Scores 1,397

AFROTC Rifle Team Wins Midwest Meet

SIU's Air Force ROTC rifle team scored 1,397 out of a possible 1,500 points to win first place in an ROTC invitational match at the University of Illinois.

The team competed against riflemen from 31 Big 10 and other Midwestern colleges and universities in the match last Friday and Saturday.

Loyola of Chicago placed second with 1,392 in the overall scores.

Three Southern riflemen placed in the top 10 individual scorers. Stewart McNames was third, Phil Richards placed fifth and Ron Utz took sixth.

Richards went from Urbana to Alton on Sunday and won the 1962 National Rifle Association's sectional championship at the Piasa Rifle and Pistol Club.

He scored 782 out of a possible 800 points in competition with 51 other marksmen from the Midwest.

His score in Sunday's match will count in his favor when national standings are figured. He recently was nominated to the All-American Rifle Squad.

The Air Force ROTC drill team also competed in the match at the University of Illinois but did not place in the top ranks.

However, Edward F. Jasinski, one of the drill team members, took seventh place in individual honors.

Kerner To Attend Movie Premier Of 'Mr. Speaker'

Governor Otto Kerner and Secretary of State Charles Carpentier have accepted invitations to attend the premiere of the motion picture, "Mr. Speaker of Illinois," to be shown for the first time at 8 p.m. March 30, in Shryock Auditorium.

U.S. Senators Everett M. Dirksen and Paul H. Douglas are also being sent letters of invitation from Rep. Clyde L. Choate.

Produced by a Chicago company, the movie explains the functions of the Speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives and supplements other educational materials on Illinois state government.

Tickets priced at $10 each may be obtained by writing The Herrin Spokesman, Herrin, or The Daily Register, Harrisburg. Proceeds from ticket sales will be used for payment of the cost of the color film, with any excess being used to provide additional copies of the film for circulation by libraries of the state universities.

Gallatin-Hawks In Contract Talks

Basketball Coach Harry Gallatin had an appointment in St. Louis today to discuss the possibility of taking over as head coach of the St. Louis Hawks.

Gallatin has refused to say whether he will accept the post if offered.

However, SIU Athletic Director Donald N. Boydston, said he has been giving some thought "as to what measures we would take in case Gallatin should take another job."

"Harry has done more than an adequate job for us," Boydston said, "and naturally we wish him well if he does receive an opportunity to move up."

"Certainly we will make every effort to locate an equally competent coaching replacement and we feel we have everything necessary to attract top candidates."

Gallatin has been at SIU for four years.

Fashion Show Will Review Styles Of Last 100 Years

A panoramic view of the last 100 years in the life of Southern Illinois women will be presented at the ninth annual Women's Day program, sponsored by the SIU Women's Club, in the University Center tomorrow.

Highlight of the program will be a luncheon at which Mrs. Delyte W. Morris, wife of SIU's president, will be honored as Leader of the Year for her service to the area and university.

A special musical program in honor of Mrs. Morris will be presented at the luncheon by Marjorie Lawrence, former Metropolitan Opera star and director of the SIU Opera Workshop.

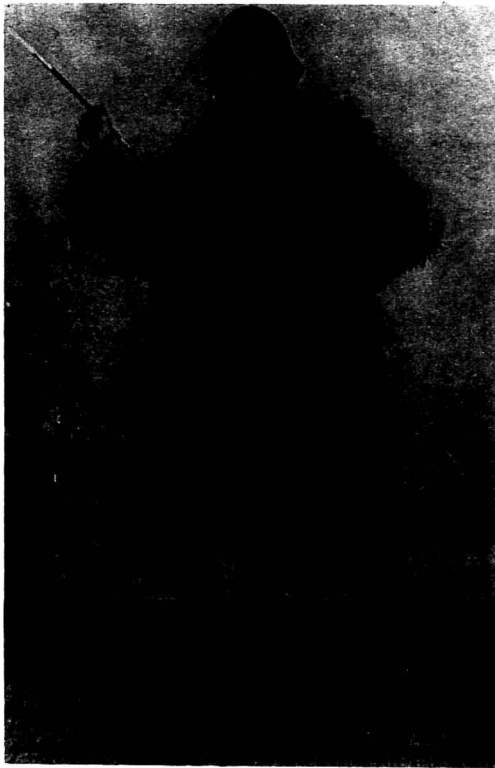

Following Miss Lawrence's program, a style show featuring 100 years of fashion will be given. More than 50 costumes will be modeled by faculty wives including ballgowns, flapper dresses, wedding gowns and many other ensembles, many of them from the SIU Museum.

