Indiana man may be Communications dean

By Gene Charleston
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A visit to Carbondale last week by William B. Christ, associate dean of the Indiana University School of Music, has given rise to reports that Christ may be the next dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts. Christ is one of seven candidates for the position invited to the SIU campus in April for personal interviews.

It has been reported that Christ was in Carbondale to look for housing in the area. Contacted in Bloomington, Ind., Tuesday, Christ confirmed the visit last week, and said he was "exploring for a number of reasons."

He would neither confirm nor deny reports he had been offered the position as dean.

"I am under consideration. Any further comment will have to come from the SIU news bureau," Christ said.

Executive Vice President and Provost Willis Malone said he has no information on the status of the Communications and Fine Arts dean position.

"That matter is being handled by the president and I have no information on it at this time," Malone said.

Richard M. Blumenberg, chairman of the College of Communications and Fine Arts dean search committee, had no comment on the reported choice of Christ for the position.

Philip H. Olsson, present dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, confirmed reports that he is considering taking a leave of absence. He said he is "thinking seriously" about taking a leave of absence, and also about stepping down from the dean's position. He would not comment further on when he was considering making the moves.

Olsson was appointed acting dean of the college when C. Horton Talley retired last September.

The seven persons invited for personal interviews by the search committee are: Jerry M. Anderson, acting vice provost, Central Michigan University; Charles W. Bolen, dean, College of Fine Arts, Illinois State University; Theodore Clevenger Jr., chairman, Department of Communications, Florida State University; Lewis Goff, director, University Theater, Department of Communication Arts, University of Wisconsin; Presley D. Holmes, director, Educational Television Station, Washington, D.C.; Olsson and Christ.

The search committee has given its recommendations to Malone, but no decision has yet been announced.

If Christ is appointed to the dean's position, he would be the fourth administrator to come to SIU from Indiana. President David R. Derge, Vice President for Administration and Campus Treasurer Dan Orescanin and Hollis Merritt, Derge's executive assistant, were formerly at Indiana University.

Former legislator files libel suit

By Sherry Winn
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Gale Williams, Jackson County landlord and former state representative from Murphysboro, filed an $800,000 libel suit Tuesday in Jackson County Circuit Court against a former SIU student and the SIU Board of Trustees.

Williams claims that as a result of two advertisements published in the Daily Egyptian on Nov. 1 and Nov. 3, 1977, he was exposed "to public hatred, contempt and ridicule" and that his "honesty, integrity, virtue and reputation" were impeached.

Williams' complaint states that the board regulates the newspaper and is therefore responsible for what it publishes. He alleged that the board was "grossly negligent" in failing to make reasonable inquiry into the factual matter of the ads.

The complaint names Douglas Diggle, former student, as a defendant because he was identified in one of the ads as chairman of a "Better Housing Through Better Government Committee" which paid for the ads. The committee supported Kenneth Buzbee, Carbondale Democrat, in the State Senate election campaign. Buzbee defeated Williams, a Republican, for the 58th District seat.

In a telephone interview Tuesday, Williams said the ads attacked him directly as a candidate but directly attacked him as a businessman.

The two advertisements implied that Williams' voting record in the Illinois House on bills dealing with tenant-landlord relationships showed he was against tenants' interests.

The ads contained a phrase that Williams is a "bad landlord," the complaint states.

Williams said he had waited to see if his business had been damaged before filing the suit. He said he feels his business and professional reputation have been damaged.

Williams, who has extensive interests in rental property in Carbondale, said he had checked with the SIU Housing Office and found that no complaints had been filed against him by student tenants.

"No one has ever taken me to court," he said. "Housing told us that we have the best record of anyone in the Carbondale area."

John Huffman, SIU legal counsel, said the board had not been officially served with notice of the suit and he declined to comment until the papers have been served.

Diggle also declined to comment. He said, however, that he had heard no previous complaints about the ads. Diggle, who is working as a bartender now, was active in the Student Tenant Union.

Williams is asking from each defendant $75,000 in libel damages, $75,000 in business damages and $250,000 in punitive damages—totaling $400,000 each from Diggle and the board.

A request for emergency activity funds for 19 student organizations summer quarter will be made to the SIU Board of Trustees Thursday by Dean of Students George Mace.

Mace said he would request the funds from the board during its meeting in Edwardsville even though the item does not appear on the board's agenda. Mace did not specify what amount of the $172,000 available in student activity funds he would request from the board.

The Student Senate approved student activity fee allocation recommendations for 19 student organizations during a special session Friday. The 19 allocation recommendations total $162,193. The remaining $9,806 will be placed in the Student Organizations Activity Fund for the 54 groups that did not receive an allocation recommendation.

Groups not receiving an allocation may request a portion of the fund from the senate via its finance committee.

Mace said Tuesday that he had not received a copy of the approved student senate budget from the senate or its finance committee.

The Joint Fee Allocations Board (JFAB) made the original allocation recommendations to the senate's finance committee. The committee, in turn, made two changes in the recommendations before the budget was approved by the senate.

The finance committee changed the recommended allocation to the Student Government Activities Council from $51,500 to $54,500. A decrease was made in the Lectures and Entertainment allocation from $10,000 to $7,000.

The remaining 17 allocation recommendations approved by the senate are

Trust funds subject of court order

By Rafe Kilgus
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

John Selig, a beneficiary of the Egyptian Sands South Land Trust #5, has requested a court order to force Leonard Bening of Bening Real Estate and manager of trust property to account for over $129,000 of trust funds.

The original complaint, filed last November in the Jackson County Circuit Court, was amended May 17 by J.C. Mitchell, Selig's attorney.

Mitchell explained that he requested the accounting because "we (Selig and he) don't know the exact amount" belonging to the trust.

Mitchell said that Bening holds the trust's funds along with the funds from other properties he manages or owns in the Bening Property Management Account at the University Bank of Carbondale.

With what he has seen of the account's books, Mitchell said he believes that Bening has been withdrawing the trust's funds for inappropriate uses.

John C. Feirich, Bening's attorney, said the allegations of misappropriation are unsupported by any evidence and are "denied by Mr. Bening."

"Anybody can charge anything they want in a suit," Feirich said, "but that doesn't mean it's true."

In the amended complaint, Mitchell alleged that Bening withdrew $11,436 during 1969 and $117,850.82 during 1970 of the trust's funds.

The complaint alleges that the withdrawals were explained by Bening as necessary to pay debts and loans owed by the trust. Mitchell contends in the complaint that the debts were "nonexistent."

The complaint further alleges that Bening withdrew $34,000 of trust money to offset losses incurred by another property, the Graduate Dormitory, which is partly-owned by Bening.

Mitchell added that he believes the results of the accounting will show "a misappropriation of our funds."

New service nears completion

By Sam Denoms
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The up-grading phase of a continual General Telephone Co. installation operation to improve direct distance dialing (DDD) telephone service for SIU and Carbondale is nearing completion.

"This modification of the existing system at SIU will allow for a greater number of DDD calls to be made from any telephone within the University complex," Dale Smart, GTE service department supervisor, said.

Since Feb. 26, employees of GTE Automatic Electric Inc., an equipment installation firm under contract to GTE, has been installing an additional 300 telephone terminals in the University's telephone system.

Smart said, that along with the terminals being added, the "traffic pattern" of the system at SIU is being changed before the increasing use of the telephones becomes a problem.

"These changes constitute operational studies made by the GTE Traffic Engineering Department," Smart said.

Modification of a "traffic scanner," which assists the traffic department in determining equipment needs in advance, is also a part of the changes taking place at the University.

Ellis Wooten, who is in charge of the operation for GTE Automatic Electric, said as many as five men have been assigned to the SIU job at one time. However, only three are presently working.

