Tuition boost hinges on plan to raise taxes

By Jacke Hampton
Staff Writer

Students could face another tuition increase if Gov. James R. Thompson's tax hike plan fails, a spokesman in the chancellor's office said Thursday.

"No one is discounting that possibility," said Catherine Walsh, assistant to Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit.

"The $1 million increase approved Wednesday by the appropriations committee is actually level funding. It now goes to the House where it can be amended. We're still hopeful a tax increase will pass that will benefit higher education funding," Walsh said.

The administration is still hearing a lot of conflicting reports concerning the tax hike proposal, Walsh said. Thursday, State Senate President Phillip Rock said a tax increase is dead for the session ending June 30.

Walsh said the SIU Board of Trustees which approved a four percent tuition increase effective this summer, remains committed to holding down tuition costs, but an increase could come out of "dire necessity."

"Hopefully some type of tax increase will be approved so the trustees won't have to consider that," she said. "They've worked very hard to hold down tuition costs and keep SIU's the lowest in Illinois."

Pettit didn't mention tax or tuition hikes specifically when he testified before the appropriations committee Wednesday, but he said present-level funding would slow growth in several areas.

Under Thompson's original proposal, SIU was to receive a $13 million or six percent increase in funding if an increase in the state's income

770 pint goal set for blood drive

By Karen Welis
Staff Writer

A four-day blood drive, with a goal to raise 770 pints, has been scheduled for Wednesday through Sunday of next week in the Carbondale area.

Vivian Ugent, area director for the Red Cross blood service, said blood is most needed in the summer months because of the increase in the number of accidents.

Last summer Christina Copland, a graduate student in physical education, was sideswiped by a car while riding her motorcycle. Copland lost her left leg in the accident and needed about 30 pints of blood to help keep her alive.

Ugent said this is one of thousands of accidents that occur each year.

Ugent said AIDS cannot be contracted by giving blood.

"There is absolutely and positively no way of getting AIDS by donating blood," Ugent said. Most people have confused intravenous drug users with donating blood, she said. Needles used to obtain blood are both sterilized and disposable.

She said Wednesday and Thursday's drives will be from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom D. Additional drives will be held from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. Friday at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church in Carbondale and from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Carbondale National Guard Armory.

In order to donate blood, a donor must be at least 17 years old, 105 pounds or more and in generally good health, Ugent said.

Donors also can register to win a $100 U.S. savings bond given by the Early Bird Kiwanis Club.

Groups co-sponsoring the blood drive are the Annuitants Association and the Joint Benefits Committee.

The area blood supply is low, Ugent said. The region requires a minimum of 1,000 pints a day to be on hand for emergencies.

Ugent said students and licensed medical personnel, with a current Illinois registration, are needed to help with the blood drive. For information about registering and volunteering, call Vivian Ugent at 457-5258 or Joe Ragsdale at 453-5334.

New charter bus company plans weekly Chicago run

By Eric Oestmann
Staff Writer

A new charter bus company that offers students weekend rides to Champaign, Kankakee and the Chicago area begins service June 26.

Evelyn's Charters, 715 S. University, will replace the Student Transit Service. Student Transit closed after the owner, Kenneth Phillip, died from injuries sustained in a car wreck May 18.

Evelyn Tackett, owner and operator of the new bus service, said she started the business because she wants to fill a need.

Although Tackett is renting space where the transit service was located, she said she cannot honor Student Transit tickets because it was a different business.

"We will try to offer one trip per weekend to the Chicago area this summer," Tackett said.

Tickets will be sold on a stand-by basis, but once the bus is about one-half full, the tickets will become reserved seat tickets, Tackett said. The air-conditioned buses, which include restrooms, have a maximum capacity of 47 passengers.

Round trip tickets to Chicago are $49.95, while an AMTRAK ticket costs about $72. Tackett said she hopes to offer two to three trips per weekend by the time fall semester begins.

1 dead, 1 critical in murder-suicide attempt

By Michele Eskins
and Catherine Simpson
Staff Writers

A Carbondale man died and a woman was hospitalized in critical condition Thursday after what police say was a murder-suicide attempt.

Ricky D. Richardson, 23, apparently shot Ida M. Brown, 23, with a .22 caliber revolver, Carbondale Police Chief Ed

Hogan said.

Richardson then shot himself in the head, Don Ragsdale, Jackson County coroner, said.

The shootings occurred outside of the building where Richardson and Brown lived, at 511 S. Lake Heights Ave., on the southeast side of Carbondale. Neal Jacobson, administrative assistant to the chief of police, said.

Richardson died at about 4:23 p.m. at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Brown was transferred by ambulance from Memorial Hospital to St. Francis Hospital's Emergency and Trauma Center in Cape Girardeau at 5:30 p.m. for neurological evaluation and treatment, according to police. The police were notified of the incident at 3:30 p.m., which reportedly occurred during an ongoing domestic quarrel.

Jay Woltz, a spokesman for St. Francis Hospital, said it was not immediately known how many times Brown had been shot. She was being treated in the hospital's critical care unit, he said.

The weapon was confiscated by police, who are investigating the incident.

S. Korean protests rage into ninth day of violence

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Violent anti-government protests erupted in the capital and major cities across South Korea for a ninth day Thursday as more than 100,000 street demonstrators demanded the overthrow of President Chun Doo Hwan. The protests, which have raged daily since June 10, forced the government to reconsider its decision to cut off constitutional debate on revising election procedures, news reports said. Protesters demand direct presidential elections to replace the indirect electoral college system in the constitution, which was written in 1980 during martial law.

Israel grants 1st official Soviet visit since '67

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel said Thursday it granted visas for the first official Soviet visit in 20 years, a step that could lead to a dramatic change in relations with Moscow and an enhanced Soviet role in the Middle East peace process. Foreign Ministry spokesman Ehud Gol said the visas were issued Wednesday and will be processed by the Dutch Embassy in Moscow, which handles Israel's consular affairs in the Soviet Union. In granting the visas, Israel dropped a long-standing demand for a reciprocal visit in hopes that the Kremlin, which severed diplomatic ties with the Jewish state in 1967, will agree to an Israeli visit to Moscow later.

Shiek refuses to abandon coup against sibling

SHARJAH, United Arab Emirates (UPI) — Sheik Abdul Aziz refused Thursday to abandon his coup against his brother, the ruler of this strategic emirate in the southern Persian Gulf, and barricaded himself in the royal palace with hundreds of national guardsmen. Political sources said Aziz, 50, at a meeting in the palace with a delegation from the Supreme Council of the United Arab Emirates, rejected pleas to call off the coup staged Wednesday against his brother, Sultan Bin Mohammed al Qassimi, 48, who has led the nation of 220,000 people since 1972.

Iran committees insist on North feedback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Iran-Contra committees, struggling to force Lt. Col. Oliver North to explain his role in the foreign policy affair, insisted Thursday that the Marine in the center of the scandal should talk to them in private and public sessions. Lawyers for the select House-Senate committees scheduled meetings with North's attorneys that could continue into next week.

