President’s mansion no pipe dream

Even the $1 million mansion of SIU President Warren Brandt cannot escape the wrath of the severe cold weather troubles that have hit Carbon-dale.

The pipes burst in Brandt’s home last Wednesday, sending plumbers, carpenters, and supervisors to repair the break.

About seven maintenance men spent more than 40 man hours mopping up the water, cleaning a dirtied carpet, breaking through a wall to get at the pipe and fixing the leak—all at a cost of less than $200, Harrell Lerch, superintendent of building maintenance said Tuesday.

But Brandt, his wife, Esther, and a Great Dane, Darla, did not suffer through the watery ordeal, because the presidential family is still traveling in the Orient. The Brandt’s are expected back today.

Part of the trip will be paid for by Brandt as vacation time and part will be charged to SIU as a business ex-

Slightly warmer weather expected

The weatherman says it’s supposed to warm up Wednesday, but, you may not notice it. And because of the cold weather and the natural gas shortage, it may be a while before the campus returns to normal.

The weather prediction for the next few days calls for slightly warmer temperatures, Ed Biewald, weather observer at Southern Illinois Airport, said Tuesday. Tuesday’s high temperature was only nine degrees, with a low temperature of one degree below zero.

Partly sunny skies were predicted for Wednesday with a high near 15 degrees. Winds were expected to be 10 to 15 miles per hour with a low near zero.

The temperature will be near 20 degrees Thursday and Friday, Biewald said, with a chance of snow Thursday night.

Many area schools, including Carbondale public schools, have closed because of the cold weather and natural gas shortages, but SIU will be open although many campus offices and classes have had to make adjustments.

All Washington Square offices have been closed with the exception of the Security Police and Parking Divisions. University Housing has temporarily moved to Truthblood Hall.

The School of Technical Careers plans to hold classes as usual, but the dean has asked students to wear warm clothing. The Dental Hygiene Lab has suspended activity until Monday, but Aviation Technology classes will meet as usual.

The SIU Foundation, University Graphics and Campus Mail Service will be open as usual. Personnel services will remain open but has moved across the street to Employment Services temporarily. The Design Department will hold classes in the south end of the blue barracks.

Jennie Jones, assistant professor in child and family, announced Tuesday the Child Horizon Day Care Center at Southern Hills will be closed indefinitely. Her only advice to students with children is that high school students might be available to babysit since local schools are closed.

A spokesman for Central Illinois Public Service Company (CIPS) said the company was able to save two million cubic feet of gas Monday because industries, businesses and schools cooperated with their requests to conserve.

The gas saved was enough to heat approximately 2,000 homes. Texas Eastern Pipeline Co. delivers 1.4 million cubic feet of natural gas per day to CIPS.

Eight Carter cabinet appointments OK’d

By Walter R. Mears

WASHINGTON (AP) — Returning to ranks after the controversy that killed one of President-elect Carter’s nominations, Senate committees approved on Tuesday the appointments of eight top administration officials.

That cleared the way for Senate confirmation to put them in office soon after Carter is inaugurated on Friday.

Three Cabinet nominees have yet to be approved, but only one of them, Andy Warhol, is likely to be confirmed.

The others are virtually assured of confirmation to join the Carter team.

The Senate Judiciary Committee scheduled more hearings Wednesday to be followed by a vote in the afternoon.

Bell, too, is virtually assured of confirmation to join the Carter team.

The Senate Judiciary Committee scheduled more hearings Wednesday to be followed by a vote in the afternoon.

Bell’s confirmation hearings already have lasted five days.

Bell has been challenged over his civil rights record, which he insists cast him as a Southern moderate when there weren’t many to be found, and over his membership in Atlanta clubs which do not accept black or women members. He said his letters of resignation went to the clubs on Tuesday.

The blocked nomination was that of Theodore C. Sorenson, who withdrew on Monday rather than risk defeat or narrow approval to be director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Carter said he would announce a new choice sometime after the inauguration.

The balance of the confirmation process went smoothly, with only ripples of disagreement, as Senate panels endorsed appointments Carter cannot make of-officially until noon on Thursday.

When he does so, formal Senate confirmation will follow swiftly, probably within hours.

These were the endorsements produced by Tuesday’s confirmation proceedings:

—The Senate Finance Committee approved W. Michael Blumenthal, 51, former chairman of Bendix Corp., to be secretary of the treasury; and Joseph Califano, 45, a Washington lawyer and John Johnson administration aide, to be secretary of health, education and welfare.

—The Banking Committee cleared Carter’s choice of Patricia Roberts Harris, 52, a lawyer and former ambassador to Luxembourg, as secretary of housing and urban development.

—The Labor and Public Welfare Committee voted to advance F. Ray Marshall, 46, a University of Texas economist, as secretary of labor.

