CCHS board discusses adding to school day

By Bob Tita
Staff Writer

While lengthening the school day at Carbondale Community High School might enhance students' education, the cost involved would prohibit an extra hour from being added, according to school officials.

CCHS board member Mike Diamond raised the issue at a board meeting Thursday.

Diamond asked high school officials if the current seven-period day was detracting from the education students receive.

Diamond said if this was the case, the educational considerations might outweigh the cost.

School district officials maintained that the seven-period day does not hurt the quality of education at the high school. The high school adopted the seven-period day about eight years ago to reduce expenses.

"WE HAVE a good educational program with a seven-period day," said Margaret Hollis, assistant school superintendent. "If I had my choice it would be to go to an eight-period day, but that would cost an awful lot."

School Superintendent Reid Martin said adding the extra period would cost about $250,000 a year. He said 55 classes are offered each hour at the school.

If another hour was added, 11 more teachers would have to be hired, he said.

"It can be done cheaper by cutting down the number of classes per period to 48, but then your class size would increase," he said. The average class size at the high school is about 19 students, he said.

DALE SMITH, central campus principal, said if the Nazi graves disregarded in ceremony

BITBURG, West Germany (UPI) — President Reagan laid a wreath honoring Germany's war dead Sunday, but turned his back to the graves of 49 Nazi SS troopers in a 10-minute cemetery visit that sparked worldwide protest.

Reagan, admitting it was a "day of conflicting emotions" because of the firestorm of protest over the visit to the Bitburg military cemetery, said he made the trip in a gesture of reconciliation between the United States and Germany 40 years after the war ended in Europe.

Reagan's visit on a cold, gray day followed an emotional speech at the site of the Bergen-Belsen death camp where he vowed the world will "never again" allow the human slaughter like that perpetrated by Adolf Hitler in Nazi Germany.

head of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Commission, author Elie Wiesel, a concentration camp survivor whose books chronicle the Holocaust, said, "His presence at Bitburg will remain to me a source of much anguish."

"I FELT rejected, humiliated," he said after witnessing the event on television. "It is wrong for the president."

Reagan's visit to the burial ground of some 2,000 graves lasted for only the scheduled 10 minutes. As he entered and left Reagan carefully avoided the side of the cemetery where the SS troops were buried and, as he laid the wreath at the foot of a monument honoring World War I dead, his back was to the graves of the SS troops.

The Soviet news agency, Novosti, called Reagan's visit to Bitburg "an insult to all, especially those who fought against Nazism," and said Reagan was attempting to shift the blame for World War II from the Nazis to the victims.

"WE DO not believe in collective guilt," Reagan said minutes after the cemetery visit as he spoke at the U.S. air base in the same town. "Only God can look into a heart."

"We can mourn the German war dead as human beings crushed by a vicious ideology," he said.

There were 1,400 demonstrators lining the streets of Bitburg and 700 outside the concentration camp. Thousands more throughout America and Europe protested the visit.

In the United States, the

AT BITBURG, Reagan and West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl stood silently in front of the monument as a trumpeter sounded the notes of the German ode "I had a comrade."

Reagan was accompanied throughout the somber day by his wife, Nancy, Kohl, and his wife, Hannelore.

Israel, Egypt prepare for summit

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel will send a delegation to Cairo this week for talks aimed at arranging a summit meeting between Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, officials said Sunday.

David Kimche, director-general of the Israeli Foreign Ministry, said the coalition Cabinet agreed to send three negotiators to the Egyptian capital but did not disclose specifics of the Israeli position.

"The delegation is going and we are going to discuss everything with the Egyptians," Kimche said.

When asked to rate the prospects for success, he responded, "I haven't the faintest idea."

No departure date was announced for Kimche, Avraham Tamir, a senior aide to Peres, and Gen. Menachem Eynan, the Defense Ministry's director of planning.

The trip was approved by the 10-member "inner Cabinet," which is divided equally between ministers from the rival Labor Party and Likud bloc.

Officials said the group had left open the question of whether Israel would accept Egypt's demand for arbitration to resolve the issue of the disputed Red Sea resort of Taba.

Last week, Mubarak said the Taba issue must be resolved before a summit meeting could be arranged with Peres.

The right-wing Likud, headed by Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, opposes arbitration because it feels other options have not been exhausted.

Council to discuss bus abandonment

By Thomas Mangano
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council on Monday will discuss ways to prevent Gulf Transport Co. from abandoning two bus routes that connect Carbondale with East St. Louis and Springfield.

A report from James Rayfield, city planning director, says that if Gulf Transport bus service to the city is stopped and Amtrak funding is eliminated "there will be no economical public transportation to or from Carbondale."

Rayfield's report called such a possibility "totally unacceptable" for a city the size of Carbondale.

Carbondale can pursue at least 10 alternatives ranging from doing nothing to officially intervening in the Interstate Commerce Commission hearings and other proceedings that will decide the fate of Carbondale's bus service, the report says.

Consumer groups, such as the Southern Counties Action Movement and the Consumer Protection Divisions of the governor's and state attorney generals' offices, could be asked to act in the city's behalf to officially intervene in the ICC proceedings.

Another alternative would be contacting other cities affected by the service cutoff to determine their willingness to fight for maintaining service.

The ICC has been deregulating bus service, the report says, and has recently overturned 88 out of 90 state decisions to prevent bus route abandonment.

"According to the ICC, improved ridership and carrier margin of profit offer the best hope for the continuation of bus services," the report says.

U.S. debts won't be paid, Nicaraguan official says

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — The Health Ministry, saying the U.S. embargo of drug exports to Nicaragua has endangered lives, announced Sunday that it will refuse to pay $2 million in debts to American pharmaceutical companies. President Reagan imposed a total trade embargo on Nicaragua last Wednesday, cutting off some $58 million in imports and ending more than $110 million in annual exports of U.S. goods to the country.

French leader defends anti-Star Wars stand

PARIS (UPI) — President Francois Mitterrand said Sunday he was protecting France and Europe at the Bonn summit when he opposed President Reagan's demands for a European role in "Star Wars" research and new world trade talks. The summit closed Saturday without agreement on a date for a new round of world trade talks, sending Reagan home without one of his major goals.

Six reported dead in continuing Beirut battle

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Rival gunmen Sunday battled in the heart of Beirut for the eighth straight day, raising the casualty toll to at least six dead in 24 hours of sporadic shooting and shelling. Several cease-fire calls collapsed as mortar and artillery rounds from both sides struck deep into residential districts of the divided Lebanese capital.

Obesity in children connected to TV viewing

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Harvard team of researchers Sunday reported a link between time spent in front of the television and the incidence of obesity and super obesity in 6- to 11-year-old youngsters and teenagers. The prevalence of obesity moved beyond the normal percentage of 15 percent in the group of grade schoolers when viewing amounted to two-to-five hours per day, said the report in "Pediatrics," journal of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Navy officer will appeal love affair case ruling

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Navy commander was "relieved" to get off with a $2,500 fine and frozen in rank for lying about his love affair with a woman junior officer, but his lawyer said he will appeal the case anyway. Cmdr. James Wyatt III, 40, was found guilty by the jury on Friday for lying to a superior officer about the affair with Lt. j.g. Etteinne Boatwright, 24, and of violating a Navy regulation against a married officer living with an unmarried woman.

Study says violence strikes 3 percent of U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About six million Americans were the victims of violent crime — rape, robbery or assault — each year between 1978 and 1982, the Justice Department said Sunday. While violence struck 3 percent of Americans, a Bureau of Justice Statistics study found "males are more likely than females to be victimized by violent crime, blacks more likely than whites, the young more than the old, the poor more than the wealthy and the unmarried more than the married," bureau director Steven Schlesinger said.

Thatcher says Japanese competition unfair

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Sunday it "sticks in my gullet" when Japanese firms beat European competitors for contracts because the Japanese use their export profits to offer better terms. The day after returning from the economic summit in West Germany, Thatcher also said in a radio interview that while Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone is "doing his best to open up Japanese markets ... I'm just worried ... it's not going to be enough for our purpose."

McCormick Place annex building materials barred

CHICAGO (UPI) — The outside walls of McCormick Place's new annex are to be made from aluminum-plastic paneling that has been barred from at least four major cities because its core is combustible, it was reported Sunday. The $200 million McCormick annex was rebuilt after fire gutted the structure in 1967. Designers had believed the original structure was virtually "fireproof," the same claim now being made for the new annex.

Countries renege on assistance

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Donor nations have failed to make good on pledged food deliveries to famine-stricken Africa and only immediate action can avert a "major disaster" in the six hardest-hit countries, a U.N. report said Sunday.

A report issued by the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization regional office in Nairobi said as of late April, international food pledges for 21 African countries facing severe shortages amounted to 6.3 million tons.

But the report said that only 2.7 million tons — or 42 percent — has been delivered. The 6.3 million tons in pledges still leave a continental shortfall of 700,000 tons, the FAO said.

"IN ORDER to meet the present crisis effectively, a priority challenge for the international community in the coming weeks must be to expedite the delivery of the pledges already made, including efforts to overcome the logistical constraints to the maximum extent possible," the FAO said.