The riding habit of Mrs. Daniel Baldwin Parkinson, wife of the fourth president of SIU, will be included in the show, as well as a 1920 era dress of Mrs. Fred H. Wykes, first woman on the SIU Board of Trustees.

The club will also model handsewn and embroidered lingerie from 1900, gym suits from 1920 and 1930 and dresses worn by the ladies of the Col. Daniel Harmon Brush family, one of Carbondale's founders, according to a Women's Club spokesman.

Other events on the day-long program will be coffee hours, tours and exhibits. The exhibits, located in the University Center, Library, Allyn Hall and the Home Economics building, include antique sewing machines, quilts, beaded bags and numerous other feminine items from the past 100 years.

Wives of legislators who will be guests at the program include: Mrs. Gordon Kerr, Brookport; Mrs. John Gilbert, Carbondale; Mrs. William L. Grindele, Herrin; Mrs. Bert Baker, Benton; Mrs. Gale Williams, Murphysboro; Mrs. Wayne Fitzgerald, Sesser. Mrs. Harold W. Fischer of Granite City and Mrs. Martin Van Brown of Carbondale will represent the wives of SIU Board of Trustees members. Mrs. F. M. Hewitt of Carbondale, widow of a former Board member and Mrs. Walter Collins of West Frankfort, former member of the University Board, also will attend. Two past recipients of the Illinois Mother of the Year award attending the event will be Mrs. Elbert Fulkerson of Carbondale and Mrs. Alvin W. Smith of Oakdale.

THE LAST of the Roaring Twenties is revived in this flapperish bit of fashion modeled by Mrs. Lila Andrews. It is one of the dozens of fashions from yesteryear to be displayed at the Women's Day style show.

Airplane Sticker A Sticky Question

What kind of sticker has the University for the registration of airplanes?

A letter recently was received by the Office of Student Affairs requesting approval for an airplane. The Student Affairs Office replied: We have anticipated requests for motor bikes, motor scooters, motor wheelchairs and motorcycles, but this is the first for an airplane.

Consequently the plane is kept in a hanger at Southern Illinois airport registered but --without a blue, red, green, yellow or white tag.

Southern's first registered flyer is Walter Waschick, a 20-year old sophomore from Rossville. At present, Waschick holds a student license but plans to complete the requirements for a private pilot's license before summer.

Incidentally, the Student Affairs office said Waschick doesn't have a car registered and presumably has to thumb a ride out to the airport.

Committee To Study Off-Campus Lighting, Sidewalk Problems

The Off-Campus Presidents' Council has formed a three-member committee to take up the problems of street lighting and sidewalks where they affect off-campus students. Members are Joy Whitson, Joe Bushue, and Carry Crouse.

The committee requests that any students knowing of areas which need improvement contact the Presidents' Council. Information may be left in the Housing Office.

Loan Program Helps One Out Of Ten Students

The National Defense Student Loan program is a major factor in the college attendance of one out of 10 students at Southern this year.

Coordinator of student financial assistance Arthur A. Swanson says more than 1,000 students have borrowed a quarter of a million dollars from the fund this year to further their education.

The loan and interest of any borrower who serves as a full-time teacher in a public elementary or secondary school, will be cancelled at the rate of 10 per cent for each academic year of teaching service, up to a maximum of 50 per cent of the total loan.

Applications for assistance for the spring and summer are still being accepted and as of March 1, Swanson began accepting applications for the 1962-63 academic year.

All full-time students, under-graduate and graduate, who are in good standing with the University and enrolled in a degree program are qualified for a loan. "Graduating high school seniors may apply during their last semester if they have been admitted to Southern. All candidates must be citizens of the United States or United States nationals" he said.

The defense act states that a borrower may receive a maximum of $1,000 per fiscal year and no more than $5,000 during his total educational program. Top amount usually loaned at Southern during an academic year is $600. This amount is related to estimated expenses, the opportunity for part-time employment and scholarships and award aid, says Swanson.

Repayment of the principal of the loan, plus three per cent interest per annum, will be accomplished at the rate of 10 per cent per year, beginning one year after completion of the educational program. The repayment schedule may be deferred up to three years if the borrower goes to military service.

