High Court voids key of budget law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court struck down a key part of the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law Monday, sending its Capitol Hill backers scurrying to find another way to cut spending without making Congress responsible.

The court's 7-2 ruling, delivered on the final day of its 1985-86 term, said Congress unconstitutionally ducked the politically unpleasant task of specifying budget cuts when it gave the comptroller general, an unelected official, the power to order across-the-board spending reductions.

In a ruling written by retiring Chief Justice Warren Burger, the justices affirmed a federal court ruling that overturned that provision of the law, but the action does not invalidate the entire Gramm-Rudman scheme of forcing the government to shrink annual budget deficits to zero over five years.

The law was adopted to reduce spiraling deficits which have pushed the national debt to $1 trillion. Lawmakers, however, have not been able to cut programs enough to stop the red ink and the Gramm-Rudman approach of putting someone else in charge of the job proved politically attractive.

But the high court said Congress went too far when it gave the comptroller general, the appointed head of the independent General Accounting Office, power to execute the law — a duty that lies with the president under the Constitution. The law said the comptroller would calculate automatic cuts, under certain general guidelines if Congress failed to meet the law's deficit reduction targets.

Sponsors knew the provision was constitutionally suspect and wrote into the bill an alternate method under which Congress would make the cuts through a joint House and Senate resolution.

However, Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas — who sponsored the legislation along with Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., and Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C. — said "Gramm-Rudman-Hollings 2" will be introduced immediately to eliminate the ability of Congress to remove the comptroller general from office, curing a defect identified by the high court.

The law, enacted in December, requires annual budget deficits — about $183 billion this year — shrink to $144 billion for fiscal 1987, $108 billion for 1988, $72 billion for 1989, $36 billion for 1990 and zero by fiscal 1991.

Enrile, Marcos supporters end short-lived rebellion

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — A top political ally of ousted ruler Ferdinand Marcos and soldiers supporting him agreed Monday to end a brief revolt against the government and their occupation of the Manila Hotel, Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile said.

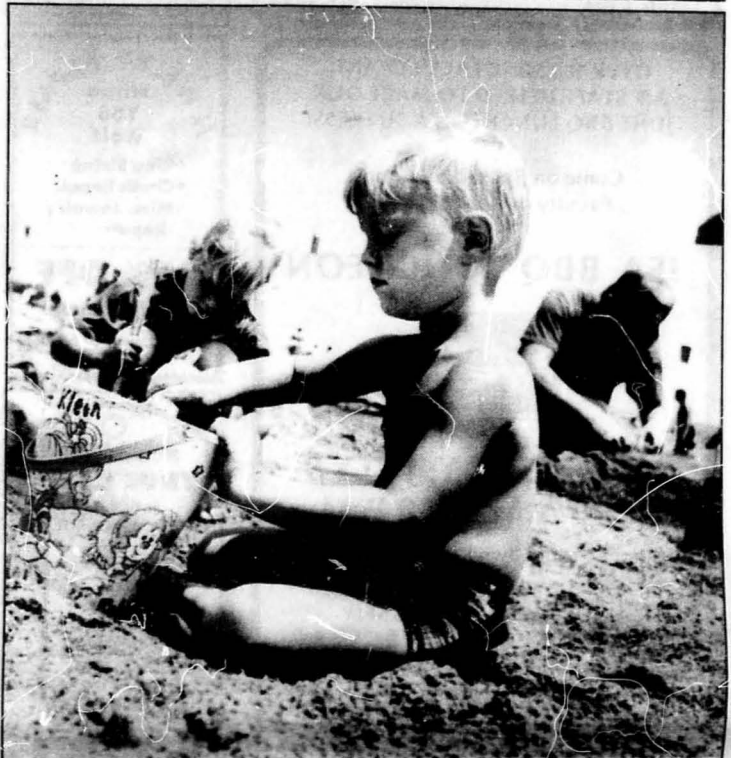

The agreement was apparently reached Monday night in a meeting between representatives of the government of Corazon Aquino and Marcos loyalist Arturo Tolentino, members of Marcos' political party and disgruntled military officers who commanded the soldiers.

Deputy Defense Minister Gen. Rafael Ileto said political issues raised by the Marcos loyalists would be taken up later, but that there was a general agreement to end the occupation.

Enrile said the government was studying how to deal with Tolentino, Marcos' running

Coal center receives grant to finance research projects

The Coal Research Center has received $142,000 from the U.S. Bureau of Mines for the center's Illinois Mining and Mineral Resources Research Institute to finance Institute research projects and student assistance for the 1986 fiscal year.

An additional $249,742.74 will come from SIU, Peabody Coal Co., the Amoco Foundation, Arch of Illinois Inc., Arco Oil and Gas Co. and the Sun Exploration and Production Co.

One of 31 state mineral institutes located throughout the country, IMMRRRI supports mineral, mining and reclamation research at SIU and provides fellowships and an undergraduate scholarship this year.