The report listed the six worst affected countries as Ethiopia, Chad, Mali, Mozambique, Niger and Sudan.

"Only concerted action in the coming six weeks by the international community and the governments of the six most affected countries can avert a major disaster," the report said.

IN ETHIOPIA, where 5 million people face severe risk, less than half of 1.7 million tons of food pledges have been fulfilled while in Mali, only 36 percent of the 254,000 tons pledged has arrived.

In Sudan, where more than 7 million people face starvation, over 80 percent of the food aid pledged — most of it by the United States — has yet to arrive.

The report listed the United States as the major donor to Africa, pledging 2.8 million tons or more than a third of the total. The European Economic Community was second with 1.76 million tons.

Jews honor death camp liberators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jewish and veterans groups honored the liberators of Nazi concentration camps Sunday in a ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery and 400 Holocaust survivors and their children in Boston protested President Reagan's visit to the German military cemetery where Nazi troops are buried.

Smaller groups staged protests against Reagan's Bitburg cemetery visit in Los Angeles, Miami, Atlanta, Milwaukee, West Hartford and New Haven, Conn., and Philadelphia.

Some 600 Jews and members of Disabled American Veterans gathered at Arlington National Cemetery outside Washington, D.C., in a gathering billed as "A Tribute to America's Defenders and Liberators."

ABOUT 400 Holocaust survivors and their children, many wearing black arm bands and carrying signs, staged a protest in front of a war memorial in Boston Common.

"I'll never forgive him," Benjamin Goldstein, 55, said of Reagan. Goldstein said he spent several years in a concentration camp in Stuttgart, Germany.

Boston protesters carried signs saying, "Our families had no graves."

The gathering at Arlington National Cemetery was riddled with angry references to Reagan's visit to the cemetery where 49 members of Hitler's SS troops are buried.

"IT IS OF paramount importance to honor in an appropriate manner the heroism of those who perished in the defense of freedom from Nazi tyranny," said the Rev. Edward White at Arlington.

"Having our president at the cemetery, no matter how well intentioned, sends to the world the wrong signals," said Benjamin Meed, president of the American Gathering and Federation of Jewish Holocaust Survivors.

"The reason for the outcry (against the cemetery visit) is that by visiting the cemetery, we have absolved the German nation of its atrocities," Meed said.

REMEMBERING THE shock of Allied troops when they first arrived at Nazi concentration camps, Meed said: "No one could prepare our liberators for the horror they witnessed that day 40 years ago, even though our governments knew of the death camps.

"We cannot allow the governments of today to keep future generations equally in ignorance."

Meed's speech drew a standing ovation by the crowd packed into the cemetery's Old Amphitheatre.

A color guard displayed the infantry flags of the battalions that liberated the concentration camps, and gatherers laid pink carnations in wreaths along the amphitheatre walls.

IN NEW YORK City, some Jewish leaders praised Reagan's eloquence in his speech in Germany, but called his walk past the SS graves "insensitive."

"Bitburg evidences an insensitivity to the victimized dead," said Nathan Perlmutter, national director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. "To the miraculous airlift of Ethiopian Jews from the Sudan and the defense of Israel he revealed a great sensitivity to the living and the future."

But Shifra Hoffman, a conservative Jewish activist, said: "We do not forgive and we do not forget. We do feel he sold out morally."

Religious leaders held a commemorative service at the Veterans Green in West Hartford honoring Holocaust victims to counter Reagan's trip.

"IT IS OUR intent to make clear the difference between the long-standing reconciliation with a democratic, postwar Germany and the Germany that committed unforgettable horrors of Nazism," the Rev. Roger Floyd said.

In New Haven, 30 people, including Rep. Bruce Morrison, D-Conn., rallied to protest the Bitburg visit.

Members of the Jewish Defense League Sunday morning went to Bel Air Presbyterian Church, the church Reagan attends when visiting Los Angeles.

"We implore the reverend to condemn the action of the president of the United States. Won't you join us and give some meaning to the words, 'Never Again,' the Jewish Defense League slogan," a JDL spokesman said.

A group of about 30 other Holocaust survivors gathered outside the federal building in Westwood, Calif. to protest the president's visit.

Reagan embargo will defeat purpose

Since Congress won't aid the contras in Nicaragua, President Reagan has decided to impose a trade embargo against the country. This move may end up hurting Reagan's cause.

It's likely that the decision to issue the embargo was at least partially in response to Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega's recent trip to the Soviet Union — which, coming close on the heels of the "no" vote on contra aid, probably didn't win him any friends in Congress. Ortega was seeking aid from the Soviets — aid he claims he can't get anywhere else. While Ortega probably won't get as much as the $12 million a year that goes to Cuba, he probably will receive some sizable aid from the Soviet Union.

Reagan's embargo will hurt U.S. trade more than Nicaraguan trade. The situation is somewhat similar to Jimmy Carter's Soviet wheat embargo which was intended to punish the Soviets but ended up punishing the American farmer. The Nicaraguans will undoubtedly be hurt by the loss of $58 million in exports, but the U.S. stands to lose $110 million in exports. The embargo will end up hurting U.S. businesses, one of the bases of support for Reagan's policies.

By being so openly hostile to the Nicaraguan government, the president is driving Ortega even closer to the Soviet Union. He is encouraging Ortega to go to the Soviets for help in battling the Americans.

Reagan did not need the approval of Congress to enact the embargo. Despite the fact that Congress failed to approve aid for the contras last week, the president has apparently decided to go ahead with his plans for Central America.

If nothing else was learned from the Vietnam War, at least the potential trouble that can result from a president acting independently of Congress — especially in such hostile situations — should be remembered.

The embargo is another example of Reagan's dogged determination to do what he sees as right — and Congress, and anyone else, be damned if they don't agree. Opponents of Reagan's Central American policy, however, may find solace in the fact that there's a good chance the embargo won't accomplish what he intended.

Apartheid protest an act of morality

The organizers of the rally and march next to Anthony Hall on April 30, 1985 which was aimed at protesting SIU-C's investments in corporations profiting from the South African racist and unjust regime are thankful to all those students, individuals and university personnel who cooperated with them to make their firm standpoint clear to the University authorities.

The speakers who had been invited who gave their best and their support, including that of the placard and sign writers, was extremely valuable. We encourage other students to give us a hand in this, since we believe their participation is crucial in this moral crusade. As always, the exercise of our right to the freedom of speech will be conducted in a peaceful way.

Those professors and other academic staff who have been interested in the South African issue vis-a-vis U.S. investments, constructive engagement and human rights violations by the white minority government in that country, are also urged to stand up and be counted. This kind of pressure, beginning at a local level, is bound to lead to a revision of the Reagan policy that tolerates the brutal oppression of South African blacks, coloreds and Indians.

We should be keen to register the sentiment that the American people refuse to be associated with inhumane or unfair regimes on all corners of the earth. If all of us do so, it is bound to create a better world. We will be living the true meaning of the creed encapsulated in the U.S. Constitution and the U.N. Charter on Human Rights. Selfish materialism that thrives on the search for gratification in empty patriotism or hollow partying and a myopic education, will never make a nation great and truly free. Across-the-board raises may encourage mediocrity

In response to the letter from Nancy Spears protesting any plan for distributing raise monies in a manner other than across the board.

I believe that across the board raises encourage mediocrity. Where is the incentive to do one's best at one's job with the knowledge that even the least productive employee will receive the same raise in pay that you do?

I hope that at least some of the raise will be given for merit to reward those who do a better than average job.

Years at SIU-C, USO valuable experience

Four years ago, I came to Carbondale in search of opportunity. I wanted to meet new people and learn from their experiences. I wanted to obtain a higher degree of learning at an institution with a broad range of programs. I wanted to learn how to participate to make my community a better place.

As a member of the Undergraduate Student Organization I have contributed to such programs as the Landlord-Tenant Union, voter registration drives, rallies for students and higher education, city and campus clean-up days and a variety of other programs sponsored by USO.

During this past year I have had the honor of serving as USO president. I have enjoyed the opinions given to me by literally hundreds of people who depend on the University for everything from education to employment. It has been a pleasure to serve as USO president and I can honestly say my critics have been helpful. How else would I know that anybody was concerned about their student government?

Thank you SIU-C. Thank you Carbondale. It will be a double pleasure to serve you as the next SIU-C student member of the SIU-Board of Trustees. —

Off-campus living

Bills, bills, bills and more bills. It's tough to be a student living off campus in 1985 and if the present trend keeps up being a student off campus will become tougher and tougher in the future.

The number of bills that one might encounter as a student in 1985 are unbelievable. Do you have approximately $400 dollars up front to live off campus?

There are utilities. There's the phone installation charge on top of the long distance calls to mom and dad to ask for more money. Then there's gas, electricity, food and the all important attitude adjustment period.

Although the job situation in Carbondale is a lot better than some other cities in Southern Illinois, the market is flooded with employees. If you do get a job, the wages often are not enough to support yourself.

I know a lot of students whose only source of income is their job — a job that pays minimum wage. A job that, if you're lucky, pays part of your bills. What happens if you can't pay your bills and your gas and electricity are shut off? You're out of luck until you can pay.