President Morris Solves Packing Problem

He's Letting Mrs. Morris Do It For Their Far-Eastern Trip

Packing for a trip of any length presents numerous problems for the prospective travelers. However, SIU President Delyte W. Morris has solved his problem by having his wife, Dorothy, pack for the trip and also handle the itinerary.

The Morrises will be going to the Far East on March 19 for two and one-half months. For that length of time packing should be quite a problem. But Mrs. Morris says, "we will travel light with only sweaters and suits."

The clothes problem is somewhat lessened since the Morrises will be in the Far East during the warm period of the year. In fact, they will enjoy the nice warm sunshine of the Far East while here at SIU it is hard telling what type weather we will have.

President Morris also has turned over the itinerary planning to his wife. She has lined up stops to numerous countries including Viet Nam where President Morris will inspect two SIU teacher-training projects in the Southeast Asian country. The projects are sponsored by the U.S. State Department.

Recently granted a sabbatical leave, Morris is anxiously awaiting his first trip to the Far East, a trip which combines business with pleasure. His wife, Dorothy, and son, Michael, will accompany him on the trip.

In addition to stopping in Viet Nam, Morris is taking some additional time to visit university colleagues around the world. He will visit members of the SIU faculty, who are now teaching in the Far East and will also spend some time with professors who have taught at Southern in the past.

The Morrises will leave Carbondale, March 19 on the first leg of their trip. Michael, the Morrises youngest son, will have completed his bachelor's degree requirements by that time and the trip will serve as his 21st birthday present from his parents.

bondale to attend the wedding of his daughter, who was an SIU student.

Southern has an elementary education team, headed by Willis Malone, director of admissions, and a vocational technical education team, headed by Keith Humble, director of the SIU Vocational Technical Institute.

After stops in Japan and China, the Morrises move on to Viet Nam where President Morris will oversee SIU's two teacher-training teams and report back to the U.S. State Department on the progress of the teams.

In Viet Nam, Morris probably will have to travel by air because of the trouble-ridden Asiatic country. In recent weeks, Viet Nam has been in turmoil with Communists groups clashing with anti-Communists groups.

In Saigon, Viet Nam, Morris will spend approximately two weeks overseeing Southern's study groups and then move on to Cambodia and Angkor. Angkor is an old city of ruins that has been hacked out of the jungle.

Other stops the Morrises plan to make are, Thailand, Burma, Iran and Iraq, Lebanon, India and Greece.

Mrs. Morris anxiously awaits the trip to Japan and India so she can forget about her packing problems. In her own words, "we travel light going but coming back travel will be heavy." She expects to pick little souvenirs on the trip that she didn't have when she left Carbondale.

The Morrises will spend some time in Greece, drive along the French Riviera, to Nice and then to Cannes, France where they board the ship, S.S. Independence and head back to the U.S. and Carbondale. They plan to be back in time for the June 13 commencement exercises.

PRESIDENT Delyte W. Morris, his wife, Dorothy, and their son, Michael, leave March 19 on a two-month trip to the Far East. However, they will completely circumnavigate the globe by airplane and ship before returning to Carbondale in time for graduation June 13.

Mike Morris

Japan is the first stop for the Morrises, who will spend two weeks there, where they will visit Nebushige Ukai, president of International Christian University, Tokyo and Susumi Nagai, a microbiology professor at Osaka. Both have been on the SIU faculty.

In early April President Morris and family will be in Taipei, where they will meet Chi Hung Liu and Milton Shieh, both former SIU visiting professors, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Clayton, of Carbondale. Clayton, a professor in the SIU journalism department, is a visiting professor at Chengchi University this year.

The Morrises will also pay the commander-in-chief of the Chinese Nationalist Air Force, Gen. Chia Shang Chen, a visit. Chen was in Car-

A Librarian's Lament— Old Jokes, Lost Cards, and Books Tucked In The Belt

(Editor's note: Student workers behind the circulation desk see their world a little differently than the people who complain in front of the desk. Here, for example, is one worker's description of two hours' work.)

"What? You say you want a receipt? But sir, I told you last week we don't give receipts for...Sir, do you realize that if we gave a receipt for every book returned we'd be here the whole night.... Aw, come on, please stop kicking the desk. I can't give you a receipt."

....Will you look at that doll....Workin' here isn't so bad after all....