The researchers and their projects include John L. Sexton and John L. Jobling, associate professors in the Department of Geology, who will receive $20,000 for seismographic readings of roof strata above the Herrin No. 6 coal mine in Southern Illinois to examine techniques in seismology that can lead to better understanding of the size and shape of coal seams.

She-Kong Chong, associate professor in the Department of Plant and Soil Science will receive $20,000 to look at mined soils and examine how they have been affected by various reclamation equipment and techniques.

Richard J. Sweigard, assistant professor in mining engineering, will receive $20,000 to investigate why certain plots of land settle or sink more than others after the land has been mined.

Bruce A. DeVantier, assistant professor of civil engineering and mechanics, will receive $18,347 to work at developing a computer model that would aid in the design of detention ponds, which hold run-off from surface mines.

Hasan Sevim, assistant professor in the Department of Mining Engineering, will receive $15,322 to examine the transportation of coal under ground on conveyor belts and through pipes.

New Management Department chair slated

By JoDe Rimar
Student Writer

Uma Sekeran, associate professor of management, is slated to become chair of the Management Department.

Sekeran will be the sixth woman of 63 academic chairs at SIU-C and the only woman chair in the College of Business and Administration.

Nancy Bandy, chair of SIU-C Affirmative Action Advisory Committee, said Sekeran's candidacy is a "trend in the right direction."

Sekeran will replace Thomas N. Martin, who will leave the post Aug. 15 to continue a teaching career.

Sekeran, a graduate from Bombay University, India, received her master's from the University of Connecticut at Storrs and her doctorate from the University of California at Los Angeles in 1977.

Sekeran has been with the department since 1977 and was interim department chair in 1984.

Sekeran has had five books published on management, organizations and research. Her most recent book, "Dual Career Families: Contemporary Organizational and Counseling Issues," will be released in October.

Sekeran has written articles on cross-cultural management, dual career families and instructional designs.

Her teaching and research interests include organizational behavior, group dynamics and sensitivity training and male-female dynamics in organizations.

Sekeran won "Outstanding Graduate Teacher of the Year Award" in 1985 and "Outstanding Researcher of the Year Award" in 1986.

2 dead after slaying spree in front of Statue of Liberty

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Cuban refugee wielding a 2-foot sword killed two people and slashed nine others in a crazed spree on the Staten Island Ferry Monday at 8:45 a.m. as it carried holiday tourists and commuters past the Statue of Liberty, police said. The slasher pulled the ceremonial sword from a red crushed-velvet case in front of the statue, shouted "Freedom for all!" and while chanting in Spanish began stabbing passengers. A retired police officer stopped him at gunpoint.

S. African miners strike in policy protest

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — An estimated 13,000 black miners Monday staged illegal strikes in a widening protest against the detention of labor leaders under the nation-wide state of emergency. The action came as government officials said they had lifted all restrictions against Winnie Mandela, the wife of jailed black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela. For the past 24 years Mrs. Mandela has been subject to some form of official restrictions — such as house arrest, gag orders and internal exile.

Gorbachev urges Europe to press U.S. on arms

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, saying Europe needs "the air of detente," called Monday on visiting French President Francois Mitterrand to press the United States for progress in arms control talks. Gorbachev repeated the familiar warning that the United States would like to fight any future war on European soil, saying that either conventional war or nuclear war would be a disaster for West Europeans.

Army implements smoking rule worldwide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army began its worldwide anti-smoking policy Monday that forbids smoking on all Army occupied space except for designated areas, in an effort to promote health and education. It said it does not intend to "restrict individual freedom" but rather to promote health and education about tobacco usage, Army Chief of Staff Gen. John S. Wickham said. Commanders were instructed to use "reasonableness and common sense" in enforcing the new rule.

LaSalle nuclear plant seeks reason for system failure

CHICAGO (UPI) — Meetings will begin late this week or next week to discuss the investigation into a problem at the LaSalle County nuclear plant June 1, Commonwealth Edison spokesman Bob Dwyer said Monday. A water cooling pump failed to shut down the plant automatically. Commonwealth Edison then shut down the Unit Two generator so the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the company could review the failure.

Law agencies voice support for seat belt law

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Seven major Illinois law enforcement agencies and organizations issued a joint statement Monday endorsing Illinois' seat belt law and calling for active enforcement of it by ticketing unbuckled motorists who are stopped for other offenses. The statement comes in conjunction with statistics from the state Transportation Department which show that traffic deaths have not dropped appreciably in the year since the seat belt law has been on the books.

Carter joins in low-cost housing construction

CHICAGO (UPI) — Former President Jimmy Carter, his wife Rosalynn and Watergate conspirator Charles Colson joined about 100 other volunteers Monday in beginning a week of construction on housing for the poor. They are assisting in the construction of a four-unit, single family complex and renovation of a three-flat apartment building in an impoverished part of the city's West Side.

