Reagan nominates first woman justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan named Arizona judge Sandra D. O'Connor on Tuesday to become the first woman justice in the 101 years of the Supreme Court.

Mrs. O'Connor, 51, who Reagan called "a person for all seasons," would fill the vacancy created by Justice Potter Stewart's retirement. And her selection as the court's 182nd justice, following 101 "Brethren," matches the president's campaign pledge to name a woman to one of the first vacancies.

Reagan called it "the most awesome appointment" within his power.

In Phoenix, Mrs. O'Connor told a news conference that "This is a momentous day in my life and the life of my family. I am extremely happy and honored to have been nominated by President Reagan for a position on the U.S. Supreme Court."

If confirmed, I will do my best to serve the court and this nation in a manner that will bring credit to the president, to my family and to all the people of this great nation," she said.

The president announced his choice on a nationwide broadcast from the White House press room. He had decided upon Mrs. O'Connor following a personal interview with her last week in the Oval Office and a follow-up telephone call late Monday.

Reagan urged the Senate to give "swift bi-partisan confirmation" to her "so that, as soon as possible, she may take her seat on the court and her place in history." The court, now in recess, does not begin its 1981-82 term until October.

Some opposition already was brewing among the far right to her prospective nomination, which Reagan will not formally send to the Senate until an FBI background check is completed.

Asked about Mrs. O'Connor's position on the extremely sensitive abortion issue, Reagan, who said he had interviewed the intended nominee, told reporters as he left the press room: "I am completely satisfied."

At her press conference, Mrs.

O'Connor declined questions over that issue, the ERA and others, saying "I'm sorry. I cannot address myself to substantive issues pending my confirmation."

But deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said she had told the president "she is personally opposed to abortion and that it was especially abhorrent to her. She also feels the subject of the regulation of abortion is a legitimate subject for the legislative area."

John Kolbe, political editor of the Phoenix Gazette, said "She does not have an image as being a drummer for ERA or abortion." A review of her decisions since she became a judge on the Arizona Court of Appeals in 1979 showed that she is a scholarly and lucid writer, but offered little insight into her philosophy.

The nomination was saluted by Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization of Women, who said "we believe it's a victory for the women's movement."

"That she would be sympathetic to women's rights would be very significant" because recent Supreme Court votes on issues in this area have been close, Ms. Smeal said.

Women's groups have been harshly critical of the president for failing to appoint what they consider sufficient numbers of women to important posts in the government.

Iris Mitgang, head of the National Women's Political Caucus, declared that "Women are breaking the barrier of nearly 200 years of exclusion in decision-making in our nation. Justice O'Connor's nomination will be a major step in moving toward equal justice in every court in our land."

Cindy Maybeck, an NWPAC spokeswoman, said the group was "satisfied" with Mrs. O'Connor's positions on issues that are of concern to us "like 'freedom of choice' on abortion and the ERA."

Reagan said "She is truly a person for all seasons, possessing those unique qualities of temperament, fairness, intellectual capacity and devotion to the public good which have characterized the 101 'Brethren' who have preceded her."

By nominating Mrs. O'Connor, Reagan will fulfill a campaign pledge that one of the first justices he would nominate for the court would be a woman.

But he said to appoint "a woman merely to do so" would not be fair "to women, nor to future generations of all Americans whose lives are so deeply affected by decisions of the court."

He said he gave "very careful review and consideration" to his decision. The administration's search for Stewart's replacement began after it got word in late April that the justice would retire when the court's term ended last Thursday, according to Attorney General William French Smith.

Smith, who said that Mrs. O'Connor was chosen "because of her ideal qualifications and background," headed the administration's team searching

Fireworks reset for Friday

If at first you don't succeed, try, try, again. The Carbondale Lions are following this timeworn advice and are going to try once again to put on their annual fireworks display, which was cancelled three times last weekend due to the heavy rains that soaked Carbondale.

The display will be at 8:30 p.m. Friday, weather permitting, at SIUC Director of Security Virgil Trummer said University police will close Reservoir Road and Douglas Drive when the show starts. They want to leave open the area immediately surrounding the field for quick exit at the end of the display and in case of emergency.

IBHE grant to Morris Library to fund more computerization

By Brenda Wilgenbusch
Staff Writer

The Illinois Board of Higher Education approved a $219,000 grant for further computerization at Morris Library, as well as grants for three cooperative projects in the area, Chancellor Kenneth Shaw said Tuesday.

Morris Library is in the process of computerizing its records and $174,000 of the money will be used for that project. Part of the total award, $45,000, was approved for use by the Medical School at SIUC and will be used to add titles of library materials to a computer inventory and to purchase computer terminal equipment, an IBHE report said.

The IBHE approved use of Higher Education Cooperation

Act grants for funding the Illinois Library Computer System in 1978. The $174,000 grant for fiscal year 1982 will complete the second year of a three-year computerization project at Morris Library, an IBHE report said.

