High Court voids key of budget law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court struck down a key part of the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law Monday, sending the Clinton Administration and Hill backers scurrying to find another way to cut spending without making Congress responsible.

The Court’s 7-2 ruling, delivered on the final day of its 1985-86 term, said Congress unconstitutionally assigned the politically unpleasant task of specifying budget cuts when it gave the comptroller general, an unelected official, the power to order across-the-board spending reductions.

In a ruling written by retiring Chief Justice Warren Burger, the justices affirmed a federal court ruling that overturned that provision of the law, but the action does invalidate the entire Gramm-Rudman scheme of forcing the government to shrink annual budget deficits to zero over five years.

The law was adopted to reduce spiraling deficits which have pushed the national debt to $1.2 trillion. Lawmakers, however, have not been able to come up with an acceptable approach to the red ink and the Gramm-Rudman approach of putting automatic cuts in charge of the job proved politically attractive.

But the high court said Congress went too far when it gave the comptroller general, the appointed head of the independent General Accounting Office, power to execute the law — a duty that lies with the president under the Constitution. The law said the comptroller would calculate automatic cuts, under certain general guidelines if Congress failed to meet the law’s deficit reduction targets.

The Court said: “The proposal was constitutionally suspect and wrote into the bill a task that belongs to the President and Congress.”

However, Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, who sponsored the legislation along with Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., and Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C. — said Gramm-Rudman-Hollings “will be introduced immediately to eliminate the ability of Congress to remove the comptroller general from office, during a deductible time identified by the high court.

“By placing the responsibility for execution of the Gramm-Rudman Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act in the hands of an officer who is subject to removal only by the President,” the majority wrote, “Congress unconstitutionally赋予ed the comptroller general an assignment of duties that is the essence of executive power.”

Enrile, Marcos supporters and short-lived rebellion

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — A top political ally of ousted ruler Ferdinand Marcos and two members of his government agreed Monday to end a brief revolt against the government and President Ferdinand Marcos.

The agreement was announced by President Marcos’ Chief-of-Staff Raul Padilla, who met Monday night in a meeting between representatives of the government of Corazon Aquino and Marcos loyalist Arturo Tolentino, members of Marcos’ temporary cabinet appointed Monday.

Tolentino and critics accused Marcos of authorizing the military coup.

Under the accord, the Marcos loyalists would be taken up into the government, but there was no agreement to end the revolt.

The Marcos government was studying how to deal with Tolentino, Marcos’ running mate in the March presidential elections.

The Coal Research Center has received $124,000 from the U.S. Bureau of Mines for the center’s Illinois Mining and Mineral Resources Research Institute to finance Institute research projects and student assistantships for the 1986 fiscal year.

An additional $240,745.74 will come from SIU, Peabody Coal Co., the Amoco Foundation, Arcil of Illinois Inc., Arco Oil and Gas Co., and the S.G. Exploration and Production Co.

Jobling, associate professors in the Department of Geology, who will receive $20,000 for seismic and oceanographic studies in coal fields above the Herrin No. 9 coal mine in southern Illinois, to examine techniques in seismic geology that can lead to better understanding of the size and shape of coal seams.

The research will be conducted at the Illinois State Geological Survey.

The project will be directed by Bruce A. DeVanter, assistant professor of civil engineering and mechanics, who will receive $28,197 to develop computer models that will aid in the design of detention ponds, which hold run-off from surface mines.

The research will be conducted by the Illinois State Geological Survey.

The researchers will receive $15,252 to examine the transportation of coal underground on conveyor belts and through pipes.

Kool Ray and Polaroidz hit Sunset circuit with success

By Debra Keen-Cooper

Staff Writer

Kool Ray and the Polaroidz hit an audience of about 3,000 with a night of pure rock ‘n’ roll Thursday at Evergreen Park. The concert, sponsored by the Student Center, the Carbondale Park District and SPC, was the fourth in the Sunset Concert Series.

The Pooria-based band is sponsored by Miller Beer and the Rock Network. Tom Ricker, bass guitarist, said that the band is featured on an album produced by Miller. This also is a compilation of 16 bands from across the United States and should be out sometime in August, he said.

