Leffler says crime rate is dropping

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
Despite the fact that Carbondale was recently numbered among the top ten cities in Illinois in terms of crimes per capita population, the total number of crimes investigated by the SIU Security Office apparently is dropping, according to Thomas Leffler, security of these

Final figures for 1971 have not yet been compiled, but Leffler indicated that they will probably reveal a slight decrease, in comparison with 1970, in the number of crimes investigated by

Part of the expected decrease is due to a change the Security Office has made in the method of reporting and compiling statistics, Leffler said.

Unfounded reports and non-official criminal incidents were not included in the 1971 compilations and duplication with the Carbondale police was also reduced, thereby decreasing the total number of separts.

number of reports, he said. However, Leffler also attributed the drop to an increase in people's awareness of and precautions against awareness of and precautions against criminal activity.

"We want people to know that other people are preying on them," he said. Leffler said the public is becoming more conscious of property losses and other effects of crime and is acting to prevent crime.

A tool which may help the University combat crime more effectively is the Illinois Unified Crime Report, which state law now requires each policing agency to file monthly, Leffler said.

The Illinois Department of Law En-The Illinois Department of Law En-forcement will compile monthly and an-nual analysis of criminal activity in each area from the data which the in-dividual departments furnish each month, Dan Lane, administrative assistant in the security office, said

The analysis will be compiled into a comprehensive statewide survey and forwarded to the FBI, Lane said. Each police agency in Illinois will also receive a copy, he said.

The monthly analysis will enable the Security Office to plan in advance against what appear to be seasonal crimes and to change tactics and strategy to meet the changing needs of the situation, Leffler said.

The security office has kept extensive and detailed statistics of the number and type of crimes for the past few years, according to Leffler.

However, with the intiation of the statewide system of reporting, the figures for SIU and the city of Carbondale may be compared (and combined) to present an accurate picture of crime in the community, he said.

$85,000 appropriated for five new health service consultants

By Sue Millen Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Advisory Board of a new comprehensive health service system revealed in a meeting Thursday that five newly-appointed consultants have been appropriated as much as $85,000 been appropriated as much as $60,000 for their services.

Richard Majors, of the SIU legal counsel, said the fee appropriations were made on a cost-pay basis. "In other words, we might not spend all of the money," he said.

Richard Whitton, from Van Guard, a division of Gardiner Advertising Co.

Whitton said there are three things

Whitton said there are three things the Board must accomplish within the community and the professional field. "We have to create awareness, interest and understanding of what we have to offer," he said.

Dr. Walter Clarke, director of the Student Health Service, asked how physician recruiting would be handled. I.M. Jarett, director of the Department of Health Care Planning, said they were approaching it from the angle of the many opportunities which are provided under the proposal for doctors to work in their specialized fields.

Jarett said recruiting on an informal, personal basis has already been star-ted. "We have talked to some people and they have been responsive," he said.

Jarett said two candidates have already expressed interest in positions with the comprehensive health service. "In fact, one of them is coming in tonight." The board then made arrangements to draw up a job description and to interview the candidate. "Both candidates are good men,"

"Both candidates are good men," Jarett said.

James Obrilcht, a consultant from the Chicago Arthur Anderson Co., said his role as a consultant would be to analyze the situation and make necessary recommendations. He called the comprehensive health service proposal a pioneer in the area of health care planning with a "unique develop

Obrilcht said the Advisory Board and the consultants would have to look at what it would cost and the most sensible way of delivering health care.

"This does not mean that by June 30,

1972, we will have a complete health care system, but certainly we will have a great deal to report," he said. George Mace, chairman of the Advisory Board, added that the planning phase is being completed. "We hope to begin implementation of the system soon," he said. Jarett said, however, "if we don't have additional destors as the said.

soon," he said. Jarett said, however, "if we don't have additional doctors, we obviously cannot start."
Clarke asked if any specific changes would occur at the Health Service. Jarett replied that he could not single out a specific change right now. He said, "There will definitely be specific changes in the way the work is done."
Mace said that if Clarke's apprehension had anything to do with job security that he (Mace) did not think there was even a possibility of job loss.

there was even a possibility of job loss.

Obrilcht said he could see a great eed for improvement in the entire health care delivery system.