"May I help you?"
"Looks like you're having a little trouble finding your card, aren't you? Well, good, there it is. Here, I'll help you shove everything back into your purse. Quite a load wasn't it? Heh, heh.

....Well, at least that hour went fast....Now to check the people leaving with books.... It's a great way to make friends....

....I'll just sit here and try to get some reading done....

"Sure, that's it. You put your name where it says 'name' and then you put your address where it says 'address.' Fine. What? Ah, yes. That's the author of the book and you put it there. Call number goes there. Yes, now you're catching on. Don't forget to circle 'senior.'"

Oh, how original....He just said that he has the whole library in his pocket....I'll bet that's the millionth time I've heard that one....Oh well, his girl laughed at it. That's what counts, I guess....

"Hey buddy, where's the fire? Would you please get in line with the rest of the people, sir. Sure, I know you're in a hurry."

....Why does everybody wait until five minutes before class before they leave....Sometimes I think they're organized....They come rushing at you and all you can think about is the Ox Bow incident....

"Hey fella, would you please refrain from swearing at me so loud? Besides, books are friends, and all that. Thanks."

"Sure, I know you're honest. It's just that you forgot to check out that book tucked in your belt."

....Here comes old professor Smyth trying to steal those chemistry abstracts again....I almost hate to stop him, he tries so hard....Just five more minutes and it will be all over for the day....

"Oh professor Smyth, I think you forgot something--again."

....Let's see, two hours times 85 cents an hour equals nearly $1.70. This is my lucky day, that's all it cost me for a taxi and breakfast at the University Center.... Haven't broken even in a long time....Gotta start getting up earlier.

....The schedule says I'm supposed to be at the check-out desk one hour and to check the people leaving with books for the....Lookout, here comes trouble. This guy gives me the same workout every week....

"Can I help you? Oh, you're just returning books."

Foreign Students To Visit American Homes

Many of SIU's foreign students will get the opportunity to see what American hospitality is really like during spring vacation.

The St. Louis Council of Churchwomen and the International Hospitality Center in Chicago recently told the SIU foreign student office that they each wish to accommodate 20 SIU foreign students as guests of various families in their areas. The St. Louis program is from March 17 to 20. The Chicago invitation is for three or four days and the particular period may be decided upon by the student.

Fill Out Questionnaires
Mary Wakeland, assistant foreign student adviser, said that the students will fill out questionnaires that will show their interests. This information will help the two organizations decide in which home the students will visit.

The hosts will plan various activities and tours for their guests in accordance with their interests.

On the first weekend of spring term, Mrs. Wakeland said, the Womens Club of Her-rin is inviting foreign students of SIU as their guests for either Saturday, Sunday or both days.

This extension of hospitality is not new at Southern. Last year 40 of SIU's foreign students were invited to Springfield as guests of the Rotary Club and stayed with the member's families during spring vacation.

Local Good Will
The most recent extension of good will was by two local churches. The first Baptist church entertained 20 foreign students at a Buffet dinner Feb. 11. On the same weekend an interacial day was held at the New Zion church where SIU's foreign students were invited to a reception.

Mrs. Wakeland said that all foreign students interested in staying in either St. Louis or Chicago as guests of the program, must sign up at the Foreign student office where they may fill out the questionnaires. The families involved in the program will then send personal invitations to the foreign students.

Scholarship Runs in Rausch Family

Robert Rausch Is SIU's First Winner Of Woodrow Wilson Fellowship

Scholarship seems to run in Robert Rausch's family. Rausch, his wife, Carole, his mother, Cleo, and his sister, Kathryn, are all students here. But they are proudest right now of the 24-year-old Bob.

The senior history major from Chicago became SIU's first recipient of a Woodrow Wilson graduate fellowship last week. Bob, who particularly likes German history, was among the 1,000 students granted the fellowships for next year.

He plans to use the $2,000 grant either at Yale or the University of Michigan where he would specialize in modern European history.

"I don't know about Yale though," he said, explaining the deadline for applying was this week.

He is married to the former Carole Durham of Chicago, who is a part-time student in English here. Carole also works in the personnel office.

His mother, Cleo, a former market researcher who decided the advertising business wasn't satisfying, is a sophomore majoring in psychology. She plans to work toward a doctorate.

"I reversed the normal educational pattern by leaving school in the eighth grade to go to work and entering college after a successful business career," she laughed. She skipped high school in the process.

Besides Bob and Kathryn, who studied here last quarter but who is returning to nursing in Chicago, Mrs. Rausch has an eight-year-old son, Gregory.