Morris Library received an $85,000 grant last year and used the money for conversion of records to computer data and for purchase of new equipment, Kenneth Peterson, dean of library affairs, said. This year's grant will help complete the conversion and help buy new computer terminals, he said.

"We still have one more year (in the computerization program)," Peterson said, "but this brings the project much closer to completion." A request for additional funds will be made next year, he said.

Three other grants approved Tuesday were for projects in Southern Illinois.

The Southern Illinois Cooperative Arts Project, formed this year by 14 institutions to coordinate resource sharing among post-secondary schools and community arts organizations, will receive $25,000.

The Southern Illinois Collegiate Common Market, an association providing a range of regional planning and programming in Southern Illinois, will receive $20,000. SICCM also coordinates the delivery of instructional programs and activities provided by cooperating institutions to areas where such service is unavailable.

Board to vote on Mace's paid leave

By Brenda Wilgenbusch
Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees is expected to consider a paid leave for former vice president of university relations George Mace at its monthly meeting at 10 a.m. Thursday in Student Center Ballroom B.

Mace, who resigned in May to serve as executive consultant for the American Council on Education, may receive a $50,000 paid leave.

Charles McCaughan, a Carbondale resident, is expected to speak. Vice Chancellor James Brown said

Tuesday that Chancellor Kenneth Shaw has sent him a letter saying he will recommend at Thursday's meeting that the board chairman recognize McCaughan before personnel matters are discussed.

McCaughan has circulated petitions protesting the University's leave-with-pay policy for administrators.

The board is also scheduled to consider the Resource Allocation and Management Program guidelines for fiscal year 1983. The guidelines will serve as a basis for the University's 1983 budget proposal, Brown said.

Included in the RAMP guidelines are planning statements, program reviews, request for new and/or changed programs, and special analytical studies, such as an assessment of the need for equipment requested by campus areas, he said.

Contract bids for three campus improvement projects recently approved by the board will also be considered, according to the agenda.

The three projects include replacement of deteriorated heating and cooling piping at Schneider Hall.

Causes of Liverpool violence probed by Britain's officials

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — Home Secretary William Whitlaw toured the rubble-strewn streets of Liverpool's Toxteth district Tuesday after police cleared them of youths who looted and burned buildings for a third straight night.

At least 260 policemen and dozens of youths were injured in the violence — most of them Sunday night, when the rioting reached its peak. Not since 1780, when Lord George Gordon led a Protestant mob that seized central London and sacked Roman Catholic homes and the Bank of England, has the nation seen the likes of the riots in Toxteth.

In London, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher defended herself in the House of Commons against charges that her Conservative government's stringent economic policies had helped cause the riots by fostering joblessness in the northwest seaport city.

"The area is deprived and neglected, not least by you," she was told by Robert Kilroy-Silk, an opposition Labor Party legislator.

Mrs. Thatcher said unemployment, while "most certainly one of" the causes of the unrest, was not the only one. "We are anxious to take a very constructive approach to it, and help all we can," she said.

Mrs. Thatcher said she "certainly will at the appropriate time, visit the area." In the interim, she said, the panel that has been probing violence three months ago in the south London district of Brixton will be asked to expand its inquiry to include Liverpool and a riot last Friday in the west London district of Southall.

"If we are going to attract jobs and give people hope, then the image of the area is crucially important," he said.

Whitelaw also criticized "irresponsible" parents for allowing their children to take part in the riots.

Iran executes nine, expels Reuters

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran's Islamic regime executed nine more opponents Tuesday and closed the Tehran bureau of the British news agency Reuters, Tehran Radio said.

The government also expelled three South Korean diplomats and advised most of the rest of the South Korean Embassy staff to leave within two weeks, the radio broadcasts monitored in Beirut said.

No reason was given for the move, which would leave three South Korean diplomats and four administrative officials at the embassy.

Tehran Radio said eight men and one woman were executed before dawn on charges of organizing riots to protest the ouster of President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr. The latest deaths brought to 140 the number of government opponents executed since Bani-Sadr's dismissal on June 22.

A Reuters spokesman in London said the Iranian government had offered no specific examples of bias when it closed the bureau and ordered Reuters correspondents Barry May, Alan Philips and Phil Davison to leave Iran within 48 hours.

A statement by Iran's Information Ministry said the government closed the Reuters bureau because a recent review of its coverage had uncovered 10 instances of "biased and untrue reporting."

In the latest alleged act of terrorism announced by the government, authorities claimed a bomb was discovered and defused at a Tehran mosque shortly before worshippers converged for Monday night prayers.

Cleanup Day plans may include campus

By Joe Agnew
Staff Writer

The SIU campus may be included in this fall's second annual Undergraduate Student Organization Carbondale Cleanup Day. Planners of the event are also hoping for more city participation.

According to cleanup day chairman John Dunning, about 10 people have signed up to participate in the city-wide cleanup scheduled for Oct. 10. Dunning said he expects to have more people signed up when students begin to arrive for the fall semester.