Joint panel approves compromise budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional panel approved a compromise $1 trillion budget Thursday and set up a confrontation with President Reagan, who charged lawmakers are "not telling you the truth" in saying they cannot cut the deficit without raising taxes or lowering defense spending. The required majority of members of the House-Senate committee signed the panel's report in favor of the package, which goes to the House next Tuesday and then to the Senate for final approval.

U.S. to deal seriously with shipping threats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will deal seriously with any potential threat to Kuwaiti shipping from mines that may have been planted near the Persian Gulf oil state by Iran, administration officials said Thursday. The administration and Pentagon officials were unable to confirm that any mines deliberately had been placed in or near Kuwaiti waters, chiefly near Kuwait's main oil port of Ahmadi.

Abrams elects not to appear before panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Secretary of State Elliott Abrams, under fire in the Iran-Contra scandal, decided not to appear Thursday before a House panel where he would have been put under oath by a Democratic chairman who questions his veracity. Abrams sent a deputy, Richard Holwill, to testify about the situation in Panama before the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Western Hemispheric affairs.

Novelist Kafka's personal letters auctioned

NEW YORK (UPI) — German-Czech novelist Franz Kafka's letters to his fiancée, Felice Bauer, were sold at Sotheby's gallery Thursday for $605,000, a world record for any literary manuscript ever sold at public auction. The letters, dated 1912 to 1917, were sold to a telephone bidder, identified by the gallery only as a European private collector. The previous world auction record for a manuscript was $412,500 paid for a notebook of Irish poet William Butler Yeats when it was sold in London in 1985.

NAACP chapter may seek national OK to sue city

By Karen Wells
Staff Writer

The Carbondale NAACP chapter will decide June 28 whether it will ask the national organization to sue the city to force a change to a ward-aldermanic system of government.

Albert Simon, past president of the Carbondale chapter, who served as moderator Wednesday of a public forum on the proposed change, said the chapter is gathering information for the national organization of NAACP, which would actually file the lawsuit. He said statements and documents will be given to the local executive board and recommendations will be passed on to the national organization.

The local chapter cannot file lawsuits without the authority of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People national chapter. Willie Neal, vice president of the local chapter, said.

The issue of changing Carbondale's government from a council-manager form of government to a ward-aldermanic system failed in a referendum in April.

In a council-manager form of government, city council members are elected at large. In a ward-aldermanic system, council members would be elected to represent geographic districts — called wards — within the city.

According to proponents of the ward-aldermanic system, including Dave Madlener, acting city affairs commissioner for the Undergraduate Student Organization, because most of the city council members reside on the southwest side of the city, residents on the northeast side are underrepresented since council members are influenced by people who live around them.

Mayoral candidate Norvell Haynes said the change would "provide better government for the city of Carbondale." He had said during the campaign that a failure of the referendum could result in a lawsuit. Because the aldermanic-ward referendum was not passed, the city should be prepared to pay anywhere from $600,000 to $1 million in court and legal fees, he said.

None of the council members live on the predominately black northeast side. Archie Jones was the last person to serve as councilman from the northeast side from 1969 to 1985.

Madlener said that everyone does not understand what the ward-aldermanic system is. He said the system will represent everyone and not just citizens on the northeast side of the city.

Madlyn Stalls, a Carbondale resident, said the system should be established. "It will be the most equitable and healthy way to represent residents," she said.

Clandestine perks wrong way for SIU

SIU CHANCELLOR Lawrence Pettit received more than $10,000 from the Foundation in January to cover losses he suffered when he moved here from his south Texas home.

Our chancellor said he "lost" money, $6,459, when he had to sell his home for less than its value because of a depressed home market. The rest of the $10,463 went for final payments on a car lease and for interest on a loan. The car, for which Pettit himself was paying, was used for official business while Pettit was in Texas, and the loan was taken out to pay for the losses he took on the house to pay for the rest of the car lease.

But why was the money given to him surreptitiously from the Foundation rather than through regular University channels? And if, as Pettit's backers claim, such a payment is nothing out of the ordinary, why wasn't it included as part of the announced package that brought him here in the first place?

THE UNIVERSITY'S clandestine approach to paying Pettit for his "loss," which he says came out of his own pocket, is, in fact, out of the ordinary, or at least something SIU wasn't confident enough about to make public.

Public is a key word when dealing with state Universities because the public, through taxes, pays a lot of money to SIU and other state university systems.

Corporations have been known to offer similar deals to newly hired executives, and that is fine. But SIU is not a corporation and should not make such deals.

Perhaps the worst part of the deal is that Pettit has little reason to claim he was forced to sell his house for less than its value. A house is worth what the market will bear. Many people sell their houses when the market value is low, but there isn't anybody around to pay them for their "loss." The same goes for interest on loans and final payments on a lease.

Granted, the Foundation gets its money from private donations and should not be strictly limited on how it can disseminate its funds. But for SIU to use the Foundation to make secret dealings is the wrong way for a school to operate.

If the University is going to offer perks to new employees, they should not do so in a secret manner, or by hiding in the Foundation.

Opinions from elsewhere

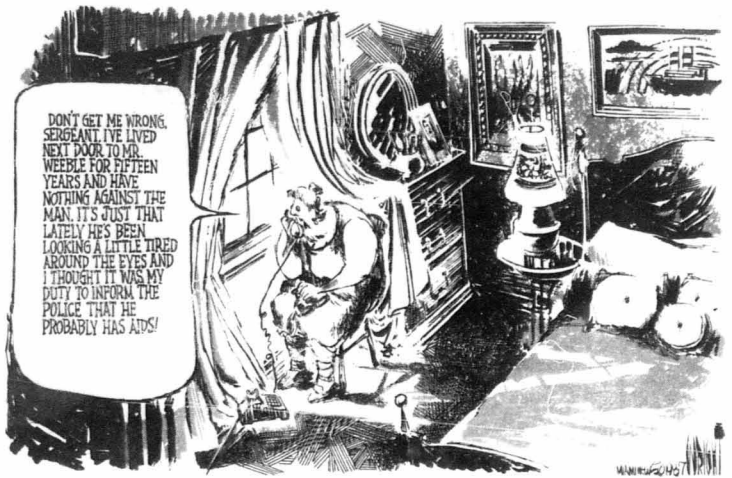

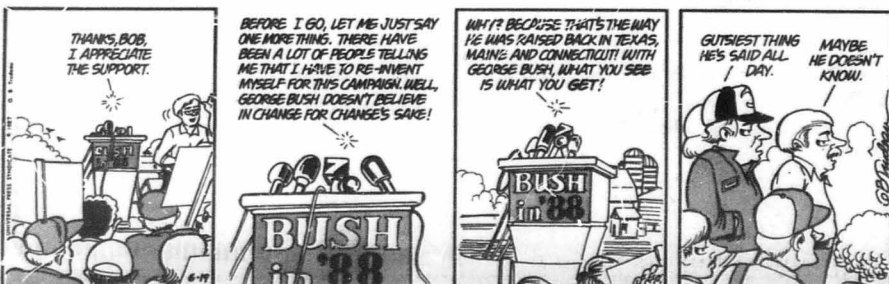

Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch

In moving against the Bakkers, the IRS should proceed with the utmost caution. Conducting a television religious program and appealing for money to finance it do not automatically make a minister a charlatan and deprive him of 1st Amendment protection. While the government is absolutely right to challenge PTL's tax exemption, any punitive action against that organization should be aimed at its specific conduct and should be supported by clear and convincing evidence. The Bakkers' transgression must not be used to justify the imposition of general restrictions that would unfairly limit the activities of all other television ministries.

