Kerner Promises Probe of SIU Off-Campus Housing

A HOT STORY—Ray Vinyard, peers under the hood of his car after the Carbondale Fire Department extinguished a fire in front of the University Center Tuesday. Vinyard, his wife and daughter were in the car when it burst into flames. All escaped injury.

Governor Otto Kerner's office has requested a study of off-campus housing conditions for SIU students.

According to William H. Chamberlain, assistant to the Governor, the Office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction will conduct the investigation.

The move was taken after Frank Heiligenstein, off-campus representative on the Student Council, wrote a letter to the Governor and several newspapers in Chicago and St. Louis complaining about the conditions of off-campus housing in Carbondale.

Heiligenstein, a junior majoring in government, received a letter from Chamberlain, dated Jan. 10.

In his letter to Heiligenstein, Chamberlain said: "Gov. Kerner has asked me to acknowledge your letter of Dec. 18, 1961 and to look into the problem concerning the off-campus housing problem of SIU.

In his letter to the Governor, Heiligenstein said that Carbondale has no building and fire codes and because of this many students are forced to live in housing that could be classified as fire-traps.

SIU Coed Dies from Crash Injuries

Carol J. Wiliko, an 18-year-old freshman from Chicago, died Wednesday morning as a result of internal injuries suffered in an automobile accident Jan. 6.

Miss Wiliko and five other SIU coeds were en route to St. Louis on a shopping trip when the car in which they were riding skidded on a snow covered highway and hit a concrete bridge abutment on route 13, 10 miles north of Pinckneyville.

Carol Wiliko

Miss Wiliko, a Delta Zeta pledge, was enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and served on the University Center Communications board. She is survived by her father, Stanley, and one sister, Nancy.

Two of the girls injured in the wreck are still hospitalized.

Sandy Hefer, 20, a junior from Staunton, is suffering from a back injury and extensive gasoline burns. Miss Hefer has withdrawn from the university. Doctors amputated a foot of Joyce Wykowski, 18, a freshman from Chicago.

Three other Delta Zetas have been released from the hospital and have returned to campus. Dorene Peratro, 20, of Chicago, the driver of the car, is suffering head and eye injuries. Diane Ambrose, of Roselle, is recovering from a foot injury and Joans Irons of Itasca from a knee injury. Both girls are on crutches.

The sisters of Delta Zeta are planning to journey to Chicago to attend the funeral of Miss Wiliko. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 9 a.m. at the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church, Chicago. Burial will be in St. Adebert's cemetery, Chicago. The Kolbus Funeral home of Chicago is handling funeral arrangements.

Car Permits Required For Night Commuters

If you're a commuting night student and don't have a car permit, you're breaking the law.

The SIU parking office said a number of students who attend school at night have not applied for a car permit.

"The rules say that all faculty, staff and students must have car permits in order to park on university parking lots," Kent Joseph, graduate assistant in charge of parking said Thursday.

Josephs said he would like instructors to inform their night classes of the parking regulation. He said the students may pick up a registration card any week-day from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. and on Saturday's from 8 a. m. to noon.

"If students can't come in during the day time because of work commitments or distance, from the campus, we will mail them registration cards upon request, Joseph's said. "After they fill out the cards and return them, we will send a decal."

Students may also pick up a registration card at the SIU security office. This office is open 24 hours a day, Joseph's explained.

The parking section will continue to have a table during special nights the bursar's office is open during the first part of the quarter.

Health Service Needs 100 Volunteers For Free Shots as Flu Toll Rises

The health service still needs 100 more volunteers to participate in a controlled influenza study, Dr. Richard V. Lee, director of the University Health Center, said today.

So far only 50 persons are participating in the program.

The health center is giving free flu shots to those volunteering for the project. But it needs at least 150 participants according to Dr. Lee to give the study enough validity to make it worthwhile. Eligible for the program are students who have not had flu shots or the flu recently.

