North 'assumes' Reagan OK'd shifting of funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North, at last before Congress and the nation to address his colossal scandal, said Tuesday he assumed President Reagan approved the diversion of Iran arms sales profits to Nicaraguan rebels although they never discussed the scheme.

"I assumed the president knew what I was doing and had, through my superiors, approved the diversion of the Iran arms sales profits to Nicaraguan rebels although they never discussed the scheme," North said.

He said through my superiors, and that may have shown Reagan knew that may have shown Reagan knew North knew about the CONTRA diversion. But North said he believes he shredded five memoranda that may have shown Reagan knew about the contra diversion. "I came here to tell you the truth ... the good, the bad and the ugly," said North, seated at the witness table wearing his ribbon-bejeweled uniform.

"I am here to accept responsibility for that which I did. I will not accept responsibility for that which I did not do."

In a dramatic six hours, North also said:

"He knew a chronology he prepared in mid-November 1986 had false data from McFarlane about Israel's role in a November 1986 weapons shipment to Iran, but North thought there were "good and sufficient reasons" to lie about that deal.

"The shredding of significant documents relating to the arms sales and the diversion of the "residuals" began in early October 1986, when CIA Director William Casey told him the dealings were on the brink of becoming public.

"North denied he conducted a shredding party on Nov. 21 to destroy any documents that were evidence of Reagan's knowledge of the diversion. SIU-C officials and Japanese delegates have signed a letter of intent that may make the University one of the first to open a branch campus overseas.

Giving a slide show and reception Tuesday, Mayor Noel Dillard, Arling President John C. Guyon and other administrators welcomed Japanese businessmen and political leaders from Kurobe, Nakajo and Tonami to the campus. The remainder of the day was spent in meetings and touring the campus.

The meetings were utilized to draw up terms detailing a mutually satisfactory branch campus agreement.

Lynz Brown, associate director of International Programs and Services, said the proposition was initiated by the U.S.-Japan Committee for Promoting Trade Expansion. Brown said the committee was formed May 1986, with an intention in improving trade relations between the two countries prompting its formation.

Cross-cultural and educational exchanges are the sources of some trade friction, Dillard said. Branch campuses could promote better cultural understanding for Japanese and Americans.

Having a branch campus in Japan would be beneficial to study for students for many reasons, Brown said.

Such a campus would provide economic connections with the Japanese, as well as provide economic connections with the Japanese, as well as

Two new locations for fast-food hamburgers soon will be available on Carbondale campuses.

A Snapps restaurant and a McDonald's were granted permits at the City Council meeting Monday.

A special use permit for a drive-in restaurant on South Illinois Avenue was granted despite the possible traffic problems it may cause.

Snapps, owned by M & L Investments of St. Louis, will be located across from 710 Bookstore near the intersection of South Illinois and Mill avenues.

Counilman Keith Tuxhorn was the only council member to oppose the permit.

"Please do not allow this, because of the safety implications it brings to the city," Tuxhorn told the council.

He said the council was making this decision when the majority of students are not in town. "Doesn't the council think the students should be a major concern in this issue?"

Several citizens came to the June 22 meeting to protest the building of the restaurant because of the increased traffic and pedestrian problems they said it would cause. The council did not take action on the issue at that time. At the July 6 meeting, no residents chose to address the council on that issue.

"Anything we do in this area is going to change traffic patterns," councilman John Miller, who motioned for approval of the permit said.

Council members discussed the possible effect of installation of traffic signals at the intersections of Mill and University. The council approved the traffic signal installation at the June 22 meeting.

"It will increase the safety of both intersections," Ed Reeder, director of Carbondale Public Works said.

The Snapps restaurant will provide only walk-up and drive-up service. No seating will be provided.

Alestle weathers First Amendment storm

By Debra Lawhead

Staff Writer

The First Amendment rights battle between SIU-E's student newspaper and campus administrators appears to be resolved, the student editors say.

Michelle Paul, Alestle student editor, said there have been no control or censorship attempts since she became editor in June. The confrontation began when Deborah Pauly, former Alestle editor, was ordered by university officials to rewrite the newspaper's governing bylaws to include preadministration changes.