—The Interior Committee unanimously ratified the nomination of Wickersham, 49, to be secretary of the interior.

—Thomas B. Landy, 45, an Atlanta banker, was endorsed by the Government Operations Committee to take over as director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Senate row keeps Thompson busy

By Barry Hanson
Associated Press Writer

Substantive proposals seeking to reform Senate procedures and counterproposals were made but rejected Tuesday in the week-old squabble in the Illinois Senate over its presiding officer.

Gov. James R. Thompson, who by law presides over the Senate until a president is elected, said the 13-ballot stalemate is taking him away from other more pressing duties.

"It is now really beginning to impair me in the performance of my tasks," Thompson said Tuesday after seven more roll calls failed to produce the necessary 30 votes for one candidate.

The Senate decided to adjourn until Wednesday morning while the splintered Democrats continue to try to hammer out a compromise.

Commission guarantees liquor license to builder

By Scott Singleton
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Liquor Commission has said in an advance that it will issue a beer and wine license to a prospective restaurant builder if he fulfills all requirements.

"It's never happened before," Leon D. Wexler, a Carbondale city clerk, said Tuesday. Wexler, who is also secretary to the Liquor Advisory Board, said that to her knowledge, this is the first time the commission has guaranteed a license, contingent on all requirements being fulfilled, in advance of the building being built.

But John Womick, city attorney, said the commission's decision Monday night does not set a precedent. "It may start a trend for people asking for it, but it doesn't mean the commission will have to grant it," Womick said.

The Mid-South Pizza Corp. has proposed building a restaurant on East Main Street. George Twomey, attorney for Mid-South president Jack D. Harris, said at the CLC meeting, "The reason for us coming to you at this time primarily is because unless the board guarantees a license that a license will be issued if all the conditions are fulfilled, the people who don't want to invest this money will walk away."

On the Jan. 12 meeting of the Liquor Advisory Board, Twomey had asked the board to tell HuB that the CLC wants the guarantee to Harris. Womick had said Harris wanted the guarantee because he had a contract to buy land and construct the building.

The board agreed to tell the CLC that it had no initial objections to the proposed Pizza Inn, but that it would carefully review the application before approving it.

At the Monday night meeting, the CLC also approved a beer and wine license for Lawrence E. Anderson, operator of Pagliai's Pizza, 515 S. Illinois Ave.

Mayors suggest Ford 'recall' in four years

By Frances Lewine
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Ford said "maybe" when some Republican senators suggested Tuesday that he resign next month, but he stressed his Presidency is in no way in jeopardy.

"It's a good time for a change," said Jefferson. "I don't want to be saddled with that."

Frank Horton, vice president for public relations, said Monday that Ford was not commenting on Jefferson's resignation. Horton said there was no controversy concerning the resignation and that he would be sorry to see him go.

Horton said Jefferson would continue until a replacement is named.

Policeman dies at home of gun wound

By John Rebchuk

A Carbondale, Ill., police officer who was a former agent with the Southern Illinois Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG), was found Sunday afternoon dead at his home, according to the Daily Egyptian.

Fry told the City Council in September that Perk was identified as Branden, had been threatened by the MEG agents. Branden denied that he had ever been threatened or harassed. Branden left the police department after the incident without the chief's permission.

Fry and the MEG agents investigated the incident and never returned to the force.

Beg your pardon

John Reagan already does.

In an article on the closing of University of Illinois Daily Egyptian, the name of Frank Horton, vice president for public relations, was misspelled.

Reagan, who is the outgoing President, was written as "Ragon."
Icy isolation

Of Man Winter continues to plague the country, turning towns and cities into bitterly cold sanctuaries. Isolated in the snow's chilling vastness, two bundled, solitary figures brave the chilling weather while trudging along the semi-frozen Mississippi River and stepping down a glacial hill.

No cure in sight for the common cold

The Associated Press

It snowed in Florida and the Ohio River froze over at Cincinnati, where temperatures dipped to a record 28 below on Tuesday.

However, Board Chairman Ivan Elliott Jr. denies any illegality.

Robert Moore, chairman of the Water Navigation Board, announced the move Tuesday after consulting with the other 11 board members by telephone, a board spokesman said.

Ready for any weather emergency, the Army alerted 800 men of the 76th Engineer Battalion at Ft. Meade, Md., and it pressed 300 soldiers into service at the Capitol and along Pennsylvania Avenue to clear the way for Jimmy Carter's inauguration Thursday in Washington.

Using picks and other sharp implements, they were breaking up encrusted ice from the Capitol grounds and along the parade route so that city mow plows could take it away. The ice is left over from storms last week.