One member of the audience asked

Majors if the fee for the comprehensive health service would be mandatory. Majors said that was a possibility. "But I still have to examine the question from a legal and academic standpoint,"

A student asked if students would be consulted to find out if they wanted to accept the proposal. Mace said the Advisory Board was attempting to get opinions of representatives from student government and all other facets

Raises must meet Phase II guidelines

IRS and Board to discuss pay increases

By Daryl Stephenson Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

C. Richard Gruny, SIU legal counsel, said Wednesday that Internal Revenue Service Agent Louis Powenski will meet Tuesday with James M. Brown, chief of board staff, to discuss recent pay increases approved by the Board of pay increases approved by the Board of Trustees last month for both campuses of SIU.

Gruny said Powenski is making a routine investigation of the raises to determine whether they are within the guidelines of Phase II of President Nixon's wage-price freeze. The guidelines allow increases up to 5.5 per

The pay hikes approved by the Board applied to faculty and administrative staff and to some civil service workers.

Among the items that Powenski intends to investigate and clarify, said Gruny, is whether the increases should be considered as one package or if the raises should be looked at by units, such as academic and administrative

The Carbondale Federation of University Teachers (CFUT), which has filed a complaint with the Federal Pay Board in Washington concerning ray board in washington concerning the increases, has criticized pay raises of more than 18 per cent for some SIU officials. Specifically criticized were Brown and John S. Rendleman, president of SIU-Edwardsville. Both men have received a salary increase from $38,000 to $45,000.

Gruny contends that the guidelines apply only to the over-all average in the payroll increase and not to individual increases. He said the average of the in-creases, including the 18 per cent hikes granted top administrators, is 4.14 per cent, which he said is well within the the IRS action is a direct result of the CFUT complaint to the Pay Board.

Jonathan Seldin, former president of the CFUT, said he favors the intestigation, and that someone did file a complaint with the local IRS office, but it was not the CFUT. Seldin said he tried to learn the identity of the person, but was told the IRS does not reveal that information. that information

Concerning Gruny's statement that federal guidelines only apply to the over-all average increase, Seldin said that it was his understanding that the motion before the Board for the ad-ministrators' increase was separate from the one for the rest of the SIU employes.

Seldin said that if this were true, then it would be questionable whether pay raises for administrators could be averaged in with pay raises for the rest of SIU employes.
Seldin said that he hopes this matter will be clarified by the IRS in its investigation.

U.S. suspects Red buildup in Indochina

PARIS (AP)—The United States expressed concern Thursday over a major enemy offensive it believes is being planned in Indochina, presumably in the hope of disrupting President Nixor's forthcoming visit to Peking.

As the Vietnam peace talks resumed following a four-week interruption, the two sides bogged down in bitter accusations. Each side accused the other of refusing to negotiate while violating its own commitments. The Viet Cong went out of its way to deny President Nixon's assertion that he tried—and failed—to obtain the release of American prisoners in return for a total American withdrawal.

U.S. negotiator William J. Porter told the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations: "I wish to caution you that the military efforts you seem to be planning on the western border of South-Vietnam and elsewhere in Indochina are not likely to achieve anything to your permanent advantage and will probably entail the loss of many more lives.

"I urge you to reflect before you

Club makes banquet plans

Plans for Engineering Week and how to get more publicity for the upcoming activities highlighted Wednesday evening's meeting of the Engineering Club.

Chris Lynes, chairman for the Engineering Week festivities, told members that a tentative agreement has been made to have David Derge as a guest speaker for the banquet.

The banquet will be Feb. 23 in Ballroom D in the Student Center. Tickets for the banquet are $5 for non-members of the club and will go on sale in the next few weeks.

Porter did not elaborate, but the unusual warning was believed to reflect American concern that an enemy buildup in the jungles of Cambodia and Laos may be the prelude to a major offensive to coincide with Nixon's Peking visit next

In veiled but unmistakeable terms, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have repeatedly expressed their misgivings that Nixon's trip may lead to a Chinese-U.S. deal behind their backs.

Bangladesh spokesman said since the Pakistani leader hadn't been invited his offer was meaningless. In another development, Bhutto's government accused India of violating the cease-fire along the border in southern Pakistan and the long-disputed territory of Kashmir. A spokesman said Pakistan would complain to the U.N. Security Council of the alleged border flare-ups, which he said occurred on eight occasions between Saturday and Tuesday. Three of the attacks included shellings and one armored support, he claimed.

Bhutto said his going to Dacca would permit further talks with Sheik Mujibur Rahman, the Bangladesh leader detained in Pakistan. Bhutto has promised to Bangladesh without conditions after one more round of talks in Rawalpindi.

