Diggle promises tuition increase fight

By Kathleen Takemoto
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Students will go through legislative procedures to prevent a tuition increase proposed by the Illinois Board of Higher Education's (IBHE) Master Plan—Phase Four (MP-4). Student President Doug Diggle told a board panel at Wednesday's public hearing on the plan.

Diggle, who is also vice president of the Association of Illinois Student Governments, said the tuition hike would offer lower- and middle-income families only one choice: "to get or not to get a college education."

Diggle said the plan's proposal to increase the Illinois State Scholarship Commission's (ISSC) funding would only benefit private institutions.

"I assure you, students will fight the tuition increase through the legislative process," he told the panel.

The speakers at the hearing, including administrators, faculty members and representatives of area groups, testified on a number of MP-4 concerns, but as expected, most of the testimony centered on opposition to the proposed tuition increase.

The panel conducting the hearing consisted of IBHE Executive Director James Furman, Deputy Director Richard Wagner, board member Edward E. Lindsay and board staffers Cindy Ambrosius and Michael Smith.

The hearing began at 10 a.m. in Student Center Ballroom A with welcome remarks by SIU President Warren W. Brandt. The panel recessed for lunch at 11:45 a.m. and resumed the hearing at 1 p.m. Furman adjourned the hearing at 3 p.m.

Wednesday's hearing was the last of six conducted by the IBHE panel throughout the state. Furman said the testimony will be summarized and presented to the IBHE next week. The board will then decide whether to make any changes in the document before adopting a final master plan.

Student testimony against the plan's proposed tuition increase dominated the afternoon half of the hearing. MP-4 recommends that tuition at public universities be raised to cover one-third of instructional costs by 1980.

Ivan Elliott Jr., chairman of the SIU Board of Trustees, told the panel the plan's method of fixing tuition is a "symbol of overstep by the board of higher education into an area exceeding its authority." Elliott said the symbol is a "very bad wedge between institutions and the IBHE."

Representatives of the Jackson County Taxpayer Association endorsed the proposed tuition increase. Ray Nowacki, president of the association, told the panel, "The cost of higher education should be borne by the users." Since students seem to have the money to spend on cars, trips and liquor, they should be able to pay higher tuition rates," he said. He suggested that courses such as badminton and square dancing, which satisfy "private needs," be eliminated or reduced. Nowacki is an SIU associate professor in engineering mechanics and materials.

Earl Struck, representing the Illinois Agricultural Association, called the tuition increase recommendation "reasonable and realistic."

Student Senator Joel Spenner read a senate resolution denouncing MP-4 for its proposed tuition increase and subsidization of private institutions.

Amminadab Israel, a representative of the Black Students Association, told the panel that a tuition increase would "lead to a lot of black students not being able to obtain an education."

Student president placed on suspension

By Mike Springston
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student president Doug Diggle has been placed on academic suspension for spring semester by the Graduate School.

The suspension will not prevent him from continuing his duties as student president, Diggle said.

There are no requirements in the 1975-76 SIU student government constitution concerning the academic status of the student president. According to Article III, section A of the constitution, "The President and Vice-President shall have successfully completed six semester hours of classes, at the Carbondale campus, for two out of the last three terms prior to the term in which they take office."

"I won't be the first president to run into academic difficulties but I'll be the first who hasn't had to worry about them," Diggle said in reference to the constitution's ruling. He added that the lack of any academic standards for a student president was due to an oversight at the time the constitution was drawn up.

Diggle, a graduate student in public affairs, said he had not been informed about the suspension because student government business had left him too busy to register for spring semester. Diggle said he would not resign his office as a result of the suspension.

Two members of Diggle's administration, Dennis Sullivan, former vice-president, and John Hardt, former executive assistant, had resigned their offices this school year. Both students said their resignations were due to academic reasons.

Diggle said the demands of the student presidency accounted for his academic suspension.

"If it (the president's job) is to be done correctly it must be a full time job," Diggle said, "Unless you really get into classwork it's much better to gain practical experience working on the job than it is to go to classes."

Diggle said he would petition the graduate school to waive the suspension for spring semester.

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, and Thomas O. Mitchell, acting dean of the graduate school, are scheduled to meet with Diggle Thursday to discuss the student president's academic options.

"It's something Doug and I have to visit about," Swinburne said. "I have to review with Harvey Welch (dean of student life) to find out the qualifications of a student president, but I'm sure one of them is being a student."

Mitchell said that a graduate student on academic suspension may not be readmitted without the specific approval of the graduate school dean. He added that approval is granted only on an individual basis after a meeting between the student and Mitchell.

Mitchell said that any student who fails to be re-enrolled in the graduate school may be admitted into the University as an undergraduate going for a second bachelor's degree.

Telephone rate hike applied for by GTE

By Mark Raeber
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A request for increased local rates will be filed Friday by General Telephone Company of Illinois (GTE) with the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC), according to GTE president Robert W. Shaffer.

"The high cost of doing business in today's inflationary economy has hit us just as hard as the rest of the nation," said Shaffer.

"In order to get the $5.8 million in additional revenue which we need," he said, "we must ask for $11.5 million. The difference goes toward state and federal taxes."

According to L. Richard Kimberley, Carbondale service office manager for GTE, "The increase will mean an estimated annual increase of approximately $36,000 to the University's phone bill."

Kimberley said, "The request to be submitted to the ICC is for a rate we feel we have to charge to meet commitments and show an adequate rate of return."

"The rate is based on data gathered for a test year (in this case 1975), and it reflects the cost of doing business, revenue needed and planned service improvement projects," said Kimberley.

"The documentation to be submitted Friday substantiates the rates we are asking for and will allow us to provide a level of service equal to or greater than those provided in 1975," he added.

In November General Telephone announced a five-year, $355 million service improvement and expansion construction program. Kimberley said, "If the commission grants less than that requested this program will have to be reevaluated."

The $11.5 million requested includes:
—increasing coin telephone calls from 10 to 20 cents.

—a 20-cent charge for directory assistance (DA) with the first three calls per month at 'no charge.' Calls from coin telephones, hospital patients, hotel-motel guests, students residing in dorms, the handicapped, or all calls to other area codes are excluded from the DA charges.

—a 50-cent charge for operator-assisted local calls. The exceptions when no charge applies include: emergency calls; calls from the handicapped, coin phones, hotel-motel guests, or students living in dorms; calls to telephone business offices or repair; or any other trouble reaching another local number.

—a statewide increase in monthly local service for private-line residential customers between $1.20 and $2.35.

—a statewide increase in monthly local service for private-line business customers between $1.90 and $4.50.

—a decrease in residential extension telephones from $1.20 to $1.00.

—a decrease in business extension telephones from $1.75 to $1.25.

—a decrease in monthly charges for dial-in-handset from 95 cents to 75 cents.

News Roundup

Egyptian press reports cease-fire in Lebanon

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said Christian leaders in Lebanon accepted Wednesday a seven-point Syrian proposal for a cease-fire and a settlement of the nine-month civil war.

Palestinian guerrillas and Moslem private armies squeezed Christians into a mountainous one-fourth of Lebanon along the coast north of Beirut on Wednesday and claimed to be marching on the already devastated capital.

The offensive was evidently timed to strengthen Syria's hand in mediation efforts for a cease-fire. Sources in Damascus said the Lebanese Christians would have to agree to give Moslems an equal share of political power as a prior condition to a cease-fire in the nine-month-old civil war that has claimed more than 10,000 lives.

Muskie says Ford's plan means fewer jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, told the nation Wednesday night that President Ford's plans for the economy mean fewer jobs, higher prices and ever-rising budget deficits.

"The President's budget is designed to keep unemployment over 7 per cent and more for another year and to keep seven million Americans unemployed at this time a year from now," Muskie said.

He was speaking for congressional Democrats in response to President Ford's State of the Union Address, delivered Monday night. Muskie said the President's budget not only offers no new jobs, but proposes cutbacks in the limited emergency jobs program Congress has enacted.

MEG cleared of criminal wrongdoing charge

BLOOMINGTON (AP) — An investigation into activity of a narcotics enforcement group in western Illinois has found no evidence of criminal wrongdoing, authorities say. The investigation was conducted by the Illinois Bureau of Investigation after the American Civil Liberties Union accused the Multi-County Narcotics Enforcement Group of violating civil rights, conspiracy, entrapment, extortion and perjury.

John Fahnestock, a specialist with the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, said an IBI report on its investigation contains nothing "to indicate there has been any criminal activity" by MEG agents. Harold Bosshardt, Bloomington police chief and MEG board chairman, said board members "absolutely feel that we're not guilty of any of the charges... The FBI report substantiated this."

Objections raised about conduct board

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Objections about portions of the operating procedures adopted by the Student Conduct Review Board (SCRB) have been raised by the SIU legal counsel and the coordinator of University judicial systems.

A meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday between Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs; Harvey Welch Jr., dean of student life; Larry Dennis, adviser to the SCRB; a student member of the SCRB and University Legal Counsel John Huffman to discuss the concerns.

The SCRB is the last appellate level for campus disciplinary cases at SIU.

Huffman's objections to the six-page operating paper are not known. Swinburne said Wednesday, however, that the meeting is being called because Huffman "indicated some problem areas" with the SCRB operating paper.