The incidence of flu on campus is running higher than normal, the health center said. Approximately 200 persons a day are checking into health service with various ailments including the flu-bug. The normal work-load at the health center is 100 to 125 patients daily.

Saturday Speech Festival Attracts 200 Competitors

Approximately 200 students of 12 southern Illinois high schools will be on campus tomorrow to compete in SIU's annual Individual Events Speaking festival at Furr auditorium. According to Miss Marion L. Davis, assistant professor of speech, six separate events are on the festival schedule. These include extemporaneous speaking, comedy reading, serious reading, extemporaneous verse reading, radio speaking and after dinner speaking.

The judges for the events will be SIU speech department faculty members and graduate students in speech and debate. SIU speech and debate groups also provide other services to area high schools throughout the year, Miss Davis said. These include providing judges for sectional and regional debate tournaments, providing speakers for high school events and sponsorship of workshops for debate and speech during the summer term. They also provide scholarships for deserving students interested in speech and debate, Miss Davis said.

Miss Davis said there will not be a noon luncheon served to the participants. The first event is scheduled for 8:30 a. m. with other events scheduled at 9:30 and 10:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. The presentation of awards will begin at 4:45 p. m.

Freedom Fund Donation Asked

Walter Williams, administrator for the Southern Student Freedom Fund, was on campus January 17 and 18 to help organize a local fund drive. The fund exists to help finance the operation of the Student Non - Violent Coordinating Committee, an organization that has been promoting integration in the South in such areas as Negro vote registration.

Money is needed to help defray the cost of litigation. Appeals have been made in colleges throughout the United States. The drive, which is sponsored by the National Student Association and other national student groups, has been in effect in the East for the last month.

Williams is a former student body president of Jackson College in Mississippi and was expelled as a result of his work in promoting voter registration, since his expulsion he has been employed by NSA and as director of the fund drive.

Chest Drive
Southern's annual chest drive for funds for charitable institutions will be opened Monday, earlier than previous years, in order to raise money for the Southern Student Freedom Fund.

According to Doris Perry, Campus Service commissioner, the money gained during the chest drive's first few weeks will be turned over to the SSFF. Initially, metal buttons will be sold, Miss Perry said. "We hope to raise $1200 for the Fund," she added.

"IT'S A GRAND NIGHT FOR SINGING" tonight at 7:30 in Shryock auditorium. These members of Delta Chi's Dixieland band hope it also will be a grand night for Dixieland. The combo will provide between-acts entertainment at the free concert by SIU singing groups. Members of the combo include: John Elkins, banjo; Dick Conkel, trombone; Milton Wood, clarinet; Jerry Marks, trumpet; Dennis Jackman, tuba; Henry Taylor, saxophone and Mark Yeates, drums.

Debaters Reap Wins, Face New Tests

Despite a good record so far, Jack Parker, director of Forensics, warns that the toughest hurdles are yet to come.

Northwestern, Dartmouth, Georgetown, and the Heart of America Tournament at Kansas, he said, "are all highly selective with only the finest debate schools participating."

The SIU team has just returned from the Ill. State Normal Annual Invitational Tournament consisting of Howard U., U. of Washington, and the U. of Pittsburgh. The SIU two-man switch sides team of Phil Wander, Bloomington, and Glenn Husinga, Calumet City, placed 2nd. In the quarter and semi-finals they defeated Augustana and Northwestern, losing in the finals to the U. of Pittsburgh by a 4-1 decision.

Other entries were Barbara Ellmore, Easton, and Sharon Lovelless, Mattoon. Mary Hemphill placed first out of 50 participants in the oral interpretation contest. Jeff Barlow of Benton also placed first in extemporaneous speaking. In the Varsity four-man division, the affirmative team of Mike Morris and Dick Fulkerson, both placed 2nd. C'dale, had a record of four wins and two losses. The negative team of Jeff Barlow and Bob Aljinson, had a record of 3 and 3. Both teams were awarded certificates of excellence. Several regional tournaments are also coming soon.