MIXING OLD rock ‘n’ roll hits with their own competitions and a few top 40 tunes takes Kool Ray a band for the masses. About half way through the first set, their rendition of “Twist and Shout” brought the crowd to their feet and the party really began. Other classics included “Summertime Blues,” “Do Wa Diddy,” “Revolution,” and “Jumpin’ Jack Flash.”

Kool Ray and the Polaroidz formed in 1979 and the current quartet has been together about a year. Ricker described the band’s music as “a blend of old time rock ‘n’ roll with our own style mixed in.” Although such a description could fit a hundred other bands, the musicianship of Kool Ray shines with a brilliance uncommon in other bands.

KOOI RAY’S latest release, single featuring their original songs “Diane” and “He Doesn’t Even Know You Exist,” recently received an honorable mention for single of the month in Nashville.

The band has toured the country on Miller’s Rock Network for this past year, Ricker said that the band played at reunions and fields of college students over spring break in Florida. “It was real good exposure for us and we got on MTV,” Ricker said.

Kool Ray and the Polaroidz became involved with Miller and the Rock Network to promote their music, Ricker said.

“MILLER BEER has decided to help promote bands which they feel make music in the American way — the same way they make beer,” said Rich Teegarden, guitarist, keyboardist and vocalist.

Ricker said that Miller mostly helps the band with media aids like posters, banners and buttons. “They also run specials in the clubs we play in, which is beneficial to us both,” Ricker added.

The band has also received equipment donations from Shure, Etonia and Hamer.

WHEN A BAND comes along that puts on a flawless performance that sounds studio-ready outdoors, and with vocals clear enough to actually hear the words over electric guitar and drums, the experience is pleasant.

“If you go to see a band and it’s all shine and no go, you might as well go to the circus,” Ricker said. “But if you want to hear some good music, this is the band, this is the place to be.”

Ricker said.

Make no mistake, Kool Ray and the Polaroidz is on its way.
Athletes' deaths are a lesson for all

AMERICA HAS BECOME a drug-dealing society.
We are a nation that finds it necessary to celebrate by taking drugs. It has become almost second nature to us. Society has come to accept drugs as the thing to do. And as drug use becomes more accepted by society, it becomes more dangerous.

In 1982, when comedian John Belushi died of a speedball overdose of cocaine and heroin, nearly 4 million people were using cocaine. Now, only four years later, almost 5 million Americans use the drug. Use of cocaine is growing by the staggering rate of 5,000 new users every day.

MARIJUANA HAS BECOME THE biggest cash crop in the United States. And cocaine, at $19,000 a pound, is a $30 billion-a-year industry in this country.

Now, with the deaths of two star athletes by drug overdose within eight days of each other, Americans realize that marijuana is not the "safe" drug many believed it to be.

Len Bias, a 25-year-old All-American basketball player at the University of Maryland, was selected second by the world-champion Boston Celtics in the NBA draft. He had just signed a deal to promote athletic shoes. While celebrating his good fortune, he used cocaine. He died within minutes of taking the drug.

DON ROGERS, 23, was a former UCLA All-American football star and Pro-Bowl defensive back for the Cleveland Browns. He died of an overdose after a bachelor party held in his honor the day before he was to be married.

College athletes are in the public eye. Whether they like it or not, these athletes serve as role models to a lot of kids. It's a hard way to learn a lesson, but perhaps the deaths of two star athletes will get across to people how dangerous drugs can be. Too many young lives have already been ruined. Maybe these deaths will help prevent someone else from dying.

Letters

Was Hartley being funny?

I am writing in regard to a June 26 letter written by Bill Hartley. Bill, thank you for one of the most humorous letters I have ever read. I only hope that you invest in Hartley. I hope it was just for humor, because if it wasn't, you are certainly misguided.

How can you come up with the idea that Pat Robertson is a sacrilegious? What women are going to do is if you use that as natural as the sun setting every evening. Are you one of those who want their barefoot and pregnant?

By Lisa Wallenstein

Student Writer

College students may not be the most conscientious housekeepers, but they don't deserve ripped floorboards, missing stairs, or crumbling foundations.

