Signs point to Reagan win; other races still close

By The Associated Press

U.S. Sen. Charles Percy and Rep. Paul Simon crisscrossed Illinois on Monday making election-eve appeals for votes in their red-hot Senate race, while the Chicago Democratic organization geared up for a turnout party leaders promised would carry the state for Simon and presidential candidate Walter Mondale.

Most signs pointed to a solid win for President Reagan in his native state, but indicated that Republican Percy was in danger of losing his seat to Simon in a race seen as too close to call.

Speaking of the presidential contest, state Democratic chairman Cal Sutker said: "It's going to be an eyelash between the two of them. Reports are coming in that there's an impetus toward Mondale that some people are startled about.

"The polls have misread the inherent strength of the Democratic Party," said Sutker, referring to surveys showing Reagan leading by as many as 18 percentage points in Illinois.

A poll released Monday night by WCIA-TV in Champaign had Reagan ahead 57-39 with 3 percent undecided. The station based its results on interviews with 360 registered voters who said they were likely to cast ballots.

The survey had Percy ahead 50-45, but that was within the poll's 5 percent margin of error.

Weather forecasters predicted a sunny, cool day across the state that could help produce what's expected to be a record turnout in Tuesday's balloting.

U.S. Rep. Paul Simon said Monday night that the latest Chicago Sun-Times poll showed him gaining on his opponent, U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, with 49 percent of those polled favoring Simon. He spoke to about 150 supporters.

Simon has obscured issues, Percy says

By Jay Schmitz Staff Writer

Sen. Charles Percy, making one last tour of Illinois before Election Day, charged his opponent, Paul Simon, with obscuring the issues by conducting a name-calling campaign.

Percy began a final seven-city campaign swing through the state with a press conference at Southern Illinois Airport Monday morning.

He said that it was difficult for voters to clearly identify the issues in the campaign, because his Democrat opponent has "obscured the issues by name calling."

"I have never called Paul Simon a name," Percy said. He said that his ad campaign has only pointed out how Simon voted during his tenure in Congress.

Simon, who was en route to Southern Illinois Monday, was unavailable for comment. Bruce Fisher, Simon's press secretary, disputed Percy's charges.

"Percy unleashed a long string of terribly distorted ads," Fisher said. "We had to go on the air to refute them. I suppose these rebuttals are being called 'name-calling' by Percy."

Percy also denounced the campaign by California businessman Michael Goland, who has suggested that Percy does not support Israel or the handicapped.

"If there is one thing that I have always done, it is work for the disabled," he said. "There are some out-of-state special interest groups after Chuck Percy."

He attacked "outside money" being contributed to Simon's campaign, saying "I don't want outside forces telling our senator what to do."

Fisher said that Percy's campaign fund isn't all Illinois money, either.

Percy said that the current campaign was "the most exciting and challenging campaign I'll ever be in." He said that he and Simon were diametrically opposed on many issues.

"I voted for tax cuts of 20 percent, which he voted against. Now he wants to raise your taxes by $200 billion in the next four years," he said.

Percy said that Simon also opposed removing "unfair" marriage tax penalties and fought against reducing inheritance taxes.

Fisher disputed these charges, saying Simon had not opposed revising the marriage penalty or inheritance tax laws.

In reference to recent ads aired by the Simon campaign stating Percy wanted to travel abroad more to keep in touch with the world, the senator said that the only plans he had for foreign travel "would be to secure trade agreements for Illinois."

"I would only travel to bring back the bacon" for Illinois, he said.

Fisher said that the Simon campaign had placed the ads after finding a newspaper article which quoted Percy as saying he wanted to travel because he was "getting out of touch with the world."

Cut in Rec Center hours to be recommended

By Karen Wiltberger Staff Writer

A gradual reduction of Recreation Center programs and hours may begin as soon as next week to build up a dwindling budget balance and to provide extra revenue for next year's higher inflation costs, said William Bleyer, director of intramural recreation sports.

The Intramural-Recreation Sports Advisory Committee will meet Tuesday to discuss and make recommendations for immediate program and hour reductions based on plans for $6 and $8 recreation fee increase proposals for the 1985-86 year. The open meeting is scheduled for 4 p.m. at the Recreation Center conference room.

The committee, which represents 10 organizations, has recommended an $8 fee increase, while the Graduate and Professional Council has recommended a $6 fee increase. The Undergraduate Student Organization is scheduled to vote on a $6 fee increase proposal Wednesday.

"We will definitely be making some adjustments," Bleyer said, adding that exact changes will be based from recommendations of the committee and intramural recreational sports staff. He said the move would be a gradual step to the final program and hour reductions for next year, which will depend on the fee increase approved by the Board of Trustees.

Bleyer said the staff has suggested an 11 and a half hour per week reduction for weekend hours, which could begin as early as next Friday. He said under the proposal, the center would close at 8 p.m., instead of 10 p.m. on Fridays; Saturday hours would be 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., instead of 9:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sunday hours would be 1 p.m. to 8 p.m., instead of 9:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Bleyer said the staff hasn't suggested major immediate adjustments in programs, but changes that could be implemented without creating a disturbance including a slight reduction in supervisor and referee hours and elimination of some programs that aren't utilized.

Bleyer said immediate operating reductions would generate additional funds for a dwindling $4,000 balance budget used for emergencies and "extraordinary expenses."

Reagan, Mondale make final statements

By The Associated Press

Ronald Reagan and Walter F. Mondale played out the final scenes Monday of a year-long campaign drama, the president saying his work in Washington has "only just begun" and the Democratic challenger charging that if victorious, Republicans would claim a "historic mandate" to raise taxes and send combat troops to Central America.

The president, ending his final campaign with a nostalgic tour of California, said the conservative "prairie fire" he promised to ignite two decades ago had now swept the nation.

"It was the second American Revolution, and it's only just begun," he said. Listing his goals for a second term, he said, "No. 1 of all is peace, disarmament and the reduction of world nuclear weapons."

His underdog challenger implored a crowd in Los Angeles to provide the votes for "the biggest upset ever ... We can prove that a president who insults our intelligence every day will pay the price on Election Day," he said.

The polls showed Mondale gaining in the campaign's final hours, but despite that, and for all the crowds he drew along his way, he trailed Reagan by runaway margins in nearly every reckoning save his own. "We're gonna win," he claimed, with vice presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro virtually the only voice seconding him.

A political pioneer, Ferraro was in the final hours of her campaign, as well, racing from Ohio to Pennsylvania to New Jersey to New York with her message: "Stand up and fight for Fritz Mondale."

Anti-Sikh violence in India continues to plague country

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The ashes of Indira Gandhi were sent out to the distant corners of India Monday as her son and successor struggled to keep new violence from flaring across this bloodied, embittered land. The worst of the deadly anti-Sikh reprisals for Prime Minister Gandhi's assassination subsided over the weekend, but at least three people were reported killed Monday in New Delhi and other deaths were reported in Sikh-populated Punjab state. Rajiv Gandhi, the new prime minister, asked the Indian Supreme Court's chief justice, Y.V. Chandrachud, to head a commission to investigate Mrs. Gandhi's slaying last Wednesday by two men identified as Sikh members of her security guard, the news agency United News of India said.

Sandinistas claim Nicaraguan election victory

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Despite a slow count, Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government on Monday announced a higher election turnout than expected and called it "a resounding 'no' to reaction and imperialism." Before any of the votes from Sunday's election had been tabulated, the government-controlled newspaper Barricada proclaimed "Victory for Sandino in Free Elections" in a banner headline Monday morning. At midmorning, the electoral council said that with 16 percent of the ballots counted, the Sandinistas' presidential candidate, Daniel Ortega, was leading with 68.1 percent of the vote.

Official charged with aiding in murder of priest

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Authorities charged an Interior Ministry colonel Monday with assisting in the kidnapping and murder of a pro-Solidarity priest. A dissident said church officials were keeping a "terrifying" autopsy report secret to maintain calm. The official news agency PAP carried an Interior Ministry communique saying Col. Adam Pietruszka had been arrested and charged with "aiding and abetting" in the kidnapping and killing of the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko.

U.S. offers Soviets anti-chemical weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. arms control officials are hoping for Soviet approval of a new anti-chemical weapons treaty which would give each of the superpowers the right to make unprecedented and wide-ranging inspections of the other side's military and government facilities. The proposed treaty, which has been offered by the United States at the ongoing 40-nation Geneva disarmament talks, is now the subject of intense discussion among U.S. allies, according to sources who spoke only on condition they not be identified.

Court upholds gag order in sex abuse trials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, breaking with the past, Monday refused to let four news outlets report names and whereabouts of two young Illinois girls who last July were accused of sexually abusing three children they baby-sat. Justices rejected, 6-3, an emergency request to lift a state judge's "gag order" and allow the news media to broadcast or publish information they already had gotten outside of court. Past Supreme Court decisions have said court-imposed prior restraints on reporting almost never are justified.

Fourteen-term congressman dies of cancer

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Harold Daniel Donohue, a 14-term congressman who served on the House Judiciary Committee during the Watergate scandal, has died at age 83. Donohue, who died Sunday at St. Vincent's Hospital, represented the 3rd District and the former 4th District in the U.S. House from 1946 until his retirement in 1974. The Democrat was a longtime Worcester resident and practiced law in the city when he was not in Washington. During his last year in Congress, Donohue concentrated on his duties in the Judiciary Committee which conducted the impeachment hearings against former President Richard Nixon.

Accident

Charles Guyer, 55, Makanda, was cited Sunday for failing to yield while turning left after his vehicle struck oncoming motorcyclist Michael Holst, 25, Carbondale, a representative of the Jackson County Sheriff's Office said. Guyer had stopped at the intersection of Giant City and Pleasant Hill roads. Police said he apparently became distracted while turning left and hit Holst, who was southbound. Holst was taken to Carbondale Memorial Hospital where he was listed in satisfactory condition with cuts, bruises and a dislocated hip.

