Sanders chosen for liaison position

By Chuck Hemstead
Staff Writer

The appointment of Keith R. Sanders, professor of speech communication, as governmental relations officer for the SIU system has raised concern that the appointment "will have the appearance of being a reward."

In a Jan 14 news release, Chancellor Kenneth Shaw said, "We are extremely fortunate that someone with (Sanders') knowledge of higher education, the legislature, and the SIU System is available to help us in this crucial area."

However, as Shaw predicted at the time of the appointment, charges of conspiracy have been leveled resulting from the fact that Sanders was the chair of the Chancellor Search Assistance Council.

Lawrence C. Dennis, president of the SIU-C Faculty Senate, said, "There is no question that this appointment will have the appearance of being a reward" for Sanders' chairing the search committee.

Gary R. Brown, president of the Graduate Student Council, said, "We have no objection to the individual picked. We simply question the intelligence of the selection process at a time when our University needs to regain credibility."

"With this appointment," Brown said, "Dr. Shaw has managed the difficult task of surpassing his own Board of Trustees in lack of tact. We believe that the Chancellor desired to restrain doubts regarding his own appointment. Now he must also combat doubts regarding his judgment. It appears that SIU deserves not only a policy on nepotism, but an additional one regarding the appearance of favoritism."

In response, Sanders said, "Appearances are often very misleading. We (the Chancellor Search Council) brought several excellent candidates to the University, and I was glad to have been part of it. The experience gave me a better understanding of the SIU System and will help me in my new capacity."

Sanders said Shaw fully understood the ramifications of the decision, but has the integrity to choose the person that he feels is best qualified for a position.

Pete Alexander, president of the Undergraduate Student Organization, said he was impressed with how Sanders handled the Chancellor Search and that, "Shaw picked a good man."

When asked how he forges the relationship between Sanders, SIU-C legislative liaison Clyde Choate and SIU-E legislative liaison Thomas Leffler, Shaw said he views Sanders as the orchestra leader conducting the concerted efforts of Choate, Leffler, and others.

Sanders said he doesn't know the structure of the relationship but he knows both Choate and Leffler and is anxious to work with them.

Sanders was chosen from an original field of 47 applicants. Nine finalists were interviewed by a panel consisting of Shaw, SIU officials and local legislators. One of the legislators, Senator Kenneth Buzbee, termed the appointment "excellent."

Jerry Hollenhorst, professor of economics at Edwardsville, worked with Sanders on the Chancellor Search Council.

"Sanders is a very honorable man," Hollenhorst said, "possessing great integrity and a great academic record. It's his area of interest and he has written extensively on mass communications in politics. He conducted an admirable committee."

Sanders, originally from Benton, holds two speech degrees from SIU-C and a doctorate in communication research from the University of Pittsburgh.

Sanders will receive a salary of $32,340 in his new position. As a professor, he earned $32,016.

Demolition to begin on 10 buildings to make way for Amtrak train depot

By Mary Ann McNulty
Staff Writer

Demolition crews will begin razing 10 buildings on South Illinois Avenue Tuesday to make way for a new Amtrak train depot and other phases of the railroad relocation demonstration project planned for Carbondale.

Businesses located north of Derby Gas Station, 509 S. Illinois Ave., and south of Brunner Office Supply Co., 321 S. Illinois Ave., will be demolished during the next three weeks, Eldon Gosnell, project director, said.

Three employees of Dore & Associates Contracting, Inc. of Michigan City, Ind., and a local trucking firm, yet to be contracted, will raise the 10 buildings, all located on the east side of South Illinois Avenue.

James Stellema, treasurer of the contracting firm, said the demolition work will not hinder traffic on South Illinois Avenue, however, pedestrian traffic will be prohibited in the area. The Municipal Parking Lot located behind the buildings will be closed during demolition, Stellema said.

The Carbondale City Council awarded the $68,395 demolition contract to Dore & Associates—the low-bidder—in December.

Paul Burner, relocation manager for IDOT's land acquisition department, said all but four of the 12 businesses involved have been relocated. Standard Business Systems, which owns Brunner Office Supply Co., is involved in a lawsuit with the city over the city's acquisition of the business. The city filed a petition for condemnation in August and Brunner's and Lorien Lost will not be demolished until the suit is settled, Turner said.

The owners of Carbondale Shoe Repair and Western Auto are the only merchants who closed their businesses rather than relocate.

In other developments, Gosnell said the city is negotiating with Clark, Dietz & Associates-Engineers Inc. to complete the final engineering design for the planned 30-foot railroad track depression. The Carbondale engineering firm completed design work on other phases of the project.

Final engineering design work for track depression from the SIU-C Physical Plant through downtown Carbondale is expected to take two years.

SIU coed killed by stray bullet; murder charge filed

By Jacqui Koszeruk

Charlene Jacobsen still doesn't believe her sister, Betty Quinn, is gone. Even after collecting her sister's belongings and packing them away in boxes, and after closing her bank account in Carbondale, Jacobsen says that for the time being, "It's easier for me to believe that Betty will be coming back any day now to start the new semester."

And Quinn, a 23-year-old sophomore in history, would have returned to SIU because, as Jacobsen put it, "She loved everything about this place, the school, her friends, and especially the outlying land and the SIU farms."

But Quinn won't be returning. At home in Chicago during the break, she was fatally shot by a passing motorist on Dec. 30 as she stood with friends next to her car in a parking lot on the far northwest side. Chicago police said the three friends heard two shots and Quinn dropped to the ground, shot through her right eye.

William J. Will, a student at the University of Illinois Medical Center, who was standing next to Quinn when the shooting occurred, said the group had left a nearby bar and gone to the parking lot to siphon gas from his car into Quinn's.

"We were concerned she wouldn't have enough gas to get home," he said, "it came out of nowhere. She dropped, and I thought she had fainted."

Quinn was pronounced dead or arrival at 4 a.m. at Resurrection Hospital.

Kurt Bartall Jr., the 23-year-old son of a Chicago police officer, was picked up as a suspect within 18 hours of the shooting and was charged with involuntary manslaughter. The charge was later changed to murder.

Jacobsen, with vivid recollections of the way her sister talked about SIU and Southern Illinois, intends to have a tree planted on campus in her memory.

"Right now it's the best thing I can think of to do for Betty," Jacobsen said. "My father and I think it's a good idea. She loved to ski, she loved to go camping, she just loved being outdoors. It's the one thing we can think of that we can do for her now."

Bartall, an airline luggage handler, at first denied the shooting, claiming he was in Wisconsin at the time. Later he told police, "I didn't mean any harm. I wasn't aiming at anyone. I was just going down the street shooting at walls and things."

Quinn had planned to continue her studies in history, a field in which both Jacobsen and Harold McFarlin, associate professor of history, said she excelled.

She also had planned to rejoin her friends at the Saluki Saddle Club for another semester of riding and possibly another blue-ribbon prize in a championship show, Jacobsen said. "She loved animals ever since she was a kid and frequently took my little girl out to the SIU farms to see the cows and horses," recalls Jacobsen, 29, a resident of Murphysboro. "She especially liked tigers. I don't know why, she just did."