The administration wanted to halt the paper's ad sales commissions and hire an administration-approved faculty advisor. The bylaws were rewritten over Pauly's objections, an action she saw as a threat to her First Amendment rights, she said.

Earl Lazerson, SIU-E president, couldn't be reached for comment.

Pauly asked the Illinois Education Association-NEA for help. It supported her demands that ad salesmen receive sales commissions, that the student editor continue to select the faculty advisor, that the administration stop rewriting the Alestle bylaws and that an extensive audit be done on the newspaper's missing funds, Marcus Albrecht, IEA higher education organizer in Edwardsville, said.

Paul said the newspaper also wanted reimbursement for wages paid to two secretaries, including one who was suspended during the audit.

S. Illinois farmers wet but happy for crop-reviving rain

By Eric Oestmann

While some people may be getting fed up with rainy weather, farmers welcome the recent downpours with open — if soggy — arms.

"I'm glad to get the rain because it's very important for growing corn and soybeans," said Russell Smith Jr., a Carbondale farmer. He said his corn is pollinating and needs an extra dose of water.

Robert Frank, Jackson County agriculture extension adviser, said crops are dependent on large amounts of rain because clay particles in Southern Illinois soil prevent plant roots from going deep in the soil, and there is not much moisture in shallow soil.

"The rain came at a very crucial time for Jackson County crops and could be called a million-dollar rain for the total crop production for Jackson County," Frank said.

If Jackson County has reasonable weather for the rest of the season, the crop yields could be boosted up to 10 percent over previous years, Frank said.

The average Jackson County corn crop production for the past six years is 2.25 million bushels per year. If this year's crop is 10 percent above average, Jackson County could get $4.18 million from the corn crop alone, which is about a $500,000 above-average.

Although the rain has been "a little excessive lately," Smith said, it is not enough for the rest of the month.

"Farmers need two to three more inches of rain this month, but scattered out over a period of weeks," he said.

The soil is becoming saturated with water and may not be able to hold more water, Smith said.

Smith said his farm could use about an inch of rain every week.

Vergennes farmer Kevin Williams said, "The rain is a blessing in disguise, and I have never seen corn look as good as it does this year."

Williams agreed with Smith that the soil needs a respite to dry out. Otherwise, the ground will become so saturated that air will not be able to reach the roots, he said.

Southern Illinois has the radio blues

IF THERE IS a radio wasteland, it must be in Southern Illinois.

Sure, we've got radio — the two most-listened-to stations in the market use the airwaves. But does "most-listened-to" also mean "most innovative?"

One of the stations treated listeners to a Fourth of July weekend of the "Top 500 Hits of All Time." (Funny how Kim Carnes' "Bette Davis Eyes" and the Bee Gees' "Night Fever" were ranked higher than Bill Haley's milestone "Rock Around the Clock" and Led Zeppelin's classic "Stairway to Heaven").

THIS SAME STATION, which had based its popularity on album oriented rock, has changed its format to the familiar "oldies but goodies" formula. It's not enough that local bars offer a myriad of "oldies tonight," now oldies are offered 24 hours a day over the airwaves.

The other station has changed its format as well, from Top 40 to dance music. Talk about a change from bad to worse: now those listeners whose ears have worn tired of listening to the constant playing of Phil Collins records — or without Genesis — can hear Lisa Lisa and Cult Jam sing three times an hour.

WE CAN'T FAULT the stations; they're just giving the people what they want — remember, listeners voted for the hellish 500.

An alternative is sorely needed — the stations don't serve just Southern Illinois, they also serve Southern Illinois University.

CARBONDALE HAS JUST such a station — WIDB. But it's hard to hear the alternative music that WIDB offers when it's broadcast on a low frequency AM station that can't be heard off campus. Of course, those lucky enough to have cable television can get WIDB on their FM dials — after paying for a radio wasteland, it must be in Southern Illinois University.

There's no need to rely on cable television to experience a wide variety of music, as college radio stations helped bring the alternative music to the airwaves. But does the Southern Illinois University campus have a transmitter so kids at SIU-C and other campuses would give WIDB money for a transmitter and or without Genesis — can hear Lisa Lisa and Cult Jam sing three times an hour. We'd be dreaming if dreams came true.