"This year, we're trying to get more community involvement," Dunning said. "Last year, it was mostly students who participated."

Dunning said his office recently met with the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce to get its help in involving various community groups and businesses. He added that his office is also checking the possibility of including the SIU campus in this year's cleanup.

"We couldn't last year because of the union contract with the university," Dunning said. A clause in the contract for University maintenance employees stipulates that only union members may clean up the grounds.

Eight committees have been formed to assist in the organization of the cleanup, according to Dunning. Besides an executive committee to coordinate the others, there will be committees for public relations, finance, environmental search, recruitment and organization, equipment, ceremonies, and rules. Dunning said that anyone wishing to work on one of the committees should contact him at his USO office.

Dunning said the committee for public relations will assist in preparing radio and newspaper announcements for the event. Those working in finance will be responsible for collecting money and prizes from local businesses and organizations.

The search committee will be in charge of surveying areas of the city in need of cleanup, and will map out where the cleanup crews will go. Recruitment committees will try to get campus and city organizations to participate in the event.

The committee in charge of equipment will be responsible for gathering items such as plastic bags. The ceremony committee will assist in finding performing groups and get different organizations to put on demonstrations. The rules committee will set up the regulations for participating Slight rise in inflation is 'good news'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Boosted by rising food prices, inflation at the wholesale level picked up in June but still remained well below last year's pace, the government reported Tuesday.

"It's generally good news on inflation," said private economist Allen Sinai. "It confirms that we are clearly into single-digit territory—probably permanently."

But Sinai and other analysts warned that rising food prices could force up inflation during the rest of the year.

Much of the relief consumers will get from inflation this year has already occurred, said Edward Yardeni, chief economist and vice president of the brokerage firm of E.F. Hutton & Co. Inc.

"We can expect to see food inflation accelerate over the second half of the year," he said.

The Labor Department's newest inflation report said wholesale prices for finished goods—goods ready for sale—increased 0.6 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis to an annual rate of 6.9 percent. That was a gain over the 4.6 percent annual rate reported in May.

For the 12-month period from June 1950 to last month, wholesale prices rose 10.2 percent, the department reported. Inflation at the wholesale level rose 11.8 percent in 1980.

The 1967-based Producer Price Index for finished goods—the measure of inflation at the wholesale level—rose 0.4 percent in June to 269.9, before seasonal adjustment. That means goods costing $10 at wholesale in 1967 cost $26.99 last month.

June's gain came from increases in food and energy prices. Food prices, after showing virtually no net change from November through May, increased 0.5 percent in June for products ready for retail sale. Beef and veal prices shot up 2.4 percent last month, after a 0.3 percent rise in May. Also climbing were prices for pork, eggs, refined sugar, fresh and dried vegetables, bakery products and dairy products. Declines were reported for processed poultry, fresh fruits and roasted coffee.

Energy prices, declining in May for the first time in more than three years, edged up a slight 0.2 percent last month, the department said. Home heating oil prices increased 0.4 percent after a 1.2 percent drop in May. Gasoline prices were off 1.2 percent, less than May's 1.8 percent decline. Gains were reported in natural gas prices.

Pair crossing U.S. in wheelchairs

By Cindy Clausen
Staff Writer

If during your summer journeys you pass two wheelchair travellers followed by a white van with flashing yellow lights, wave to two of America's pioneers, George Murray and Dan Carpenter.

Murray and Carpenter set out from Los Angeles April 10 on a mission to become the first persons to cross the United States in wheelchairs.

The two men spent Monday night in a Carbondale motel after completing 2,200 miles of the 3,400-mile journey to New York City. They expect to complete their "Continental Quest" in mid-September.

Murray and Carpenter began Tuesday's journey down Route 13 at 3 a.m. They started at the Ramada Inn, west of Carbondale, and planned to reach the east side of Marion by 6 a.m. in order to avoid morning traffic.

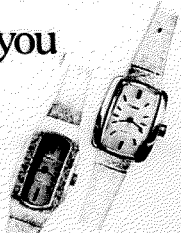

Murray said the pair's average speed is nine mph and their average trek per day is 26.2 miles.

Murray, 33, of Tampa, Fla., and Carpenter, 34, of Holiday, Fla., are making the trip to help publicize the International Year of Disabled Persons. They will be the first people ever to cross any continent in wheelchairs.

They are followed by Fred McBee driving a van supplied by Restonic Mattress Corp.

Mace salary deal shows SIU-C not accountable

Editor's note: This letter was sent to the editor of the Southern Illinoisian.
 In reading your editorial regarding University excesses, I have discovered a new definition: Southern Illinois University—an organization supported by taxpayers, run by administrators and a Board of Trustees who are accountable to no one and who claim exemption from state laws.
 I would like to correct several errors and distortions in your editorial. You stated that, "The University is a professional institution that should be run by professional educators and administrators."
 Correction—The University is a government education institution which should be run by professional educators and administrators who treat it as such.
 To correct another distortion, I would like to set the record straight, the petition being circulated is not against the educator or the department. It is against the sort of "deal" which seems to have been made in the Mace issue. Incidentally, the first mention of this "deal" being called a "sabbatical" came from the office of Chancellor Kenneth Shaw. You are correct, Mr. Editor, when you say that the Mace situation falls into none of the categories resembling a sabbatical.