Jacobsen said a friend of

Ronald Reagan

Reagan cites 'collapse of confidence'

By Jacqui Kosczuk
Staff Writer

Most of the people in the crowd probably heard just what they wanted to hear during presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan's campaign stop in Marion. In short, Reagan said government by the Democrats isn't working, and the only alternative is to give government back to the Republicans.

Speaking before an audience of about 750 at a rally in Marion's Civic Center Jan. 10, Reagan received a hearty round of applause for his own version of President Carter's claim that a "crisis of confidence" exists in American government. "What actually exists is a collapse of confidence in the present administration," Reagan said.

The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan demonstrates that the "credibility of U.S. power has been tested and found wanting," and there is a need for the establishment of "an American military presence, including air bases in Egypt, Israel, and Saudi Arabia, as a hedge against Soviet expansion," he said.

"It's time to put a stop to the open season on the United States," the 68-year-old former governor, movie star, and television personality said.

According to Reagan, most of the country's problems could be attributed to a vast bureaucracy which "the present government has added 131,000 employees." A Republican government, he said, would curtail bureaucratic expansion as shown by two previous administrations.

Also, Reagan said that as president he would "go back into effect the 10th Amendment to the Bill of Rights. The federal government has usurped programs it is not equipped to handle."

He suggested "the orderly transfer of programs back to state and local governments," and cited welfare as one in particular that would be better run at the local level.

Reagan touched home with his sentiments about energy shortages, telling the predominant Republican group. "This talk about running out of energy is patently ridiculous. We're rich in energy in this country and it's a thing called coal."

He said, "We have an adequate coal supply and we have the technology to use it. Turn the coal companies free in the independent market and they'll produce what we must have."

Stevenson: Embargo 'economic war'

By Karen Gullo
and Jeff Smyth
Staff Writers

U.S. Senator Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., said embargoes of food and technology exports to the Soviet Union will damage the U.S. economy and "box both sides into corners from which it is difficult to escape."

Stevenson speaking at a press conference at Southern Illinois Airport last Thursday, called the embargoes, ordered by President Carter to deter further Russian aggression in Afghanistan, "economic acts of war."

"The purpose of the embargoes is not to compel withdrawal of Russian troops from Afghanistan," Stevenson said. "The purpose is to signify that Russian adventurism in the world has a price. But we also pay a price with little prospect of influencing the Russians constructively."

Stevenson said the cost of the grain embargo to taxpayers is in excess of $2.5 billion. Embargoes feed the general impression in the world that the United States is "impulsive, unpredictable and an unreliable supplier of goods and services," and threaten the possibility of the United States re-entering the Russian grain market, he said. Stevenson, chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on International Finance, called for the use of the Commodity Credit Corporation as a national grain board with the exclusive authority to market U.S. grains in the world.

"The United States disarms itself uniquely and unilaterally by leaving the sale and distribution of American food to multinational traders and their foreign government customers," he said.

"As the exclusive agent to the Communist nations, the CCC would have scaled down sales to the U.S.S.R. step by step, making it clear that the ultimate result could be an embargo," Stevenson said. "This would have avoided the crisis which has damaged the U.S. economy and deprived us of an opportunity to use food to influence the Soviet Union."

Stevenson said little is left, short of military action, to counteract Soviet aggression. Boycotting the Summer Olympics or stopping all trade with the Russians, both under active consideration, would be a mistake because it would leave the United States with no other form of reprisal if the Soviet Union continues its expansionism.

Official clarifies alcohol policy

By Andrew Zinner
Staff Writer

The new interim alcohol policy approved by the Board of Trustees last month will prohibit tailgate parties and other drinking activities associated with SIUC sporting events, according to Richard Millman, chairman of the Ad Hoc Alcohol Policy Committee. However, a new state law will allow alcohol to be served at such places as the Student Center for "conventions and conference-type activities." Alcohol may also be served at University House providing that the group being entertained is from outside the University community.

A permanent alcohol policy has not yet been formulated, but according to Millman, the major changes will affect only those living on campus who are under age 21. Consideration will also be given to separate issues like tailgate parties and drinking on the hill near the baseball diamond.

Millman said the job of the committee will be to draw up a new policy, leaving enforcement to other groups, such as security personnel.

Bob Harris, assistant director of SIUC security, said that security's policy regarding such activities is to "stay away from them and ignore them." Millman said that with adoption of the new policy, enforcement of the rules would be uniform.

The interim policy states that "possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages in or on any property owned or controlled by the University is strictly prohibited," except in the following areas:

- private living areas of students in University housing over the age of 21, excluding lounges, indoor recreational areas, and libraries;
- faculty or family housing, including University House, that is owned or controlled by the University;

The intent of the new state law allowing alcohol to be served on University property for the purpose of "conventions and conference-type activities" is still not clear, Millman said, because such activities have not yet been defined.

Thompson stumps for tax proposal

By Karen Gullo
and Jeff Smyth
Staff Writers

Hours before Gov. James Thompson arrived in Southern Illinois to drum up support for his property tax proposal, state Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, D-Carbondale, held a press conference to criticize Thompson's tax plan.

"It seems beyond even ludicrous to pass something when we haven't asked taxpayer organizations or local government taxing districts if they think it's a good idea," Buzbee told reporters.

He said the General Assembly was not given enough time to study the effects a tax ceiling would have on local governments and school districts.

Buzbee said that a property tax ceiling may ultimately increase property taxes and have an adverse effect on local government and school district financing.

Thompson proposed a lid that would limit property tax hikes to the growth rate in the personal income of Illinois residents—about 9.3 percent. A special session of the General Assembly was called on Jan. 11 to draft the proposal to be voted upon the following day.

Commentary

System changes, but results don't

By Ricardo Caballero-Aquino

Warren W. Brandt, how right you were! Sometime in June 1978 the SIU Board of Trustees realized it had finally exhausted the repertoire of mistakes in its executive actions. Consequently, it decided to change the system of governance by creating the Office of the Chancellor. About $100,000 later, it filled the position with a nice guy.

The appointee felt compelled to uphold the tradition about nice guys when compared with his competitors. Instead of the honeymoon that normally surrounds a new officer, the fledgling Chancellor merely got the benefit of the doubt. "Maybe the Board, in spite of itself, made the right mistake this time," some thought.

Upon taking office, Chancellor Kenneth Shaw stated that he would be very happy if nobody knew who he was or what he did. Wishful thinking aside, he succeeded in these areas. The changes so far have done nothing but ensure that everything remained boringly the same. The decisions to fill the chancellor's staff could have been made by the Board itself.

Chancellor Shaw has thus all but made himself into an SIU Board of Trustees of one. The kind of personnel choices he has been making took all the pleasure away from speculation. They bore the monotonous predictability of elections in a banana republic.

