize how much blood is necessary for transplants," she said.

"We can't always wait for the last minute to donate blood. It takes a couple of days after hospitals receive the blood to get it to the patients," Levin said.

The Southern Illinois Region of the Red Cross collects about 270,000 units of blood a year.

To make an appointment to donate blood or for further information contact the Red Cross at 529-2151.

College of Agriculture to honor alumnus at annual banquet for outstanding work

By Kara Grover
General Assignment Writer

Former SIUC student David J. Meisinger found a future in pigs.

Meisinger, who grew up in a rural town north of Joliet, said his current position as an assistant to the president at Indiana Packers Co. in Delphi, fulfills a desire that stems from childhood.

"My early life's experiences were with all species of livestock but I found the work with pigs to have the brightest future," Meisinger said.

The College of Agriculture will honor Meisinger as the Outstanding Alumnus for 1991-92 at its annual All-Agriculture Banquet Feb. 28.

"I'm thrilled at having this award," Meisinger said. "It's something you treasure for the rest of your life."

Meisinger received a bachelor's degree in general agriculture and pre-veterinary science in 1973 and a master's degree in animal science in 1975 at SIUC.

Meisinger said he is not sorry that he chose agriculture as his field of study.

"I grew up in a large family farm. My father would rather I have gone into agronomy, the study of crops," Meisinger said.

"But I found animal science stimulating," he said.

As head of procurement and contracts for IPC, a pork processing plant, Meisinger said he is using what he learned at SIUC.

MAP give-and-take stabs student wallets

THE NAMES "MONETARY ASSISTANCE Program" and "Illinois Student Assistance Commission" are starting to sound like misnomers. Neither the program nor its sponsoring commission is "assisting" anyone with this latest act of financial give-and-take.

The ISAC voted Friday to gut its MAP awards this year by 12 percent, cutting back significant funds to almost 100,000 university students statewide, including 6,500 SIUC students.

NO SURPRISES THERE. Education and financial aid are the sectors of state government where officials like to dig for spare change, as if state universities were couch cushions they could flip over regularly to search for dropped pennies.

This new round of cushion-flipping comes as a result of Illinois' emergency budget and the 3-percent universal rescission it entails. State rescissions have chipped away at the University's morale in the past, but this one takes a stab at the students, the heart of SIUC.

KNOWING THAT THE AMOUNT of one's financial aid will drop beforehand is one thing. Having one's aid cut when that money has already been credited to a bursar account is quite another.

In effect, students receiving MAP awards will be forced to return money already in their possession, in amounts ranging from $18 to more than $140 depending on the level of aid received.

SIUC STUDENTS WILL LOSE A TOTAL of about $660,000 to the ISAC recall. Statewide, $4 million to $5 million will have to be refunded for use elsewhere in the Illinois budget.

All this helps the state in a recession-era attempt to make ends meet. But financial ends will be flapping loose for the rest of the semester among thousands of students who had counted on MAP to help see them through.

TO SOME, PAYING BACK $140 might not sound like much. But for a MAP-assisted student, $140 goes a long way toward paying for vital textbooks and student fees.

The state has moved toward solving its own budget problem. In the process, however, it has created a budget problem for Illinois students.

STUDENTS' POCKETS ARE NOT BOTTOMLESS. One day there will be no more loose change sliding around in the couch of higher education, no more room to make cuts, and no more bandages to cover up the politicians' fiscal irresponsibility.

I even believe Post reporters when they ask questions that sound sincere."—Former White House Chief of Staff John Sununu to the Washington Post, on a Spy magazine reporter who posed as a recruiter for a large company interested in hiring Sununu.

"Basically, I am not a mean person. I can be mean...it's not wise to cross me."—Marilyn Quayle, wife of Vice President Dan Quayle, on her public image.

"He's not too fast but he's an observer who tends to manipulate situations. He's a smart guy but no great intellect."—Marc Elliot, author of the forthcoming Bruce Springsteen biography "Down Thunder Road," on Bruce Springsteen.

Bad attitude, Validine combine to foul up Saluki fan's game

Even though the Salukis were defeated on Saturday, the proximity in the score throughout the game made it an exciting one.

However, because of an error in the Validine system and an arrogant doorwoman who was overconfident in that system, I was not first admitted into the game; thus my buddies and I weren't allowed to see that exciting game together.

Upon entering the Main Gate, I presented my ticket and ran my Student I.D. through the Validine machine. To my surprise the computer read it was invalid.

I explained to the young lady that my registration hadn't been cancelled, and just this past week, not only had I gone to the Recreation Center, but I also checked out library books, both of which require valid student I.D.

She then called her supervisor over who treated me as if I were a leper. Not only did she accuse me of "being someone who wasn't a student, here, who was trying to pull a fast one to get in the game at a student cost," she also insisted that I could not have used my I.D. anywhere else, because the Validine system "doesn't make mistakes, and if one machine says the card is valid, then all of them will say the same." She then gave me an ultimatum—either buy a non-student ticket, or leave. Since when is one individual given a title as judge, jury, and executioner? Obviously the little authority placed on her went to her head. Not wanting to make a scene, I turned around and insisted my buddies go without me.

As I was walking to go back home, I happened upon another gate on the east side of the Arena. I gave the girl my ticket, ran my I.D. through the machine and, presto, the computer said "Valid".

During halftime, I reapproached the doorwoman at the Main Gate and asked to speak with their boss. To his surprise, he discovered the system does have a "bug" in it. Granted, he apologized. Is an apology enough when in addition to the doorwoman publicly accusing me of not being a student here (and basically of being a liar), I could not watch the game with my friends? You see, after I instructed my chums to go in when I couldn't, they didn't, for they felt if I couldn't see the game, then they shouldn't either. I guess that is what is called a "code of ethics" among friends.

The next home game is Feb. 11. Hopefully, they'll win that game, and both the "bug" and the doorwoman's attitude will be corrected.—Floyd T. Schleyhahn, senior, physiology.

Athletes have a right to failure; required study sessions unfair

If one group is treated differently than another we call it prejudice or discrimination.

The athletic program, however, has a euphemism for this kind of policy: forced study table.

I am speaking of an athletic department policy that requires student-athletes with a semester GPA below 2.25 to attend compulsory study sessions of at best questionable merit under threat of scholarship removal.

Simply stated, the Athletic Department, through this policy, suggests that it is possible to teach athletes to be academically responsible through duress.

The flaws in this logic are legion. Certainly, the capacity for irresponsibility is a prerequisite for the quality of responsibility.

By ignoring the latter, the Athletic Department removes the possibility of the former.