Cost of the installation has been measured at 2,000 man-hours of work, or a total cost of $70,000, which includes the cost of new equipment for the SIU system, Smart said.

"This type of installation is budgeted through GTE internal revenue and does not cause an increase in service charges to our customers," Smart said.

Work on the installation of the terminals and the up-grading of other SIU telephone equipment is scheduled to be completed by July 30, 1973.

City to stick with franchise

Cable TV given 90 days to comply

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Action against the performance bond of Cable Information Systems, Inc. will be taken by the Carbondale City Council if the cable company does not comply with its franchise agreement within 90 days.

The City Council voted unanimously Monday night to allow the cable television company until September to meet the franchise terms with the city.

Mayor Neal Eckert made the recommendation insisting that the company comply and stating that the city should "stick with the existing franchise, at least until the major provisions of it are upheld."

He said that the cable company may begin complying by:

—Establishing three local origination channels instead of just one as is currently the case.

—Making converters available so that subscribers may have as many as 20 channels.

—hooking up and providing all Carbondale schools with free cable television service.

—Filing statements of revenue with the city including audited statements regarding the Carbondale Cable operation as well as statements on the number of subscribers in the city.

—Providing the entire city with access to the cable television services.

Councilman Hans Fischer said that he agreed with the suggestions made by Eckert but suggested that the city also request an audit that shows "exactly how much money was spent for local origination equipment so that we can determine whether the expenditure and revenue side of the franchise agreement were indeed met."

"One basic reason for asking for an audit," Fischer said, "is to make it clear to the City Council that specific aspects of the cable television franchise are being complied with."

"If one of the requirements of that franchise is to require certain expenditures for certain types of equipment, then the audit should speak to those requirements," he said.

Eckert said the franchise did not require a statement from the cable company on what the cable company spent for equipment.

"I don't want to make any request from the company that is not in the franchise," Eckert said, "because then you open the franchise up to negotiation, which I don't think we should do at this point."

The Council also approved a fire protection service contract with Makanda Township.

The contract calls for Makanda Township to pay $2,500 in revenue-sharing funds. The money will go to Carbondale in exchange for fire protection service to be provided until April 30, 1974.

The council indicated that $5,000 should be charged for the fire protection service but the township was unable to pay that amount. The township representatives suggested that the city charge each individual caller for fire protection service at a rate of $100 per call. The township agreed to help the city collect any unpaid fire service charges.

New degrees approved for SIU by IBHE

By Rich Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) Tuesday approved a bachelor of science degree in technical careers and a bachelor of arts or science degree in university studies for SIU.

In addition, health education grants totalling $2.5 million were allocated.

Both degree programs were approved at the March Board of Trustees meeting. The university studies program, which will start July 1, is designed to allow students to pursue a "free choice or no-major" course of study which emphasizes generalized instead of specialized training. Under the program, students must meet regular entrance requirements and complete all University requirements for the baccalaureate degree.

Students in the university studies degree program will be advised through the General Studies Division and the program will be administered by the executive vice president and provost.

The purpose of the technical degree program is to provide individually designed learner-oriented programs which will enable students to achieve personal academic and vocational goals utilizing SIU's present resources.

According to the plan, each student's course of study will receive personalized guidance from a faculty advisor and must receive approval from the dean. Students can receive credit for previous higher education and work experience but each student must also complete a specific series of courses and a defined work experience. Enrollees must also develop specific skills and competencies tailored to career and educational objectives.

Over $2 million in health education grants of the $2.5 million is to be used for construction purposes. Hospitals receiving part of the construction fund include Doctors Memorial Hospital, Carbondale, $234,200; St. John's, Springfield, $623,000; and Memorial, Springfield, $875,800.

Major in computers approved

By Marcia Bullard
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An undergraduate major in Computer Science gained approval of the Faculty Senate Tuesday.

The proposed program would provide a bachelor's degree from the College of Liberal Arts and is intended to be implemented in the fall of 1974. All courses in the program are designed for the semester system which will also begin in fall 1974.

In other action, the senate approved a proposal to facilitate transfer of credit between SIU-Edwardsville and SIU-Carbondale. A proposal to provide for expanded off-campus instructional centers was also approved.

Students enrolled in the Computer Science curriculum will be required to complete 28 semester hours of computer science courses, 14 semester hours of mathematics courses, 9 semester hours of technical electives and must receive a grade of C or better in each course.

Many courses under the computer science program are presently crosslisted, or may be crosslisted, in other colleges. Most of the computer science faculty are also crossappointed with other academic units. These trends are expected to be continued, Bob Mark, chairman of computer science department, said.

The proposal must go to Vice President for Academic Affairs Willis Malone for approval and then to the Board of Trustees.

The proposal for transferability of credit between the two SIU campuses provides that academic credit earned at either institution be accepted as satisfying residency requirements. Transfer credits will be evaluated the same as from any other institution.

Assistant Provost Keith Leasure said the proposal was initiated because SIUE passed a similar proposal a few weeks ago. He said the Board of Trustees is always asking about the transferability of credits of new courses at the two campuses.

"This concept will sell to the board," Leasure said.

Greater emphasis on off-campus instruction gained support of the Senate after a number of amendments to a proposal originating from the Graduate School were made. A legislative proposal re-hashed by the Senate's Undergraduate Education Policy Joint Standing Committee met with 45 minutes of discussion before being approved.

The proposal provides that students should be able to receive resident credit for courses taken at an off-campus instructional center; that appropriate academic divisions be responsible for curriculum and faculty in off-campus instruction; that a University agency be responsible to the Vice President for Academic Affairs for instructional centers; that a uniform tuition schedule for on and off-campus instruction be made and that attention be given to making the processes of admission, registration and advisement for off-campus programs as uncomplicated as possible.

An ad hoc committee to review and evaluate the University 300 course will be named by the Senate's Committee on Committees and will recommend to the department of admissions and records that enrollment and registration in the course be suspended until such time as the evaluation is completed.

The University 300 course, designed for students holding top executive offices in the university, was established in the fall of 1971. At that time, it was supposed to be evaluated or discontinued in the spring of 1972. Nothing has been done since that time and Senate chairman JoAnne Thorpe suggested the matter be taken up now.

In other business, the Senate approved members of committees nominated by the Committee on Committees. They are as follows:

Faculty Status and Welfare Joint Standing Committee: Harry Ammon, Arlene Heisler, J. Hurley Myers, Jonathan Seldin and Bruce Swinburne.

General Studies Joint Standing Committee: Eleanor Bushee, Fred Grismore, Willard Klimstra and Joann Paine.

Governance Committee: Murnice Dallman, William Garner, Robert Laver, Abraham Mark and Thomas Pace.

Undergraduate Education Policy Joint Standing Committee: Gerald Coorts, James Diefenbeck, Chester Johnston, Beverly Konneker and Ernest Lewis.

Four arrested on drug counts

Three SIU students were among four persons arrested Tuesday by state and local officers for drug law violations in what a University official described as a continuation of "a war on drug traffic."

Donald A. Hecke, SIU communications director, said the arrests were "a continuation of the initial raid at Carverville" on May 4 when 14 persons were arrested on drug charges. Eighteen persons, including 13 students, were arrested May 17.

Students arrested Tuesday were identified as Paul Napier Thomas, Western Springs; Daniel Edwin Dunbar, Grayslake, and Steven G. Patten, Hazel Crest. The fourth man was identified as Charles E. Ott, 24, Carbondale.

Hecke said Thomas and Dunbar were arrested at Schneider Hall and Patten and Ott were arrested off-campus by Illinois Bureau of Investigation agents, Carbondale detectives and SIU Security Force officers.

Thomas was charged with sale of a controlled substance, and Dunbar and Patten with unlawful delivery of cannabis. The amount and nature of narcotics seized Tuesday were not disclosed.