Student directories set for Nov. 13 deliveries

By David Liss
Staff Writer

The Student Directory has not arrived in time for Election Day, which will take away some of the usefulness of the included listing of polling places, Undergraduate Student Organization president Andy Leighton said Monday.

"We were told last Friday that the directories were in St. Louis and on their way here," Leighton said.

The Student Directory is being put together through Information Publication Inc. in St. Louis, run by Ron Gross, he said. Gross handles the business end of putting the directory together, such as shipping and finding a publisher, he said. Gross received the camera-ready copy of the Directory on Oct. 23, Leighton said. The camera-ready copy is the final copy needed for publication.

"By contract the directory is not due until Nov. 13," Leighton said, but when he called St. Louis last week, Gross told him that the shipment of 12,000 directories was ready and would be sent Friday, Nov. 2. The shipment had still not arrived by Monday afternoon.

The new directory includes a listing of all the precincts and their polling places, Leighton said. The listing will still be useful for the upcoming city elections, he said, "but it would be nice if they were here by Tuesday."

The Student Directory was out by mid-October last year when Bruce Joseph was USO president. "That was probably the best year for the directory," Leighton said. However, the 1982-83 directory, put out under Jerry Cook's presidency, was not ready until late February.

There are two reasons why the directory is late this year, Leighton said. Gross had to find another publisher, he said, because the one who printed the directory last year had gone bankrupt.

Simon, Percy stump across state in last effort

CHICAGO (AP) — In the last day of their bruising $7.5 million race, Sen. Charles Percy urged Illinoisans on Monday to show "Chicago will not control the state" while rival Paul Simon hooked up with the city's premier Democrat, Mayor Harold Washington, in a final appeal for votes.

The candidates crisscrossed Illinois, making eleventh-hour pitches in what has evolved into one of the nastiest and tightest

Senate races in state history. Polls show the contest is too close to call but both candidates are predicting victory.

"I think it is going to be tight, but I think we're going to win," Simon said.

Simon, 55, a 10-year veteran of Congress, began his day with Washington, his former House colleague, at a South Side commuter train stop. The mayor predicted the Democrat is "going to run like wild fire — there's no question about it."

Meanwhile, Percy, 65, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, focused on the regional rivalries of Illinois in his pitch for votes.

"His (Simon's) only hope, only hope lies in Chicago and a big delivered machine vote by City Hall of Chicago ... and I think downstate, collar counties and the suburbs are really going to respond to that," Percy said in Peoria.

"This is the time downstate really must show City Hall of Chicago," said Percy, a Republican. "They must show that Chicago will not control the state."

Percy also pointed out that Washington reversed his position and ordered a paid holiday for 13,000 white-collar city employees, which allows many of them to work in the precincts Election Day.

"City Hall employees know their jobs depend on how they perform at the polls," he said.

Percy's comments came after a hectic weekend in which the city's two political heavyweights, Washington and his rival, Alderman Edward Vrdolyak, chairman of the Cook County Democratic Party, joined Simon in separate appearances on the campaign trail.

PATCHETT/CONGRESS

Paid for by the Patchett for Congress Committee

Democracy depends on informed voting

TODAY IS THE DAY that every American over the age of 18 gets the chance to help determine who runs the country for the next four years and, possibly, determine the fate of the United States.

The candidates have had their chance to score points with the voters. Some candidates are happy the exhausting campaign season is completed, while others are wishing they had just a few more days to persuade a few more voters to vote for them.

Analysts are predicting a high turnout at the polls, inspired in part by the record number of new voters signed up in a flourish of voter registration drives. In Jackson County, 8,032 people were registered by a coalition of 18 community civic groups, 40 Registered Student Organizations and the Undergraduate Student Organization. At SIU-C, 6,200 students, staff and faculty were added to voting rolls as the result of an intensive registration effort spearheaded by the USO.

BECAUSE OF THE REGISTRATION DRIVES, Jackson County has more registered voters than any other county in the 22nd Congressional District, making it one of the most important counties in downstate Illinois on election day.

It is important not only to exercise your right to vote, but to do so in an informed and thoughtful manner. Hopefully, voters have not fallen under the spell of the barrage of late-campaign advertising and mudslinging, but instead have studied the issues and the candidates' positions on the issues.

Modern campaigns have largely become exercises in persuasion through the mass media. Voters are subjected to an enormous amount of confusing political propaganda. In this era of high-technology campaigning, it is more important than ever to read between the spoon-fed lines of advertising.

Vote. And vote for a reason.

The Daily Egyptian endorses the following candidates for election to office:

For President and Vice President of the United States
(X) Walter F. Mondale and Geraldine A. Ferraro, Democrat

For United States Senator
(X) Paul Simon, Democrat

For Representative in Congress
22nd Congressional District
(X) Kenneth J. Gray, Democrat

For State Senator

(X) Ralph Dunn, Republican

Gandhi victim of factional politics

I would like to focus on the report in the Daily Egyptian regarding the tragic assassination of Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. While I strongly condemn this brutal and barbaric act, I find it rather distressing that the report suggested Mr. G. Singh to be less enthusiastic about clearing Mrs. Gandhi of the responsibility for the assassination.

The media in this country make it appear that most Sikhs are rejoicing her death. On the contrary, most of them are as grief-stricken as the rest of us and it is in the interest of one and all to realize that a small extremist group does not represent the entire Sikh community.

What Mr. Singh was suggesting was that in recent years, Mrs. Gandhi's domestic policies, to hold on to power at any cost, had caused her to engage in factional politics, though I should add that it did not always have a religious perspective.

This fact is amply characterized by the situation in which she had systematically eroded democratic functioning of her and other institutions and had undertaken unpopular actions, as a last resort, to solve problems that could have been solved politically at an earlier stage.

Undoubtedly, she was popular as projected by the huge majority in the parliament, but the figures quoted in the article by others have no basis and I feel Mr. Singh was within his legitimate rights to voice his reaction and concern to her policies.

This is a grave crisis for India and a very sad time for democratic aspirations of Third World countries as she represented stability and strength in that region and for non-aligned nations. We are positive that India will soon return to a stable course and do away with these policies of violence. — Arindam Datta, Graduate Student, Molecular Science.

Issues that were overlooked

IF YOU are easily entertained — if you are the sort of person who sees drama in the sight of, say, a small mailman delivering a big package — we are ending 12 months of golden memories. My favorite is of Gary Hart describing how, if a Czech airliner penetrated U.S. airspace heading for the air-defense center in Colorado Springs, he would order interceptors to peek in the windows to see if the passengers were wearing uniforms. But among the other fascinating features of these 12 months have been things left unsaid, or said and then soon abandoned.

Twelve months ago, seven Democrats (Jesse Jackson had not yet entered the Syrian primary; can you name the seven?) were elbowing one another and stepping on each other's insteps in the struggle to see who would break his lance against Ronald Reagan. A presidential commission — announcing a crisis, of course — had all the candidates rattling on about one issue. What was it? Education, the decline and fall thereof. But that issue was worn out by Thanksgiving, and little has been heard about it since, for two reasons.

FIRST, saturation journalism, especially on television, quickly wears out most issues, or at least the public's interest in them. Some issues are more durable than others. It took two weeks to beat into a shapeless pulp the issue of mixing politics and religion.

But another reason the education issue withered is that the electorate is smarter than it was even a decade ago. It knows that education always has been, is today, should be, and will for the foreseeable future remain, primarily the responsibility of state and local governments, and will be influenced only marginally by federal decisions.

George Will
Washington Post
Writers Group

The same is true of another issue that, you may have noticed, is no longer noticeable as a national issue. Last year, in one out of every five households, someone suffered an assault, burglary, larceny, rape or robbery. Few of the criminals involved were or will be caught, and fewer still will be convicted. In California, where one-tenth of the electorate lives (lives anxiously, evidently), a reliable poll reveals that crime is now the foremost concern. Yet crime has not been an issue in the presidential campaign.

ONE REASON is that crime is declining. For the first time in 20 years the crime rate has declined in two consecutive years. That fact has, naturally, caused the administration to puff out its chest and point with pride. Never mind that, as conservatives know, and if they were out of office would be quick to proclaim, the decline has little to do with government action at any level and almost nothing to do with federal action. It has a lot to do with demography. There is a decline in the crime rate because there is, at the moment, a decline in the number of young men between the ages 16 and 25.

The phrase "demography is destiny" contains much truth, including the conservative truth that social dynamics often govern life more than government does. But that truth sometimes limits the ability to brag.

However, the main reason crime is not an issue is not that the crime rate has changed. It is that the electorate has changed. It recognizes that federal policy is peripheral to the problem.

LIKE THE issues that are not, as November nears, issues, another interesting aspect of this election is a regional bonanza that is not sure to materialize. If, as seems likely, Republicans retain control of the Senate, that will be the worst defeat for the South since the Army of the Potomac completed the siege of Petersburg.

If Democrats recapture the Senate, these Southerners would acquire (in some cases re-acquire) committee chairmanships: Mississippi's John Stennis, Appropriations; Louisiana's Russell Long, Finance; Georgia's Sam Nunn, Armed Services; Florida's Lawton Chiles, Budget; South Carolina's Fritz Hollings, Commerce; Louisiana's J. Bennett Johnston, Energy; Texas' Lloyd Bentsen, Environment and Public Works.

The only chairmanships the South would lose are those held by Republicans Strom Thurmond of South Carolina (Judiciary) and Jesse Helms of North Carolina (Agriculture). Helms' re-election is in doubt in any case. If you count Kentucky as part of the South, Democratic capture of the Senate would keep the Agriculture chairmanship in the region, with Kentucky's Walter Huddleston. But correct thinkers do not count Kentucky as part of the South, that state having behaved reasonably well in those days when Lincoln said he hoped to have God on his side but had to have Kentucky.