Humayan Rashid Chaudhury, head of the Bangladesh mission in India, said in New Delhi his country remained worried about Sheik Mumib's safety and was more in-terested in getting him released than in hearing of a visit by Bhutto. "No head of state visits another country, without a formal in-

Anti-semitism flourishing in Soviet Union

Professor McFarlin's letters (Dec. 1, 15). I don't know whether one should consider his comments as an exercise in naivete, or as an example of an academician secluded in his ivory tower.

Well, I have "good" news for Prof. McFarlin. In spite of the recent Kosygin's solemn denials, it appears that anti-Semitism does flourish in the Soviet Union. And it certainly is not a new phenomena. Being himself an historian, I am sure Prof. McFarlin is well aware of the long, "distinguished" tradition of anti-Semitism in Russia.

We may argue endlessly about specific demonstrations of anti-Semitism, but, in my opinion, the best test of the existence of discrimination is how the people involved feel about it. Well, Prof. McFarlin talked to several Jews in Leningrad and Moscow, but how do their views compare with those of the estimated 12,000 Jews who, in 1971 alone, considered it very fortunate to leave the USSR, and of thousands who applied for exit permits but were not lucky enough to get them? I don't think it was merely a political dissatisfaction with the system that they tried to express, but rather a protest brought on by ethnic descrimination.

I believe Soviet-published books in Yiddish are available in the United States, but I would like Prof. McFarlin to try to buy them in Moscow or Leningrad. Jewish tourists report that the most asked for items among Soviet Jews are printed material in Yiddish, Hebrew or Russian related to Jewish culture. On the other hand, I don't think Prof. McFarlin would have much trouble finding books, newsnaners and magazines in Buryat. newspapers and magazines in Buryat, Mongolian or Mordovinian, although the latter had written forms of their language devised only after the Revolution. In words of a distinguished philologist, Mikhail Zand, who recently managed to get out of Russia and settle in Israel, "we may not be victims of physical genocide, but we are the victims of a cultural and spiritual genocide, simply because the Russians refuse to let the Jews live a Jewish life." Concerning job discrimination, Prof. McFarlin's impression is that Jews are already disproportionally more heavily represented in various occupations. This is correct. But this is exactly the type of argument used in Russia to stop the influx of Jews into universities and good jobs. It is strange indeed to encounter such views from a society which presumably is based on principles of equal opportunity regardless of race, religion, etc. (Doesn't it seem familiar?) Finally, Prof. McFarlin's statement that none of the Jews are in Soviet jails for a mere desire to emigrate to Israel, together with the mentioning of the hijack attempt was really amazing. Why does he think these Jews attempted to commit this "crime?" To fly to Cuba? They are in jail only because they could not emigrate legally to Israel. There is a vast literature on the discussed subject, and it does not take sonhisticated. Ph.-level.

1,800 protests against oppression

To the Daily Egyptian:

Over 1,800 students and faculty at SIU have so far signed our protest to the U.N. over Russian antisemitism. More encouraging, however, is the voice of protest rising from within Soviet Russia itself. Beside the letter to the Supreme Soviet of May 20, 1971, by a group of intellectuals condemning Russian anti-semitism. Dmitri Shostakovich, Russia's greatest living composer, has purposefully chosen Yevgeni Yevtushenko's poen "Babi Yar" for the music of his "Thirteenth Symphony." Thus Russia's greatest living composer, poet and scientists are on public record protesting Soviet anti-semitism.

It's true that animals that live outdoors all year round are provided with a heavier and thicker coat in the winter months, but they are still in need of shelter. It would be a great help if there were an open garage, barn or stable available for our animals. Kennels and doghouses slightly elevated off the ground facing away from the north with some insulation material on the inside would also be sufficient. A piece of canvas or burlap hung over the entrance-way helps to keep out the wind, and the use of straw, shredded newspaper or woodshavings would aid your pet's bodyheat to retain itself within.

The housepet who is indoors most of the time should be kept moving around as much as possible while outside in cold weather. If your pet stops playing or moving around and just seems to stand and shiver, bring it in immediately and rub it with a towel.

Our pets depend upon us and need special care in the winter, so let's remember to care about our pets.