I guess what I am saying is to know what off-campus housing is all about before you make the big move. Talk to a friend who has lived off campus or talk to someone at the USO's Landlord-Tennant Union at 536-3381. — David J. Madlener, junior, Psychology.

SCHOOL: 8-hour-day discussed

school day was lengthened, the graduation requirements should also be changed. He said many students will not choose to take another class, but will use the extra period as a study hall.

"I'm not in favor of study halls. I don't think students get that much out of them," he said.

Smith also said that revised requirements for graduation should be implemented under the seven-period day. He said the present requirements allow students to take more than one study hall during the school day.

DIAMOND SAID he is concerned that required class recommendations from the Illinois Board of Higher Education for college-bound students will keep students from taking electives.

Hollis said students have the option of taking "early bird" classes before the regular school day, so they can take an elective during the regular day.

The current school day starts at 8:30 a.m. and runs until 3 p.m. Each period lasts 55 minutes.

Diamond said he was reassured by the comments made that there is not a great need for an additional period.

The board was also presented with a report dealing with long-range objectives for the school board. Topics dealt with in the report include school board operations, personnel management, educational programs and evaluation of the superintendent. Further consideration of report will take place throughout the summer.

COUNCIL: Abandonment to be discussed

Some of the alternatives address ways to ensure the profitability of the affected routes so that Gulf Transport can maintain the routes rather than abandon them. They include offering a small subsidy to Gulf in the form of either equipment or free advertising.

If the city is unable to stop the abandonment, it can search for, or subsidize, another bus carrier to provide service between Carbondale and routes served by other bus companies.

The council will also conduct a public hearing to decide the fate of the Carbondale water treatment plant. The hearing will try to designate the best possible site for a new water plant.

The council must choose whether to renovate the plant, now located on South Wall Street, or build a new plant.

Crew displays red crystal, readies shuttle for descent

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Challenger's astronauts Sunday proudly displayed a space-grown red crystal the size of a sugar cube, got in some bonus research and then packed up for Monday's descent to California from a week in space.

The mission manager said the flight's scientific yield had grown to enough data to fill 50,000 200-page books and added: "We're extremely encouraged."

Commander Robert Overmyer and co-pilot Fred Gregory are scheduled to fire the shuttle's twin braking rockets over the Indian Ocean at 10:34 a.m. and glide to a landing at Edwards Air Force Base in the high desert of California 1 hour 6 minutes later.

AFTER A week in orbit, the seven-man crew is looking forward to some of the amenities of life on Earth.

"When we arrive at Eddy, a beer of course would be nice," Gregory said. "But I think all of us want an ice cream with chocolate and strawberries on it."

Mission scientists Don Lind, William Thornton, Norman Thagard, Lodewijk van den Berg and Taylor Wang were able to get in some extra, unplanned research with some of the experiments because of time freed by the launch of a tiny satellite last Monday instead of Sunday as originally planned.

"NOW WE'RE kind of into the freebies and actually gaining more time, more runs, more intelligence and more science data," said mission manager Joe Cremin at midday.

Thornton checked the two monkeys in the cages in the Spacelab module and said the astronauts will be bringing "a couple back that are even friendlier than they were to begin with."

The monkeys and 24 rats aboard will be flown to Cape Canaveral after landing where the rodents will be killed for examination. The monkeys will not be harmed.

LIND DISPLAYED one of the products of the mission to a television camera by holding up a glass ampoule containing a six-sided crystal of mercuric iodide grown during the past four days in a special furnace in the Spacelab module.

"We have managed to grow what really appears to be as far as I am concerned a really excellent crystal," Lind said. "Notice the symmetry of the whole thing. The color is very accurate. That's what we've been doing up here in space today."

Lind then packed the crystal and its container in a drawer in the side of Spacelab.

THE CRYSTAL, about 20 times larger than the tiny seed crystal from which it started, will be examined on Earth to see if it has far fewer defects, as anticipated, than those ground under the pull of gravity. Such crystals are valuable as radiation detectors.

While Lind was packing up another space-grown crystal, Thornton suggested mission control might have to send up an armored truck because "I'm sure that's worth more than three dozen diamonds."

Overmyer said he was having trouble stowing away everything the crew had used during the past week.

"WE'RE PROVING once again that you cannot get 10 pounds into a five-pound box," he said.

The 122-foot shuttle was moved out of its tail-to-Earth position Sunday afternoon to allow fuel in the ship's maneuvering engines to warm up for the braking firing Monday. The new position pointed the nose toward the sun.

Challenger had been in the stable tail-down position since Tuesday to give the delicate crystal growth experiments an acceleration-free environment. The instruments were secured for the jolt from the rocket firings required to swing the shuttle around.

But the lab's liquid droplet experiment was left on to see what would happen to a drop of water suspended by sound waves in the test chamber. As soon as Challenger's control rockets fired, the resulting acceleration sent the drop splattering into a side of the chamber.

"Kind of comforting for old Challenger to start firing those thrusters," Overmyer said. "No problems at all after six days. Good to feel like a moving machine again."

Artist's drawings express unspoken language

By Lancer Rettig
Student Writer

Wisps of charcoal cross the paper's surface to form a soft impression of a nude woman ponderously staring through an open window from a stark and cold-looking one-room flat to an empty city street.

Kevin Hunt, a senior majoring in art with a specialization in drawing, seems to capture a moment in time and express a small book of words with one drawing.

Hunt's drawings are usually of females, and he tries to express "a softness, a real woman, but also a thinking being."

"I TRY TO transcend standard portraits by use of composition to express a thinking melancholy, so the viewer can see inside the subject," he added.

Hunt said that the subjects he draws come both from the models in his classes and from his own imagination.

He doesn't claim to be an authority on art, but he has many personal opinions about his craft.

His two favorite artists are John Barber and Grant Wood.

"Barber's work breaks objects and concepts down to their essence," he said. "He uses very few lines and detail, but says it all with such simplicity."

HUNT USES Barber's methods in his own work by using organic lines in his drawings and keeping the elements soft and bulbous.

He said that organic lines are not actual lines, but a blending between various shades of black and gray.

Wood's works use more imagination and contain an excellent sense of composition, Hunt said. Most people would recognize Wood's most famous work as the rendering of an elderly couple standing in front of an old farmhouse with the man holding a pitchfork.

otherwise known as the "American gothic."

Wood didn't use hard lines either, but still succeeded in creating very crisp, clear and pristine pictures with perfect flow, Hunt said.

HUNT SAID that studying the masters is one way he improves his style, but that he also learns from discussing creative philosophies with other art students, getting critiqued by professors and experimenting with his own drawings.

He said that his personal philosophy of art is difficult to explain, but that most simply it is a form of language which goes beyond technical expertise.

"Art is not what is seen on the paper, or what is in the artist's mind. Art is somewhere between the viewer, the work, the instant the art is seen and the communication which takes place."

Most people consider a drawing a start of a picture, Hunt said. He believes, however, that black and white drawings are the final product.

"USE OF COLOR seems to over-labor my drawings. I like to work from initial inspirations, and I like to work fast. A good drawing takes me about two hours to do, but color takes much longer than that and always seems to cloud over the expression in my work."

Hunt said his ability as an artist has developed dramatically since studying at SIU-C, and that the instructors have been instrumental in his development.

"Your ego gets banged up and bruised when you think a drawing is really good, and an instructor tells you it's terrible," he said.

"They really know, though, what's good and what isn't. They've studied art for so long. I don't always listen to everything they say because I have my own opinions too, but their input always helps."

Ultimately, Hunt said he would like to run a large public art gallery, and be exposed to many different types of art and expression while facilitating the same for others.

Town hopes Twain celebration will restore economic standing

HANNIBAL, Mo. (UPI) — Kenneth King, 72, may have been grinning as he watched the parade for Samuel Clemens. But behind the smile was a sad feeling the parade, and the seven-month celebration for Clemens' 150th birthday, is a last ditch effort to save the town.

Local merchants and civic leaders are devoting their time and money to honoring Clemens, known worldwide as Mark Twain, in the hope that tourism will rejuvenate the small Mississippi River town's economy.

A full schedule of activities are planned for almost every weekend. They include a writers' conference, railroad exhibits and art shows.

About 3,000 people turned out at the kickoff parade Saturday to see Huck Finn floats, mule-drawn surreys, Boy Scouts and bands. But most were local townsfolk who went home soon after it ended.

Tourists in the crowd headed for Main Street, the souvenir shops and museums. Merchants reported doing a brisk business.

The old-timers retreated to their favorite benches and talked about the town.

King, a retired rubber plant worker, said things never were the same after the Burlington Railroad stopped manufacturing trains in Hannibal in 1922.

King said the town was still busy in 1935 when he watched President Franklin D. Roosevelt preside over the 100th birthday party for Clemens. But since then, he has seen the old stories and factories disappear.

Leroy Berkshire, 83, agreed with King. "This used to be a real town. But it's a dead crappie now," said Berkshire, a retired worker from one of the shoe plants once located at Hannibal.

Shoes, rubber, lime, cigars and the railroad provided thousands of jobs during Hannibal's boom years. Today the town relies on its tourism industry.

around for very long, except for the bank."

