Student Pay Rate Increases Okayed

By John Epperheimer

Student wages have been raised across-the-board by 10 cents for those now earning $1.05 or more.

At the same time, the minimum has been raised from $1 to $1.15.

The maximum wage rate has been hiked from $1.75 to $1.85 for undergraduates and from $2 to $2.50 for graduates.

All changes will become effective with the pay period beginning Feb. 18.

The new pay plan was one of three proposals made to the University vice presidents by an advisory committee of the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office. The hike was approved Friday morning.

One of the three plans considered was proposed by the Campus Senate Wednesday night and called for a 15 cents hike across the board.

Frank C. Adams, director of Student Work and Financial Assistance, said funds were not available to make the Senate-sponsored hike. Also, he said a 15 cents hike would not be commensurate with the percentage of increases other University employees had received.

There will be no additional funds available for the increase, Adams said, and he predicted that there will be a few shortages in some departments. This might cause some students to be laid off or their hours reduced, he said, but attempts will be made to find other jobs for them.

He estimated the cost of the approved increase would be $120,000 to $130,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year.

The increase will affect some five thousand student workers, Adams estimated.

He noted that John Foote, student senator who chaired a committee investigating the student work program, had been invited to meetings of the advisory committee, but could not attend because of class conflicts. Foote, who introduced the Wednesday Senate resolution, confirmed this and expressed his appreciation for the cooperation Adams had given him.

Foote said, however, he will continue his investigation and report to the Senate. He added he expects to report by the end of January, after receiving questionnaires mailed to other universities in the state.

Adams also announced that complete information on rules of the student work program will be given to supervisors in the form of a handbook in the near future.

He added that three student workers are writing a handbook for student workers.

The announcement of procedures and publishing of handbooks will coincide with the completion of a reorganization of Student Work and Financial Assistance, Adams said.

'Where You From?'

'Carbiddakem, Uk.'

An SIU faculty member says he has positive proof that SIU and Carbondale are not as remote and unknown as some people contend.

As evidence, Steve Lewis, an instructor in the Department of Administration and Supervision, showed a receipt which accompanied a textbook he recently obtained from a Dubuque, Iowa publisher.

In bold type on the front of the receipt was the following address:

Steve Lewis
Dept. of Administration and Supervision
Southern Illinois University
Carbiddakem Ukkubius
62901

"If anyone should still maintain that SIU is unknown," said Lewis, "let this piece of mail clear up that misconception."

Which all goes to show that Carbondale is on the map no matter how you spell it.

Gus says if they tunnel beneath the IC tracks for an underpass, he'll be afraid to use it because he might get the bends.

NASA Computer Expert Named Aide to Morris

Jefferson F. Lindsey, Jr., a former employee with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has been named as an assistant to President Delyte W. Morris.

Lindsey will work with the divisions of Data Processing and Computing and Institutional Research. He will also be President Morris' "personal representative on matters pertaining to SIU's development of computer and research resources," according to an announcement. Lindsey said he will begin a continuous assessment and evaluation of Southern's computer resources. In addition he will assist in a study designed to result in obtaining "third generation" computer equipment.

He explained that third generation equipment is the most modern available, being smaller, mostly transistorized and having a larger capacity than earlier types.

Lindsey said he will also work to increase the opportunities for faculty, staff and civil service personnel to gain more knowledge of computers, and will work to obtain grants for symposia and research projects.

With NASA, Lindsey worked in obtaining physiological data from astronauts while they were in flight and telemetering it back to Mission Control in Houston.

WHITE FLAG UP--About 30 male students tested the ice on the Lake-on-the-Campus Friday afternoon after the white flag signaling the opening of skating was raised over the boat dock. Girl skaters failed to appear so the men did the next best thing: they skated with each other. Typical of them were, left to right, Brian Dorosz, LaGrange; Bob Gravina, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Gene Marzano, Columbia, and Ron Ron VanScyoc, Des Plaines.