Bob is president of the SIU History Club and last year received the Bare-Jenkins Memorial Award. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary, Phi Kappa Phi and the L. A. and S. honor society.

C of C Adopts New Policy On Fund Drive Soliciting

Carbondale's Chamber of Commerce has adopted a new policy which will require any organization wishing to solicit funds from its members to obtain clearance from the Chamber's solicitation committee first.

There were indications that the new policy, announced last night, would be followed up by a city ordinance requiring the licensing of all solicitors by the city.

According to Geuther, the new policy was adopted to "protect" the merchants from solicitation by unworthy or fraudulent organizations.

All organizations will be required to fill out a two-page, 23-question form which will be verified before the authorization card is issued.

Moore Book Reviewed

The recently published two-volume "Collected Letters of D. H. Lawrence," edited by Dr. Harry T. Moore, research professor of English at SIU, is given a full page review in the current issue of Saturday Review.

Russell L. Geuther, executive director of the Chamber, said all the Chamber's members are being notified of the new policy and are being urged to cooperate.

Under the new set up, any organization or group requesting permission to solicit funds or gifts for any purpose will be fully investigated. If it is found to be representing a worthy cause, it will be given an authorization card to show Chamber members when seeking contributions.

Members are urged not to contribute to any fund drive unless the solicitor has an authorization card, Geuther said.

The Next Step On ROTC

The future--whether unchanged, modified or revised--of Southern's ROTC program rests for the time being at least with the Military Policies Committee. That committee will study the broad educational aspects and contributions of the present program to the total University program and make recommendations to University President Delyte W. Morris. President Morris asked the committee to study the ROTC question following a request from the Student Council that appropriate councils at SIU make a study of the ROTC program...to determine the advisability of replacing the present program with a voluntary one. Certainly the student body, acting in good faith and with mature judgment through their legal representatives, the Student Council, has every right to request such a change. President Morris, in due course received that request, and has asked the Military Policies Committee for recommendations. The committee, chaired by L. Clark Davis, director of student affairs, is now in the process of mapping out a course of study.

Members are Dean. T. W. Abbot; Col. George H. Blase, USAF; Prof. Howard R. Long; Prof. Robert A. McGrath, registrar; Prof. Harves C. Rahe; Mr. John S. Rendleman, executive director of business affairs; Prof. Edward J. Shea; and Prof. Walter J. Willis. In addition, two members of the Student Council, Charles Novak and Dick Moore, are serving--at the request of President Morris--as non-voting members.

non-compulsory. Similarly, groups at the University of Illinois, in view of a possible chance to change the U of I's program, are watching with interest the ROTC situation here. In reviewing the various pros and cons, it seems fair to approach the subject in terms of value to the University, to the Defense Department of the United States, specifically, the Air Force, and to the individual student.

From the University's point of view, if the ROTC program does serve an educational function, it must be looked at in the long run. Mandatory units are possibly more likely to be maintained in a defense funds cut-back. This is important in terms of keeping a unit on the campus. The required program does open up an opportunity for the young man unexposed to military life to serve. Finally, the University must recognize that in the present day and age military matters cannot be tossed aside. Whatever information a potential leader has, the more enlightened public there will be. On the other hand, however, a voluntary program would be less costly, although mostly in terms of class room space taken up. The voluntary program would leave more of a choice to students and would save countless hours.

Much has been said and written concerning the ROTC program here at Southern. Universities across the nation are experiencing comment concerning possible changes in their programs. The University of Connecticut has changed its compulsory program to a voluntary one. The University of Kentucky has recently revamped its compulsory program, and The Kentucky Kernel the campus newspaper there, has suggested that the time is ripe to make the program from

As far as the Defense Department and the Air Force is concerned, the type of program offered is up to the university concerned. The official point of view is that while the some 177 AFROTC detachments are the greatest single source of Air Force officers, a mandatory program is not necessary. About 50 per cent of the present AFROTC units are compulsory, and many of the compulsory units are located at schools where ROTC is required, not necessarily AFROTC.

Southern's contract with the Air Force stipulates that the program can be terminated by either party. The Air Force considers itself as a sort of guest of a university, and agrees to provide services in accordance with the desires of the university. The cost of maintaining compulsory programs is far greater than that required to maintain voluntary ones. For example, the Air Force pays SIU $25 per year for each basic cadet enrolled. The University then uses this money to purchase uniforms (at about $100 per ) for students enrolled in basic ROTC.