Thursday evenings are physical at DuMaroc's

By Margaret Callcott
Entertainment Editor

People seeking ways to get in shape, stay in shape or just channel their extra energy productively may find the outlet they are looking for at DuMaroc's "Physical Thursday," an evening featuring people in the area who are talented in some physical respect.

But don't get the wrong idea. The physical talents featured include breakdancing, square dancing, body-building and martial arts.

"People see the ads for Physical Thursday and don't realize what kind of a thing it is," said Edith Summey, promotion and advertising consultant for DuMaroc. "The idea is to provide something of interest to the general public — everyone is welcome."

Summey said that Physical Thursdays began in October and are showing definite potential. Upcoming Thursdays will feature The Egyptian Sports Center Aerobic Dance Team (Nov. 8), Flex Appeal, a body-building group from Carbondale (Nov. 15); and The Southern Illinois Repertory

Dance Theater (Nov. 29).

DuMaroc is also hoping to include future performances from the Black Fire Dancers, as well as martial arts demonstrations and various other dance forms.

An local breakdancing contest with $400 in prizes will be held on Nov. 11. Teenagers are welcome to enter but must bring their parents. Those who wish to participate should call ahead so they can avoid the admission charge at the door, Summey said.

"We would like for the public to realize we're doing this and if they have something they can do, contact us," she said.

Summey said that Physical Thursdays are a good chance for people to present themselves and their talent to the public, as well as a window for the public to see what activities and opportunities the area offers, and how they can get involved.

"We want to be what is now part of our new logo: 'The Entertainment Center of Southern Illinois,' and that's in all aspects of entertainment," Summey said. "There's nothing about Physical Thursdays that should make people hesitate to come on out."

Wellness Center to hold workshops

With the fall semester quickly drawing to a close, Marc Cohen and his staff at the Wellness Center have scheduled four workshops for the remainder of the term. All workshops will be held in the Student Center Illinois Room.

Cohen and Dave Elam will be giving a workshop titled "Improved Health and Performance Through Guided Images" from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday. The workshop will guide students to better health through the use of the imagination's storehouse of untapped resources.

A workshop on premenstrual syndrome co-sponsored by Women's Services will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Nov. 13. Lauren McKinsey will be speaking about the causes, symptoms and treatment of PMS and how women can more effectively deal with it.

A video titled "Death in the West" is the subject for the anti-smoking workshop to be given from 7 to 8 p.m. Nov. 14.

Andrea Frank will present the film which was banned in the U.S. for several years.

The semester's final workshop is slated for 7 to 9 p.m. Nov. 28. Titled "A Good Night's Sleep," Barb Fijolek will present practical methods for people who have trouble falling asleep.

Recital to be held

Lenora Suppan-Gehrich, artist in residence at Quincy College, will give a lecture-piano recital at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Old Baptist Foundation recital hall.

RALPH DUNN

For State Senate
58th District

FROM: Representative Ralph Dunn, Candidate for State Senate

TO: The people of the 58th District

In these closing days of my campaign to serve as your state senator, I want to say that I have tried to conduct a clean, factual campaign. I have observed the rules of governmental fair play as I have learned them throughout my political and business career and I trust Southern Illinois voters will continue to be my friends.

It saddens me that Gary McClure has chosen to spread falsehoods about me, personally and politically. I have tried hard not to use such tactics.

As this election year draws to a close, let all of us remember what our own great Illinoisan, Abraham Lincoln, said to our nation: "United we stand. Divided we fall."

Thank you for the past 12 years that you have elected me to serve as your representative. May the best people win on Tuesday...and I trust you will make me one of them.

Loyally,

Ralph Dunn

Professor says next president will be able to shape High Court

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

If the president is careful about the age and ideologies of his appointments he may be able to set the course of Supreme Court decisions into the next century, said Randall Nelson.

There is now a fragile bloc of five conservative justices on the Supreme Court and President Reagan would need two, at most three, appointments to solidify the bloc, Nelson, professor emeritus in political science, told a full house at the library auditorium Thursday.

Because of the ages of the present members, it has been speculated that the president will be able to name up to five Supreme Court justices in the next four years which, Nelson said, makes the issue one of the most important of the presidential campaign.

"The position that I take is not intended to be a campaign speech," he said. "I think we have to consider the pivotal role the Supreme Court plays in our system of government."

Nelson said that "pivotal role" includes deciding the most important constitutional questions of the day. To do that,

'I think we have to consider the pivotal role the Supreme Court plays in our system of government.'

he said the court has to be able to maintain the respect of the public and an "aura of legitimacy" around its decisions.

Presidents have in the past admitted that their Supreme Court appointments were based on politics but, Nelson said, somehow the court never lost its sense of legitimacy among the public. He expressed concern, however, to the question of whether this can hold true now, when the concern over the politics of justices seems to be so prominent.

Only five presidents, including George Washington, have had the opportunity to appoint five or more justices to the Supreme Court. And, as Nelson demonstrated case by case, each time that opportunity arose significant changes in the character of the decisions handed down by the court followed.

As an illustration of this, he pointed out how after most of the members of the Marshall court of the early 1800s had died or retired a justice still on the court found his job almost intolerable.

The same sort of thing is taking place now, Nelson said, because some of the justices who were on the Warren court of the 1960s do not agree with the policies of the Burger court. "I see this period we have gone through as a period of transition," he said.

The transition has changed the court from a basically liberal one under Earl Warren to what is becoming a quite conservative one under Warren Burger. Nelson said that, in his opinion, it "behooves us to pay close attention to who is placed on that court."

Car accident injures two people

Two Du Quoin residents were injured Friday evening when their vehicles collided on U.S. Route 51, a spokeswoman of the Jackson County Sheriff's Office said.

Helen Naumer, 52, of 762 N. Lake Drive, was northbound an eighth of a mile south of the Truax blacktop at about 7:30 p.m. when her vehicle struck that of Wrensil Ray, 36, of 33-and-one-half Hickory, who had been driving south. The spokeswoman said that both vehicles came to a rest on the west side of the highway.

Naumer was thrown from her vehicle upon impact and was taken to Memorial Hospital of Carbondale where she remained in satisfactory condition Monday. Ray had to be extracted from his vehicle and was taken to Memorial Hospital in critical condition.

The spokeswoman said that Naumer was charged with driving under the influence.

Blood needed for auto crash victim

People who intend to donate blood this week at the American Red Cross Blood Drive at the Student Center are asked to specify that their donation is for auto accident victim Wrensil Ray, the coordinator of the drives said.

Ray, 36, of DuQuoin, was involved in a collision Friday evening on U.S. Route 51 between Carbondale and Du Quoin, coordinator Bridget Smith said. Ray's condition at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale is listed as critical.

Smith said that Ray's good physical condition helped him survive the accident which injured one other person, but that he still sustained serious injuries to his heart, lungs, and liver. Ray also needs to undergo reconstructive surgery.

The Wrensil Ray drive is being organized by Ray's friends, Smith said. Ray is a Marine Corp veteran and self-employed carpenter.

House fire injures one person and destroys house

A fire injured one person and severely destroyed a house in Carbondale Township early Friday morning, a spokeswoman of the Jackson County Sheriff's office said.

The spokeswoman said that a passerby at about 4:15 a.m. noticed that the house, Rt. 2, Box 526A, northeast of Carbondale, was on fire. The Sheriff's Office and Carbondale Township Fire Department were summoned.

Carbondale Township Fire Chief Ron Epperheimer said that his department arrived on the scene at about 4:30 a.m. and was assisted by the Carbondale Fire Department. A resident of the house, Joseph A. Wiemelt, 32, was taken to Memorial Hospital of Carbondale where he was treated for smoke inhalation and released, the chief said.

Epperheimer said that the fire started when a pan was left on the house's electric stove.

Indians at SIU-C mourn leader's death

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

Violence that has erupted in India will soon pass, speakers told mourners of slain Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

About 90 people, most of them Indian, gathered in the Student Center Auditorium Thursday to pay respect to Mrs. Gandhi and most seemed to agree that the appointment of her son Rajiv as interim prime minister was a choice well made.

After an initial moment of silence, Jnan Bhattacharyya, community development faculty member, told the mostly student audience that he is sure India will again be the peaceful nation it was before the assassination of the prime minister.

"We possess a very long democratic tradition," Bhattacharyya said. "Problems abound there and problems always will but I am confident that these problems like the other ones will be overcome."

Given the intensity of India's devotion to Mrs. Gandhi, Bhattacharyya said the violence in the country has been very controlled. He said he believes it has already peaked and that the Indians will soon regain their composure.

Bhattacharyya told the audience that it must not succumb to the "petty sentiments" that seem to be sweeping India. He said Indians must prove themselves worthy of the democratic tradition of their nation.

Chandra Banerjee, School of Medicine faculty member, agreed with Bhattacharyya that the violence in India will be short lived. "The whole Third World is mourning because the person who stood up to the superpowers, she is dead," he said. He went on to say, however, that he believes "everyone will forgive" and that the violence will not last more than one week.

When Rajan finished speaking Herbert Marshall, professor emeritus of the Center for Soviet Studies, shared memories of experiences that he and his wife, famed sculptress Fredda Brilliant, had as friends of Mrs. Gandhi and her family. He said that Mrs. Gandhi was very reserved and would seldom respond when addressed. Marshall also said Mrs. Gandhi was groomed throughout her life by her father, the first prime minister of India, to become the leader of India.

"My wife was supposed to be going to India to complete a sculpture of Indira, instead she went to her funeral," Marshall said at the end of his talk.