People and dogs are animals

To the Daily Egyptian:

In the Jan. 4 Egyptian, it was reported that an unidentified woman complained to the Jackson County Health Department about a dog who (presumably without warning) jumped onto the table and began eating from her plate at the University Center cafeteria. My facetious compliments to the lady on her great reflexes. In spite of not being religious, I can't help but wonder what Christ would have done in that situation. Maybe realized that a dog so hungry as to jump onto the table and eat from His plate before He could stop it needed the food more than He did. No, I think Christ would have called the Board of Health. (Like I said, I'm not religious.) After all, dogs are generally nicer and friendlier than people.

"Both state and federal law prohibit animals from entering food service areas," according to Daryl Stephenson's article. If the law does read in such a manner, the unidentified woman, being an animal, broke the law in going in to eat. Don't get me wrong, I have the utmost respect for law. This law protects the health of unidentified women. That fewer the health of unidentified women. That fewer diseases are carried by the mouths of canines than humans is a fact, not a myth. The innocent bystander A new reason for smoking

By Arthur Hoppe Chronicle Features

You can't help feeling sorry for the cigarette companies. For years they've been waging a lonely battle against lung cancer, emphysema, heart disease and so forth—or at least against the idea cigarette smoking has anything to do with such things.

And despite the fact that cigarette smokers keep dropping off from these diseases like flies, the cigarette companies have gamely held their own. This they've done, of course, by convincing us that cigarettes are good for our sex lives.

Any cigarette ad worth its salt depicts a handsome young man and a beautiful young lady intimately lighting up the cigarettes that obviously have made him virile, her sophisticated and both of them absolutely irresistable.

What's a little lung cancer if you could snare a date like that?

But now science has dealt the struggling cigarette companies a blow which appears mortal: cigarette smoking causes wrinkles! So reports Dr. Harry Daniell in the prestigious An-

But I say that it you can sell the ladies on puncturing their ear lobes sticking jewels in their belly buttons and painting their toe nails gold, their lips silver and their eyelide green, you can sell them on anything.

We might start with simple testimonials: "I used to have a smooth, bland, blah complexion, but ever since using Retch' Rinkle Cream, men want to talk to me about affairs—world and otherwise."

Then we could graduate to Vogue, which is always looking for something new. "The charming young Contessa di Haggard shows the new IN look. With a simple make-up pencil she accentuates her laugh crinkles and brings out her worry lines, thus flaunting her commitment to life's joys and sorrows and her depth of character. Men find her fascinatior irresistable."

Gardiner does a job on Jacobini mentions that letters to the editor should make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. She then claims that C. Harvey Gardiner's letter of Dec. 8, concerning the Center for Vietnamese Studies, violates this policy.

It seems to me that the real issue is not whether personalities come under attack. For the past two years, Gardiner has indeed made Jacobini and others of the Vietnamese center appear as academic incompetents. The real issue is whether one's attack upon personalities is simply for the sake of attacking personalities or whether this attack is meant to substantiate certain underlying principles. After all, some of the greatest thinkers in the history of humanity are admired for their capacity to bring into focus various truths by exposing the pretenses into focus various truths by exposing the pretenses and falsehoods of particular individuals of their time. If the truth remained on the level of the specific per-

If the truth remained on the level of the specific per-sonality, it would have very limited significance. But the truths, while illustrated by the pretenses of specific individuals, transcend those personalities and have a general significance for all of us. It is true that Professor Gardiner, as he has done often in the past, exposes the fact that Center Direc-tor Jacobini is a complete nobody in Vietnamese studies. That in itself is trivial, since SIU has many other incompetents on its staff. The significance of Gardiner's attack can be seen when we remember that Chancellor MacVicar asserted that we would get that Chancellor MacVicar asserted that we would get a leading expert of Vietnam as director, when we recall that this is the single largest grant ever given for Vietnamese studies in the United States, when we realize that other more scholarly programs were facing a financial crisis, etc. In other words, Gar-diner's attack gets at fundamental principles concerning the nature of the University, its priorities, its lack of integrity, its corruption, etc.

In his letter of Dec. 8, Gardiner also addresses himself to our financial crisis and illustrates his point in terms of Joel Maring of anthropology, another nobody on Vietnam, who submitted a bill of more than $3,000 for one Vietnamese center trip. Again, as an attack on Maring, simply as an attack on Maring, Gardiner may be correct but his point would have little significance. However, there are basic principles at stake here and, in terms of our present budgetary crisis, these should be obvious. The Maring illustration, along with many others, is important because it brings to light the lack of educational priorities and the corrupting effect the Vietnamese center has on our University.