IllegaI board sessions charged

By Steve Lambert

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The faculty organization for Collective Bargaining (FOCB), which has been trying for five years to be recognized by the SIU Board of Trustees as the SIU-E faculty bargaining agent, has charged that the board has been holding unlawful closed executive meetings since February.

Robert Hildebrand, president of the FO lCB, said that since the act states closed meetings can occur in cases between public employers and their employees, it could be interpreted that both groups must be present.

Elliott, however, said although the law reads that closed meetings can occur in matters between public employers and employees, it does not specifically state the two groups must be present. Therefore, strictly speaking, the board was acting well within legal limits by barring the FOCB from the executive sessions.

Elliott said that both groups must be present.

Gandhi schedules March elections as emergency rule slackens in India

By Myrna L. Belkind

Associated Press Writer

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, declaring her "unshakable faith in the power of the people," announced Tuesday that parliamentary elections would take place in March as part of a major relaxation of her 19-month-old emergency rule.

"Let us go to the polls with the resolve to reaffirm the power of the people and to uphold the fair name of India as a democracy committed to the path of reconciliation, peace and progress," Mrs. Gandhi said in an eight-minute address to the nation.

The elections will be the first since Mrs. Gandhi proclaimed a state of emergency June 26, 1975 following her conviction on election fraud charges. She suspended civil liberties, jailed opposition leaders and imposed press censorship, and said the measures were needed to quell a "threat to internal stability."

The government previously had won parliament's approval to postpone elections until March 1978. They were originally set for last March at the end of the regular five-year term of the lower house of parliament.

Mrs. Gandhi's surprise announcement came three hours after the government freed her arch political foe, former Deputy Prime Minister Morarji Desai, and L. K. Advani, leader of the right-wing Hindu nationalist Jana Sangh party. About a dozen parliamentarians are still in jail, including the utility's Powerton Station near Pekin froze, slowing the generators while crews brought in the fuel to thaw.

Natural gas remained in short supply and utilities urged customers to conserve it as much as possible.

A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said ice had caused large traffic to slow in a virtual halt on sections of the Ohio, Mississippi and Illinois rivers though the rivers have not officially been closed to shipping. Many of the barges carry coal and oil for heating or salt for icy highways.

Meanwhile, thick ice and severe winter weather conditions have forced the temporary suspension of shipping on Lake Superior and the St. Mary's River.

Elliott said.

Rocky says bye, plans less active political life

By Mike Doan

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller bade farewell to the Senate, saying he never wanted his job but took it to help out during the Watergate turmoil.

"I came to this post, to which I had never aspired and had, indeed, foreseen, because of the constitutional crisis facing the country," he said Tuesday.

Rockefeller, 58, who succeeded Gerald R. Ford as vice president when Richard Nixon resigned as president, declared that "the ship of state is on course again and well prepared for the new captain and crew.

Sitting in the presiding officer's chair, Rockefeller told an attentive Senate audience: "For me, these past two unusual years, in all candor, cannot be said to have sorely tried either my talents or my stamina."

He drew laughter when he said, "I beguished to my successor two helpful memos of this office of high calling.

First, 'They also serve who merely sit and wait;' and second, 'Wait and want not.'"

Although Rockefeller's constitutional role as vice president is to preside over the Senate, he cannot speak to the Senate unless invited to do so. Such an invitation was extended by the Senate by an unanimous vote.

Rockefeller has said he now plans to withdraw from active involvement in the Republican party.

Self-improvement: super bowl
By Arthur Hoppe
The wonderful thing about us Americans is how we are constantly trying to improve ourselves to change our lives.
The only American I ever met who wasn’t trying nearly hard enough was Fred Frisco. Poor guy.
I hadn’t seen him in years so naturally when I ran into him at a cocktail party I asked him what he was into.
“Bowling,” he said.
“Oh, Zen bowling?” I said.
“That must be fascinating.”
“No, just plain bowling,” he said. “I used to be into lying around the house and watching tee-tee, but my wife said I had to make some order out of my life. And I worked. I now average 180 and don’t watch Baretta any more on account of Wednesdays in my bowling setup.”
“Frankly, Fred,” I said, “that’s pretty small potatoes. The best thing you can do is to develop the important self-improving, life-changing disciplines you might get into, pot throwing, TM, alpha wave control, Soft knitting, Scientological techniques, biofeedback, permanent wave control.”
“I know,” he said, “but I just couldn’t decide which one to get into. How was I to know whether yoga would improve me more and change my life, this or that?”
“You should try it and see,” I said patiently.

Time to recycle
By Bonnie Gamble
One of the minimum afh zinc may show an appreciable gain over the low consumption levels of 1976 and recycled paper consumption will continue to be staged.
The blame for the low consumption of recycled products rests with the average American’s unwillingness to take the can or old newspaper to the recycling center. He is in a bad position in order to get the same recyclable paper without the aid of recycling. He is therefore all alone and will have to purchase it at a price of recycled products higher than new materials.
Our vast use of nonrenewable resources gives us an indispensible reason for conservation, so the question of when, ought to be a self-evident.