In regard to a letter in the July 1 Daily Egyptian, there are several points that should be made clear.

First, "hundreds" of trees were not cut down in or around Campus Lake Woods. The trees that were removed total about 20 and were cleared because of their poor condition.

Second, the picnic tables, which are now safely accessible, provide leisure facilities for everyone and were not the center of the Campus Woods clearing. Furthermore, none of the clean-up efforts around the lake were done so the Greeks "can party more easily."

It would seem that Mr. Cohen neglects to recognize that the Greek System at SIU and on all college campuses are responsible organizations that do more than lounge about, beer can in hand, watching the endless parties go by.

Third, the Greeks had absolutely no input in the removal of the underbrush, which had overgrown the jogging trail surrounding the lake. (And I do stress underbrush, not trees). But perhaps the Greeks should have taken a stand concerning this matter long ago — considering that each Fraternity and Sorority pays $40,392 a year to maintain their Greek Row Housing contracts.

For this much money, these picnic tables are the least that can be provided for their leisure, as well as a view of a lake, which up to now was nothing more than a potential hiding place for anyone with intentions contrary to public safety and the well-being of those wishing to use both the picnic facilities and jogging trail.

Fourth, all the animals that inhabit this area are no doubt still residing along the lake. The grass and trees, which previously would have been, 'butchers of the land.'

It's not the players' fault: they try but their physical limitations are too great. SIU-C basketball is improving. Rich Herrin's team does bring in basketball programs as in years past.

I am all for playing with local high school talent, but if local talent is lacking, it must come from elsewhere. I enjoy watching individuals from local high schools compete in division 1-A basketball. However, I'd like to see players like Randy House and Brian Welch give 100 percent and then lose because of coaching mistakes or a lack of talent on the floor with them.

Familiarity key to safety as firefighters tour campus

By Bill West

Carbondale firefighters are on campus this summer to familiarize themselves with the layout of its major buildings.

Cliff Manis, Carbondale Fire Department training officer, initiated the training program in May to help avoid possible catastrophic accidents when fighting fires.

Safety tours have been conducted in the past, but these are the first organized tours involving close to 100 percent of the fire department, Manis said.

The nine-week program of morning and afternoon tours every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday provides firefighters the chance to learn where hazardous and toxic materials are stored. The crews visit in two shifts because it is necessary to keep manpower at an acceptable level at the two fire stations.

John Hicks, University safety officer, conducts the tours. He points out potential fire hazards, fire hydrants, chemical storage rooms and stairwells. Each building has its unique dangers such as acetone, ether and radioactive materials in Life Science II and contagious viruses in the James W. Neckers Buildings, Hicks said.

Cypriot ship hit by Iraqi missile

By United Press International

An Iraqi missile ripped through the hull of a Cypriot oil tanker, the press reported, and hours later Iran warned France against delivering anymore warplanes to Baghdad, reports from the region said Tuesday.

The 47,297-ton Cypriot tanker Nikos Kazatzako came under attack by an Iraqi plane near Iran's Kharg Island oil terminal late Monday, shipping sources in the Gulf said.

The vessel was the fourth to be hit near the Iranian shore in the past two weeks. Last reports Tuesday said the tanker was still ablaze but there were no further details or reports of any casualties.

The report came after Iran said its warplanes scored "effective and accurate hits" against "two large naval targets" near the Iranian shore, language Baghdad normally uses in claiming hits against tankers in Iran's service.

There was no independent confirmation whether a second tanker was hit.

In Tehran, Prime Minister Far Honein Musavi said Tuesday Iran would "not remain silent" about French plans to deliver new Super Etendard jets to Iraq.

The Super Etendard is equipped to fire the Exocet missile that has proved effective against oil tankers in the 3-year-old "Tanker War" Iran has waged against Iraq.

France hints at breaking Iranian ties

PARIS (UPI) — France could break diplomatic relations with Iran if an interpreter hindering in Tehran's embassy in Paris does not give himself up to French police, Prime Minister Jacques Chirac said in an interview published Tuesday.

Iranian interpreter Wahid Gordji has been wanted by police since June 3 in connection with a series of Paris bombings last year that killed 13 people and wounded more than 260.