WSIU-TV Schedule

The following selected programs will appear on WSIU-TV, Friday and Monday:

Possible Resolution To A Problem

There appears, on this campus, to be a general apathy of students towards national and international affairs, especially the latter. Southern Illinois, many claim, and no doubt with some truth, has traditionally been an area of Midwestern Republican Isolationism. That does not explain, and certainly does not excuse, a serious lack of interest in world affairs by too many SIU students.

Witness the fantastic numbers of students who do not read a daily newspaper. At a recent student council meeting, of all places, one member was heard to remark quite casually, that she had not seen a newspaper for a week. Witness also, the too often pitifully small audiences at many of the important lectures sponsored by groups such as the International Relations Club.

Living in a somewhat isolated area—if such exists in our jet age world—and in the protection of a university community, it is sometimes difficult to have an acute awareness of the international scene.

The Fourth Annual Model United Nations, to be held Feb. 9-10, offers a realistic, exciting and interesting instrument by which may be developed an international interest.

Even with its many critics and would-be destroyers—among which many Americans are unfortunately numbered—the United Nations remains a vital institution in our modern world. President Kennedy rededicated this country to the U.N. in his State of the Union message, and he has asked for American purchase of bonds for the U.N.

Participation in the Model U.N. here at SIU will help students better understand the issues facing the U.N. and their government. Students from more than ten universities and colleges, and delegations from organized student groups will represent the different nations in two major general sessions. The first session will hear Mrs. Edith A. Sampson, currently a member of the United States Commission for NATO. At the second session, delegates will discuss and vote on resolutions prepared by four committees.

The topics on which the committees will prepare resolutions are paramount: 1) Berlin; 2) Reorganization of the Secretariat; 3) The Situation in the Congo; and 4) The Financial Crisis at the United Nations. The delegations have instructions to represent their nations as accurately as possible, thereby adding to the interest of the affair.

The Model United Nations, then, represents a chance for intercollegiate activity, a real learning opportunity, and perhaps a solution to a serious problem of apathy. The Egyptian hopes that if not by participation as delegates, then as observers at the two Plenary Sessions, the Model U.N. will be an "all hands evolution."

Conversation Between Two Bombs

"I guess it's out of style, to be a genophile," said the H-bomb, while sitting on the pile.

"I gather what you mean, but I keep my nose-cone clean, which is more than I can say for some bombs," said the N-bomb.

"Ah, Leningrad in autumn, says my little brother Nike, is a sight that fills the soul with a vain regretful rue, for one knows that in December, when the fallout snow's still falling, and the idiots stop crawling through the scorched remains, there'll be nothing for eternity, but sitting here and talking, and I'm sure that you would bore me, in a myriad or two."

"But my friend," rejoined the H-bomb, "There is one thing you're forgetting, that if they go, desvidnyay baby, WE GO TOO!"

The Council Needs 'Something To Sell'

Down at the University of Kentucky, the Kentucky Kernel reports that the Student Congress there has "something to sell." The university dean of men told the Congress that no other student group "has shown the concern for its own welfare that this one has."

"It is good to see," the Kernel said editorially, "that the Student Congress has pulled itself up by its own bootstraps, at least enough to win the actual support of the officials of the administration." We wish we could say the same for the Student Council here at Southern.

As the Kernel points out, with "something to sell" the Congress at the U of K can "show its real personality—a solid front to represent the student body." So could SIU's Student Council. D.G.S.

Letters To The Editor

Reader Says Editorial Needs Examination

EDITOR:

Mr. Schumacher's editorial in the January 12 issue on the outcome of the student poll of AFROTC needs some examination.

He questions the validity of the poll on the grounds that "propaganda sheets violently opposed to a compulsory program were passed out."