One more to miss
Monday morning, Gary Gilmor became the first person to be executed in the United States by an order of the American judicial system in 10 years. Another convicted murderer, Jerry Jurek, is scheduled to be electrocuted Wednesday, and as far as I know, no one has really missed a death penalty. I certainly don’t like the fact that people evidently want to watch such a bizarre drama. I also wonder if the American public, or any other country, really wants to watch the gory spectacle. Or at least some people think they do.
I am not arguing the morality of the death penalty. I certainly don’t like the fact that Gilmor killed his wife. But what I like even less is being subjected to every detail of the whole thing.
Outside the Utah penitentiary on Monday, reporters were keeping the public up-to-date on the latest minute political going on, plus giving a countdown to execution time. On one news program, a reporter who was standing outside the wall of the prison said that when the execution took place, we should all be able to hear the five 30-30 rifles discharging. Terrific.

Wisdom: more than intellectual, it’s practical
In Bible times, two women came before King Solomon, each claiming to be the mother of the same baby. His name was Baby, and it all hatched in two, and gave half to each mother. His proposal immediately deserted the true mother, for she begged him not to kill the baby, whereas the false mother agreed to the idea. This is wisdom.

Thomas Edison, once asked a college-trained helper to find the cubic contents of a light bulb. The assistant, using a slide rule, tried but failed. Edison merely punched a hole in the end of the bulb, filled it with water, emptied it into a measuring cup and read the answer in two minutes. This, too, is wisdom.
But wisdom is always more that a mere knowlege of facts. A fellow might memorize a telephone directory, yet he cannot have a steady job or make wise choices in the simplest of problems.

The wonderful thing about us Americans is how we are constantly trying to improve ourselves to change our lives.
Textbook sex guidelines going too far

By James J. Kilpatrick

The elephants, you see, were wearing tutus. This is hard to explain. A tutu is a particular kind of skirt worn by ballet dancers, and the elephants, if you get the idea, were doing a ballet. This was in a textbook published by the Silver Burdette Company. The tutus made it evident that these particular elephants were female elephants, and, well, there is no way to get out of this paragraph.

The Silver Burdette people were trying to sell a textbook in California. To deduce from a recent account in the Washington Post, this was a children's arithmetic textbook. You will have to figure out for yourself how elephants, or mother-naked elephants for that matter, got in a children's arithmetic textbook, but there they were. A whole herd de ballet.

Members of the California textbook selection committee gazed upon the tutus and found them offensive. John H. Williamson, president of Silver Burdette, explained the difficulty in a speech last May. Certain women's organizations had reviewed the textbook. Some editors of Macmillan in defining "today's egalitarian standards." The Macmillan folks, if you recall, published by the Silver Burdette Company. The tutus were explained as a children's ballet.

"Inquiring About Technology." An illustration depicted father and son coming into the family kitchen from the garden. Father, in workshirt, was lugging a heavy bushel basket of tomatoes. Mother, in pretty dress and apron, was at the kitchen sink. Daughter was at the kitchen table, putting labels on jars of homemade pickles.

All this has changed. In the recently revised edition, mother is lugging the heavy basket of tomatoes. She is wearing a work shirt, hanging out over her jeans. Daughter also is carrying produce. Father, in apron, is at the sink. Son is at the table working on some vegetables. Same family, same farm, same kitchen, same balcony.

Who is kidding whom? Of course women are part of the labor force; of course women are active in the professions, in white-collar jobs, in blue-collar jobs, and everywhere. No rational person could object to textbook illustrations that fairly and reasonably depict these changes in American life.

But the zealots of unisex have so cowed the selection committees, and the paullistinumene editors of the publishing houses have so abdicated their function, that typical human relationships have been turned on their head. The day may come in the United States, as it came long ago in the Soviet Union when the roles of men and women in civilian life are in fact largely identical. But that day is not yet, and for all the whooping and hollering for women's rights, there is no convincing indication that the American people want it that way.

It is the tutu complaint that hoggles the mind. In a long life of observing classical ballet, I must have met 50 female elephants. Every one of them wore a tutu. I cannot recall an elephant ballerina who wore anything else. The choreographers would not have it otherwise. To strip them of their tutus may improve the self-image of California's girl children, but it won't do a thing for Swan Lake.

People like violence; sponsors know it

By Steve Hahn
Assistant Editorial Page Editor

Tegrim Medicated Shampoo, Burger King and Clorox Products sponsor the vast majority of the murders, rapes, muggings, assaults and violent car crashes witnessed by most Americans.

