STUDENT HEALTH SERVICE

The student body of S. I. N. U. is becoming increasingly disgruntled over the inefficiency of the present student health service. Some of the questions they are asking are not easy to answer in any logical terms. They want to know: "Why do we have to walk a mile to town to get attention for a simple head cold?"

COMMITTEE SAYS SYSTEM OF PRIVATE PROPERTY IS LIKELY TO CONTINUE IN MANY PHASES

Point number two in the American Council Central Committee's Fram of Reference, reads "The system of private property is likely to continue for some time to come."

1. The system of private property in many of its phases is likely to continue for some time to come. A. The term private property refers not to one concept, but rather to at least three ideas. 1. Tangible: This term refers to physical property, such as real estate and personal property. 2. Intangible: This term refers to ownership of property, such as bank accounts, mortgages, bonds, patents, copyrights, and the right to contract. 3. Equities: This term refers to the shares of ownership in business enterprises organized under the corporate form.

To the Editor: I wish to take this means to thank everyone who had an active part in carrying out the $500000 National Student Health Study on my college last year.

ANOTHER DREAM COMES TRUE

Another dream comes true as S. I. N. U. makes plans to build, after years of waiting, a new training school. The Normal School Board has set aside $500,000 for the purchase of the land and construction of the new building.

Dr. Suhrie Says College Assemblies Are Not For Long Speeches, Prayers

By IRL SCHAEFER. Assemblies are not for the President to make long speeches... Assemblies are not for long speeches, prayers, or other activities... Assemblies should be short... Assemblies should be held at least once each day.

What changes will occur in the concept of private property can only be conjectured since social theories develop over long periods of time.

1. Tangible: The ownership of physical property for personal use will probably continue even under a different economic or political system. 2. Intangible: From the preceding discussion it seems clear that in this area there is likely to be considerable change of opinion. 3. Equities: The impossible situation of ownership minus legal responsibility has been the basis of many studies and investigations.

Summary of Discussions On Problems of a Teachers' College

Dr. Ambrise L. Sutrilo, professor and chairman of the department of teachers' college education at New York University, was on this campus May 15-17, working as consultant to S. I. N. from the Commission on Teacher Education.

He met with several groups in a series of discussion meetings to give advisory service regarding the many problems which a teacher training institution must face.

Today we find teacher training institutions taking on fifty other functions besides the one it is intended to perform, and the real purpose becomes summarized.

In Southern Illinois you have people upon you to do other things. There are no other colleges near you, and you have an exclusive hold in this area.

It is not when we take from this school, but what we bring to it that makes it a good school and helps it, commented Dr. Sutrilo in discussing school spirit at a meeting of freshmen and sophomore sponsors.

SINU Democratic Convention Proves Marvelous Demonstration of Cooperation

By NADINE DAUDERMAN.

Until it happened, it was just very vaguely, "some sort of convention the students are going to try to put on" or more formally, "a mock Democratic convention, I believe, but, of course it is much too big a thing for a group of college people to undertake."

But it wasn't too tremendous for this group of college students, and they proved it! They proved it with one of the most marvelous demonstrations of student cooperation and participation this campus has ever known! The words of one appreciative faculty member, "I marveled at the completeness of cooperation."

There appeared to be no dissention from any but student leaders. The entire affair was student managed! It was the best example of this type of thing I have ever seen, and the students deserve all the credit for the winning effort and responsible for the convention is the Y. M. C. A. Members of that group worked out the intricate plans, enlisted the help of campus leaders, and arranged for the speakers. A great deal of credit should go to them for the winning effort and downright hard work it must have involved to make it a really worthwhile experience and not just a very poor imitation of the real thing.

And so, our convention was student planned, it was student executed, it was student participated, and student as well as faculty appreciated! It is something which will be to all who attended, a valuable unforgettable experience—and frankly, we're sorry for those who missed it!

BEAUTY IS SKIN DEEP

In an effort to keep that school girl complexion and the skin you love to touch, Marjoe P. Bynum has taken up the bid of Olive Oil in the morning. How is it known? She has done after her own informal tips leads de-ordering after each of the beauty applications.

TIME TO CHANGE

Florry Kuntz, blonde and demostriating, has changed from the doorway to the Stream way. In less than no time after her two informal trips into the wattery loveliness of the Lake Campus, Florry was a visitant into waters located at Fountain Bluff, Ark. Variety is the splash of life! Afterthought: It's said that her sleeks, be they short or long, stood up by themselves after her casual visit.

Shall we suggest Crab Orchard Lake for your next visitation, Florry?