Another longtime resident, Wilbur Buckman said, "If there wasn't tourism today, there would be nothing."

Veterans memorial plans made

By Justus Weathersby Jr.
Staff Writer

Plans for a veterans memorial to be built in Springfield in commemoration of Illinois 2,900 Vietnam war dead and 104 declared missing in action are under consideration, said Perry Murry, regional coordinator of the Illinois Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund.

"The memorial will honor the memory of those Illinois service persons who lost their lives in Southeast Asia and for those who are unaccounted for," Murry said.

The memorial's design was selected from a pool of 90 contestants by a 50-member panel of Vietnam veterans and family members of veterans, Murry said. The panel met in Champaign and selected a design that it believed would honor deceased Vietnam veterans and commemorate those missing in action.

"We received art ranging from the most elementary level up to polished, skilled artists from all over the state," Murry said. He said the design of the memorial is being kept a secret and will be officially unveiled May 26 in Springfield.

A fund-raising softball game is scheduled in support of the memorial featuring WCIL's radio staff against local veterans.

The Post-6 Little Egypt

AMVETS and the SIU-C Vets Club will join forces to play against the radio staff at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Evergreen Park Jaycee field, Murry said. Prizes will be awarded to patrons during a drawing between innings.

Tickets are $1 with all proceeds going toward the memorial. Other donations will be accepted.

A commemorative candlelight ceremony will follow the game honoring the 10-year observance of the Vietnam War's end, Murry said.

The names of the 104 veterans missing in action will be read during the ceremony, Murry said.

OH, MY ACHING BACK

If you're like a lot of people, you may have occasional or persistent back pain and wonder what caused it. You try to think of some incident in which you may have strained your back, and come up with nothing. But there must be some reason why you have back pains. The truth is that even the simplest of incidents may be the cause, such as reaching high on a shelf to get something. Or stooping suddenly to pick up something that has fallen. Or maybe you need some tips on good posture.

Whatever the causes, the problem may be that your spinal column is out of alignment. No pain-killing drug can cure the CAUSE. It can dull the pain for awhile and give you temporary relief. But if your back is out of alignment, the pain will probably not go away unless you the treatment you need. No symptom can be more depressing than persistent back pain. Don't delay treatment when help is readily available.

Metromedia to sell stations in $2 billion broadcast deal

NEW YORK (UPI) — Australian publisher Rupert Murdoch said he expects to complete a $2 billion deal this weekend to buy seven television stations from Metromedia Inc.

One of the stations, WCVB in Boston, would immediately be sold to the Hearst Corp. for $450 million in a deal that would be the largest single broadcast station transaction in U.S. history.

Murdoch met Saturday morning with Metromedia television officials, including station general managers, and said he expected to wrap up the deal over the weekend.

"The whole deal including Boston is contemplated to be slightly in excess of $2 billion," Murdoch said in an interview with the Cable News Network.

The Hearst Corp. said it had reached agreement in principle to buy the Boston station for $450 million.

William Russell, spokesman for the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, said, "I don't know of any other broadcast station that has been sold for that amount of money."

Frank Bennack Jr., president of The Hearst Corp., and John Kluge, chairman of Metromedia, made a joint announcement of the deal to sell WCVB-TV, which is subject to approval by the FCC.

Murdoch, who is Australian, told FCC officials Friday he would become an American citizen so he can buy the television stations. His foreign citizenship is an obstacle to purchasing the stations.

"There are rules on how much interest a foreign national can own," an FCC spokesman said.

A non-citizen can own up to 25 percent of a holding company in a broadcast company and cannot exercise any control no matter how many shares he owns, the spokesman said.

Murdoch told CNN Saturday he was unsure about giving up his Australian citizenship.

In addition, the FCC prohibits cross-ownership of newspapers and television stations in the same market and Murdoch would have to divest himself of those newspapers in the Metromedia markets.

Murdoch would have to sell the Chicago Sun Times, the New York Post and the New York-based weekly, The Village Voice, for the sale of Metromedia stations in New York and Chicago to be approved.

Times and places set for SIU-C graduates' Commencement Day

By David Liss
Staff Writer

Graduation this year will mark the trial run of a new, "more personalized" commencement system, according to one administrator — with ten different ceremonies instead of three.

The new system provides for individualized ceremonies for most colleges, plus one for the graduate and law schools, spread over two days. This is a marked contrast from previous years, when two large undergraduate ceremonies and one graduate ceremony were held in one day.

The University is "trying to allow for more individualized recognition of graduates," said B. Kirby Browning, director of admissions and records. "It will allow for more participation for the academic units."

HAVING SEPARATE ceremonies also means individual colleges can have their own guest speakers, Browning said, allowing for addresses more relevant to their fields.

Since the Arena would dwarf the ceremonies of some of the smaller colleges, Shryock Auditorium will be used for the Colleges of Science and Human Resources and the School of Agriculture, a situation that pleases one dean.

"You couldn't ask for anything better," said William Dyer, associate dean of the College of Science. Having commencement in Shryock is "a beautiful situation," he said.

NOT EVERYONE is happy with the new commencement schedule. Gilbert H. Kroening, dean of the School of Agriculture, said "we have achieved the personalization through other activities in the school." Kroening would prefer a more central ceremony to "indicate to the students they are graduating from SIU-C."

DONALD BEGGS, dean of the College of Education, disagrees. The smaller ceremony "allows us to take the undergraduate students through in a more ceremonious way," he said. "We can honor them in a more appropriate manner."

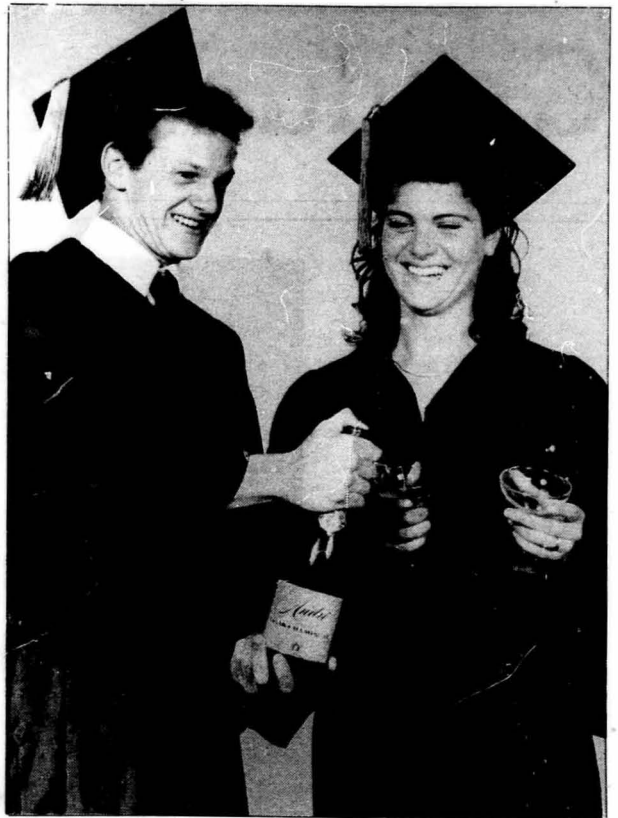

Regardless of differences in opinion, all those consulted shared a "let's see what happens" attitude.

Commencement will begin early Saturday, with the School of Technical Careers scheduled for 8:30 a.m. in the Arena. Chancellor Kenneth Shaw will speak at the ceremony, and a reception will follow immediately in the courtyard of the STC building, said Linda Grace, assistant to the dean.

THE COLLEGE of Engineering and Technology commencement will follow at 11 a.m. in the Arena. The scheduled guest speaker is Charles Walker, a civilian astronaut from McDonnell Douglas who has made two space shuttle flights.

A reception will follow at noon or immediately after the ceremony in the Technology Building courtyard.

The College of Science and the College of Human Resources will commence together at 11 a.m. in Shryock Auditorium. The guest speaker is John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs. A reception will be held immediately following in Quigley Lounge.

THE COLLEGE of Liberal Arts and University Studies will commence together at 1:30 p.m. in the Arena. State Comptroller Roland Burris, a graduate from the college, will speak. No reception is scheduled.

The School of Agriculture commencement is also scheduled for 1:30, and will take place in Shryock Auditorium. Shaw will be the guest

Graduation weekend expected to generate $1 million in revenue

Bob Tita
Staff Writer

Graduation at SIUC is expected to generate about $1 million dollars for the Carbondale business community, making it the most profitable weekend of the year, said Kathleen Ratcliffe, director of the Carbondale Convention and Tourism Bureau.

"Next in terms of revenue would be Halloween," she said. "Halloween has more people but they don't spend as much money per person." She said that about $300,000 new dollars will be brought into the community with each dollar circulating 3.3 times.

Ratcliffe said she did not include revenues generated from flower sales into the total economic impact of the weekend.

About 14,000 visitors are expected to come to Carbondale over the weekend, and spend money for things such as entertainment, food, and transportation and recreation.

Ratcliffe said that all 623 hotel and motel rooms in the city are filled for Friday and Saturday night, with the average room costing $30.74.