According to the Student Conduct Code, each judicial board shall prepare its own operating paper which includes the tenure of its members and organizational structure.

Carl Harris, coordinator of student University systems, said Wednesday that he has found "some serious concerns" with the SCRB paper.

He charged that:
—The SCRB has assumed that it is an automatic level of appeal for academic misconduct.

—The panel is attempting to allow the chairman of the SCRB to serve also as the adviser to the judicial board.

—The SCRB would not be required to obtain written permission from a charged student to release the tape recording of the hearing if it is subsequently requested in a court order against the University as stated in the paper.

—That students may appeal decisions rendered by the SCRB to the SIU Board of Trustees, without first going to the president of the University.

Harris said the SCRB is not an avenue for academic cases, unless a case is referred to it by the president.

Each academic unit is supposed to appoint separate panels to hear academic cases as stated in the Student Conduct Code.

Swinburne, who has approved the SCRB document, said the judicial board is operating at the level of the president with Swinburne serving as Brandt's designee. He said the next level of appeal is to the board of trustees.

Dennis said the section of the SCRB paper pertaining to the release of the tapes "was a matter of considerable dispute" with the judicial members who prepared the document.

Bob Artz, a member of the SIU legal counsel staff, said tapes are not admissible evidence in a legal hearing, although a transcript of a taped conversation would be accepted.

Swinburne said a written transcript of the SCRB hearing is also made.

He said he does not see any conflict in the chairman of the SCRB also serving as its adviser.

Police dismissal appeal to continue

By Scott G. Bandle
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Board of Fire and Police Commissioners voted Jan. 20 to continue to hear an appeal by Arthur Valentine concerning his recent dismissal from the Carbondale Police Department for his alleged involvement in a reported rape.

The board also voted to reconsider the 1974 suspension of Valentine who allegedly pulled a gun on a patron at Merlin's Bar, 315 S. Illinois Ave.

Valentine is appealing his Dec. 19 dismissal from the police force by City Manager Carroll Fry. Three days earlier Valentine had been arrested for an alleged rape.

State's Attorney Howard Hood dropped all charges against Valentine on Dec. 22, saying that there was insufficient medical evidence to prove a case. Hood said that the dismissal was made with the agreement of the woman.

Although charges were dropped, Fry said he would not reinstate Valentine. He said that Valentine's record revealed previous suspensions and warnings.

Student editor named

Lenore Sobota, senior in journalism, has been appointed Daily Egyptian editor-in-chief for spring semester.

Sobota, 21, of Berwyn, will be the fifth student editor since the paper's reorganization in August 1974. She was appointed by School of Journalism Director George C. Brown.

She has worked for the Daily Egyptian covering the SIU administration for two semesters.

Sobota attended Morton Junior College in Cicero for two years before transferring to SIU. She was managing editor of the college's newspaper in Berwyn. She has also been co-editor for the East Side Story.

After graduation Sobota said she wants to cover governmental affairs for a daily newspaper.

"My goals for the Daily Egyptian are to do more extensive coverage of Carbondale and the surrounding areas to serve the community members, instead of concentrating on University affairs," she said.

MP-4 opposition voiced at IBHE hearing

Ray Huebschmann, a member of the Graduate Student Council and student representative to the IBHE's Student Advisory Council, advocated an increase in financial support for graduate students. "I would like to see ISSC scholarships for graduate students," Huebschmann said.

In voicing opposition to the tuition hike, students cited increases in University fees, rising housing and living costs and dependence upon financial aid and jobs to help meet college costs.

Willis Moore, member of the SIU Board of Trustees, said the tuition increase combined with the decrease in the number of tuition waivers to two per cent would lessen educational opportunities for the disadvantaged.

Richard C. Hayes, associate affirmative action officer for SIU and chairman of the Illinois Affirmative Action Officers Association, said the tuition increase would have "a negative impact upon people who can least afford it, particularly minorities." Hayes suggested that the IBHE incorporate affirmative action as an MP-4 goal.

John E. King, chairman of the SIU Department of Higher Education called the plan's linking of the tuition increase to a proposed seven per cent salary hike for faculty and staff members a "bad connection." King said the master plan would serve only people of high income, rather than all the people of the state.

Other persons who voiced opposition to the proposed tuition increase included David Emerson, president of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce; Herbert Donow, president of the SIU Faculty Senate; Rep. Vincent Birchler, D-Chester, and Hans Selin, president of the East Central Illinois Building and Construction Trades Council.

Representatives of several area community colleges also testified at the hearing.

Allan Y. Baker, a member of the Board of Trustees at Rend Lake Community College, told the panel that the plan's projections for a decline in college enrollments will not apply to community colleges. "More people are going and will be going to community colleges," he said.

New judge requested

A motion for a substitution of judges in the upcoming jury trial of three men charged with a triple murder on Halloween night was filed Wednesday in Jackson County Circuit Court by one of the defendants.

The motion was originally prepared for defendants Luther Carter and Ronald M. Jenkins, but was signed only by Carter.

"After the motion was prepared Jenkins decided not to sign it, so, in effect, it is just for Carter," said Jackson County Public Defender Charles Grace, defense counsel for Carter, Jenkins and Grady Bryant.

The three men are charged with three counts of murder in the shooting deaths of Terry L. Eanes, 23, and Robert Gillmore, 21, both formerly of Carbondale, and James Williams, 22, formerly of E. St. Louis.

They are also charged with the attempted murder of Buford J. Lewis, 26, of 415 E. Fisher St.

In the motion for a substitution of judges, Carter said he feared he would not receive a fair and impartial trial if tried before Circuit Judge Peyton Kunce, before whom the case is pending, or before Circuit Judge Everett Prosser.

Talks break down in SIU police bias case

By John O'Brien
Student Writer

Talks between University officials and a representative of the Illinois State Employment Service (ISES) broke down when a meeting scheduled for Jan. 20 and rescheduled for Jan. 21 was cancelled at the last minute.

John Huffman, SIU legal counsel, said Richard Morris, manager of the Carbondale office of the ISES, phoned his office saying he would not be able to attend the meeting to discuss complaints filed by black security officers with the ISES charging racial discrimination within the SIU Security Police.

Huffman said his office was given no reason for the cancellation.

Huffman said Morris also cancelled the originally scheduled meeting because Morris was obliged to attend another meeting regarding the same matter.

Morris denied that he cancelled the original meeting and said that it had been postponed by University officials.

Morris sent a letter to Clarence Dougherty, director of campus services, on Monday urging Dougherty to set up a meeting between University officials and Morris at "the earliest possible date to discuss these discrimination charges."

Dougherty, Huffman, affirmative action officers Mary Helen Gasser and Richard Hayes, and assistant director of campus services Thurman Brooks, were assembled for the meeting when it was cancelled.

Huffman said he was disappointed that the officials were unable to meet with Morris, but said he was puzzled about what the outcome of the meeting might have been.

He said that since Morris had decided to exercise his prerogative to forward the complaint to the assistant regional director of Manpower, a division of the Department of Labor, in Chicago, before Morris met with University officials, the possible outcome of such a meeting was unclear.

According to ISES procedures the University would have five days in which to rectify the circumstances which resulted in the complaint before it was sent to Manpower.

Morris said Monday he was not satisfied with what he called the University's "laxity" in dealing with the officers' complaints.

The black officers initially submitted their complaint to SIU's Affirmative Action Office (AAO) in December but went to the ISES last week when they became dissatisfied with the AAO's response to their complaints.

Dougherty said he resented Morris' remarks suggesting that the University had been lax in dealing with the officers' complaints.

"Mr. Morris' remarks that the University is handling the situation lightly is certainly not true, and represents a misunderstanding by Mr. Morris of our actions in this matter," Dougherty said.

He said that his office and the AAO had been looking into the charges when the officers chose to take their complaint to the ISES.

Dougherty said many of the incidents which the officers brought to the attention of the AAO had occurred over a long period of time, precluding the initiation of formal grievances because of limitations.

"I feel," Dougherty said, "that we gave a great deal of concern to the matter and that we had it pulled out from under us before we had a chance to get to the bottom of it."

Huffman said to make a factual investigation into the matter would take "a long time."

"What we need to do," he said, "is to go over the facts and see if patterns of discrimination exist and if so, discern the nature of discrimination. Until we can sit down with the people involved it is impossible to characterize the problem."

Morris said there would be a 15-day waiting period between the time the complaint is received by Manpower and investigators are dispatched to SIU to look into the charges.

Huffman said he felt it was not probable that investigators would arrive here within 15 days.

A public information source for the Department of Labor in Chicago said that details of the complaint have not yet reached the Monitor Advocate of Manpower, but that from what information was available "it seemed likely that the complaint would go to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. (EEOC).

The EEOC specializes in grievances involving discrimination.

Gasser said the possibility exists that the EEOC may recommend the complaint be returned to SIU to be dealt with within the University.

Huffman said, "It is my feeling that this will be sent back through the proper channels and these people (Dougherty and Gasser) will be able to sit down and solve the problem."

Injured get shaft

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU should move promptly to get $30,000 needed for the construction of an elevator in the SIU Health Service.

Health Service officials say that the elevator is necessary because ambulance attendants are presently required to carry persons on stretchers up two flights of stairs to the infirmary on the second floor.