The Baltimore Sun

The Venice summit is an embarrassing reminder to Americans how much U.S. prestige has fallen in the past year due to the faltering performance of the Reagan administration. There were motherhood statements in bland abundance, but on practically every issue of substantive importance to Washington, the United States was rebuffed, almost with condescension, by the leaders of the other big industrial democracies. Though President Reagan can be expected to put a good face on the proceedings, it will be a false face.

AIDS reporting needs frankness, homosexual focus to be effective

George Will
Washington Post Writers Group

EARNESTLY, and with applause from journalists, politicians are saying about AIDS: candor, regardless of the cost. But truths are being blurred because they inconvenience a political agenda and shock sensibilities. The agenda is to avoid giving offense to certain factions and to avoid something more terrifying than AIDS — the accusation of "discrimination."

In spite of much talk about the "breakout" into the general heterosexual population, AIDS still is and probably will remain predominantly a disease of homosexuals and intravenous drug users. It will increasingly afflict educated, information-receptive homosexuals. It already is disproportionately, and will increasingly be, a disease of inner-city blacks and Hispanics.

Blacks and Hispanics, who constitute 11 and 8 percent of the population respectively, are 25 and 14 percent of AIDS patients. Those percentages probably will rise because AIDS is a behaviorally based disease and will disproportionately afflict those inner-city classes least efficient enough at acquiring and acting on information. After all, many people are caught in the culture of urban poverty precisely because they lack basic skills of social competence: They do not regulate their behavior well, least of all in conformity with public-health bulletins.

AMERICANS HAVE a technology fixation generally. Regarding health, their thinking is shaped by the polio paradigm, the conquest of disease by Dr. Salk's silver bullet. But America's principal public-health problems flow from foolish behavior regarding eating, drinking, smoking, driving — and, with AIDS, abuse of the body, especially the rectum.

Most journalism about AIDS reflects social and political squeamishness. In addition to an understandable reluctance to discuss certain sexual matters, journalism is infused with liberal values, including abhorrence of "discrimination." That is understood indiscriminately to include all invidious distinctions among social groups, particularly those, such as homosexuals, that have a history of being badly treated.

Journalism seems reluctant to clarify that the primary reason for the AIDS epidemic is that the rectum, with its delicate and absorptive lining, is not suited to homosexual uses. Data suggest that receptive anal intercourse is the major, if not the only, important exposure by which homosexuals are given to high-risk behavior. However, even some who are not are dismayed by dissemination of information about those who are. And insufficient information about homosexual practices has impeded understanding of the epidemic.

TIME AND ENERGY is being wasted on the political project of spreading the false message that the AIDS victim is not assignable to particular minorities. British billboards proclaim: "AIDS Doesn't Discriminate," a message designed to absolve homosexuals and addicts of disproportionate responsibility for the epidemic. In New York City, print ads portray a heterosexual couple tangled in sheets, with these words: "Bang, You're Dead!" Such ads are a disservice to the extent that they distract attention from the fact that fewer than four percent of AIDS cases have resulted from heterosexual contact.

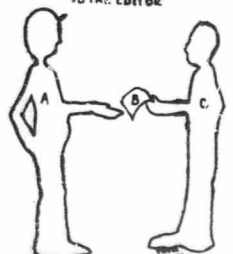

The rate of heterosexual transmission is increasing primarily among black and Hispanic teen-agers whose sex partners are intravenous drug users. New York City has one-third of all AIDS cases; 36 percent of the city's cases are IV drug users. Half of the city's 200,000 addicts are thought to be infected with the AIDS virus.

Of course anyone with AIDS deserves care and compassion. Of course testing is acceptable, if only marginally important, for applicants for marriage licenses and citizenship, and for prisoners. (Many rapes are homosexual rapes in prison.) But while it is politically safe and socially soothing to pretend that AIDS is now a democratic disease threatening us all equally, that is false.

So is the notion that the most urgent task is to fund research for a vaccine. Of course research should be funded generously, but dollars spent getting addicts off needles and onto methadone will do more good, as will journalism that does not trim the truth to spare our feelings.

Investigator recommends Stark captain be punished

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The rear admiral who investigated the Iraqi missile attack on the USS Stark has recommended the captain of the ship be court-martialed, possibly on charges of negligence, officials said Thursday.

The call for the court-martial of Capt. Glenn Brindel was made by Rear Adm. Grant Sharp in a formal report to the head of the U.S. Central Command, Gen. George Crist, said the officials, who requested anonymity.

Sharp personally gave the report with its recommendations to Crist during a brief meeting in the Persian Gulf oil state of Bahrain Saturday and it was brought to Central Command headquarters at McDill Air Force Base, Fla., for review by the general's staff, the officials said.

Brindel, who shortly was scheduled to be relieved of command of the Stark for reasons that were not related to the investigation, still was with his severely damaged ship in Bahrain. The Stark was undergoing repairs from the explosion caused by one of two Exocet missiles that killed 37 sailors and wounded 21 others.

The sources said the formal charge against Brindel probably will be negligence since the ship failed to take the proper evasive actions to avoid casualties and damage to the frigate. The fate of three or four officers under Brindel's command was not known, but all have been assigned legal counsel.

The bottom line, said one official, is that "the commanding officer is responsible for his ship. It's pretty serious stuff."

The recommendation to court-martial Brindel came as little surprise, officials said, because a U.S.-Iraqi investigation and a probe by the House Armed Services Committee pointed in the direction of negligence in defending the Stark from the "unintentional" Iraqi air strike.

Pentagon officials have said Sharp's investigation focused on why the frigate's officers failed to observe standard operating procedures and turn the ship to allow its defenses to fire at the missiles.

A report by Rear Adm. David Rogers, who headed the team that went to Iraq, said a radar warning device on the ship detected about a minute before the first missile hit that the Iraqi jet had locked his fire control radar onto the frigate — meaning it was about to launch an attack.

Senators urged by Mellencamp, Nelson for altered farm policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Singer Willie Nelson pressed senators Thursday to change the nation's agricultural policy so farmers can break even, warning lawmakers that farmers are "dropping like flies."

Nelson and musician John Cougar Mellencamp were the star witnesses at a Senate Agriculture subcommittee hearing into complaints that current farm policy is bankrupting rural America.

Nelson, who says people tell him after every concert how hard times are on the farm, stressed to lawmakers that changes are needed so farmers can break even.

"It's been two years now and I don't see anything is getting any better. People in the farm business are ... dropping like flies."

Senators praised Nelson and

"People in the farm business are ... dropping like flies."

— Willie Nelson

Mellencamp for their activism — "Keep it up and God bless you," said Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala. — but asked them no questions about farm policy.