The addition of a top system's executive was justified upon the grounds that the Board wished to halt controversial subjects from being aired in public meetings. The $66,000 man and his staff were to ensure the Board's new rubber-stamping role.

No such luck would crown their first efforts, though. At the December meeting, after all the time, money and toil was spent in erecting the shield, the Board still had to make an executive decision regarding the Athletics Fee increase.

Some student leaders stopped short only of blackmail in warning the acting president and chancellor that all was not well in athletics. Some trustees were angry; for a good reason—the past was haunting them.

Still healing from the December lark, the chancellor resigned our University with a befitting New Year's present.

The appointment of the former Chairman of the Chancellor Search Assistance Council as Governmental Relations Officer for the chancellor's office might have been as legal as the selection of Shaw himself.

Keith Sanders very likely was the most qualified applicant. The choice nevertheless took place in blatant disregard of the most elementary principles of propriety. Sanders, the Chairman of the CSAC (Chancellor Search Assistance Council, according to cynics), was made to join the staff of the chancellor he helped to select. This may not be unprecedented, but it is not advisable, considering the "crisis of confidence" pervading at SIU, where bum-prophecs are having a field day.

The constant addition of high-salaried staffers may force Shaw into printing money for his own office to remain within the budgetary limit he originally promised. Damaging rumors have it that for the system to operate at the allotted $924,600, Shaw may have to appoint Vice Chancellor James Brown as president of the Carbondale campus. Unfortunately, thanks to the modus operandi of the Board and the system, we can no longer afford the luxury of dismissing such pernicious rumors as products of a sick fantasy.

The balance sheet of the new system's performance has yet to enter a significant positive result. Instead, the system has so far shown remarkable ecological savvy. It does wonders when recycling personnel.

DE should lose negativness

News of the past few weeks that has gained such notoriety in your, uh-newspaper, has greatly upset and offended many of my strongest feelings. Having lived and worked in the Carbondale area for the better part of my life and having to make do with what is available provide me with a fairly optimistic point of view—things have to get better!

SIU and Carbondale are the centers for many opportunities that make life in this area enjoyable. The negativism exhibited in your newspaper threatens to hinder the availability of this enjoyment.

It has appeared to me that the Daily Egyptian editorial and reporting staff is obviously seeking to disgruntle their readers by choosing and writing stories that exhibit nothing but negativism.

First of all, let's have some praise for jobs well done. This can be accomplished by choosing stories that express positive aspects of programs, whether it be in academics, administration, athletics or entertainment here at our fine University. Sensationalism doesn't have to be negative.

Don't make people feel that it's going to be a bad day when they see a Daily Egyptian reporter in their office.

Secondly, continue to report the news of this University, but consider the use of tact. With paper prices going up the way they are, you're going to need some friends in high places or you'll be forced to charge for your product. If you lose the first, I'm afraid your future is bleak at best.

Next, educate the readers so their opinions and feelings may be broadened. This might eliminate some of the near-sightedness of the letters appearing in the newspaper. Intellectual objectivity comes with age. At times I marvel at some of the opinions exhibited in "Letters to the Editor," many of which might be better expressed in crayon.

Finally public services which the Daily Egyptian provides to Southern Illinois is invaluable. Please continue the constructive and helpful services your paper can provide to the community.

Let's start the New Year in a more positive tone. — Ty Young, Murphysboro

Non-alcoholic nights at bars?

According to the Carbondale Liquor Dealers Association, students under the age of 21 will become "slaves to their" dorm rooms" when the big bad City Council takes away "all the fun" students have on the Strip. The liquor dealers say they're concerned since all these students will have left to do is watch television. (Don't movies, books, roller skating, the Student Center, the Recreation Center, coffee houses, art showings, plays, etc. exist any more?)

Well, if the liquor dealers are so concerned about entertainment for students, they would sponsor non-alcohol nights at various bars, various nights a week. That way underage students could still have "live entertainment, pinball, dancing (and) wide-screen TV" without the temptation of illegal drinking and the possibility of an underage drinking penalty slapped on their records.

Melanie Zermer, Senior, Rehabilitation Services.

Keeping bars open good idea

The City Council has made the best decision it could by continuing to keep the bars open to underage adults. The issue, as I see it, really boiled down to a trade-off between which kind of lawlessness this city wants to handle.

The prospect of young adults being continuously in the presence of alcohol but not being able to partake of it will surely create temptations in some that can be handled. So means to circumvent the situation will be found with its resulting lawlessness. The police already have a premonition of this.

The other alternative was to turn loose these young people to their own devices with the possibility of their using even harder and illegal drugs as a way of fun with its ensuing lawlessness. This appears to be the dilemma.

My own concern is that lawlessness is becoming such a prevalent part of our national lifestyle. We need only to look at Iran to see a national demonstration of lawless spirit in which no one is subject to anyone or anything. The result is a chaotic society.

The only thing that changes this spirit of lawlessness is a new spirit within. It cannot be legislated; it can only be received. It is the Holy Spirit that totally changes our desires.

If you think that dancing into a frenzy or drinking until your senses are dull is fun, you have yet to experience the exhilaration, joy and power of the Holy Spirit. He doesn't leave you with a hangover or emptiness, for He is with you all the time. — Lucille Ashworth, Carbondale

'Style'—a touching film

By Bill Crowe
Entertainment Editor

Joe, Al and Willie are bored. All in their 70s, they share a dingy apartment in Astoria, Queens, N.Y., and barely make ends meet on their Social Security and Medicare benefits. Al and Willie are content to live out their lives sitting on park benches and feeding the pigeons, but Joe is "sick of this s---" and just wants to "feel 40 again."

That's the premise of "Going in Style," one of the most refreshing and touching films in recent years. Brilliantly written and directed by newcomer Martin Brest, the film succeeds as a comedy, drama and loving tribute to senior citizens.

Joe (beautifully played by George Burns) plans a bank robbery to bring his roommates and himself out of the blues. Brest effectively points out the squalid lifestyles of many senior citizens when the three agree that going to jail would not be much different from their current situation.

Al (Art Carney) loves the idea and supplies the guns and a place to stash the loot.

Lynda D'Amico stands beside one of the 11 pastel drawings which comprise part of her MFA exhibit. The exhibit will be on display in the North Gallery of Faner Hall from Jan. 21 to 29.

Two art exhibits open

By Charity Gould
Staff Writer

Still life paintings based on early Renaissance arrangements and pastel drawings and prints that explore interior spaces are being shown Jan. 21 to 29 at two galleries on the SU/C campus.

Kathleen Nicholson will show her Master's in fine arts thesis exhibit at Nitchell Gallery in Quigley Hall. A reception will be held Jan. 21 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Nicholson's exhibit is a collection of 31 oil paintings and graphite drawings that deal with arranging familiar objects.

Twenty-two prints and 11 drawings make up another MFA thesis exhibit by Lynda D'Amico. The show will be on display in the North Gallery of Faner Hall, Jan. 21 to 29 with a reception Jan. 21 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Etchings, monoprints and a la poupee make up the collection. The objects in the prints and drawings "act as a personal metaphor," said D'Amico, also of Massachusetts.