They fear that if the practice continues an injured student will be accidentally dropped, compounding his injuries. It would also give SIU another lawsuit, a pain in the neck that the University really doesn't need.

Despite pleas by SIU administrators that they cannot find the $30,000, sources indicate that there will be approximately $1 million in the Student Welfare and Recreation Fund (SWARF) by June 30, 1977.

A sizeable portion of this amount is expected to be used for the Co-Rec building upon completion, but enough money should be left to finance the installation of an elevator.

Since students already pay $17.25 each semester into a SWARF medical account which provides funding for a comprehensive student health program, including emergency services and hospitalization, it seems that a practical solution to the funding problem exists.

However, the Co-Rec building will have first priority to the $1 million, by action of the Board of Trustees, to pay for the operating costs of the facility. And the Co-Rec building is not scheduled to open until the fall of 1977. The Health Service needs an elevator now to eliminate the risk of someone getting seriously hurt.

Other alternatives that should be considered include the possibility of re-financing the bonds on the Health Service building and the acquisition of federal monies being made available for the elimination of architectural barriers for disabled students.

SIU President Warren Brandt said it might be possible to re-bond the buildings in Small Group Housing, including the Health Service, but he is uncertain it can be done.

The funds are available. It's time that the SIU administration stop passing the buck.

Soldiers of fortune

By Cathy Tokarski
Editorial Page Editor

It's not easy to find success stories about newly formed magazines anymore. But after reading how well the revolting new publication "Soldier of Fortune" is doing after only one issue, I sincerely hope its fate is just as grim as the men who created it.

Though the magazine's first issue looks highly professional, it doesn't take long to realize that the masterminds of "Soldier of Fortune" are simply deranged ex-military men who are just trying to keep themselves occupied between wars.

The front cover of the magazine is a mood-setting picture of a man standing behind a barbed-wire fence toting a huge rifle. If this shot alone isn't enough to make you wonder about the content of the magazine, the cover blurbs surely will: "Underwater Knife-Fighting Techniques," "Urban Street Survival: Part I" and "First Round Kills at 900 Meters."

Though the magazine declares itself the "Journal of Professional Adventure," it is specifically directed toward mercenaries, or people hired for military service in a foreign country.

The brains behind this publication, Major Robert K. Brown, a 41-year-old ex-Special Forces officer in Vietnam, believes that the opportunities for mercenaries are going to sharply increase in the near future, especially since the recent furor over CIA activities.

"Thanks to the war in Vietnam," Brown says, "the largest number of unemployed, combat-trained soldiers in the world is in the United States today." Sadly enough, Brown and his staff of sadists don't do a bad job of convincing their readers that they deep down inside of everyone, there is a killer anxiously awaiting to be set free.

However, the editors of "Soldier of Fortune" manage to rationalize their objectives by publishing this disclaimer: "We believe that the professional adventurer for whom the magazine is written is basically not a 'hired gun,' but one who thrives on high adventure, believes in taking risks and undergoing hardships for a worthy cause, and receives satisfaction from doing well—what most men would even fear to attempt."

With scruples like that, Brown and his associates will never have to worry about being out of a job. If the magazine ever fails to be popular, there are plenty of people in Washington who would just love to get their hands on such fine, morally upstanding men.

Coal plants threaten Indians

Editor's note: The following information was received from the National Indian Youth Council in a letter signed by Gerald Wilkinson and John Redhouse, associate and executive directors of the organization.

Government legislation is about to destroy 57,000 acres of grazing land and consume 479 billion gallons of precious and scarce water. This mindless legislation proposes a reckless scheme to build the nation's first six commercial coal gasification plants. These untested plants are to be built in a concentrated area of the Navajo Reservation in New Mexico. Each plant will cost $1 billion. Each plant will be obsolete in 25 years or less.

The whole plan just doesn't make sense. First, it represents a Band-Aid approach to America's energy problem, but it's also a planned invasion of Navajo natural resources. It may only give labor to a few of the Indians—a doubtful benefit, considering the inevitable losses to the whole life and posterity of the tribe. Second, coal gasification would steal water from the Indian Irrigation Project—a 110,000 acre, tribally owned and operated farm that the U.S. government promised the tribe 107 years ago. This project will be only 10 per cent operational by 1976. Moreover, $206 million of your and our tax dollars have already been committed to the Irrigation Project. Even this will soon become a futile investment, because predictable water shortages will force severe cutbacks in food production, which is sorely needed by both the Indians and other Americans.

Those six gasification plants would consume more than half the water reserved for the Irrigation Project. They will emit enormous amounts of deadly toxic materials; lead, mercury, cadmium, arsenic, boron—which will settle over and ruin the land, contaminate food produce, endanger lives and, ultimately, force the evacuation of all people within a 13 mile radius.

Western coal costs approximately $2.00 a ton to mine, the mining companies will sell the gasification coal for $4.50 a ton. The Navajo Tribe will be paid 20 cents a ton for this coal.

El Paso Natural Gas Company and Western Gasification Company (WESCO) will make the profit, but the consumer and taxpayer will pay for it all. Every dollar spent on the development of strip mines and gasification plants is another dollar that will not be spent on permanent and non-destructive alternate energy sources. If this program were permitted realization, it would set off a chain reaction of land-grabbing precedents throughout the mountain and plains states. In every case, Indian Reservations are planned to be the first targets of exploitation. The second targets are the public lands held in trust by the government for the American people. Hundreds of thousand of agricultural areas will be ripped up and rendered useless and ugly by strip mining and pollutants. And if this dangerous combination of procedures must be tested, why, we ask, should it begin on Indian farm and grazing lands when, it is well known, 92 per cent of known coal reserves are available elsewhere in the country?

A strip mining company nearby, after twelve years of operation, has been able to successfully reclaim only two acres out of the nearly 3,000 acres mined. The people most directly affected by gasification—the Navajo Indians—know it will endanger the promised Irrigation Project and threaten their way of life for generations to come. The Reservation will be forced to accept unmanageable boom towns already on the drawing boards. In 25 years, when the investment is paid off and the profits pocketed—the coal and the water gone—the remains shall be a wasteland of hundreds of unreclaimable man-made holes at least two hundred feet deep. Aerial bombing couldn't be more effective to render land useless.

Only the Indian Irrigation Project will last as long as food is needed. It's the prudent choice for the Indians now and later, the best choice for all Americans now and later.

Writers submitting letters by mail should include addresses and telephone numbers for verification of authorship. Letters for which verification cannot be made will not be published.

Second thoughts on meditation

By H.B. Koplowitz

The ancient art of meditation is making a big comeback on college campuses these days. Call it Divine Light, T.M., Scientology, or yoga, meditation is rapidly becoming a fixture in the fickle world of pop culture alongside such mainstays as pot, TV, streaking, frisbees, and beer.

Whereas most youth culture fads are either illegal, obscene, or absurd, meditation is legal, free (sometimes), and doesn't entail injecting some kind of toxic substance into the body. And it has the endorsement of practically every poet, philosopher, or sage that ever lived.

Many see the trend towards contemplation and the inward path as the eve of a spiritual awakening. Others, however, view the renewed popularity of meditation as yet one more escape devised by the "leaders of tomorrow" to avoid the harsh realities of the modern world.

If the sixties were a rejection of the banal apathy of the fifties, so the seventies might someday be seen as a negation of the permissiveness and activism of the sixties.

Seen in such a light, meditation neatly fills the need of those who desire a retreat from the arena of social change and experimental lifestyles. What could be more safe than sitting alone and thinking about belly buttons, nonsense syllables, or just plain nothing?

Not having experienced any but the most superficial of meditative states, I'm hardly qualified to express any conclusions on the value of meditation. But when the search for the inner light leads one to withdraw from the material world and such profane manifestations of it as the competition for jobs or grades, the problems of trying to improve the human condition, or the emotional knots of an intense relationship with family or loved ones, then that person may well be using meditation as a crutch.

Precisely because meditation is so wholesome, it's hard to see how it can become a habit. But if one is spending more time being "souled out," and less time taking care of business, let's just say the symptoms are there.

This is hardly to say that meditation is evil. Many successful people point to it as the key to their success, and many meditation sects are actively involved in humanitarian projects such as the Ananda, Marga day care center in Carbondale.

But if you find yourself taking refuge in non-thought and using meditation as an end in itself, well, maybe you're just playing with yourself.

Safety devices blamed in fire deaths

By Richard Benke
Associated Press Writer

An increasing number of urban Americans are placing bars on windows and multiple bolt locks on doors to keep burglars out. Some have found out too late that the devices can create a deadly prison of flames.

Firemen across the nation tell harrowing tales of families, including scores of children, trapped in smoke-choked rooms by metal window grates and key-operated deadbolt "safety" locks.

"The real problem is that people don't realize what happens to them in smoke and fire," said C.G. Nunnally, the fire chief in Birmingham, Mich. "Fire investigators in the past just attributed deaths to smoke and left it at that, rather than wonder why the victims failed to get out."

In many cases the victims get to windows but were imprisoned by their own bars. Others have been found slumped against doors locked from the inside with a key. In the rush to get out they forget or couldn't find the key.

Fire marshals in urban areas contacted by The Associated Press in an informal survey shared the same general reaction: "We can't tell you not to bar your windows, but there are better ways to protect your home."