Gordji is not covered by diplomatic immunity and has refused to leave the embassy and give himself up to police.

Chirac, in an interview with Le Monde newspaper, said France had ruled out confronting the Iranian Embassy to capture Gordji but other measures were being considered.

"There are various ways, going all the way to a rupture in diplomatic relations," Chirac said. "All depends on the attitude of Iran itself."

"If Mr. Gordji refuses to leave, such an attitude would have irreversible consequences on the process of normalization."

Soviets offer naval pull-out in Persian Gulf

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, seeking to prevent an increased American presence in the Persian Gulf, offered Thursday to withdraw its five-ship naval task force from the area — if the United States, Britain and France remove their Gulf forces.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Boris Pudyshiev also said Soviet withdrawal of its five warships — three mine sweepers, a frigate and a communications vessel — from the gulf is conditional on steps being taken to end the nearly 7-year-old Iran-Iraq war.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Kidnapped American reporter Charles Glass broke free from his kidnappers in Lebanon by choking back tears, said in a videotape released Tuesday by his family expressing anger that he came to Lebanon on a secret mission for the CIA.

The syntax of the statement indicated that it was written by an American English speaker, and U.S. officials in Washington, aware that Glass worked for the government.

I am Charles Glass. Many of you know me as a journalist. But few know the truth, said Glass, 36, looking anxious in the seven-minute tape delivered to a Western news agency for my main job with the CIA, I used my different positions to reach my goal to collect information in Lebanon, said of the CIA, he said, reading a statement.

A group calling itself the "Organization for the Free People of Lebanon" released the tape, said in a statement in Arabic that the video showed the results of the primary interrogation of the American spy Charles Glass, so you know why several persons are to our resistance.

"America was and is still working on making sure that we and us to control us," the statement said. "The interrogation will be unsealed in steps, showing all the Zionist interests, but the man is moving and it will also unveil all the agents related to him in this mission."

In Washington, the CIA declined to comment Tuesday, but White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater, when asked if Glass was an agent of the U.S. government, said, "No, not now." Glass is possibly a CIA agent because he does not know what he is doing.

"The history of these kinds of videotapes suggests that they are often done under duress, perhaps even torture," Fitzwater said.

"Political analysts in Beirut said the tape's release might have been timed to undermine the administration's upcoming Sunday U.S. envoy to Lebanon during which he appears to be taking the facts of the American hostages.

North fingers top officials in Iran arms sale cover up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lt. Col. Oliver North passionately defended his role in the Nicaraguan Contra rebels Tuesday and directly contradicted testimony of former national security adviser Robert McFarlane that he had been ordered to not solicit aid from other countries.

North, testifying to the House and Senate committees probing the Iran-Contra scandal, also argued that the money donated to the Contras from foreign governments was not the result of his solicitations, but represented offers of help from the nations, where he had been told United States aid would be "grateful."

McFarlane has told the committees that, with U.S. aid to the Contras banned by Congress, he told North to not seek money from foreign governments.

"I never carried out a single act, not one, in which I did not have authority from my superiors."

North vehemently denied that Tuesday, arguing, "I never carried out a single act, not one, in which I did not have authority from my superiors."

North, who said he had the job of holding the Contras "together in body and soul," became animated when discussing the Nicaraguan rebels, which are trying to overthrow the Sandinista government. "I get the sense that somehow or another, we've tried to create the impression that Oliver North picked up his hat and wandered around Washington and foreign capitals begging for U.S. aid," North said.

"I didn't have to do it, because others were more willing to put up the money than the Congress because they saw well what was happening to us in Central America and the devastating consequences," North said.

"I am the one who created these tapes, plus the seven hours of recordings that your committee found yesterday, because others were more willing to put up the money than the Congress because they saw well what was happening to us in Central America and the devastating consequences," North said.

Reagan snubs North's Hill debut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, busy "caring on the people's business," ignored the debut of Oliver North's long-awaited appearance before Congress, his chief spokesman said Tuesday.

At a press conference Wednesday, Reagan's chief spokesman said Tuesday the president nor any of his senior staff added to the list of high-level guests, which included nationally televised hearing, Marin Fitzgerald said.