Steve Ruppel, assistant manager of the Best Way Inn, 801 E. Main St., said he expects his business to earn between $5,500 and $6,000 over the weekend.

James Prowell, director of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce estimates that a person staying in a motel in Carbondale spends about $75 a day.

Best Ramada Inn, 2400 W. Main St., and Holiday Inn, 800 E. Main St., reported being booked for the weekend. The Ramada Inn has 130 rooms, the Holiday Inn has 140 rooms. Both places hope to also benefit from the Mother's Day crowd.

"When you've got the combination of Mother's Day and graduation, most businesses will be doing quite well," said Maurice Crews, sales director of the Carbondale Holiday Inn.

Crews said the Holiday Inn has a limited menu planned for Saturday night for the graduation crowd. On Sunday a Mother's Day buffet will be served.

The Carbondale Ramada Inn also has a Mother's Day buffet scheduled, said Maurice Hickey, general manager.

He said he tries to attract athletes, teams and other groups coming to SIUC to the Ramada Inn. "We're oriented toward the University," he said.

Ratcliffe said having the graduation ceremonies at different times on Saturday and Sunday may bring more people to Carbondale because conflicts with graduations elsewhere could be lessened.

She said the businesses are also able to handle crowds more efficiently. The SIUC Office of Admissions and Records estimates that about 1,800 students will take part in the ceremonies.

president for U.S. sales for Wang Laboratories in Massachusetts, will be the guest speaker. A reception will follow immediately in the Student Center Renaissance Room.

THE LAW hooding ceremony will take place in Shryock at 11 a.m. and Illinois Supreme Court Justice Howard Ryan will be the guest speaker. That will be followed by the Graduate and Law School commencement at 1:30 in the Arena. Virginia Marmaduke and Willis Malone, professor emeritus, will receive distinguished service awards at the ceremony. Graduate students may attend the commencement ceremonies in their respective colleges, but degrees will be conferred on them only at the Graduate School commencement, according to a memo from Patricia Carrell, associate dean of the graduate school.

Placement center helps students find first job

By Sarah Roberts
Staff Writer

Landing that first job after graduation can be difficult. The SIU-C Career Planning and Placement Center can help make that job search a lot easier.

Ideally, students should start using the center from six to nine months before graduation, said Richard Gray, director of Career Planning and Placement Center.

But the center's services are available to all students, including alumni and those who've taken only one class at SIU-C, Gray said. The center is located on the second floor of Woody Hall, B-Wing, Room 204.

The Placement Service places a questionnaire inside graduating students' diplomas to conduct a follow-up survey on whether or not they have a job and how helpful the placement service was in getting that job, Gray said.

THE PLACEMENT Center does only one follow-up survey, Gray said.

Graduating students can still take advantage of some of the services the center offers, Gray said.

By registering with the Placement Service, graduating students can set up a permanent file of credentials including a record of their work history and references, according to information supplied by the center. The file can be used when an employer requests that credentials be sent.

Resumes can also be sent to employers when students contact the center, Gray said. The registration fee is $15.

VACANCY BULLETINS are posted every week on bulletin boards in the office. They are from three different areas: higher education, business and public school employment, Gray said. They tell what jobs are open in those three fields.

Students can also watch a video on

interviewing skills, Gray said. The tape illustrates good and bad behavior and mannerisms during an interview. Students can then become more aware of their behavior during interviews and know what to work on, he said.

There are also many information sheets available for students wanting to know what the current job market and strategies are for getting jobs, Gray said. Students do not have to be registered to be able to visit the Placement Center, he said.

STUDENTS CAN also use the Career Information Library, which has books, guides to companies, directories, and how-to books on resume writing and interview skills.

Students can read the Wall Street Journal and the Chronicle of Higher Education in the center, which lists jobs and gives students an idea of the business market, Gray said.

The library also contains vacancy

Early career choices could be contributors to salary gender gap

NEW YORK (UPI) — The gender gap in salaries often begins with early career choices, a study of the gender differential among recent college graduates indicates.

Using data from the National Longitudinal Studies of the High School Class of 1972, Temple University professors Paul J. Andrisani and Thomas N. Daymont found that the young men and women in the sample tended to indicate a preference for different occupational roles while still in high school. In college, they also chose different majors according to their sex.

Taken together, these differences accounted for one-third to two-thirds of the gender gap in hourly earnings three years after graduation from college. When asked to identify what was most important in choosing a career, the male high school seniors ranked making a lot of money and being a leader as high priorities. Women were more likely to emphasize the importance of working with people and of being helpful to others or to society.

In college, men were more likely to major in business, engineering, law and medicine, while women more often opted for majors in the humanities, health or biology, and education.

The two members of Temple's School of Business Administration faculty believe their study underscores the fact that where you start out has a lot to do with where you end up.

listings from other schools. Placement centers from various universities swap job listings, Gray said. Students can get an idea of what the job market is like in another part of the country, he said.

Graduating students may still be able to talk to Placement Counselors before graduation, although they are usually booked in advance, Gray said.

THE PLACEMENT Center is divided into eight different departments according to the different departments of the University, such as Liberal Arts, Agriculture, and so on.

Throughout the year, counselors are available for consultation on interviewing, resume writing and advice on the job market, Gray said.

Resume writing is sometimes very hard for students, Gray said. Counselors help students draw out their skills so that they know what to put down on their resumes, he said.

Recruiting is also done on campus from the third week in September until May 1 for students registered with the center. About 175 organizations, including the federal government, recruit on campus a year, Gray said.

Most of the organizations are looking for students in technical areas, business, computer science and engineering.

Workshops are also available throughout the year to help students learn job-search skills.

Break out the bubbly to celebrate graduation

By Jeff Curt
Staff Writer

The sound of champagne corks popping may be heard amid the "congratulations" and wishes of "good luck," this weekend as thousands of graduates celebrate leaving school by drinking champagne.

But since most students are probably more familiar with a six-pack of beer than a $55 bottle of Dom Perignon, they may want to know more about what champagne is and how much it costs.

True champagne comes from, and is named after, a province in Northeastern France. A more common name for the drink is sparkling wine, named so because sugar added during the fermentation process produces carbon dioxide. The carbon dioxide causes the sparkles.

MOST OF the local liquor stores will stock four categories of sparkling wines: both inexpensive ($3 a bottle) and expensive domestic, or American; those from Spain, ranging in price from about $5 to $10; those from Italy, or the Asti Spumanti's, which are usually between $6 to $12 a bottle; and the true champagne from France, which is more expensive - from $11 up to $100 and more a bottle.

Local liquor salespeople said before entering a store to buy a bottle of sparkling wine, one should be thinking of price and taste.

SINCE ASTI Spumanti has half the alcohol content and is therefore sweeter than other sparkling wines, it has become popular with the college crowd, said Kent Boaz, salesman at Westroad Liquors Inc. at Murdale Mall.

If a good inexpensive drink is on one's mind, or if a group wants a few cases but doesn't have much money to spend, then an inexpensive domestic is probably what they'll end up with.

However, adds Boaz, since it's

Champagne, a traditional graduation beverage, is available in a wide range of prices. Those on a budget can spend as little as $3, but those wanting to splurge can spend $60 or more for a bottle.

graduation time, one shouldn't be afraid of spending a little more for a better quality wine. His choice was a bottle of $8 domestic Korbel.

DOUG DIGGLE, manager of Old Town Liquors, 514 S. Illinois Ave., agreed with Boaz that it's usually the experienced wine drinkers who go for the more expensive, "bone dry" French wines.

Restaurants offering special meals, prices for grads' weekend

By Tom Atkins
Staff Writer

Carbondale has many eating places to choose from this graduation weekend.

Several sandwich shops offer good food at reasonable prices.

Carolyn Goering, part-owner of Booby's Submarine Sandwiches, said $3.50 to $4 is the average cost per person for a meal with a drink at Booby's.

Booby's, at 406 S. Illinois, offers submarine and deli sandwiches, salads, quiche and desserts. It has a full bar — boasting $2 pitchers of beer — and has been in Carbondale for about 12 years, Goering said.

Another place to consider is Burt's Sandwich Shop, 901 S. Illinois Ave. A meal at Burt's costs about $3.25 per person, said John Millard, part owner of Burt's.

BURT'S OFFERS "Chicago-style sandwiches" and deli foods, as well as steak sandwiches and hamburgers. A special will be offered during the graduation weekend of an Italian beef sandwich, french fries and a soft drink for $4, Millard said.

There are also quite a few pizza places in Carbondale.

One can expect to spend $3 to $4 per person for a meal at Pagliai's, 515 S. Illinois Ave., said manager John Rowan. Pagliai's offers pizza — with homemade sauce, sausage and dough — as well as spaghetti and poor-boy sandwiches, Rowan said.

The Gold Mine is expecting a rush during graduation weekend, said manager Jim Collins. The Gold Mine, 611 S. Illinois Ave., also offers pizza and Italian sandwiches, as well as salads and slices of pizza, Collins said.

PEOPLE CAN expect to pay about $2.50 to $3 per person for a meal at The Gold Mine, Collins said.

The Italian Village, 405 S. Washington, offers a wider choice of Italian food.