Several cities, such as San Francisco and New York, have codes restricting the type of grates that can be put on windows, but door locks aren't as strictly regulated.

In New York City, fire department spokesmen reported from 10 to 20 deaths a year up to 10 per cent of all fire fatalities in the city are caused by illegal security grates.

Eight deaths in Detroit this year and at least seven other fatalities elsewhere in Michigan since 1973 have been blamed on deadbolt key locks, said Detroit Fire Marshal Donald L. Robinson.

The most gruesome case in Michigan occurred in Avon, a suburb northwest of Detroit, in December 1974. Firemen found the bodies of a man and his three children—ages 12, 14 and 16—feet from a door locked with a deadbolt that was key-operated inside and out.

Such locks are designed to prevent a burglar from opening a small hole in the door, reaching in and unlocking it.

"If you have too many locks on the door, especially double-keyed locks, you may not be able to find the keyhole in an emergency fire situation," said Sgt. Lee Tracy of the Beverly Hills, Calif., police.

In Beverly Hills and Los Angeles three deaths in as many months and four in a year have been attributed to window bars. The Los Angeles City Council recently took action to curb the toll by ordering that window bars be removable from the inside without the use of any special tool or key.

Beverly Hills is famed for its wealthy residents, but in most cases neighborhoods with window bars have been low-income, high-crime areas where people fear not only burglars but rapists and other attackers more than they fear fire, the officials agreed.

Los Angeles Fire Inspector Gilbert Lindley said he can't blame people for being afraid.

"Take a case like the Westside Rapist," he said of the 33 unsolved attacks and 10 murders that still haunt elderly women in west-central Los Angeles. "They think, 'Put up bars,' but that really isn't the answer."

"I'm an elderly woman, and the bars make me feel secure," said one San Bernardino, Calif., resident. "I can sleep with my doors open in the summertime and feel perfectly safe."

"For one thing, you can get smoke detectors," said Lindley. He said there are sophisticated computer-telephone systems which automatically notify police or fire agencies in the event of intruders or fires.

You pay according to the sophistication of a wide range of devices that can be installed, such as electric eyes, listening devices, heat sensors and a variety of alarms, silent and noisy. Most of them currently are more expensive than simple window bars, perhaps one reason why low-income areas opt for the grates.

Of course the more complicated devices often result in an increase in false alarms and "accidental trips," said Lt. Jack Yeske of the police department in San Marino, Calif., an exclusive suburb of Los Angeles.

"There are more sophisticated methods, and they wealthier home owners can afford them," Lindley said.

In Atlanta, Ga., and elsewhere, there are concerted efforts to educate the public about fire safety measures.

"We've had a campaign under way here to preplan fire escape routes and to utilize a window in the escape route," said Atlanta Fire Marshal J.B. Gossett. Barred windows are therefore discouraged, he said.

But if one must put bars on a window, select "security gates that actually swing open," said Beverly Hills Fire Inspector James Anderson.

"We're looking at them," he said. "Companies bring them to us. The ideal would be a gate, hinged like a door, that opens out—a strap hinge with the pin protected, that is covered so burglars can't get to it." He said a knob-operated latch also would be preferable, "like turning a doorknob. One turn and it opens."

Beverly Hills was the scene of the most recent death attributable to burglar-proofing. Muriel Stemmert, 70, was found in her bathroom next to a barred window. She had suffered third degree burns and was overcome by smoke.

Disgraceful incident

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to report a disgraceful incident which took place at our house in Murphysboro last month. As seven of us (three visitors from out of town) sat playing cards and listening to music, a Murphysboro police officer knocked at the door and told us to turn down our music. This was our first complaint about music of the semester, since our nearest neighbors are two lots down. While we were in the process of turning down the stereo, five policemen burst through the door yelling for everyone to put their hands on their heads. What followed was a bumbling, Keystone Cop-like search of our house. When one of my roommates, who is an Administration of Justice major, demanded to see a warrant he was told they didn't need one. When he kept asking to see one, he was handcuffed and placed under arrest. When he asked what the charge was an officer told him "loud music."

Finally, after an old "bong" and a pack of Dynamite had been confiscated, my roommate was "un-arrested" and the amateur storm-troopers left the scene. Why the illegal invasion? We really don't know. Maybe the policemen in Murphysboro are just bored and have nothing to do. Or maybe they watch too many Untouchables reruns. Unless Budweiser and Heaven Hill gin are illegal, we have nothing to hide at our house.

We had enjoyed living in what we all considered a friendly small town until it was abruptly shattered by these five men dressed as law enforcement officers. We now lock our doors to protect ourselves and our rights. What else can we do when a local police department plays by its own rules, not those of the United States.

We have contacted the American Civil Liberties Union, SIU, and even consulted an attorney, all to no avail unless we have the money to file a lawsuit. If anyone has any suggestions or can help us in any way concerning further action, we would greatly appreciate it. Thank you.

Editor's note: Chief Toby Burgher of the Murphysboro Police Department said he did not understand how the incident described above could have occurred, since a search without a warrant is not standard police procedure.

Jewish and Moslem brothers caught in tug of war

To the Daily Egyptian:

It has always made for good politics for an uninvolved "third party" to make his views known and to create trouble for the first two parties. I can see Mike Landers holding one end of the fuse, and the Rev. Grauel holding the other end of the fuse, and each waiting to light their ends. Caught in the middle of "third party" tug-of-war, and caught holding the bomb, are my Jewish brothers and my Moslem neighbors. We are continually being pushed and shoved by the others, who are engaged in a play for power, and who wish to create havoc.

As a Jew, I hate no one who shares the same ancestral forefathers, and who looks up to the same God, as I. And though we may address Him in different ways; there is only one God.

Hate is an emotional waste of time which can only lead to an evil end. I'm sure there are Moslem people on this campus who will share my belief that Jew and Moslem can live together on this Earth as loving neighbors.

Fight tuition increase

To the Daily Egyptian:

The question that comes to mind when I consider the proposed hikes in tuition currently being debated is this: What group should a university primarily serve? The answer to that question should obviously be the students. The students, however, will be the losers if tuition is raised. It will become harder for students to meet the financial burden, and some inevitably will not be able to do so. And will students who are able to meet the greater financial demands receive any corresponding increase in quality of education here at SIU? Speaking from past experience, the answer to that question is probably not.

Three years ago, when SIU was on the quarter system, tuition and fees totalled approximately $570 for a school year, or three quarters. Since that time, tuition and fees have been raised by almost $30. In the interim, however, 104 instructors, including 28 tenured professors, were let go. Despite the increases in tuition and fees, the opportunities available to students have decreased. Will the new proposed increases better the quality of education at SIU? It seems doubtful, and certainly no promises to that effect has been made. So we as students should fight against any tuition increases.

Protest security threat

To the Daily Egyptian:

Arthur Hoppe's article dramatizing the threat of the wife of Senator Jacob Javits to our national security was in good taste. The fact that Mrs. Javits is a well paid foreign agent for the Government of Iran and her husband is a member of the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee causes enough alarm to warrant a conspiracy investigation. These kinds of inconsistencies within the highest offices of our government can not be permitted. It is an insult to the American government as well as the American people to allow Senator Javits to remain in office after this atrocity has been made public.

The syndicated column should have done more than suggest that Senator Javits resign. The responsibility should have been taken to direct people to write letters of protest to the chairman of the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Senator John Sparkman, and to the U.S. Secretary of State, Henry Kissinger. We need to do our duty as citizens of the U.S. and protest serious abrogations of government authority such as this.

City organizations need volunteers

Student government is looking for persons to fill openings on 14 organizations in the Carbondale area.

Persons interested in volunteering their services may come to the Student Government offices on the third floor of the Student Center from 9 to 10 a.m. or call for an appointment.

"The new semester has opened up a lot of volunteer jobs and now is a good time to get involved," said Bobbi Tally, executive assistant to the student president.

Student government needs one student each for the Bicentennial Committee, Advisory Committee for Naming Physical Components of the University, Traffic Appeals Board and Honorary Degrees Committee.

Two or more students are needed for the Student Work and Financial Assistance Advisory Committee and the Campus Judicial Board and the Recreational Facilities Planning Committee each need two persons.

The Press Council for the Daily Egyptian needs three persons as does the Synergy Advisory Board.

Volunteers are also needed to work at the Eurma Hayes Center tutoring the blind, helping handicapped persons in the 20-40 age group and teaching adult and children Arts and Craft classes.

Volunteers are also needed as companions for Care House residents.

Opryland searches for talent

Representatives from the Live Entertainment Department of Opryland U.S.A. will be holding auditions and interviews to fill more than 300 positions that are open for musicians, technicians, and performers needed for the 11 music stage shows scheduled for the 1976 season.

Auditions will be held from 12 p.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, in the Illina Union, Room 314 on the University of Illinois campus.

According to John Haywood, production manager, the music theme park will need 300 singers, musicians, dancers, actors, clowns and specialty acts to appear in the shows. Also needed are 35 technicians, including stage managers, lighting specialists, sound engineers, stage hands and follow spot operators to fill technical positions.

"We're looking for versatile Broadway-type performers who can sing, dance, and play all of the types of music we have here at Opryland—everything from rock to riverboat, Dixieland to folk," said Bob Whitaker, director of live entertainment. More information on the auditions can be obtained from the Opryland Live Entertainment Department, P.O. Box 2138, Nashville, Tenn., 37214, or by calling (615) 889-6800.