 There seems to be a need for some answers to several pertinent questions. Maybe you can answer them: 1. Who sets the "norm" for administrators at Shaw's level? 2. Is his "level" so much higher than the governor of the state that he deserves $10,000 a year more in salary? 3. With all the freedom that the "exempt from state law" organizations seems to have, just who are the administrators and trustees accountable to?
 In your editorial you do admit that University excesses and questionable expenses do exist that may not be in the best interest of the taxpayer, yet you are saying let it slide. Tiny portions can soon become gigantic, if allowed to breed unignored. Apathy is a disease, and those who ignore wrongdoings are a part of those wrongdoings.
 There may be more important education mountains to climb but at the rate it's costing to get over the hills, we may never get to the foot of the mountain. Ask any student trying to work his way through school what his "education mountain" is.—Evyv McCaughan, Carbondale.

Fundamentalist university struggling to retain status as religious institution

FOR THE PAST 10 years the Bob Jones University of Greenville, S.C., has been fighting a battle with the U.S. Internal Revenue Service. The battle is about to go into a decisive round. It's a fight that concerns every one of us.

James J. Kilpatrick

For the record, the university is a fundamentalist religious institution, founded in 1927, now headed by Dr. Bob Jones III. It has a current enrollment of 6,300 and a teaching staff of roughly 1,000.
 The government has not challenged the pervasive role of religion in the university's life. Nearly half of the students are studying for the ministry or preparing to teach in Christian schools. Every teacher must be a born-again Christian who must testify to at least one saving experience with Jesus Christ. Prayer is a continuing occupation. Worldly amusements are prohibited, including dancing, use of tobacco, movie-going and listening to jazz or rock music.

tax exemption is tied directly to the provision that deals with the deductibility of contributions to religious institutions. If the government prevails, the university could be liable for more than half a million dollars in back taxes. Worse still, without a certificate of deductibility, the contributions on which the university depends would be keenly affected. You will surmise correctly that Bob Jones receives no direct federal aid of any sort.

terracial marriage; therefore, Bob Jones is not charitable and does not qualify.

THIS IS incredible. The government is contending, in effect, that the First Amendment's guarantee of freedom of religion must yield to a bureaucratic determination of "public policies." Churches and religious schools must conform to IRS decrees or face the punitive consequences. An Orthodox Jewish school, by extension, would have to recruit students and employ staff solely on racial criteria. How can this be?

BUT THE ISSUE now being urged upon the U.S. Supreme Court has implications that reach far beyond this fundamentalist campus in South Carolina. Implicit in the government's position is the government's power to abridge the freedom of religion. In his petition for Supreme Court review, William B. Ball, the brilliant Pennsylvania lawyer whose First Amendment victories have gained national renown, contends that "all religious institutions in the United States are potentially threatened" by the government's line of reasoning in the Bob Jones case.

It probably will be October before the Supreme Court announces whether it will hear the university's appeal from the adverse ruling in the circuit court below. Meanwhile, perhaps Congress can be alerted to the whole affair. Mr. Reagan's pending tax bill has something for everyone. It would be a blow for liberty if the bill were amended to provide something for fundamentalists who believe unpopular beliefs.—(c) 1981, Universal Press Syndicate.

THE FOURTH U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals did not dispute a trial court's finding that "A primary fundamentalist conviction (of the university) is that the Scriptures forbid interracial... dating and marriage..." These beliefs, supported by the university's interpretation of the Bible, "are genuine religious beliefs."

Now we come to the heart of the matter: Is such a religious institution, holding such beliefs, a religious institution under the tax code? The IRS says it is not. The government's position is that unless Bob Jones University formally renounces these "genuine religious beliefs" and abolishes its doctrinal position on interracial marriage, the university cannot qualify for tax exemption.

For the university, the issue is very nearly an issue of surviving or perishing. The code provision that deals with

That line of reasoning, to state the matter mildly, is bizarre. The tax code accords exemption and deductibility to organizations operated exclusively for "religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes." The IRS contends that the word "charitable" applies to all the subject institutions; no institution is "charitable" if its racial views violate public policy; the public policy of the government approves in-

Lottery for U of I unjust

Recently, a bill passed the Illinois House that should be called to your "investigative attention." This bill called for a lottery game to benefit the University of Illinois Athletic Department. While this does sound like a good idea (for the U of I), the signing of this bill by the governor without any questions being raised would be an injustice. The injustice would be directly affecting all the other state schools.

Dave Wilson case, I'm wondering if it isn't manipulating the media a little bit. The idea that the government is going to produce a game so blatantly discriminatory against the other state schools would be unfair.