CUFF NOTE

Mrs. Muzzezy and Bynum have taken on upon themselves an individual tournament of bridge tennis.

HAND SHUFFLING

Phenomenon! Anna Mary Scholze, of the sixth hour freshmen minor class, under the direction of Miss Bynum, not only pitches but while doing so takes every other throw.

Incidentally, Georgia Gram of Miss Davies' second hour is unable to attend school because she has contracted the mumps. Here's to a quick recovery!

REMEMBER... NOW!

During the football tennis match in which Miss Davies and Mita Merced formed the team, there was a sudden pause that refreshes after the eighth game in the first set. The opposing team waited at their baselines to the Davies-Merced faction to serve, however, the only thing that greeted their eyes were two head-banging net teams, each connected. After a few minutes that seemed eternity for sure, Miss Davies and Miss Merced burst into characteristic laughter and exclaimed, "We don't know whose serve it is!"

CONVERSATION

"How did you pronounce horse?"

"Just like Koutackians!" We went to ask "how she pronounced it?"

"Why is she from Koutack?"

"Of course, Shawnooonta!"

Oh well, Miss Davies has long lived in Southern Illinois so she's been there.

Tournaments! Tournaments!

Gee, oh zosh, all we hear is tournaments, tournaments and more tournaments! But they're a lot of fun! Think of the fun we had when there were so many. Each court brought on new faces and correspondingly new fun. Then came the table tennis tourney with opportunity for meeting still different personalities. It didn't make much ado whether we won or lost, for we had such a merry time.

Next came the badminton and tennis competitive activities and wouldn't make up our minds when we could see enter. Someone was happy enough to forgive the difficulties and changed the tennis tournament to the badminton one. Although we didn't know a great deal about either of the games, it made no difference because our helpful P. E. instructors were to encourage us.

Finally we decided to enter the tennis tournament but they were too busy to sign up before there were any.

Are we sorry we entered the tournaments? No, of course not! There is we didn't all become champions, but just the same we put up a call that night and caused the champions to be a little bit of trouble on the way to the top. They're pretty like members of Gattling, Westwood's 2nd 2nd Normal teams are certainly glad they entered the race. There also there are those happy individual champions such as Eileen Ketter, queen of the tennis court; Maxine Bearden, tennis player; and status of badminton.

Just ask them if they didn't enjoy the moments they spent in the tournaments. Don't let another tournament slip by without having staved some of the fun they've had. It's a fact on the bulletin boards in the "Jill Who Knows?" You may be the next champ.

Thinclads Compete In Illinois Intercollegiate Meet Today

CONFERENCE NET MEET SCHEDULED THIS WEEK-END

Bruce Church, Max Sekardi, Jack Cox, and Verdie Cox Travel to Normal

Coach C. D. Tenney and his tennis men terminate another successful season this week-end when they participate in the annual IAC tennis tournament which is held in conjunction with the Little Nineteen College track and field meet.

Last year Southern dominated the tournament by taking first and second places in the doubles competition. Bruce Church and Max Sekardi won the tourney last year and they will probably be representing Southern again this week-end.

The singles tournament last year was won by Benoit Green of Normal Green. He has been named as captain of the team.

Bruce Church Captures First, Jack Cox, Third, In Midwestern Teachers Tennis Tournament

Cox Brothers, Jack and Verdie, Take Doubles Crown While Church and Sekardi Team for Third Place

The first annual Midwestern Teachers College tennis tournament was played on the Southern courts last Friday and Saturday and Southern's tennis team, which has won eight consecutive dual meets this season, captured first and third places in both the singles and doubles competition.

Eastern is being this year but will have one dangerous man in the singles. Bob Mirus is a veteran and will give anyone a battle.

Eastern is being this year but will have one dangerous man in the singles. Bob Mirus is a veteran and will give anyone a battle. Max Sekardi is a junior from Pontiac, Michigan, who will be the other Southern representative.

Since Leland P. "Doc" Light's debut back in 1927, Southern's track success has been little short of phenomenal. Under his guidance, the Maroon thinclads have become one of the outstanding squads of the Midwest.

"Doc" returned to his plan-making office every four years in St. Louis, Missouri. Having one year of college work to complete, he did not take over the helm until 1927. During that year, Southern engaged in two dual meets, one with Cape Girardeau and another with Shurliff.

Even greater history has been written about the Illinois State Teachers College Eastern, which was the only school who has gained a victory over the Linclamen. Competing in twelve Teachers' College track meets, "Doc" has guided his boys to nine firsts, two seconds, and one third. Southern also won the IAC track in 1938 and finished second in 1939.