Folk-rock guitarist to play here Thursday

New York folk-rock guitarist Cliff Eberhardt will perform in the Big Muddy Room from 8 to 11 p.m. Thursday.

Eberhardt previously played backup to the "Earl Scruggs Review" and such performers as Shawn Phillips and David Bromberg. He is now touring colleges.

Theater opens to show old movies

By Jim Crocker

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Are you one of those poor souls who cannot get enough of Bogie? Or Gable? Or Cagney, Astaire, Harlow, Colbert, or even Harpo, Chico, and Groucho?

If these names stoke a warm fire in your viewing heart, then you probably belong to a mystical organization that Pauline Kael once entitled "F.O.O.F.s" - Friends of Old Films. And Carbondale F.O.O.F.s have reason to raise their eyebrows this week because the grand opening of "See It Again" has arrived.

Located on Freeman Street in the Campus Shopping Center, "See It Again" is a tiny, 90-seat movie house dedicated to the showing of popular American films made in the thirties, forties, and fifties. The accent is primarily Hollywood and the allure is definitely one of entertainment.

"It's for people who don't like the movies they're showing today," states Fred Kisak. The prime motivator behind "See It Again's" evolution, Kisak owns and operates the enterprise, screening his programs every night at 7:30 and 10.

Kisak, a graduate of SIU, maintains that people are "sick and tired" of the violence, sex, bloodletting, and depressingness of contemporary films. He strongly believes in film as entertainment. "Film is a fantasy," he states, adding that people want to be entertained, to fantasize when they go to a show and not re-experience the reality of their everyday lives.

Due to legal restrictions, the only way Kisak could open See It Again was to set it up as a cine-club with his viewers as subscribing members. No one can simply walk in off the street and see a film. They must have a membership card in hand, he said.

"I'm not allowed a marquee," he adds, somewhat ruefully. Nor is he allowed to submit any form of paid advertising for his films, but each member receives a monthly bulletin called "The Eye," which includes the various titles, dates, and brief program notes for the films to be shown that month.

To become a member, one must fill out an application form, available at the See It Again box office. The office is open most afternoons and every evening. After paying a $1 membership fee, applicants will receive their membership cards through the mail. Mailing is necessary due to a film distributor restriction.

"If the people are from the Carbondale area, they usually receive their card the very next day," Kisak said. The membership is valid for one year.

As a member, the viewer pays $1.50 at the door for each film and members are allowed to bring one guest to the showing. Admission for a guest is $1.75.

Programs consist of one feature film, a newsreel from the year the film was made, and an episode from a Flash Gordon serial. Programs change every Sunday.

"People are very excited," Kisak said. "Memberships are coming in from all over Southern Illinois." He presently has about 300 members.

The grand opening shows are two Humphrey Bogart classics, the first film deals with Bogie as a captain who loses control of his ship partly because of a bowl of strawberries. Next week's film features Bogie, Ingrid Bergman and Sam, the musician. If you cannot immediately tell the titles of these two films, you cannot, with honor, refer to yourself as a F.O.O.F.

City to review traffic problem

By Terri Bradford
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Plans for relieving traffic congestion at the intersection of Wall Street and Grand Avenue will be reviewed in a Feb. 19 meeting of Carbondale engineers and city and university officials.

Possible solutions to the traffic problems have been under study for the past several months. At the February meeting, officials will decide if the proposed plans are feasible and worth further investigation.

"The city tentatively plans to extend the four-lane highway on Wall Street from Hester Street to Pleasant Hill Road," remarked Bill Boyd, public works director. Alternative plans include improving Grand Street from Wall Street to Highway 51; developing Freeman Street to Park Street; building a Mill and Hester underpass; or closing off Grand Ave.

"The city is currently attempting to keep the maximum amount of traffic flowing between Wall and Illinois and Washington and Illinois Streets. This move should help ease pressure from Pleasant Hill Road," Boyd said.

"The city and University will attempt to keep Grand handling the maximum amount of traffic about 8,000 cars per day until Hester Street can be further extended," he continued. "However, I think to blindly close Grand would be a mistake, as the move could overload streets already overloaded, such as Main, Illinois and Pleasant Hill Road. Such a move would also increase traffic in the Lincoln Junior High School area, which is already coping with a pedestrian traffic density problem."

Boyd said traffic blockages at the railroad tracks greatly compound the city traffic problem as the railroad forms a natural barrier through the community. No immediate solutions are available, as all plans under consideration will take a great deal of time and money, he added.

"Besides a Wall Street extension, the city has recommended that traffic signals be installed at the Grand and Wall intersection," noted Clarence G. Dougherty of the SIU staff. The university is now at the stage of identifying project expenses. If a feasible plan is accepted by all agencies involved in decision-making processes, costs will be divided between the city and SIU."

Something must be done to help reduce the tremendous amount of university traffic, particularly heading east in the late afternoon," Dougherty said. At least a portion of this traffic should be moved in another direction."

Formal proposals for the project were designed by E. M. Webb and Associates of Carbondale consulting engineers.

Weekend trip planned for Atlanta

A night life party trip to Atlanta, Ga. is scheduled for SIU students, Feb. 14-16.

The activity is the first of what could possibly be a continuing program as proposed by Nancy Harris, acting assistant dean of student life for student activities.

The student travel program plans to provide weekends of activities for students for under $200 per weekend.

trip can sign up in the Student Activities Office. Forms will also be distributed in the residence halls.

Other trips that are now tentatively scheduled are a raft trip through the Ozarks in April, a bus trip to the Kentucky Derby, a weekend in Las Vegas, Easter weekend in New Orleans and an "alternative to Florida" for spring break, possibly Hawaii, Mexico City or the Bahamas.

the "package deals" to include a trip to the Olympics and the Indianapolis 500.

Harris has asked the Student Government Activities Council to get students together to act as an advisory group and help plan the trips. Those interested should contact Harris in the Student Activities Office on the third floor of the Student Center.

Interested students should sign up for the Atlanta trip on the first floor of the Student Center or the Student Activities Office.

City delays pact for county jail use

The City Council has postponed action on a contract for use of the Jackson County jail because of questions about liability for prisoners and the method of payment the county proposed.

The county jail is being used by the city because the new police headquarters in the former University City housing complex at 609 E. College lacks facilities for holding prisoners for more than a day.

Terms of an agreement between the city and county have not been agreed upon, however, and the council has sent a proposed contract back to the county board for review.

City Attorney John Womick objected to a provision which would leave the county free of any liability for the city's prisoners except for mistreatment by county officers or employees.

Finance Director Paul Sorgen objected to a provision for an itemized bill to be presented by the county seven days after the end of the month and calling for the city to pay by the 10th of the month. He said the city could not pay on that schedule.

City officials had no objection to the fees proposed—$4 for booking and $6 per day for feeding and holding each prisoner. The city would be responsible for medical care for its prisoners.

Health Service to get disabled student vans

Van transportation services for disabled students will be operated for a six-month trial period by the SIU Health Service, said Sam McVay, Health Service director. The vans were formerly operated by the office of Specialized Student Services.

"If the students are happy and if the service doesn't drain our funds, we'll take over the operation permanently," McVay said. The unit will operate out of Health Service's ambulance station at 908 S. Elizabeth.

The Health Service plans to install special safety features in the vans as well as a two-way radio system and dispatcher. Safety features will include harnesses and bolts to secure wheelchairs to the baseboard of the vans, McVay said. Van capacity will also be doubled to two passengers per trip.

Two vans equipped with hydraulic lifts now serve approximately 30 disabled students.

Ronald Blosser, graduate assistant in Specialized Student Services, said, "The Health Service should be able to operate the vans more efficiently and effectively." Another reason for transferring the vans to Health Service was its willingness to install the two-way radio system, Blosser said.

The Health Service may add other functions to the van service such as providing transportation for outdoor activities planned by disabled students, McVay said. "But we'll try not to do anything new until we've learned what was done in the past."

The primary purpose of the van service is "getting disabled students back and forth to class," McVay said.

Police report explosion at local restaurant

An explosive device damaged an outside speaker Tuesday evening at the Burger King Restaurant, 901 W. Main St., Carbondale police said.

Mario Koch, manager of the restaurant, reported that someone threw an explosive at the speaker and damaged it. There were no injuries. Police said the type of device is unknown. There was $50 worth of damage reported.

Randy Gorelich, 20, Brookside Manor Apartment, 1200 E. Grand Ave., reported Tuesday evening that someone stole his car while it was parked on South Illinois Avenue. It is a brown Chevrolet, Illinois license OY 4006.

Michael Donahue was arrested Tuesday evening for allegedly threatening employees of Merlin's Bar, 315 S. Illinois Ave. with a pool cue. He was taken to Jackson County Jail and charged with disorderly conduct and will appear in city court.

Beg your pardon

Persons receiving parking tickets have five business days, not 14, to report to Parking Division after the issuance of the ticket. The Parking Division will supply the necessary forms and a copy of hearing procedures. The individual will then have 14 days in which to appear for the hearing. The information was given incorrectly in Wednesday's Daily Egyptian.