Maybe the lawmakers think the U of I is the only state school that can attract nationally competitive (revenue producing sports) athletes. The idea that this bill is now sitting on Gov James Thompson's desk will hopefully promote people in the proper places to raise these same questions.

We are also submitting a copy of this letter to Governor Thompson.—R. Guinn Zillman, Senior, Marketing, Editor's note: This letter was also signed by eight other persons.

The questions being raised are: 1) Who sponsored this bill? (maybe a Champaign lawmaker?) 2) How did this bill pass without any fanfare? 3) What was the vote tally? 4) How did our area representatives vote?
 While I'm sure the U of I is still sobbing about losing the Shortage not in middle level

A column disagreeing with my draft column appeared in which there are some things with which I agree, and some with which I disagree.

The writer is correct that we face a problem of "military establishment equipped with the most advanced and most expensive weapons in the world, but with no one who knows how to use them."
 His assertion about middle-level personnel was true a year ago, but is no longer true. The changes which Congress has authorized in pay scale have substantially changed the situation which he describes.

And studies indicate that if there is a universal service with the military service as one of the options with substantial education benefits, there will be more than enough people volunteering, and we will get a much better economic mix than we now have.—Paul Simon, U.S. Representative, 24th District.

Right to Life opposes O'Connor's platform

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Right to Life Committee vigorously opposes President Reagan's nomination of Sandra O'Connor to the Supreme Court, contending today she shows "a complete lack of respect for the unborn."

In announcing his decision today to nominate Mrs. O'Connor, Reagan said, "I am completely satisfied" with her stand on abortion.

And Attorney General William French Smith told reporters the search team thoroughly checked her background.

"Her record in that respect (right to life) is for all to see and I'm sure that may be one of the aspects considered during her confirmation hearings," Smith said. "There was not a single issue considered—she was chosen for her overall qualifications."

The NRLC, which voiced its concerns to the White House Sunday night, said it and other anti-abortion groups will fight the nomination because of Mrs. O'Connor's record in the Arizona Senate.

"Sandra O'Connor's public record indicates a complete lack of respect for the right to life of unborn human beings," said NRLC President J.C. Wilke. "The entire pro-life movement will oppose her confirmation."

As an Arizona state senator, she repeatedly worked for pro-abortion legislation and against pro-life initiatives," Wilke said. "Her appointment would be totally inconsistent with the Republican platform and with President Reagan's oft-stated recognition of the right to life of unborn babies."

That platform called for the appointment of "judges who 'respect traditional family values and the sanctity of human life.'"

In 1974, Mrs. O'Connor sponsored a bill to put the ERA to an advisory committee. She also opposed a bill to forbid abortions at University Hospital in Tucson unless the mother's life was endangered.

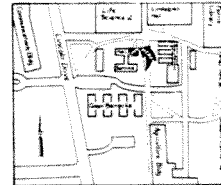

Paul Steiner, a spokesman for the Planned Parenthood group in Phoenix, told the Washington Star Mrs. O'Connor "was not involved" in the abortion controversy in Arizona.

Club offers help to job seekers

By Vicki Olgeaty
Staff Writer

An innovative form of help will soon be available for job seekers in the Southern Illinois area. A job club program will begin in October, according to Robert Philip, director of the National Office of Program Development.

The job club program is a group-oriented behavioral approach to finding jobs, Philip said. Counselors trained in the social services teach clients job-seeking techniques, he said.

Philip said that looking for work is frustrating because the only goal in the mind of the job seeker is that of landing a job. The job club approach breaks the job search process into a series of small goals that lead up to the final goal of landing a job, he said.

"Our information program turns the job search process into a job itself," Philip said.

The job club concept was developed eight years ago from studies done in the Southern Illinois area by the Department of Mental Health, Philip said. Since then, job club programs have been developed in 17 states, he said.

"The program was developed out of a mental health orientation," Philip said. "Unemployment is a major underlying variable of many of today's social problems. If you can tackle the unemployment problem, you can reduce the other peripheral social problems."

The job club programs help anyone from a "grammar school dropout to a person with a doctorate," Philip said.

The Carbondale job club will be funded by Title VII of the Comprehensive Education and Training Act, Philip said.

"Clients who qualify for CETA assistance can receive our service for free—actually more than just free," he said. "CETA clients will receive small payments to offset the expense of job hunting."

People who wish to participate in the job club program but do not qualify for CETA assistance may do so for a fee, Philip said. No fee schedule has

Jasmine to perform at Turley Park

By Joe Walter
Staff Writer

Jasmine, a jazz duo, will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday in the gazebo at Turley Park as the fourth in a series of Sunset co certs sponsored by the Student Center, the Student Programming Council and the Carbondale Park District.

Jasmine is made up of Carol

Schmidt and Michele Isam. Schmidt plays piano and occasionally guitar and Isam plays alto and soprano saxophone, occasionally switching to clarinet. Both sing lead vocals.

Though Jasmine's music is basically in the jazz and pop category, their material also shows influences of 60s rock, early Motown and a variety of music from the 40s. Contemporary female artists such as Carole Bayer Sager and Laura Nyro have also made their impressions on Jasmine.