"I first began with the drawings, but I wanted something where I could express myself faster so I went to monoprints," she said.

'Style' reflects elderly

Burns' planning of the heist is a montage of hilarious comic sequences. They buy "Groucho Marx glasses" for disguises, have an awful time finding the right sized bullets for their guns and debate over whether to shave before the robbery, but eventually everything falls into place.

The robbery comes off like clockwork. They put the "element of tea" in their victims and Burns even compliments two of the tellers for their prompt service and appealing hairstyles before fleeing the scene by taxi and subway with $5,000.

One problem: Once the three steal the money, they have no use for it. The robbery was just something for them to do. It momentarily gave purpose and meaning to their lives. Joe and Al add another $50,000 to their kitty rolling dice in Las Vegas and, poetically, end up paying back the young for their good times by leaving all the money to Al's son-in-law and his family.

"Going In Style" blends the perfectly timed one-liners of the three stars with effective drama which turns these comic characters into real people. In a near-perfect scene, Burns leads through a box of old photos of his youth, quietly crying until he cannot stand it anymore. He rises from his chair and discovers he has wet his pants, then shuffles into the bathroom while mumbling that he is "peeing in his pants like a three-year-old again."

Conway Twitty and Loretta Lynn to sing at DuQuoin; tickets on sale

Conway Twitty and Loretta Lynn, one of country music's most successful vocal duos, have been signed to appear at the 58th annual Du Quoin State Fair next fall. Tickets for the event are now available for mail order from the fair ticket office.

performers as Elvis Presley and Jerry Lee Lewis. At Sun Records Twitty recorded semi-pop songs like "It's Only Make Believe," his biggest selling song to date. He switched to country music in 1965 and has risen to the top of the field. Since the switch he has recorded over 30 number one songs and several popular country albums. Lynn was the first woman ever selected as the Entertainer of the Year by the Country Music Association.

Twitty and Lynn, whose last concert appearance together in Du Quoin was in 1971, will perform two shows at 6 and 9 p.m. on August 23. The two have recorded a number of records together and have won Grammy and Country Music Association Awards as the "Vocal Duo of the Year." They each have also received many individual awards.

Tickets for the concerts are $8, $7 and $6. Persons wishing to purchase reserved-seat tickets should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and a check or money order along with their requests to P.O. Box 191, Du Quoin, Ill., 62832. Tickets may also be charged to Visa or Master Charge accounts.

"These two stars rarely work together any more since they each are genuine stars in their own right. Last year, they did only two shows together," said new fair President Norb Bartosik. "We are very happy to be able to bring them to their thousands of fans in Southern Illinois."

Between them, the two vocalists have a total of almost 50 years of recording experience. Twenty years ago Harold Lloyd Jenkins changed his name to Conway Twitty and set out from Helena, Ark. to become a rock 'n' roller. He recorded on Sam Phillips' Sun Records label, which also recorded such early rock

Far Eastern arts and crafts to go on sale

An exhibition of Oriental prints, etchings, woodcuts and lithographs will be on sale from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

The collection consists of 800 to 1,000 pieces of 18th, 19th and 20th century art from Japan, China, India, Tibet and Thailand. Prices range from $5 to $500.

Color prints made from woodblock, Indian paintings and manuscripts, serigraphs (silk-screen prints), mezzotints (prints made from metal plates), batiks (paintings done on a cloth with dye and hot wax), and embroideries are included in the display.

The art is by world-renowned contemporary artists such as Siato, Tajima, Maki and Amano.

Each print or drawing is matted and labeled with information about the artist and the piece. In addition, a sales representative will be able to answer questions.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Fine Arts Committee of the Student Programming Committee.

Applicants are few for president

By Paula Donner Walter
Staff Writer

With 11 days left before the application deadline, the SIUC Presidential Search Committee has received "a pretty small number" of formal applications for the job, committee Chairwoman Jo Ann Boydston said. Forty formal applications have been accepted and 48 nominations have been received but have not yet been accepted or declined by the nominees, she said.

"It seems a pretty small number to me, but there's no way to predict. I am trying to speculate that it's possible people will wait until closer to the deadline to apply," Boydston said.

Feb. 1 is the deadline for applications for the presidential position, which was made vacant when Warren Brandt resigned last June. Hiram Lesar, dean of the Law School, is serving as acting president.

Boydston said she is pleased with the quality of the candidates who have accepted nomination thus far.

"I have read through the resumes of over 30 of the applicants and there are a number of well-qualified people. I'm very pleased by the caliber," she said.

Boydston said the committee has received "a few" local applications, but that most have come from all parts of the country.

Advertisements for the position were placed in two periodicals, the Chronicle of Higher Education and Change magazine, Boydston said. In addition, the committee sent out about 140 letters requesting nominations from black universities and women's groups and caucuses, she said.

The credentials the committee will be looking for in resumes of applicants include successful high-level administrative experience, experience as a university faculty member, a record of scholarly achievement, a record of public service, and evidence of providing educational leadership for students, faculty, civil service employees and administrative and professional staff.

The committee will also evaluate candidates according to personal characteristics, including a commitment to academic freedom, an understanding of University service, good health, stamina and emotional maturity.

Boydston said the committee will meet on Feb. 8 to conduct the first screening of candidates.

Ten negative votes are required to eliminate a candidate during the first screening, and Boydston foresees few conflicts within the committee.

"It seems to me that we do understand each other and now that we've agreed on the criteria, I sense that we pretty well have the same ideas for the type of person we'd like to have as president," she said.

SUBJECT: Alcohol Policy for SIUC

The Board of Trustees on Thursday, December 13, 1979, approved a new alcoholic beverage policy which delegated to the President the authority to promulgate campus regulations concerning the sale, delivery, possession, use or consumption of alcohol. The attached alcohol policy shall serve as the interim policy governing the use of alcohol for Southern Illinois University at Carbondale until further notice.

I have requested the various Constituent agencies to have a representative serve on a committee to be chaired by Dr. Richard Millman for the purpose of developing a permanent policy on alcoholic beverages.

INTERIM ALCOHOL POLICY

The possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages in or on any property owned or controlled by the University is strictly prohibited, except in the following cases:

- 1) Beer and wine may be possessed and consumed in the private living area by persons 21 years of age or older.
  - a) Private living area shall be defined as the individual room of the resident.
  - b) A private living area does not include main lounges, indoor recreational areas, multi-purpose areas, general TV rooms, snack bars, dining rooms, libraries, or grounds surrounding any University housing unit.
- 2) The possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages will be permitted in faculty or family housing owned or controlled by the University.
- 3) Possession for the purpose of transporting alcoholic beverages to the above prescribed areas is not prohibited except in accordance with State and local laws governing the transportation of alcohol.

Whenever possible individual residents will be given an opportunity to move into a room where beer and wine are not possessed or consumed.