Judge refuses to keep tax money from Contras

CHICAGO (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Harry Leinenweber Monday refused to grant an order to keep tax dollars from being used for American aid to Nicaraguan Contras, saying the federal courts traditionally avoid ruling on political issues. A Chicago area coalition called Pledge of Resistance asked him to "restrain Congress, which I am not going to start to do," he said. The group charged the United States with financing crimes against humanity.

Alan Wright, lead guitarist for Kool Ray and the Polaroidz jammed out a tune as bassist Tom Ricker watched at Evergreen Terrace Thursday as part of the Sunset Concert Series.

Kool Ray and Polaroidz hit Sunset circuit with success

By Debra Keen-Cooper
Staff Writer

Kool Ray and the Polaroidz hit an audience of about 3,000 with a solid wall of pure rock'n'roll Thursday at Evergreen Park. The concert, sponsored by the Student Center, the Carbondale Park District and SPC, was the fourth in the Sunset Concert Series.

The Peoria-based band is sponsored by Miller Beer and the Rock Network. Tom Ricker, bass guitarist, said that the band is featured on an album sponsored by Miller. The album is a compilation of 16 bands from across the United States and should be out sometime in August, he said.

MIXING OLD rock'n'roll hits with their own compositions and a few top 40 tunes makes Kool Ray a band for the masses. About half way through the first set, their rendition of "Twist and Shout" brought the crowd to their feet and the party really began. Other classics included "Summertime Blues," "Do Wa Diddy," "Revolution," and "Jumpin' Jack Flash."

Kool Ray and the Polaroidz was formed in 1979 and the current quartet has been together about a year. Ricker described the band's music as a "blend of old time rock'n'roll with our own style mixed in." Although such a description could fit a hundred other bands, the musicianship of Kool Ray shines with a brilliance uncommon in other bands.

KOOL RAY'S latest release, a single featuring their original songs "Diane" and "He Doesn't Even Know You Exist," recently received an honorable mention for single of the month in Nashville.

The band has toured the country on Miller's Rock Network for the past year. Ricker said that the band played for thousands of college students over spring break in Florida. "It was real good exposure for us and we got on MTV," Ricker said.

Kool Ray and the Polaroidz became involved with Miller and the Rock Network to promote their music, Ricker said.

"MILLER BEER has decided to help promote bands which they feel make music in the American way—the same way they make beer," said Rich Teegarden, guitarist, keyboardist and vocalist.

Ricker said that Miller mostly helps the band with media aids like posters, banners and buttons. "They also run specials in the clubs we play in, which is beneficial to us both," Ricker added.

The band has also received equipment donations from Shure, Ensonia and Hamer.

WHEN A BAND comes along that puts on a flawless performance that sounds studio ready—outdoors, and with vocals clear enough to actually hear the words over electric guitar and drums, the experience is pleasant.

"If you go to see a band and it's all show and no go, you might as well go to the circus," Ricker said. "But, if you want to hear some good music, this is the band, this is the place to be," Ricker said.

Make no mistakes, Kool Ray and the Polaroidz is on its way.

Athletes' deaths are a lesson for all

AMERICA HAS BECOME A drug-dependent society. We are a nation that finds it necessary to celebrate by taking drugs. It has become almost second nature to us. Society has come to accept drugs as the thing to do. And as drug use becomes more accepted by society, it becomes more dangerous.

In 1982, when comedian John Belushi died of a speedball overdose of cocaine and heroin, nearly 4 million people were using cocaine. Now, only four years later, almost 7 million Americans use the drug. Use of cocaine is growing by the staggering rate of 5,000 new users every day.

MARIJUANA HAS BECOME THE biggest cash crop in the United States. And cocaine, at $19,000 a pound, is a $30 billion-a-year industry in this country.

Now, with the deaths of two star athletes by drug overdose within eight days of each other, Americans may realize that cocaine is not the "safe" drug many believed it to be.

Len Bias, a 22-year-old All-American basketball player at the University of Maryland, was selected second by the world-champion Boston Celtics in the NBA draft. He had just signed a deal to promote athletic shoes. While celebrating his good fortune, he used cocaine. He died within minutes of taking the drug.

DON ROGERS, 23, WAS A former UCLA All-American football star and Pro-Bowl defensive back for the Cleveland Browns. He died of an overdose after a bachelor party held in his honor the day before he was to be married.

College athletes are in the public eye. Whether they like it or not, these athletes serve as role models to a lot of kids. It's a hard way to learn a lesson, but perhaps the deaths of two star athletes will get across to people how dangerous drugs can be. Too many young lives have already been ruined. Maybe these deaths will help prevent someone else from dying.

Letters

Was Hartley being funny?

I am writing in regard to a June 25 letter written by Bill Hartley. Bill, thank you for one of the most humorous letters I have had the privilege to read. I hope it was just for humor, because if it wasn't, you are certainly misguided.

How can you come up with the idea that menstruation is sacrilegious? What are women going to do? It is as natural as the sun setting every evening. Are you one of those who want women barefoot and pregnant?