"Why are they coming to us for advice? I know (chords) D, G and A," said Mellencamp. "They have no one to turn to. ... In reality, we voted for you guys to do what is morally right."

"My question is, how long does it take to make a move?" asked Nelson, who wore a black short-sleeve sweatshirt, a cap promoting the "Abbott Fightin' Tigers" from his Texas hometown and his hair in a ponytail reaching halfway down his back. A small earring sparkled in his left ear.

It was the second time Nelson spoke to Agriculture Committee members. In 1985, along with singers Neil Young and John Cougar, he urged a more generous farm bill in an appearance coinciding with the first Farm Aid concert in Champaign. Nelson is planning the third concert for Sept. 19 in Lincoln, Neb. The concerts have raised $8 million to help rural organizations.

Mellencamp said at a news conference he was disappointed by the lack of congressional action — "If these people worked for me, they'd work a short time."

Nelson also expressed dissatisfaction and said he will continue to run Farm Aid concerts until farmers are in better shape.

Theologian banned by Vatican from teaching views anywhere

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UPI) — The Vatican's order stripping a Roman Catholic professor of his authority to teach theology remains "in effect wherever he may be," the Catholic bishop of the Fort Wayne-South Bend diocese said Thursday.

Bishop John D'Arcy said Pope John Paul II's sanctions against the Rev. Charles Curran "have no institutional or geographic limitations."

Curran was removed from the classroom at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., last August after two Vatican doctrinal and education committees and the pope agreed that his unorthodox views on sex and birth control made him unfit as a Catholic theologian.

That decision is being appealed through the university's faculty committee.

Curran is scheduled to teach a class on social ethics at the University of Notre Dame in South Bend from June 29 to July 3, the school said.

D'Arcy, who refused to answer questions about his statement, said the actions of the church are against Curran, not the Catholic University of America.

"It has been understood by many that the suspension of Father Curran at the Catholic University of America and the action by the Holy See constitute a purely geographic action. Such an understanding is not correct," D'Arcy said.

"These actions are 'ad personam.' They are applicable to a person, in this case Father Charles Curran, and remain in effect wherever he may be."

Since Notre Dame is not chartered by the Vatican, it will be up to the school whether Curran is allowed to teach his class, D'Arcy said.

The Rev. Richard McBrien, chairman of the Notre Dame theology department, said the school will honor its commitment to Curran.

"The bishop understands" the school signed a contract with Curran for this class two years ago, McBrien said. "But in fairness, he wants to make his position clear."

"With me it is not just a matter of a contract, I am delighted he is coming," he said. "I wish he was going to be here all summer."

tax was approved.

Pettit and his staff earlier said the General Assembly might haggle over the tax increase up to the June 30 scheduled end of the session, but they believe a compromise increase in revenue will be approved.

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, and Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-Murphysboro, have accused Thompson of attempting to pressure lawmakers into passing a tax hike by saying the increase is necessary to avoid drastic cutbacks, such as closing Menard Correctional Center and cutting the higher education budget.

Government 'unyielding' to Beirut terrorist situation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Thursday it is "deeply concerned" over the kidnapping in Beirut, Lebanon, of American journalist Charles Glass and reiterated the United States "will not yield to terrorist blackmail."

"While much remains unclear, we assume this is another terrorist attempt to manipulate the United States through our concern for our citizens," a department statement said.

The kidnapping, the first of a Westerner since 7,000 Syrian troops were deployed in the capital in February, was first reported by Christian Voice of Free Lebanon.

The State Department later issued a statement that said: "Our embassy in Beirut has learned that Mr. Charles Glass, an American newsman, and Mr. Ali Usayran, the son of the Lebanese defense minister, were kidnapped on the Awazi Road in the southern suburbs of Beirut, north of Beirut International Airport on the afternoon of

"While much remains unclear, we assume this is another terrorist attempt to manipulate the United States through our concern for our citizens."

— The State Department

June 17. We know of no claims of responsibility.

Glass, 36, a former ABC correspondent, became the ninth American and the 24th foreigner being held hostage in Lebanon.

State Department spokeswoman Phyllis Oakley told reporters Glass may be in technical violation of restrictions on the use of a U.S. passport for travel to Lebanon announced by the State Department Feb. 17.

Those restrictions prohibit use of an American passport for travel to Lebanon with some exceptions such as for journalists who must apply for permits. The State Department has no record, however, that Glass has ever applied for such an exemption, Oakley said. He would be in violation of the law if he used his passport for travel to Lebanon, she said.

The State Department said, "While we are deeply concerned for the well-being of Mr. Glass, Mr. Usayran and all the hostages, American and foreign, and extend our sympathy to their families and friends, we repeat that we will not yield to terrorist blackmail."

"We hold the kidnappers responsible for the safety of their victims and call for the immediate and unconditional release of all those held hostage," the statement said.

"This incident points out the extreme hazard of travel to, through or within Lebanon and highlights the fact that no one is immune to the violence there," it said.

Journalist kidnapped in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Gunmen abducted an American journalist, the son of Lebanon's defense minister and their driver in the first kidnapping of a foreigner since Syria sent 7,000 troops to restore order in Moslem west Beirut, officials said Thursday.

Charles Glass, 36, an ABC-TV correspondent on a leave of absence since March to work on a book about the Arab world, became the ninth American and the 24th foreigner to be held in Lebanon.

Glass, well-known for his dramatic and exclusive ABC interviews in 1985 with the crew and hijackers of a TWA jet as it sat on a tarmac in Beirut, is the first foreigner abducted in Beirut since gunmen seized three Americans and one Indian professor from the Beirut University College campus in Moslem west Beirut Jan. 24.

The Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine claimed responsibility for the Jan. 24 kidnappings.

Shiite Moslem Defense Minister Abdel Osseiran and his wife, Sarah, told United Press International that Glass, a family friend, was abducted Wednesday along with their 40-year-old son, Ali, and Ali's bodyguard-driver, Lebanese police Sgt. Ali Sleiman, 26, who was armed only with a pistol and dressed in civilian clothing.

The Osseirians said the trio failed to return to Sidon as scheduled Thursday.

No group claimed immediate responsibility for the latest abductions.

Police Capt. Ali Hajj said the abduction occurred in front of a pastry shop just 500 yards from a Syrian-manned checkpoint. The kidnappers — who appeared to be in their 30s and armed with Austrian-made Steyr sub-machine guns — grabbed, hit and bundled the three men into one car and disappeared into the streets.

Local researchers striving to perpetuate Florida deer

By Deedra Lawhead
Staff Writer

Researchers at SIU-C are working to save Florida's Key deer from extinction.

The Cooperative Wildlife Research Laboratory has recently received a $100,000 grant for a three-year study to develop a management plan to reduce mortality rates of the Key deer from the Richard King Mellon Foundation. Willard Klimstra, laboratory director, said.

The Key deer, which are 30 inches high and weigh 60 to 80 pounds when full grown, are largely suffering from a "people problem," he said.

"The Big Pine Key, which is the best habitat for the deer, also has the greatest amount of land development, traffic and tourism. This leads to the declining population of the species."

In addition to other factors, car-deer accidents along U.S. Highway 1, which spans the Florida Keys, are responsible for 75 to 80 percent of deer deaths every year, he said.