Additional restrictions on, or the total prohibition of the use of alcoholic beverages by tenants of legal age may be established by a majority action of tenants of that housing unit.

Monies collected through or by the University for any campus organization will not be allowed to be used for the purchase of any form of alcoholic beverages.

The sale or delivery of all alcoholic beverages in or on any University property is prohibited.

All guests of legal age who visit the University housing units may enjoy only the regular drinking privileges accorded to the residents of University housing.

The basic responsibility for compliance with this regulation will be incumbent upon all members of the University community. The overall responsibility for the enforcement of this regulation will rest with the administrative staff of the University, especially the University residence hall staff, and in accordance with the established procedures of the discipline system.

Shaw abandons plans for public relations post

By Chuck Hempstead
Staff Writer

Chancellor Kenneth Shaw announced that he has abandoned plans to hire a public information officer for the SIU System.

"We regret deeply having to cut short this search because the candidates we were working with were of high quality and had great promise," Shaw said. There were 77 applicants for the position.

"The goals involved in the decision deal mainly with contingency funds to deal with commitments for the rest of the fiscal year, with the maintenance of a strict office economy, and with avoiding commitments that would carry over into the next fiscal year," Shaw said.

The principal duties of the public information officer were to have been the preparation of brochures, pamphlets, fact books, and media material describing various aspects of the SIU System, according to the job prospectus. Shaw said the work will be divided among himself, Vice Chancellor James M. Brown, his staff, SIU-C and SIU-E relations people and private contractors.

The salary for the public information officer was to have been between $16,000 and $22,000. Shaw said the funds will be used for hiring outside firms on a one-time basis, as well as other priorities of his office.

A new service for sexually abused children and their families will be provided by a group of graduate students under the direction of DeMoyné Bekker and James O'Donnell, professors of psychology.

Mark Stein, JoAnne Graham, Carmen Toves and Mike Dolan, graduate students in psychology, have begun counseling 12 families referred to them by the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, who funded the new service.

According to Bekker, the service will deal primarily with rural families in Southern Illinois. DCFCS hears about these families through either the family unit itself or through a physician.

Student killed by stray bullet

Quinn's in Chicago donated money to the Lincoln Park Zoo so that the next tiger born there will be named after her.

"That's the kind of friends she had. She made people around her happy. She wasn't a saint or anything. I would say she was an average person with special hidden talents that came out every once in a while. She was always giving and seldom took."

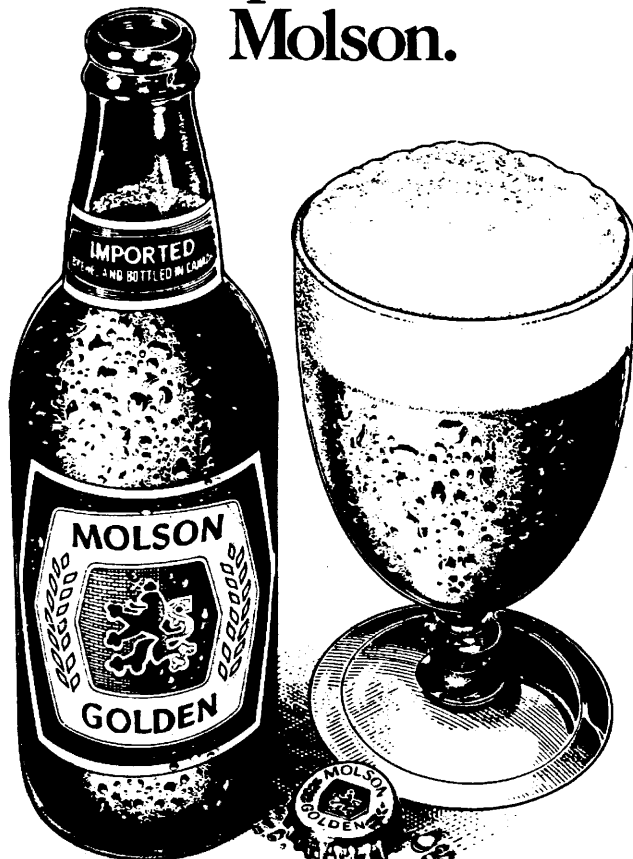

Police arrested Bartell after a female motorist turned in his license number, saying he shot three slugs into her car trunk

A Chicago police sergeant said Bartell had been driving down Milwaukee Avenue, shooting out of windows at anything and probably was not aware that he struck Quinn.

Sgt. John Serafini said the shot that hit Quinn was "accidental, for want of a better word. It was a stupid act, but unintentional."

A few days before she died, Quinn gave her father a Christmas card she had made, explaining she did not have the money to buy him a present. In it she wrote, "...It's funny how you never realize how much you miss someone until you're far away, and that's what happened to me... So this gift I give is my love to you. I hope you cherish it as much as I do yours."

Tankers enjoy 'cheap' holiday trip

By Rod Smith
Staff Writer

With the commotion concerning the troubled state of the SIU athletics budget, it is a pleasant surprise to see the expense sheet from the men and women's swimming teams' Christmas trip to Mexico City. The team was in Mexico from Dec. 31 to Jan. 15 and did not spend a cent of the athletics budget. The check was picked up by the host swimmers, a team sponsored by the country's social security program. The only expense SIU-C paid was round-trip air transportation.

"Mexico is the only Latin American country where people have access to a free sports program," Lady Saluki swimming Coach Rick Powers said. "There probably wasn't another team in the United States that had a Christmas trip that was as inexpensive and beneficial as ours."

The seven-person women's swimming team, along with the men's team, spent the first four days of the trip in Mexico City living with families of the national social security team.

"We were apprehensive at first about staying in the homes since we were unfamiliar with customs and we didn't speak the language," Powers said. "It turned out to be maybe the best part of the whole trip. We really felt at home and it turned out to be a good cultural exchange and was great for our international relations."

The team worked out at the Olympic facilities in Mexico City before traveling to Guadalajara for a three-day dual meet with the University of Guadalajara. The meet combined the scores of men and women.

"The Mexican team led the first two days and we were down by 30 points after the second session. They were confident and the Mexican newspapers felt that they would win," Powers said. "Coach Steele and I calculated that the meet would go down to the wire the final day and that there would be only a 10-point difference in the 1,000-point meet.

"We were behind by one point with two events, the 400-meter medley relays, left to swim," Powers continued. "We had to win both relays to win the meet but we really didn't expect the girls to win their relay, especially since Mary Jane Sheets had just come out of the water from the butterfly and was tired."

"The girls got so psyched up for that last race that they swam better times in the relay splits than they did in the individual events," Powers said. "M.J. swam her lifetime best in the backstroke leg and gave us the lead. Lisa Cairns and Heidi Einbrod held the lead, and Carol Lauchner opened up a 10-yard lead in the butterfly, so we won the meet by seven points."

Powers summed up the experience as "one of the best international trips I've ever taken."