The group is also increasing the amount of their original material into their act.

If it rains, the concert will be moved to Ballroom D of the Student Center.

been made for Carbondale yet. One of the pitfalls of job seeking is that people make the job search process a part-time activity, Philip said. "People are not willing to put their ego on the line more than a few times a week."

The job club clients look for jobs on a full-time basis, Philip said. They daily monitor how they are doing on progress charts so that each client can compare his progress with that of present group members and past clients who have found a job, he said.

The progress charts show clients how far they probably need to go to find a job, Philip said.

The placement rate of the program ranges from 75 to 95 percent in different areas of the country, Philip said. A study done by the Department of Labor in five different locations around the country showed that the job club approach is twice as effective as the conventional job searching approach, Philip said.

It takes an average of two weeks for a client to find a job, Philip said.

The Effingham job club, the nearest program now operating, handles between 40 and 60 clients a month, he said.

"We do not find a job for people," Philip said. "We help people to find their own jobs."

Philip said the conventional job search relies largely on want ads, but that they are the least effective. Only 10 percent of available jobs are advertised, and half of those are filled the first day they are in the newspaper, Philip said.

The job club clients search the hidden job market, the other 90 percent of the available jobs that are never advertised in newspapers or conventional employment agencies, Philip said.

Former clients can receive additional assistance, Philip said.

Plaster show will include Reagan figure

CHICAGO (AP) - Plaster caricatures of President Reagan and his wife Nancy sit on a rattan loveseat in the lobby of the Kluczynski Federal Building. The first lady says the plane needs redecorating, just like she did at the White House. Sculptor John Sefick is at it again. The life-size figures were unveiled on Monday and the work is titled "Nancy Redecorating the Kluczynski Building."

An imitation of Nancy's voice comes from a tape recorder. She exclaims that the decor of the building "just won't do." She dislikes the color scheme - charcoal and gray - and the tall columns and high ceilings. She observes that the stark walls would look better papered with something pretty. Inspired by reports of the first lady's redecorating of the White House, Sefick imagined her displeasure at the stark federal building.

The president remains silent, leaving all the talking to his wife.

"She's almost overwhelming him," explained Sefick, a federal probation officer by day and sculptor by night who specializes in political spoofing.

Sefick says half his time is spent convincing authorities to permit his art to be exhibited. He said his exhibit of the Reagans, who will be in Chicago Tuesday night for a fund raiser, was approved by the White House before it was installed at the federal building.

It is Sefick's third political exhibit. He had one of former Mayor Michael A. Bilandic telling his wife to "throw another log on the fire... I think it's starting to snow again..." during the big blizzard of 1979. And he had one of Mayor Jane Byrne ordering her husband, Jay McMullen, to "fire everybody."

Sun-fueled aircraft crosses Channel for the first time

MANSTON, England (AP) - Solar Challenger, an American-built sun-powered aircraft, successfully completed on Tuesday the first crossing of the English Channel by a solar plane.

The Challenger landed at Manston Royal Air Force base at 15:02 local time (10:02 CDT), said a spokesman for the base - 5 1/2 hours after takeoff from Cormeilles-en-Valain, France, 185 miles away.

"By all accounts, the flight was a great success," said the spokesman. American pilot Stephen Ptacek, 28, was not immediately available for comment but was reported in good shape.

Ptacek was expected to remain overnight at the base, three miles west of the English port town of Ramsgate. After several false starts, the 216-pound plane lifted off from Cormeilles and headed north for England at 11:30 a.m. (4:30 a.m. CDT).

The plane made its first attempt at crossing the Channel on June 14, but was hampered by hazy skies and forced to return. The weather Tuesday was generally sunny with scattered clouds.

The Solar Challenger is powered by more than 16,000 solar cells on moveable panels on top of the wings. It can reach 42 mph. The glider-like plane was designed by Paul McCready, who built the Gossamer Albatross, a man-powered plane.

Vandals open water valve; Newark left with low supply

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Vandals opened a valve at an aqueduct during the night, triggering a chain reaction that sent millions of gallons of water down a mountainside, and officials said Tuesday that Newark would be critically short of water for much of the summer.

City civil engineer Jim Conley said between 50 million and 100 million gallons cascaded down a mountain in Morris County where the valve was located, causing extensive property damage in Pequannock Township and carving a 1,000-foot long gorge in the hillside.

But even more serious, Conley said, was the fact that two aqueducts were broken, leaving the city unable to draw water from its reservoir.

"It was a major catastrophe," Conley said. "Right now we have to juggle supplies around so we can keep in service."

The city of Newark and the surrounding municipalities that buy water from Newark will have to find alternate sources of water for as long as two months, Conley said.

City officials in Newark were meeting Tuesday to discuss a state of emergency declaration. That declaration would put city residents under the restrictions fashioned only a few months ago when the state was in the grips of a fierce drought.