Editorial New directions

As Americans ask themselves what can be done to prevent future Watergates they must keep in mind who was responsible for the incident.

The Committee to Re-elect the President instigated the burglary and bugging of the Democratic National Headquarters in the Watergate hotel. The raid was planned, directed, and carried out by CRP members, working independently of the Republican Party.

President Nixon's CRP was an attempt to win merely a personal victory without the experience and resources of his party. The president's first mistake was his establishment of the CRP, a move which should never be allowed again.

The independent nature of the CRP gave it the rein to act as it pleased with no supervision by GOP officials. One of the biggest inequities in the CRP's gathering of nearly 1.7 million in unreported cash prior to April 7, 1972, when the new contribution disclosure law took effect.

The actions of this team of arrogant musclemen bares the desperate need for campaign reform, which must begin immediately.

Some corrective measures to prevent future Watergates which should be made soon are:

—Placing the direction of all presidential campaigns into the hands of each party's national committee. This would place campaign activities into the hands of experienced politicians interested in working within the party—something the CRP refused to do.

—The public financing of election campaigns. Campaign funds could be charged to the American people in the form of $1 extra on federal income taxes. A small amount to pay to avoid widespread corruption in presidential campaigns.

—The establishment of an independent elections commission with the power of subpoena and to go directly to court with its charges. Part of this idea was introduced by the President to his cabinet. The commission would be bipartisan, keeping an eye on all presidential campaigns.

—Congress could pass a law requiring full disclosure of the finances of its members, including contributions to the individual's campaign as well as campaign expenditures. The Watergate burglary and bugging has been characterized as a silly, stupid, illegal act performed by individuals—not the Republican Party. Parties as a whole, whether Republican, Democratic, or other, cannot be held responsible for the actions of only a few of their members.

Hopefully these suggestions to clean up presidential campaigns will enable the parties involved and the American people to keep a closer eye on political activity which, when done with honesty and integrity, is so vital to our democracy.

Letters to the editor

On health

To the Daily Egyptian:

I beg to differ with Leonard Wolf whose editorial May 25, lambasted "health enthusiasts" and their organically grown foods. Being a "health enthusiast", I felt that I should clarify a few points to Mr. Wolf on his "Food for thought".

Mr. Wolf states "most health foods are no different than those sold in supermarkets." Yet, he fails to mention that most processors for supermarkets don't know the nutrient contents of their own products. In "Prevention Magazine", May '73 it states, (p.133), "In a plea to the FDA, a group known as the Giant Food Nutritional Labeling Committee, an industry-group headed by Gerson Barnett, vice-president of grocery operations for Giant Food, Inc., suggested that the tolerance for variations between what the label states to be the nutrient content, and what tests show it to actually be, should be increased from the proposed 20 per cent to as high as 70 per cent. The group said that as they gain knowledge of the multiple variations in nutrient content, the tolerance could be gradually reduced from the figure of 70 per cent." A tolerance that extensive would make nutritional labeling all but meaningless. How then can a variant be established between organically grown and supermarket food? Quality speaks for itself.

Mr. Wolf further states "Americans get more than they need of these nutrients if they maintain a well-balanced diet." Yet, he fails to mention that almost one-third of the U.S. population over the age of three are overweight, and that dental caries, mental illness, alcoholism, and lung cancer linked directly to increased cigarette smoking, has never been more rampant. It is apparent that we are a very sick nation and that few of us maintain a "well-balanced diet" indeed. Americans are neither the healthiest people in the world nor the best fed. More food, yes, but food that is almost completely devitalized with the essential ingredients battered, frozen, cooked or pounded out of it, and perhaps "enriched" with a minuscule percentage of all that's been removed.

As Mr. Wolf says, "health enthusiasts are getting something other people aren't." The right to live long and productive lives away from the commercial adulterates found on supermarket shelves. Read the facts, Mr. Wolf, and maybe you will, perchance, have to eat you own words.

A voice

To the Daily Egyptian:

The recently publicized memo which forbids criticism or rebuttal of administration policy saddens me.

Without the press watching the Nixon administration as it did, the Watergate scandal would never have been uncovered. Without the press watching over all governmental and civic organizations, there would be an even greater chance of corruption and dishonesty. Therefore since SIU is certainly not above reproach, I feel that daily input from students, faculty, and concerned townspeople would only be an asset to the University community. To put a man or an administration above constructive criticism or intelligent opinion is negating all that this country stands for. Furthermore, to single out particular segments of the student body as trouble makers on the basis of their major fields of study is indeed sad.

To obstruct the dissemination of information and opinion items by any individual or governing body is wrong. This obstruction totally destroys a portion of academic freedom that is vitally needed if the University is to function as it should.

I myself am a Radio-Television major. I do not have horns on my head, nor do I have rocks in my hand. I am only a concerned student who sees a part of individual freedom being obstructed. This incident provoked me into writing. It would be a shame if my voice could no longer be heard, wouldn't it?

Mr. Nixon soaks the rich

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

Our President is constantly accused of being over-friendly to the wealthy. Nonsense. Take the Great San Clemente White House Deal.

After two-and-a-half years, Mr. Nixon's aides have finally figured out and made public how he bought the San Clemente White House with the help of New York tycoon Robert Abplanalp.

What they haven't yet made public is how Mr. Nixon sold Mr. Abplanalp on the deal.

Actually, Mr. Abplanalp answered one of those ads "Be our guest to inspect San Clemente Sunny Acres. Free transportation on Air Force One. Free glass of champagne. Low down! E-Z Terms!"

He was met at the gate by Mr. Nixon, who was wearing dark glasses, a sharkskin suit and blue suede shoes.

"Welcome to San Clemente Sunny Acres, Mr. Abplanalp," said Mr. Nixon heartily. "And here is your glass of free champagne at no cost or obligation."

"Abplanalp," said Mr. Abplanalp. "But what I'm interested in is the low down payment and easy terms."

"I'm glad you asked that question, Mr. Abplanalp," said Mr. Nixon. "Please inspect this beautiful 38-room mansion which can be had for absolutely nothing down."

"Gosh," said Mr. Abplanalp. "It must be worth more than half a million easy. You mean I can get it for no money down at all?"

"No, Mr. Abplanalp," said Mr. Nixon. "I can."

Haven't you got that backwards?" said Abplanalp.

"Not at all," said Mr. Nixon. "You see, what we're primarily interested in as subdividers is good neighbors. And as my good neighbor, I'm going to allow you to loan me $625,000 to cover the $420,000 down payment on these 36 sunny acres."

"But we're not even neighbors."

"We will be, Mr. Abplanalp. Because if you qualify, I'm going to sell you 77 per cent of these 36 acres for only 82 per cent of the $1.5 million they cost."

"Wait a minute, I won't pay a nickel over 77 per cent for 77 per cent of the land."

"Golly, you sure drive a hard bargain, Mr. Lapanapple. But you win. Sign here."

"Which 77 per cent of the mansion is mine?"

"As luck would have it, Mr. Panalnab, the mansion happens to be on my 23 per cent. But, don't worry, to increase property values I'm spending more than $100,000 in public funds for national security—such as building an eight-foot wall around all 26 acres, erecting three gazebos and installing electric heating in the house."

"That's national security?"

"Isn't everything these days? Who wants a cold President? Nor can we afford a red President. So, for national security, I've included a shade-providing cabana on the beach, which you can visit any time."

"Holy moley, what a great deal! I'll sign."

"Any time you can get over the eight-foot wall. But let me say, Bob, you're just the kind of good neighbor we were looking for."

Well you can't help enjoying our President fleeing a smart tycoon like that. But poor Mr. Abplanalp. Imagine him going home and trying to explain to his wife how come he was snookered out of $1,340,000 for 20.1 barren acres. And he didn't even ask about schools or bus stops.