These are but a few of the housing code violations that have been found within the last year in a number of Carbondale houses rented to students. Many of these dangerous conditions have been completely ignored by both Carbondale property owners and city code inspectors.

And Bill, when did you get the chance to see a sperm die a painful death? Did it reach out and say "Bill, save me, save me?" or was it truly silent and grabbed its heart, rolled its eyes and stuck out its tongue?

God save us if Jerry Falwell is selected to anything. By the way, Bill, did you know Pat Robertson is becoming more liberal on the abortion issue? Are you sure you would vote for a man who may let women have abortions?

To the students, the supposedly uncaring tenants.

When we hear complaints about the housing conditions to the landlords and to the city. Both have made half-hearted attempts, if any, to correct them.

BY GARRY TRUDEAU

Code enforcement not on job

One student said if he kept his landlord long enough he'd get some action. Another student said that when his landlord did finally come to fix the front steps, which were falling off, all he did was prop them up with a brick.

Why should the tenants have to nag their landlords? That is when the city code enforcement division comes in. But even they don't seem to have any power to make property owners comply with the code. When the condition of a property violates city code, a notice is either sent to the owner by certified mail or posted on the property. Many property owners, however, won't accept the certified mail.

The code enforcement division says that once a notice is sent, the owner is considered to be in compliance. Also, it is extremely difficult for the owner to find the posted notice, or if he is not living on the property. The city, then, should send the notice directly to the owner and include a date of property owners will be notified the city that the notice has been received and that, if actions are not taken to correct the conditions, if nothing is done by the specified time, a lawsuit should be imposed immediately.

The root of the problem, however, lies with the code enforcement division not doing its job. In one case, the code inspectors posted an "occupancy prohibited" sign on a house at which 20 violations were cited. The house was forgotten until eight months later, when a neighbor complained about the state the house was in, which was the worst house in the area. The city, then, did nothing to try to get the house in the house even though the notice had not been removed. In another case involving a property owner who let his house have acquired 23 violations, enforcement action has only recently been taken.

YES, COLLEGE students part.

And yes, they have been known to make a mess. But the penalty for tenants who damage their residence is the loss of their security deposit. If college students should pose such a hardship for property owners, why do they continue to rent to them? They know college students need a "cheap" place to live. People living in the house even though the prohibition, with college students living in the house. And they can't afford to be picky. However, they should start becoming more demanding.

Concert review missed the mark

Wednesday's review of the E.L.O.

Sunset at Concert totally missed the mark.

The article states that the only disappointing aspect of the band's performance was the lack of audience enthusiasm. In case the reviewer didn't notice, the sound mix was awful that night. It's difficult to enjoy a performance when one isn't hearing music properly.

The reviewer also described the band's sound as "rockabilly." That comes as a surprise to those of us who know, love and enjoy the genuine article as performed by the Johnny Burnette Trio, the E.L.O. and the like. The vocalists stated in the article that the group is "just a rock 'n' roll band from the country roots." Everyone and his brother is currently making that same claim, since a "traditional" country group can easily go into the mainstream with the country group and Blood on the Water.

A few years ago members of the E.L.O. were in a group called Yipee! that played Knaack-like music. I wonder where their 'deep country roots' were then. - Bob Pate, senior, Advertising.

... Let freedom ring

It was Patrick Henry, orator and political leader during the American Revolution, who is said to have uttered the immortal words, “Give me liberty or give me death.”

For him and others who lived in the late 1770s, liberty was something to be taken lightly. Nor should it be for us living in the late 1980s.

Activities this weekend — the nationwide party for the Statue of Liberty, sandcastle building at Rend Lake, backyard barbecues, a fireworks display at Abe Martin Field and prayer for peace at Bald Knob Crater in Alto Pass — were celebrations of the American Revolution, our battle for freedom.

The rockets’ red glare and the bombs bursting in air were replaced by loud red, yellow and green fireworks and dozens of “whoa” and “shades” from dazzled spectators.

And let us know, down deep, that the flag still stands for freedom.