Television scenes echoed North's testimony through the pages of the Iranians about the Reagan administration's long-awaited appearance before Congress, his chief spokesman said Tuesday.

5,000 student athletes expected for Yugoslav sports festivities

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (UPI)— Over 5,000 athletes from 29 countries will participate in the Olympic-style World Student Games which begins Wednesday. Including coaches and officials, the number of participants rises to a record total of 3,449, compared with 3,409 from 106 nations who took part in the last competition two years ago in Kobe, Japan.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Heavyweight champ Mike Tyson has been charged with assault and battery for grabbing and trying to kiss a female parking attendant and then striking her at a Hollywood theater, officials said Tuesday.

Two counts of assault with a deadly weapon were filed and battery were filed Monday afternoon by the City Attorney's Office against Tyson, spokesman Mike Qualls said.

Tyson faces a maximum sentence of 18 months in jail and a $12,000 fine, Qualls said. Municipal Court arraignment is set for Aug. 26.

Tyson, 21, of Catskill, N.Y., was in the VIP parking area at the theater, 6110 Sunset Blvd., about 10:30 p.m. June 21 when he allegedly grabbed an 18-year-old female parking attendant, Tisha Gonzalez, and said "give me a kiss," Qualls said.

As the two embraced, Jonathon Casares, a 20-year-old parking supervisor, came out to see if the woman was all right, Qualls said.

Tyson released the woman, walked up to the supervisor, hit him in the face with a rolled-up T-shirt and then with his open hand in a stiff-arm movement, Qualls said. It was not immediately known if Casares required medical treatment.

Tyson has a 30-4 record, including 27 knockouts. His next assignment is set for June 22, when he will make his first defense of the WBC title.

open division team.

"We were delighted about that," Scott said. "It's a chance for Marialis to show everyone that she's learned about the game since she's been with us.

Two prep recruited and signed by Scott last signing season will get looks from the Region 8 scholastic division teams.

Cyd Mitchell of Harrisburg will probably see some action, as she previously was a Saluki prep player. A 6-1, 135-pounder, she's a left hander that will see some time with the Region 8 schedule team.

Mitchell, a 4.0 student-athlete, was the leading scorer and rebounder, averaged 17.5 points and 13.4 rebounds during her prep career at HHS. At 6-1, Mitchell, a three-sport star in high school but is expected to play power forward at some point during her career.

Fletcher, who owns scoring and rebounding records at Belleville West High School, will compete in the FSG's for a second time. The 6-2 forward averaged 19.8 points and 12.5 rebounds during his junior season and was named to the first team of the Southwestern Conference when she shot .583 from the field.

Scott said the chance to play against some of the best in the state would be a good tune-up for the pair.

"It's great for the young kids," Scott said. "They're playing against better talent than they are used to. It should give them a little better feel for what to expect this fall."

All in all, three of four recruits signed by Scott this season will participate in the Prairie State Games. Mitchell and Rakers in the scholastic division.

Scott said she passed up the opportunity to watch her players on the Region 8 open division team to watch the scholastic division players.

"It's a great place to look for recruits," Scott said.

Scott will leave from the Prairie State Games in time to watch two more players— Dana Fitzpatrick and Carl Kampwerth— compete in the Olympic Sports Festival, July 13-16, in Chapel Hill, N.C.
Prairie cage team sports Saluki edge

By Steve Merritt

The Region 8 Prairie State women's open division basketball squad will have a distinct SIU-C flavor when it hits the hardwoods July 16-18 at the annual Prairie Region Championships in Salineville, Ohio.

Two current SIU-C players, another who has yet to wear a (former) uniform, and the manager who just finished their SIU-C tennis careers will have a chance to pace the Region 8 team to victory.

Anne Thouvenin and Mary Bergquist, who'll be juniors this fall, suit up for former Saluki Colette Wallace and incoming junior 3-quality athlete Dennis Sanders of John A. Logan College to form the nucleus of what should be a tough squad.

The team will be coached by former Saluki Marialice Jenkins, well known to Saluki fans for her accuracy in the backcourt shooting department.

The remainder of the squad consists of Illinois' Devere Carrie of Teutopolis; Eastern Illinois' Renee Gill and Bonnie Kirsch, both of Nashville; and Lewis and Clark's Carol Poll, a Godfrey native.