Babcock shines, gymnasts win two

By Ed Dougherty
Staff Writer

The SIU men's gymnastics team got off to a flying start during semester break, winning its first two dual meets of the season. Leading the way was sophomore sensation Brian Babcock.

Babcock stole the show in the Salukis' win over Brigham Young, as SIU beat the Cougars, 252.65-244.55. Babcock put on quite a performance, winning four of six events and the all-around with a 55.4.

The Saluki gymnasts made it a clean sweep over the Cougars, as Dave Schieble won the pommel horse with a 9.45 and Warren Brantley won the horizontal bar with a 9.15.

Babcock was instrumental in the Salukis' first win of the season over California State University at Chico. He scored three firsts and a 55.6 in the all-around, as SIU beat the Wildcats, 245-242.

The Salukis added two more firsts against the Wildcats when Schieble and Brantley won their events.

The Salukis will continue their longest road trip of the year, which will conclude with a dual meet against the New Mexico Lobos on Monday night.

Winless Salukis sink to Valley cellar

Freshman forward Charles Nance goes up for a jump shot over Ed Nealy of Kansas State. The Salukis played West Texas State Saturday at Amarillo and return home this Saturday for a 7:35 game with Tulsa at the Arena.

By Scott Stahmer
Sports Editor

Last place. That unfamiliar position was where the Saluki men's basketball team found itself after an 0-5 start in Missouri Valley Conference play. SIU, 4-11 overall, lost conference games to Creighton, 76-68, on Jan. 3; Tulsa, 87-75, on Jan. 5; Drake, 116-91, on Jan. 10; Wichita State, 68-45, on Jan. 12; and New Mexico State, 69-57, last Thursday.

The Salukis, who played West Texas State Saturday at Amarillo, won two of three non-conference games over break. They defeated Wisconsin-Milwaukee, 85-68, and topped Missouri-Rolla, 85-74, in the consolation final of the Birmingham Classic. SIU lost to Drexel, 74-62, in the first round at Birmingham.

Possibly the Salukis' most humiliating defeat came against Wichita State. SIU's total of 45 points was the lowest it has ever scored in the Arena.

SIU hit just 24 percent of its field goal attempts, 17-70. The Shockers' big front line of 6-8 Cliff Livingston, 6-9 Antoine Carr and 6-11 Ozell Jones blocked many of the Salukis' inside shots, forcing SIU to take low-percentage shots from the perimeter.

"When you make 17 of 70 shots, you're not going to beat anybody," Saluki Head Coach Joe Gottfried said.

Gottfried shuffled his starting lineup after the Wichita game, replacing Charles Nance and Charles Moore with Scott Russ and Darnall Jones.

"You'll not see a guy on the floor who doesn't play hard," Gottfried said. "We're going to play five guys who play hard regardless of ability."

According to Gottfried, the Salukis' play was improved at New Mexico State. But the Aggies took advantage of several second-half SIU cold spells to stretch a 32-29 halftime lead into the 69-57 final.

"We played pretty good ball, other than our rebounding and inability to score for five- and six-minute stretches," Gottfried said.

Wayne Abrams led SIU's scoring with 18, despite a foot injury suffered against Wichita State. Edward Thomas, who jammed in four slam-dunks, tallied 16, and pulled down eight rebounds.

"Thomas is improving in every game," Gottfried said. "Slab (Jones) respected him."

Jones, the Aggies' 6-7 center, was one of three NMSU players who scored in double figures. He had 16, while Greg Webb contributed 17 and Chuck Goslin added 14.

The Salukis' next game is Saturday at the Arena against Tulsa. Game time is 7:35 p.m.

Valley officials eyeing expansion

By Scott Stahmer
Sports Editor

The Missouri Valley Conference, which includes schools in an area from Indiana to New Mexico, could cover an even larger geographical area if a proposed expansion of the league becomes a reality.

Jeff Hurd, director of public relations for the MVC, said the conference could add several members in the near future. Currently, nine universities—Bradley, Creighton, Drake, Indiana State, New Mexico State, Southern Illinois, Tulsa, West Texas State and Wichita State—are Valley schools.

"We have asked a number of schools if they are interested in joining the Missouri Valley Conference," Hurd said. "If they are interested in us, the next step will be to see which schools we want."

Hurd said the desire to add to the geographical area the Valley covers probably is the most important factor in the proposal.

"There are geographical reasons for expanding," Hurd said. "We want to try to establish more natural rivalries. Also, we're considering it because we think it could better the conference as a whole."

Speculation has centered around Louisville, Cincinnati, Illinois State, North Texas State and Texas-Arlington as possible candidates for addition.

Hurd declined to comment on the schools being considered, but said any school admitted to the conference must belong to the NCAA's Division I-A, the large-school division, in football.

"Any school that we look at must have a Division I-A football program," Hurd said. "It also must have Division I status in all other sports."

If new members are admitted, Hurd said, the conference may be divided into eastern and western divisions.

"That's just one option we're looking at right now," he said. "A divisional setup is being considered, but it's not being considered any more so than any of the other options."

Hurd said expansion has been discussed among current MVC members, and an expansion committee has been set up. However, he added that he could not predict when the league's expansion will take place.

"That's hard to say, because we don't know how long the process of screening the schools will take," Hurd said.

Road defeats rock record; Lady Salukis plunge to 6-11

By Gayle Simpson
Staff Writer

The Lady Saluki basketball team will never be accused of enjoying its road trips. During the past month, SIU lost four games on the road while winning two at home.

The Salukis concluded the semester with a win against DePaul, 64-58, at the Arena. They ended the year with losses to Drake and Dartmouth at the Queens College Invitational in New York.

The new year started on the right foot with a home victory over Western Kentucky, 56-53, but the Salukis' record fell to 6-11 with road losses to Minnesota, 75-54, Western Illinois, 82-76, and Drake, 71-49.

"We have the talent to beat just about anybody," Coach Cindy Scott said, "but we don't seem to be able to play consistently good ball. We're taking good shots, but they don't go in. Our pass selection doesn't seem to be good, we're not moving like we should," Scott continued. "We just seem to play in spurts."

Scott has settled on a starting five, which includes two freshmen and one sophomore. Connie Erickson and Diane Ruby are set at guard, Leola Greer and Alondray Rogers are the forwards, and Mary Scheafer, 6-4, is the center. Only Ruby played for SIU last season.

The Salukis beat DePaul Dec. 19, 64-58. Scott said the victory was a "key win".

"We needed to know that we could beat a team like DePaul," Scott said. "DePaul is a good team."

The Lady Salukis had four players in double figures. Erickson led the field with 18 points and Scheafer added 14.

In New York Dec. 27-29, the Salukis were defeated by Dartmouth, 67-64 and Drake, 71-49.

"Turnovers really hurt us," Scott said. "We were never really in the game against Drake." The Salukis had 20 turnovers against the Lady Bulldogs.

A second road trip during break was also paved with losses.