For about $4 to $5 per person, a variety of pizza, pasta, salads and sandwiches are available at the Italian Village, said manager Gary Summers. The Italian Village uses homemade sauces with its pastas, and requires no reservations for graduation weekend, Summers said.

Mexican food is the specialty at Tres Hombres, 119 N. Washington St.

Tres Hombres has a casual, relaxed atmosphere with margaritas and 30 imported beers at the bar, said part-owner Gary Robinson. Reservations are recommended for the usually busy weekend, Robinson said.

TRES HOMBRES will offer several dinner, dessert and drink specials during graduation weekend, he said, adding that meals cost about $5 to $7 per person.

Kahala Gardens, in the Murdale Shopping Center, specializes in Chinese and Polynesian-style food.

The food is moderately spicy and the atmosphere is casual, said owner Ander Yen.

Yen expects to be very busy during the graduation weekend and recommends that reservations be made. There will be a free dessert offered with dinner during the graduation weekend, Yen said. Meals at Kahala Gardens cost about $6.50 to $7 per person.

Another restaurant that offers Chinese food is China House, 701 S. Illinois Ave.

China House is a traditional, family-style restaurant, said owner Carmen Fang. Fang also expects to be very busy during the graduation weekend and recommends that reservations be made.

THE FOOD AT China House is mandarin- and hot-and-spicy-style, and costs about $4 per person for a meal, Fang said.

The meals at both Fiddler's, 1108 W. Main St., and Prime Time, Route 13 East in Carbondale, cost about $10 per person.

Dinner prices range from $2.95 to $22.95, but the average bill is about $10 per person for a meal at Prime Time, said manager Ron Kendall. Prime Time offers a 10-page menu including omelettes, sandwiches, lobster, steaks and prime rib — Prime Time's specialty, Kendall said.

BUBBLY: Begin celebration

Boaz and Diggle also said that the Spanish wines are a good deal and that domestic wines are becoming better and better.

"There's some really really beautiful champagnes coming from California," said Diggle, adding that some French wine makers are merging with American producers and this is making American wines even better.

While one can find good wines in any price range, Diggle said about the lowest one can go to find a really good wine is about $7.

HE ADVISES champagne buyers to "know your taste or the taste of the party" and to never be hesitant to ask liquor salespeople for help. And, added Diggle, a graduate shouldn't be afraid to try new tastes.

Caps and gowns still available, but good fit not being guaranteed

By Cathy Brown
Staff Writer

Graduates who neglected to order their caps and gowns by the deadline in April can still get them and go through graduation ceremonies, but there is no guarantee that they will fit, said Karen Zelten, an office supervisor at the University Bookstore.

She said because the bookstore anticipates that some students will forget to order their caps and gowns by the deadline, they order extra ones. "We have never sent anyone to the ceremony without a gown yet," she said. "It may not be a perfect fit, but we do our best."

The whole outfit for those earning bachelor's and associate's degrees costs $9.95 if it was ordered before April 1. Master's degree caps and gowns cost $20.95 and doctoral degree caps and gowns cost $21.95 if they were ordered before April 1. They all cost $1 more if they are ordered later.

"The styles are different for each," Zelten said. The master's and doctoral degree gowns are more expensive because they come with a hood that drapes off the neck and down the back. The doctoral degree gown has blue velvet panels on it, and blue velvet chevrons on the sleeves.

Tom Williams, production manager at Collegiate Cap and Gown in Champaign, said the tradition of wearing caps and gowns "developed out of the Middle Ages."

"Scholars of that time wanted to wear garments that would distinguish them from the average person," he said. The tradition probably started in the 14th or 15th century in England and "sort of evolved from there."

The hood that people wear today came from the traditional cape and hood that were worn for warmth. Today the hood reflects the school colors or the area of study.

The colors of tassels for each field of study and the styles of the gowns were standardized in 1895 when an intercollegiate commission made up of representatives from colleges and universities around the country met and decided on a code, which was followed by 95 percent of the nation's colleges and universities.

The tassel colors range from maize for agriculture graduates to green for human resources graduates to sapphire blue for business graduates with just about every color in between representing some field of study.

Graduations to offer 'more personalized' Commencement Day

By Karen Wittberger
Staff Writer

The University administration's decision to separate SIU-C's traditional single graduation ceremony into 10 separate commencements is the first step toward its goal of personalizing graduation, said Tom Busch, assistant to the president.

Busch said the University administration is looking to expand May 1987 graduation ceremonies over a three-day period, instead of two days, as it is this year. The short time that separates the commencements this year rushes those who want to attend more than one ceremony, he said.

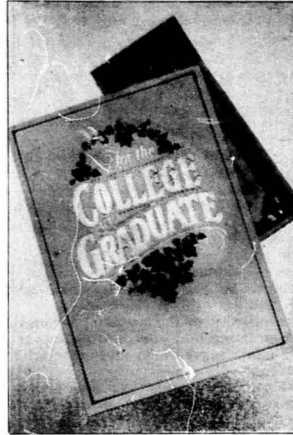

Ideally, future separate commencements for undergraduates would be on Friday and Saturday, and commencement for graduate and doctoral students would be on Sunday, he said.

This year, commencements of nine of the 10 colleges and schools will be consecutive on Saturday. The graduate commencement and an undergraduate commencement, originally scheduled for Friday, will be on Sunday.

"Presumably graduation is a landmark in one's life," Busch said. "This (year) is a step in making commencement more personal...it will give graduates the kind of recognition they deserve at a graduation."

The commencements, scheduled for two hours as in past years, will provide ample time for graduates to receive their diplomas individually and to be acknowledged for honors and service, he said.

Traditionally, about 3,000 graduates and their families and friends would go to the Arena on Saturday, where three or four colleges and schools would concurrently hand out diplomas, Busch said.

Because this is a large University, most students tend to focus their time at the college level, not at the University level, Busch said.

He said the separate ceremonies and receptions will provide an opportunity for the students, faculty and administration to say their final good-byes.

"In the long run the students and parents are going to look back with fond memories on a more personalized graduation," Busch said.

Alternatives to post-college jobs are available

By Jim Ludeman
Staff Writer

Graduating seniors who wish to put off the reality of the "real world" for a while have several alternatives available when they graduate.

One of these is to go on to graduate school. According to the SIU-C 1984-85 Graduate Catalog, an applicant for a master's degree must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited institution, and a grade point average of 2.4.

The application process may begin when the applicant has less than 22 hours to complete for an undergraduate degree.

Different schools and departments can add their own requirements to the minimum standards stated in the catalog.

FOR INSTANCE, the SIU School of Law, in addition to the minimum requirements, requires an acceptable score on the Law School Admission Test.

Scott Nichols, assistant dean and director of admissions of the School of Law, said SIU's median score on the LSAT is 32. The test is scored on a scale of 10 to 48, he said.

The median GPA is 3.19. Nichols was quick to point out that these are merely median scores, and are not minimum requirements.

"A PERSON with a high LSAT score and a not-so-high GPA may be admitted, and vice versa. We tend to look at the whole person. We consider reference letters, personal statements, employment records and extracurricular activities," Nichols said.

An applicant must also have a bachelor's degree, and according to Nichols, this degree can be in any field, theoretically.

"From a practical point of view, some are better than others. The most common ones are in political science, business accounting or just about anything in the liberal arts field," he said.

NICHOLS SAID the school has received about 630 applications for approximately 110 openings next fall.

There is no set deadline, Nichols said, and as long as students get their applications in by the end of July, they could still be accepted.

The program takes three years, and when a student graduates, he has a high chance of getting a job, Nichols said.

The graduating class of 1984 had a placement rate of 92 percent. The national average for 1984 was 90 percent, he said.

If law or graduate school isn't too appealing, there's always the military way of life.

SGT. CHARLIE Tiggs, an Air Force recruiter, said the Air Force is looking for officers in the areas of business administration, accounting, journalism, marketing and computer science.

To qualify as an officer, a candidate must have had at least a 3.0 GPA in school, and must do well on a qualifying test similar to the ACT and SAT tests, he said.

The test covers areas such as pilot aptitude, mathematics and verbal skills, Tiggs said.

The applicant must score about 60 percent in the above-mentioned areas. For those who want to be pilots, the score has to be higher.

ONCE A person qualifies, he or she is sent to an officer's training school.

After completing the 12-week school, the person is commissioned as a second lieutenant.

For those graduating seniors who would like to travel to foreign countries, the Peace Corps may hold the answer. People who want to join the Peace Corps should have at least an associate's or a bachelor's degree, said Tim Lang, Peace Corps recruiter.

"People who have a degree in agriculture, engineering or teaching have the best chance for a position," Lang said.

THE COUNTRIES have to request that the United States send Peace Corps volunteers, he continued, and more countries are asking for specialists instead of general volunteers.

The Peace Corps has 5,500 people serving in foreign countries.

The Peace Corps gets 170,000 inquiries a year, and out of those 170,000, 20,000 people apply for the 2,500 positions, Lang said.

The Peace Corps sends volunteers to three different regions of the world: Africa, Latin America and Asia/Pacific.