About 36,000 immigrants this year realized that America is the land of opportunity. They have taken a chance by leaving their homelands to start anew in the United States. We can be sure that thousands more will take the same chance.

These new citizens have come here to start over again, to till the soil and earn a buck. They will learn, as we all have, that the land of opportunity is well-tended and well-seasoned by blood, sweat and tears.

Sacrifice, yes, it well worth it. Or as singer Lee Greenwood puts it: “I’m proud to be an American, where at least I know I’m free.”

Patriotic mumbo-jumbo? Perhaps. But this is the only country we have. And it’s the only one where the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness is defined by each of its citizens.

“Give me liberty or give me death.”

Something to think about for another year.

It's not too late to sign up for summer sailing classes

By Patricia Edwards

Cool off your summer by gliding across Crab Orchard Lake in sailboats! Learning how to sail "just takes a little balance," said Grant Hicks, a member of the Southern Illinois Sailing Club. "If you can learn to ride a bicycle, you can learn how to sail," he said.

Two classes, from 5 to 8 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays and from noon to 6 p.m. on Saturdays, are being offered by the Southern Illinois Collegiate Sailing Club.

There is $20 for students and $25 for nonstudents, pay for rental spaces and upkeep of sailboats, which are provided to participants registered in the class.

"It's the most fun you can have in Carbondale for $30 for the whole summer," Hicks said. The fee is very reasonable compared to other sailboat rentals, he said.

Membership to the club is $20, which includes use of the sailboats during the season. When participants have passed a skipper's test and have become proficient at sailing, the sailboats may be checked out at any time during daylight hours when classes are not in session.

SISC members participate in sailboat races which are held every Sunday on Crab Orchard Lake. The races are sponsored by the Crab Orchard Lake Sailing Club and are open to the public.

Two race categories, the Hobie 18-foot and the FJ's, are run in two boats — one at noon and one at 1 p.m. The races take place near the Playport Marina just off 611-13.

SISC meetings are held at 7 p.m. Thursday in Agriculture 1006. Those interested in participating in the sailing classes or even should call Roland Hawes, faculty sponsor, at 457-5800.

Dedication, hard work pay off for Weathers, swim team

By Ray Albert
Staff Writer

It wasn't just a stroke of luck that Bailey Weathers, SIU's first-year women's swimming coach, was named the NCAA Coach of the Year.

It didn't hurt to have his squad finish fifth in the NCAA championships in March after being picked 13th going into the event. And it wasn't a mark against him to be affiliated with the University of Texas powerhouse women's team three years prior to coming to SIU-C in 1985-86.

Actually, it was Weathers and his team's dedication and hard work that led to the fifth-place finish. After finishing 5-2 in dual meets and runner-up in the Gateway Conference standings, Weathers' team qualified for the NCAA finals, much to the surprise of the rest of the country.

"I don't think there was anybody in the country that felt we could be in the top five, probably in the top eight," Weathers said. "We had an outstanding meet. From an honest perspective, there's no question that we had the best win-loss team there.

Weathers' success in his first year surprised him more than anyone else being a swimming coach is something that he's always needed to see the team work hard and has climbed through the ranks to become a head coach after assisting as a coaching job at Hawaii, Indiana State and Texas.

Texas' women's team has won three consecutive NCAA titles and Weathers was an assistant for the first two, in 1984 and 1985, after moving to that school from Indiana State in 1983.

The Winston, N.C., native competed in swimming during his high school days and began collegiate level competition before starting his coaching career.

"Coaching was pretty much my goal," Weathers said. "I just thought what was what I was supposed to be. A lot of my education was with that goal in mind."

Weathers' undergraduate work was done at Indiana State and he completed his master's degree in physical education at the University of Texas. During that period he was assisting the swimming teams at those schools.

After moving to Carbondale to become the women's head swimming coach, Weathers said he and his team set some goals for the 1985-86 season. Some of the goals that were set prior to the year led to the excellent finish in the NCAA finals.

"I think one thing we probably did better than any other team in the country this year was sacrifice along the way so we could meet our long-range goals," he said.

"A lot of teams rested for dual meets. We felt we could go to the meet and swim well. We didn't set team goals in terms of finish, but we did set a team goal in terms of going and swimming well."