One of the basic tenets of a democratic society is that every individual and group has a right to state his position and try to influence opinion. Furthermore, can it be that the four-fifths of those students who answered the questionnaire in favor of voluntary ROTC thought so little for themselves that their answers were based on a single emotional appeal?

I think that Mr. Schumacher, as the responsible editorial head of the Egyptian, needs to re-examine his assumptions.

Lillian Adams

(Editor's note: It is regrettable that we did not re-acknowledge in the Jan. 12 editorial the implicit right of individuals and groups to their own opinions. Certainly a denial of those rights was not intended to be implied.

The fact remains that the "pamphlets," the taste of which may honestly be questioned, could indeed affect the results of the poll. Unfortunately, many of the answers could have been based on a single emotional appeal.

But the important point was, and remains, that the poll did not furnish any earth-shaking information. At this writing the Student Council is "in waiting." Exactly for what has not been made quite clear. This much appears fairly certain: The administration, or more correctly the Board of Trustees is not going to do much toward changing the ROTC program until the Student Council makes themselves heard. One of the Council's functions is, after all, to channel information to the Board. Having by now had ample time to study the various ramifications, action by the Council should be forthcoming (perhaps at last night's meeting.)

Conservative's Letter Challenged; Evidence Asked

Editor:

As a defense of the Conservative position, Mr. Winters' letter in the Jan. 16 edition of the Egyptian leaves much to be desired, although he cleverly avoids a direct accusation.

Mr. Winters claims that not all Conservatives "tattle on ComSymps," a term made popular by the John Birch Society, but he is not above this.

If there is still any question as to whether the audience at the presentation of the film was "packed in diamond fashion" or in any fashion, let the answer be known right now. There was no formation or battle plan, as those who seek to discredit "leftist students" charge in the foulest manner.

If Mr. Winters had been at the presentation of the film, he would have noticed that the remarks unfavorable to the film and Committee came from the first six rows on the left side of the room (no inferences, please!) and three students near the front of the room on the right side. These positions do not indicate any "the typical diamond fashion," or packing of any nature, thus refuting the allegation that there was an organization of forces.

Mr. Winters attempts to label these people as Communists, on the flimsy pretext that this "strategem" of "packing" an audience is a part of "Communist political warfare." Can he substantiate this claim, as any serious student should?"

And as to whether the American Nazi Party has been investigated by the House Committee, Mr. Winters would do well to check the report issued on this investigation. Not one witness was called. At best, Mr. Winters' position is self-incrimination.

SCF Pastor Recalls Experiences

Overcrowded India Makes SIU's Problems Minor

Overcrowding is a major problem at Southern, but compared with conditions in India, the plight of the SIU student is a minor one.

Take it from the Rev. Warren J. Day, interim pastor at the Student Christian Foundation, overcrowded conditions here are relatively minor compared to those in India, his home for most of the last 10 years.

Replacement For Gillespie

Filling in for SCF director Malcolm E. Gillespie who is on a year's study leave, the Rev. Mr. Day is back in the United States after serving as a fraternal worker assigned to the United Church of Northern India. He acknowledges that Southern has an acute problem with its ever-increasing enrollment and its lack of housing and other facilities, but says this is nothing compared to the Indian situation.

"Since India's independence, there has been a tremendous upsurge in higher education enrollment," he said, "but the facilities have not kept pace with the numbers. There are not enough teachers, libraries, dormitories or recreational facilities. What are available aid far too few."

Indian Education Leisurely

Student life in India is also different from that at SIU. Day emphasized the difference between the leisurely Indian education and the accelerated pace common at American universities.

"There is only one major examination period for the Indian student," he said, "which comes at the end of the year instead of at the end of every term."

Day said there is a two to three-month getting-acquainted period at the start of each school year, sort of an expanded new student week in which a heavy emphasis is placed on social activities and sporting events. The last two months of the year then become a wholesale cramming operation, comparable to the week before exams here, when students try to digest the whole year's material in about eight weeks.