County Board of Supervisors To Rule on Voter Registration

The question of whether voters in Carbondale Township can be legally re-registered will probably be resolved in time for Wednesday's County Board of Supervisors meeting, according to Delmar Ward, Jackson County clerk.

Ward said that he and State's Attorney Richard Richman are in the process of examining recent amendments to the state election code to determine if the re-registration proposal would be permissible by law. Ward said that they will make a report to the Board at its upcoming meeting.

At its meeting last month, the Board of Supervisors voted to have Ward and Richman determine if past legal roadblocks preventing re-registration may have been removed by the numerous amendments to the election code passed during the recent legislative session.

According to Ward, the Board decided to look into the question of re-registration after the Carbondale League of Woman Voters suggested that some address errors in the recent realignment of the township's voter precincts could be cleared up through re-registration.

Ward said that election laws prior to the new amendments, prohibited re-registration of one township within a county without re-registration of the county's remaining townships. In addition, Ward said, state law stipulates that no re-registration may be conducted later than October in the year proceeding an election year.

If Ward and Richman discover that re-registration can be conducted under new amendments, then it will be up to the Board of Supervisors to decide if the voters of the Carbondale area will have to re-register.

SIU Requests North Central To Make Accreditation Review

SIU has asked the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to make an accreditation review during the 1968-69 school year, according to Donald Wells, associate professor of economics.

Southern's undergraduate and master's programs are all accredited by the Association. Emphasis of the visit will lie on the doctoral level.

Wells, coordinator of the report, said preparation for the accreditation visit will involve a self-examination of the University in its entirety from the bachelor's to the doctoral level.

Included in a report to be submitted to the Association by both campuses will be representative accounts from academic affairs, student and area services and business affairs. Some 96 persons are involved in the gathering of data.

Areas of the University's functions to be covered include academic programs, character studies of students, faculty profiles and a financial review.

The team will consist of staff members from other universities which are members of the Association.

SIU Student Dies From Car Injuries

An SIU coed, freshman Rolea Spangler, 18, died Thursday of complications suffered from an automobile accident Tuesday night at Sommers Point, N.J., while returning to school with another student.

Miss Spangler was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roman Spangler Jr. of Northfield, N.J. She lived at Smith Hall in Thompson Point.

Book Detailing Press Merger To Launch Journalism Series

A book by Bryce W. Rucker, professor of journalism graduate studies and research at Southern, will be printed in the spring as the first in a new series, "New Horizons in Journalism," by the Southern Illinois University Press.

In his book, "The First Freedom," Rucker voices alarm at what he sees as a rapidly growing trend toward chain ownership of newspapers, magazines, radio and television stations.

Testifying last July before a Senate subcommittee, Rucker stated his belief that at the present rate all daily newspapers in the United States will be owned by chains within 20 years and all Sunday papers within 13 years.

Rucker holds a Ph.D. degree in journalism from the University of Missouri. In addition to teaching at other universities before coming to SIU in 1963, he has had first-hand experience in the newspaper field, having worked for both the Associated Press and United Press International as well as on the editorial staffs of six newspapers.

SIU Film Production Unit Wins Awards

On the western edge of the SIU campus stands an unimposing building, once used as a private residence, outside which is a small sign reading "Film Production."

But looks, especially in this case, are deceiving since SIU's Film Production Unit is one of the busiest offices on campus, has attracted national and international attention and won numerous awards for the excellence of its product--the educational motion picture film.

The year 1967 brought two more major awards to the growing list of prize-winning SIU-produced films, coveted Golden Eagle awards from CINE, a committee of top motion picture experts who select American films to represent the United States in international film festivals.

One of the 1967 award-winning films, "World Population 1,000 B.C. to 1965 A.D.," an animated film which depicts graphically the growth of world population over the past 30 centuries, was selected for showing at international festivals in Barcelona, Spain and in Salerno and Florence, Italy.

The second Golden Eagle winner, "Vergette Making a Pot," was picked to be shown at Salerno and at the San Francisco International Film Festival. It shows the artistry of Nicholas Vergette, who is associate professor of ceramics at SIU.