Student-athletes have the same right not to take advantage of the educational opportunities given them as other students.

Taking away this right, no matter how noble the motive, is to practice a compassion that dehumanizes the student-athlete. We must be allowed the right to fail.—Evan Taylor, senior, political science, track team representative to Student Athlete Advisory Board.

Center saves

It's a tragedy that people get away with crimes because the victims are intimidated. M.C. Epke's letter of Feb. 3 gives two instances of this sort of thing.

One bright spot in an otherwise gloomy situation should be brought up: the Women's Center.

psychology room. They know a crisis, they know how to handle it. They know how to deal with the situation.

three days before a scheduled Nov. 2, 1963, visit by Kennedy to Chicago. The visit was canceled.

Murphy said Vallee was arrested on a tip and at the time was armed with an M-1 rifle, a pistol and 3,000 rounds of ammunition.

"He was detained for three days. The circumstances surrounding that arrest — that information was not made public," Murphy said.

Murphy said Chicago police also should open their file on Ruby, who killed accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald in the basement of Dallas police headquarters. Ruby was involved with the waste handlers union in Chicago and allegedly had ties to organized crime.

Officer Jackie Kimber of the Chicago Police Department's news affairs unit said police would make no immediate move to open the files.

"We haven't seen the resolution yet," she said. "I'm sure there will be a procedure for this but we don't know whether it will come from the city corporation counsel or what."

The Warren Commission in 1964 issued a report identifying Oswald as the lone gunman responsible for killing Kennedy and the House Select Committee on Assassinations confirmed the finding in 1979. However, numerous conspiracy theories have abounded and the recent Oliver Stone movie "JFK" has spurred renewed discussion.

"There's a lot of information regarding involvement with organized crime," Murphy said. "During that time the CIA and organized crime were involved in activity in Cuba.

"I'm not one to be setting forth any theory. In order to get all the information out, maybe we'll be able to end all the different theories. Maybe we'll come up with a grand jury. There's no statute of limitations for murder. I think the American public is near unanimous in their opinion that Oswald was not the sole gunman."

With the economy still in the grip of recession, unemployment has remained high with many workers unable to find new jobs. In December the unemployment rate stood at 7.1 percent, with 8.9 million Americans out of work.

The bill signed in November extended benefits for 13 or 20 weeks, depending on the unemployment situation in the various states. But those benefits will begin to expire this month, prompting bipartisan support for a new bill to continue the assistance for another 13 weeks.

The bill would provide a total of 59 weeks of benefits in states with the highest unemployment rates and 52 weeks in all other states.

Quick enactment of the new extension bill was assured when Democratic sponsors of the measure reached agreement with Republican sponsors to pay for the measure without adding to the budget deficit.

The original House version of the bill called for Bush to declare an emergency and exempt the measure from the pay-as-you-go requirements of the 1990 budget agreement.

Republicans resisted that plan and the bill was revised to cover the $2.7 billion cost of the program with surplus funds raised by last year's bill, along with a change in procedures for collecting estimated taxes from corporations.

Eligibility for the extended benefits would expire July 4.

Rep. Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., said it was likely that Congress will have to pass another extension bill in July to cover unemployed workers who will be cut off when the program expires.

House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois said he was "not altogether sure" what will happen after the July 4 expiration date.

BUDGET, from Page 1

Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants would be cut by 38 percent in the president's proposed budget.

SIUC awarded 1,254 students, $720,147 in grants for the 1990-1991 school year.

Bush's proposal requests $6.64 billion increase for the Pell Grant, which would increase the average student award of $2,400 to $3,700 but the suggested changes would cut 400,000 students out of the program.

Bush also suggested students in the top 20 percent of their college class and high school seniors finishing in the top 10 percent of their class would receive an additional $500 in the Pell grant.

"I support the Pell increase," said Britton. "We are not talking about a great increase in financial aid when the cost of higher education keeps going up. It was proved this semester that the state benefits can't keep up and if students can't afford school they will delay their education or go to a cheaper school."

At SIUC 6,841 students received Pell Grants in 1990-91, totaling $10.896 million in awards.

primarily supported by the political and social elite.

"It is a case of the masses versus the leaders, not the blacks versus the whites," he said.

Shepherd said he thinks hard work, education and equal opportunity are what lead to success.

"The level of education, work ethic and productivity will be the criteria for jobs and promotions in the future," he said.

"There will be less patronage advancement. Yes, your GPA is important, friends are important, your ability to adapt is important," he said. "The score of this combination may be viewed as your signature of worth in the coming years.

"If you fail to prepare for this, there is no assurance of your success," he said.

"Black Americans have earned more than they have received," he said. "And black America in general has every right to be proud and claim this as their country."

Shepherd said once success is achieved, people should help those still striving for success.

compel you to give something back," he said. "We should all work to be role models.

Shepherd attributes his values and views to his childhood experiences. He grew up in Edgefield, Miss., a town of about 25 families.

"I was 14 years old before we got electricity, and an adult before we had an indoor bathroom," he said.

The town survived on farm-related work, where blacks were not landowners, but rather sharecroppers and renters of farmland, he said.

He also said he was forced to deal with the unacceptance of a predominantly white society. Just after graduating from college, on his way back to Edgefield from Jackson, Miss., Shepherd refused to sit in the back of a bus, the designated section for blacks.

"I was cocky about having my diploma, and thought I was on top of the world," he said.

Although the driver did not force Shepherd to move, he contacted the authorities. By the time the bus arrived at the next stop, police apprehended him, warning him that if he did not take a seat in the back for the remainder of his trip, he would be removed from the bus and thrown in the Mississippi River.

"I got back on the bus, walked to the back, and sat there until I got home," he said. Shepherd came to SIUC in 1969 as an instructor in zoology and has been vice president for Academic Affairs and Research since 1988.

Shepherd also previously held membership in such organizations as Jackson County Planned Parenthood, the Carbondale Board of Police and Fire Commissioners and SIUC Inter-Greek Council.

He has served on the Chancellor's Crisis Prevention Committee, the Graduate School Fellowship Evaluation Committee and the Faculty Senate.

A Mississippi native, Shepherd is a 1961 graduate of Tougaloo College in Tougaloo, Miss. He received a Masters degree in biology from Atlanta University in 1963 and a PhD in zoology from Kansas State University in 1970.

Before coming to SIUC, Shepherd taught biology at Tougaloo College.

Gift shop selling replica gifts of Victorian-era for Feb. 14

By Kristi Rominger
Entertainment Editor

The University Museum Gift Shop is taking the "tacky" out of Valentine's Day gift buying.