India suffers from what he called the "white collar unemployment." There are few if any jobs available for Indian students after graduation. Because there is nothing else to do, they return to school becoming, in a sense, professional students, earning degree after degree.

"Their future is not very bright," Day said. "This helps to explain why the Indians are viewed as a pessimistic people."

Day A Fulbright Scholar

A Fulbright scholar schooled in the fields of sanitary engineering, guidance and theology, Day originally went to India in 1951 to study sanitation problems of Indian villages. He returned to the United States in 1956 but went back to India the next year. He said he had "some idea" of what was ahead when he went to India for the first time.

"My fiancée had been there for two years," he said, "and I had a pretty good idea of what life was like there before I left the U.S. Still I was shocked at the sheer numbers of people I saw when the ship docked at Calcutta."

Long described as a "teeming" city where people literally sleep in the streets because there is nowhere else, Calcutta was the center for Hindu refugees from East Pakistan when Rev. Day arrived.

And although he had read about village life, he admitted it took some "getting used to" — especially when a "rural" area outside Calcutta was crammed with 1100 people per square mile.

Former Campus Minister
Most of his time in India, however, was spent at Allahabad University where he was campus minister, a position similar to his present one.

The Rev. Mr. Day recalled as one of his most memorable experiences the 1954 religious festival when an estimated five million pilgrims jammed Allahabad to bathe in the sacred waters of the Ganges.

He feels that the Indians have good relationships with their former rulers, the British, but noted that there had been movements to lessen British influence and make India "more Indian." As one example Day cited the disappearance of British statues.

Statue Comes Down

"A statue of Queen Victoria used to sit in the park in Allahabad," he said, "but like many other signs of British rule, it is not there anymore. In their places are Indian works and in front of the university student union stands a statue in memory of a student killed in an independence demonstration in 1942."

Day said Indian students have been a traditional part of political

451 years, the Indian people still viewed its inhabitants as Indians. Portuguese Expelled

"It was inevitable that Portugal would have to get out," he said. "What is unfortunate is that Portugal would not negotiate."

"Actually I think India was terribly patient about the whole matter. It's hard to justify the use of force, but I suppose India felt that force was the only solution."

Day is glad to be back in the United States but said he misses India.

"After living there nearly 10 years, I got to feel India was 'home,'" he said. "My wife and I were married there and three of our four children were born in India."

Day's future is indefinite after the end of the school year. He has received an invitation and may decide to return to India as a fraternal worker.

NCAA basketball champion, Cincinnati, stand little chance of retaining their title. The Bearcats have lost to two conference foes, Wichita and Bradley. The Cincinnati will probably play in the National Invitational Tournament this year.

Frosh Coach Has Problems

"High school players must learn team play in order to fit into the college basketball program."

Freshman cage coach George Iubelt, says, "Other adjustments are necessary, but team play is the most vital device a player must learn. "Most of the players who join the college ranks have been outstanding stars in high school, and they must learn to play as a unit and not as individuals," he said.

Not Aggressive

"Another big fault with most of the high school players is that they aren't aggressive enough for the rugged college game," said Iubelt. "High school officials tend to call the game to close, which eliminates most of the aggressive play," he said.

"Most of the players in the southern portion of the state are schooled pretty well on defensive fundamentals, but a lot of boys from up north must be taught how to play defense," said the freshmen cage coach.

"Since most of the teams in this area and up north too, employ a more deliberate offense, the incoming freshmen must be taught the fast break," said Iubelt. "The only high school team in this area that employs the fast break is Pinckneyville. Other teams might take a fast break if they can get it, but Pinckneyville looks for the break like we do here at Southern," said Iubelt. "Don Stanton's boys are well-drilled on the fast-break," says Iubelt, as he spoke of the Pinckneyville coach.