To the Daily Egyptian:

Ruth Youngberg, resenting my coupling of per-sonalities with issues (Daily Egyptian, Dec. 15), ap-parently believes that certain stuffed shoe boxes should be discussed without the name Paul Powell, philosophy without naming Plato, democracy devoid of Jefferson, presidential elections without can-didates, dictatorship minus Hitler and Christianity without Christ.

I, on the other hand, insist that the issues of this I, on the other hand, insist that the issues of this world come down the broad road of life cloaked in personalities. And as long as I rise up against violations of principles, I will couple violators with violations. So it is that the issue of academic competence calls to mind the fact that the director of the Center for Vietnamese Studies, H.B. Jacobini, lacks scholarly competence in Vietnamese affairs

Right on, Horace B. Jacobini! You finally had the wisdom to jump off that sinking ship, the Center for Vietnamese Studies. Is it true that as you submitted your letter of resignation as director of the Center, you exclaimed, "C. Harvey Gardiner, you won't have me to kick around anymore?"

There seem to be conflicting explanations as to why Jacobini chose to resign as Vietnamese center director. One explanation is that his resignation should be viewed as a protest against U.S. escalation of the air war over Indochina. A second explanation is that Jacobini's resignation should be viewed as a protest against the SIU Board of Trustees' repressive action against Professor Douglas Allen, in denying Allen tenure and thus firing him as of June. In either case, Prof. Jacobini is to be praised for his noble motive in resigning as director of the Vietnamese center.

Campus and late flicks prove tops in movie fare

On hand this week are a thriller that isn't particularly thrilling and a supposedly heartwarming comedy that ladles on the goo for two hours. The screen's best bets, in fact, are to be found here on campus and at one of the late shows. Both deserve regular bookings—but let's be thankful for the small pleasure that pop up as we trek down the long, long road to boredom these winter nights.

en No Evil," at the Fox, has its strong moments, but they're not consistent enough to bridge the dull spots with more than minimal effec-tiveness. It's a good outline for a shocker, but it's been left in outline stage. The terror itself doesn't come about by any sort of unexpected plot twists; it is, in a word, sadistic. Ms Farrow drives broken glass through her bare feet, battles for her life in an attempted bathtub drowning and remains gallant throughout. She is a sensitive, intelligent wann who remains gailant throughout she is a sensitive, intelligent woman who clearly needs to find an outlet for her considerable talents. Senate discusses conference membership status

A recommendation on whether SIU should retain membership in the Midwestern Conference will be the main topic at the University Senate meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday in Lawson 201.

The recommendation will come from the Committee on Men's Intercollegiate Athletics, the senate's newest standing committee, which previously recommended that the liniversity drop out of the conference.

The committee made its recommendation against continued conference membership when it was a presidential committee, named by President Robert G. Layer, who brought the issue to the senate. James BeMiller, chemistry professor who is committee chairman, was out of town Thursday and not available to comment on whether the previous recommendation has been reversed or modified.

At the Dec. 6 senate meeting, a

At the Dec. 6 senate meeting, a letter from Layer was read to the senate by George Mace, assistant to the president for student affairs. The letter asked the senate to consider SIU's withdrawal from the Board of Trustees is needed before withdrawal would occur.

Layer's letter indicated that the dioard would meet Jan 21. A meeting of the board of governors of the conference is scheduled Jan 26 in Carbondale.

Even if SIU does withdraw from the athletic conference, it is possible that academic involvement with the other conference schools could continue. The other schools are Northern Illinois, Illinois State, Ball State and Indiana State.

The intercollegiate committee became part of the senate at the December meeting. At that meeting, the senate members approved the motion making the intercollegiate committee a standing committee. Approval from Layer concerning the switch was needed. Approval was granted.

The committee was supposed to be reconstituted before the report to the senate would be made. This was to be done at the Dec. 14 meeting of the Executive Committee.

At the Executive Committee.

At the Executive Committee was uposed to be constituted before one time collegiate committee should remain until the committee should remain until the committee should remain until the committee could be reconstituted in January.

In other words, the same committee who recommended to Layer that SIU withdraw from the conference will make the recommendation to the senate, said Thursday he was aware of the committee's earlier recommendation to Layer. He said he expected the details and rationale of the earlier decision to be explained at Monday's meeting.

In addition, the senate is expected to deal with the recommendation from the Governance Committee that the functions concerning fire and safety be assigned to the Committee on Campus Management's subcommittee on security.