The campus store is selling unique and delicate Victorian-era replica gifts for this Valentine's Day.

The shop has various items for sale in arrays of pink, red and white, including antique replica cards, hanging cupids, buttons, and hand-held fans.

Many of the items have been designed with extremely intricate detail and one of the many specialty items displaying that detail is a selection of three-dimensional pop-up cards in Victorian-era style.

Small Valentine games, gift bags, cards, ceramic hearts, baskets, calendars and glass items also are available. Most of the items are priced in the $2- to $6-range.

Gift Shop employee Joann Courvoisier said many older customers come into the shop looking for these specialty items.

"Many collectors come in looking for items of years gone by and find just what they are looking for," she said. "They say these gifts are designed similar to the way they remember when they were children."

Courvoisier, a senior in special education from Carbondale, said the sales have been good on the various Valentine items, and many people have come in just to view the intricate detail of the gifts shaped and designed in the style of years past.

Director of the Museum John Whitlock said the management of the Gift Shop purchases unique items from around the world.

"Interesting gifts of an international nature can be found there," he said. "It is definitely a shop that students should take advantage of."

Prices are reasonable to fit SIUC student budget, Whitlock said.

A program called the University Museum Associates also is available for interested students.

"If students apply for a membership in the University Museum Associates, they receive a 10 percent discount on all purchases in the gift shop and are invited to all museum receptions," Whitlock said.

Student membership costs $10 a year. Interested students may call 453-5388.

The University Museum Gift Shop is open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sundays.

Prosecutor: Three conspire to steal Van Gogh's works

LONDON (UPI) — Three men might have stolen four Van Gogh paintings as planned if they paid attention to parking regulations but instead had their getaway car booted.

The men, who are on trial in London's Middlesex Guildhall Crown Court, were arrested by policemen who spotted them trying to remove the boot — a big clamp that prevents the wheels from turning, prosecutor Joanna Korner told the court Monday.

Korner, who said the scheme was the "stuff farce is made of" and compared the caper to a Peter Seller's "Pink Panther" film, told the court that the men had come to London on May 24. They left their car in a no-parking area and returned to find the wheel clamp on it.

Authorities claim the men planned to steal four Van Gogh paintings from Britain's National Gallery.

The defendants Monday denied charges of conspiracy to commit aggravated burglary and possession of firearms and explosives.

Lack of disposable income causes spending to decline

By Christy Gutowski
General Assignment Writer

Consumers are spending less nationwide as they are caught in a tug-of-war between rising prices and stagnant incomes.

The Illinois average personal income was $18,870 in 1989, higher than the national average of $17,596.

Illinois average income increased 0.8 percent after inflation last month, matching the nation's 2.8 percent overall income growth for the last 18 months.

Given the modest income growth, disposable income (income after taxes) for the nation has been relatively unchanged for the past two quarters.

A lack of disposable income has an adverse effect on the economy, said Patrick Curry, field representative for the Small Business Incubator at SIUC.

A rise in disposable income fuels consumers to purchase goods, which makes manufacturers produce more and, eventually, hire more employees.

California and 12 states along the East Coast trailed the average U.S. citizen in personal income growth through the worst of the recession last year.

Economists, focusing on tax records and government expenditures, can explain this by the high cost of living and the type of industrial mix present in this region.

U.S. spending patterns on goods and services increased only slightly in December from November, despite the Christmas holidays.

The consumer, whose consumption spending accounts for two-thirds of the gross domestic product, is the leading indicator in determining if the economy is recovering, said Michael Kupinski, a research analyst for A.G. Edwards, an investment firm in St. Louis.

"The Midwest is holding its own in the recession," Kupinski said.

Some consumers depend on transfer payments, which include subsidy payments to farmers, social security, unemployment insurance benefits, public aid and bonuses to auto workers.

In some counties of Southern Illinois as much as one-third of total personal income is from transfer payments, Curry said.

Incomes dependent on this type of payment are relatively low, which could explain the reason why Southern Illinois per capita incomes are lower than the national and state averages, he said.

"With larger proportions of incomes based on transfer payments you typically see lower per capita incomes overall," Curry said.

The Illinois Department of Commerce measured retail sales of selected retailers in preliminary reports to indicate whether consumers are spending.

The department chose major retailers such as JCPenny and Wal-Mart, which distribute a variety of goods, said Wally Biermann, chief of research for the Department of Commerce in Washington, D.C.

"The indicators we got from major retailers were disappointing," Biermann said.

The sale of retail goods rose only 0.07 percent in the first three quarters of 1991, indicating how little consumers are willing to spend.

"This was the smallest increase the state of Illinois has seen in 30 years," Biermann said.

Consumer confidence in spending fell in December to 52.4 percent on a scale of 100, according to confidence indexes reported by the Conference Board.

"Last year in January during the Persian Gulf War that average was 55 percent," Biermann said. "This indicates that people were more willing to spend when the nation was at war than they were this past Christmas."

U.S. durable goods orders fell 5.0 percent in December, rather than the 0.7 percent drop the commerce department had anticipated.

December car sales fell to the lowest monthly selling rate since April at a 5.8 million unit annual rate.

Sales of cars and light trucks were at a depressed annual rate of 12 million units in the fourth

Local unemployment soars

Diversification needed to attract new business, economist says

By Christy Gutowski
General Assignment Writer

Unemployment rates continued to climb in December in seven Southern Illinois counties, which rank in the top 10 of the highest unemployed areas statewide.

Local rates continued to increase from November to December in 1991, said Mike Vessell, a labor market analyst for the Illinois Department of Employment Security.

Hamilton County had the highest unemployment rate with an increase from 25.6 percent in November to 27.5 percent in December.

Perry County ranked second in the state with an unemployment rate of 23.3 percent, an increase of 1.3 percent from last month.

Calhoun County ranked third in the state at 21.7 percent, Alexander at 19.5 percent, Franklin at 18.5, Pulaski at 17.6 percent, and Pope County had an average of 16.9, an increase of 2 percent from November.

Jackson County unemployment rose in December to 10.2, an increase of 1.2 percent from the previous month.

The national December unemployment rate was 7.1 percent, said Wally Biermann, chief of research for the Department of Commerce in Washington, D.C.

Declines in production and employment during the last few decades in the region's mining and agriculture industries have, in part, added to local unemployment.

Major mine closures and layoffs account for 4,382 dislocated

SLUMPING ECONOMY FORCES MAJOR INDUSTRY CLOSINGS

Major mine closures and layoffs have accounted for 4,382 dislocated workers in the five county region of Southern Illinois from 1980 to 1989. These counties include Franklin, Jackson, Jefferson, Perry and Williamson. Eight manufacturing plants closed during the period 1983 through 1986.

workers in the region from 1980 through 1989.