In fact, all he got out of it was the President now calls him Bob.

Monorail

To the Daily Egyptian:

In regards to the proposed monorail system, I would like to point out that the campus parking problem is only one facet of the vast problem created by the rapidly increasing number of cars owned by students, faculty, staff, and administrators.

Four years ago, when I entered SIU, freshmen and sophomore were not allowed to have cars on campus. As a freshman, naturally, I was against this rule thinking it was very discriminatory. Traffic was a problem then, but now the rule has been dropped, and students living on campus can have cars. Also, students, faculty, staff and administrators who live in close proximity to the campus drive the few blocks to park their cars a few blocks from their destination. This to me is ABSURD.

Living east of campus I have the difficult task of fighting the East Grand Street traffic (on my bicycle). I really feel sorry for these poor people who (on beautiful days) feel they must add to the traffic and pollution problems by driving the few blocks to campus. I realize that owning a car is supposed to be a convenience, but when traffic piles up as on the east side of town, and a car may move two blocks in twenty minutes—that's convenience? People from Giant City Blacktop, Carterville, DeSoto, Herrin, Marion, etc. MUST drive to SIU, but why must people so close to campus add to the problem?

What I am suggesting in regard to the eyesore of a monorail system, is a special thought to perhaps a mass transit system from various points OFF campus going to and from (Not On) campus. Get to the seat of the parking problem—too many unneeded cars. Change that rather than adding a huge monorail system on campus PLUS the tremendous number of cars. There used to be buses with four routes around town. If a monorail system is to be used, have it come from East Grand to the campus; from North 51 to the campus; from South 51 to the campus; from the Northwest side to the campus. This way fewer people would feel the need to drive to campus. I hope I've made myself clear. And perhaps that rule of not permitting underclassmen to have cars on campus should be reinstated.

County ambulance operation by Health Service proposed

By Jan Tranchita
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A plan to allow the SIU Health Service to assume responsibility for ambulance transfers within the Carbondale city limits for a trial period of six months will go to the Board of Trustees Thursday for approval.

The Carbondale City Council voted Monday night to approve the contract, if the contract is approved by the Board, SIU will work for the city on a payment-per-call basis beginning July 1 and ending December 31.

Sam McVay, Health Service administrator, said Monday that the ambulance proposal had been recrafted several times until this final contract was agreed upon by Carroll Fry, city manager. McVay added that George Mace, dean of students will present the proposal to the Board of Trustees under current and pending business.

"This cooperative effort is going to cut costs for both the University and the city," McVay said. "In six months, we feel there will be some decision by the state legislature allowing individual counties to set their own standards for ambulance service."

McVay referred to a proposal being developed to initiate a county wide non-profit ambulance system for Jackson County. By the end of the contracted period with Carbondale, McVay hopes definite plans for the county system will be finalized.

The town gown contract will utilize SIU equipment and staff at a $40 per call within Carbondale limits, McVay said.

"We have the manpower, equipment and education," McVay said, referring to the current service at SIU. Ambulance drivers for the Health Service are enrolled in SIU and many are ex-corpsman, McVay added.

"We can get equipment with federal and state funding," he said. Consequently, SIU is more able to assume the responsibility for town ambulance service of a high quality than the other way around.

The proposal stems from a written request from the city to SIU asking the Health Service to take responsibility for ambulance transfers for an interim period between the cut of community service and a county wide system.

As far back as October, Charles McCaughn, fire chief indicated that the ambulance service at the fire department was not breaking even, much less making a profit.

It's a non-paying service, McCaughn said at the time. Yearly costs for the emergency truck operations averaged around $16,000—wages for the extra men on duty. This figure did not include truck maintenance, McCaughn said. Problems with collection and billing precipitated the request.

In regards to the county-wide system, McVay said officials are looking for a program that will have three main concerns—quality, accessibility and acceptable cost.

Jackson County Board of Supervisors is looking at a plan to consolidate a county-wide system in which Jackson County would contract with a firm in Elgin for ambulance services. But costs for this program are more than costs for a local operated system, McVay said.

While he does not advocate a program run by SIU, McVay feels the board of supervisors should take a more serious look at local workers rather than an outside group supplying ambulance service for the county.

"A program of this type would have a degree of 'us-ness' in it," McVay said. "It means we're interested in helping ourselves as opposed to outsiders coming in to help us."

The question of costs will remain a major factor, McVay indicated, in concerns for a county system. But he reiterated a need to look at local talent.

The ex-corpsmen who are students at SIU held promise for a county wide program, he said. "I don't mean a county program run by SIU, but for a county wide ambulance system run well."

Alumni honors on banquet 'menu'

Three alumni of SIU will receive Achievement Awards at the annual Alumni Day banquet Saturday.

The annual award for professional achievement will go to David Aiken, class of 1939, who is a member of the School of Music faculty at Indiana University. Bloomington Aiken has appeared as a leading singer on Broadway, has sung on numerous network television shows, including the Ed Sullivan Show, and has sung leading roles with opera companies both in this country and abroad.

Achievement Awards for service to SIU and the Alumni Association will be presented to Glenn "Abe" Martin of Carbondale, class of 1932, retired associate professor of physical education, and to Alice Williams of Mt. Vernon, class of 1932, who has been associated with the University in a number of capacities for many years.

Martin was head football coach for 19 years. He became athletic director in 1944 and held that post until 1953. During his tenure, he established the sports of golf, wrestling and gymnastics and revived the baseball program. A member of the College Baseball Hall of Fame, Martin was SIU baseball coach for 19 years and was honored last year when the SIU diamond was renamed for him.

Mrs. Williams participated in the first annual meeting of the SIU Foundation board of directors and was a one-time member of the board. A founder and past president of the Jefferson County Alumni Club, she is a former administrative assistant and executive secretary of the SIU board of trustees, was secretary to former SIU President Henry Shryock, and for nine years was administrative assistant to former President Roscoe Pulliam.

Linguistics professor to teach in Germany

Glenn G. Gilbert, associate professor of linguistics at SIU has been awarded a senior Fulbright professorship to teach sociolinguistics at the University of Mainz, West Germany, during the 1973-74 school year.

It is the third Fulbright award for the 36-year-old Gilbert, a faculty member of the Department of Linguistics faculty since 1970. He won a Fulbright travel grant to study at the University of Frankfurt as a University of Chicago exchange fellow from 1967-69. During the 1966-67 school year, he held a junior Fulbright lectureship at the University of Marburg, West Germany.

Gilbert, a native of Montgomery, Ala., has a bachelor's degree in Germanic languages from the University of Chicago and a Ph.D. in linguistics from Harvard University. He is the author of a linguistic atlas of the German language as used in Texas, published last year.

He will begin his Fulbright post in September.

Purchasing official to retire

Connie Beach, an employee of the University for 36 years, has announced her retirement as assistant director of purchases as of June 30.

Ms. Beach says she plans to "do all the things I haven't had time to do" since she began working for SIU's Purchasing office in 1932.

From 1932 to 1937, Ms. Beach worked as a student in the purchasing office and in September of 1937 became secretary to the business manager. In 1943 she was made Purchasing Agent for SIU by then president Roscoe Pulliam.

In January of 1964, a male purchasing agent was brought into the office and Ms. Beach became assistant director of purchases. She acts as a go-between for the buyers and the SIU agent.

Ms. Beach said that no decision has been made on a replacement, but if a new assistant director of purchases is appointed it will be the result of a promotion within the office.

Ms. Beach is single and lives at 605 Skyline Drive in Carbondale.

Neely Hall to be co-ed fall quarter

Two floors at Neely Hall will be converted to co-ed housing this fall. Joseph Gasser, assistant to housing director Sam Rinella announced Tuesday.