Stress Defense

"It seems to be that the prep coaches in Southern Illinois are stressing defense more than they used to," said Iubelt. The Salukis freshmen coach spent ten years in the high school coaching ranks, two seasons at Galatia, followed by eight years at West Frankfort. Iubelt also keeps in close contact with the high school coaches, as he scouts from 40 to 50 prep games each winter.

"The things most college scouts look for in a high school player are his "scoring touch," and the way he handles himself on the floor," said Iubelt. "A boy must be able to shoot, feed and rebound," he said.

Iubelt tapped his pencil on the desk while trying to decide on the top players he has scouted in Southern Illinois this season. Iubelt went to his filing cabinet and came up with the following list of players: Bobby Brown of West Frankfort; Frank Stevenson of Joppa; Sam Ulrich of Pinckneyville; Randy Albright of Sparta; Larry Hinton of Shelbyville; Barry Jackson of Belleville; and Larry Shoemaker of Alton.

Ron Motten of Collinsville; Dave Kessler of Freeburg; Wiley Hall and Tom Whittington of Benton; Ralph Thaxton and Bill Johnson of Marion; Roger Yates of Mt. Vernon; Mel Blackwell of Centralia; Jim Robinson of Heroin; Jim Ury of Shawnee and Don Quillman of Trico.

Need Experience

Iubelt said his biggest adjustment in the college ranks was getting used to the fast break. "It was not something new to me, but I had to get re-adjusted to the system after spending several years in high school teaching, a more deliberate offense," said Iubelt. The freshmen coach went on to explain that he had used the fast break at Galatia, and the initial year he coached at West Frankfort.

When asked especially what his duties at SIU were, he smiled and said, "You name it and I do it."

"I scout, recruit, make the trips with the varsity squad and I'm in charge of the work program," explained the easygoing freshmen coach. Iubelt does these things in addition to coaching the freshman squad.

"I enjoy college coaching even more than high school, that is, except when you lose most of your team because of ineligibility," he said with a laugh. Iubelt lost 7 players to grades at the end of the fall quarter.

Iubelt said most of the players who were lost thru ineligibility because of low grades are working out, although they will not be eligible to play until next season. One of the exceptions is Rich Williams, 6-6 cager from Metropolis. Williams transferred to Mississippi State.

Saluki Grapplers Face Oklahoma St. Cowboys

By Alan Goldfarb
Fresh from a 36-3 trouncing over Findley (Ohio) College last week - end, Southern's grapplers travel to Stillwater, Okla., tomorrow, to take on one of the nation's top fight wrestling squads - Oklahoma State University.

The Cowboys, who have captured the NCAA title 20 times in the past 35 years, boast of six place winners in last year's classic, plus two national champions.

State will probably prove to be too strong for the Salukis as they try to better their 2-0 dual-meet record. "They're the strongest team in the country," says Saluki Mentor Jim Wilkenson. "If we score one point I'll be happy. They're almost too-deep at every weight," he added.

Coach Pessimistic
Questioning Wilkenson's pessimism, this reporter commented that Southern's wrestlers aren't exactly weak themselves. "Yes!" commented Wilkenson. "We can give almost anybody in the country a good fight, but not them."

In the Cowboy line-up will be two NCAA champs, Phil Kinyon, 157-pound and Bob Johnson, a 177-pound national champ. The

Scoring Sprees Highlight Games

Saluki basketball coaches Harry Gallatin and George Lubiet might take a look at the Intramural leagues for new scoring talent.

One fellow, J. Curtis, bears special watching. This member of the TKE's team scored 80 points last week when his team was off on a 158-44 romp in the fraternity circuit.

Five other intramurals also hit the double figures during play last week. John Lundgren of the TKE's hit for 37 points. He and teammate Curtis accounted for over half of their team's total.

Joel Rahn scored 26 points in a 62-56 win his "Sticks" team posted a win over the "Wild Bunch." Ron Zipell hit for 25 markers as his Spartans won 64-17 over the "Oakies." Mike Harmon tallied 25 points in the "Futile Fives" victory over the "Manor." Dan Wilson registered 28 points as his "Bailey Tigers," romped over the "Pierre Ants, 114-34."

