Pope to spend 38 hours in Chicago on longest stop of six-city U.S. tour

CHICAGO (AP) — Pope John Paul II brings his frenetic pastoral tour of America cross-country Thursday to the nation's largest Roman Catholic archdiocese after jetting from Philadelphia to Des Moines, Iowa.

The pontiff will spend 38 hours in Chicago, the longest single stop on his six-city tour and his third trip to the city but his first as pope.

The highlight of his Chicago stay will be Friday's Mass celebrated with 15 cardinals and 750 bishops before more than 1 million followers in downtown Grant Park along Lake Michigan.

In Chicago, home of an estimated 800,000 to 900,000 Polish Catholics, the Polish pope also will deliver the only Mass in his native tongue during the trip, will meet with the nation's bishops and will listen to the Chicago Symphony Orchestra perform at Holy Name Cathedral.

The massive security, and the jubilant, cheering throngs that have marked John Paul's trip to Ireland and his first three days in the United States will continue. He's also expected to be greeted with pleasant, sunny fall temperatures of about 60 Thursday, turning cloudy on Friday.

In keeping with his humble demeanor and his previous stops on the trip, the pope won't see only the opulent parts of Chicago. Though he'll be sleeping at the archbishop's home in the posh Gold Coast area, he'll stop at a church in a poor Latino community and drive through black and other ethnic areas of the city.

About 4,000 police and 700 firemen will be on duty to secure motorcade routes and sites that the pope will visit. Most of the downtown area will be closed to all but public transportation Friday to accommodate the outpouring expected to crowd the park.

A 17,000-square-foot, multilevel, cruciform-shaped platform costing $212,000 has been built there for the Mass. The platform will elevate the pope 15 feet high.

There are officially 2,415,354 Catholics in the Chicago archdiocese, and city officials have estimated that more than half will attend the Mass, though the archdiocese has been much more conservative in its estimates.

On this trip, as in those to Mexico and Poland since John Paul II attained the seat of St. Peter about a year ago, he has exuded warmth, emotion, enthusiasm and love while pleading for peace.

Civil Service employees to receive raise

By Shelley Davis
Staff Writer

Civil Service employees represented by the bargaining organization will receive an 8 percent raise of their current salaries retroactive to July 1.

Lee Hester, chairman of the Civil Service Bargaining Organization, said the raise, which was decided by the rank and file on Tuesday, will be on the first paycheck in November. He said all retroactive pay will be on the second pay check of that month.

The CSBO members had been asked to decide how the 8 percent increase granted by the state would be dispersed. Either the raise would be distributed as a flat percentage or as a 33 cents per hour across-the-board increase. The 33 cents per hour increase would benefit only those employees making less than $4.12 per hour.

Since the majority of the union members makes more than $4.12 per hour, least a raise he was not surprised by the decision.

"I would say with the cost of living the way it is, people are reluctant to try to solve any problems," Hester said.

According to Hester, CSBO "inherited" the inequities created by the University in the salaries of employees in identical classifications doing the same work.

"You have a Steno IV at the vice president's level who could be making $50 to $100 more than a Steno IV at the chairman's level," he explained. Hester said the gap between these salaries could have been lessened with the 33-cents per hour raise.

The union members also ratified the new contract by a vote of 189-16. Although some members seemed unhappy with the new contract, Hester said the organization lacks the membership to bargain more strongly.

"We have to go out and get the freeloaders who are not paying dues, in order to solidify. Right now we don't have enough strength to tell the administration 'you do this or we'll walk off the job,'" Hester said.

Civil Service workers that are not CSBO members had previously received pay raises. It was also announced that an election for the Executive Board will be held the first week in November. According to Hester, nominations for chairman, vice chairman, secretary and treasurer will be taken during October.

Rowe on committee backing Connally

By Kay Robinson
Staff Writer

Harris Rowe, chairman of the SIU Board of Trustees, has been named to a state committee supporting former Texas governor and Nixon cabinet officer John Connally for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

Rowe, president of Central National Life Insurance Co., of Jacksonville, is one of 79 people from Central and Northern Illinois named to the committee. He described the position as "honorary."