Floors 12 and 13 will have men and women living in alternate suites, with four persons of the same sex sharing a bathroom located between two rooms.

"This was done to provide for the needs and interests of students. There has been a lot of interest in this," Gasser said.

The decision to open the floors as co-ed housing was made by Rinella Monday. Gasser said a surge of interest in co-ed housing on Thompson point and the availability of the space at Neely contributed to the decision.

"Besides, it's a good idea to have some co-ed housing on the east side of campus too," Gasser said.

There will be one hundred spaces available on the two floors.

Persons wishing to contract for co-ed housing should contact Alice Willis, supervisor of contracts, Washington Square D.

Gasser said the persons who have already signed University housing contracts can have them changed to the co-ed housing by contacting Ms. Willis in person.

Grant's historical papers to be compiled by October

By Terry Weidberg
Student Writer

The fifth edition of "The Ulysses S. Grant Papers," compiled by John Y. Simon, professor of history, will be completed in October.

Simon said, "There will be 15 to 20 editions by the time The Grant Papers are completely recorded."

The National Historical Publications Commission (NHCP), headquarters in the National Archives Building in Washington, assists and encourages documentary projects which are underway at almost 40 university campuses and historical societies.

Simon said that SIU recently received an $11,000 grant to support "The Grant Papers" project. He explained that the Grant Association is a non-profit organization. We are not a part of the University so a major part of the grant goes to SIU," he said.

"The Southern Illinois University Press has published the last four editions beginning in 1967 and sells each for $15," Simon said. "A lot of work goes into preparing an edition of historical documents," he added.

"We work from more than 50,000 photostat copies that are indexed at Morris Library," Simon explained. "We gather the material through the National Archives Institute and by writing other collectors for copies." Simon said that Morris Library contains 100 original Grant papers which is one of the best collections in the United States.

Simon's staff consists of four people. The combined efforts of the staff with the help of the $11,000 grant from NHCP made it possible to produce a publication containing prefatory material, published documents and manuscripts and an index of Grants personal papers.

"The goal of the NHCP is to make the key documents in American history available to the American people," Simon said. "It is important for humanity to have a proper historical record."

Simon stated in the third edition of "The Grant Papers" that reference was made to the Carbondale area.

Simon explained that Grant was responsible for the security of the region of Southern Illinois during the Civil War. On April 22, 1864, Grant gave orders to a captain and his company of 124 men called the "Egyptian Guards" to defend the Big Muddy Bridge against Confederate attack.

Editions of "The Grant Papers" are available in Morris Library.

Mister Rogers show stresses love, warmth

By Gary Mihoces
Associated Press Writer

But with the medium of public television, an intimate gentleness and a wealth of imagination, the 45-year-old Rogers has become best friend to an estimated four million youngsters in living rooms stretching the nation.

Rogers is best of "Mister Rogers Neighborhood," one of the country's most avidly watched television programs among the kindergarten and grade school sets.

It is a program painstakingly structured to focus on the innermost feelings, fears and frustrations of children. Its approach is so low key yet profound that it stands out against the many commercial children's shows with thinly plotted yarns constructed around comic book heroes and space-age monsters.

Rogers himself describes the program as "a place where friends help children find within themselves the courage to grow."

"Our single most precious resource is the mind of a child," Rogers said during an interview at WCED, the local public television station from which the Neighborhood originates.

"I'm deeply concerned that this resource is being endangered, and television must share the blame," he continued. "Much of today's shows are either deplorable junk or a serious neglect of television's vast potential to develop the inner child."

In striving for that inner development, Rogers employs the themes of warmth, friendship and love. With them he explores scores of obvious and not so obvious childhood concerns, including jealousy, death, a visit to the dentist or doctor, selfishness, helpfulness—even the belief inspired by some parents that Santa Claus is all knowing and virtually omnipotent.

"That notion is very threatening to youngsters," Rogers said of the Santa myth. "They should learn that nobody, not even Santa, knows what we're thinking or doing all the time and that inner privacy belongs to them alone."

It is with this same careful forethought that Rogers plans, writes, directs and hosts all of the Neighborhood programs, from beginning to end.

He frequently consults with child psychologists to insure that there is no room for error or misinterpretation, yet final judgments are based on his own delicate intuition.

"Something must feel right for me if it's to be presented to the kids, or I won't do it," he emphasized. "That's the difference between our program and all the others."

Whatever the difference, the program's effect on its youthful viewers is obvious.

There was, for example, the 4-year-old boy in Los Angeles who stood in a crowded studio during one of Rogers' personal appearances and confided, as if to a knowing relative, "Mr. Rogers, I only wear diapers at night now."

And then there was the outcome of a program in which Rogers sat on a toilet seat and sang, "You Can Never Go Down the Drain."

"When you sang that song," a parent told Rogers later, "Michael smiled. I know he believed you."

Car thief escapes police

A car thief was caught by SIU Security Police Monday night—but only temporarily.

The thief was arrested in SIU Parking Lot 42 when he could not produce identification and the name he gave did not match the registration of the car he was driving.

It was later determined that he had punched the ignition lock on the car.

The suspect was taken to SIU Security Police headquarters. There he was fingerprinted and photographed—then he disappeared.

Police had handcuffed him to a chair while he was being processed. He apparently picked the handcuffs with a hairpin.

The name he had given to police as his was that of an SIU student. A check with the student's dormitory RF revealed that the man was not the student. Police questioned the student, who said he knew the suspect.

The student knew the suspect only as "Corky."

Police are investigating the original incident and the escape.

Skeleton stolen from Life Science II

SIU Security Police have received a report about a person missing from Life Science II, Room 130.

The person was described as six feet tall and off-white in color. No name was given by the reporting party, a staff member at Life Science II. No body weight, eye or hair color were known.

The staff member said the missing party, who has been connected with SIU since 1953, was last seen on Friday.

The reporting party told police that the missing person, a human skeleton, is valued at $350.

Violated mores blamed on Americans

BANGKOK, Thailand, (AP)—A kiss is more than just a kiss in Thailand. Bestowed in public, it violates the mores of the nation. And open handholding and kissing by local young people has been on the increase.

Deputy Premier Phraphes Charosathien blames it on the example set by American GIs and their Thai girl friends.

He said the problem is being tackled by a joint Thai-American military authority. In addition, U.S. authorities have issued a handbook to all of their servicemen to familiarize them with the Thai people and their customs.

Bantu study funded by Fulbright grant

By Richard N. Levine
Student Writer

A Senior Fulbright Research Grant has been awarded to James E. Redden, professor of linguistics, to do research for a book on several African languages.

Redden, chairman of the linguistics department, said that he will study the history and reconstruction of the Northwest Bantu languages. These languages are spoken primarily in the Federal Republic of Cameroon which is located in the elbow of Africa, east of Nigeria.

"In particular I will study the reconstruction of the sound system, or pronunciation, and core vocabulary of Northwest Bantu," he said.

The Bantu languages are spoken in Central, Eastern, Southern and a small part of Western Africa, an area about 50 per cent larger than the continental United States, he added.

The book will help scholars trace the migration patterns of the Bantu people to give a better understanding of their history. It is also intended to help settle the differences of opinion between American and British universities as to how these people migrated, Redden explained.

The primary reason for selecting the Cameroon area, Redden stated, was there are four types of Northwest Bantu languages spoken there. He did not have time to record and study them on a previous trip, he said.

Another reason for selecting this area, he said, was his friendship with Henri Marcel Bot Ba Njock, chairman of the Department of African Languages and Linguistics at the Federal University of Cameroon.

Both men have visited each other to study the other's language, and they hope to promote more exchange between SIU and the Federal University of Cameroon, Redden said.

The grant was given, Redden explained, to go to the University of Hamburg in Germany to do full time research for his book. The research work will be made less difficult because of the University's "most unique" library on the subject of the languages of the Cameroon, he added.