Saluki coach Cindy Scott Forschek gave her players "a good reason to work hard through the summer."

"It's a good incentive to work in shape and play hard," Scott said. "All the more reason to stay in shape for the fall."

Scott added it was a good opportunity for to coach the Prairie team.

New McAndrew scoreboard donated by area residents

By Steve Merritt

Staff Writer

The construction project underway at McAndrew Stadium this week includes the installation of a new state-of-the-art scoreboard.

Athletics Director Jim Livengood said the scoreboard was not included in the original McAndrew Stadium renovation plans but was quick to point out the biggest advantage of the new scoreboard is cost.

"It isn't costing the University anything," Livengood said as he explained that the scoreboard was donated by local individuals and merchants.

"The time certainly is right," Livengood added. "The scoreboard will be a nice complement to the new turf and track."

The scoreboard features a message center, similar to the scoreboard installed at the Arena last winter.

The old scoreboard, which cost $8,500, was donated by Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. of Marion in 1975. The Pepsi Company was again one of the contributors in this project, although Jim Brandt, vice-president in charge of marketing, didn't want to discuss the money aspect of the sign saying "people get tired of the money end all the time."

However Brandt said "the other one was getting quite old and this was a good opportunity" to put a new one in.

Livengood said the new scoreboard will be "a pretty big deal" and that he'd given a complete list of all those who made contributions when the project was finished.

"McAndrew certainly is going to look different this fall," Livengood said. "It'll be attractive enough to be a focal point for the entire University."

The new scoreboard will be located 40 yards to the south than the old scoreboard, farther away from the playing field. Livengood said the move creates more surface area and keeps the scoreboard out of the way, which will allow the field to be used for a greater variety of events.

Assistant athletics director Mike Perkins, in charge of facility management and scheduling, said the project was originally slated for completion by Aug. 15, but adds that inclimate weather the past two weeks may set that date back some.

Spartech International, the company installing the turf, was due in Carbondale Wednesday to begin laying down the pad on which the sand-filled turf will rest, but soggy conditions have pushed that project back.

Asphalting the d-shaped areas past b- and end zones and completion of the drain also have been delayed, Perkins said that the uninstalled drain, located on the west side of the stadium between the track and the field, should be able to be finished while the pad and turf are being installed.

The SIU Board of Trustees originally approved the $1.18 million renovation project for the turf, track and lights in March. Funding for the turf and track, the two top priorities of the three-phase project, was obtained but the lighting project was postponed as the lights were expected to cost an additional $200,000 to $300,000.

Beanball battle ignites recurring rhubarb at Wrigley

CHICAGO (UPI) - Andre Dawson hit one of three Chicago home runs before being ejected from the game Tuesday to lead the Cubs to a 7-4 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Five Chicago players, manager Gene Michael and coach Johnny Oates were ejected from the game as a result of a beanball war started when San Diego pitcher Eric Show hit Dawson in the face with a pitch in the third inning. No Padres were ejected.

Dive teams gain Ardrey as coach

Dave Ardrey was named the new head diving coach for both men's and women's teams effective August 1.

Ardrey became the diving coach at Springfield's St. John's University. His SIU-C appointment was announced Tuesday.

Ardrey is a Springfield, Mo., coach for three years and was named the SIU coach of the year in 1985 when Drury captured the national NCAA title.

Ardrey became the diving coach at Springfield's St. John's University. His SIU-C appointment was announced Tuesday.

Ardrey said the SIU has great facilities and is in a super location for recruiting outstanding divers.

"I want to make an effort to rebuild recruiting-wise by bringing in young, aggressive talent," Ardrey said. "I'd like to see the program back competitive at a national level." Ardrey said.

SIU-C Ardrey will be in charge of both men and women divers, a situation similar to Doug Ingram's position as head coach for Saluki men's and women's swim teams.

"We're thrilled to have a young man the caliber of Dave joining us," Ingram said. "I have no doubt now our diving program is in good hands and will prosper for years to come as Dave is very well respected in U.S. and collegiate diving circles."

Ardrey also spoke of hopes to develop a U.S. diving program, and an age-group diving program in addition to the collegiate team.