At Minnesota Jan. 11, the Salukis lost, 75-54. According to Scott, SIU was plagued by cold shooting.

"The gym was freezing and that's how we played — really cold," Scott said.

The Salukis shot 31 percent to Minnesota's 52 percent. SIU had 31 turnovers. Greer led the Lady Salukis with 13 points.

In Macomb, SIU dropped a close game to Western Illinois, 82-76. With 9:48 to go, the Salukis trailed by 16. They narrowed the point span, but could not overcome the deficit.

"The officiating at Western was not good," Scott said, "but the reason we lost was that we missed some crucial free throws."

Touring tankers gain state crown

By Dave Kane
Staff Writer

Battling travel weariness and the effects of "Montezuma's Revenge," the Saluki men's swimming team had enough reserve to chalk up a pair of victories over semester break.

Traveling south of the border along with SIU's women's team, Coach Bob Steele's squad combined with the Lady Salukis to edge the Mexican national team at the University of Guadalajara. After training six days at the Olympic training facility in Mexico City, they ventured to Chicago and won their fourth straight Illinois Intercollegiate Meet.

The Illinois Intercollegiates weren't an artistic success, according to Steele. Although the Salukis set six new meet records, his team was disappointed with its performance.

"We may not have been as fast time-wise, but we swam really well," Steele said. "Considering all the travel and the Montezuma outbreak after the trip to Mexico, we did okay."

SIU defeated a rejuvenated Illinois team and three other Division I schools. Steele was impressed with the Illinois' improvement, especially after his Salukis had beaten Illinois soundly in a dual meet earlier this season at Springfield.

"Illinois was much-improved compared to the first time we went against them," Steele said. "They won the last relay (the 400-yard free) pretty easily."

The Salukis finished second in the 400 free relay, but won the meet over the second-place Illini, 492-420.

"A lot of our guys were disappointed with their times because many of their old high school coaches were there," Steele said. "I really was pleased with the way the trip was going, we were having some good times down in Mexico, but then the Montezuma outbreak really hit us in Chicago."

"In Mexico, out of our 30 people, only Dave Parker and Kees Vervoorn were sick," Steele continued, "but it really took its toll once we got back up here."

Nevertheless, the Salukis had enough reserve. Roger Von Jouanne, who was voted the most valuable male swimmer in the meet at Guadalajara, set meet records in the 200 individual medley, (1:55), and the 400 IM, (4:06.1). He won the 100 butterfly, also. Freshman Mike Brown also was a triple winner, as he won the 200 freestyle, the 1,650 free, and the 500 free in a meet-record 4:35.2.

Anders Norling shattered another meet record in the 200 breaststroke in 2:10.7. The Saluki divers finished first and second one- and three-meter competition, as Rick Theobald scored a meet-record 496 points in each event. Garry Mastey finished second.

So it was a productive trip for the SIU tankers. But there was more to the journey than simply beating the Mexican nationals, the equivalent of that nation's Olympic team, according to Steele.

"The trip meant more than just beating the Mexicans," Steele said.

"I think the meet taught the Mexicans a great deal. We kept coming back even though we were behind. They (the Mexicans) didn't seem to have that character and they folded."

Although the meet wasn't decided until the last day when SIU won both the men's and women's 400-meter medley relay, Steele thought one of the high points of the meet was in the diving competition.

"Rick Theobald winning the one- and three-meter diving was the highlight, I think," Steele said. "He beat a guy named Carlos Giuron, who placed sixth in the three-meter and third in the high-platform diving in the 1976 Olympics. Afterwards, Giuron was so upset he didn't even come out of the locker room for the awards ceremonies."

Steele also was impressed with the Guadalajara pool facility, which he said made SIU's Student Recreation Center Pool "look like a bathtub. It's really what you'd want for a major swimming program. Oddly enough, Guadalajara doesn't even have a swimming team."

The Salukis spent last week preparing for the Nebraska Invitational Jan. 18-19 in Lincoln.

City may study downtown blight

By Mary Harmon
Staff Writer

Commercial blight in downtown Carbondale will be studied by a nine-member citizens' committee if a commercial redevelopment plan is approved by the City Council Monday night.

"Operation Bootstrap" will initiate a long-term plan for the redevelopment of the downtown area. The committee will determine whether commercial properties fit the municipal code definitions of commercial blight and will propose a redevelopment plan for the area.

The issue will be decided by the council at its formal meeting Monday night at 7 in City Council Chambers, 607 E. College St.

The building's age, its sanitary facilities, ventilation, utilities, light and access to transportation and marketing centers will be among the criteria considered by the committee in determining blighted areas. Economic Development Director Jack Hanley stated in a memo to City Manager Carroll Fry.

The elimination of the blighted areas is considered essential to the public interest by the Illinois Legislature and will be financed through private capital with assistance from government agencies, Hanley said. Such projects are authorized under the state's Commercial Redevelopment Act.

"Tax increment financing is a public undertaking," said Mayor Hans Fischer. "Public funds are oftentimes utilized to create a springboard for private contributions. It attracts people interested in investing and opens up new avenues of financing."

Fry said, "The exciting thing about the plan is, if this is carried through to its fruition, it will offer opportunities for entrepreneurs to open up and redevelop the downtown area through a bootstrap method."

By focusing on the needs of the downtown area, the study will provide developers with more flexibility in their commercial planning, the city manager said. The developers will follow a plan, instead of dealing with the ideas of a single person, he said.

State law requires that the nine committee members be appointed by the mayor and approved by the council. The law also states that members should be representative of local merchants, residential and commercial property owners, the advertising media, human relations commissions, labor organizations and civic groups.

Council member Archie Jones said, "The commission will be very valuable in helping to decide what is needed. It will be made up of private people who can show they are interested and willing to help. When the commission decides what is needed, federal and state agencies will contribute money for development and will, possibly through a tax exemption, help individuals get started in business."

Guest parking expanded on SIU-C campus

By Leanne Waxman
Staff Writer

In response to complaints from visitors to the University about inadequate guest parking, Campus Services installed 26 parking meters in two on-campus parking lots during the semester break and designated the spaces as visitors' parking only.

"We desperately needed places for visitors, parents, salespeople and other guests to park other than the visitors' Student Center lot," Merilyn Hogan campus parking director, said.

In the recently constructed 622-space parking lot north of the Communications Building, 20 parking spaces near the lot's entrance have been marked with green visitors' parking only signs and have been fitted with eight-hour parking meters like the ones in the Student Center metered lot. Seven of the 47 spaces in the University lot behind Pulliam Hall have also been fitted with meters, which take quarters only and have a maximum time limit of eight hours.

"Finding a place to park on-campus was an inconvenience for visitors. We try to work with the public as well as faculty, staff and students," Hogan said.

Any vehicle marked with a yellow, red or blue University parking decal will be ticketed if parked in the designated spaces. Hogan defined a guest as "anyone not affiliated with the University."