"LATELY, THEY'VE been sending more people to Africa and Latin America," Lang said.

People who want to join the Peace Corps need to pick up and fill out an application. A recruiter will then interview the applicant, and decide if the person is qualified.

If the person is qualified, the application is forwarded to the national office in Washington, D.C. The applicant then receives a list of countries and job opportunities in those countries, which she can either accept or reject.

ONCE THE country has been decided on, the volunteer will spend three months in training, usually in the country itself. When the training is complete, the two-year tour of duty begins.

At the end of two years, the volunteer is given approximately $4,500 from the U.S. government as a "readjustment allowance," Lang said.

Nuclear physics equipment may be used to date relics

By Jeff Curt
Staff Writer

Part of Harry Gove's job is playing a dating game. But he isn't an eligible bachelor and his prize isn't a trip to Lake Tahoe with a young woman. Gove's dating game involves Tandem Accelerator Mass Spectrometry.

Gove, professor of physics and astronomy at the University of Rochester, New York, spoke at SIU-C Thursday about using the Tandem Accelerator Mass Spectrometer for dating historical relics. A spectrometer is a large, tank-shaped device used in nuclear physics that Gove has in his New York lab.

ONE RELIC Gove hopes to get a chance to date is the Shroud of Turin, the 14-by-7-foot cloth which supposedly houses a three-dimensional imprint of Christ. He would also like to date a piece of wood archeologists found in Canada that might have been from a Viking campfire. If dated old enough, the wood may prove unofficially that Columbus did not discover North America.

Conventional methods of carbon dating require large samples, Gove said. The Shroud of Turin would be mutilated if it was dated by conventional methods, for example, because it would require a piece of cloth "the size of a handkerchief," Gove said. The spectrometer, on the other hand, requires only a grain of sample.

THE SPECTROMETER also takes only 15 minutes to get an accurate aging, whereas conventional methods take up to 12 hours, Gove added. The spectrometer costs about the same as current carbon dating methods as well.

A baby woolly mammoth pulled from a Siberian peat bog was aged at about 27,000 years old with the spectrometer. A mummy cloth from an Egyptian grave had an age of 22,000 years. The spectrometer has also dated fossils from the Koster archaeological site in Western Illinois.

Gove said he might be able to get a sample from the Shroud of Turin this year from the Roman Catholic Church in Italy, where the cloth is located. While the church has never labeled the shroud as a true religious relic, it will still cause havoc among some Christian believers if its age dates it after the time of Christ, Gove said.

"THE CHURCH has to be concerned that a lot of people believe in the shroud," he said.

However, Gove said, if the cloth does turn out to have come around the time of Christ, that still doesn't mean it is the image of Christ — it "just ups the odds."

Although the image on the shroud is of a crucified man with a wound in his chest, no one has been able to prove yet that the image is in fact Christ, Gove said. He said the blood marks on the shroud could have been created with iron oxide.

Law team fourth in court finals

The SIU School of Law team placed fourth in the national finals of the 26th annual Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition in New York April 22-27.

The five-student team, which won the Midwest regional in February, finished behind Southwestern University, Tulane University and the University of Denver.

William J. Knapp, captain of the SIU team, won fourth place in the "individual oralist" competition. Knapp won the 1984 regional competition for the best oral presentation.

In the semi-final rounds, SIU defeated the University of Connecticut, New York Law School and Northwestern University, but lost to Denver.

Winners of the national and international divisions competed in the Jessup Cup Round April 27.

Men netters place second at MVC tourney

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

Paced by No. 1 singles player Per Wadmark, the SIU-C men's tennis team finished second at the Missouri Valley Conference tournament at Tulsa, Okla., this weekend.

Wadmark, a junior from Malmo, Sweden, defeated three opponents to claim the conference singles title. Wadmark improved his record to 19-12 with the victories and became the first Saluki to win the No. 1 singles crown since flight play was introduced.

"This means he has a good shot at qualifying as one of the top four seeds from the (Midwest) region for the NCAA tournament," Saluki coach Dick LeFevre said.

The NCAA has divided the country into eight regions and four players from each region are seeded into the singles championship. An additional 32 players are chosen at-large. Wadmark opened play by defeating John Tokas of Tulsa 6-2, 6-2. He then beat the flight one top-seed, Chris Mease of West Texas State, 6-4, 7-6. He defeated Andy Castle of Wichita State 7-6, 7-6 for the championship.

Wichita State won the tournament handily. SIU-C overcame West Texas State and Tulsa for second place.

The Salukis failed to win a championship in any of the remaining five singles or three doubles flights, but Rollie Oliquino and Scott Krueger reached the finals at No. 4 and No. 5 singles, respectively.

Oliquino opened play by beating Rod Dorman of Tulsa 6-1, 6-1. He defeated Brad Huff of Tulsa in the semifinals before losing to top-seeded Stephen Salthouse of Wichita State 4-6, 7-6, 6-4 in the finals.

Krueger began play by defeating Alex Prior of Drake

Per Wadmark

Grubi of Wichita State 6-3, 6-4 in the semifinals.

Chris Visconti lost his opening-round match at No. 3 singles, falling to top-seeded Chris Braaten of Wichita State 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Lars Nilsson advanced to the semifinals at No. 6 singles, defeating Rod Gurolnick of Illinois State 6-3, 6-1 before losing to Paul Rosenich of Wichita State 6-2, 6-4.

The Salukis could not advance any further than the semifinals in any of the three doubles flights.

The No. 1 doubles team of Wadmark and Oliquino won its opening round match before losing to Mease and Ed Drose of West Texas State 7-5, 6-4. At No. 2 doubles, Coch and Nilsson lost to Castle and Salthouse of Wichita State 6-4, 6-3.

The No. 3 doubles team of Krueger and Visconti also won its opening-round match before losing to Tulsa's Mark Schiller and Russell Warner 6-4, 6-4 in the semifinals.

"We feel real good about our performance," LeFevre said. "We had three guys in the finals and it was the best finish and the most points we've had since we last won the tournament in 1977."

LaPoint guns down Cardinals 5-0

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Dave LaPoint hurled his second career shutout Sunday and hit a run-scoring double to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 5-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

LaPoint limited his former teammates to six hit while picking up his first victory of the season against four losses. LaPoint struck out six and walked two.

Joaquin Andujar, 4-1, suffered his first loss to end a personal four-game winning streak. Andujar, who had pitched complete games in his last two starts, lasted just 4 1-3 innings. He allowed five runs and seven hits while striking out four.

Two errant pick off throws by Andujar helped the Giants open the scoring in the second inning. Chili Davis singled and advanced two bases on two bad pickoff throws. Chris Brown, who had walked, took second on Andujar's second error. Davis scored on a fielder's choice by Gary Rutledge and Rob Deer dove in Brown with a sacrifice fly to give San Francisco a 2-0 lead.

The Giants chased Andujar with a three-run fifth when they sent eight men to bat.

6-0, 6-1. He upended Karim Radi of Tulsa 6-4, 6-4 in the semifinals before losing to Brent Fields 6-3, 6-2 in the finals.

Gabriel Coch won his opening match at No. 2 singles 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 over Richard Alexander of Tulsa before losing to top-seeded Jeremy LaPoint hit a one-out double to drive in Deer who had singled. Jose Uribe singled LaPoint to third and Brad Wellman drove in LaPoint with a single. Jeff Leonard scored Uribe with the Giants' fifth run.

Ken Daley relieved Andujar and ended the inning when he got Brown to hit into a double play after intentionally walking Davis.

St. Louis' best chance to score came in the second inning when Willie McGee led off with a triple. McGee tried to score on Terry Pendleton's ground ball to third but got thrown out on a run down.

Evans' blast lifts Tigers past Sox

DETROIT (UPI) — Darrell Evans smacked a two-run homer into the upper deck to cap a three-run sixth inning Sunday that gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Juan Berenguer, who gave up two of his four hits and all three runs in the first, went the first six innings to even his record at 1-1. Aurelio Lopez pitched the seventh inning and Willie Hernandez finished up for his fifth save.

Detroit trailed 3-1 when Lou Whitaker and Alan Trammell opened the sixth with singles off loser Rich Dotson, 0-1, who had just given up just two hits prior to the inning.

Whitaker scored when Kirk Gibson forced Trammell but Evans, who came to the plate hitting .185, lined his second home run of the season into the upper deck in right. With one swing, Evans equalled his home run and RBI output for his first 18 games.

Dotson retired the first 10 batters he faced before walking Trammell, who was erased on a double play. Larry Herndon walked with two out in the fifth and scored on the first two hits off Dotson.

Men's track and field team falls to Illinois in dual meet

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

The University of Illinois snapped a five-meet losing streak to the SIU-C men's track and field team Saturday as the Illini defeated the Salukis 83-71 in a dual meet at McAndrew Stadium.

SIU-C has dominated the long rivalry, winning 12 of the last 13 dual meetings between the two schools. But the Illini won the opening two events to gain a lead they would never relinquish.

The meet was the last home appearance for Michael Franks, the Salukis' senior world-class sprinter and the NCAA indoor champion in the 400-meter dash. Franks has already qualified for the NCAA Outdoor Championships in the 400-meter dash.