Resident physicians working for the new gynecology program will be supervised by Dr. Allen G. Bennett, clinical associate of the SIU School of Medicine.

Donald P. Satchell, associate professor of plant and soil science, was identified incorrectly in Wednesday's Daily Egyptian. He is Southern Illinois' first representative to the Illinois Pollution Control Board.

Waiting for the "King"

South Illinois business granted liquor license

The Liquor Control Commission met this week and voted without much discussion to grant the Silver Ball Corporation a Class B liquor license allowing beer sales at the New Downstairs Arcade, 611 S. Illinois Ave.; transfer ownership of The Club at 408 S. Illinois Ave. from D.J.I., Inc. to Derich-Making, Inc.; transfer a Class A liquor license, which allows hard liquor to be sold, from N and M Enterprises, Inc., to K.I.L. Inc., the Kings Inn Lounge at 825 E. Main St.

Chief of Police George Kennedy said he was against issuing more liquor licenses in the South Illinois Avenue area because of crowd problems and said since the New Downstairs Arcade is open to minors, he would be keeping a closer eye on it.

Albert King to appear

Albert King will bring the sound of his penetrating blues guitar to Shryock Auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday evening.

Lee Tews, chairperson of the SGAC Cultural Affairs Committee, said that King, B.B. King's younger brother, and his seven-piece blues band will be the first SGAC sponsored concert of this semester. King is a native of St. Louis and a 20-year veteran of the blues circuit.

The concert will begin with John Taylor's Alien Gang, a local band featuring a musical blend of jazz, blues, and soul.

Tickets for the concert are $2.50 at the door and the Student Center Ticket Office.

Cuban education combines book learning with practice

HAVANA (AP)—The door to the side room of an old cigar factory had been left ajar, and a small knot of children could be seen preparing boxes of cigars for export.

"It's part of our education system," a Cuban tobacco official explained. "They are helping and learning."

The children, elementary school pupils about 9 to 11 years old, were examples of the unique Cuban educational system of combining studies with physical work.

The system, started in 1967, applies to all schools, including the island's four universities.

Younger children do simple factory chores, but those in secondary schools are shipped to the countryside for 30 to 45 days every year. There they study four hours a day and work for another four, harvesting sugar cane and coffee, or performing other farm tasks.

The Cubans say the idea is to produce well-rounded citizens capable of manual labor. But the system also provides extra hands for an economy that urgently needs more production.

Says Prime Minister Fidel Castro, "This helps to temper them from early childhood in the habits of creative work, without running the risk of possible deformation through the exclusive exercise of intellectual activity."

The study-work idea in Cuba started with Jose Marti, the 1895 war-of-independence revolutionary, revered as a national hero. He proposed that all students work one-half of each day in school and the other half in fields or factories so they would understand the life of a worker.

One example of the system is found at Havana's 1,639-pupil U.S.S.R.-Cuba technical school, so named because the Soviet Union equipped the school and trained the instructors.

The students, mainly boys 14 to 17 years old, learn how to melt metal and to mould it into machine parts. They are taught how to cast, melt, grind and to operate a lathe.

Girls work in Laboratories, learning to operate testing equipment for metals and machine parts.

The parts, produced while learning, are sent to factories that make machinery. The students themselves spend part of their time working inside the factories.

The school also teaches language, culture, sports, political philosophy and ordinary school subjects.

Hypertension tendency starts early, doctors say

TUSCON, Ariz. (AP)—High blood pressure, a major killer disease, tends to run in families and there are indications the tendency can begin soon after birth, Harvard University researchers find.

They now are studying a group of children from birth through their first years, seeking to learn what establishes family trends in blood pressure, Dr. Edward H. Kass said.

He and associates hope to "find leads into the earliest time when the child enters a blood pressure track that seems destined, on the whole, to operate for the remainder of the child's life."

Perhaps "the cause or causes of an initial rise in blood pressure can be discovered this way," and if the causes are something in the environment or life style then they might be corrected or controlled, he told an American Heart Association Science Writers Forum.

One biochemical clue being investigated is an enzyme or chemical controlled called Kallikrein, Kass said. People, including children, with elevated blood pressure, have less of this enzyme than people with normal pressure. Kallikrein acts to dilate blood vessels, thus reducing resistance to blood flow. It can be detected in urine.

Some 24 million Americans are believed to have elevated blood pressure or hypertension, with most not aware of it because they have no evident symptoms. Continued high blood pressure damages blood vessels, increasing the risk of heart attacks, strokes and kidney damage. Drugs can often but not always bring the pressure under control.

Chemistry proficiency Feb. 7

Proficiency examinations are being offered by the Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry for students wishing to proficiency GSA 106, Chem. 222A, and Chem 222B.

The exams are scheduled at 9 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 7 in Neckers 118C. The exams will last for two hours.

Anyone wishing to sign up for the exams should contact Linda Tate in Neckers 224C. 453-5721 before Feb. 4.

No materials or equipment are required for the exam but a slide rule and calculator is recommended for Chem. 222A and B.

'Urban pioneers' build town on island in New York area

NEW YORK (AP)—A few hundred urban pioneers have moved into their apartments on Roosevelt Island, a yet-to-be completed new town in the East River. They say they love the place even though it has no stores and the tramway to Manhattan doesn't work yet.

A splash away from Manhattan, the planned community on the island is technically part of the city, but its atmosphere is more suburban than cosmopolitan, except that dogs are banned.

The futuristic-looking town was erected in the middle of a 2-mile-long spit of land which New York City bought 150 years ago to house criminals, the sick, the poor and the insane.

Since April, about 200 families have moved into one of the four large apartment buildings along narrow Main Street, which winds darkly through the town. Workmen are still more in evidence that residents.

The new families call themselves pioneers. They still have no stores on the island. Their main link to Manhattan, an aerial tramway, is now scheduled to open in late February after a six-month delay. Minibuses which shuttle them from the parking garage, where cars must be kept, to town a short distance away are not always reliable.

The newcomers are young couples who want space to raise their children, suburbanites tired of commuting long hours to the city and singles who want easy access to Manhattan proper but not its problems.

They think of Roosevelt Island as theirs, although they share the island with two hospitals, seven landmarks and the ruins of buildings from more disreputable days. They say they love its neighborly atmosphere, its feeling of safety, its open spaces, the picture postcard view of the Manhattan skyline and the novelty of watching river traffic churn by.

"We are very conscious of trying to build a community rather than little holes in buildings where people come to sleep," said Alice Jurow, one of the first tenants to move in.

In nine months, the new arrivals have formed a residents association and drafted a constitution, grown vegetables in a community garden, raised money at a Halloween flea market, treated themselves to an ethnic food buffet dinner, held an ecumenical Thanksgiving Eve service and organized a New Year's Eve party.

Tenants wear T-shirts that say "Manhattan's other island" and describe an atmosphere that is so friendly and full of activity that their apartment building seems more like a dormitory and their town like a camp.

The Rev. John McCarthy, who said mass last summer for five families in an apartment, says his new parish has grown to about 65. The Jewish community has a part-time rabbi and hopes to have religious instruction for the children soon. The school is open, and the Chapel of the Good Shepherd, a 19th century structure incongruously located between two of the new high rise apartments, has been dedicated as an ecumenical center.

Mini courses offered by Computing Division

The Academic Computing Division of the Information Processing Center is offering a series of short courses on computers for students and faculty interested in computers and computer programming.

Courses to be offered during spring semester will be Introduction to Computing Facilities, Introduction to Job Control Language, Introduction to "BASIC", Introduction to SPSS, Introduction to BMD, Introduction to Interactive Computing, Intermediate SPSS, Introduction to IBM Data Set Utility Programs, and Keypunch Unit Record Operation.

William E. Wright, assistant professor of computer science and information processing, said the courses are designed to be a compromise between the individualistic approach of studying technical manuals and the very guided approach of a formal course.

"The courses attempt to provide a perspective and strong foundation to facilitate further experience and study on an individual basis," said Wright. He said some instructors might encourage students to take a short course as a supplement to a full semester course.

The courses are free and anyone interested in registering should contact the secretary at Academic Computing, 2034 Faner Hall, 536-2323.

Wright said approximately 650 people enrolled in the short courses last semester.

Sexuality workshops offer education, communication

A series of workshops designed to deal with human sexuality as a dynamic part of the entire life process will be offered spring semester, said Jim Perkins, director of Prevention and Health Maintenance Programs.

The workshops, which are open to the public, are sponsored by the SIU Counseling Center and Human Sexuality Services in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education.

All the workshops have the same general purpose of helping people "become comfortable with their own sexuality," Perkins said. "They are basically educational and personal growth experiences, they are not designed for therapy," he said.

The workshops will deal with increasing communication skills and explore alternative lifestyles. A major goal is to increase the understanding of the human sexual response and the role of sensuality in a relationship. Extensive use will be made of sexually explicit films, audio tapes and filmstrips, Perkins said.

Participants will discuss their own feelings during group discussions. The workshops offer "the opportunity to be exposed to a variety of ideas," he said.

The "Sexual and Sensual Enrichment Workshop for Couples" is open to "anybody that has an ongoing relationship," Perkins said.