Primarily engaged in making films for instructional and research purposes for various departments at SIU and at other universities, as well as for distribution to educational television stations, the Film Production Unit's output during 1967 also included a number of other major projects.

It produced a series of six 50-minute films for the SIU comprehensive school mathematics project to brief teachers on new concepts in the teaching of mathematics.

Another series of six films titled "Tennis Strokes" was made in cooperation with the women's physical education department to teach beginners proper tennis techniques by watching them performed by an expert.

"Phrase Reading" was a series of ten 10-minute films illustrating a reading technique developed by Prof. Bruce Amble of the Department of Guidance and Educational Psychology.

During the NCAA Gymnastics Championships held in Carbondale the Film Production Unit shot all the action and edited it into a 40-minute feature which was distributed nationwide by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Aside from all this activity the SIU cinematographers were responsible for recording on film all home football and basketball games during the 1966-67 season for use of the athletic department and for showing on television at meetings of civic groups.

Activities in 1967 not directly involving film production itself included the teaching by Unit personnel of a course in cinematographic techniques for students in the department of photography; supervising a series of seminars on motion picture and sound recording techniques for graduate students in anthropology; and working with the U.S. State Department in arranging a tour of American universities for Dr. Frantisek, dean of the Czechoslovakian National School of Cinema and Television.

Unit was founded late in 1959 under a temporary director and in August, 1960 it came under the directorship of Frank R. Paine who still heads the organization. Paine's entire production staff consists of himself and three others: Howard R. Cotton, Loren D. Cocking, and Craig Hinde. Working as a team the four men are directly involved in all the work which goes into the making of a film including writing the script, directing and filming the action, recording, synchronizing and dubbing the sound (most of the musical backgrounds are original scores composed by members of the SIU music faculty); and the final editing of the film before prints are made.

In all, the Film Production Unit in its eight years of existence has acted in a consulting capacity and produced films for more than 30 separate departments of the University. In 1967 alone the Unit worked on projects for the departments of art, design, printing and photography, theater, geography, physical education, zoology, animal industries, plant industries, and the Audio Visual Service and the World Resources Inventory.

Area Council to Submit New Educational Plan

A new action plan for the Educational Council of 100, organized 20 years ago to promote advancement of education in the lower 31 counties of Illinois, will be presented to council members here Feb. 29.

The decision was reached at a dinner meeting at SIU after Dr. Warren D. Tuttle, Harrisburg physician and council president since 1963, said he believed the organization needs "revitalization, stimulation, and perhaps restructuring" to meet the changing times.

"It's a good organization—it can do a lot of things," he said.

Twenty-three persons from nine counties and from the SIU College of Education faculty attended the preliminary meeting Dec. 14. Discussion centered chiefly on what programs should be of concern.

Informal presentations indicated that foremost projects should deal with development of the junior college; the child who is imbedded in both cultural and financial poverty; human relations; and continued efforts toward school reorganization where it is needed.

Education Dean Elmer J. Clark, who presided, said "there are many types of activity in which the council can take part. There's much work to be done."

Tuttle suggested a new approach to problems. Instead of the council's board of directors handling most of the activity at dinner meetings on the SIU campus, Tuttle said problems should be taken directly to the counties by holding regional meetings.

Fewer board meetings would then be required, he said.

The council's structure calls for three members from each of the 31 counties, plus University and Illinois Educational Association representation.

A focal point of the trip was Liege, Belgium, where Morrill was one of more than 400 university representatives from throughout the world who attended ceremonies marking the 150th anniversary of the University of Liege and dedication of its new campus.

During the festivities Morrill had the opportunity to meet and talk with Belgian King Baudoin who was awarded an honorary degree on the occasion.

In Liege, Madrid and Lisbon, Morrill met with educators and government officials Moving on to Italy, Morrill visited the city of Cortona in the province of Tuscany where he inspected a Renaissance villa which is under consideration as a base for foreign study by SIU students in music and art as well as other fields.

It is anticipated that the villa will be taken over and operated by the University of Pisa and that SIU will be able to rent of lease the space needed from that institution.