A report from the Executive Committee also is scheduled. Besides the action done concerning the members of the intercollegiate committee, the report probably will concern the filling of the Ombudsman Panel and a list of vacancies on joint standing committees.

At the December meeting of the Executive Committee, Kenney reported that Beth Sulzer, assistant professor in guidance and educational psychology, was named as chairperson of the Ombudsman Panel. Donald Sucky, assistant professor in plant industries, and Paul McCarvey, graduate student, were named to the panel.

Wrestlers face tough weekend schedule

By Ernie Schweit Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

That's what the SIU wrestling team faces this weekend as Coach Linn Long unveils his 1971-72 squad at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the SIU Arena against Midwestern Conference member Northern Illinois.

As soon as it hits ground level...watch out! That's the way most college gymastics teams on Northern Illinois schedule would view the Huskie team a la 1972.

Currently 3-1 for the year, the Huskies' biggest task of their dualmeet season awaits them at 9:30 p.m. Saturday when they face the Salukis in the SIU Arena after the Texas Tech basketball game.

The vast improvement in the Huskies'.750 winning mark is more self-evident when looking at the actual team score rather than the three of four meets they have won. Although the gymnastics meet is the first dual of the season for the Salukis, Northern had already met and defeated Northern Iowa 139:50-99.90 on Nov. 19.

The fact that the Salukis have matches on successive days poses some questions as to their psychological effect. If the wrestlers beat Northern on Friday night, they could be all fired up for Moorhead

The same situation could have just the opposite effect. The wrestlers could take Moorhead too lightly and get blown out of the Arena Saturday afternoon.

These possibilities may have crossed Long's mind, but he appeared to be unconcerned. "We have to approach our matches individually. What happens in one should not effect what happens in another," Long said.

One of the more interesting mat-ches in the NIU-SIU match will come in the 118-pound weight class when Andy Burge challenges Huskie grappler Chuck Rossetti. Burge is one of Southern's win-ningest wrestlers, posting a 7-1 mark in the two tournaments while Rossetti is 9-4.

Also off to a fast start for the Salukis are Vince Testone in the 142-pound weight class, Don Stumpf (158) and Peter Engles (167), all of whom show one defeat in eight mat-ches. The only defeated wrestler is Jim Cook (134) who has a 440 mark.

Although the Northern team looks better than ever on paper, it is doubtful whether they can defeat an SIU squad looking for a national championship this year. The Salukis seldom fell below the 160 mark in last season's 12-3 dual-meet finish and as they begin their first 1972 encounter, several weaknesses from last year have all but been extinguished.

Some of the pulses on the team this year are:

The Salukis will be coming into the NIU contest with two impressive performances under their belts. On Dec. 4 they competed in the Illinois Invitational and won three cham-pionships. A week later they were at the University of Iowa Invitational where they had four champs.

The match with the Huskies will be a preview of the Midwestern Conference Championship slated for SIU's Arena Feb. 18-19.

Cubs a 'happy' family once again

CHICAGO (AP—The Chicago Cubs, who closed the 1971 season on a sour note, were an ostensibly happy group in their first 1972 public unveiling Thursday.

The occasion was the club's winter press shindig at which controversial 65-year-old manager Leo Durocher was palsy-walsy with his dissidents of 1971 and several new too-level troubleshooting aides.

dissidents of 1971 and several new top-level troubleshooting aides. Durocher was rehired last Nov. 17 for the coming season by owner Phil Wrigley after a 1971 campaign marked by alleged player rebellion and media clamor for Leo the Lip's dismissal.

Nears record

Greg Starrick makes one of his 100-plus daily practice free throws in an afternoon workout. The Saluki guard was 14 free throws away from tying the national record of 60 consecutive shots from the charity line before last night's game against San Diego. He's made 53 of 54 this season. the best start ever in major college basketball. The previous best start was 50 of 51 by Wayne Estes of Utah State in 1964. (Photo by John But more than a dozen Cub players, including Ron Santo, Joe Pepitone and Milt Pappas—all tabbed to be in Leo's doghouse-showed up, along with a new "liaison man". Hank Aguirre, and promoted Whitey Lockman, once strongly rumored as Durocher's managerial replacement.

Lockman now will have a stronger hand in evaluating major league potential and player deals, in addition to continuing as supervisor of player development.

Santo, Pepitone and Pappas, all involved in a celebrated Aug. 23 clubhouse shouting match with Durocher, said 1972 is another season.