The workshop for couples will be Feb. 6 through Feb. 8 in the lounge of the Home Economics Building. Sessions will be held from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. Feb. 6; 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. Feb. 7 and 9 a.m. to noon on Feb. 8. Cost is $15 per couple. Enrollment is limited to 12 couples and the deadline for registration is Feb. 2.

A sexual awareness workshop will be held March 5 through March 7 in the lounge of the Home Economics Building. Major attention in the weekend workshop will be given to the areas of sensuality, masturbation, homosexual and heterosexual relationships. A $10 registration fee must be paid before March 2.

An Introduction to Sexuality for Men and an Introduction to Sexuality for Women are one day workshops focusing on the particular needs of each sex. Both workshops will be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. April 3. The men's workshop will be held at the Counseling Center and the women's workshop will be held at the Wesley Foundation. A fee of $3 is required. The deadline for registration is March 30.

Application forms are available at the Counseling Center, Washington Square A; Human Sexuality Services, 112 Small Group Housing and at the Division of Continuing Education, 222 Woody Hall-C Wing.

American tradition dies as small car sales rise

DETROIT (AP)—The American driving public, which grew up behind the wheel of a roomy full-size family auto, is now purchasing four-passenger cars over the big models by nearly a 2-1 margin.

Last year, 2.8 million persons bought subcompact cars or minicars—vehicles no bigger than a Ford Pinto or Chevrolet Vega. That represents about a third of all the new cars sold in this country, including imports, during 1975.

By contrast, just under 1.5 million persons bought standard six-passenger cars: Chevrolets, Fords, Plymouths, Buicks and other models of similar size which once were the backbone of the U.S. auto industry.

The meteoric growth of little cars is all the more remarkable considering Detroit didn't even build an auto to seat four or fewer persons until 1969, when the first of the subcompacts went on sale.

Now the American companies are rushing smaller-than-subcompact cars, called minicars, onto the market to meet a burgeoning demand for low prices and high gasoline mileage.

Minicar sales belonged exclusively to imports until General Motors introduced its Chevrolet Chevette last fall. The minicar sales jumped 40 per cent from 1974, to 711,000 last year, while over-all sales declined 3 per cent.

The little-car boom took off in 1973, when consumer worries about inflation and the subsequent Mideast oil embargo created an overnight demand for a size vehicle that Detroit used to call a fringe market.

"If you asked me two years ago if there was a market for minicars in this country, I'd have said 'forget it,'" one industry analyst said. "Now the industry is selling close to one minicar for every two full-size cars. That's unbelievable."

The minicar market now includes the Datsun B-210, Toyota Corolla, Honda Civic, Fiat 128, Chevette and Volkswagen Rabbit, among others. The field will continue to grow as Ford, Chrysler and several importers join the minicar action.

A sales analyst for one Big Three company added: "The small-car growth here began with the arrival of small cars from abroad about three years ago."

"Now the very smallest of the smalls has become acceptable to the American public, particularly among city-suburban dwellers. It's just a reflection of the entire downsizing process in the industry."

The "downsizing" he referred to is Detroit's decision to reduce the size of its cars to improve their fuel economy. GM, for example, is redesigning its full-size cars for 1977 to make them 700 to 1,000 pounds lighter and more than a foot shorter. GM's intermediates get trimmed in 1978 and the company's compacts get a facelift in 1979.

Petitions to change 'dry' area to 'wet' ruled invalid by judge

Jackson County Circuit Judge Peyton Kuncze Wednesday ruled invalid petitions that would allow alcoholic beverages to be sold in the University Mall area.

The area where the mall is located, on Rt. 13 between the J.C. Penney store and the Carbondale Post Office, is a "dry" area which was annexed to Carbondale, which is "wet." The petitions were filed to change the status of the area.

Kuncze ruled the petitions invalid because he said they do not meet legal requirements since they were not filed by legal voters residing in the annexed area.

Two Carbondale men, Thomas K. and W. Stephen Hoffmann, filed objections to the petitions in Jackson County Circuit Court. Kuncze denied their request for a permanent injunction to prevent future change in the status of the annexed area.

Campus Briefs

The John A. Logan College Cultural Arts Program will present a one-day exhibit and sale of original graphics from 2 to 8 p.m. Jan. 29 in the college's student center lounge. The exhibit will include works of artists from around the world from 1450 to the present.

John H. Wotiz, professor of chemistry and biochemistry, will preside at a symposium concerned with problems encountered in training foreign chemists in the United States. The symposium is part of the American Chemical Society's centennial meeting. Wotiz has also been awarded a $3,125 grant by the Petroleum Research Foundation to defray part of the travel expenses of educators who attend the conference and to cover costs of publishing symposium papers.

A Bicentennial exhibit featuring documents of American presidents from Washington to Kennedy is on display in the special collections room of Morris Library. University archivist Kenneth Duckett and his staff compiled the documents which include original letters, pictures and broadsides (posters with the emphasis on text) of America's first 35 presidents. The display will be on exhibit through spring semester. The special collections room is open to the public from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Harry G. Miller, associate professor of educational administration and foundations, and Jack Huck, assistant professor of occupational education, have received an $11,000 grant from the Illinois Division of Vocational and Technical Education to prepare a series of workshops to acquaint vocational educators with new techniques for teaching adult learners.

Cooperative dinners will be held at the Wesley Foundation, 816 S. Illinois Ave., at 5:30 p.m. Sundays beginning Jan. 25. Participants will help prepare the meal and make plans for the next meal. The first meal is free; thereafter the cost will be divided equally among participants.

Walter L. Kent has been promoted from production manager to assistant director for marketing of the SIU Press. Kent will be in charge of marketing activities, including advertising, promotion and business affairs.

Helmut Liedloff, professor of foreign languages and literature, attended the annual convention of the Modern Language Association held Nov. 26 to 30 in San Francisco. He presented a paper entitled "Teaching Cross-Cultural Differences Through a Lexical Focus."

Charles Swedlund, associate professor of cinema and photography, recently presented a five-day workshop on the "Reconstruction of Color with Kwik-Proof Pigments" at the Maryland Institute College of Art in Baltimore. He also presented two lectures at the workshop.

Ram P. Tewari, professor in the SIU School of Medicine's Department of Medical Sciences, will present a graduate seminar on "Immunogenicity of Ribosomal Preparation From H. Influenza" at 11 a.m. Friday in Lawson Hall, Room 131. The seminar is sponsored by the Department of Microbiology.

Dempsey adds two coaches to coordinate offense, defense

Ray Dempsey, named SIU's head football coach Dec. 30 by athletic director Doug Weaver, has announced the addition of two assistants to his staff.

Jim Vechiarella and Joel Spiker, former members of Ray Dempsey's staff at Youngstown State, will join Dempsey on the football staff at SIU.

Vechiarella, 38, will serve as defensive line coach and defensive coordinator. The 34 year-old Spiker will coach the offensive backs and will be offensive co-ordinator.

"We have coached together before and have worked well together," said Dempsey. "They are highly competent and are knowledgeable about football. And they are outstanding recruiters."

Vechiarella and Spiker join offensive line coach Bill Dodd, linebacker coach Bob Hailey, and secondary coach Rich Solomon—holders from Doug Weaver's staff last fall—to complete Dempsey's staff.

Vechiarella coached with the Charlotte Hornets of the World Football League last year after spending 10 years as an assistant coach at Youngstown State. He was defensive coordinator at Youngstown his last nine years that, including the 1973-74 seasons when Dempsey was the Penguins' head coach.

An all-Ohio star at Youngstown

High, Vechiarella was a four-year letterman at center and linebacker at Youngstown State and was an Associated Press Little All-America selection at center in 1958.

After graduation from Youngstown State in 1959, he was an assistant coach at Poland High School in Ohio for three seasons and an assistant at Youngstown Rayen High for three years.

Vechiarella's defensive units were characterized by hard-hitting teams which forced opponents into mistakes. In 1974, Youngstown State had its best record (8-1) in history as the defense came up with 21 interceptions, 16 fumble recoveries and 17 quarterback sacks.

Spiker comes to SIU from Lally High School in Naples, Fla. where he was director of athletics for almost two years. He has seven years of experience as an assistant under Dempsey.

A native of Dover, Ohio, Spiker was a four-year letterman at Ohio Northern University and has his master's degree from the University of Akron.

Dr. J leads ABA squad

NEW YORK (AP)—Julius Erving of the New York Nets was a unanimous choice for his fifth straight appearance in the American Basketball Association's All-Star Game, the league announced.

Under its new seven-team format, the All-Star Game this year will pit the first-place Denver Nuggets against a team selected from the rest of the league Jan. 27 at Denver.

Erving, the ABA scoring leader, and Kentucky Center Artis Gilmore, the league's leading rebounder, were the only two unanimous choices.

Also chosen to start for the All-Stars were guards James Silas of San Antonio and Brian Taylor of New York, and forward Billy Knight of Indiana.

Also on the squad will be forward Marvin Barnes of St. Louis, center Billy Paultz of San Antonio, forward-center Maurice Lucas of Larry Kenon of San Antonio and guards Ron Boone of St. Louis, George Gervin of San Antonio and Don Buse of Indiana.

SIU-Tulsa cage tickets on sale

Tickets are now on sale for Saturday's SIU game with Tulsa University. The tickets are priced at 50 cents for students with a spring fee statement. Students who have already purchased athletic event tickets will be admitted free for the 7:35 p.m. game.