The villa was built in 1525 by Cardinal Silvio Passerini and has been passed down through the generations to its present owner, Count Renzo Passerini, who was Morrill's host in Cortona.

In recent years SIU has arranged for foreign study by its students in a number of locations in Europe. This summer a group of foreign language students will make their study headquarters in a German castle on the Rhine River which has been rented by the University.

Morrill joined the staff of SIU in 1964 after serving as president of Park College in Missouri. Prior to that he had been vice president and director of public relations for the College of Wooster, Ohio.

Registration fee is $1, with no charge for University faculty, staff and full-time students.

No registrations will be accepted after the first meeting, but those who register need not attend all sessions, according to SIU Adult Education Coordinator Harold Engelking.

Allen, author of "Legends and Lore of Southern Illinois" and a weekly column "It Happened in Southern Illinois" which was carried in newspapers throughout the state for more than 15 years, will speak on legends and lore at the January 11 session.

Students Warned To Store Valuables

SIU students are warned by Don Ragsdale, assistant security officer, not to leave things of value in dormitories over vacation periods.

"The situation is not as risky over weekends when there are others around," he said.

Ragsdale said that from the reports, one might get the idea there are many burglaries with several persons doing the breaking in, but actually several of the breakins are linked together.

"The catching of one boy a few years ago, for example, solved 14 or 15 breakins," he said.

The security officer said foot patrols are increased both day and night during vacations for the protection of SIU property.

Too Much Nitrogen Harmful Plant Specialist Declares

Joseph Vavra, head of the Department of Plant Industries, said he agrees with a St. Louis biologist's finding that too much nitrogen from farm fertilizers turning into nitrate may be damaging to babies' health.

Vavra pointed out that too much nitrogen definitely could result in the deaths of babies or cause blue babies. He questions, however, whether this abundance of nitrogen comes from fertilizers or other sources. "There are undoubtedly other sources of nitrogen which could cause such damaging effects to babies," he said.

A study in Missouri revealed that a high contamination of manure in areas where livestock are penned in becomes a logical source of nitrogen, according to Vavra. Another possible source of nitrogen can be obtained from bats.

Badly polluted water has also been cited as causing an abundance of nitrogen which turns into nitrate in commercial baby foods.

It has been noted that nitrate from nitrogen usually is harmless in the body, but under certain conditions bacteria in the intestines can change nitrate to nitrite which affects the oxygen flow in babies.

Silas Pursues Ph.D. At SIU During Off-Season

By John Durbin
The talents of a professional football player are not always demonstrated on the football field alone.

Sam Silas, defensive tackle for the St. Louis Football Cardinals, has shown in his job as a student work counselor that he is able to mix well with people both on and off the field.

The 27-year-old Negro graduate of SIU, who holds both a bachelor's and master's degree in physical education, says he is very elated for being chosen for the position and hopes he will do a good job.

His duties entail analyzing the qualifications of students seeking University employment. He then weighs these credentials against the jobs which are available. The soft-spoken Silas pointed out that his job is, "so rewarding that I don't think about it being taxing or difficult."

The 6'4" and 250 pound tackle often works into his lunch hour to find the right job for a student. Silas says he is always happy to see a student who needs financial assistance find a job in order to make ends meet.

Sam is a five-year veteran with the Cardinals who may have never turned professional except for a burning desire to play. He explained that throughout his high school and college playing days he always pretty well assumed that he would play professional football.

So when his name did not appear on the football draft list following his senior year at SIU, he was "very surprised." "I played against some good ball clubs and some fine players and I thought sure I would be drafted."

With his confidence that professional football was his goal, he tried out with the Cardinals as a free agent in 1963. He made the club and moved into the starting defensive tackle job following Don Owens' retirement.

Silas says he feels he had a good season this past year and is still improving. He cited Gene Hickerson, offensive tackle of the Cleveland Browns, as the toughest man he has to contend with in the NFL today.

Married with four children, Sam lives in St. Louis during the football season and resides in Carbondale during the off-season.