Aramid Radial Tires, IBM and Lipton Products tend to show us family dramas and The Man. Some of the non-violent shows are Bob Newhart, Mary Tyler Moore. Welcome Back Kotter and Chico and the Man.

All these ratings are fine and dandy. If the Citizens Committee hadn't done them, some other group would have. Numerous articles and studies have been done on the effect television and movie violence has on its viewers, with many conflicting conclusions as a result. In general, some people say the violence warps the minds of our children (the adults, presumably, are already warped) and others argue that if there is an effect it is both slight and temporary.

My unofficial, unsophisticated opinion is that it does neither. People like the violence and the sponsors know it—that's why they are sponsors. The viewers watch to be entertained and nothing more. And as far as warping minds, our big cities with their "real" violence are not all that much different from the drama of the tube.

No, I'm not against the violence, but against the self-righteous censors—the unwitting bookburner and the like. To their credit, the Citizens Committee does not fall into that category. They do not say, "This is good and this is bad.

By providing the names and addresses of the sponsors, the committee is instigating a needed channel in which viewers can express their opinions.

"You are the one who can temper violence on television," the committee states in its literature, "but only if you make your opinions heard where it counts. And they are right. Newspapers and magazines provide "letters to editors" sections and TV should also.

The committee's action is the kind of responsible type of media criticism we need. If the viewers don't like what they see, they should be able to do more than simply push the "off" switch. The sponsors are promoting their products and can't afford to alienate potential consumers.

A punch to the purse is potent power. Bookburners beware!

Goodman fuses blues, country

Nationally known singer, songwriter and guitarist, Steve Goodman will appear in concert at Shryok Auditorium, 8 p.m. Friday. Accompanying Goodman will be RCA recording giant artist, Aztec Two-Step.

A 29-year-old Chicago native, Goodman developed an early childhood interest in pop music forms into such diverse roots as Chicago-style blues and the country music of Jimmie Rodgers and Hank Williams. Practicing, performing and composing,

Beg your pardon

It was incorrectly reported in Tuesday's paper that The Marshall Tucker Band will perform Feb. 6. The correct date and time for the concert is Thursday, Feb. 3 at 8 p.m.

SIU grad student to perform recital of Romantic works

Tom Higginson, an SIU graduate assistant working on a masters in music degree in performance, will give a piano recital featuring romantic works at 8 p.m. Jan. 27 in Shryok Auditorium.

The romantic pieces are Schumann's "Symphonic Etudes," op. 13 and Liszt's "Sonata in B minor." The "Sonata" was dedicated to Schumann. Fifteen years earlier, Schumann had dedicated a piece called "Fantasy in Latin" to Liszt.

Also on the program is Ravel's "Le Tombeau de Couperin," an impressionistic work which is often performed in its orchestral transcription. Each movement of "Le Tombeau" is dedicated to a French World War II hero, yet it is in no way classified as "funeral music." Mr. Higginson studied in Paris at the Ecole Normale from 1974 to 1975 as the recipient of the Albert Rosenthal Fellowship. He earned the License d'Enseignement for his work in France.

This will be Higginson's fourth recital at SIU. He most recently appeared in concert at McKendree College in Lebanon and Reed Lake College near Mt. Vernon. The recital is free and open to the public.

In 1969, Goodman emerged as a competent solo performer, and became a prime mover in Chicago's healthy club scene in the late 60's. At the same time he helped pay the bills by doing commercials. "Maybeline Blushing Eye Shadow paid the rent for awhile, when nothing else was happening," Goodman said.

During 1972, Arlo Guthrie recorded Goodman's new-classic, "City of New Orleans," further establishing Goodman's repudiation as a songwriter. Goodman has also done studio work with fellow Chicagoan, John Prine. Tickets may be purchased at the Student Center Central Ticket Office. All seats are reserved and cost $4.50.

‘Fats’ to hustle for HSSI

By Steve Lambert
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Poor "sharks" can try to hustle one of the best ever, Tuesday, while also trying to establish the Humane Society of Southern Illinois (HSSI).

Minnesota "sharks" will appear at University Union from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. and will accept all donations for $1. If you plan to go to the HSSI, the local chapter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The HSSI was formerly known as the Jackson County Human Society.

"We’re trying to get people to become aware that the Humane Society covers more than just Jackson County," Director Margaret Shelton said. She added that 30 per cent of all animals admitted to the society come from outside Jackson County.

"Many people, especially those who live outside Jackson County, think that the society is tax supported, Shelton said. "However, we’re supported only by donations from local persons," she said.

She said by changing the society’s name, perhaps more donations would come from outside Jackson County. However more money would not mean that the society will set up facilities throughout Southern Illinois. Shelton said that the mortgage on the current facility is too high to consider any territorial expansion at this time.