The expansion of the University Mall and the presence of SIUC add to Jackson County's lower unemployment rates.

But seasonal changes, along with the completion of the two malls, caused high unemployment in construction sectors, Vessell said.

"The unemployment rate was 2 to 3 percent lower when there was construction activity around the mall and highways," he said.

Using unemployment figures, Jackson County is ranked 66 of the 102 counties in Illinois.

Average personal income in the 20 counties of Southern Illinois for 1989 is $13,817, which is only 73.2 percent of the Illinois average of $18,870.

Diversification is needed to stimulate growth of personal income and attract new businesses, said Rudolph DePass, a regional economist for the Bureau of Economics.

Mike Farmer, vice president of Economic Development at the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, said Peoria and Decatur were stricken twice as hard as other areas by both the recession and a strike at Caterpillar, the largest manufacturer of heavy equipment in the state.

"The strike had a chain affect on the entire manufacturing economy in those regions because they were so heavily dependent on one industry," he said.

quarter of 1991.

Consumer prices are at the lowest rate since 1986 with an increase of only 3.1 percent last year, according to economic research data for A.G. Edwards in Carbondale.

Jobs and incomes are fundamental to what has been happening in the economy, said Rudolph DePass, a regional economist for the Bureau of Economics in Washington.

Job security is one major element explaining why the public lack confidence to spend, said DePass.

"People worry about losing their jobs, about paying health-care costs, and sending their kids to college," he said.

Companies such as AT&T and IBM, which essentially have been known to receive lifetime commitments from employees, are cutting staff in large numbers, said Mike Farmer, vice president of Economic Development, a department of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce.

"This cost-cutting has led to restructuring of jobs and lower payrolls by some corporations," Farmer said.

An increase of imports has, in part, added to weaknesses of national employment and incomes.

National imports of cars, engines, and other auto parts increased 17 percent in the third quarter of 1991.

Businesses also imported 10 percent more VCRs, camcorders, clothing and other consumer goods than in the Spring quarter.

This affects the economy because U.S. citizens did not work the hours and earn the wages to produce goods imported from foreign countries, DePass said.

The growth of household debt, which has slowed down in the last year, also influences a consumer's decision to spend, Biermann said.

"The amount of money the middle-class family is willing to spend changes after personal debts are considered, especially during a recession," he said.

One positive aspect in the economy is the Federal Reserve's 1 percent discount rate reduction on Dec. 20, which was the fifth reduction this year, said Sally Roberson Ricker, an investment broker at A.G. Edwards in Carbondale.

The growth of bank reserves and some monetary collectors in recent months shows the Federal Reserve's willingness to help stimulate the economy.

"Banks go the the Federal Reserve systems for money," Curry said.

The Federal Reserve rates tend to drive the whole banking system.

This creates lower interest rates, which explains why mortgage rates are at the lowest rate in a decade and a half.

Display shows work of African-American artists

Heritage influence, techniques, create fresh art approach

By William Ragan
Entertainment Writer

The influence of African heritage and artistic technique are combined in a display of artwork by three African-Americans in the Student Center Art Alley this month.

Senior Najjar Musawwir, graduate student Paula Allen and SIUC alumna Debra Johnson Jones presented slides showing Afrocentric approach to art Monday night in the Student Center.

Musawwir's "Freedom Collection" is a series of seven small paintings of black men's heads.

He uses a variety of colors and textures to emulate the peacefulness and strength of the men he painted, he said.

"I think the head is a very interesting subject," Musawwir said. "Inside your head is the freedom that was given to you by almighty God."

Musawwir said the smaller canvases he works with give him more artistic freedom than a large canvas and allow him to focus on individual aspects of freedom.

"I want to express the sensitivity that real freedom has," he said. "We should protect and guard our freedom, like we protect our heads from the rain."

Allen's sculptures are influenced by her study of traditional African art.

She said she is impressed by the use of multi-dominant colors and rhythmic forms arranged in clashing, competing patterns in African art.

"I found it is perfectly acceptable to them in their culture," Allen said. "There is a freshness lacking in a lot of art I saw."

Much of her "kinetic sculpture" uses bronze, wood, aluminum and other metals to recreate the flow and movement of traditional African masking ceremonies, she said.

"There is an element of dance and movement, a theatrical element," Allen said. "It's part of the reason why my pieces move, or feel like they want to move."

"We should protect and guard our freedom, like we protect our heads from the rain."

the accidental art of the Earth.

"I am influenced by the Earth as a geological formation," Jones said. "If you took the Earth and sliced it, you would see different layers of rocks and designs."

In keeping with the environmental theme of her work, Jones uses recycled materials such as corrugated cardboard, computer paper and packing material to add earthy textures to her paintings.

"When I go to a yard sale, I find some of the neatest things. I may not use them right away, but I can visualize them being used to add texture to a painting," Jones said.

The exhibit runs through Feb. 29 and is sponsored by the Student Programming Council Fine Arts committee.

USG offers students chance to honor instructors

By Casey Hampton
General Assignment Writer

The SIUC Undergraduate Student Government is implementing the first step in its plan for comprehensive teacher evaluations by allowing students to honor instructors.

Nominations for the first 1991-92 USG Outstanding Educator Award will be taken through Feb. 14.

Laurie Zaremba, USG academic affairs commissioner, said the concept for the award is a "brainchild" of the USG administration and a great way to improve academic climate.

"The purpose of the award is to improve faculty-student relations and recognize those instructors who have made a positive contribution to students' academic experience," she said.

USG President Jack Sullivan said the award also is the beginning step in USG's comprehensive teacher evaluations, a major project of Sullivan's administration.

"The award will be an annual event and is a precursor to our comprehensive teacher evaluations," he said. "If students see that certain instructors were selected by other students as outstanding, they might be encouraged to take their courses."

The academic affairs commission, along with committees in the various academic colleges, will choose an instructor from each unit to be recognized, and the commission then will narrow these down to a single outstanding educator to be announced in early April.

The educator will be chosen from the criteria students submit in the nomination forms, not the number of nominations, Sullivan said.

"The committees will be basing their decision on the teachers' performance and achievements to prevent any ballot-stuffing incident," he said.

A banquet will be held at the end of the year to recognize the outstanding educator.

Charges pending after animal goes berserk at circus

TALLAHASSEE, Fla (UPI) — Administrative charges are pending against the Great American Circus following a weekend incident in Palm Bay where an 8,000 pound elephant went on a rampage amid a group of spectators, an official of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Commission said Tuesday.