"I haven't volunteered any time," Rowe said. "I'm too busy with my duties here at Central National. They just called me and asked if they could use my name."

He added that he was not being paid by the committee.

Rowe said he was supporting Connally because he thought he had a better chance of being elected than any of the other Republican candidates.

"But I intend to support whoever is nominated," he said. "And I haven't really looked at the polls, but I guess (Ronald) Reagan would have to be the front runner."

Rowe, 48, was first appointed to the SIU board in 1971 and was re-elected to his third one-year term as chairman in February.

Rowe is a former state representative and has been Morgan County Republican chairman for 20 years.

Rowe said he had met Connally in the past, "but I'm sure he wouldn't remember me."

Objectives of higher education outlined by Shaw in lecture

By Ray Robinson
Staff Writer

Chancellor Kenneth A. Shaw had what he called a refreshing experience Wednesday—a chance to talk about education rather than about budgets and rebellious constituencies and lawsuits.

In shirtsleeves and vest, Shaw spoke to an audience of about 20 in the Student Center on the objectives of higher education. He told them that undergraduate education should stress three areas to "get you ready for anything."

The first, he said, is liberal arts. "You need to grow comfortable in the world of ideas," Shaw said, "to allow you to face the new knowledge that is being created."

Liberal arts, he said, "helps us learn how to learn. Your college education stops, but learning never stops."

Shaw referred to the second area as one of "communications and human relations skills...the ability to interact with people and solve problems."

"I'm not talking about being a patsy and I'm not talking about manipulating someone. I mean the ability to listen and discuss problems."

Shaw also emphasized verbal communication skills, saying, "A student who can't write shouldn't be allowed to graduate."

He said the third area, solid work skills, was necessitated by "the new worker and the new job."

The new worker is often female and is parttime help while the new job is more oriented to service than to production, Shaw said.

"Work is no longer the most important part of life. The quality of life is. It used to be that when you met someone, you asked where they worked. Your generation is more likely to ask, 'What are you into?'"

Carterville may join in drug control

By Ella Reilly
Staff Writer

The city of Carterville may soon become a formal member of an intergovernmental board participating in Southern Illinois Enforcement Group drug investigations.

Seven of the eight governmental units involved in SIEG, a multi-jurisdictional drug law enforcement agency, have approved Carterville's membership in its current intergovernmental agreement. Richard Pariser, director of SIEG, said Jackson County is the only unit which has not approved the membership.

Pariser said he could see no reason why the Jackson County Board will not approve Carterville's membership in SIEG at its next monthly meeting on Wednesday.

SIEG's policies are determined by its governing board, which consists of two representatives from each governmental unit. SIU-C, the cities of Carbondale and Murphysboro, and the counties Jackson, Williamson, Perry and Union are units now formally participating in the agreement.

Each unit supplies one or more officers to SIEG.

Pariser said that Carterville's membership will "increase capability in terms of drug investigation in Williamson County." He said that sometimes only one officer can be assigned to a county and that officer is obligated to cover the entire county, which may have a population of up to 50,000.

Pariser said Carterville is already participating in the program and has supplied two investigative officers. The amendment to the intergovernmental agreement to include Carterville is a formality so that Carterville can appoint representatives to the governing board, he said.

Mayor Hans Fischer, chairman of the SIEG governing board, said two other counties not presently included in SIEG have expressed interest in joining the SIEG agreement, but that no action has been taken on the requests. He said that further geographical expansion of the group to cover these counties would make SIEG's ability to operate more difficult. Carterville is in Williamson County, which is now under SIEG's jurisdiction.

SIEG is one of seven Metropolitan Enforcement Groups in Illinois. The MEG units are funded by the state and enforce drug laws at the local level.

Student's father shot and killed on U.S. 51

The father of an SIU-C student was shot and killed at about 1:15 a.m. Wednesday while he was apparently asking another motorist for directions.

Daniel Boone, a mechanic from Chicago, was shot after approaching a pickup truck stopped behind his car. The shooting occurred at the intersection of old and new U.S. 51, about two miles south of Carbondale.

Boone had been in the area to deliver a bicycle to his daughter, Veronica, an 18-year-old freshman in pre-med. She lives in Schneider Hall.