And Bill, when did you get the chance to see a sperm die a painful death? Did it reach out and say "Bill, save me, save me!", or was it truly silent and grabbed its heart, rolled its eyes and stuck out its tongue?

God save us if Jerry Falwell is elected to anything. By the way Bill, did you know that Pat Robertson is becoming more liberal on the abortion issue? Are you sure you would vote for a man who may let women menstruate? — John Domino, senior, Radio and Television.

Code enforcement not on job

By Lisa Wallenstein
Student Writer

Viewpoint

COLLEGE STUDENTS may not be the most conscientious housekeepers, but they don't deserve rotted floorboards, missing stairs, or crumbling foundations.

These are but a few of the housing code violations that have been found within the last year in a number of Carbondale houses rented to students. Many of these hazardous conditions have been completely ignored by both Carbondale property owners and city code inspectors.

One landlord said that college students "party" all the time and don't care about the houses. But the issue here is not a broken screen or beer cans strewn around the living room. It is faulty wiring, missing stairs, parts of the exterior falling off, a furnace room with no direct air vent leading outdoors, and sagging and tilting floors. These are violations of the city code, for which the owner of the house is responsible. If left unattended, the result could be fatal.

THE STUDENTS, the supposedly uncaring tenants, have made complaints about the housing conditions to the landlords and to the city. Both have made half-hearted attempts, if any, to correct them.

One student said if he kept after his landlord long enough he'd get some action. Another student said that when his landlord did finally come to fix the front steps, which were falling off, all he did was prop them up with a brick.

Why should the tenants have to nag their landlords? That is where the city code enforcement division comes in. But even they don't seem to have any power to make property owners comply with the code. When the condition of a property violates city code, a notice is either sent to the owner by certified mail or posted on the property. Many property owners, however, won't accept the certified mail.

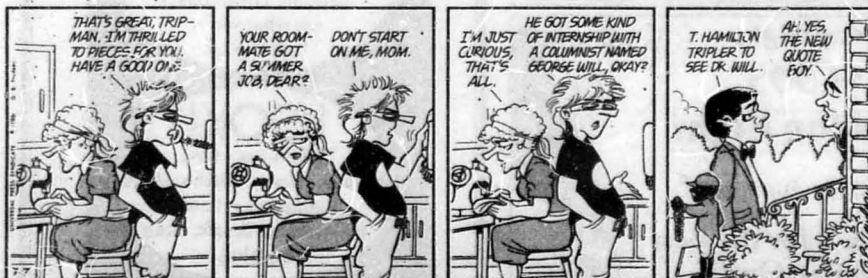

The code enforcement division says that once a notice is sent, the owner is considered to be in compliance. Also, it is extremely difficult for the owner to find the posted notice if he is not living on the property. The city, then, should send the notice directly to the owner and include a date of reply by which he must notify the city that the notice has been received and that actions are being taken to correct the conditions. If nothing is done by the specified date, a fine should be imposed immediately.

THE ROOT OF THE problem, however, lies with the code enforcement division not doing its job. In one case, city code inspectors posted an "occupancy prohibited" sign on a house at which 20 violations were cited. The house was forgotten until eight months later, when a neighbor complained about the state the house was in, which was the same except that people were living in the house even though the prohibition notice had not been removed. In another case involving a property owner who is believed to have acquired 23 violations, enforcement action has only recently been taken.

YES, COLLEGE students party. And yes, they have been known to make a mess. But the penalty for tenants who damage their residence is the loss of their security deposit. If college students as tenants pose such a hardship for property owners, why do they continue to rent to them? They know college students need a "cheap" place to live. They can't afford a nice house. And they can't afford to be picky. However, they should start becoming more demanding.

Concert review missed the mark

Wednesday's review of the E.I.E.I.O. Sunset Concert totally missed the mark. The article states that the only disappointing aspect of the band's performance was the lack of audience enthusiasm. In case the reviewer didn't notice, the sound mix was awful that night. It's difficult to enjoy a performance when one isn't hearing music the way it was meant to be heard.

The reviewer also described the band's sound as "rockabilly." That comes as a surprise to those of us who know, love and enjoy the genuine article as performed by Gene Vincent, the Johnny Burnette Trio, Sun Record period Elvis, Carl Perkins, etc.