This sum would be lessened considerably in a voluntary program, as would the cost of the regular Air Force staff of 12 officers and seven enlisted men assigned to the SIU detachment. And with defense dollars harder and harder to come by, the cost factor to the Air Force certainly cannot be discounted. On the other hand, a compulsory program exposes the Air Force to more promising young men, and vice versa. One can easily ask if the money saved, regardless of how much, is worth the possibility of losing one John Glenn. Incidentally, the many highly appreciated ROTC "extras"--Angel Flight, rifle team, Singing Squadron, etc.--could work under any program, according to well informed sources.

Tangible advantages and disadvantages to the individual have already been touched upon. The biggest obvious advantage--that a little exposure to military science and a little military discipline might make anyone just a bit better prepared, and a little more aware of one's responsibilities as an American--depends on the attitude of the individual, much like learning to recognize a noun or how to apply physics.

These are the things which the Military Policy Committee will be studying and upon which they will base a recommendation to President Morris. They will no doubt take into consideration the Edwardsville campus and decide whether to extend the present program there or perhaps make both campuses voluntary. Then again, they may decide, based upon their thorough study, to not change the present program, or perhaps to modify it, for example requiring certain amounts of military orientation but not two years of training. The students, through their Student Council, and based on mature judgement we hope and not because someone is mad at a little military exposure, have asked for consideration. President Morris has recognized their request and asked the Committee for recommendations. The next move is up to the gentlemen of the Military Policy Committee.

Our Decaying Generation

Editor:
This is the first time I have felt the need to write to the Egyptian. After last Friday night's Theta Xi Variety Show, I feel the need to express my opinion.

First of all, I did enjoy most of the acts. My complaint is against the KMOX announcer who filled in between acts. His purpose for being there was to entertain (and amuse) the audience between acts. However Mr. Hardy chose to do this by telling off-color and vulgar stories.

To use the above-mentioned stories in poor taste, but even worse was the fact that the people continued to laugh at these so-called "jokes." Is this the type of entertainment our educated people want today? I, for one, do not feel this is the type for college students. I think this is just one more thing pointing to the moral decay of our generation.

A Counter-Counter Reply

Editor:

At the outset I want to say that I am writing this in the hope that I might be permitted an opportunity to express myself on some ideas I "entertained," as Mr. Smith puts it, in my original reply, and not as he misinterpreted them in a categorical assertion in his counter-reply.

First, I would like to make clear that I did not, by implication or otherwise, suggest any direct causal relationship between science per se, and war. What I did suggest was that recent history has demonstrated that a scientific education bereft of any moral commitment, which at the present stage of human culture must necessarily be derived from a discernment of the humanities, has resulted in a dehumanization as was experienced in Nazi Germany and today in Soviet Russia.

It would be toward the behavioral sciences that I would like to look for evidence that science, more authoritative persons of itself, promotes a distaste for wars. It is my belief that it is only those practitioners of anthropology, sociology and psychology who approach their work as a healing agency and not as a merely expedient, manipulative function, who offer any hope to society for the regulation of the havoc which a minority of ethically rudderless scientists have dealt to our civilization.

Also, I would like to ask Mr. Smith what kind of logic does he arrive at the conclusion that the scientist delights in each discovery that brings him further away from security and reality? Surely, the basic motivation behind scientific research is a desire for greater security and predictability, not less. It has been an unintentional by-product of science that man is now more spiritually insecure, but this is not a situation to revel in.

As for "the poets of liberal arts moaning sounds of illusion to mask the insecurity of reality," I can only say that it has been acknowledged by more authoritative persons than myself that the poets have persistently torn away the masks of illusion rather than contributing to any further veiling of reality.

Salukis Seek NCAA Division Basketball Title

By Tom McNamara
The Saluki basketball squad gets a crack at the NCAA division championship this week after wrapping up the sectional title by defeating Evansville 88-83.

The first game of the division playoff Thursday in Evansville will feature the Salukis against the winner of the Northeast regional title.

Coach Harry Gallatin credited last Friday night's win over Evansville to "defense and rebounding—two of the most neglected phases of basketball."

And SIU captain, Jim Gualdoni, summed up the teams feelings in the dressing room after the Evansville game when he said: "We're going all the way, now." He was not alone in his feelings for in the background you could here Messrs. Spila, Bigham, Lentfer, Hood, Henson and the rest of the squad hollering their approval.