Shelton said despite the misconceptions persons have about the society, the main problem it still faces is too many unwanted pets. "Sixty per cent of all animals we get have to be put to sleep," she said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The three Rs — rough, rutted roads — are costing American motorists $4.4 billion more to drive each year, says The Road Information Program (TRIP). It costs 8.39 cents to drive on a mile of rough road versus 8.14 cents per mile on badly worn pavement.

H.W. Reece, TRIP president, notes that resurfacing the 447,000 miles of rough roads that inflate driving costs would amount to $8 billion, but would save motorists $1.1 billion over the lifetime of the roads.

As a result, the Humane Society is going to students in Carbondale and Murphysboro with films dealing with animal care and the services provided by the Society. Shelton said such a service should help educate young people of the care needed to have a pet, and perhaps cut down the number of stray animals.

The society is sponsoring a logo contest in an attempt to get the public better acquainted with the society. According to Shelton, anyone is invited to enter, with a prize of $100 for the winner. The contest deadline is April 1.

Anyone interested in entering the contest, donating to the Society, or receiving more information on the services it provides should write to the Humane Society, Box 291, Carbondale.

No French polio in area

By Mark Edgar
Daily Egyptian, Staff Writer

No SIU student who received a swine flu vaccine has contracted a rare form of temporary paralysis possibly caused by the shots, a health official says.

Dr. Dan Koop, coordinator of the immunization program for SIU, said Tuesday that the Health Service has received no reports of the Guillain-Barre syndrome, also known as French polio, in this area.

Until a moratorium on the swine flu program was imposed Dec. 16 to study the relationship of the paralysis and the shots, 1,500 students had been inoculated with the vaccine. Koop, the Health Service medical director, said. Nationwide, more than 40 million persons were inoculated.

Austin Haynes, Center for Disease Control (CDC) public health educator, said in a telephone interview Tuesday that no one died from the swine flu shots in Illinois, and the four who contracted the paralysis have recovered.

The CDC in Springfield has identified 16 cases of the Guillain-Barre syndrome in Illinois. Four of the patients received the swine flu shots, according to a spokesman for the CDC. One person from Mt. Ver-

"I wouldn’t drive it up to 45 miles-an-hour," Masterson says he doesn’t pamper the car.

"I never washed it, just slap a rag on it and took it in the drive any day."

"I’d drive it over 60 miles an hour."

Masterson says he’s been using the two- door sedan for 25 years. He’s been driving it daily ever since. The speedometer has turned over once and now has nearly 90,000 miles on it. After the second time around, the "only time it ever stopped on the road was back in the 1960’s," he recalled. "My wife phoned me one day and said the car just flew off the handle."

It was a $6 job to get a timing gear replaced. Masterson says he doesn’t pamper the car.

After the second time around, the "only time it ever stopped on the road was back in the 1960’s," he recalled. "My wife phoned me one day and said the car just flew off the handle."

It was a $6 job to get a timing gear replaced. Masterson says he doesn’t pamper the car.

"I never wash it, just slap a rag on it and took it in the drive any day."

"I’d drive it over 60 miles an hour."

Masterson says he’s been using the two- door sedan for 25 years. He’s been driving it daily ever since. The speedometer has turned over once and now has nearly 90,000 miles on it. After the second time around, the "only time it ever stopped on the road was back in the 1960’s," he recalled. "My wife phoned me one day and said the car just flew off the handle."

It was a $6 job to get a timing gear replaced. Masterson says he doesn’t pamper the car.

Last phase of cleanup too costly

CHICAGO (AP)—Benefits derived from the final stages of pollution abatement may not be "worth the dramatically increased costs," outgoing Secretary of Commerce Elliot Richardson said recently.

"It is frequently true that the last increments of pollution reduction—say from 85 per cent abatement to a level approaching 90 per cent—are more costly than the rest of the job," he said. "And it is in fact to ask whether the incremental benefit of the final 5 per cent is worth the dramatically increased cost."

Speaking at a national industry-government conference sponsored by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Richardson told representatives of major U.S. businesses "that federal regulation of the private sector has been largely unproven."

The result, he said, "has been increasing polarization, pitting those identified as supporting the public interest, which translates into protection of the environment and the consumer, against those identified as supporting private interests."

Specifically, Richardson noted several areas in which federal agencies lack "regulatory reasonableness." They include:

- "A built-in inflexibility in much of the environmental legislation enacted by the Congress. "The control of hazardous wastes, for example, by the EPA on using scrubbers to abate sulfate emissions rather than intermittent or dispersive control techniques results from congressional mandate," he said.

- "Inadequate consideration of economic factors. For instance, the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1970 make no specific allowance for consideration of economic or technological feasibility."