The primary reason for going to this particular university, Redden said, was to consult with two semi-retired professors who are considered the "world's experts on the very subject I'm working in."

The Department of African Languages and Cultures at the University of Hamburg, Redden said, is the most important African study center on the European continent.

Mitchell accused of approving wiretapping

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former presidential adviser J. H. D. Ehrlichman has testified that Jeb Stuart Magruder told him recently that former Gen. John N. Mitchell approved the Watergate wiretapping.

Ehrlichman said Mitchell refused to discuss the matter with him. He said that he didn't question a third man, Frederick C. LaRue who Magruder said had been present at the meeting.

Magruder was deputy director of President Nixon's re-election campaign and Mitchell headed the campaign before the June 17 break-in at Democratic national headquarters.

Ehrlichman said Nixon instructed him to conduct an investigation of the Watergate affair last March 30.

Little Giant Camp program begins 21st year June 24

The 21st annual summer camp for mentally retarded children and adults will open June 24 at SIU's Little Giant Outdoor Laboratory.

Mrs. William Howe, laboratory field representative, said four two-week sessions have been scheduled June 24-August 18. The campers, ranging in age from eight to 35, will live at the laboratory's lakeside, Little Giant Camp where the summer activities will include swimming, horseback riding, nature hikes, outdoor camping, arts and crafts, music, games, sports and visits to the domestic animal enclosure.

College and high school students selected for the ability and desire to work with physically and mentally handicapped persons will work as round-the-clock counselors during the four sessions.

Activities, Mrs. Howe explained, will be designed to "increase the campers' feelings of competence, self-reliance and independence."

Over the past two decades, SIU-C has conducted summer camping programs for a variety of handicapped population groups at the 4,000-acre laboratory.

Mrs. Howe said 30 vacancies exist for the first two sessions. Cost is $120 per camper. She may be contacted at the SIU Outdoor Laboratories Office, 933-2541.

Cheaper than roads

TORONTO (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway is the quietest, cleanest and cheapest highway in Canada.

An engineering report by Ken Gilbert of the Toronto Harbor Commission said that the cost of the full 2,000-mile route was no greater than the cost of building 20 miles of expressway.

Former U-Senate officer denies 'spending spree' role

A former vice-president of the University Senate Tuesday disclaimed any involvement in Student Government expenditures which have been called into question by the coordinator of student activities.

Gary Dickerson, who held the U Senate post as an undergraduate, said a trip to Springfield which he made last summer in a University car was for official business in connection with a health service reorganization proposal.

The trip was listed as one of five charged to Student Government between July 28 and August 8 and approved by Student President Jon Taylor.

Dickerson, who has graduated and is working for the state Department of Transportation, said he and "three or four other members" of a student health negotiating commission made the trip to talk to Donald Fouts, at the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. Fouts was Superintendent Michael Bakalis' representative to the SIU Board of Trustees.

Workers can expedite pay

Student workers who will not be returning to SIU during summer quarter and would like to receive their student pay checks as soon as possible are asked to submit self-addressed, stamped envelopes to the Disbursements Office.

Earl Tally, director, said Tuesday that student workers who have worked during finals week should submit two envelopes to cover two different paychecks. Envelopes may be mailed or taken to Park Place North, directed to the attention of Betty Williams.

Persons submitting envelopes should include their social security numbers on the lower left hand corner of the envelope to avoid confusion between student workers with similar names. Tally said.

Disbursements is open from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Special restaurant hours for grads set

The Student Center Restaurant will have some special arrangements for graduation and Alumni Day.

On Friday, the restaurant will be open from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. for an after-graduation dinner. According to a spokesman for the restaurant, the regular dinner menu will be served.

Saturday, the restaurant will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A breakfast menu of sweet rolls, donuts, juice, French toast, hotcakes, sausage and bacon will be offered from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. The regular luncheon menu will be served from 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Short order items, such as sandwiches, will be offered from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Reservations for the restaurant may be made by calling 453-5277 or 536-3251.

Pound of pot leads to co-ed's arrest

An SIU co-ed was arrested for possession of marijuana by Carbondale Police Monday.

Gayle M. Ellman, a junior, was a passenger in a car driven by Constantine D. Varveris when the vehicle was stopped across from Carbondale Fire Station No. 3 south on Rt. 51.

Police found approximately one pound of marijuana in the car.

Ellman and Varveris were released on notice to appear in Carbondale City Court on June 20.

Physics students work on radio-telescope

By Richard Lehman
Student Writer

A radio-telescope which Society of Physics Students members have been working on since winter quarter 1972 should be completed by this summer, Frank C. Sanders Jr., assistant professor in physics said recently.

The building of the radio-telescope was actually started during summer quarter of 1972, after six months of planning, Sanders added.

There are many uses to which the radio-telescope can be put, Sanders said, such as studying sun spots and sun flares. The instrument is being built for the enjoyment of club members rather than research purposes.

"We have finished all the electrical work, and have tested it, but now we are working on the reflector for the antenna," Sanders said.

There are six club members working on the project. The radio-telescope is being built on the roof of the Neckers Physical Science Building. Whether it can be operated up there is not certain now, Sanders said.

"The noise from the air conditioners and the street may have some effect on the radio-telescope, so we may have to move it out in the country," Sanders said.

So far, the radio-telescope has cost the club a little over $200. Most of the money came from club fees, with the rest coming from SIU allocations.

Sanders said there are many radio-telescopes in the country, and most of them are large professional ones.

"I know of only six people who built amateur radio-telescopes," Sanders said.

Equity funding

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The court-appointed trustee of Equity Funding Corp. of America says he believes the huge company can be saved from corporate oblivion.

Robert M. Loeffler, who took control of the insurance and mutual fund conglomerate on April 11, told a bankruptcy hearing in U.S. District Court Monday. "The company is and will be capable of reorganization and rehabilitation."

Equity Funding, rocked by one of the biggest business scandals in many years, filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the federal Bankruptcy Act on April 5. The company and its subsidiary, Equity Funding Life Insurance Co., were accused by the Securities and Exchange Commission of committing a multimillion-dollar fraud through the issue and sale of phony insurance policies to other insurance companies.

County violates juvenile detention law

Jackson County is breaking the state law concerning juvenile detention centers while public officials are divided on what should be done to comply with the law.

The county has not yet altered its juvenile detention facilities to meet the requirements of Illinois law, although two plans are now being considered.

"If the law is being broken by judges, sheriffs and other public officials," Ronnie Wells, regional supervisor for the Bureau of Detention Standards and Services which is a division of the Illinois Dept. of Corrections (IDC), said in a recent interview.

The state law, which became effective January 1, states that persons under the age of 17 may not be detained in the same cell, room or yard with confined adults. Wells said none of the 20 counties in Southern Illinois are complying with the law.

"They (the counties) weren't given any time at all to make the necessary changes," Wells said. He also cited lack of money as a reason why the counties are not conforming to the law.

Carroll Fry, Carbondale city manager, said "under state law, the establishment of a juvenile detention center is a state function administered by the county."

Although the county is in violation of the law, some action is being taken to correct the situation. Two plans, a Jackson County plan and a multi-county plan, are being proposed as solutions to the problem.

The Jackson County plan is to remodel the jury sequestering room in the Murphyboro courthouse to accommodate only the county's detained juveniles.

The multi-county proposal calls for the use of one floor of the Carbondale University City complex as a regional detention center. The center would serve the First Judicial Circuit, which includes Alexander, Jackson, Pope, Johnson, Massac, Pulaski, Saline, Union and Williamson counties.

The 14-member Jackson County Board of Commissioners is also divided on what should be done. It will be the local level of government that will be used, only the board's approval will be necessary. If the board votes in favor of the multi-county plan, approval from the eight other county boards in the judicial circuit will be necessary. The IDC will have to approve any plan before it is implemented.