Henry Cabbage said charges would involve alleged violations of administrative regulations regarding captive wild animals.

"Administrative regulations provide captive wild animals must be maintained in a condition to protect them from the public and the public from them," Cabbage said. "If it breaks away from its cage or leash or other constraints it's a violation."

Janet Kelly, a 27-year-old female Indian elephant, was giving rides in the center circus ring when she bolted outside, taking with her three children and an adult who were riding on top.

The passengers were able to get off the elephant, which then knocked over a truck and picked up a Palm Bay policeman in its trunk and threw him to the ground.

On instructions of circus staff, police fired several shots, killing the animal. The animal's carcass was taken to a landfill site and dumped before the circus moved on.

Cabbage said investigators do not know why Janet Kelly went on a rampage.

"Elephants just do things like this sometimes," Cabbage said. "Trainers have told me females, especially, will do things. Why this particular elephant did what it did I really don't know."

Cabbage said, however, the safety record of captive wild elephants in the circus has been very good in the past and such rides are considered safe.

Cabbage and Dr. Ed Slaughter, of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal Care Division, agreed there was no evidence the animal had been handled improperly, mistreated or abused by circus employees or trainers.

"We have found no known violations in the handling of the animal," Slaughter said. "The investigation is continuing."

Tim Frisco, circus general manager, said Janet Kelly had been working for 25 years with no previous incidents of bad behavior.

The circus, however, has had problems with its animals in the past.

Cabbage said another Indian elephant, Irene, was involved in an incident in Fort Myers in 1989 where she broke away from the control of a trainer and charged into a pond.

He said the state issued a citation against the circus for that and for violating its permit.

The Humane Society of the United States said the Sarasota-based circus has been cited for neglecting its animals for almost two years, including four citations by the U.S. Agriculture Department since May 1990.

Part of aircraft may fit puzzle of Earhart mystery

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — A sheet of aluminum found on a remote Pacific island is almost definitely part of the airplane of long-lost aviator Amelia Earhart, a researcher said Tuesday.

"We're 90 percent sure that we have a piece of the Earhart aircraft," said Richard Gillespie, who heads the International Group for Historic Aircraft Recovery. "We hope to be 100 percent sure in the very near future."

Earhart and navigator Fred Noonan disappeared over the South Pacific on July 2, 1937, during an around-the-world flight. The fate of the fliers has been a mystery since.

Gillespie said researchers found a nearly 2-foot square piece of aluminum aircraft skin Oct. 18 on the atoll of Nikumaroro, formerly Gardner Island, about 1,800 miles south-west of Hawaii. It was found amid vegetation washed ashore by an unusually strong high tide.

Attached to the sheet was a length of copper wire, remnants of insulation, a rivet and traces of manufacturer's labeling, Gillespie said. Subsequent analysis has shown that nearly all the features on the artifact match up perfectly with Earhart's aircraft, a Lockheed Electra, he said.

"What we have is better than a fingerprint," Gillespie said. "It's like having a whole finger."

Earhart's plane was the only aircraft of its type unaccounted for within 2,000 miles of Nikumaroro, according to Gillespie.

Researchers are hoping that several other artifacts found on the atoll during last year's expedition will provide the final clues. Gillespie said scientists are currently analyzing the remains of a pair of size 9 U.S.-made shoes and a cap from an bottle of U.S.-made medicine found on the island.

The artifacts were found in the same area where a British official noticed signs of previous habitation on the island during a three-day visit in October 1937, Gillespie said. That official, Eric Bevington, was interviewed, Gillespie said, and turned over a copy of the diary he kept during his brief visit.

Experts: Banking industry showed good profitability

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Bank industry experts said Tuesday that American banks turned the corner in 1991, thanks to fewer bad loans, lower interest rates and less stringent regulation.

SNL Securities, a research, publishing and consulting firm specializing in publicly traded banks and thrifts, said 1991 was the best year for banking profitability since 1988 when a collapsing real estate market started an avalanche that buried many savings and loans.

SNL reviewed the results of 110 banking companies, which collectively contain 64 percent of the assets of all U.S. banks, to calculate preliminary fourth quarter and full year results for 1991 for all U.S. banks.

For 1991, insured commercial banks earned $18.3 billion, 9.6 percent more than in 1990. Fourth quarter net income of $3.8 billion was down from $4.3 billion in the third quarter but well above the $1.4 billion profit recorded in 1990's fourth quarter.

SNL analysts said the improved earnings came about because of the slowdown in the growth of nonperforming assets, sharply higher net interest margins, more moderate standards imposed by banking regulators and higher levels of bank equity.

SNL said the improvement was not nationwide, pointing to "continued weakness in the performance of West Coast banks." For the second quarter in a row, western banks in the Western U.S. recorded an aggregate net loss.

All other regions in the country, including the Southwest and New England, reported aggregate profitability in the fourth quarter.

The Midwest continues to lead the way in virtually every major banking category — profitability, capitalization, asset quality and reserve adequacy.

A total of $432.2 billion in deposits and assets changed hands in 1991, an amount that equaled 9.1 percent of all assets of all banks and thrifts.

Two students accused of carrying guns removed from grade school

COLLINSVILLE (UPI) — Two students accused of pointing guns at their elementary school classmates have been removed from classes by their parents, school officials said Tuesday.

Because the parents of the students withdrew them from school, the Collinsville school board was unable to take any action at a special meeting Monday.

The board had met to decide whether to expel or extend the suspensions of the two pupils from Twin Echo Elementary School. The students — boys in the fourth and fifth grades — had been serving 10-day suspensions.

School administrators may suspend students but are barred from expelling them under Illinois law, which allows only school boards to take the more severe action.

A police investigation showed the fifth-grader was accused of bringing a pellet gun to school last month, as well as a .22-caliber pistol in a previous incident.

Police said fellow students had accused the fourth-grader of pointing a .25-caliber pistol at them on a school bus and pulling the trigger.

The parents of one student notified school officials on Friday the boy was being withdrawn from classes while the school received the same notice from the parents of the other student on Monday, said Superintendent John Renfro.

Blues artist dead at 76; Chicago pays its respects

CHICAGO (UPI) — The City Council Tuesday approved a resolution praising Willie Dixon as a "creative genius" and "magnificent artist" in the opening of two days of memorials to the blues legend whose influence spread to the Rolling Stones and other rock headliners.

Mayor Richard Daley introduced the resolution, which drew quick approval and was in turn presented to Dixon's family.