"I felt that Leo was coming back for 1972 even before his rehiring was announced," said Santo. "Our squabble was blown out of propor-tion. I'm going to play 150 per cent this season."

tion. I'm going to play 150 per cent this season."
Peptione, destined for full first base duty with assignment of Ernie Banks to first-base coaching, said: "So, we had one little difference. But, with my personality, I couldn't play for any other manager except Durocher."
Durocher shied from any predictions for the Cubs, who last season finished tied for third with the New York Mets.

Squids face frontrunning Black Knights

By Ken Stewart Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Squids, SIU's wheelchair basketball team, will try to snatch the Midwest Conference lead away from the Champaign Black Knights

Sunday afternoon.

The Black Kinghts will bring a 3-0 record into the Pulliam Hall gymnasium for a 2 p.m. encounter with

With a 3-1 mark, a win for the Squids this weekend will give them a one-half game lead in the loop but a loss may darken chances of being a loss may darken chances of being invited to the national tournament. The Squids lone defeat this season was againt the third-place St. Louis Rams who are now 1-1.

"It's going to be quite a game," said Squid player Harry Jakobson. "The first and second place team in the conference have a chance of going to the nationals.
"And right now. Champaign is the

"And right now, Champaign is the team to beat in the nationals," he said.

The Squids have accomplished a complete turn-about since the club was initiated last season when wins came few and far between. "At least we're winning once in a while now," said Jakobson. That new string of wins include an upset of the former national champion Gizz Kids of the University of Illinois last fall in the SIU Arena.

The game Saturday will also throw the leagues two leading scorers into a confrontation. The Black Knights are sparked by Tom Brown's 19.5 scoring average—the best in the conference—and Southern has runnerup Ray Clark who averages 15.

Besides Champaign, SIU and St. Louis in the 1-23 spots, Illinois with a 1-2 mark is fourth in the league followed by the cellar dwelling Kansas City, 0-4.

SIU, Badgers swim tonight

By Ernie Schweit Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

After nearly a month without any competition, SIU's swimming team returns to action against Wisconsin at 7 p.m. Friday in the Pulliam Hall Pool.

The last time the swimmers competed was against Big Ten powerhouse Michigan on Dec. 10 at Ann Arbor. It was an unsuccessful venture as far as Southern Illinois was concerned as the Salukis took a 75-38 pasting from the Wolverines.
The Badgers had similar against Michigan going down for their only loss of the season. Wisconsin has beaten Midwestern Conference school

Northern Illinois, Iowa and Iowa State.
The Badger swimmers finished 14th in the NCAA meet last year and SIU coach Ray Essick feels this year's edition is one of the best in the school's birthout.

Leading Wisconsin will be backstroke and individual medley (im) specialist Murphy Reinschreiber, distance freestyler Rawdon Petersen and diver Treestyter Vawoon Petersen and diver David Bush.

Reinschreiber holds Wisconsin school records in the 200-yard IM, with a clocking of 2:00.8, and the 200-yard backstroke at 1:59.5.

Petersen's best times come in the 200-yard free style with a 1:48.8 showing and the 500-yard freestyle at 4:57.3. In the 200 he will likely go up against SIU's Rob McGinley who is currently ranked the second fastest 200-man in the nation

In the 500 Petersen will be up against freshman Pat Miles who holds the nation's third fastest time in the event with a 4:46.3. The Little Rock native also has the third fastest national clocking in the 1,000-yard freestyle with

The meet with Wisconsin will be one of Southern's three home contests this year. The next appearnace at home will come against NCAA champion Indiana, 28, followed Feb. 11 by North-

SIU wins dull thriller, 95-74

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer
An unusually small SIU Arena crowd of just over 6,000 fans watched with apprehension most of Thursday evening before Southern Illinois' cagers caught fire and blew out the University of San Diego, 95-74.

The Salukis had just a three point lead, 64-61 with 9:18 remaining, before pulling away to their sixth win against

San Diego's Toreros, now 4-6, brought the sometimes overly dull game to within their easy grasp by dumping in four fast-break baskets that brought

"We stopped running our offense," said SIU coach Paul Lambert, esplaining the Toreros comeback. "We didn't have any floor balance. We put the ball on the floor by dribbling instead of their graphs of the stopped of t

Colts to train at Tampa, Fla.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tampa's push for a pro football franchise reached a new plateau Thursday when the Baltimore Colts agreed to move their training camp here and play three preseason games in Tampa Stadium.