Phillips had positive remarks about Gandhi being able to hold India together through this crisis. She said his having been unanimously appointed shows how sorry the people of India are about what happened. "I think he's going to be able to do a lot better job than people give him credit for," she said.

Phillips also agreed that while the violence may go on for a while, things in her homeland will soon return to normal. "We are shocked," she said, "but I think things will settle down."

Makanda residents still drying after last week's flooding

By John Dyslin
Staff Writer

Days after 5 feet of water flooded parts of this small valley town near Giant City State Park, some Makanda residents were still working to dry out their homes.

Some said the flooding claimed many possessions that can never be replaced.

"Pictures, souvenirs, things my children made for me when they were little were destroyed in the flooding," said Makanda resident Barbara Brewer.

Sunday afternoon, three days after nearly 4 inches of rain fell within 10 hours, a few residents were hard at work trying to salvage what they could. Furniture, dishes, carpeting and clothing were placed outside to dry in the sun. An older man was cleaning some of his daughter's belongings in attempt to wash the mud out.

MRS. BREWSTER was home at the time the flooding began, which she said was the worst since 1969 when the water nearly covered gas pumps. She blames the county and the state for the flooding.

"If the state would dredge the creek it may not have flooded as bad as it did. Every time it rains hard the creek fills up with more mud, debris and litter and it holds less water," she said.

IN HER HOME, furniture was stacked into piles on top of a concrete floor. The carpeting was unsalvageable. Mrs. Brewer said she believes the paneling in her house was unharmed, but isn't sure about the dry wall.

She estimated that it will take a couple of months to get things back to normal.

In the Brewer home the water was about a foot deep, but was up to tops of cars outside.

"I didn't think it would get that high, but it just kept coming. The railroad tracks were under water and my son nearly lost his boat," she said.

THE FLOODWATER current was strong enough to move the Brewer front porch and the porch of the town hall several feet. Mrs. Brewer nearly lost her poodle when he ventured outside with her and got caught in the swirling water. She had to go running after him through the flooded yards.

She said she has received some support from neighbors, but not much. "People mean well, but when it comes to actually helping they don't do much. Some of the people have given me canned foods, but I didn't like that much because I'm not used to it. I've helped others before so I guess it's my turn."

Without insurance to cover the losses, Mrs. Brewster said that she'll have to work harder to recover some of the damages. The Red Cross took her name and gave her a number to call in case one of its representatives contacted her. She said, however, that she has misplaced the number in all of the confusion.

MRS. BREWSTER'S son, Pat, owns a mobile home nearby and said he suffered about $1,000 worth of damage. The mobile home sits about 2 feet off the ground and the water was high enough to reach 2 feet of water in the home. He said the heating ducts will have to be taken out and cleaned and the furnace may no longer be usable.

"I'm not too sure about the trailer structure. Right now the paneling looks like it's in good shape, but the installation could be ruined," Brewer said.

VICKIE MCCALLA, Mrs. Brewer's daughter, had just moved into her home two weeks ago. She estimated that she suffered at least $600 worth of damage. In her home the paneling was buckling and would have to be replaced. She may have lost her television too, and that could add to damage cost.

"I had my VCR on taping some shows. I was at John A. Logan at the time and I left my television on," McCalla said. "The VCR was still taping and the TV was still working with 2 feet of water in the house. Finally, after deciding not to enter the house, someone got the nerve to shut the power off outside."

THE WATER got in McCalla's refrigerator which was filled with food. She said groceries were given to her by friends and by Makanda officials. "You find out who your friends are, those who want to help," McCalla said.

At the McCalla house, the water needed to be heated as the gas tank was moved by the flood waters. McCalla said she has no insurance to cover the flooding and isn't sure how she will pay for the losses.

Salvadoran teacher wants military aid ended

By Susan Sarkauskas
Staff Writer

At times calm, then becoming agitated, Marta Alicia Rivera, a Salvadoran refugee, pleaded for Americans to become aware of the political situation of El Salvador and to put pressure on the U.S. government to stop sending military aid to the country.

Rivera, a representative of the Asociacion Nacional de Educadores Salvadoreños, the national teachers union of El Salvador, spoke Saturday afternoon at the SIU-C Student Center. Speaking through an interpreter, Rivera said the union was established in 1965 to fight for the rights of teachers. It demanded increases in salaries, medical benefits, and social status. The government deemed those to be Communist demands, she said, and refused to grant them. The union went on strike, and after 58 days the government gave in.

THE GOVERNMENT position toward the union, however, has not changed. In 1979 Rivera, then regional president of the union, was seized by armed men dressed in civilian clothes on the way home from a night class she taught. She was taken to a national guard base, where she found out that her captors were members of the infamous Salvadoran Death Squad. "It was very surprising, because I thought that the death squad was a different body from the official police squad...but the death squad, the national guard, and the government are one and the same."

She was held for 32 hours. Members of the squad tortured her and other prisoners, including pregnant women and children, she said. Her jaw was broken, her eyebrows were pulled out, she received electric shocks through her ears and genitals, and they attempted to take her eyes out. All the while, she said, her captors kept insisting that she was a Communist and asked her who her Cuban and Russian contacts were.

HER CAPTORS also asked where the teachers' union was building its bombs and storing weapons, neither of which it was doing, she said. She told her captors, "All we know and feel is hunger," referring to the poor economic situation Salvadorans.

She was dumped on a roadside and left for dead. Passerbys picked her up, and helped her to obtain medical treatment at the National University. She then went underground for three years, as she knew the government would realize she was alive when her family held no funeral.

RIVERA AND HER husband came to the United States as refugees in 1982. They are now living illegally in Los Angeles, as their requests for residency status has been denied. Rivera said there are about 300,000 Salvadoran refugees living in Los Angeles, out of 1 million Salvadorans that have left the country. Other countries where refugees live are Mexico, Costa Rica, and other Central American countries, she said.

She came to the United States as a representative of the union to explain the situation of the Salvadoran educators and people, and to denounce United States military intervention in the civil war.

"WHEN WE give our testimony, we do not tell stories for pity. We do it so you will think and reflect," she said. With the impending re-election of Ronald Reagan, who is friendly towards the government of Jose Napoleon Duarte, she feels that U.S. troops will be sent to El Salvador. "If the war becomes more open, Americans will suffer and die, like in Vietnam...you should not wait until you see dead Americans to stop this," Rivera said.

She favors the economic aid given by the United States. "We need moral and economic support. Each time the military invades a region, they destroy teaching materials," she said. "If not for international aid from the U.S., we wouldn't be able to survive."

THE CIVIL WAR has taken its toll on education, as over 1,300 schools have been bombed or militarized.

Allegations that the guerrillas fighting the government troops are receiving Cuban and Russian aid are false, she said.

"If we had all those Cuban troops and Russian weapons, Americans wouldn't be there anymore," Rivera said.

SHE FURTHER pointed out that the major foreign investors in El Salvador are American-based multinational corporations, including Texas Instruments, McDonalds, and Colgate-Palmolive. Of 152 multinationals in Central America, she said, 72 are in El Salvador.

She said she was concerned with the low attendance at meetings such as yesterday's, calling this a crucial moment in the history of U.S. intervention in Central America. When she spoke in Phoenix a week ago, people asked where El Salvador was. "It makes me think that intervention is inevitable," she said.

Rivera's speech was sponsored by the Coalition for Change, a member of the Southern Illinois Latin America Solidarity Committee. Her nationwide tour is being sponsored by the Coalition International to Support the People of El Salvador, a nationwide network dedicated to increasing American's awareness of and action about the United States' actions in Central America.

Educating Americans is Israeli consul's work that Israel should not talk to the PLO. The PLO is committed to Israel's destruction," Bar said.

There are also areas where the two nations do not see eye to eye, he said.

The West Bank issue is one such example. Israel claims it has a right to establish settlements in the West Bank, and the United States claims it does not, he said.

The United States wants a territorial agreement on the issue, that would establish a separate political unit, Bar said.

The Israelis, on the other hand, want to give the Palestinians as much autonomy as possible, without creating a separate political unit in the West Bank, he said.

Israel does not agree with the American arms policy either, Bar said.

"Saudi Arabia is armed to the teeth with U.S. arms. Some of these weapons systems could be very dangerous to Israel," he said.

The issue, Bar said, is not that the Saudis are getting U.S. weapons, but the nature of the weapons they are getting that Israel does not like.

Another issue in the news lately has been the suggestion that the United States move its embassy in Israel from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

"This is an internal political issue in this country, and we don't want to stick our nose in it, but Jerusalem is the capital of Israel, and we would be very glad to see the move made," Bar said.

Bar said he didn't think the outcome of the presidential election would affect U.S.-Israeli relations. "We've had good relations with most administrations," he said.

"We've learned in the last few years to cooperate, despite the differences. For instance, Israel recently agreed to allow the United States to use its medical facilities in the event of a disaster, and we've agreed to the pre-positioning of arms and ammunition," he said.

Many Americans' basic perception of Israel is slightly clouded with ignorance, he said.

"People really don't know a lot about Israel. We're viewed favorably but with some reservations. There is a sense of friendship and understanding, but we have to work at it."

Bar said that after the Lebanon affair, there was a growing interest in the United States to learn about the region, and that most people tended to sympathize with Israel.

"Despite the superficial image of baseball, apple pie and Michael Jackson, Israel appreciates America for several reasons. We appreciate America for being so diversified, for being the leader and guardian of other democratic countries.

"America is the model for Israel in areas like economy and business. Our relationship is based on a solid understanding that democracy, despite its problems, is the system that a country should use," he said.

Theatrical modeling troupe sells products by entertaining

Cynthia Beard
Student Writer

The University Mall Merchants Association wanted to celebrate the mall's 10th anniversary with style.