By studying mortality sites, characteristics of roads adjacent to deer habitats, land uses and the daily, seasonal and annual behaviors of the deer, Klimstra hopes to improve conditions on public lands and improve habitat management to improve mortality rates of the deer.

Along with Klimstra, two graduate students will be conducting the study in Florida.

Since 1967, Klimstra and the laboratory have conducted 15 studies on the survival problems of the Key deer and developed a recovery plan for the endangered animals.

The recovery plan includes land acquisition, government ownership of land, so the deer herd can live there without interference from people, Klimstra said.

"We hope to enhance the capabilities of the land to support the deer."

Klimstra, who retired three years ago, has been director of the laboratory since it was established in 1950. He voluntarily works with the Key deer.

"I feel committed to doing what I can to enhance the future of my favorite little animals."

Planet-type objects found orbiting two closest stars

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (UPI) — In what could be a "major breakthrough," a team of Canadian astronomers Thursday reported finding the first "clear evidence" of Jupiter-class objects — presumably planets — orbiting two nearby stars.

One of the stars, Epsilon Eridani, is just 10.8 light years from Earth and is one of the closest stars to the sun, visible in the southern sky in autumn. The other, Gamma Cephei, is 50 light years away and is visible in the northern sky.

Bruce Campbell, an astronomer at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Victoria, British Columbia, presented a paper at an American Astronomical Society meeting detailing how the subtle motions of the stars were used to detect the objects.

Springfield settles voting dispute

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — A settlement in the voting rights suit in Abraham Lincoln's hometown was reached Thursday, effectively ending a 26-month dispute that has divided blacks and whites.

The settlement came after U.S. District Judge Harold Baker refused to approve any more delays in the case brought by blacks who said the city's commission form of government discriminates against them.

"Either settle it or go on with the hearing — fish or cut bait," Baker told attorneys in the case before the city council approved the settlement in a 4-1 vote.

Baker had scheduled three days of hearings that were to begin Wednesday to bring a final resolution to the suit, but he delayed the proceedings when both sides said they were close to a compromise.

Both sides had worked late into the night Wednesday to reach an agreement, but when the first vote was taken by the council early Thursday it was one vote shy of the four it needed for immediate approval. Commissioner Ossie Langfelder switched his vote later, however, when it was apparent Baker's patience had come to an end.

New findings can reverse heart disease

CHICAGO (UPI) — In a dramatic finding with implications for millions of Americans, government researchers announced Thursday a new combination drug and diet therapy that can halt and sometimes reverse the course of heart disease.

The drugs colestipol and niacin, combined with a low fat and cholesterol diet, either slowed or reduced artery-narrowing in men whose heart disease required bypass surgery, the scientists reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"I think that what this shows is the disease can be turned around," said Dr. David Blankenhorn, a University of Southern California researcher who directed the study sponsored by the National Heart Lung and Blood Institute.

Koop urges pre-surgical AIDS testing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Surgeon General C. Everett Koop Thursday urged hospitals to test surgery patients for AIDS virus infection before they go under the knife, but said a positive test result would not give doctors the option of refusing to operate.

Under questioning during a hearing of the House Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families, Koop said, "I think there will be a growing demand for testing of surgical patients."

He did not elaborate at the hearing, but said later through a spokesman that his statement was meant as a suggestion, not a formal policy recommendation.

"Because there have been so many reports of nurses leaving the job and surgeons concerned about operations, the surgeons should know whether the individual has the HIV (AIDS) virus. However, that does not give them the option to not operate," Koop said through Public Health Service spokesman James Brown.

Koop said the safety net for hospital staff is guidelines developed by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control, which recommend such measures as using gloves when treating individuals suspected of infection with AIDS virus.

The guidelines are meant to protect staffers from direct contact with the blood or bodily fluids of AIDS virus carriers or AIDS patients. The AIDS virus is transmitted by semen and blood, and if a patient's virus-contaminated blood comes into contact with a staffer's open cut, laceration or other skin break, infection can result.

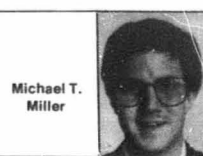

Earlier this year, the CDC considered proposing that all hospital patients — surgical or non-surgical — be tested for AIDS virus exposure. However, the suggestion was shelved at least for the time being because the demand on resources would be so great, and because so many hospital patients are children or the elderly, who are not among those most at risk for AIDS virus infection.

Strippers' arrests spark protest

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — The arrests of three male strippers sparked a demonstration outside police headquarters by about 40 women who had been spectators at a review billed as "Mantasia."

The women paraded outside the Casper Hall of Justice for about an hour Tuesday night before dispersing peacefully, a police spokesman said. The dancers were released from jail Wednesday morning when District Attorney Kevin Meenan refused to prosecute.

Police Cmdr. Mike Colling said the three men were arrested Tuesday night at Broncos Bar.

'87 Sunset series to feature sounds from polka to techno-pop

By Winnie Stones
Staff Writer

Now in its ninth year, the 1987 Sunset Concert Series will crank-up its amps on Thursday on the steps of Shryock Auditorium.

The free concerts are scheduled for each Thursday night from June 25 to August 6 at 7 p.m. The concerts alternate between two outdoor sites, the steps of Shryock Auditorium and Carbondale's Lenus Turley Park, which is located just east of Murdale Mall on Route 13. In the event of inclement weather, the concerts will be moved to the Student Center Ballrooms.

There are a variety of bands appearing this year, from a polka band with a tuba and Biederhausen to high-tech progressive pop, which should please all musical tastes.

The Sunset Concert Series is sponsored by the Carbondale Park District, the Student Programming Council, and the Student Center. Concertgoers can bring lawn chairs and blankets to sit on while they attend the concerts.

Bands appearing this year are:

The Last Gentlemen, June 25, Shryock. Critically acclaimed by Rockpool magazine, this progressive-pop band has opened such big names as Culture Club, OMD, the Psychedelic Furs, and Starship.

The Waterloo German Band, July 2, Turley Park. A traditional polka band from Waterloo, they say they are "unique in that we are highly organized and get a big band sound from only five musicians."

West Side Heat, July 9, Shryock. From Chicago, this quartet has been playing together since 1982 and concentrates on heavy rhythm and blues material. They have opened for the Fabulous Thunderbirds and John Mayhall.

Mandala, July 16, Turley Park. This duo of Martin Swinger and Mitch Barrett is classified as progressive folk. Mandala, from southeastern Kentucky, "makes old instruments sing new songs."

Wildwood Pickers, July 23, Shryock. This all-female family bluegrass band was the first all-female bluegrass act to appear on the Grand Ole Opry.

The Big Mandrakes, July 30, Turley. Another act out of Chicago, this one concentrates on sixties rock.

"I want to be a pilot for a real big prominent air thing like United Way," said Nicole Piersol, 12. "I want to learn how to fly a jet one of these days."

Someday Piersol might get the chance to do just that—fly a plane, thanks to an Aerospace Education Workshop for Children offered at the SIU flight school. She is among 21 elementary students selected to participate in the state funded program which will educate the youngsters about rocketry, avionics and weather.