- "Failure to take into account regional differences. "The Pacific Northwest pulp and paper mills which discharge wastes into Puget Sound—a deep, fast-moving body of water with great assimilative capacity—must meet the same technological standards as pulp and paper mills located on small, inland streams."

- "Creation of other problems as a result of pollution abatement, such as increased energy consumption, potential job losses and higher consumer costs." Richardson said that U.S. firms have spent $4.5 billion from 1967 to 1975 to improve the environment and increase health-expectancy protection.

The Great Lakes Reading Lab is offering their famous speed reading course to a limited number of qualified people here in the Carbondale area. The average person who completes this course can read 10 times faster, and with substantially improved comprehension and better concentration.

The course will be explained in complete detail, including class schedules, instruction procedures and a tuition that is much less than similar courses.

These meetings will be held in the Mackinaw Room, Student Center, Southern Illinois University on Monday, January 24 at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday January 25 at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, January 26 at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m., Thursday, January 27 at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m., Friday, January 28 at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, January 29 at 10:30 a.m. and again at 1:30 p.m., Sunday, January 30 at 1:30 p.m. and again at 5:30 p.m.

Classes are limited and class places will be filled on first come-first serve basis only. Be sure to attend the earliest meeting possible to insure a class place. Group rates are available upon request.

Council denies zoning petition

By Scott Bingleton
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council has denied a petition by three local landowners to rezone their properties from business district (BPD) to business primary (BPP). At last week's informal meeting the council agreed to decide within 60 days whether to modify existing zoning ordinances to allow Barrett Rockman, Leron E. Goddard and Mrs. L. Bausch to sell their East Walnut Street land for business development.

The land is not available for development, because the BPD district ordinance requires a minimum lot area of four acres while the East Walnut lots total 1.4 acres. The Planning Commission voted in December to support the rezoning petition. But the Community Development Department staff and the city staff were opposed to the change because the ordinance does not provide for offstreet parking and would require re-building.

PRIZE NO USE

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) -- Patrick Curley, an 80-year-old retired subway motorman, won a car in a fund-raising raffle at a high school here, but he had no use for it.

During 45 years of driving subway trains in New York City, Curley never learned how to drive an automobile.

"I wish I won it 30 or 40 years ago," he said. "I'm too old now to feel around with that kind of car."

He arranged to sell the car.

"This Card May Save Your Life!

The new semester is here and you have a big paper due! You've finished the research. So all that's left for you to do is type it out. The only problem is you don't have a typewriter!"

Student Government announces the beginning of a unique typewriter program designed to let students use IBM typewriters for the meager sum of 25¢ an hour. All you have to do is stop in at the Student Government Office to purchase one of these cards. Prices range from 50¢ for 2 hrs. to $2.00 for 8 hours (25¢ an hour) depending on your need.

Former SIU student Swalls gets Big Ten sports position

By Dave Parks

Gil Swalls, has been named the Assistant Director of the Service Bureau for the Big Ten Sports Conferences.

Swalls, a 1976 graduate in Radio-Television, assumed responsibility for the Chicago office position on Jan. 1.

Swalls, a Shyam-nee native of Zeigler, Ill., was a former acting Sport's Information Director while attending SIU. He said that it was this experience that enabled him to obtain the Big Ten position. "frove a lot to SIU. They gave me all the breaks I could ask for," Swalls said.

Tom Simons, the current Sport's Information Director at SIU, said that Swalls' position with the Big Ten would provide a tremendous opportunity for advancement. "It's a stepping stone. He'll be meeting a lot of the right people," Simons said.

Swalls began his work at SIU in the Sport's Information Office as a student worker in 1972. He worked under Butch Henry, a former Sport's Information Director. In the spring of 1976, when Henry left SIU, Swalls assumed the duties of acting Sport's Information Director through the summer until Simons was installed in the position.

Salukis to host badminton tournament

Southern Illinois' Jim Roland will begin the men's singles badminton title this weekend at the Saluki Invitational Badminton Tournament. Roland defeated Saluki teammate Bob Kinney 18-15, 15-10 to capture last year's Invitational men's title.

Play starts at 6:30 p.m. Friday at David and Barbara McChesney's South End and women's doubles competition. At 9 a.m. Saturday women's singles.

Glenn, Abrams among leaders in Pizza Hut Classic vote

Saluki's Tom Glenn and Carly Abrams are among the leading vote-getters in the balloting for the sixth annual Pizza Hut Classic scheduled for April 5.

Glenn, with 1,437 votes, is fifth in the balloting and Abrams, with 1,054, is seventh. Both are expected to pick up the East squad which will be coached by Marquette's Al McGuire.

Leading the East balloting is Indiana's Kent Benson with 14,697. Glenn is less than 2,000 votes behind, Ray Williams of Minnesota leads the West candidates.