If the Jackson County jury room plan is implemented, the cost of remodeling would be "less than $10,000," Richard Richman, circuit court judge, said in a recent interview. The funds would come from the Jackson County Board of Commissioners.

According to a report by the Bureau of Detention Standards and Services, the jury room is 23 by 24 feet with an attached washroom. The report recommends that three sleeping areas be constructed with a double-deck bunk in each one. The open area remaining would be a multi-purpose area for dining, recreation and other activities, the report states.

It indicates that an adjoining bed room (14 by 18 feet with a separate wash room) would be used for girls. Three beds would be in the room, the report states.

Staffing would require at least six persons with others on a part-time or call basis, the report states. It indicated that the detention staff should not carry weapons, should not have powers of arrest and should not be employed as deputies or guards, and that staffing should be under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court—not the sheriff's office.

The report recommends to the county that the jury sequestering room be used.

This would solve the immediate problem," Richman said. He said the jury room would take care of the needs of Jackson County and that other counties could also use it for a nominal fee.

James R. Rush, director of criminal justice planning at the Greater Egypt Regional Planning and Development Commission (GERPDC), said "converting a jury sequestering room into a cage for kids is the last thing we need."

Walter Semetis, director of the Giant City Youth Camp, said even if the jury sequestering room is used, a juvenile would find the building imposing. Because of the proximity of the jury room to the county jail, he said, a juvenile may not be able to distinguish between the two.

Judge Richman said remodeling should be done by summer, but that it will be delayed "until we get some indication of what's going to happen to the University City proposal."

If the multi-county juvenile detention proposal at University City is used, it would cost $246,305 according to a 12-month grant application to begin September 1 submitted to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) by First Judicial Circuit Chief Judge John Clayton.

Federal monies would be $183,275 for first year funding. The state share would be $15,000. The nine counties in the circuit would pay a collective $48,015. Of this figure $36,615 would be in consultant contractual services.

The facilities in the University City complex, according to the grant application, would be as follows: The proposed location of the center within the six-building complex is the second floor of Brentwood Building. This building is situated between the swimming facilities and the outdoor recreational facilities. Television, indoor recreation and educational areas will be provided in the center.

The daily care would consist of 24-hour supervision, education, counseling, recreation and transportation to and from the county seat.

One floor comprises 8,180 gross square feet. There are 29 individual living quarters which are 12 by 14 feet in size including closed space. In-resident center staff would consist of a center director, a professional services coordinator, a caseworker, five childcare aides (two women, three men), one security agent, a bookkeeper-secretary, secretary and a maid.

In addition, the grant application states that an agreement should be worked out with an area physician to provide center residents with medical care on an "as needed basis."

Rush, director of criminal justice planning, said, the costs of the proposed University City detention center would be 50 per cent less after the first year because half of the first year's budget is in "one-time costs."

Rush said that $65,000 of the almost quarter million dollar budget would be for remodeling one floor of the complex. Another $54,600 "comes in contributory services from Child and Family Services (C&FS) and the state Dept. of Mental Health. In addition, he said, $8,100 would buy office equipment.

C&FS and the Mental Health Dept., Rush said, have agreed to give part of their time to the center.

He added that the center's costs could be shared with the Second Judicial Circuit Court. "They are interested in contracting services from us," Rush said.

This addition would increase the number of juveniles detained, but the center's staff would remain about the same, he said. Rush added, "In effect, we'll be cutting some of the center's costs because they (the Second Judicial Circuit Court) would help pay for the center."

Judge Richman said he thought the University City proposal would be a duplication of a state function.

"The state has set up a system for handling juveniles and I don't see any reason for local government to duplicate it," Richman said.

He added that "there's another problem with a regional detention center of this type because each county has its own jurisdiction. Any juvenile who is apprehended has to be processed in the same county. As a result, any juvenile must be returned to that county. This becomes both a money and a logistics problem."

Howard Hood, state's attorney, outlined the present procedure for handling juvenile cases. Once a juvenile is arrested, Hood said, the arresting officer calls the state's attorney to confirm that the juvenile is to be prosecuted. The officer then calls a circuit judge to obtain the detaining order. Juveniles are released to their parents if at all possible, Hood said.

Hood said he has had to detain an average of one juvenile every two weeks from the beginning of this year. According to the Dept. of Corrections, 548 juveniles were detained per year from July 1, 1970 to July 30, 1972. During 1972, 95 juveniles from Jackson County were detained. Thirty-seven of these juveniles were apprehended by Carbondale police.

Even though a third of the juveniles detained in the county were apprehended by Carbondale police, the city does not intend to assume a responsibility in the development of a juvenile detention center.

George Karnes, city councilman, said there are presently no city funds available for such a center.

Mayor Neal Eckert said he favors operating a detention center on a multi-county basis. Carbondale's contribution, he said, would be renting the University City facilities at a lower cost than such a center could be built.

Mayor Neal Eckert said he favors operating a detention center on a multi-county basis. Carbondale's contribution, he said, would be renting the University City facilities at a lower cost than such a center could be built.

Phil Baewer, a member of the First Judicial Circuit detention committee, said "I can't help believe that the proposed plan for funding the center is a mistake because we're essentially saying that we (the city) have a problem and we want money to solve it. However, we don't want to pay for it ourselves. We're saying we don't consider such a center important enough to spend our own funds to establish."

The Carbondale members of the Jackson County Board of Commissioners, which will make the final decision as to what juvenile detention plan will be used, is divided on what should be done.

"Everything is in the formulation state," Mary Knell Chew said. She said she needs more information concerning the creation of a multi-county center at University City or a county facility in the courthouse. Ms. Chew added that she expects more action in the next couple of months.

Douglas Erikson said if the board decides to build just a county-wide detention facility, that only a few minor changes would be necessary. He said he did not have any information concerning the multi-county plan.

J.C. Penn said he is in favor of the multi-county plan. Penn said he feels the jail is already too crowded.

Noel Stallings said she does not have too much information concerning the multi-county center. She said if a county-wide center is established, it should be located at the courthouse because the sheriff, states attorney and juvenile officer are located there.

Steve Conay said she lacks information on other detention center plan.

Frank Bridges said he is in favor of a multi-county center.

William Kelley said he favors the creation of a center that meets the state standard. He said he would be opposed to a county-wide detention center if it takes part of the sheriff's residence. Kelley said, however, that the cost of the multi-county plan might be prohibitive. He added that something must be done because the court is presently violating the law.

Charles Gray, board chairman, said the multi-county plan has been presented to the board, but that there is no timetable for considering the detention plan.

Gray said he looked at the cost of the multi-county plan and laid it aside.

Cubs pick Wallis in draft

By Jim Braun
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The news reached Harold Joseph Wallis at about a quarter to five Tuesday afternoon.

"Man, I didn't know anything about it," the Southern Illinois junior replied after being told of his selection by the Chicago Cubs in the sixth round of the baseball summer free agent draft in New York.

The draft, which annually lures the outstanding baseball players out of high school and college, will continue through Wednesday. Between 850 and 1,000 are expected to be selected by the 24 major league teams.

"I don't know, I really don't know how it feels now," Wallis, SIU's starting centerfielder for the past two years, admitted.

Actually, being drafted by a major league team is nothing new for Wallis. The Florissant, Mo. native was picked by The Houston Astros out of high school.

"I came to Southern Illinois because of the great baseball program," Wallis said. "I wanted to give college ball a shot. And it has helped me improve."

Saluki head baseball coach Itchy Jones, who led his team to an overall 37-4 record and the finals of the NCAA District Four Playoffs, was surprised at Wallis' sixth-round choice by the Cubs.