The Mall Merchants brought back The Big Apple Menagerie for the second year in a row. The menagerie is the world's only international hair and fashion theatrical modeling troupe and has the reputation of drawing hundreds of people who in turn buy products.

The Big Apple Menagerie is the brainchild of Randy Johnson, founder-producer and master of ceremonies the internationally-acclaimed troupe. Owning a modeling troupe wasn't exactly what Johnson had planned to do with his life. He wanted to be a model. But Johnson soon found out that there wasn't a demand for models his height. Johnson stands 6-foot-11-inches tall.

"It all started in Dayton, Ohio," Johnson said. "What was supposed to be our first and last show actually turned out to be our big break."

Three weeks after the Dayton show, Kolarua of Canada, a fashion and beauty firm, asked Johnson and his group to appear in the 1977 International Beauty to demonstrate the firm's products, he said.

"I took Midwestern models to New York city to sell products and compete against the professional beauty industries' best models, and we won — first place. That's why we are called the Big Apple Menagerie, because it was in New York that we got our big break."

A "Weekend of Hollywood" was this year's theme. The models entertained the audience to the music of famous movie themes. The routines presented were organized by Lori Trittschuh, the groups model-choreographer. Trittschuh said it takes about 4-6 weeks to put together a routine.

The "Big Apple Menagerie" fashion revue was part of the University Mall's 10th anniversary celebration Saturday.

The models average length of employment with the troupe is five years, without a contract," said Trittschuh. They model about 40,000 different outfits a year in 1,500 shows,

320 days a year. Trittschuh said they are called the menagerie because the group has a little of everything. "Unlike most modeling organizations we have short and tall people; white, black and brown people. We are always looking for a different look."

"Over 70 percent of the mall merchants participated in this year's show," said Johnson. "In fact, during Sunday's show a $200 sweater that belonged to Hect's was sold right off a model's back. There is no selling vehicle like the menagerie," said Johnson.

"We've arranged to have a person from the State Board of Elections at our access for the entire day," he said.

Friederich's office will also be coordinating with the FBI, said Dean Paisley, FBI media spokesman.

Paisley said the FBI will investigate reports of vote fraud depending upon the nature of the information and its source and if the investigation receives approval from the U.S. Department of Justice, although he says that "anybody who feels there may be a federal election violation can notify the FBI."

Paisley said most of the vote fraud cases the FBI investigates are "after-the-fact."

"If there's some substance to the case it can take a real effort and can run into the months," Paisley says.

The results of the investigation will go to the U.S. Attorney's Office to see if the case merits prosecution, Paisley says. The penalty for a federal violation, according to Friederich, can involve a fine of up to $10,000 and five years imprisonment.

People with reports of possible vote fraud are encouraged by the United States Attorney's Office to contact their East St. Louis office at 618-274-2200, ex. 360, or the FBI's Carbondale office at 457-3603.

U.S. State's Attorney's office to watch for vote fraud

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

Assistant United States Attorney Ralph Friederich says his office will be coordinating more with local law enforcement agencies this year to combat fraud at the voting polls because of the nature of the crime itself.

"It's very difficult to detect because it's a one-shot type of thing," Friederich says.

"Let's say that a guy walks into your polling place and votes," he continues, "and then goes to the next polling place down the road and votes again. How do you detect something like that?"

In an effort to do something about that sort of crime more quickly than in the past, Friederich says that his office in East St. Louis will be coordinating more with local law enforcement agencies if and when someone contacts his office with a report of fraud.

"Some of these reports will be on-site problems that will need to be taken care of immediately," Friederich says.

Friederich explains that the U.S. Attorney's Office will be acting as a sort of "clearing house" by funneling reports of fraud to the Southern Illinois Sheriff's Association, county state's attorneys and the Illinois State Board of Elections.

Professor helps start fish program in Haiti

By Jeff Curl
Staff Writer

Chris Kohler, coordinator of SIU-C's international fisheries program, is well aware of a problem that affects many poor countries — the overutilization of natural resources.

Kohler, associate professor of zoology, spoke last Thursday on his attempt to help Haiti, the poorest nation in the Western Hemisphere, develop a fisheries program. Most of his work in Haiti took place on a small island called La Gonave.

Although Haiti used to be a tropical rain forest, Kohler said it has few trees left due to past logging and current need for fuel. In addition, the Haitians overuse of ocean food has caused the island's near extinction of the Conch, leaving shores covered with empty shells, and has left a dwindling fish population.

Haitians fish in the shallow coral reefs surrounding La Gonave, and they eat any size fish they catch. As a result, Kohler said, his studies show that the fish near the reefs are low in size, species and diversity.

"It would really help their economy if they could develop a fisheries program," Kohler said. "Their intense fishing pressures are severe."

One solution would be to change the Haitians' fishing techniques so they could move into deeper waters, Kohler said. Among other things, this would include using lines instead of wooden traps, but Kohler said new techniques might not be accepted because of traditional religious and fishing traditions. This problem might be helped by building structures and placing them in shallow waters since fish are attracted to such structures, he said.

Besides helping Haitians in their ocean fishing, Kohler has taught them inland aquaculture techniques.

Christopher Kohler talks about developing a fisheries food.

Students arrested on charges of underage drinking

Nine SIU-C students were arrested Thursday evening two South Illinois Avenue bars for underage drinking, spokesman of the Carbondale Police Department said.

Kevin Moriarty, 20; Matt Stout, 18; Christopher Thomson, 18; and Timothy Bushnell, 18, were arrested at 10:07 p.m. on charges of underage possession of alcohol at 1111 Watering Hole, 315 S. Illinois Ave. The spokesman said all four were released on notice to appear in court.

At Gatsby's, 608 S. Illinois Ave., Karrie Schneider, 20; Nuzzo, 18; Steven Reichert, Matthew Reavill, 18; and J. Palenske, 18, were arrested on charges of possession of alcohol an hour later. The spokesman said that they too were released on notice to appear in court.

Blood drive gets off to slow start

The blood drive sponsored by Mobilization of Volunteer Effort got off to a slow start Monday. The goal for the drive is 2,010 units, so at least 400 needed each day, Aguirre said.

"We really need a push," said Thompson Point is leading competition among Universities housing areas with 26 units given, Aguirre said.

The drive will continue from 10:30 to 4:30 through Friday in Ballroom D.

Man wants bats to move out of his carport

By Cynthia Weiss
Staff Writer

Robert Buffington might not have bats in his belfry, but he does have them between his carport and his house.

There are 150 to 200 brown bats roosting in the tiny space between his carport and his house near Devil's Kitchen Lake, and Buffington said they've been there longer than he has.

Buffington moved in 10 years ago and the previous owner told him the bats had already been there for at least four years.

Each bat is about 2 inches in body length and about 8 inches long from wingtip to wingtip, Buffington said.

The bats really haven't bothered Buffington much over the years. In fact, he said, he likes the natural pest control the insect-eating bats provide.

"I've never had to spray the vegetables in my garden," Buffington said, and he and his family are rarely bothered by mosquitoes.

The bats have even come to be a source of entertainment for the Buffingtons, who enjoy watching the highly skilled flying mammals in action.

"They're more fun to watch than barnswallows," Buffington said.

The problem is well, as anyone who's ever had a pet bird can attest to, cleaning the smelly cage is no fun. Buffington has tired of cleaning up bat guano.

With two small children who like to play in the carport, and another baby on the way, he's also decided it's time to get rid of the possible health hazard posed by the bats and their guano, Buffington said.

Bats are not, however, as apt to carry diseases such as rabies as most people think, Buffington said. Less than 0.5 percent of the bat population carries rabies. People don't hear as much about healthy bats as they do about rabid bats, though, Buffington said.

He has tried several times to get the bats to move out and take up residency elsewhere, Buffington said, but to no avail.

Placing mothballs in the half-inch space where the bats roost didn't prompt them to leave. Spraying the area with foam did not force them out. They left temporarily one winter when the weight of a heavy snow collapsed the carport, but when Buffington fixed the carport, the bats returned.

Exterminators couldn't help because the bats are protected by law, and Buffington said he'd rather not kill the "basically nice little animals" anyway.

A neighbor, knowing of the Buffingtons' predicament, told Buffington he should contact Andy West, a Department of Conservation official involved with the state's bat relocation project.

Buffington did, and he now has an artificial roost structure about 50 feet from his house, the only such structure placed on private property.

There is room in the structure for more than 200 bats, so Buffington's colony of bats can "invite plenty of bat buddies" to live with them, Buffington said.

Persuading the bats to move into their new home may not be an easy task, however.

Jim Garner, a mammal ecologist of the Department of Conservation, said there has been limited success with getting bats to utilize artificial roost structures.

"Bats have a high degree of sight fidelity, meaning they return to the same place year after year," Garner said.

Though bats normally migrate to a warmer place to hibernate throughout the winter, Buffington said his colony stays year round.

To get the bats to move into the artificial roost, Buffington said he will screen off the carport one night this week while the colony is out feeding. If all goes according to plan, when the bats are unable to return to their normal roosting place, they will see the artificial shelter as a viable alternative.

Autumn's fast-fading colors on display in Southern Illinois

By John Dyslin
Staff Writer

If Mother Nature can turn the sprinkler system off, this week will be a good time to get a final glimpse of the fall colors. There are many areas in Southern Illinois that present a scenic depiction of the bright reds, oranges, yellows and purples of the autumn leaves.

Some of the more beautiful places are the Pine Hills, the Southern Illinois Ozarks, the Little Grand Canyon and the Garden of the Gods. However, not all areas have been fortunate this fall. According to Giant City Park Superintendent Bob Kristoff, this autumn has been a poor season and the fall colors at Giant City are almost gone.