Rachel Vansambeck, 11, of Carbondale said the class offered her "something you don't usually get to do, and it makes my brother jealous."

Carbondale resident Cathy Hamilton, 12, explained: "I wanted to find out about space, and if there are other people on other planets."

The class, which began Monday, will continue until June 26. Participants are very enthusiastic about the program. David Iga, 13, of 306 Gray Drive said, "I got to go inside planes. It's been fun making stuff and learning about planes."

Zach Steed, 12, of 1719 W. Sycamore also wants to fly a plane. "I want to get my pilot license and fly a plane for the Navy," he said.

His inspiration came from instructor Mona Marceci, a teacher at Winkler Elementary. Marceci was one of 10 Illinois candidates for the Teacher in Space Program.

Making weather instruments and tissue paper hot-air balloons are two of the activities the youngsters like best. "We let off balloons to learn about how heat makes things go up," said Piersol.

Marceci hopes the program will encourage other teachers to use similar methods of education in their classrooms.

"Hot-air balloons are a very effective way of teaching avionic principles to children. It is a fun and educationally sound way they can truly learn from," she said.

What does the flight school have to benefit from the workshop? "Nothing," said Gary Eiff, assistant professor in the Avionic Technical Program.

"The only benefit we will have, if any, will be the availability to increase awareness of the school," said Eiff. "We did a study and found out that most residents of Murphysboro and Herrin don't know about the flight school or what we have to offer."

While the aspiring pilots are young, they don't let that fact hinder their desire to fly or their anticipation of the future. "I want to fly a space shuttle," said Monica Jones of Carbondale, "or at least come real close to it."

Speech communication chair named 1987 WSIU-WUSI booster

Marvin D. Kleinau, chairperson of the speech communication department, has been named the 1987 Booster of the Year by the Friends of WSIU-WUSI Board of Directors.

The organization is a support group for the University's public radio station, WSIU, and SIU-C's public television stations, WSIU-TV (Channel 8) in Carbondale and WUSI-TV (Channel 16) in Olney.

Each year the group honors an individual or corporation for outstanding contributions to public broadcasting in Southern Illinois. Main selection criteria are service, financial support and pioneering programming efforts.

In 1986 Kleinau, who has served as host for radio and television programs, moderated an across-the-world telephone exchange between students at SIU-C and Moscow State University carried by WSIU radio and distributed to public radio stations nationwide.

He's the host for "Inquiry," a public affairs program on Channel-8, as well as for the "Scholastic Hi-Q" competition on Channels 8 and 16. Kleinau also has served as an evening host for the television stations' annual fund-raising campaigns.

"Marvin is always willing to help, always around when you need him," said Robert W. Henderson, operations manager for the Broadcasting Service. "He's a delight to work with."

Kleinau came to SIU-C in 1961 as a graduate student and joined the University faculty in 1963.

Jewish Congress cancels fall conference with pope

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Jewish Congress said Thursday it will not participate in a September meeting of Jewish leaders and Pope John Paul II because of the pope's decision to meet with Austrian president Kurt Waldheim.

"We have reluctantly decided that the American Jewish Congress' representatives will not participate in the meeting with Pope John Paul that was scheduled for Sept. 11 in Miami and we will remove our institutional sponsorship of the event," said Henry Siegman, executive director of the major Jewish civil rights group.

The decision came one day after the Vatican announced that John Paul would meet with Waldheim, accused by Jewish groups of complicity in Nazi war crimes, on June 25 in a formal state visit at the Vatican.

The American Jewish Congress is one of four major groups that have been involved in sponsoring and organizing the Sept. 11 meeting between John Paul and leaders of the American Jewish community. The other groups include the Synagogue Council of America, representing the congregational and rabbinic arms of religious Judaism and the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

The meeting is scheduled to take place on the second day of John Paul's 10-day pastoral trip to the United States.

The Vatican's brief announcement Wednesday that John Paul would meet with the 67-year old Waldheim was greeted with outrage in the American Jewish community.

Seigman, in announcing the AJC withdrawal, called the decision "astounding."

"At the very least it suggests an indifference to the serious charges that have been made against this man," he said.

Simulation planned for coal analysis

Two faculty members and the acting assistant director of the Coal Research Center will head a project to analyze acid rain issues using computer simulation.

David G. Arey and mathematics professors James A. Crenshaw and George Parker will supervise a study of the U.S. coal market in the analysis. The project is funded by a $36,038 grant from the Illinois Department of Natural Resources.

Economics graduate student Janet Koscianski will conduct the analysis using a model that can analyze various sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxide reduction strategies.

The project will look at, among other components of the study, changes that have occurred in the Illinois coal market, and the possible impacts of acid rain legislation on the state's coal suppliers and its economy.

Marines say guard will be prosecuted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Marine caught in the sex-for-secrets scandal at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow will be court-martialed on charges of having an affair with at least one Soviet woman and lying about it under oath, the corps said Thursday.

Unlike two other former Marine guards at the embassy, Staff Sgt. Robert Stufflebeam, 25, of Bloomington, was not accused of espionage or passing secrets to the Soviets.

If convicted of all charges, Stufflebeam faces a maximum penalty of 14½ years in prison, a dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and reduction in rank to the lowest enlisted pay grade.

Hitters reap huge benefits from lack of inside pitching

By Mike Tully
National Baseball Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hitters are working without fear nowadays.

You can tell it the way they dig in, and the way they swing, even with two strikes. They're not worried about the tie-breaker or the dustier.

Maybe, in the interest of safety, that's the way it should be. Then again, in the interest of keeping pitchers alive, maybe not. Either way, comfort at the plate sure represents a change in the game.

Not long ago, hitters had to worry in the batter's box. That's what the curveball supposedly is all about. For the briefest of instants, it looks like a fastball streaking toward the head. Then it's breaking over the plate, where the .300 hitters are whacking it and the .200 club is watching from a distance.

Someone, perhaps it was Ted Williams, once described the challenge of hitting: The batter has two-fifths of a second to decide whether to swing at a ball, or to let it go by, or to duck to avoid getting killed.

One day, Dizzy Dean watched with growing anger as a batter dug in at the plate. "Keep digging," Dean finally yelled from the mound. "Because that's where they're going to bury you."

Now, wearing better equipment than ever, the hitters can not only dig in but take full cuts at a lively ball. Milwaukee left-hander Ted Higuera stopped a comebacker inches from his windpipe Sunday against the Yankees. Nevertheless, rules and circumstances keep favoring the hitter. First, baseball has removed the old checks and balance system for keeping order, and enacted rules about throwing at hitters. Second, pitchers simply refuse to work the inside part of the plate.

Not long before his death last summer, former National League umpire Tom Gorman pined for the old days when the threat of retaliation helped keep the game under control. The rule was, "You hit one of my guys, I hit one of yours."

Don Drysdale used his own variation, which he explained at his Hall of Fame induction: "With the Dodgers we had a very simple rule. For every one of our guys who goes down, two of yours are going down."