Vehicles marked with gold Emeritus or 25-year-service parking decals will be allowed to park in the designated spaces. Vehicles with gold Emeritus decals will not have to pay the meter, but cars marked with gold 25-year-service decals will be required to pay for parking in the spaces. Gold decals are issued to University personnel who have been employed for 25 years or more and to retired professors, Hogan said.

Hogan said the University is considering the installation of eight-hour meters in the lot near Woody Hall to help alleviate some of the traffic congestion. The 30-minute meters now used in the lot do not allow enough time for students, faculty members and others to complete their business in Woody Hall, Hogan said.

"Tentative" plans were made to designate half the 67-space lot near Woody Hall as parking for visitors and half of the lot as parking for red- and blue-stickered cars, according to Hogan. Plans to furnish other University parking lots on-campus with parking for visitors depend on the success of the 26 spaces, Hogan said.

"This is the first time we have experimented with providing visitors parking in University lots. We may have to add some spaces or we may have to take some meters out," Hogan said.

Drug arrest leads to criticism

By Leanne Waxman
Staff Writer

The recent arrest of two SIUC students on drug related charges has drawn criticism from witnesses of the arrest but has been defended by the director of the Southern Illinois Enforcement Group.

SIEG agents last Thursday followed Kevin E. Young and James C. Roysse to Peebles Pethouse, located east of Carbondale, for the alleged sale earlier in the day of $5,500 worth of cocaine.

Young, a junior in zoology, and Roysse, a senior in business administration, were arrested along with Debbie Clinton, who was taken into custody an hour later in connection with the alleged sale at their Carterville residence.

"Six guys came storming in with shotguns. They didn't identify themselves as cops. I thought I was getting robbed," said witness Linda Pritchett of the arrest made in Peebles. Pritchett and her husband, Bret, own Peebles.

SIEG Director Richard Pariser rebutted the accusations made by Pritchett. He said the three plainclothed SIEG agents, who were assisted by two uniformed University police officers, a plainclothed University police officer and a plainclothed Williamson County detective, displayed police badges before making the arrest.

Pariser said a marked University security police car was parked outside the shop, further identifying the men as police officials.

Mike Cutrell, owner of Suzuki of Carbondale, located two buildings to the east of Peebles, also said he thought a business in the shopping center was being robbed.

"An old car pulled up in front of my store and some guys, two of them dressed like hunters, began unloading shotguns. There was no indication they were cops. It looked like the perfect set up for a robbery," Cutrell said.

Young, Roysse and Clinton were arrested for the unlawful delivery of a controlled substance. The men were charged with Class X felonies.

Young is free on $35,000 bond, Roysse on $30,000 bond and Clinton on $25,000 bond.

Pariser said the arrest was made inside Peebles rather than outside the shop or at the Carterville residence because he suspected the two men had the money involved in the alleged drug sale in their possession. Because Roysse and Young entered Peebles, Pariser said he wanted to make sure they were not making purchases with the money.

Pritchett said, "It wasn't until I heard 'you're under arrest,' that they put handcuffs on them that I knew they were cops. If an older person had been in the shop at the time, they would have had a heart attack. I almost did. They could have waited until the two guys got outside. They completely disrupted our business. They just didn't have any respect."

Archaeology post given to SIU men

By Conrad Stunts
Staff Writer

Jon Muller, an SIUC associate professor of anthropology, has been named the new president of the Illinois Archaeological Survey.

Muller, who received his doctorate in Anthropology from Harvard University in 1967, has been with the Survey for 12 years. He has served as president-elect of the IAS, on its board of directors and on its quality control committee.

The IAS is a not-for-profit corporation with approximately 200 members, mostly professional archaeologists, dedicated to recording and salvaging archaeological sites in Illinois. The Survey does very little excavation work.

"Our major concern is ensuring that work is going to be done by people that are qualified," Muller said.

He said that new legislation makes it imperative that agencies and private corporations, like coal companies, prepare environmental impact statements which require them to conduct survey or excavation work on sites that may be destroyed. Archaeologists from around the United States may be contracted to do the dig, Muller said, and the IAS just wants to ensure the work's professionalism.

"We want to preserve as much as we can for future generations," he said.

Electric bills go up; may increase again

by Ella Reilly
Staff Writer

Returning students will find that their electric bills have increased as a result of a Illinois Commerce Commission decision in December, but the increase may be even greater if the Central Illinois Public Service Co. is successful in court.

CIPS's average residential winter electric bill of $26.39 a month is increasing by $2.65 and may increase by another $1.65. CIPS is asking for a new hearing from the ICC which granted CIPS a 7.6 percent rate hike in December, two-thirds of the company's request.

Sam Poe, CIPS public relations manager, said the utility company is preparing a rehearing petition which CIPS plans to file before the ICC deadline at the end of next week.

Petitions asking ICC commissioners to change their decision are generally denied, but the rehearing petitions are a step in the process needed before CIPS can challenge the ICC ruling in court. A CIPS spokesman previously stated that the company may go to court.

The ICC denied a petition Thursday filed by the Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation of Springfield to reopen the CIPS rate case. The foundation filed on behalf of five low-income individuals.

Ernest K. Nielsen of the foundation said that they filed the motion merely as a procedural move so the foundation could participate in any court appeal of the case.

The 7.6 percent rate increase will generate $22.2 million in additional annual revenue for CIPS. The company had requested a 12.1 percent increase which would have produced $35 million annually.

CIPS had argued that the increase is necessary to pay for capital and operating costs of new pollution control facilities. CIPS invested $137 million in pollution control facilities, including a sulfur dioxide scrubber system at Newton and a wastewater treatment facility at Coffeen.

The new $121 million scrubber system at the Newton Power Station began full operation in December. CIPS said the scrubber is necessary if the company is to burn high-sulphur Illinois coal and meet environmental standards. The scrubber removes sulfur dioxide from the gases created when the coal is burned.

The ICC refused to allow wholesale charges to other utilities and cooperatives to be counted in the company's rate base, which accounted for the major cut in the CIPS request.

The ICC determined that the company was earning a greater rate of return on investments from its retail customers than from its wholesale users and that residential customers were subsidizing cheaper rates charged to wholesale customers.

City residents may have to pay snow fines

By Mary Ann McNulty
Staff Writer

The city may begin collecting fines from some Carbondale residents who received tickets, for not shoveling their sidewalks last year.

George Kiriakis, Carbondale city attorney, said the city will begin prosecuting some of the 150 residents who received tickets last year for not shoveling snow from their walks.

The city postponed prosecution pending the Illinois Supreme Court's decision on the constitutionality of the 1978 Carbondale ordinance that requires residents—both tenants and homeowners—to shovel a 30-inch path on all sidewalks adjoining their property within 24 hours of a snowfall. In December, the Supreme Court reversed the Jackson County Circuit Court's decision which found the ordinance invalid.

Kiriakis said Betsy Byrnes, assistant city attorney, will begin prosecuting the ticket holders as soon as the appeal time expires on the case. The ticket holders face penalties from $10 to $500 if found guilty of violating the ordinance.