The resolution cited Dixon's participation in the beginnings of the annual Chicago Blues Festival, his work to help underprivileged children in the city through the "Blues in Schools" program and his national Blues Heaven Foundation to provide scholarships and musical instruments to low-income youngsters.

Dixon died last Wednesday at age 76 in Burbank, Calif., of apparent heart failure.

Chicago planned a New Orleans-style farewell to Dixon, who moved to Chicago from his native Vicksburg, Miss., at the age of 17 and who lived in the city for the next five decades.

Dixon's body was to be carried Wednesday from a funeral home to Liberty Baptist Church in what the mayor's Office of Special Events called a "New Orleans-style musical walking procession."

The procession was to go to Muddy Waters Drive (43rd Street) and stop at the Checker Board Lounge for performances.

A "Blues Heaven" funeral service was scheduled at the church. Burial was to be in Burr Oak Cemetery in Alsip.

After the burial, a musical tribute to Dixon was set at Buddy Guy's Legends near Chicago's Loop.

A commemorative concert, "He Is the Blues," was scheduled Tuesday night at Metropolitan Funeral Parlor where Dixon's body was on view.

Little Milton and Otis Clay were among guest artists who were expected to perform.

Dixon was a key member of the blues scene on Chicago's South Side since the 1930s, singing and playing stand-up bass.

But Dixon's chief legacy was in the hundreds of songs he wrote that became associated with other performers.

Muddy Waters and Howlin' Wolf, who like Dixon recorded for Chicago's Chess label in the 1950s, gave his works an urgency Dixon lacked in his own performance.

Wolf had hits with Dixon's "Little Red Rooster," "I Ain't Superstitious," "Back Door Man," "Evil" and "Spoonful."

Dixon wrote for Waters songs like "I Just want to Make Love to You," "Hoochie Coochie Man" and "You Need Love."

In the early 1960s, Dixon toured Europe.

Young musicians like Mick Jagger, Keith Richards, Eric Clapton and Jimmy Page flocked to his shows and found the essence of rock 'n' roll in his songs.

Gambino brothers face trial on extortion, anti-trust case

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government took on the Gambino brothers Tuesday, opening its extortion and anti-trust case with a secretly taped quote that supposedly described organized crime's control of the garment trucking industry.

"Grab him. Tell him if I were you I'd get the f--- out of here or one of the truckers will take him apart. He'll be spending the next six months in the hospital," said Manhattan Assistant District Attorney Eliot Spitzer in quoting what he said were secret tapes of mob conversations.

Spitzer said 60 days of tapes of the Gambinos and their co-defendants will be presented at the trial in Manhattan state Supreme Court.

Thomas Gambino, his younger brother, Joseph, two employees and four corporations are charged with using extortion to monopolize vital trucking services to garment manufacturers and contractors, many of whom are located within blocks of the courthouse in Chinatown.

Defense lawyers were expected to take about three hours for their opening statements later in the afternoon.

The Gambinos and co-defendants have denied the charges. Their lawyers describe them as hard-working businessmen.

Even as Spitzer spoke, workers outside could be seen rushing finished clothes into trucks.

Psychiatrist: Dahmer killings cold, calculating, not insane

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — A defense psychiatrist who had characterized serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer as suffering from "cancer of the mind" testified Tuesday Dahmer's brutal acts were not impulsive.

Fred Berlin, a sexual deviation expert from Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore and the first of a series of psychiatrists to testify, also agreed under cross examination that Dahmer was cold and calculating and knew what he was doing at all times.

Dahmer, 31, has admitted killing 17 young men and boys and has pleaded guilty but insane to 15 of the slayings.

In questioning Berlin, District Attorney E. Michael McCann showed Dahmer lied to everyone and called him a cold, calculating murderer who knew what he was doing at all times.

McCann got Berlin to agree that Dahmer planned his killings.

"In terms of all these persons that he killed, he first made sure that he got them into the apartment first," McCann asked.

"Yes sir," Berlin replied.

"In other words, he maintained such control that even on the nights he was disappointed, he did not go down to the streets intending to get someone on the street corner to kill them," asked McCann.

"He did not attempt to kill anybody, to the best of my knowledge, on a street corner, to use your words," Berlin said.

"Do you see these as prepared crimes?" asked McCann.

"Again sir, I don't mean to evade your question but I'm not sure what you meant by prepared," replied Berlin.

"That these were planned. That these offenses were planned?" asked McCann.

"I believe they were planned in the same way that driven behavior often involves the behavior being preceded by thoughts and fantasies and urges to do it.

"And so in the sense the ideas of how to do it were running through his mind, certainly in that sense they were planned.

"They weren't impulsive where he wasn't thinking about it, he just went by somewhere and suddenly did it," Berlin said.

Under questioning from defense attorney Gerald Boyle, Berlin maintained that Dahmer "looked very much like someone out of control."

Woman's body found; police puzzled over latest in string of grisly bi-state murders

PALMYRA, Mo. (UPI) — The discovery of a woman's nude body on a remote bank of the Mississippi River is the latest in a string of grisly scenes involving anonymous women dumped in eastern Missouri and western Illinois in the past two years, authorities said Tuesday.

Like the first five slayings, police said the latest "Jane Doe" case may never be solved.

A farmer found the woman's body Thursday at a state conservation department river-access area about 7 miles east of Palmyra.

Marion County Sheriff Dan Campbell said the woman, who probably was in her mid-20s, had been shot several times in the torso before being driven to the river bank and dumped in the dirt.

Her hair and face were partially burned but there were no identification clues, he said.

"There were no scars, no tattoos, earrings, necklaces — nothing," Campbell said. "All I got was 120 pounds of flesh lying down there."

Similarly, authorities have been unable to identify the women whose bodies were found in 1990 at a Mississippi River scenic overlook in Pike County, along roads in the St. Louis area and near a highway in Edwardsville.

Each woman had been killed elsewhere and dumped either nude or partially clothed.

Campbell and other authorities doubt the slayings are connected.

One major difference, they said, was that the latest killing occurred less than a day before the body was found, while the women found in St. Louis and Edwardsville had been dead several days before being dumped.

The St. Louis victims, for example, "were all stored and were well into deterioration" before they were abandoned over the course of several months in 1990, said Missouri State Highway Patrol Sgt. Kenneth Hoelker. "We can connect the three cases," he said, "although the victims remain anonymous."

Decomposition made facial identification impossible for the partially clothed woman found about 20 feet from the Edwardsville-area highway.

Noriega showed lax attitude at drug conference — DEA

MIAMI (UPI) — Manuel Noriega had a lax attitude when he attended an international drug conference, skipping business sessions and refusing to attend the closing banquet unless he could sit at the head table, a former Drug Enforcement Administration chief testified Tuesday.