Conley said the vandals apparently broke into a manhole late Monday night or early Tuesday morning and opened a water valve at the Pequannock aqueduct, about 25 miles northwest of Newark.

Smith said he hoped the FBI checks could be completed so that the actual nomination could be sent to the Senate in fewer than four weeks.

The president wants the Senate to hold its hearings and vote on the nomination for Mrs. O'Connor to be on the bench by the first Monday in October when the next Supreme Court term begins.

groups and individuals to follow in order to win prizes.

Dunning said the contests last year included five categories. Winners in each were judged on the total weight of trash they collected. The categories included fraternities, dorm floors, individuals, recognized student organizers and community members.

Dunning said the USO is also allocating $1,000 to assist in financing the event. He said the money will be used for promotions, buttons, advertising, banners, trash bags, brooms, and dust pans. He said Turley Park is being considered as the operational base for the day's events.

The broom used in last year's cleanup, which was named the largest working broom in the world by Ripley's Believe it or Not, could possibly make an appearance this year, Dunning said, but he added that the USO hasn't made a final decision on whether to use it. Ten tons of trash were collected in the 1980 sweep.

Two sports bosses say strike will kill baseball's momentum

CHICAGO (UPI) — A pair of non-baseball executives agree about the effect of the baseball strike on team momentum—at least momentum at the box office.

Both William Wirtz, president of the Chicago Black Hawks, and Jim Finks, general manager of the NFL Chicago Bears, say there could be problems for teams which drew poorly before the strike or have trouble getting going again when it ends.

"I know for sure the White Sox are worried about the team momentum," Wirtz said. "They were finally just getting some built and the strike hit them at a devastating time."

Finks, in a later interview, used the phrase in the same context.

"People talk about individual momentum, but there is such a thing as a team in sports. Players make up a team, but in pro sports, especially baseball, a franchise gets team momentum," Finks said. "The White Sox are going to lose some."

Wirtz and Finks were not talking about the performance levels of the teams, but rather economics. Certainly the disruption of a strike will affect some teams' playing ability, but the factor should affect all teams equally.

Not so with economics. In the case of the White Sox, the new owners were off and running toward generating record attendance. In addition, the interest in the club was on the rise—due mostly to the success on the field—at the time the strike hit.

"I don't know whether they will be able to recover," Wirtz said. "It's going to take a long time to build up that type of interest. I would guess if they can't start winning right away, but it will take time to bring people back into the park."

Finks said once a franchise has drawn a certain "hard-core" group of fans, other positive things result. Those spectators will bring others to the game, he said, because word-of-mouth is the best promotional tool in the business.

"Just how much the strike has hurt them won't be known for some time after it's settled," Finks said. "It may not be too long before you can build up team momentum again."

Much has been said about the loss of fan goodwill in the wake of baseball's longest strike. But Wirtz said people are "baseball hungry."

Saints get Wilson in draft's 1st round

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints picked Illinois quarterback David Wilson in the first round of the National Football League's supplemental draft, the first time a player has gone that high in such a draft.

"We thought that -- for sure -- we had to take him in the first round," said Harry Hulmes, director of football operations for the Saints.

New Orleans gave up its first-round pick in 1982 for the Wilson choice.

Teams drafted in reverse-order of their 1980 finish. Saints Coach Bum Phillips has said he does not expect the team — which finished 1-15 last season — to have the worst record in the NFL next year and might not have the chance to pick a quality quarterback.

The supplemental draft is open to all college athletes who became eligible following the regular draft. Wilson became eligible after losing a court fight to play another year at Illinois.

Even before his suit was decided by a federal judge in Peoria, it was pretty well known that the Saints would choose the 6-foot-3, 215-pound player, who broke or tied 23 Illinois passing records last season.

"You can't keep those things secret. But we really didn't try that hard — we didn't really give it our all," Hulmes said.

He said it was pretty certain Wilson would not last past the first round. He said there had been feelers from other teams about the possibility of a trade for the rights to draft Wilson.

"We had a couple of inquiries, but no serious offers or attempts were made," he said.

Hulmes said he expected no real difficulty in arriving at a contract with Wilson. He said some preliminary discussions have been held with Mike Trobe, Wilson's agent.

"We've sort of reached somewhat of a tentative agreement with him, and we expect a formal signing before the week is out," Hulmes said.

Saints rookies report to preseason training camp at Vero Beach, Fla., on July 13.

Prior to Tuesday's selection of Wilson in the first round, the highest choice ever used was a fourth-round pick given up by Seattle for Notre Dame's Al Hunter in 1977.

SIU cyclist takes 4th and 6th in two recent races in Illinois

Dan Casebeer, a member of the SIU-C-Phoenix Cycle racing team, placed fourth in one race and sixth in another race recently.

Casebeer placed fourth out of 30 riders in the 33-mile Moline Active Eighth Street Jude Criterium race in Moline Saturday.

A criterium is a very fast race around several city blocks with sharp corners to navigate.