After five years since he graduated from SIU, he has seen "many changes in the University both physically and otherwise."

The defensive stalwart who made all-pro honors one year was quick to commend the "fine job Jimmy (Jim Hart) has done at quarterback this past season." "He has the makings of being a 'heckuva' lot better than just an average quarterback," he said.

In the big Super Bowl game coming up a week from Sunday between Green Bay and Oakland, Silas is certain the Packers will come out on top.

As for the controversy about the dissension in the Cardinals, Silas was reserved, saying only that he hopes it will not hurt the morale of the ball club.

NEW ROLE—Sam Silas, five-year veteran with the St. Louis Football Cardinals, counsels students into a variety of University employment positions. His office is located in the Student Work and Financial Office at the Washington Square complex.

Houston, UCLA Game Will Feature Dugouts, Court Sent From California

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—When UCLA and Houston meet Jan. 20 in the Astrodome, the two top-ranked basketball teams will operate from dugouts and make use of a court from California and backboards from Massachusetts.

Special dugouts for use by players, official scorers and timers, and news media representatives will extend the length of the court on both sidelines.

More than 44,000 tickets have been sold for the nationally televised game. The final batch of reserved seat tickets goes on sale Friday. Standing room only tickets are expected to push the attendance total to a record 55,000.

Jack O'Connell, Astrodome vice president for conventions and expositions, said Thursday UCLA will not have a home court advantage even though the Uclans have played on the Los Angeles Arena court that is to be shipped here for the first basketball game to be played in the domed structure.

"UCLA plays only a few of its games on this court and, besides, we are obtaining the backboards from Massachusetts and the baskets from local sources," O'Connell said.

The dugouts will be 18 inches deep and four feet wide.

He estimated it will cost about $10,000 to convert the stadium for basketball after it is used Jan. 12-13 for an auto thrill show and destruction derby. The estimate includes renting and shipping the Los Angeles court.

SIU Face Ambitious Sycamores Tonight

By Charles Springer

SIU's cagers, thus far disappointing in major college competition, take on an ambitious Indiana State University team tonight at Terre Haute, Ind.

The Sycamores, rated fifth in the small college ratings, are planning to declare themselves in the NCAA's major college division following the campaign. A win over the Salukis would greatly aid their cause.

Also adding impetus is the fact that Indiana State has dropped 10 of the last 12 meetings between the two teams. Overall, SIU holds a 16-9 edge in the series dating back to 1916.

Gordon Stivers, in first year as head coach, indicates a lot of respect for the Salukis despite their 4-3 mark.

"SIU, despite its record, is potentially a real power," Stivers points out. "They're sound fundamentally, are well-coached and a well-disciplined team."

"This has been a real natural rivalry for us," he continued. "Our kids have been pointing toward this one ever since SIU was declared a major college team."

when opportunity presents itself.

Sycamore statistics, however, show a powerful offensive attack headed by Jerry Newsom, a three-time small college All-American. The giant 6'-6" senior forward currently holds a 27-point scoring average.

Other big men on the Indiana State aggregation include 6'-8" center Rich Mason and 6'-6" forward Fred Harimon. Both are averaging 10 points apiece. The guards are 6'-11" Mike Copper and 5'-11" Howard Humes.

Stivers is impressed by Dick Garrett who currently leads the Saluki scoring with a 15-point average.

"Garrett is one of the finest players we'll run into and we've tried to prepare for him," he indicated. "Naturally, we couldn't spend too much time on one person since SIU has such a well-balanced attack."

Indiana State currently holds an overall 8-4 record and is 1-0 in the Central Indiana Conference. The team's last win came Thursday night in a convincing 86-66 effort against Depauw.

Saluki Coach Will Receive Wray Award

SIU basketball coach Jack Hartman will be honored at the St. Louis baseball writers' dinner Jan. 25.

The writers have selected Hartman to receive the John E. Wray Award for achievements in sports other than baseball. The award is presented annually by the organization.