"The rain has knocked off a lot of the leaves, and many of the trees are nearly bare," Kristoff said.

He said this year has been one of the wettest autumns and the weight of the precipitation causes the leaves to fall. Despite the gloomy weather of the past few weeks, Giant City still had increased visitation this fall.

The fall peak season has passed, but Robert Presley Jr.

of Presley Tours said there are still places where the leaves still have beautiful colors. He said Pine Hills and the Southern Illinois Ozarks are prime places to visit.

"The fall colors have been pretty good this year," Presley said.

The hills and cliffs of Southern Illinois help make the a drive or hike even more beautiful. Popular visiting areas include Cave In Rock, Trail of Tears, Pine Hills and Bald Knob Cross.

There are several factors that determine what color the leaves will become. Throughout most of the spring and summer, the presence of chlorophyll makes the leaves green. The production of chlorophyll stops by late summer and the chlorophyll already present breaks down and disappears.

John Yopp of the Botany Department said nothing happens to the leaves that turn yellow because the yellow pigment was there all summer. However, the red and purple coloring in leaves is not there all summer. Yopp said they are produced in response to the short days, bright sunlight and cool nights. The sweet gum, dogwood, and some oak and maple trees present this color best.

A major factor that determines how beautiful an autumn will be is the weather. Yopp said if there isn't enough rain before the fall the leaves don't have nice colors — especially the reds and purples. Early freezes are the most damaging because the leaves are killed before they change colors.

Bright, clear, cool, and a fair amount of precipitation intensify the coloring process and have the overall effect of determining the beauty of the colors.

"We were lucky that the first part of autumn had bright days. There is good fall coloration this year," Yopp said. "The colors were slow in coming this year."

There are still a couple of weeks left for the coloration of leaves to remain. However, Yopp said the recent rain and wind will cause many leaves to fall.

Southeast Illinois around the Garden of the Gods and the Pine Hills areas are still near their peak, Yopp said. There is still time to experience the beauty of Southern Illinois — if the rains hold off for a few days.

WE ENDORSE PAUL SIMON and KEN GRAY and ask for your vote...

Dear Friends:

We strongly endorse Paul Simon for the United States Senate and Ken Gray for the United States House of Representatives.

Paul Simon represents the kind of voice we need in the Senate: thoughtful, intelligent and compassionate.

Paul understands the critical role education plays in providing equal opportunity and promoting global understanding. Paul led the fight, as chair of the important sub-committee on Higher Education, against attempts to end the Guaranteed Student Loan, College Work-Study and Pell Grant Programs. These programs together benefit thousands of SIU-C students.

Paul has worked to promote global understanding through foreign language instruction and exchange. And he has worked to promote national understanding through sponsoring legislation for minorities, women and the aged. In fact, according to Time magazine, Paul Simon has passed more legislation than any other legislator. His legislation has helped us all. The Wall Street Journal and Chicago Tribune rank him as a highly effective legislator.

Ken Gray served us in Congress for twenty years. Ken was an original co-sponsor of the Civil Rights and Voting Rights Acts of 1965 as well as the Equal Rights Amendment. To Southern Illinois Ken Gray brought the high rises at SIU and our Student Center, I-57 and I-64, Lake Kinkaid and Crab Orchard Lake, hospitals, post offices, thousands of jobs, and many other projects.

Ken Gray is responsible. He's an overseas war veteran who is honest with us and admits that the Pentagon wastes a lot of money. He favors the nuclear freeze and will not let the Defense Department keep spending $7,000 for coffee makers.

Ken helped our region grow. Thanks to him, we have major projects in our area. He'll continue to work for us, people, instead of special interest groups.

Paul and Ken provide a perfect balance. Both will work for a growing Illinois, bringing us jobs and economic stability while providing level-headed international and national leadership. Both men vote alike on the issues.

We urge SIU-C students, staff, and faculty to seize this historic opportunity to send to Washington two men who have worked hard in the past and will continue to do so for all of us: Paul Simon and Ken Gray.

Women cagers to hold scrimmage

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

The Saluki women's basketball team will be in action Tuesday night for their only preseason scrimmage. Coach Cindy Scott said the game will be exciting because the squads are evenly matched.

"We really haven't come close to settling on a starting five," Scott said. "I think this will give us an opportunity to see them in a true game situation and evaluate better."

Scott said this will also help the freshmen work through some first-game jitters because the scrimmage situation will be real game competition. She also expects a good fan turnout from the Anna-Jonesboro contingency which is highly supportive of the Salukis.

Anne Thouvenin, Petra Jackson, Ellen O'Brien, Cozette Wallace, Mary Berghuis, Linda Wilson and Terry Schmittgens team up to form the white squad. Opposing them will be the maroon squad comprised of Tami Sanders, Mary Noble, Cheri Bacon, Bridgett Bonds, Ann Kattreh, Lisa Dye, Marialice Jenkins and Genevyn Hicks.

Scott said although progress in practice is slow, she credits the players for working very hard.

"That's all you can ask out of them," she said.

strategy of the Salukis will switch to a running game.

"If we have the opportunity to fast break we'll take it, but we won't run wildly," Scott said.

"We're going to have to play the percentage game and not turn the ball over because we can't afford to make any more mistakes than we're going to just because we're so young."

Play will begin Tuesday night at 7:00 p.m. at the Anna-Jonesboro High School.

McEnroe wins Stockholm Open

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — John McEnroe shrugged off a pending suspension of at least 21 days and blitzed Mats Wilander after a second set lapse 6-2, 3-6, 6-2 Monday to win the $315,000 Stockholm Open-Scandinavian Championships.

It was the third time McEnroe won the coveted title, the only official national indoor championship recognized by the International Tennis Federation. McEnroe also won in 1978 and 1979, but then missed his chance to win an unprecedented three straight titles when Bjorn Borg beat him in the 1980 final.

McEnroe, who was fined $2,100 for "unsportsmanlike" conduct in a turbulent semifinal against Swede Anders Jarryd to exceed the $7,500 limit, behaved better Monday.

But the American's behavior was not perfect. He was warned once by the umpire in the second set for verbal abuse.

McEnroe, the world's top-ranked player, improved his 1984 won-lost record to 75-2 after Monday's victory before another sellout crowd at the Royal Tennis Hall and millions watching on TV in several countries.

The Wimbledon and U.S. Open champion's only setbacks this year came in the French Open final last June, when Ivan Lendl rallied to win in five sets, and in the first round of the ATP Championships at Kings Island, Ohio, last August, when Vijay Amritraj of India stunned the New Yorker.

The victory also evened McEnroe's head-to-head record against Wilander. The defending champion and No. 3 seed here, Wilander held a 3-2 edge over the American going into the final after beating the left-hander on three different surfaces — clay, hardcourt and grass — last year.

Renegades name Corso as coach

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Lee Corso, who was released from his contract as head football coach of Northern Illinois University earlier Monday, was named the first head coach of Orlando's entry in the United States Football League.

"We'll do everything we can to represent you in a major-league fashion and to win," Corso, 49, told a downtown news conference called by Orlando Renegades owner Donald Dizney.

Corso, who has also served as head coach at Indiana and Louisville, reportedly signed a three-year contract amounting to about $150,000 in annual salary and bonuses.

The 1957 graduate of Florida State flew into Orlando Sunday and huddled with Dizney and other club officials earlier Monday before the announcement was made.

The Orlando franchise recently was transferred from Washington, where the team name was the Federals.

Corso said his goal was to make the Orlando Renegades "a first-class, winning operation." The Renegades begin league play next year.

A native of Cicero, Ill., and former Miami resident, Corso began his collegiate coaching career at Florida State before moving on to assistant positions at Maryland and Navy. He was named to his first head coaching job at Louisville in 1969.

Tim Reilly, senior in history and a member of the SIU-C bowling team, practiced last week for the President's Classic Bowling Invitational Tournament that was held last weekend. SIU-C finished fourth in the tournament, placing behind Indiana, Purdue and Vincennes. Next weekend, the Salukis will resume Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference play at Pat Patterson's Bowling center in Ellisville, Mo.

Bears' QB McMahon to be out 4 weeks with lacerated kidney

LAKE FOREST (AP) — High hopes for a banner Chicago Bear season dipped Monday when the team learned that quarterback Jim McMahon will be out at least a month with a lacerated kidney.

McMahon suffered the injury late in the second quarter Sunday of a 17-6 victory over the Los Angeles Raiders.

Trainer Fred Caito, after conferring with Dr. Michael Carter, said McMahon will be hospitalized for at least a week and that it will take four weeks for the injury to heal.

"At this point, I will say he will play again this season," Caito said, "but he will miss four weeks. After that, we'll have to take it week by week."

"There was no rib damage, no other organs were injured, but there was a lot of pain and he did urinate blood," Caito said. "On the positive side, he didn't rupture the kidney, which could have ended his career."

Coach Mike Ditka said backup quarterback Steve Fuller, who recently came off the injured list because of a shoulder problem and played the second half of Sunday's game, would replace McMahon.

"It didn't look like anything out of the ordinary," said Ditka about the hit McMahon took from Jeff Barnes and Bill Pickel while running for a first down. "He has been hit harder."

Ditka said he didn't know when McMahon would play again.

"We'll have to go by what the doctors say. The most important thing right now is Jim's health," he said. "If there is a chance for further injury, he will not play."

Ditka said he would start Fuller at quarterback against the Los Angeles Rams at Anaheim on Sunday. Rusty Lisch will be the backup.

Fuller was acquired from the Rams for two future draft choices. He did not play at all in 1983 while with the Rams and last saw action with Kansas City in 1982.

Ditka said he had checked into the possibility of picking up another quarterback, but "There was nothing exciting on the board. We'll pull through. A lot of teams are going through this."