Gallatin quite naturally was pleased with his team's showing and praised his entire team. Said Gallatin, mopping perspiration off his brow, "It was a tremendous team effort."

"What about the job Henson (Dave) did on Briley (Buster), despite playing on two weak ankles," Gallatin continued. "And let's not forget the tremendous job that Lentfer (Frank) and Bigham (Ed) turned in."

Lentfer turned in the best game of his collegiate career scoring 16 points and hauling down 10 rebounds. Lentfer, 6-8 pivot man from Riverdale, scored 10 of his 16 markers in the first half when SIU took a narrow 43-40 halftime lead.

Lentfer was named to the all-tourney team with teammate Ed Spila, North Carolina A and T's Hugh Evans and Henry Marshall and Buster Briley of Evansville.

Ed Bigham, 5-10 sophomore guard from Pinckneyville, played what Gallatin called "his best game in his entire career." Bigham in the closing four minutes of the game sank four of five free throws which pulled Southern out of reach of Evansville's Purple Aces. Furthermore, Bigham with only 1:27 remaining and SIU leading 84-81 sank both free throws on a one-and-one basis to put the game on ice for the Salukis.

Gallatin used only seven players with Harold Hood and Rod Linder coming off the bench to turn in sparkling reserve performances. Linder played the entire second half because Gualdoni picked up four fouls midway in the first half. Linder pumped in 13 points in his reserve role while Hood finished one behind.

Once again, Spila, the ex-Marine from Chicago, turned in his usual fine scoring and rebounding game. Spila finished with 19 points and 12 rebounds. Big Ed hit on 11 of 12 charity attempts.

Spila, along with Lentfer, caused Evansville more trouble than they wanted. On numerous occasions Spila and Lentfer blocked Evansville shots which might have turned a win into a setback.

Friday night's contest between SIU and Evansville was the first since 1953 when Evansville dropped the Salukis from its schedule. However, in the all-time series between the schools, Southern leads 18-11.

Gallatin described Friday night's game as "our best of the season." He said it shows "what a lot of determination and desire will do for a club."

But he also reminded his team that it couldn't rest on its laurels because it would be facing tough competition in the division championships this week.

Ann Strawn Will Compete In National Bowling Meet

Ann Strawn, winner of the Intercollegiate Women's Bowling tournament at the University Center, will compete in the national championships next month in Phoenix, Ariz.

She was picked to compete with other top college bowlers on the basis of her three series total of 1,510 pins.

Miss Strawn will fly from St. Louis to Phoenix for the tournament April 28 through 30. The Phoenix competition, sponsored by the Association of College Unions, is a follow-up to the SIU Tournament Week program last month.

A sophomore recreation major from Carbondale, Miss Strawn just started bowling last summer. She said she bowls every day to keep in shape.

"I've had some good instructors," she said modestly.

"I just hope I don't clutch up when I get to Phoenix," she said. "I'm proud to be representing SIU and I'll brag about the school every chance I get."

As for her chances of bringing home the national championship, she added:

"If I can hit my average, there might be a chance to get up near the top. I hope there is a girl from the University of Illinois out there and I beat her."

Newman Club Construction To Start

Construction of the first building in the new Newman Center at Washington and Grand will get underway immediately, according to Rev. Cletus Hentschell, director of the Catholic Student Foundation.

The $275,000 structure will be located at 715 S. Washington. It will contain a meeting hall which also will serve as a temporary chapel for 800, a library, a lounge, offices, snack bar and kitchen.

Folding wood partitions will allow division of the large open room into smaller rooms. Sliding glass doors on the east wall of the building will open to a patio at the rear.

Subsequent construction in the Center will include a large permanent chapel, classrooms and priests' quarters. Hellmuth, Obata & Kasebaum, St. Louis architects, designed the center. W. E. Snyder Construction Co. of Herrin will build the first building in the complex.

Father Hentschell said that the acquisition of additional land "necessitated considerable revision of the original plan."

"This additional property extending to the corner of Washington and Grand, adjacent to the University campus, has been most beneficial to our building plans as to location and appearance," he added.

Plans for the center were made public Sunday at a breakfast honoring the Most Rev. Albert R. Zuroweste, Roman Catholic Bishop of Belleville. Bishop Zuroweste made his annual visit to SIU Sunday.