A graduate from Hank Iba basketball at Oklahoma State, the 42-year-old Hartman required only six years to garner a National Invitational Championship and major college status for the Salukis.

The Salukis will be playing at Evansville University on Wednesday, the night before the dinner, before Hartman must prepare his team for John Bennington's Michigan State team in Chicago on Saturday.

"Bennington probably put the writers up to the award," Hartman joked. "so I'd be taken away from preparation for his team."

Tickets to the affair are $12.50 apiece. They can be obtained by sending check or money order to St. Louis BBWAA, P.O. Box 605, St. Louis 63188.

Among Hartman's other accomplishments was his selection as "College Coach of the Year" by The Sporting News following the 1967-68 season.

"Who's Small College?"

Records Expected to Fall In '68 Olympics in Mexico

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There have been divergent views over the effects of high altitude and "thin air" on the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City.

But geodesists, the scientists who deal with measuring and mapping the earth, seem to agree that gravity will make a difference. It will make it easier to break records.

As gravity on its surface varies from point to point, geodesists feel this should affect the distance a person can throw or jump.

Dr. Richard H. Rapp, associate professor of geodesic science at Ohio State University, believes many of these differences are significant.

"If the distance a person can throw an object depends on where he is located, we would expect all competition to be based on the same location in order to establish world records correctly," Rapp said.

"This is not being done, and this fact becomes important in considering world records that are being set at many different locations for longer and longer throws."

Dr. Rapp noted that gravity variation has many causes but the dominant one is that the earth is somewhat flattened toward the poles.

"Thus at the equator a person is, at sea level, the farthest from the center of the earth and at a point where centrifugal force is strongest," Dr. Rapp said.

"Here gravity is much less than at the poles, where a person would be closer to the center of the earth and also where there is no centrifugal force."

Oglethorpe Invades Salukiland Monday

By George Knemeyer

Not many basketball fans ever heard of Oglethorpe, but the small Georgia college has left a big impression on the teams it has played this season.

Oglethorpe, with an enrollment of 1,000, is ranked 17th among UPI small college ratings and is currently 7-1. Among its victims have been South Carolina State, Wilmington College, and Brown University. The team won the Championship of the Oglethorpe Invitational Tournament.

SIU meets Oglethorpe Monday night in an 8:05 encounter in the Arena. A Preliminary game at 5:45 p.m. pits the young Salukis against the St. Louis freshman team.

The Petrols' only loss of the season came on Dec. 30 against Middle Tennessee. Before that they had won seven straight, with an average victory margin of 20.9 points per game.

Part of Oglethorpe's success story is that the team has four starters returning and 12 lettermen.

Leading the Petrols is Doug Alexander, a possible All-American. The 6'2" senior was named most valuable player in the Oglethorpe Holiday Invitational Tournament for his 44-point performance in two games. Alexander is averaging 14 points and hitting 50 per cent of his field goal attempts. He is also considered top defensive forward.

The Petrol leading scorer is 6'5" Mike Dahl, who has an 18-point per game average and is hitting 57 per cent from the field. He is also averaging 11 rebounds a game from his center spot to lead Oglethorpe in that department.

The other forward is 6'5" Jerry Sams, who is also hitting the hoop at a 57 per cent clip from the field and is averaging 11.9 points. Rounding out the Petrols' starting lineup are guards Jim Hoggarth, averaging 11.1 points, and Roger Littell, averaging 9.6.

"It seems when one of our players is not getting the shots, another is," Petrol's coach Bill Carter said recently. "and on that particular night he might become the top scorer."

"It has not been a matter of a player being cold or hot," Carter pointed out. "but a matter of one of them being open more than another."

As a team, Oglethorpe is averaging 82.4 points per game and hitting 49.5 per cent of its field goal attempts and 74 per cent of the free throws. Their defense is formidable too, giving up only 60.1 points per game and holding the opposition to 43 per cent from the field.

"Our defensive unit is in the top 10," Carter said, "and an out-winning margin of 20.9 per cent proves the boys are working hard and playing good defense. We are fast breaking and scoring at a higher clip than ever before."