Franks competed individually in the 100- and 200-meter dashes at Saturday's meet. He was attempting to break Ivory Crockett's stadium record of 20.84 in the 200-meter dash, but had to settle for a first-place finish with a time of 20.96. Steve Tyson of Illinois placed second with a 21.88.

Franks won the 100-meter dash with a 10.50. He also ran the anchor leg for the Salukis in the 4 x 400-meter dash and earned a come-from-behind victory for SIU-C by passing Illinois' Tim Simon in the final 100 meters to win the 3:10.15.

The Salukis also had several other first-place finishes and continued to receive strong performances from their large freshman class.

Steve Breathett led the way for the freshmen, winning the long jump with an effort of 23 feet, 11 inches. He was also a member of the winning 4 x 400-meter relay team.

Other winners for SIU-C included senior Gregg Stickney in the high jump with a 6-10; Mike Elliott in the 800-meter run with time of 1:50.49;

Mo Crawford in the triple jump with a 47-1.5; Senior Tom Smith in the shot put with a 57-0.5; and Bill Henning in the javelin with a 188-3.

Second-place finishers for SIU-C included Henning in the 110-meter high hurdles and high jump; Ron Harrer in the discus and javelin; Roy Birch in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles; and Andy Geiger in the pole vault.

Illinois was led by Mike Patton, who won the 3,000-meter steeplechase with a 9:17.38. The Illini 4 x 100-meter relay team, paced by Simon and Lester Washington also took first place, turning in a time of 40.7.

The dual meet served as the Salukis' only home meet of the season. SIU-C will return to action next weekend when it competes in the Missouri Valley Conference Outdoor Championships at Des Moines, Iowa.

Baseball team swept by Indiana State; ends year with losing mark

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

The baseball Salukis did what appeared to be impossible two weeks ago, by finishing the year under .500, after losing four games at Indiana State this weekend to close out the season with a school-record 12 consecutive losses.

The Salukis, who were 28-17 before their recent skid, fell 9-3 and 7-5 at Terre Haute, Ind., Sunday after dropping a pair of contests to the Sycamores Saturday, dropping their final record to 28-29, and winding up in the Missouri Valley Conference cellar with a 5-15 mark.

Gerald Pitchford homered in each game for the Salukis to tie Robert Jones for the team leadership with 11, but SIU-C's pitchers couldn't tame ISU, which finished its regular season with a 53-20 record.

The Sycamores finished 15-5 in MVC play, but Wichita State, also 15-5, will host the MVC tournament next weekend, having swept four games from ISU. Bradley finished in third, with Creighton and Illinois State battling for the fourth and final tournament spot. Creighton finished Valley play with a 7-13 record and Illinois State was 6-12 entering a double-header Sunday against Bradley.

Gary Bockhorn lasted only two-thirds of an inning for SIU-

C in game two, as the Sycamores jumped out in front 4-1 after one inning. The Salukis tied the game in the second on Pitchford's three-run homer, but John Scott, who replaced Bockhorn in the first, was touched for two runs in the second and suffered the loss.

The Sycamores, who had 16 hits in the second contest, scored another run in the fifth to go up 7-4, and John Howes, 11-0, picked up the win after pitching four innings in relief of Paul Quinzer.

Todd Neibel suffered the loss for SIU-C in the first game, giving up seven runs and nine hits in five innings, while Nick Klemp, who went the distance, improved his record to 6-0 for ISU.

Saturday's double-header loss eliminated the Salukis' already slim chances of qualifying for the MVC tourney as their losing streak reached 10 games.

The first contest was close until the Sycamores busted it open with four runs in the bottom of the fifth to go up 7-2. SIU-C had taken a 1-0 lead in the second inning on Kevin Pour's home run to center field, his second of the year.

In the third inning of game one, ISU's No. 8 hitter Tom Pease led off with a double to left and scored on a single by shortstop Dan Roman to tie the score at 1-1. The next two batters hit a triple and a double off of Mark Wooden and the score was 3-1 with still no outs. Wooden, 3-4, then retired the next three batters to keep the game close.

The Salukis got within a run in the fourth inning when Jim Limperis walked with the bases loaded, but ISU's four-run fifth put the game away.

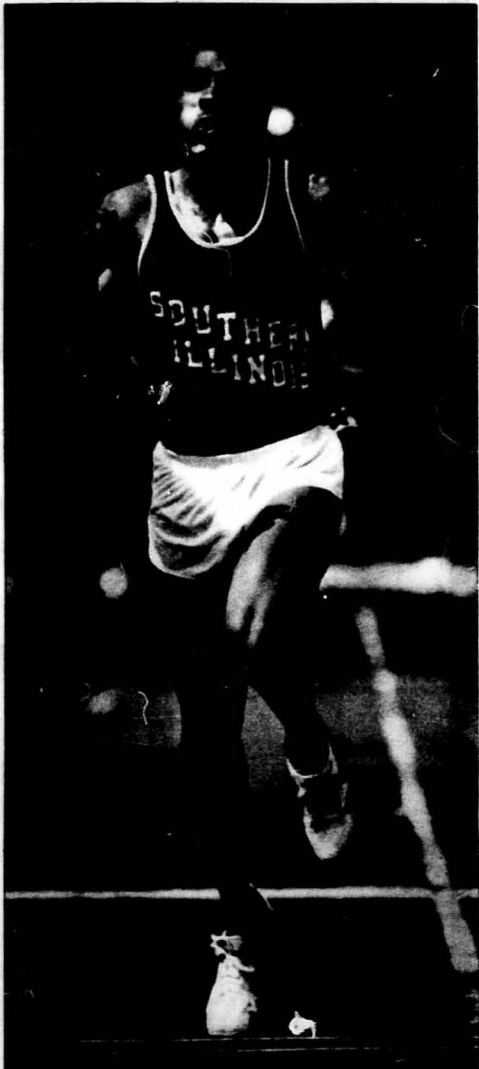

A two-run opposite field homer by Boi Rodriguez capped off the Sycamores' scoring in the fifth, and knocked Wooden from the game. It was Rodriguez's 18th round-tripper of the year, and ISU's 101st as a team.

The Salukis attempted a comeback in the top of the seventh, loading the bases with nobody out, but came away with just one run on a sacrifice fly by Robert Jones, making the final 7-3.

Left-hander Blaise Ilsley worked 6.1 innings and improved his record to 11-3 on the year for the Sycamores.

Game two was never close as ISU scored four runs in the second and four more in the fourth, while Andy Ghelfi pitched a one-hitter against SIU-C.

Catcher Mike Eberle's three-run homer off Pour, 3-4, in the second inning was all the support Ghelfi needed. The Salukis failed to reach third base against Ghelfi, 6-5, and Mike Gellinger's bloop single to left center after the first 10 Salukis had been retired.

Michael Franks competed in the 200-meter dash during the meet Saturday. He won the event with a time of 20.96.

Stuck to name 3 finalists

Dean Stuck, SIU-C special assistant for intercollegiate athletics, will announce three finalists for the position of head coach of the men's basketball team within the next 48 hours, he said Sunday.

Stuck and an eight-member advisory panel interviewed eight candidates for the job in St. Louis Thursday and Friday. Stuck said the group will meet to decide on the three finalists.

"Late Monday or early Tuesday morning I will release three names," Stuck said. "That's my intention now."

However, Stuck said he would be unable to meet the goal of naming a new coach before the end of the spring semester. He said the final decision will be made in the next several weeks.

The job opened April 9 when Allen Van Winkle resigned after holding the position for four seasons. Herman Williams, a former assistant for Van Winkle and the current interim coordinator of the program, was one of the eight candidates interviewed, but Stuck refused to say whether Williams would be among the three finalists.

Softball Salukis split four conference contests

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Despite solid pitching performances from freshman pitchers Lisa Peterson and Kelly Powell, the Saluki softball team split in a pair of double-headers this weekend, ending the regular season on somewhat of a disappointing note.

The Salukis won the first end of a double-header 3-0 Friday against Indiana State before falling in the nightcap by a score of 3-1.

Peterson, 11-8 on the season, threw for her second consecutive shutout and her fifth of the year, holding the Sycamores scoreless on four hits. Peterson has now allowed just six hits over her last two starts.

After some sparkling defense by Saluki third baseman Kim Bruno, SIU-C started the scoring in the third when Bruno led-off with a single. D.D. Plab then followed with another single, and both runners scored on Rhonda Snow's triple to center field.

The Salukis added three more runs in the sixth when Becky Rickenbaugh got an RBI single and catcher Jan Vroman singled in two more.

The Saluki bats failed to produce in the second game, managing just one run on five hits. Powell, coming off a shutout performance Monday night against SIU-E, took the loss to go 10-8 on the year.

"Powell pitched an outstanding game — she only allowed three hits, but they all came back-to-back in the same inning," SIU-C coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said.

On Saturday, the Salukis played host to conference leader and long-time rival Illinois State.

The first game turned into a pitching duel between Peterson and the Redbirds' Lori Vogel. Both pitchers threw one-hitters through the first five innings. The Redbirds then put three hits together and scored in the top of the seventh.