Those long-term goals were hindered during the season and were part of the blame for the dual meet record and finish in the conference.

The 28-year-old Weathers said he likes Southern Illinois and the Carbondale area and gives all the credit for the 1986 season to his swimming team.

"Their willingness to work hard and set high standards for themselves is quite unusual," he said. "I don't believe that we've seen that much drive in a lot of teams. We had two national championship teams at Texas and I'm not sure if either of those teams had the type of drive that the girls in this program do. These girls are just a real nice group of individuals."

Recruiting for next year's team hasn't gone as well as Weathers expected but the opportunity to hire six swimmers and should help defend the fifth-place finish.

"They're going to benefit our team next year a lot and continue along the path with the type of personalities that we'd like to have in our program," he said.

Intramural sports off and running

Intramural sports are off and running and it seems to be smooth sailing so far, according to intramural sports coordinator Buddy Goldammer.

Tennis and racquetball singles are in the third round of competition, but no results are available, said Goldammer. The doubles tournament for tennis starts today and the racquetball doubles starts on July 5.

Table tennis singles starts on Tuesday night in the game room near the women's locker room on the lower level, said Goldammer, but interest has not been high.

A new intramural sport, putt-putt golf, will be held on Thursday from 4 to 7 p.m. at Carbondale's Bogie Hole Course. Participants may sign up in advance or at the site, said Goldammer. The cost is $1.50 for 18 holes.

An 18-hole golf tournament will be held on Wednesday at Midland Hills Golf Course. Golf seems to be enjoying more popularity than many of the others sports, especially among university faculty and staff, said Goldammer. The percentage of faculty members involved in golf is higher than for any other sport.

Goldammer said that he is contemplating holding a doubles golf tournament in the fall that would pair up faculty-staff members with students. Faculty members should get a kick out of a student asking them to be their golf partner, said Goldammer.

Ultimate frisbee will begin on Tuesday at the playing field in front of Brush Towers. Due to an expressed interest, soccer games will be played at the same field on Saturday beginning at noon.

The playing season for basketball and softball end on July 17 with playoffs beginning on July 21, according to Goldammer.

Other sports that are being offered later in the month are badminton doubles, which start on July 14; racquetball and tennis mixed doubles on July 21; and badminton mixed doubles on July 22.

Injuries, bad start opens door for Cup prospects

NEW YORK (UP) — Injuries and the Cup are disappointing record have shown opportunity for several of the clubs this year to test the major leagues this year. When Cubs president Dallas Green replaced manager Frey with Gene Michael June 12, Green also added some new faces from the team's farm affiliate, Iowa of the American Association. Another injury center fielder Bob Dernier and poor performances by the entire pitching staff, off the way for pitcher Jamie Moyer and outfielder Dave Rozelle to move right into regular action.

On June 19, Green called up reliever Dave Gumpert and signed Jay Bailer. Martinez, 21, a New York native, hit .342 at Single-A South Bend in 1986. He was hitting .253 at Iowa before being brought up to the majors.

"He looks very poised to me," Moyer said. "Sometimes they come up shaky, but more players come up poised these days. He swings the bat good and looks like he has a good record.

With Dernier out because of a foot injury, Martinez has stepped in and kept pace with the veteran's totals. Dernier, however, was put on the list just .173 when he left and Martinez, a left-handed hurler, was 11-11 before getting his first hit. Through July 11, he was hitting .150 with six hits in 40 at-bats.

"Every day he seems a little better," Martinez said. "After my first hit, I started relaxing. I felt like I got my feet back on me.

Moyer said he nee'd time to get used to the way big league pitchers throw on certain counts. The question is whether Martinez will have the chance to go around more than once. Dernier was expected to return, before the All-Star break, and with outfielders Jerry Murphyphy and Thad Bosley, Martinez would be the choice, there may not be room for an outfielder hitting less than .300.

Moyer, 23, was hit hard in his first two starts, compiling a 1-1 record with an 8.60 ERA. In his first start he went six and a third and gave up five runs and eight hits to the Athletics. He did better against Philadelphia. He lasted only two and two-thirds innings in his second start as the Philadelphia Phillies shellacked the Cubs 11-5.