The Intra-mural leagues we are told have other chaps scoring in the double figures, but statistics were not available.

Hey, Harry and George, how about a look?

Correction

The statements attributed to Harry Ammon, chairman of the history department, in Tuesday's Egyptian in the story headlined, "Southern Athletes Excel in Field, Classroom," were in error.

latter will be competing in the 167-pound division tomorrow against SIU's Eddie Lewis.

To add to Wilkenson's troubles, the Saluki charges are hampered by illness, and ineptibilities. Larry Meyer, a 191-pounder from Mattoon, was stricken by the flu "bug." Roger Plapp, who has a string of five straight pins was called home unexpectedly.

Terry Finn, Oak Park, who recently was discharged from the service, looked good against Findley in his first outing, competing in the 123-pound class. But he has not yet come around to his abilities. Nevertheless, he will be entered in the 123-pound division against the Cowboys.

Izzy Ramos, Carbondale, will compete at 115-pounds, Chico Coniglio, Oak Lawn, 130-pounds, Jim Donato, 137-pounds, Pat Coniglio, Oak Lawn, 147-pounds, Eddie Lewis, Harvey, 157-pounds, Don Millard, Pekin, 167-pounds, Ken Houston, Oak Lawn, 177-pounds, and Steve Cox, Indianapolis, Ind.

"We're beginning to jell now," concluded Wilkenson, "but we should be in top shape in another month."

Meanwhile, Coach Harry Gallatin's stunned cage squad will try to wrest the IAC basketball league from Normal when they play fifth place Eastern Michigan here Saturday night.

The Saluki's five lost a close one to underdog Eastern Illinois last week, while Normal won two contests. This put the two clubs in a deadlock for the top spot in IAC cage competition.

Gallatin does not contemplate any line-up changes for tomorrow night's contest. He offered no excuses for the local club's first IAC loss in nearly two years.

The Saluki freshmen will start off Saturday night's activities with a game against McKendree

College at 6 p.m. The varsity contest will follow at 8 p.m.

Coach Bill Meade's sensational gymnasts will journey to Normal today to face their first IAC competition. Meade's team, fresh from a runaway with Minnesota last week, should hold their own against Normal.

Gallatin Awarded Special Honors

Harry Gallatin, former New York Knickerbrooker star, and now coach of Southern's basketball team, was honored Tuesday at St. Louis's Chase Hotel, as part of the 12th annual National Basketball Association's All-star game.

The "horse" was one of six former great basketball stars to receive the special honor. Included were: George Mikan, ex Minneapolis Laker ace; Bob Davies, former Rochester Royal; Vern Mikkelsen, Minneapolis Lakers; Ed Macauley, Boston Celtics and St. Louis Hawks; and "Jumpin'" Joe Fulks, Philadelphia Warriors.

Gallatin, who made his mark as a great rebounder and competitor, NBA record for most consecutive games played, before Dolph Schayes Nationals broke the mark some time last month.

Swim Meet Rescheduled

Due to a conflict in mid-year examinations, the University of Cincinnati swim team was forced to cancel its meet with the Salukis scheduled here Saturday.

Coach Ralph Casey said the meet has been rescheduled for Feb. 22 at the University School pool.

Former Editor Working Way Thru Europe

Barbara Downen, like millions of other Americans, takes a great deal of interest in world affairs. She has reached the point, however, where second-hand information will not suffice.

In order to learn first-hand the "true facts" concerning the hot-spots of world intrigue, this 23-year-old Cambria, Ill., girl is leaving for Europe on January 26, aboard the German freighter M.S. Tuebingen.

For Barbara, this curiosity is natural. It's part of her profession. She attended Southern Illinois University from 1956 to 1960. During the 1959-60 academic year she served as editor of the Egyptian.