"I thought that Joe would go in a higher round," Jones said, "at least the Triple-A round is the second, preceded by the major-league round. Jones said that getting selected in the Single A rounds, fourth and on, proves to be a disadvantage for the ballplayers like Wallis, forcing them to sign for less money.

A college baseball player's draft eligibility involves being 21 years of age or senior status in college. Wallis, who turned 21 in January, still has a year left at SIU.

"Signing with the Cubs would involve a number of things, like how high their offer is to me," Wallis said. "Otherwise, my plans are to stay at Southern for another year."

Wallis finished third in the nation in 1972 with a .426 batting average. This year he fell to a .384 regular season clip, one percentage point behind team leader Mike Wilkins.

"I don't believe Joe had an outstanding year in terms of what he hit a year ago," Jones said. "But he did have a great year for stealing bases (breaking the school record with 34)."

A 1972 second-team All-America pick and first-team selection on the District Four and tournament team, Wallis still feels something was lacking this spring.

"The team was really hurt when we lost to Minnesota," Wallis said. "I really wanted to go to Omaha this year."

Although the first 13 rounds of the draft concluded late Tuesday, the status of other Salukis drafted wasn't known. Jones gives pitchers Rick Ware and Scott Waltemate and catcher Larry Caluffetti a shot at being chosen.

"It all depends on what the scouts saw," Itchy said.

Hancock leads SIU's charge

Tracksters battle NCAA's best

SIU track coach Lew Hartzog hopes decathlon standout Bill Hancock can get the Saluki point parade rolling early at the 1973 NCAA outdoor track and field championships at Baton Rouge, La., Tuesday through Saturday.

Hancock and 10 Saluki teammates will be shooting for a national placing of "tenth or better" at the championships, Hartzog said.

"If Bill has an outstanding two days in the decathlon, we will have some solid points to start with," he added.

Hancock, a sophomore from Glasford, won the Kansas Relays decathlon title and currently is the sixth-ranked collegian decathlete in the country.

He will compete in the rugged, ten-event decathlon on Tuesday and Wednesday, then come back in the high jump on Friday and Saturday. His early season leap of seven-foot-one is listed as the eighth-best in the nation.

Joining Hancock will be SIU's mile and relay combo, Joe Laws and Eddie Sutton in the 160-yard dash, Gerry Craig in the three miles, Jack St. John in the six-mile run, Mike Bernard in the high jump and Philip Robins in the triple jump.

"There's not a single kid among the 11 who is not capable of scoring points in the NCAA," Hartzog said.

Sutton finished fourth in the NCAA mile relay last year outdoors and placed third in that event at the NCAA indoor show.

"Wayne Carmody (SIU's freshman leadoff man from Belleville) will be fresh since he isn't scheduled to run any other races. Our big sophomore, Lonnie Brown (the Salukis' second-leg man from Chicago Englewood) is a great one. He will get us out of trouble if our first leg isn't strong. Sutton (junior from Miami) is running the best of his life and Erickson is back. He was injured early in the season but he's super now," Hartzog said, outlining his mile-baton quartet.

Erickson, a junior from Stickney, was the 1973 indoor 440 champ.

He and Sutton join freshman Laws and sophomore Smith on the 440 relay, a unit Hartzog speaks highly of because of its superb baton exchanges late in the season.

Dodgers rout Chicago's Jenkins, 10-1

CHICAGO (AP)—Ron Cey's three-run homer capped a four-run first inning Tuesday and Willie Davis rapped out four hits to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 10-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Dodgers struck against Ferguson Jenkins, 6-4, after two were out in the first inning. Davis doubled, Joe Ferguson walked and Willie Crawford singled Davis home before Cey hit his seventh homer over the left field bleachers.

Left-hander Claude Osteen, with seventh-inning relief help from Pete Richert, boosted his record to 6-3 as the Dodgers posted their eighth victory in the last 10 games. He lost his shutout in the seventh when Carmen Fanzone hit a pinch-double and Glenn Beckert singled.

Davis led off the third with a single and the fifth with a triple, scoring each time, and singled home a run in the eighth, when the Dodgers scored three times to clinch the victory.

After Davis singled in the third, he went to third base on a single by Ferguson and scored as Crawford batted into a double play. After Davis tripled in the fifth, he scored on a sacrifice fly by Crawford.

Crawford opened the eighth with a double off reliever Dave Laffoe. Cey walked and Matty Mota beat out an infield hit to load the bases. Crawford scored on Bill Russell's sacrifice fly. One out later, Lee Lacey walked and Bill Buckner and Davis followed with run-scoring singles.

The Cubs had good scoring chances in the early innings but couldn't get the big hit. Glenn Beckert singled and Jim Hickman walked in the first inning but Ron Santo flied out to end the inning.

Jose Cardenal singled in the second but Randy Hundley bounced into a double play. Don Kessinger then doubled but was left stranded.

Rick Monday opened the third with a single and Beckert walked but Osteen retired the next three men in order. Hundley bounced into another double play in the fourth and singles by Jenkins and Williams were wasted in the fifth.

The Dodgers added another run in the ninth on a double by Crawford and a single by Mota. Richert retired all seven men he faced to snare his fifth save of the season.

Assistant sports information director takes Dayton post

Joe Mitch, assistant sports information director at SIU for the past three years, has been named director of sports information at the University of Dayton.

Mitch, 27, will assume his duties at Dayton June 18.

A native of Buchanan, Mich., Mitch graduated from Michigan State University in 1968 with a B.A. in Journalism. He was the sports editor of the Michigan State News, MSU's school daily, during the 1967-68 school year.

He served as sports information director at the University of Illinois at Chicago Circle for two years before coming to SIU in August, 1970.

In 1972, Mitch edited a Saluki baseball information brochure which was judged second-best in the nation by the College Baseball Writers Association of America.

"Joe Mitch has done one outstanding job in promoting our baseball program," SIU baseball coach Itchy Jones said. "In fact I think he should be given a great deal of credit for our being able to land the District Four baseball playoffs of this past weekend in Carbondale."

"Joe is not only a good friend of Dan Litwhiler (district chairman) but he talked me into our meeting with our new athletic director Doug Weaver and making a big pitch for the district. We did and we got the tournament largely through the efforts of Joe," Jones said.

Cubs tap Joe

Joe Wallis strides off third base here but his next step is unknown as to whether he will sign with the Chicago Cubs who drafted him in the sixth round of the baseball free agent draft Tuesday. Wallis, a junior, was drafted after high school by the Houston Astros.

Collins in Sept. 25 game at ISU

Illinois State's most famous basketball player, Doug Collins, will return to the scene of his collegiate triumphs when the Philadelphia 76ers and the Chicago Bulls play an exhibition game Tuesday, Sept. 25 at Horton Field House.

Announcement of the exhibition came jointly from ISU Athletic Director Milt Weisbecker and Bulls General Manager Pat Williams.

Williams said that a second exhibition between the teams may be arranged in the area at a later date.

Three of the biggest names in Illinois basketball are on the squads—Collins with the 76ers and Chet Walker and Jerry Sloan with the Bulls.

Collins, the No. 1 pick in the National Basketball Association draft, and Walker won Consensus all-America honors in college.

Collins received that acclaim last winter while Walker was named in 1961 and 1962 at Bradley University.

Sloan was an all-state prep at McLeansboro before moving across the state line to become a little All-America selection at Evansville College.

The Bulls will rent Horton Field House and will be in charge of arrangements for the game.

Tickets will be priced at $5 per seat, except for the top 25 rows of the north bleachers, which will be $4.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. Ticket sales begin September 1.

Collins, who was in Normal's Brokaw Hospital to have his tonsils removed this week, set virtually all Illinois State scoring records on the Horton hardwood. His records include 57 points in one game, 847 points in one season and 2,340 points for his three-year career.