The announcement was made jointly by Colt owner Carroll Rosenbloom, game promoter Bill Marcum and sports authority chairman Leonard Levy ters in double scoring figures, clearly was the better ballclub, despite lapses such as the one that produced the second half Torero comeback. San Diego beat itself with 21 turnovers including seven traveling violations, four in the second half. The Toreros were called for goaltending

The Salukis committed just 12 tur-novers and were called for traveling and palming the ball once apiece. Lambert shuffled his troops all night, Lambert shuffled his troops all night, not because Southern was in danger, but to preserve energy for a quartet of games in the next eight days.

"Maybe it won't make any difference the first night," Lambert said, "but we could look pretty tired by the third." Sophomore Eddie James, coming off a horrendous shooting road trip, benefited most by Lambert's shuffling exercises. James, of Mt. Vernon, hit five of seven field goal attempts and chipped in a charity shot for 11 points, all in the game's last 10 minutes. Coach Bernie Bickerstaff of San Diego sent his Toreros into a stall before halftime that resulted in two scoreless minutes.

scoreless minutes.
The Toreros had tied the game, 26-26, before beginning the slowdown that came to an early death when Greg Starrick stole the ball from Mel Ar-

Southern Illinois missed a shot after Starrick's thievery but Don Portugal got a tip-in that gave the Salukis a two-point lead, 28-26.

It was the last time San Diego equaled the Salukis who owned a 38-35 halftime lead.

The stall surprised Lambert who added a new twist—first half zone defense—before switching to man-to-man coverage in the second half.

Afterwards, Lambert said he used the zone slightly during the Las Vegas Classic and was generally pleased with results then and Thursday night. But he switched to the man-to-man because "We felt we could make them stir things up a little by moving people around".

Starrick, who tied John "Mouse"

Garrett as the highest scoring victors with 18 points, moved four notches closer to a national consecutive free throw record.

The Marion senior connected on four, one of which bounced, around before dropping through. He now has 50 without a miss, needing 11 for the

And Starrick's 57 of 58 for .982, is the best early season start ever by any collegiate player. Southern Illinois hosts Texas Tech at 7:30 p.m. Saturday night and travels to the Dairyland State for a rematch with Wisconsin-Milwaukee next Monday night.

Good guy loses

Some critics, probably from within the College Basketball Corporation of America, are going to contend that Leroy "Bud" Getchell is a sour grape— a crybaby in the rough, tough he-man sports world.

Organization Men will say he never belonged in coaching and doesn't have the guts to weather a storm. And they'll advise him to keep quiet because losers have few listeners.

Getchell says he tried to win the right way, followed all the rules. But it didn't way, followed all the rules. But it don't work. He's lost 57 games in under four seasons. So last Monday, the personable 37-year old Getchell resigned as head basketball coach at Ball State. The resignation takes effect upon completion of the Cardinals' current yielded to multi-million dollar "amateur" athletics. It comes com-plete with an intricate system of grade fixing and under-the-table payments that exist at some, if not most, major universities.

Professionalism licked "Bud" Gel chell, not amateur athletics about which he expresses great concern.

Turned off

Turned off

"The last three or four years, I've seen some things that really turn me off," said the soft-spoken former baseball All-America. "And it really irritates me that these are the things that you have ho do to get ahead. "Go across the country and take good look at the best teams. Scrutinize their kids' academic records and the school's recruiting practices. I think you'll be amazed at the results." Getchell isn't all full of marbles. If he were, schools like Illinois State wouldn't be on NCAA probation. And the following situation wouldn't exist at That western university received some pre-season votes as this year'e, prospective national champion. A big cog in Long Beach's attack is 6'11" center Nate Stephens, a veteran of six universities.

Should the professionalism trend con-tinue, Getchell is afraid "...it will put us all out of business.

"The bigger schools get richer and some of the in-betweeners (like a Ball State) are struggling," Getchell stated in a phone interview. "I think we have to take a look at this thing and decide if we're becoming a true minor league system for the pros."

Lily-schite Cards

Owner of a University of Illinois doctorate degree, Getchell claims, "The worst part of this business is not coaching—we all love that. It's recruiting, catering to kids, solving all their little problems. It becomes a big headache." headache.

Getchell said Ball State has been lily-white in its handling and recruiting of athletes. And he won't tell whatever he might know about other Midwestern Conference schools.

But Getchell isn't the first league coach to complain Indiana State's Gordon Stauffer screamed about the situation one year ago, obviously to no