The defense in the drug-trafficking trial of the deposed Panamanian dictator tried to portray Noriega as a crucial ally in the U.S. war against drugs, calling former DEA chief John Lawn as a hostile witness.

But Lawn, head of the DEA from 1985 to 1987, portrayed Noriega's aid in the drug war as little more than a public relations effort.

Noriega skipped all the business sessions at a 1987 International Drug Enforcement Conference in Sao Paulo, Brazil, where policy on cooperation among 12 Latin American nations was formulated, Lawn said.

Noriega also stipulated conditions for his attendance at the closing banquet, Lawn said.

"His aide asked if the general could sit beside me at the head table," he said.

"It was a condition of his attendance," Lawn said.

Analysis: State hired 17 firms for outside legal help in 1991

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — Illinois state government spent $10 million last fiscal year to hire lawyers from outside government, even though there were 870 attorneys employed by state agencies, a report released Tuesday showed.

Seventeen law firms were paid more than $100,000, according to an informal analysis done by the state auditor general's office.

The top four are all high-powered firms with major Chicago offices: Skadden, Arps, Slate and Meagher ($1.29 million), Winston and Strawn ($864,000), Jenner and Block ($660,000) and Sidley and Austin ($361,000).

The analysis was done by auditors for state Sen. Judy Baar Topinka, R-North Riverside.

"This printout covers only legal contractual services which were paid through the comptroller," Acting Auditor Don Templeman said in a letter to Topinka.

"It does not include legal contractual services ... such as contracts with state bonding authorities," he said.

The state Department of Children

"If that's (legislation) passed by the Legislature, a unit would be hired that would be spending full-time on DCFS litigation."

—Ed McManus

and Family Services led the way when it came to legal contractual services, spending more than $2 million on outside lawyers for the fiscal year.

The second-highest spending state agency was the Department of Transportation, with $988,000 in legal contracts.

DCFS spokesman Ed McManus said his agency spent the most because it was defending itself in several lawsuits against the state.

The largest was an action by the American Civil Liberties Union that accused the child welfare agency of inadequate treatment of children under its control. The suit was recently settled and the state is implementing remedies.

To reduce the cost of outside legal help, McManus said DCFS has proposed establishing a special child welfare branch of the Illinois attorney general's office.

The legislation will be pushed during this spring's session of the General Assembly.

"If that's passed by the Legislature, a unit would be created and lawyers would be hired that would be spending full-time on DCFS litigation," McManus said.

"If we created that unit, we could decrease or eliminate our use of outside firms," he said.

However, McManus said it would not have been feasible for DCFS to hire more attorneys to handle the cases last year.

Currently, the agency has 20 attorneys but he said only one works on litigation full-time.

The report was presented to the Legislative Audit Commission at their meeting Tuesday.

They accepted the report but did not discuss it.

Police superintendent found innocent of discrimination

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal court jury Tuesday decided former police Superintendent Fred Rice is not guilty of discriminating against a dozen white officers whom he demoted.

The jury of three men and three women deliberated for little more than four hours before returning their verdict.

The officers sought $100,000 to $500,000 in damages apiece, accusing Rice of demoting them and 16 other officers to promote blacks.

In closing arguments before U.S. District Judge John Holderman Monday, attorney Susan Lichtenstein urged the jury not to award the plaintiffs "a red cent."

Rice, who was the city's first black police superintendent, denied any racial motivation in the decisions.

"For eight years now, and into his fifth year of retirement, Fred Rice has had to deal with this smear," Lichtenstein told the jury. "I hate to say anything about damages because the plaintiffs are not entitled to one red cent."

Family of eleven claims $6 million in Illinois Lotto

CHICAGO (UPI) — Walter Narantic said he listened to a "little voice" that told him to play Lotto numbers he hadn't used in six months.

Listening paid off Tuesday when the Hammond, Ind., man and 11 other family members claimed the $6 million Illinois Lotto prize they won in the Jan. 25 drawing.

Narantic, 85, was home alone when he realized he had all six winning numbers.

He immediately called daughter Anne Grunewald, 61, Munster, Ind. "I felt OK," he said.

"I was in shock — worried about Dad. I hopped in the car immediately and headed to his house," she said.

The father-daughter team had been playing the Illinois Lotto together using two sets of numbers.

Doonesbury

by Garry Trudeau

YOU'RE RIGHT, CUZ! IT'S BUCHANAN WE'VE GOT TO KEEP AN EYE ON, NOT THAT GOOF-BALL IN THE ROSE GARDEN!

BUCHANAN'S EVEN MOVING IN ON YOUR IMMIGRATION ISSUE! HE'S NOW ADVOCATING THE "BUCHANAN" FENCE, A 1500-MILE TRENCH TO KEEP OUT THE WETBACKS!

OH, RIGHT! AND WHO'S SUPPOSED TO PAY FOR IT? AND WHO'S GOING TO MAN IT? WILL THEY SHOOT TO KILL? WILL THERE BE DOGS? AND WHO'S GOING TO BE RESPONSIBLE FOR RETRIEVING THE BODIES?

HE HASN'T SAID.

THAT'S WHAT I'VE BEEN SAYING. A SUCK PROPOSAL, BUT WHERE'S THE BEEF?

EXACTLY! WEAK ON SPECIFICS!

Chairman foresees cohosted games

Sports Briefs

COJRCHEVEL, France (UPI) — The president of the International Olympic Committee said Tuesday the Winter Olympics may one day be shared by more than one country.

"We envisage the possibility of holding these future Games in several regions or even in more than one country, but with one city given overall responsibility for the project," Juan Antonio Samaranch said before the opening of the 98th IOC Session. "This would help to lighten the burden of organizing events requiring very heavy infrastructures in different climatic and geological conditions."

The idea of more than one country bidding to co-host the Winter Olympics has been put forth several times, but an array of logistical, legal and financial problems would have to be taken into consideration.

In any event, a shared Olympics could not come before 2002, since the 1994 Winter Games are set for the Lillehammer, Norway, and the 1998 Games for Nagano, Japan.

The 1992 Games, nominally being hosted by the town of Albertville, are spread over 640 square miles in 13 sites.

"In choosing the Savoy town (of Albertville) and the whole Tarentaise valley behind it, the IOC knew what it was letting itself — and the organizers — in for," Samaranch said. "After entrusting the organization of the Games to major cities like Sarajevo (1984) and Calgary (1988), it was time to try a return to the very heart of nature."