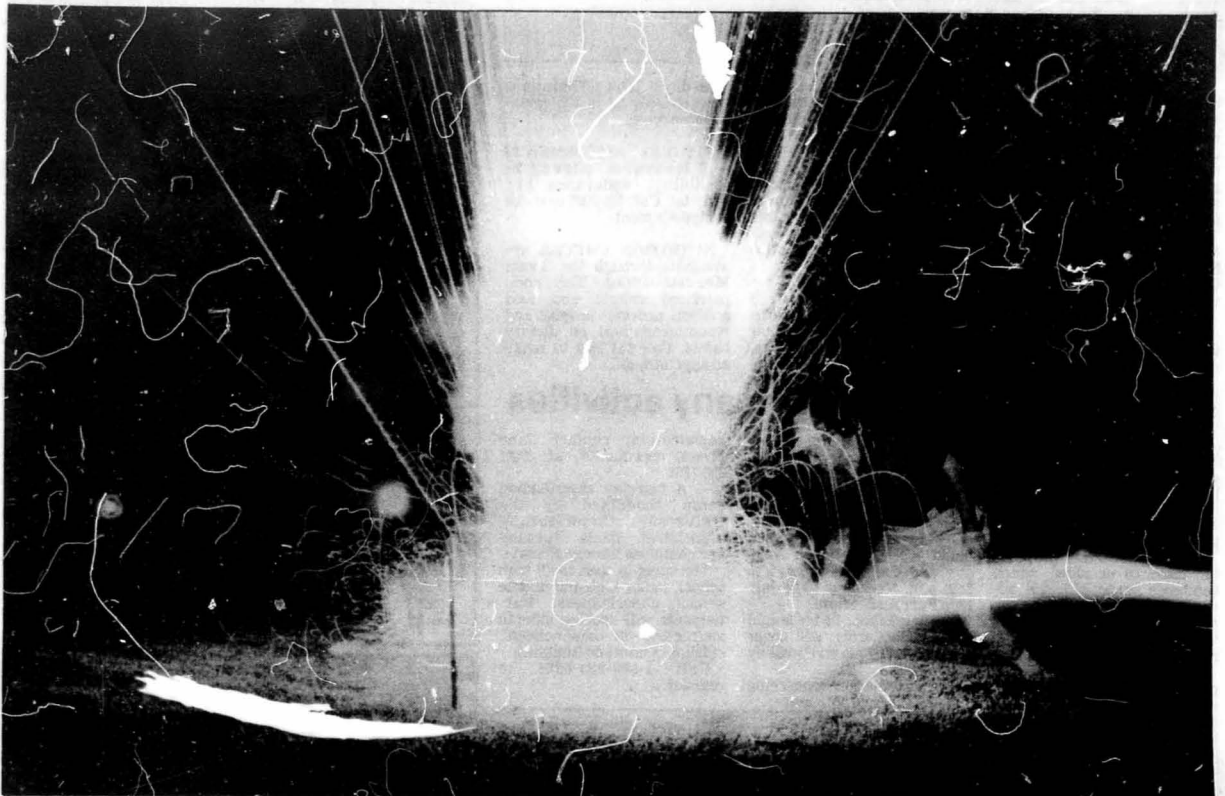

Doonesbury

BY GARRY TRUDEAU

E.I.E.I.O.'s sound could best be described as "new wave opportunist." Their lead vocalist stated in the article that the group is "just a rock and roll band with some deep country roots." Everyone and his brother is currently making that same claim, since a "traditional" country sound has come back into vogue with the rise of Dwight Yoakum, George Strait, Ricky Skaggs and groups like the Long Ryders and Blood on the Saddle.

A few years ago members of E.I.E.I.O. were in a group called Yipes! that played "deep country roots" were then. — Bob Paton, senior, Advertising.

... Let freedom ring

It was Patrick Henry, orator and political leader during the American Revolution, who is said to have uttered the immortal words, "Give me liberty or give me death."

For him and others who lived in the late 1770s, liberty was not something to be taken lightly. Nor should it be for us living in the late 1980s.

Activities this weekend — the nationwide party for the Statue of Liberty, sandcastle building at Rend Lake, backyard barbecues, a fireworks display at Abe Martin Field and prayer for peace at Bald Knob Cross in Alto Pass — were celebrations of the American Revolution, our battle for freedom.

The rockets' red glare and the bombs bursting in air were replaced by loud red, yellow and green fireworks and dozens of "oohs" and "aahs" from dazzled spectators.

And it let us know, down deep, that the flag still stands for freedom.

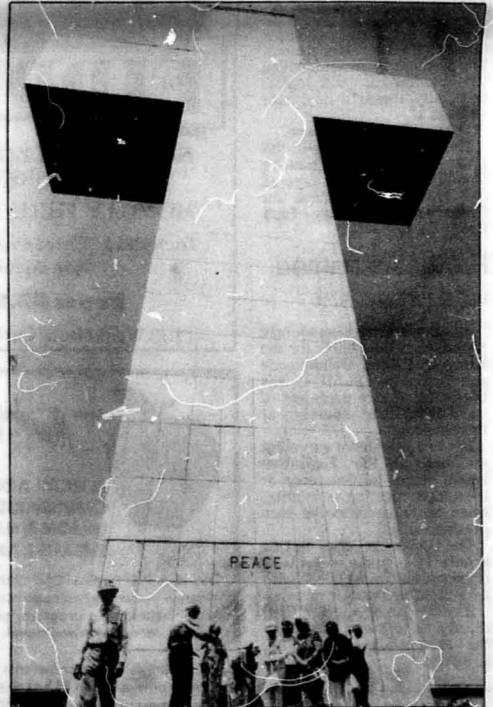

About 38,000 immigrants this year realized that America is the land of opportunity. They have taken a chance by leaving their homelands to start anew in the United States. We can be sure that thousands more will take the same chance.