Against Montreal June 25, Moyer pitched six and two-thirds innings, gave up four runs on seven hits and pitched out of a few jams.

"I was still behind in the count a little, but I came back and got outs," Moyer said. "I had eight strikeouts but I don't know if that will be characteristic of me. I don't know if I'm going to be a strikeout pitcher or a groundball pitcher or a fly-ball pitcher.

Moyer, who had a 2.55 ERA in six starts at Iowa before being called up, will remain a starter as long as Rick Sutcliffe doesn't return. The last spot is probably the Mets' problem.

Last year's reliever who was born and lives in South Bend, I.1., is the best of the newcomers. He was with the Cubs from May 13 to the end of last season with a stint on the disabled list. In nine games this season, he has given up 12 hits and seven runs. He returned to the Cubs June 26.

Through July 5, his 1986 totals are 5-2 with eight innings pitched, seven hits and one run given up on his ERA of 1.13 and a 2-4 record. Gumpert says last year's visit to the families has helped him this year.

"The longer you're up here, you're going to relax a little bit more," he said.
itself, Congress in effect has retained control over the execution of the act and has intruded into the executive function," Burger said for the court. "The Constitution does not permit such intrusion."

Burger was joined in his opinion by Justices William Brennan, Lewis Powell, William Rehnquist and Sandra Day O'Connor. Justices John Paul Stevens and Thurgood Marshallconcurred in the ruling. justices Byron White and Harry Blackmun dissented.

The decision, Gramm said, "will become roughly equivalent to several agencies, including the Federal Reserve Board, which are functionally independent of the president and Congress."

Gramm, promising he and others "will not allow Congress to get off the hook on its commitment to balance the federal budget," said he hoped the new version of the law could be approved by Aug. 1.

Sep. Mike Synar, D-Okla, who with congressional colleagues filed the suit against Gramm-Rudman, said the decision "will not set back our efforts to balance the federal budget. I believe it moves us forward by stripping away the illusion that there is an easy answer."

"We cannot legislate leadership," Synar said, "Gramm-Rudman tried to insulate Congress from the hard choices our Founding Fathers gave us and expected us to make. We argued this was wrong and the court agreed."

Synar also questioned whether an amended version of the bill could be passed. "They think they are going to correct this thing by doing one, simple, short thing," he said. "The court, arguably, said that could be done," Synar said, but -- suggesting he might go to court again -- he added, "I think that's an argument that we could test again."

mate in the fraud-tainted Feb. 7 presidential election, who precipitated the takeover Sunday by declaring a broad-away government.

Tolentino, 75, proclaimed the hotel his "seat of government" Sunday and had himself sworn in as acting president.

The only violence reported during the incident was an attack by Marcos loyalists on reporters driving through the city. Two people were injured, estimated 180 soldiers and officers remained in the 17-story hotel Monday night, backed by hundreds of Marcos loyalists who drove out the management and 586 guests and turned one of Asia's finer hotels into a shambles.

Speaker for Jerry Enrile said Tolentino had left the hotel but would return at dawn when the remaining supporters and rebel soldiers were expected to leave. Tolentino was believed to have returned to his house Monday night.

An early Monday morning claimed to have been doped into supporting Tolentino was the 4-month-old government of Cong. Aquino which he contends was unconstitutional.

"What (information) I received, apparently was first that there was an agreement, maybe a tentative agreement, that all these hotel guests will vacate Manila Hotel not later than 8 o'clock in the morning (Tuesday)," Enrile said, referring to soldiers and their supporters.

The Marcos loyalists filled the streets, Manila Hotel with trash Monday, picknicking on the plush rugs, sleeping on the lobby couches and filling atrays to overflowing.

Enrile said the soldiers still in the hotel also had agreed to "rejoin the military organization" and they would be permitted to retain their firearms and return to their units in the central plains north of the capital.

Authorities deployed six armored personnel carriers, about 400 soldiers and police in a park near the hotel and angered a major intersection to halt traffic into the area.