The Arena ticket office is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tickets may also be purchased prior to the game at the main entrance of the Arena.

SIU defeated Tulsa, a Missouri Valley member, earlier this year 63-62.

Forms available for IM swimming, diving competition

Entry forms are available for the coed intramural swimming and diving meet to be held at 2 p.m. Jan. 31 at Pulliam Pool.

Deadline for signing up for the meet, which is open to all students except varsity swimmers, is 1 p.m. Jan. 20. Entry forms are available in the Office of Recreation and Intramurals in Arena Room 128 and at the Women's Intramural Office in Davies Gym Room 205.

Individual and team trophies will be given to the first place finishers in the meet.

IM mini-soccer managers to meet

The meeting for intramural indoor mini-soccer managers will be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Morris Library Auditorium.

All team rosters must be submitted at the meeting. Blank rosters may be obtained at the Office of Recreation and Intramurals in Arena Room 128.

Hoosiers still on top

By The Associated Press

Indiana's Hoosiers strengthened their hold on the No. 1 spot while defending national champion UCLA moved up two spots from eighth to sixth in the major college basketball rankings.

The Hoosiers won easily over two Big Ten opponents last week—Michigan State, 69-57, and Illinois, 85-55—and claimed 62 first places on the 63 ballots cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. The 14-0 Hoosiers, one of only three ranked teams that remained unbeaten, collected 1,258 points in balloting.

Maryland, Marquette and Nevada-Las Vegas continued to hold down the second through fourth ratings, while North Carolina moved from seventh last week to fifth.

Maryland, 13-1, got 1,033 points; Marquette, 11-1, received 952, and Nevada-Las Vegas, 18-0 and the recipient of the only other first-place vote, had 816 points.

North Carolina moved into the spot vacated by the sporadic Deacons of Wake Forest, who lost a pair last week to Clemson and North Carolina and dropped all the way to 14th.

UCLA, 13-2, took over the sixth spot vacated by Pacific-8 rival Washington, which dropped to eighth after losing to Oregon State last week. It was Oregon State that beat the Bruins the week before and bumped them to eighth.

Rutgers was seventh, moving up from 10th last week, after rolling over Columbia and Bucknell. The Scarlet Knights, 13-0, are the third of the nation's Top 20 without a loss.

Washington, 14-1 after its 72-70 loss to Oregon State, edged St. John's, 13-1 and 12th last week, for eighth. Tennessee, 12-2, slipped from ninth to 10th after a tough Southeast Conference loss to Vanderbilt.

North Carolina State, 12-2, moved up from 13th to 11th after a stunning 66-67 upset of Atlantic Coast Conference rival North Carolina Sunday.

Alabama, 11-2, fell from 11th to 12th this week after a 71-70 loss to Florida; Oregon State, 11-4, climbed all the way from 17th to 13th; Wake Forest, 11-3, was 14th, and Notre Dame, 9-3, remained 15th.

Rounding out the Top 20 were Cincinnati, 13-2; Michigan, 11-3, 16th last week; Missouri, 13-2; West Texas State, 12-1, and newcomer Virginia Tech, 12-2.

Hot Salukis scorch Billikens

By Dave Weczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Great defense will win a lot of basketball games, but a blistering offense can't hurt.

The Salukis combined both Wednesday night for an 80-51 victory over the St. Louis Billikens. It was SIU's ninth win of the year against six losses. St. Louis dropped to 8-7.

Coach Paul Lambert's young team showed some real signs of maturity on both offense and defense. Offensively SIU's sharpshooters couldn't miss. Defensively the Salukis wouldn't even give St. Louis a freethrow. In the first seven minutes of the second half, the Billikens scored only four points.

They didn't have to worry about the Billikens' tar offensive weapon Lewis McKinney. Corky Abrams had McKinney totally confused and St. Louis coach Randy Albrecht had McKinney on the bench early. McKinney sat out much of the second half and finished with six points, 15 below his average.

If the Salukis were overpowering on defense, they were devastating on offense. It was the best team effort of the year. Everyone took turns scoring and assisting. Their slick passing and awesome shooting gave SIU a 32-point lead with just over five minutes remaining in the game.

Once again, the team was led in scoring by Mike Glenn, who becomes more magical with every game. He hit on nine of 14 field goals for 18 points.

Glenn had plenty of help in the early going. St. Louis had no luck in stopping Mel Hughlett and Corky Abrams' inside game in the first half. Hughlett hit 14 points for the game matching his best offensive showing of the year.

It was part of the kiddie corp that took over in the second half. Gary Wilson was grabbing every rebound in sight, ending up with 14, 10 of those defensive. He also contributed two tremendous tip-ins of missed shots off SIU's fastbreak.

SIU's 23rd home victory in a row was characterized by a heavier emphasis on the running game. Lambert has not been able to get his squad running because of injuries but the team looked healthy, something it hasn't been in several weeks.

For almost 15 minutes of the opening half, the Salukis played near-flawless basketball. The Billikens seemed to be standing around watching the SIU offense work to perfection.

Hughlett and Abrams were like a two-man demolition team. In the first 11 minutes, they repeatedly set each other up for easy buckets underneath the basket, as they combined for 17 points. The Salukis led 43-30 at the half.

When the defense started dropping off to stop the Saluki inside game, Glenn began pouring points in from the outside. The smooth Glenn shot the eye out of the basket from every spot on the floor. He hit several 15-footers from just to the left of the freethrow line, which is quickly becoming his favorite spot.

SIU shot as well as it ever has in the first half. The Salukis burned the nets for a .677 field goal percentage in the opening period. Glenn, who led all scorers in that period with 14, was seven of 10 from the field. Hughlett was five of six for 10 points and Abrams missed one of five shots for nine points.

Albrecht began substituting early, sometimes two and three players at a time, in hopes of finding the right combination to stop the Salukis, who hit their first seven shots and first 10 of 11.

The Salukis return to Valley action Saturday when they host the Tulsa Hurricane at 7:30 p.m. in the Arena. SIU beat Tulsa 63-62 in their first meeting earlier this year.

Soviets favored to take gold in Olympic hockey

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — The Soviets are overwhelming favorites to win their fourth straight Olympic ice hockey gold medal at the Innsbruck Games. Czechoslovakia is a solid choice for the silver and the surprising United States team is a contender for the bronze.

Led by Goalie Vladislav Tretiak, the superbly conditioned Russians, most of them just returned from a touring series against National Hockey League teams, are virtually certain of preserving their string of Winter Olympics championships that date to 1964.

Tuning up for Innsbruck, two Moscow clubs comprised of Soviet Olympians compiled a 5-2-1 record in their series of games against eight NHL teams in early January. The Russians were tied by the Montreal Canadiens and lost to Stanley Cup runnerup Buffalo and Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia.

Only the Czechs, who were runners-up to the Soviets at last year's World Ice Hockey Tournament, seem capable of taking the gold medal from the Russians. But in pre-Olympic matches this season, the Czechs dropped three straight games to the Soviets.

With perennially strong Sweden and Canada not entered in the Olympic hockey tournament because their best players cannot meet amateur standards, the U.S. college all-star squad is expected to battle scrappy Finland for third place.

And, off past Olympic performances and a rigid training program, the U.S. team could conceivably even win the silver medal.

National anthem overused at sports events

By Scott Burnside
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Yesterday one of the athletic department officials was searching for a phonograph record of the "Star Spangled Banner." Evidently the old one had worn out or disintegrated into patriotic dust.

Now it isn't a bad idea to replace the old record, but it would be an even better idea to do away with the idea of playing it before every game and sporting event.

Now, before the Sons of the Pioneers storm the sports office in search of the communist influence which has penetrated the sports office, let me say that I revere our national song.

What irks my soul is the abusement of the "Star Spangled Banner" by playing it every time a ball is thrown up or 22 men in uniform file onto a football field.

Nobody, with the exception of a commendable few, pays attention to the song. Everybody just stands up just because it's a habit, like buying popcorn at a movie or automatically downgrading the Saluki football team.

A better plan would be to save the song for special occasions when it would mean something both to the participants and the spectators. Such occasions could be the opening of the season, championship games and of course, the international events.

Absence not only makes the heart grow fonder, but it would also enable sports fans to re-capture some semblance of feeling for their national anthem.

A gentlemen, who happens to be the president of the Long Beach State University, Stephen Horn, would like to see major football powers share some of their wealth with the smaller schools and colleges. Many schools such as Notre Dame and Ohio State receive thousands of dollars from television revenue and major bowl proceeds.

Horn wants this wealth spread around to the schools having trouble fielding a fully equipped fencing teams.

Naturally or maybe even unnaturally, this idea was received by certain universities at the NCCA Convent as something akin to requiring football squads stock their backfields with females.

At first glance it would seem like a reasonable request. At a time when the economic pinch is hurting practically every institution including athletic programs, extra monies for small college programs would be beneficial.

This financial boost would help these weak programs, which would in turn help boost sports in all directions.

Amid a flurry of arms SIU forward Corky Abrams drives for the bucket. Lamont Turner hacks Abrams from the front while Roland Martin gets him from the back. Abrams made nine points in the 80-51 runaway Wednesday night at the Arena. Abrams had four rebounds and four assists. (Staff photo by Bob Ringham)