If the Bears do not add anybody this week, punter Dave Finzer would become the third quarterback in case of an emergency.

The Bears have posted a 7-3 record this season for their best start since they last won a National Football League title in 1963, and they hold a 3.5 game lead in the Central Division of the National Conference.

McKay to resign as Bucs' coach

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — John McKay, the only coach in the nine-year history of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, announced Monday he will resign at the end of the season.

His resignation leaves only Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys, Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins and Chuck Noll of the Pittsburgh Steelers as coaches with longer careers with the same National Football League team.

McKay, who amassed a 127-40-8 record during 16 years with Southern California, will become the Bucs' president at the end of the 1984 season, the club announced.

At Southern Cal, McKay led the Trojans to nine Pac-8 championships and to eight Rose Bowls. But with the Bucs, McKay's record is 41-85-1, including a 3-7 mark this season.

His Bucs have made the playoffs three of the past five years, but have won only five of their last 26 games.

McKay cited the team's performance and his health in his resignation to owner Hugh Culverhouse. The 61-year-old McKay underwent cataract surgery on his right eye Sept. 19 and said he would have a similar operation on his left eye at the end of the season.

"Recent weeks have shown that while I believe we are fairly close to where we want to be, we are not there yet," McKay said. "In light of my continuing problems with my vision, I told Mr. Culverhouse today that I believe we need someone else to coach the team next season."

Culverhouse said he accepted the resignation with deep regret after trying to talk McKay out of the decision.

Hill, women's swimming team optimistic about upcoming year

By Mike Frey
Staff Writer

Cautious optimism is the feeling Coach Tim Hill and the SIU-C women's swimming team are expressing as it prepares to open the season this weekend with a quadrangular meet against Illinois, Kansas and Missouri.

The Salukis tied for seventh in the nation at last season's NCAA meet, and Hill said he thinks the team could improve upon the finish if it can overcome certain obstacles.

The first problem Hill must solve is replacing Pam Ratcliffe, who graduated from SIU-C last season after a remarkable career. She received All-American honors in each of the four years she competed for the Salukis, and holds three individual records and shares four relay records. Hill said he is counting on one of several freshman to help fill the void left by Ratcliffe's departure.

"The biggest challenge right now is to replace Pam," Hill said. "She was one of the best we ever had in relay events, and the key at the NCAA tournament is putting five relay teams in the top six."

Hill said freshman Iris VonJouanne has the potential to replace Ratcliffe. The sister of men's record-holder Roger VonJouanne, she has turned in excellent times in the breaststroke and relay events.

"She is much like Pam in that she has had comparable times in similar events," Hill said.

Other freshmen who are expected to contribute are Jackie Taljard, Lori Rea and Amy Witherite. Along with VonJouanne, they highlight one of the finest recruiting classes Hill has had since he came to Carbondale in 1980.

Besides Ratcliffe, Barb Larsen, another four-time All-American, is the only swimmer lost to graduation. Seniors Amanda Martin and Janie Coontz, junior Stacy Westfall and sophomore Wendy Irick are expected to pace the Salukis in individual events this season.

Martin finished sixth nationally in the 200-yard breaststroke with a time of 1 minute and 52.20 seconds. She also participates in the 100-yard breaststroke, where she finished eighth in the nation last season.

Coontz placed seventh nationally in the 1,650-yard freestyle and 10th in the 500-yard freestyle. She is also one of the Salukis' top performers in relay events.

Westfall was a member of the Salukis' All-American 800-yard freestyle events team. As a freshman in 1983, she placed seventh nationally in the 200-yard butterfly. She also will compete in the 200- and 500-yard freestyle events.

Irick finished 10th in the nation in the 400-yard individual medley. She will also compete in the 100- and 200-yard backstroke.

Sophomores Sue Wittry and Armi Airaksinen are also expected to contribute. The pair played a vital role in the Salukis' success in relay events last season.

Diving should be much improved for SIU-C. Junior Wendy Lucero, who sat out last year after transferring from Nebraska, will be in action. She is the United States amateur champion in 1-meter competition, and is fourth nationally in the 3-meter. She is expected to be the first Saluki ever to gain diving points in the NCAA meet.

"She would have to be one of the college divers expected to finish in the top few places in the nation," SIU-C diving coach Dennis Golden said. "I think the addition of Wendy will strengthen our depth and give us a significant scorer."

Other divers returning for the Salukis are Suzi Straub, Cheryl Olszewski and Angie Faidherbe.

The Salukis have one of the most demanding schedules in the country. They will compete against six of the nation's top 20 teams this season.

Multiple losses hinder men divers

By Martin Folan
Staff Writer

With two divers lost to graduation, one to a tragic accident and another to ineligibility, the pre-season outlook for the Saluki men's diving team appears bleak.

The Salukis lost the services of Eric Schmisser last summer when he fell from a third-floor apartment building window. And Nigel Stanton will be ineligible until Feb. 15, 1985 because of a discrepancy between the NCAA and the University interpretations of his high school academic records, Golden said.

Jim Watson and Tom Wentland ended their collegiate diving careers last season and are now looking forward to the United States championships.

Saluki men's and women's diving coach Denny Golden said, "Wentland and Watson will be diving around the world to qualify for the United States Diving Championships.

NCAAs is just a stop along the way."

Freshmen Chad Lucero, John Becker, Scott Rowe and Gary Anderson have joined returnees Andrew Przybyszewski and Stanton on the 1984-85 Saluki diving roster. Golden said that while Stanton can't perform for the Salukis, he isn't suspended, rather the university is prohibited from using his services in NCAA-sanctioned events for one year. Stanton is losing one year of eligibility because of this.

With the loss of Stanton, Lucero and Przybyszewski will have greater responsibilities, Golden said.

"With Nigel off, this throws a very large responsibility on Chad and Andrew to gain diving points. This may make them work harder, but they may notice much more improvement," he said. "They won't have the security they would have if Nigel was there."

Stanton did participate in Friday's intrasquad meet and displayed an impressive performance, missing only one dive, Golden said. Lucero and Przybyszewski were impressive also.

"I thought Chad did well in 1-meter competition. He still has some work in 3-meter competition," he said. "Andrew dove fairly well. On the 3 meter, he finished ahead of Chad. Those two will be competitive at the 3-meter level."

Lucero, brother of Saluki women's diver Wendy Lucero, was the Colorado State High School champion and a High School All-American honorable mention.

Golden said he is not sure if the team will be ready for Friday's meet against Illinois, Missouri and Kansas, but the team is working hard and "should be up to par" before long.

'Best game of the year' propels fielders to victory over Bears

Right link Patty Lauer couldn't have picked a better time to get her third and fourth goals of the year for the Saluki field hockey team.

Lauer scored twice Sunday, notching the tying and game-winning goals to help the Salukis defeat Southwest Missouri State 3-1, in the championship game of the Midwest Post-Season Field Hockey Tournament.

"I was bragging what they (the Salukis) could do all year," Coach Julie Illner said. "We had the potential, and we showed shades of it this season. We put it all together last weekend, and we played our best game of the year against Southwest."

The victory also snapped a seven-game winless streak against Southwest. The Salukis tied Southwest 1-1 earlier in the season, but haven't beat them since the 1981 season.

Illner said center halfback Mary Beth Meehan played her best game of the year against Southwest, and said the Salukis were helped by the return of right inner Nadine Simpson, who scored one goal and added two assists in the tournament. Simpson had missed six games prior to the tournament with a broken nose.

In the championship game, the Bears took a 1-0 halftime lead on a penalty stroke goal by Kim Schwaab at 23:52 before the Salukis roared back in the second half.

Lauer scored both of her goals on penalty corners and both were assisted by sweeper

Nancy McAuley, who made the stick stops. Lauer tied the game at 8:18, beating Southwest goalie Patty Blanke, and four minutes later, she slammed in the game-winning goal.

Left inner Kathy Crowley insured the victory with a goal at 25:02 on an assist from Simpson, which closed out the Salukis' scoring.

"Patty has been frustrated all season by getting shots off on penalty corners and missing the goal by inches," Illner said. "We have been working on penalty corners all year, and it finally worked."

Goalies Sandy Wasfey and Lisa Cuocci combined for the Saluki victory. Wasfey made 11 saves in the first half, and Cuocci stopped six shots in the second half.

Illner said Wasfey (one shutout) and Cuocci (two shutouts) played well in the tournament. They only allowed three goals in five games for a 0.6 defensive average.

The Salukis posted a 4-0-1 record in the tournament and outscored their opponents 15-3.

SIU-C also received some balanced scoring in the tournament, with eight players breaking into the scoring column. Crowley and right wing Jennifer Bartley each scored three goals to lead the scoring attack.

Crowley's three goals enabled her to tie left wing Sharon Leidy as the team's leading scorer. Crowley finished with nine goals and three assists, while Leidy had a team-high 10 goals and one assist.

The Salukis opened the tournament Friday morning with a 0-0, overtime tie against Notre Dame, despite outshooting them 44-14.

Notre Dame goalie Patti Gallagher had a strong game and stopped 12 Saluki shots. Wasfey countered with 10 saves for the Salukis.

After tying Notre Dame, the Salukis reeled off four consecutive victories over Dayton 6-0, Louisville 3-0, St. Louis 3-2 and Southwest. The wins over Dayton and Louisville were in pool play.

The Salukis scored all six of their goals against Dayton in the first half. Crowley led the scoring assault with two goals, and the Salukis received one goal apiece from Sue Solimine, Mindy Thorne, Dana Riedel, and Bartley. It was Thorne's second SIU-C career goal. SIU-C outshot Dayton 30-6, and Cuocci only had to make four saves.

In the Louisville game, SIU-C used goals by Bartley, Riedel, and Simpson to post the victory. Cuocci wasn't pressed and was only forced to make six saves.