Samaranch said the Olympic movement's commitment to alpine sports was shown by its decision to give the Winter Olympics its own cycle. The next Winter Games will take place in two years, meaning 1992 will be the last time the Winter and Summer Olympics are held in the same year.

The venues for future Winter Olympics are now also chosen seven years in advance, as is the case with the Summer Games.

Samaranch stressed the ability of the Olympics to facilitate international understanding, given that IOC membership has risen to 170.

"We are feeling the effects of the wind of freedom that is blowing across our planet, a phenomenon we often helped to create," Samaranch said.

TYSON, from Page 24

The mother said her daughter decided to press charges July 22 as the family prepared to drive back to their Rhode Island home.

Lead defense attorney Vincent Fuller cross-examined only briefly.

Judge Patricia Gifford denied the defense motion to call the three surprise witnesses, saying it would cause a long delay in the trial and would unfairly jeopardize the prosecution's case.

Defense attorney F. Lane Heard III said the women had withheld their statements, on the advice of a lawyer not connected with the case, until last Thursday, the first day of testimony in Tyson's trial.

"The court does not appreciate being put in this position," Gifford said.

In presenting seeking permission to call the three previously unknown witnesses, Heard said defense representatives interviewed the women Thursday and Friday, examined the limousine in question Saturday to see if they believed the story presented by the women and notified prosecutors Sunday.

Police reported they interviewed the women late Monday.

The accuser and Tyson rode in a limousine a few blocks to the Canterbury shortly before the alleged attack.

The accuser testified Tyson kissed her once in the limousine but stopped when she drew back from him.

Prosecutor Greg Garrison said the women, Indianapolis residents, had months to tell their story. Delaying until the trial began put their testimony — and the entire trial — in doubt, he said.

"She is not afraid to put it up at any time, and that's a positive to our team. We're happy that as Karrie graduates, we'll have someone to step into her spot," Scott said.

Powell, a radio and television major from Lancaster, Ky., said in high school she was just an offensive player and was not expected to help as much on defense.

"I've worked on the defensive principles, and my defense has improved 100 percent since high school," Powell said. "One of the main reasons I came to SIUC was because of Coach Scott. She's very intense, and she'll do anything she can to win. I have the same attitude. SIUC also has always had a good women's basketball program, and I wanted to be a part of it."

Powell said she looks to Redeker and senior Colleen Heimstead for leadership on the team.

"Karrie's an exceptional shooter," Powell said.

"She takes great shots, and I've tried to mold myself after her.

Colleen's a leader. She always has her mind into the game, and I think she'll make a great coach some day. I always try to listen to what she says because she's usually right."

Powell's career goal is to be a sports broadcaster on national TV. She said she wants to contribute what she has learned about basketball and also give back what all the coaches, players and her family have done for her.

Redeker, an elementary education major from Crescent City, said her family has never pushed her to play basketball, but they have always been very supportive. Redeker said she has no definite plans to continue her basketball career outside of college.

"Unless I coach basketball at a junior high level, I probably won't do anything with basketball," she said.

"I want to make a difference in some kid's life. I was from a good home, and I want these kids to know that they don't have to pick the streets."

increased by about $30,000 a season since 1987, the department reported.

But that figure was surpassed this season after eight home games. With five games left, the total was more than $366,500, an increase of more than $38,000.

The Saluki hoopsters were the preseason pick to win the Missouri Valley Conference. They got off to a 14-2 start and were 7-0 in the conference prior to last week.

In addition, the team was 8-0 at home before losing to MVC foe Southwest Missouri Saturday. About 6,500 attended each game thus far.

Hart said basketball attendance appears to be in good shape for the next year.

"Most of our players will be returning, and we have a good base of ticket sales," he said.

Volleyball, women's basketball and baseball sales, which have totaled about $20,000 during the past five years, appear to remain steady.

SIUC President John C. Guyon said he was pleased to see athletics make up for the kickback to the state. But he said the "back is a permanent reduction in state money."

"We must keep in mind that recovery in one year is good for that year," Guyon said.

"But (the reduction this year) implies that it must be made up in the future as well."

Hart said income from the state has the potential to get worse in the future as the recession continues. But the Athletic Department can make up for the loss with increased ticket sales and fundraising.

Because of the tough financial times he said he is surprised somewhat that area residents have had the time and money to attend Saluki games.

"Dollars are being spread thin," he said.

"People with high school students sometimes must elect to go to those games and tournaments rather than attend SIUC events.

"We are very pleased to have the kind of support we do in these times."

and both players are streaking after it. Hawk beats the guy to the ball and tips it toward the other foul line."

Carnesecca pauses for dramatic effect. He shakes his head like he's afraid to go on.

"Hawk catches up to the ball, grabs it in one hand and dunks from the foul line. The place is going nuts, I mean wild."

Carnesecca's reaction?

"I ran out of the gym and didn't come back for the rest of the ball game," he said.

"I couldn't believe what I had seen."

Carnesecca wasn't able to lure Hawkins.

"I chased him all over," he said. "But I think he wanted to go out of town."

Now the two will be in Springfield, Mass., together in the Basketball Hall of Fame. Enshrinement will be May 11.

This year's seven other honorees include NBA center Bob Lanier; the Hall's first international player, Sergei Belov; the first two women players, Lusia Harris and Nera White; and three other coaches, Al McGuire, Jack Ramsay and Phil Woolpert.

Hawkins, 49, now does community work for the Phoenix Suns. This was the first year he was eligible for the Hall, and his election came as a complete surprise.

"I cried a lot," Hawkins said. "And then I thanked God, my parents and everybody."

Everybody, especially today's players, owe Hawkins thanks. Long before Julius Erving soared to the basket or Michael Jordan exploded off the floor for a thunder dunk, there was "The Hawk."

In the early 1960s, there was no one that played basketball like Connie Hawkins. At a time when many players were still cemented to the floor, Hawkins was above the rim.

He was an innovator, an artist. At 6-8 and with remarkably large hands, he had a magical touch with the ball and velvety inside moves.

"He was a legend before he was born," Carnesecca said.

It was with the Globetrotters that he fine-tuned his skills and developed the showman's flair he carried into the American Basketball Association and NBA.

"There were 365 days in the year and we played basketball 365 days," said Hawkins.

"Playing with guys like Curly Neal, Meadowlark Lemon and Geese Ausby really enhanced my game. They were great players."

He joined the ABA in its first year and was named MVP after leading the Pittsburgh Rens to their only title in 1967.

The next season he played for the Minnesota Pipers, averaging 30 points and 11 rebounds a game.

Hawkins went on two play seven seasons and was an All-Star four times.

"Life has been very kind to me," he said.