Practically all of Carbondale's defeats have been at the hands of the Cape Girardeau. From 1927 until 1939, the Missouri school would not relinquish a single victory to their Illinois invaders. However, last year the Maroons were successful in a return meet at Houck Field.

Southern has turned out many notable athletes in the past thirty years. Among them are mentioned such outstanding men as Eugene Payton, dashman, Dave Aiken, high and low hurdle expert, and Charles Stuesz, quarterback. These men have established records that as yet are unchallenged.

Following is a list of men who have been outstanding in their field and some of Southern's all-time records: Allan Sutton, 1937, 880 yd. hurdles, 34 seconds.

Zengue Payton, 1937, Charles Stuesz, 1938, 220 yd. dash, 21.4; Dayton Aiken, 1931, two mile, 16 minutes, 17 seconds.

A new record of 136 was set last Thursday, May 16, in the noonday prayer meeting of the Baptist Student Union.

Although the noonday prayer meeting has often had an attendance of nearly 100 during the year, 136 is the largest number yet to attend. Although most of those present were members of the unit organizations of the Baptist Student Union, a large number of Methodists were also present.

THE PLAY'S THE TRING

By TOM WRIGHT.
"EDISON THE MAN"
(Sun.-Mon.)

"Edison the Man" is a picture that will long be remembered for Spencer Tracy's magnificent performance in the title role and Clarence Brown's astute direction. Director and actor have combined their talents to make a picture which is worthy of consideration from every man and woman. Spencer Tracy as Thomas A. Edison surpasses his performance in "Captains Courageous," "Honeytown," and "Northwest Passage."

Producer-director Clarence Brown has consistently stressed the truth and reduces fictional incidents to a minimum. He tries to avoid glamorizing a man who doesn't need it. Director Brown does not overvalue his picture with too much emphasis on Edison's career, but strikes a happy medium by introducing his romance with Mary Stillwell. This in no way interferes with the main course of events, but rather adds a human touch.

This picture is a sequel to "Young Tom Edison" in which Mickey Rooney played Edison as a boy. Spencer Tracy takes over where Edison as a young man arrives in New York to take a job. His deep interest in electricity and its possibilities soon leads him into a series of experiments on his own account. Edison's first notable invention was an automatic stock ticker for which he received $40,000. His most famous inventions were the motion picture camera, the phonograph and the electric light. The climax of his career was the making of the first electric light. His courage and faith in the face of discouragements that would have broken a lesser man is a shining example which no American will soon forget. No little credit should go to Charles Coburn, Gene Lockhart, Lynn Overman, and Felix Bressart for their fine characterizations. Rita Johnson is brilliantly cast as Mary Stillwell, the woman who played such an important part in Edison's life.

"EDISON THE MAN"
(Wed.-Thurs.)

"Typhoon" is a technicolor picture about the South Seas. Dorothy Lamour in a sarong and Robert Preston are cast as the idyllic lovers. Lynn Overman is comic support and J. Carroll Nash is a villainous villain. There is not much to recommend the picture, but it has a spectacularly staged tropical storm which is an eyelet in technicolor.

Bureau of Child Guidance Staff Observes Clinics at Chicago Meeting

As a cooperative enterprise between the American Council on Education and S. I. N. U., the members of the Bureau of Child Guidance were in Chicago during the week of May 6 observing clinical work as it is carried on in a number of institutions.

Approximately two days of the week were spent at the Chicago Institute for Juvenile Research. Staff members from the Institute representing this department explained its functions.

Conferences were held with Dr. Paul V. Schneider, director of the Institute, relative to clinical organizations as they may come to be developed in teachers' colleges.

At another conference, members of the Institute and a representative from the clinic at the state teachers' college at DeKalb, together with the Carbondale Branch, evaluated clinical procedures in the two teachers' colleges. In addition to DeKalb and Carbondale, Macomb is also associated with the Chicago Institute for Juvenile Research.

Observations were made at the Illinois Research and Education Hospital, Billings hospital, the Orthopedic school, and Student Health Service of the University of Chicago, and the Bureau of Child Study as a part of the Chicago public school system. In practically all instances, conferences were held with the psychiatrist in charge of the work and in a number of cases, staffings were attended.

The detailed arrangements for the observational studies had been made by Mrs. Augusta Jamison, senior psychologist of the I. U. who is associated with the Carbondale clinic and who has addressed a number of audiences on this campus.

Members of the local Bureau making the observations were Dr. Marie A. Hinrichs, Miss Florence Deany, Mrs. Wanda Newman Gunn, Dr. Douglas E. Lawson, and Dr. W. A. Thimman.