In the semifinals against St. Louis, the Salukis took a 2-1 halftime lead on goals from Solimine and Leidy. The Billikens tied the score at 2-2 on a goal by Beth Struckoff at 24:51, but Bartley deflected in a Simpson shot four minutes later for the game-winning goal. Wasfey stopped five Billiken shots to register the victory for the Salukis.

Leidy, Riedel, and McAuley were selected to the all-tournament team for the Salukis, who finished with a 12-7-3 record overall.

Price keys men's gymnastics team

Sparked by a strong performance from Brendan Price, the SIU-C men's gymnastics team finished second last weekend in the Big Eight Invitational Tournament in Lincoln, Neb.

Price finished fourth in the all-around, scoring 53.75, as the Salukis finished second to the host Cornhuskers for the second year in a row. SIU-C finished with a team total of 270.90 points. Nebraska scored 276.15. Iowa finished a close third with 269.90 points.

"Brendan did really well. He was strong in his first five events, and he just struggled a little on the rings," Saluki Coach Bill Meade said.

Price, competing in his first all-around as a Saluki, placed third in vaulting with a 9.55 and third in the parallel bars with a 9.45. Price also performed well in the floor exercise, scoring a 9.35.

The Salukis' top team score came in vaulting, as Price, Mark Ulmer, Lawrence Williamson, Preston Knauf and David Bailey all scored over 9.00. Ulmer scored a 9.45, helping SIU-C score 46.60 points in the event.

Williamson tied Wes Suter of Nebraska for the championship in the floor exercise with a score of 9.60, and Gregg Upperman turned in a 9.20. The Salukis scored a 45.25 in the event, while Nebraska scored a 45.35.

SIU-C scored a 45.90 on the rings as Upperman led the way, finishing second with a 9.50. Ulmer added a 9.35, and David Lutterman scored a 9.30 for the Salukis. Ulmer finished 10th in the all-around.

Lutterman strained his right knee dismounting from the rings, so Meade held him out of the vault and the floor exercise. Lutterman, the Salukis' top returning all-arounder, did score well in the other four events despite his sore knee.

In the high bar, Lutterman scored a 9.40 and Ken Clark a 9.30 for the Salukis. Price, Ulmer and Upperman all registered scores of 9.00 or higher for SIU-C, as the team scored 45.95 in the event.

The Salukis' weakest event was the pommel horse, as they scored a 42.15. Nebraska scored a 45.25, and Iowa a 43.50 in the event. Lutterman was the top scorer with a 8.95.

"The kids will improve on the pommel horse. They know they need the most work on that event," Meade said. "I was pretty well pleased with the kids this weekend, and I was very pleased with Lawrence in the floor exercise."

"The best thing was that the kids didn't get upset when David got hurt. They just held together and did what they'd been doing in practice," he said.

High court says NFL can't halt franchise shifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League was left powerless Monday to block future franchise shifts after losing a Supreme Court appeal challenging the move of the Super Bowl champion Raiders from Oakland to Los Angeles.

The justices, without comment or recorded dissent, left intact a ruling that the league's control over franchise moves violated federal antitrust laws.

The NFL still may turn to Congress for help, seeking an exemption to the antitrust laws. NFL officials said no decision has been made on whether to renew a lobbying campaign for such an exemption.

But a league lawyer said the situation looked bleak after the Supreme Court setback.

"In football terms, it's a little like them having the ball on our 20, with 15 seconds left to go and three timeouts left for them," said Patrick Lynch, a Los Angeles lawyer for the NFL.

Lawyers for the other side said that assesment — holding out some hope for forcing the Raiders back to Oakland — was unrealistic.

The league separately has been ordered to pay $49 million to the Raiders and their new home, the Los Angeles Coliseum — an award now being challenged in a federal appeals court.

Lynch said it was conceivable that the federal appeals court in that case could reverse its previous ruling and reinstate the NFL's rule on franchise moves.

But Howard Daniels, a lawyer for the Los Angeles Coliseum, said: "If that happens, I will walk over to Pat Lynch's office and eat his desk."

Joseph M. Alioto of San Francisco, an attorney for the Raiders, said stripping the NFL of power to control franchise shifts "will be very good and beneficial for everyone involved — not only the Raiders and the Los Angeles Coliseum but for cities everywhere." The Coliseum was the original challenger to the NFL's power over the location of teams.

In 1978, the Coliseum's operators lost their major tenant, the Los Angeles Rams, when that team moved to a new stadium in Anaheim, Calif.

Al Davis, the Raiders' owner, subsequently began negotiating with the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Davis moved the Raiders to Los Angeles in 1982.

King named as Dogs' starting quarterback

By Mike Frey
Staff Writer

The quarterback shuffle continues in the SIU-C football camp.

Coach Ray Dorr announced that freshman Pat King will start his first game Saturday against Southwest Missouri. King played most of last week's game against Drake in relief of sophomore Joe Graves. He completed 16 of 36 passes for 160 yards, but was intercepted three times.

King will become the third quarterback to start a game for the Salukis this year. Senior Darren Dixon started the first eight games, but was replaced by Graves after a poor performance against West Texas State. Graves started the next two games, but was lifted against Drake after throwing interceptions in the Salukis' first two possessions.

"I think Pat deserves a chance to start at this point in the season," Dorr said. "He moved the football well, and the experience will help him."

Dorr said that King wouldn't be the only quarterback to see action, however. He is also planning to use Graves, who has been successful at times despite the rough outing at Drake.

"Joe will definitely play," Dorr said. "We'll probably use Pat on the first two series, and then alternate with Joe calling one series and Pat calling two."

Dorr said he wished he would have used Graves again after replacing him in the Drake game. King had success in the first half against Drake, dumping short passes in front of the Bulldogs' zone coverage. At one point he completed six straight passes.

Drake then changed its defensive scheme in the second half, and the Salukis were unable to utilize the short pass. King cooled off as a result, completing just four of 16 second-half pass attempts.

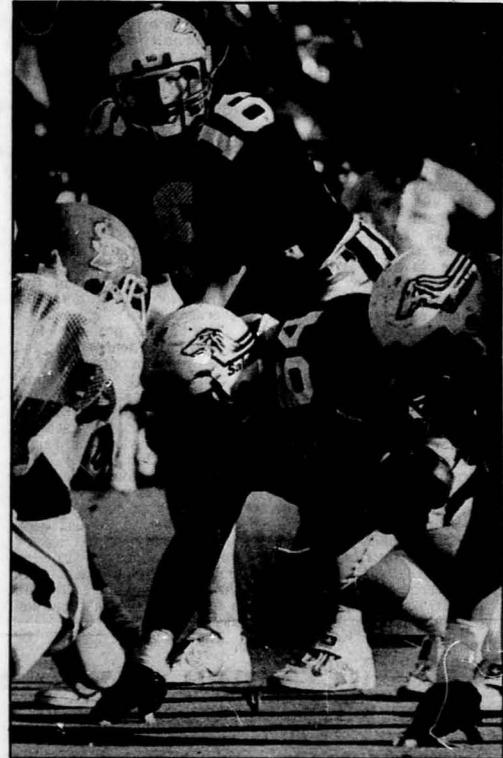

"I'm a little bit mad at myself for not playing Joe in the second half," Dorr said. "After looking at the film, we think it would have helped Pat to get him settled down. It would have helped Pat, and it would have helped Joe."

The five interceptions against Drake increased the number thrown by Saluki quarterbacks to 27, a school record. The previous record of 25 was set in 1965, when Jim Hart called the signals for SIU-C.

Dorr has become increasingly disturbed by his team's turnover ratio, which is last in the Missouri Valley Conference.

"I was disappointed with the interceptions," he said. "We've had troubles with tipped balls, but at other times, the quarterback has made the mistake. We need to eliminate turnovers, that's obvious."

SALUKI NOTES: The SIU-C coaching staff named fullback Bruce Phibbs as the offensive player of the week. He rushed for 100 yards on 13 carries against Drake. B.T. Thomas was named the defensive player of the week. The senior strong safety had five tackles and five assists. Special teams honors went to Brad Crouse, Phil Tregoning, Dan Gibson and Tony McDade.

Spiker Nicholson honored as GCAC Player of the Week

By Duane Crays
Sports Editor

Pat Nicholson, a middle attacker for the Saluki volleyball team, was selected as Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference Player of the Week.

Nicholson had a .393 attack percentage in her three matches against Missouri and GCAC opponents Bradley and Western Illinois. She also had four service aces 10 solo blocks, 16 block assists and 27 digs in the three matches.

"She has really made a commitment to volleyball," Saluki Coach Debbie Hunter said of Nicholson. "She deserves a pat on the back for her achievements."

Hunter said Nicholson is one of the strongest players ever to play volleyball at SIU-C.

"She has everything going for her," Hunter said. "If she becomes technically sound in all phases of the game, she will rank with the top players this school has had."

Nicholson is the second SIU-C player to be named GCAC

Pat Nicholson

Player of the Week. Setter Lisa Cummins was honored earlier this year.

SALUKI NOTES: Hunter said the match against Western last weekend was one of the worst officiated games she has seen in her collegiate career.

"The players were better qualified to make the calls than the officials were," she said. "The officiating wasn't conducive to quality volleyball."

With last weekend's wins over Bradley and Western, the Salukis' GCAC record was raised to 5-2 with two conference matches remaining. Southwest Missouri State and Illinois State are assured places in the GCAC championship, while Bradley and Drake follow the Salukis with 4-3 records. The Salukis will need to split their remaining two conference matches in order to go to the championships. The top four teams will participate in the championship on Nov. 16-17.

The Salukis will close out their regular season at home with matches against Memphis State on Thursday and against GCAC opponents Drake on Friday and Northern Iowa on Saturday.