The top eight candidates on each squad when balloting ends March 8 are extended automatic invitations to participate in the NCAA and NAIA-sanctioned event at the Las Vegas Convention Center. Two other players per team will be added as-at-large members.

Voting can be done at any Pizza Hut restaurant and all participating universities.

Swalls said that although he was an average student at SIU, the basic theory he obtained in the classroom would prove invaluable. He said his grade point average wasn't as good as he would have liked, but it was the 80 hours a week he sometimes spent in the Athletic office that gave him the experience and contacts he needed to obtain the Big Ten position.

Western Illinois, defending champion in the meet, figures to be the favorite again this year along with last year's second place finisher Northern Illinois, according to SIU's badminton Coach Cindy Scott.

"Western, which only will enter women, has better women, while Eastern will be the men's top competitor," Scott said.

“Our men have the best chance of placing for us," Scott said. "The men are more experienced players, especially the men’s singles.

Besides Roland, Bob Pont and three Malaysians — Allan Pillai, Patrice Che Salleh and Rastau Sallain will play for SIU.

SIU’s women, which will play in five divisions of singles and three doubles brackets, are headed by Diane Sandlin, Barb Levy, Janet Hedrick, Dawn Barrett and Mary Wimsauer.

"We can compete with any team here," Scott said. "Individually, we hope, we do well and improve some in time for the state meet."

Of the eight teams entered in the meet, four (Ball State, Illinois State, Indiana State and Western) will enter women’s and four (SIU, Eastern, Memphis State, and Tennessee-Martin will compete in both men’s and women’s play.

After the Saluki Invitational, which is the only home meet of the season, the badminton team headed for Macomb for the Western Illinois Invitational on Jan. 22.

Sixth-ranked Michigan routs Iowa

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Richkey Hubbard scored 23 points as sixth-ranked Michigan gained a big share of the Big Ten Conference basketball lead Monday night with a 59-75 romp over Iowa.

Racing with Michigan, 11-1, trailed only briefly in the first two minutes and shot 56.4 percent from the field in handing out Iowans.

Green and Steve Grote fueled an early burst that gave the Wolverines a 15-4 lead, and thereafter Iowa was never closer than five points.

Paul Hubbard added 18 points. Grote St. Joel Thompson 15 and reserve Dave Baxter 18 as Michigan pushed its Big Ten record to 4-0 to tie Purdue for the conference lead.

The leaders clash Thursday night at Ann Arbor.

Presbyterian Ronnie Letter and Larry Oldhoorn tallied 20 points each for Iowa and reserve added 13 Iowa fell to 1-3 in the conference and 3-4 overall. The Hawkeyes shot a cool 48.6 percent from the field.

Michigan Coach Johnny Orr labeled his team’s performance "super.

"That was our best performance, as a whole game, so far this season," said Orr. "We dominated the game. They (Iowa) were never really in the game."

Orr said he was especially pleased his team made few floor errors and was not especially hurt by Iowa’s press.

“I didn’t think Iowa was bad at all, it’s just that they caught us on a really good night," said Orr. "I certainly hope we can play this well against Purdue.

Hubbard grabbed 16 rebounds, but Iowa, led by Oldhoorn’s 14, won the rebounding battle 46-36.

Iowa Coach Lute Olson blamed his team’s defense for Michigan’s hot shooting night.

“We knew they could shoot, and the way they shot was due in part to the fact we didn’t get pressure on the shot,” said Olson.

"It didn’t seem to make too much difference who played, we didn’t do a good job defensively."

Salukis head for showdowns

By Dave Henu

Salukis' troubles over ... or are they?

By Rick Korch

What's wrong with the Salukis?

"That seems to be the favorite question around campus. Why has the team lost three games in a row? It's not any longer in the Top 20."

"Well, we ain't supposed to be NOT lose," says Mike Glenn. "It's just the attitude of the fans that we think we should never lose. But we play teams that want to win just as bad as we do. There's going to be some nights that we play our hardest and don't win."

But do the Salukis always play their best? "The answer is a definite "No." Because if the team always played its hardest, its record would be 11-1, not its present 9-3."

In the last game before Christmas break, the Salukis played Georgia Southern—if played a game. Georgia Southern could be the worst team that SIU has faced in the last few years. Imagine losing to a team that was shooting almost 30 percent of the time. BU

But one thing has probably been learned from the trip to Paul Lambert's hometown, Lubbock, Texas. The Salukis played basketball in a game right before break just so the players' families and friends can see them play in their home town. "That was a good game," says Glenn. "Just the way that they brought them back to the game."

The reason that is lost because the players' minds were on other things—other relatives, girlfriends, Christmas break, and just having a good time. And you can tell that they didn't want to play until it was over. But then it seemed like everyone just wanted to go home.