Sunday, Casebeer placed sixth out of 40 racers in the senior I division of the 25-mile Tour of Lake Ellyn in Glen Ellyn. Chris Treiter finished 17th, Rich Fitschen, 32nd and Brian Ban, 35th in the senior IV division.

Casebeer will compete in a team time trial race, a criterium and a road race at the National Sports Festival in Syracuse, N.Y. later in July.

McEnroe, Connors will lead U.S. into Davis Cup tennis

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe, his triumphs and woes of Wimbledon behind him, and Jimmy Connors will spearhead the United States team for this weekend's Davis Cup tennis series against defending champion Czechoslovakia.

"It's pretty hard to switch gears" from the grass courts at Wimbledon to the hard courts at the National Tennis Center, where the Davis Cup match will be played Friday, Saturday and Sunday, McEnroe said Tuesday. "But I'm sure I'll be ready."

McEnroe and Connors will play the singles, while Stan Smith and Bob Lutz will team up for the doubles on Saturday. Two singles matches will be played Friday, with McEnroe and Connors switching opponents for Sunday.

Czechoslovakia, which captured the Cup last year, defeating Italy, in the finals, will retaliate with Ivan Lendl, Pavel Slozil, Tomas Smid and Stanislav Burner. Lendl, ranked fourth in the world behind Sweden's Bjorn Borg, McEnroe and Connors, is expected to play both singles and doubles.

"Clay is probably his best surface," McEnroe said of Lendl, who defeated the Wimbledon champion in the quarterfinals of the French Open. "He is very good from the back court and has a good first serve."

At Monday's news conference to introduce the U.S. Davis Cup team, the main topic was Wimbledon and McEnroe.

McEnroe acknowledged that he was to blame for part of his problems at Wimbledon.

"I feel I deserved to get fined in my first-round match," he said, "and maybe the $750 one."

McEnroe was referring to a $1,500 fine he was assessed after clashing with the umpire and referee in his first-round match and a $750 fine levied against him following a doubles match when he allegedly "verbally abused" an official.

"There are two types of infractions that call for a fine," said Arthur Ashe, 1975 Wimbledon champion and now captain of the U.S. Davis Cup squad. "One is verbal abuse and the other is physical abuse."

"Verbal abuse is a vague thing, actually," said Ashe, who also is a member of the Men's International Professional Tennis Council. "It's not always what you say, but how you say it. What you say could be innocuous, but if you scream it at an official, it can be considered verbal abuse."

As far as winning Wimbledon, McEnroe said, "It hasn't sunk in yet, but I am going to enjoy it."

Leonard to fight Hearns in Las Vegas Sept. 16

NEW YORK (AP) — The long-awaited meeting of Sugar Ray Leonard and Thomas Hearns will take place in Las Vegas Sept. 16, with officials saying that the fight for the universal welterweight championship could produce a record gross of up to $50 million.

Leonard and Hearns, with just one loss between them in 63 professional bouts, will fight in a special arena being built on the grounds of Caesars Palace. Tickets will start at $50 and go to $500 for ringside.

The expected capacity crowd of 25,000 will be joined by an estimated 1.5 million fans at closed-circuit outlets and another 1 million viewers on a cable-television network.

Dubbed "The Showdown" by the promoters, the fight probably is the most widely anticipated since Leonard's bouts against Roberto Duran last year.

The fight will pit Leonard's classic boxing style and growing reputation for theatrics in the ring against Hearns' devastating punches and sobering gaze.

It also will present a chance for Hearns, an unheralded figure despite his 22-0 record, to step out of the shadow of Leonard, 30-1, 1976 Olympic champion who has become well known from both fighting and frequent TV appearances in commercials and as a ringside commentator.

Hearns is the World Boxing Association's welterweight champion, while Leonard is the World Boxing Council's 147-pound titleholder.

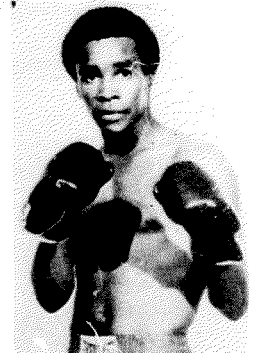

"I've waited 2½ years for this fight," Hearns, known as "The Detroit Hit Man," said at a news conference to promote the bout. "I have a lot of respect for Ray. He's not a pushover, somebody you can walk over. But you've been ducking me, Ray, and it's time you got what's coming."

Leonard said the bout would be "what I consider the greatest boxing match in history."

"I once said about a fight with a $1,000 ringside seat that the people pricing the tickets must be crazy," said the fighter from Palmer Park, Md. "But I'd pay $1,000 to watch this fight."

Dan Duva, head of Main Event Productions Inc., promoter of the fight, refused to disclose the size of the purse. But it was learned that guarantees had been made of $8 million to Leonard and $6 million to Hearns, with the possibility of percentages from various gate and related receipts pushing the figures higher.

"I would have fought him for less than what I'm getting," Hearns said. "I just wanted to finally fight him."