Barbara was visiting on campus this week when interviewed. Following graduation, she began working as a reporter for the Illinois State Journal Register at Springfield. Although her main function was handling women's features, she doubled as a general assignment reporter.

Accompanying Barbara on her European trip will be her roommate, Edelgard Eichholz. Edelgard, a native-born German, also worked on the Register.

The girls are making the trip on a "make it or break it basis." "We have bought one-way tickets," said Barbara, "and unless we can get jobs, our stay in Europe will be quite short."

The girls hope to work in some phase of Journalism. The two, however, won't be hard to please.

"Sure we'd like to do something in our field, but believe me, we'll take any jobs we can get," said Barbara.

The two first plan on trying U. S. Army Headquarters in Frankfurt. They'll arrive in Frankfurt on February 5. If this proves fruitless they will seek employment at one of the many American plants in the city.

"If we can earn about 100 U.S. dollars a month we will be able to make it," said Barbara.

The girls decided to see Europe first, especially East Germany and Russia, and then Asia. This however depends upon availability of "permits and money."

Although both are interested in gathering first hand, a picture of world conditions," they also want "the Europeans and the Asians to get to know us."

"We want them to know that we live and work just as they do," said Barbara. "We want all the people we meet to know that all American tourists are not all rich. We also want the Europeans and the Asians to know that we in America, are vitally interested in what goes on overseas, after all, what happens over there is certainly to affect us here."

Tournament Week Lures 265 Students To Try Their Skills In Competition

A total of 265 students are participating in this year's Tournament Week according to William Bleyer of the Student Activities office.

All events except bowling are being conducted in the Olympic Room of the University Center.

The first-round games must be played by 10 p. m. Sun., Jan. 21, second-round competition must be played by 10 p. m., Friday, Jan. 26, and the finals will be played Jan. 27, starting at 1:30 p. m. Duplicate bridge will be conducted at 1:30 p. m., Jan. 28.

Mr. Bleyer reported that 16 students have signed up for the chess tournament; 15 have signed for (three rail) Carom billiards; 11 pairs for duplicate bridge; 68 men and five women for bowling; 16 teams for pinocle; four for women's table tennis singles; 53 for men's singles and seven pairs for men's table tennis doubles; and 67 men and three brave women for pocket billiards.

An unusual twist for this year's Tournament Week is the participation by three women in the pocket billiards competition. The three are Janet Harris, Pat Owens and Terri Blackledge.

Winners in bowling, bridge, table tennis, and pocket billiards will be given the opportunity to participate in the regional telegraphic tournament with the possibility of advancing to the national face-to-face competition, according to Mr. Blyer.

Tournament Week is planned and conducted by the recreation committee of the University Center Programming Board, with Lunye Crim and Karen Skolorzynski as co-chairmen.

Sunday Concert

The 4 p. m. Sunday concert in Shryock auditorium will be devoted to the music of Haydn, Beethoven and Ravel. Guest artists for the program will be the Eastern Kentucky String quartet of Richmond, Ky.

Alpha Gamma Delta

The Alpha Gamma Delta chapter will hold its annual open house from 7 to 10 p. m. Sunday (Jan. 21) in the chapter house at 104 Small Group Housing.

A candlelight scholarship dinner for members and pledges is scheduled for tomorrow night.

Freshmen Elect

Six freshman were elected to the nine-man Freshman Council at Tuesday's election. There were no candidates for three of the chairs on the newly created organization.

Elected were Marcia Ronchetti, Thompson Point; William Lingle, Dowdell; Sherry Godfrey, Women's Organized Housing; Jim Mere, Out-In-Town; Barbara Rensing, Sorority; and Janet Nelson, Woody Hall.

Not running for office were representatives from off-campus men, fraternities and TP men.

Presiding over the new organization formed to understudy the SIU Student Council will be one of the Freshman class officers, according to Charles Novak, Freshman class president.