These new citizens have come here to start over again, to till the soil and earn a buck. They will learn, as we all have, that the land of opportunity is well-toiled and well-seasoned by blood, sweat and tears.

Sacrifice, yes, but well worth it. Or as singer Lee Greenwood puts it: "I'm proud to be an American, where at least I know I'm free."

Patriotic mumbo-jumbo? Perhaps. But this is the only country we have. And it's the only one where the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness is defined by each of its citizens.

"Give me liberty or give me death."
Something to think about for another year.

It's not too late to sign up for summer sailing classes

By Patricia Edwards
Staff Writer

Cool off your summer by gliding across Crab Orchard Lake in a sailboat. Learning how to sail "just takes common sense and balance," Grant Hicks, a member of the Southern Illinois Collegiate Sailing Club, said. "If you can learn to ride a bicycle, you can learn how to sail," he said.

Two classes, from 5 to 8 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays and from noon to 6 p.m. on Saturdays, are being offered by the Southern Illinois Collegiate Sailing Club.

The fees, $20 for students and $25 for nonstudents, pay for rental spaces and upkeep of ten Flying Junior sailboats, which are provided to participants registered in the class.

"It's the most fun you can have in Carbondale for $20 for the whole summer," Hicks said. The fee is very reasonable compared to other sailboat rentals, he said.

Membership to the club is $20, which includes use of the sailboats during the season. When participants have passed a skipper's test and have become proficient at sailing, the sailboats may be checked out at any time during daylight hours when classes are not in session.

SICSC members participate in sailboat races which are held every Sunday on Crab Orchard Lake. The races are sponsored by the Crab Orchard Lake Sailing Club and are open to the public.

Two race categories, the Hobbie 18-foot and the FJ's, are run in two heats — one at noon and one at 2 p.m.

The races take place near the Playport Marina just off Old 13.

SICSC meetings are held at 7 p.m. Thursday in Agriculture 163.

Those interested in participating in the sailing classes or races should call Roland Hawks, faculty sponsor, at 457-5590.

Dedication, hard work pay off for Weathers, swim team

By Ray Albert
Staff Writer

It wasn't just a stroke of luck that Bailey Weathers, SIU-C's first-year women's swimming coach, was named the NCAA Coach of the Year.

It didn't hurt to have his squad finish fifth in the NCAA championships in March after being picked 13th going into the event. And it wasn't a mark against him to be affiliated with the University of Texas powerhouse women's team three years prior to coming to SIU-C in 1985-86.

Actually, it was Weathers and his team's dedication and hard work that led to the fifth-place finish. After finishing 5-2 in dual meets and runnerup in the Gateway Conference standings, Weathers' squad jelled for the NCAA finals, much to the surprise of the rest of the country.

"I don't think there was anybody in the country that felt we could be in the top five, probably in the top eight," Weathers said. "We had an outstanding meet. From an honest perspective, there's no question that we had the best meet of any team there."

Weathers' success in his first year surprises him more than anyone but being a swimming coach is something that he's always wanted to do. He has worked hard and has climbed through the ranks to become a head coach after assistant coaching jobs at Hawaii, Indiana State and Texas.

Texas' women's team has won three consecutive NCAA titles and Weathers was an assistant in the first two, in 1984 and 1985, after moving to that school from Indiana State in 1983.

The Winston, N.C., native competed in swimming during his high school days and began collegiate level competition before starting his coaching career.

"Coaching was pretty much my goal," Weathers said. "I just thought that was what I was supposed to be. A lot of my education was with that goal in mind."

Weathers' undergraduate work was done at Indiana State and he completed his master's degree in physical education at the University of Texas. During that period he was assisting the swimming teams at those schools.

After moving to Carbondale to become the women's head swimming coach, Weathers said he and his team set some goals for the 1985-86 season. Some of the goals that were set prior to the year led to the excellent finish in the NCAA finals.

"I think one thing we probably did better than any other team in the country this year was sacrifice along the way so we could meet our long-range goals," he said.

"A lot of teams rested for dual meets. We felt we could go to the meet and swim well. We didn't set team goals in terms of finish, but we did set a team goal in terms of going there and swimming well."

Those long-term goals hindered the team during the season and were part of the blame for the dual meet record and finish in the conference, he added.

The 28-year-old Weathers said he likes Southern Illinois and the Carbondale area and gives all the credit for the 1986 season to his swimming team.

"Their willingness to work hard and set high standards for themselves is quite unusual," he said. "I don't think I've seen that much drive in a lot of teams. We had two national championship teams at Texas and I'm not sure if either of those teams had the type of drive that the girls in this program do. These girls are just a real nice group of individuals."

Recruiting for next year's team hasn't gone as well as Weathers expected but the girls coming in are excellent swimmers and should help defend the fifth-place finish.