For many a summer, the checks and balances worked. Now we have the free-shot rule. The first ball thrown near a hitter brings a warning to both benches. It amounts to a free shot for the initiator, and leaves no chance for retaliation. That's why so many games look more like hockey matches, with brawling near the mound.

Considering the threat of ejection, maybe it's not surprising so few pitchers throw inside. It drives managers and pitching coaches crazy. Some pitchers are scared of killing someone. Others understand the facts: if you miss inside, two bad things can happen. You can either hit the batter or leave the ball over the plate where it can be hit.

Hall of Famer Bob Gibson never hesitated to do it, though. Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt said Gibson was the toughest pitcher he ever faced.

"I only faced him my rookie year and that was enough," Schmidt said. "The first time I faced him, I hit a homer around the foul pole at 'Vets' Stadium. The next time I faced him in St. Louis I got a single right through his legs. Then the next time up, he hit me smack on my arm."

Times have changed. Yankee broadcaster Bill White, who played with and against Gibson, smirks at today's pitching patterns. Some players now complain if the ball comes within three congressional districts. They want to live to spend all that money they're making.

That's fine for them, but let's not call it hardball, either.

Crenshaw leads U.S. Open

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ben Crenshaw shot a 3-under 67 Thursday to lead Seve Ballesteros by one stroke in the first round of the U.S. Open, but a crowd of veterans lined up to make a run at the lead.

Jack Nicklaus, Tommy Nakajima, Mark O'Meara, Raymond Floyd and Dale Douglass (the oldest man in the tournament at 51) were all in position to challenge Crenshaw late in the round.

"This course is relentless," said Crenshaw, whose 1984 Masters triumph is his only major championship victory. "You just have to hold on for dear life and play. You can't go to sleep for one second."

Cool, overcast weather greeted the early starters Thursday and the same conditions prevailed throughout the day. The early portion of the day was calm, but the late starters had to contend with occasionally gusty winds.

Crenshaw holed a 3-foot downhill putt on the slick 18th green of the Olympic Club course to finish off a round in which he holed putts of 60 and 35 feet.

"You can't prepare yourself to have the patience you need on the golf course," Crenshaw said. "Every hole is a test."

With more than a third of the players still on the golf course, Ballesteros was alone in second with his 68 while Denis Watson, an Open runner-up in 1985, shot a 69.

Sandy Lyle and Bob Tway were among those at 70 and the large group at 71 included Mac O'Grady, David Graham, Masters champion Larry Mize and Johnny Miller, who came to the 17th hole at 2-under and finished double bogey-bogey. Lee Trevino had a 73, Andy Bean shot 74 and Fuzzy Zoeller struggled to a 78.

"It's a tough, challenging golf course," Zoeller said. "That's all I've got to say."

Douglass, who earned a spot in the tournament by winning last year's U.S. Seniors Open, was at 2-under with two holes to play while Nakajima was 2-under with three to go. O'Meara was 2-under through seven holes.

Floyd, who won his first Open title last year at Shinnecock Hills, was 1-under through 11. Nicklaus was even through 13, Greg Norman was even through 11 and Bernhard Langer even through 10.

Crenshaw made a 4-foot birdie putt at the par-2 third and then holed a 6-footer for birdie at the next hole.

He went 3-under when he made his 60-footer at the 11th hole and made a 35-footer for birdie at the 13th. But at the par-4 14th he hit a greenside bunker, barely got out of it and wound up making a double bogey.

"It's obvious we have a stern test this week," Crenshaw said. "My gosh, it's difficult. I set a target for a 70 today and I feel like I got a bonus. We had very light winds and I felt like I needed to take advantage of it."

Bid to light up Wrigley Field may be reality this season

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — A bill that would allow the Cubs to install lights in Wrigley Field for postseason night games was passed Wednesday by the Illinois House.

The fate of the bill, which the House approved by a 106-0 vote, now rests with the Senate and Governor James R. Thompson, who must take action before the General Assembly recesses June 30.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. John Cullerton, D-Chicago, would allow the Chicago Cubs, if they win their division, to avoid playing postseason games in St. Louis or during the day at Wrigley Field at a significant loss of television revenue.

"It was stated yesterday by Commissioner Peter Ueberroth that if they were not to play the games at night, baseball could lose up to $15 million per game," Cullerton said. "They could easily, if this bill passes, put temporary lights up in order to play those games."

The bill amends a state environmental law governing noise pollution to permit night baseball only for postseason, playoff and World Series games. The city of Chicago passed a law in 1983 which made night games a violation of zoning regulations.

Residents of the Wrigleyville neighborhood have successfully opposed night baseball at the stadium, taking their case all the way to the state Supreme Court, which upheld the laws banning night games at the 37,501-seat stadium.

But Rep. Ellis Levin, D-Chicago, said area residents are willing to accept night games for the playoffs.

"The community believed in 1985 and the community believes now that if this is going to be the year that we're going to have a playoff and a World Series, it ought to be in Wrigley Field," Levin said. "It does do some damage to the community, but the community is willing to live with that so that loyal Cub fans can have postseason play at Wrigley Field."

Cullerton predicted the Cubs organization probably will delay its push for a limited schedule of regular season night games in order to promote night playoff games.

"I think that this year the Cubs will realize that they should take what they can get in this area," Cullerton said. "They want to have regular season games at night. We're opposed to that."

"My suggestion is that we need to do this now and we will discuss the issue of regular season night games possibly in the future."

Cullerton said if the Legislature and Gov. James R. Thompson do not approve the bill before lawmakers adjourn this session, there will not be enough time to enact similar legislation before this year's playoffs.

This is one way we cut our new Steak Fajitas.

We start with juicy steak cut into strips. Then we smother them with grilled onions. Real cheddar cheese. Crisp lettuce. Cover them with a zesty pico sauce. And wrap them in a soft, flour tortilla. They're so good, there was only one thing we could do to make them better.

This is another.

Tough slate ahead for Scott's cagers

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

A third-straight NCAA berth is the goal for the 1987-88 SIU-C women's basketball team, who will play all 13 home games at the Arena.

Led by three starters from last season's 28-3 Gateway Conference champions, coach Cindy Scott's squad will shoot for a sixth-straight 20-win season and square off against five non-conference opponents who qualified for NCAA tourney play last season.

The Salukis open their season against tough competition on Nov. 25-29 in the third annual Amana-Hawkeye Classic, in Iowa City, Iowa.

Southeastern Conference power Georgia, SIU-C's first opponent in the tourney, went 27-5 last season and finished ranked No. 9 in the USA Today poll. Host Iowa, co-champs of the Big Ten, finished with a 26-5 record and a No. 7 national ranking last season. The Hawkeyes take on Missouri, 20-8 a year ago, in the other first-round game.

Iowa, Georgia and SIU-C were all in the same NCAA regional last March, where the Hawkeyes stunned Georgia, 62-60, and eventually lost to Louisiana State, the same team that eliminated SIU-C.

After the Amana-Hawkeye Classic, the Salukis kick off their home schedule against Memphis State (20-9) in a Dec. 5 match, a team SIU-C has beaten only once since 1974. Contests against two tough Big Ten teams follow: at Illinois Dec. 9 and home against Indiana Dec. 12.