"They're going to benefit our team as individuals a lot and continue along the path with the type of personalities that we'd like to have in our program," he said.

Intramural sports off and running

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

Intramural sports are off and running and it seems to be smooth sailing so far, according to intramural sports coordinator Euddy Goldammer.

Tennis and racquetball singles are in the third round of competition, but no results are available, said Goldammer. The doubles tournament for tennis starts on Tuesday and the racquetball doubles starts on July 15.

Table tennis starts on Tuesday night in the game room near the women's locker room on the lower level, said Goldammer, but interest has not been high.

A new intramural sport, putt-putt golf, will be held on Thursday from 4 to 7 p.m. at Carbondale's Bogie Hole Course. Participants may sign up in advance or at the site, said Goldammer. The cost is $1.50 for 18 holes.

An 18-hole golf tournament will be held on Wednesday at Midland Hills Golf Course. Golf seems to be enjoying more popularity than many of the others sports, especially among university faculty and staff, said Goldammer. The percentage of faculty members involved in golf is higher than for any other sport.

Goldammer said that he is contemplating holding a doubles golf tournament in the fall that would pair up faculty-staff members with students. Faculty members should get a kick out of a student asking them to be their golf partner, said Goldammer.

Ultimate frisbee will begin on Tuesday at the playing field in front of Brush Towers. Due to an expressed interest, soccer games will be played at the same field on Saturday beginning at noon.

The playing season for basketball and softball end on July 17 with playoffs beginning on July 21, according to Goldammer.

Other sports that are being offered later in the month are badminton doubles, which start on July 14; racquetball and tennis mixed doubles on July 21; and badminton mixed doubles on July 22.

Braves' Hornor chosen as NL's player of week

NEW YORK (UPI) - Atlanta Braves first baseman Bob Hornor, who Sunday became the 11th player in major-league history to hit four home runs in a game. Monday was named National League Player of the Week.

Hornor is the eighth player in the NL to accomplish the four-homer feat, and the second to hit four homers and have his team lose. Montreal beat Atlanta 11-8 Sunday.

Hornor's performance boosted his average to .333 for the week with eight runs scored and eight RBI.

Injuries, bad start opens door for Cub prospects

NEW YORK (UPI) — Injuries and the Chicago Cubs' disappointing record have opened opportunities for several of the club's prospects to test the major leagues this year.

When Cubs president Dallas Green replaced manager Jim Frey with Gene Michael June 12, Green also added some new faces from the team's Triple-A affiliate, Iowa of the American Association. An injury to center fielder Bob Dernier and poor performances by the entire pitching staff cleared the way for pitcher Jamie Moyer and outfielder Dave Martinez to move right into regular action.

On June 28, Green called up reliever Dave Gumpert and sent down Jay Baller.

Martinez, 21, a New York native, hit .342 at Single-A Winston-Salem in 1985. He was hitting .285 at Iowa before being brought up to the majors.

"He looks very poised to me," Michael said. "Sometimes they come up shy, but more players come up poised these days. He swings the bat good and looks like he has a purpose."

With Dernier out because of a foot injury, Martinez has stepped in and kept pace with the veteran's totals. Dernier, however, was hitting just .173 when he left and Martinez, a left-handed batter, went 0-for-11 before getting his first hit. Through July 5 he was hitting .150 with six hits in 40 at-bats. "Every day I get a little better," Martinez said. "After my first hit, I started relaxing. I felt like I got a monkey off my back."

Martinez said he needs time to get used to the way big-league pitchers throw on certain counts.

The question is whether Martinez will get the chance to go around more than once. Dernier was expected to return before the All-Star break and, with outfielders

Jerry Humphrey and Thad Bosley sitting on the bench, there may not be room for an outfielder hitting less than .200.

Moyer, 23, was hit hard in his first three starts, compiling a 1-1 record with an 8.00 ERA.

In his first start he went six and a third-innings and gave up five runs and eight hits to get the victory against Philadelphia. He lasted only two and two-thirds innings in his second start as the Philadelphia Phillies shelled the Cubs 9-1.

Against Montreal June 25, Moyer pitched six and two-thirds innings, gave up four runs on seven hits and pitched out of a few jams.

"I was still behind in the count a little, but I came back and got some outs," Moyer said. "I had eight strikeouts but I don't know if that will be characteristic of me. I don't know if I'm going to be a strikeout pitcher or a ground-ball pitcher."

Moyer, who had a 2.55 ERA in six starts at Iowa before being called up, will remain a starter as long as Rick Sutcliffe stays on the disabled list. The addition of Ed Lynch to the Mets will give Michael one too many starters when Sutcliffe returns.

Gumpert, 28, who was born and lives in South Haven, Mich., is the oldest and best of the newcomers. He was with the Cubs from Aug. 12 to the end of last season with a stint on the disabled list. In nine games he gave up 12 hits and seven runs. He returned to the Cubs June 6.