Tennessee Tech, 24-7, the team responsible for snapping SIU-C's 18-game winning streak last season, comes to the Arena for a Dec. 14 showdown, with a Dec. 19 home game against Western Kentucky following.

Tech went on to win the Ohio Valley title after knocking off SIU-C last season, while WK made its second NCAA appearance in the last three years. SIU-C knocked off WK 64-63 last season in Bowling Green, Ky.

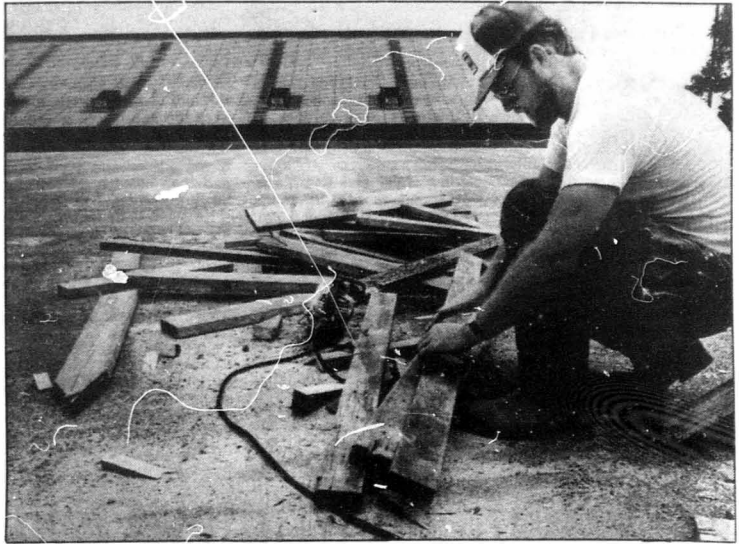

The Salukis travel to face Purdue on Dec. 21 before kicking off the Gateway season at Eastern Illinois on Dec. 30.

Scott expects the Salukis to be ranked in the preseason polls and a strong showing against a tough non-conference slate in December will be vitally important for SIU-C's national ranking hopes.

"December could make or break us," Scott said. "It's important to do well early—some good wins would give us tremendous momentum for conference play."

The Salukis have won 26 of their last 27 home games and will take a 15-game home winning streak into the 1987-88 season. Scott feels the move to the Arena will be a step up for the program and she says her team must adjust to the change from cozy Davies Gymnasium.

"If we're going to have the kind of season we want to have, we must win at home," Scott said.

Stadium work ahead of schedule

Work on the $835,000 revamp of McAndrew Stadium, aided by favorable weather, continues ahead of schedule.

Current work centers on finishing the drainage systems and grading the field, and July 1 is the target date for installation of the new turf, which is expected to take three or four weeks.

After the turf project is completed, the track will be paved.

Barring setbacks, the stadium is expected to be finished by Aug. 15.

"We are very pleased with the way work is progressing," Assistant Athletics Director

Gary Carney said Wednesday. "And guaranteed, it will be beautiful when it's done."

Carney also said the project shows the commitment on the part of the university towards its athletic program and should give a boost to the football and track programs.

The Prairie State Games are a model for other states looking to start their own games, according to Assistant Athletics Director Gary Carney, newly appointed Southern Regional Director for this year's games.

"Illinois and New York probably have the premier state games in the country," Carney said.

"The Prairie State Games are somewhat like a statewide olympics," Carney said of the amateur sports festival. "There are 17 sports split into two divisions, scholastic and open. The scholastic division is for those persons who were in 12th grade or younger as of March 1, 1987. The open division is for anybody else."

The Prairie State Games were initiated by Gov. Jim Thompson four years ago as part of the Governor's Council on Health and Physical Fitness.

The Southern region encompasses 37 counties, "pretty much from I-64 south," Carney said. He compiled a staff of 88 coaches and volunteers to train those who made the teams.

Athletes from all 37 counties will represent the area at the championships held July 15-18 at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana.

Carney plans to arrive at Champaign-Urbana early to help make sure the competitors enjoy the atmosphere and can perform to their utmost abilities.

"I'll be there four or five days before everyone else comes. There'll be about 3,000 athletes in the finals, and it takes a tremendous effort to coordinate housing, meals and getting everyone uniforms," Carney said.

Carney isn't the only SIU-C employee involved with the festival.

Saluki men's basketball coach Rich Herrin is coaching the open division of men's hoops, aided by his assistant coach Ron Smith.

Track and field coach Don DeNoon is head coach of the whole Southern region, while his assistant coach, Thom Felton, will be lending his expertise to the track and field participants.

The open division in men's and women's tennis is headed up by Judy Auld, women's tennis coach. Sonya Locke, assistant volleyball coach here, oversees the open volleyball division for the Southern division women's team, while Dave Snyder of the anthropology department coaches the open division of men's netters. Terry Davin of the zoology department will preside over the men's scholastic division in volleyball.

Assistant swim coach Jimmy Tierney will work both the men's and women's open and scholastic squads into shape for the finals, while graduate assistant Mary Alice Jenkins takes the helm of the women's open division in basketball.

A 20-mile torch run is scheduled to highlight the afternoon of July Fourth in Carbondale in conjunction with the games. The run, sponsored by Burger King, begins and ends at the Carbondale restaurant.

"What we're hoping for is to do the last mile or two down at Bleyer field to give a lot of kids and community residents an opportunity to participate in the run at that time," Carney said.

Carney is still looking for groups or organizations to carry the 5-pound torch for a mile of the Carbondale journey. Carney said he expected teams of four to run a quarter-mile each with the flame.

Those interested in taking part in the event can contact Carney at 536-5566.

Indoor swim programs featured at Rec Center

By Greg Huber
Staff Writer

For those out there who like to swim, but don't care to compete with nibbling bluegills and other outdoor surprises, the Student Recreation Center probably has the answer.

A wide range of swimming programs are offered at both the SRC Natatorium and Pulliam Pool and are geared towards various individual needs.

The Early Bird swim is offered Monday through Friday at Pulliam Pool from 6:30 to 7:45 a.m. for early risers.

An alternative for nightowls is the Twilight swim, held at the SRC Natatorium Saturdays from 7-8 p.m.

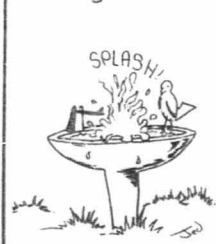

Both programs are scheduled to run until Aug. 7.

A noon-hour swim from 12-1 weekdays is featured at Pulliam Pool and provides a break for those hotter days.

Disabled students also are welcome. Mondays and Wednesdays from 6-8 p.m. the SRC provides supervisors, lifeguards, ramps and lifts to enable handicapped students a chance to enjoy the pool.

children of students and staff, as well as the community at large. The programs are divided into two age groups and consist of infant to 4-year-old and 4- to 16-year-old brackets.

For YSP, there is a $20 fee for those involved with the university and a $25 fee for people without university affiliations.

Two different sessions are available. The first will run from June 22 to July 6 and the second from July 13 to July 24.

The YSP activities will be conducted at Pulliam Pool.

For information on these or other programs, contact the SRC.