Through July 5, his 1986 totals were eight innings pitched, seven hits and one run given up for an ERA of 1.13 and a 2-0 record.

Gumpert says last year's visit to the majors has helped him this year.

"The longer you're up here, you're going to relax a little bit more," he said.

Rozelle outlines drug testing for pro players

NEW YORK (UPI) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced Monday a new drug plan that requires players to undergo two random tests for illegal drugs during the season.

The random drug tests will be the first conducted by a professional sports league.

A player testing positive for drugs three times will be banned from the league for a year and then can apply for reinstatement, according to the plan.

The program, outlined by Rozelle at a news conference, will be initiated at training camps as they open this month. In addition to the urine tests players are now given at camps, the new program calls for two urine... tests to be administered during the regular season.

A fourth test will be administered to college seniors who take part in the NFL's annual scouting combine. At this year's combine, 55 players tested positive for drug use and of those, 25 were drafted by NFL teams in April.

Rozelle said the league drug problem has increased in the past few years.

"It is a problem, but I don't think anyone is in a position to give percentages or say how widespread the problem is," he said.

The new plan will be carried out by an independent expert and all urine samples will be examined at an independent laboratory in Philadelphia. The program is to be run by Dr. Forest Tennant, who is based in Los Angeles.

The drug tests will search for cocaine, marijuana and heroin, but will not look for steroids.

High levels of alcohol use can also be grounds for a players' banishment from the league, Rozelle said.

The plan comes amid an NFL offseason that was rocked by the acknowledgement following the Super Bowl that several New England Patriots had taken drugs and the recent death of Cleveland Browns defensive back Don Rogers from a cocaine-induced cardiac arrest.

itself, Congress in effect has retained control over the execution of the act and has intruded into the executive function," Burger said for the court. "The Constitution does not permit such intrusion."

Burger was joined in his opinion by Justices William Brennan, Lewis Powell, William Rehnquist and Sandra Day O'Connor. Justices John Paul Stevens and Thurgood Marshall concurred in the ruling. Justices Byron White and Harry Blackmun dissented.

The decision, Gramm said, only dealt with the "narrow separation of powers conflict" and under the new version the office of comptroller general "will become roughly equivalent to several agencies, including the Federal Reserve Board, which are functionally independent of the president and Congress."

Gramm, promising he and others "will not allow Congress to get off the hook on its commitment to balance the federal budget," said he hoped the new version of the law could be approved by Aug. 1. Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., who with congressional colleagues filed the suit against Gramm-Rudman, said the decision "will not set back our efforts to balance the federal budget. I believe it moves us forward by stripping away the illusion that there is an easy answer."

"We cannot legislate leadership," Synar said. "Gramm-Rudman tried to insulate Congress from the hard choices our Founding Fathers gave us and expected us to make. We argued this was wrong and the court agreed."

Synar also questioned whether an amended version of the bill could be passed. "They think they are going to correct this thing by doing one, simple, short thing," he said.

"The court, arguably, said that could be done," Synar said, but — suggesting he might go to court again — he added, "I think that's an argument that we could test again."

mate in the fraud-tainted Feb. 7 presidential election, who precipitated the takeover Sunday by declaring a breakaway government.

Tolentino, 75, proclaimed the hotel his "seat of government" Sunday and had himself sworn in as acting president.

The only violence reported during the incident was an attack by Marcos loyalists on reporters driving through the city. Two people were injured.

Estimated 180 soldiers and officers remained in the 17-story hotel Monday night, backed by hundreds of Marcos loyalists who drove out the management and 368 guests and turned one of Asia's finest hotels into a shambles.

Spokesman Gerry Espina said Tolentino had left the hotel but would return at dawn, when the remaining supporters and rebel soldiers were expected to leave. Tolentino was believed to have returned to his house Monday night.

Enrile claimed early Monday morning he had been duped into supporting Tolentino's bid to topple the 4-month-old government of Corason Aquino, which he contends was unconstitutional.

"What (information) I received this evening was first that there was an agreement, maybe a tentative agreement, that all these hotel guests will vacate Manila Hotel not later than 6 o'clock in the morning (Tuesday)," Enrile said, referring to soldiers and their supporters.

The Marcos loyalists filled the swank Manila Hotel with trash Monday, picnicking on the plush rugs, sleeping on the lobby couches and filling

Animal causes power failure

The cause of an electrical power failure Monday morning in the University Mall and surrounding area was an animal in a Central Illinois Public Service Company substation south of the mall said Harry McLeod, area superintendent at CIPS.

The power failure occurred around 5:50 a.m., an affected resident said. McLeod said service resumed about an hour later.

ashtrays to overflowing.

Enrile said the soldiers still in the hotel also had agreed to "rejoin the military organization" and they would be permitted to retain their firearms and return to their units in the central plains north of the capital.

Authorities deployed six armored personnel carriers, about 400 soldiers and police in a park near the hotel and barricaded a major intersection to halt traffic into the area.