Boone and a passenger, whose name was not released by the Jackson County Sheriff's Office, were headed toward West Memphis, Tenn., when they became lost trying to find Interstate 57, a deputy said.

According to the sheriff's report, the driver of the pickup shot Boone from the window of the truck.

Jackson County Coroner Don Ragsdale said the 62-year-old Boone was shot with a pistol, "probably a .38 caliber."

Police were looking late Wednesday night for the truck, described as a 1970 to 1975 medium blue Ford pickup. The truck also had a homemade topper on the bed, about six inches high, a deputy said.

The deputy said the person who shot Boone probably lives in the area, and "just panicked."

The state crime laboratory in De Soto and SIU-C police are assisting Jackson County authorities in the investigation.

Boone had been employed as a cab driver and as a security guard in Chicago.

The deputy said officers are working on finding the truck from the description, but he urges anyone who sees a truck matching the above description to call the sheriff's office.

Kreps' resignation rumored

WASHINGTON — (AP) Juanita M. Kreps, the first woman to serve as secretary of commerce, has told President Carter that she intends to resign from her post at the end of the month, sources said Wednesday.

The sources, who asked for anonymity, said Mrs. Kreps was resigning for personal reasons.

White House press officers had no immediate comment on whether Mrs. Kreps had submitted her resignation or whether Carter had accepted one.

Mrs. Kreps is believed to have been seriously considering returning to Durham, N.C., since late June because of her husband's health problems.

Her husband, Clifton H. Kreps, a business professor at the University of North Carolina, has been under psychiatric care for some time. On June 29 he was hospitalized with injuries after authorities said he fired a .38 caliber revolver into his mouth.

Mrs. Kreps preferred to be known as the first economist to be secretary of commerce, not just the first woman.

examiner to take closed-door testimony.

The Champaign-based "Prairie Alliance" wants the ICC to hear stories of alleged mismanagement in building the Clinton atomic plant by current Illinois Power employees. But the group claims the testimony should be given in secret to protect the employees from possible reprisals by the utility and co-workers.

Blalock told the group today that he didn't have the power to conduct meetings behind closed doors. He said he thinks the full ICC could order such secret meetings, but only by naming a special examiner to take the testimony and then forward a report to Blalock.

Blalock is conducting hearings into Illinois Power's request for a $92 million rate increase.

State crime rate rose slightly in '78

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — After two straight years of a downward trend, the number of serious crimes reported in Illinois increased slightly in 1978, according to a report released Wednesday by the state Department of Law Enforcement.

The report showed property crimes were down slightly, but crimes of violence jumped by more than 8 percent. A top law enforcement official said last year's severe winter weather probably contributed to both the property crime decrease and the surge in violent crime.

The report, compiled from statistics provided by more than 1,000 law enforcement agencies in Illinois, showed that in 1978, a total of 549,663 serious crimes were reported, or 0.4 percent more than in 1977.

That compared with decreases of 2.4 percent in 1977 and of 5.9 percent in 1976.

While the increase in overall serious crime in 1978 was slight, the report showed an 8.2 percent jump in the number of reported violent crimes—murder and attempted murder, voluntary manslaughter, rape, robbery and armed robbery, aggravated assault and aggravated battery.

Officials to probe train derailment

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Why did the person running the Amtrak train which derailed here Tuesday greatly exceed the speed limit within a half mile of the Lawrence depot, where it was scheduled to stop?

That is the crucial question to be answered by the National Transportation Safety Board, which began its investigation Wednesday. The grinding crash, killed two crewmen and injured 69 passengers.

"The main thrust of our investigation is why the train was going that fast at that point," Elwood T. Driver, board vice chairman, told a news conference.

"My experts tell me it would have been extremely difficult for the train to have stopped within that distance. The question is why he was going that speed."

John Jacobsen, an Amtrak spokesman in Washington, said damage to the three locomotives and 16 cars that derailed will be about $3 million.

Chancellor search, new system too costly

NOW THAT the fog has begun to dissipate from around the new hierarchy for the SIU system, it might be good time to look back on what has been wrought by the Board of Trustees.

There has been a vocal dissent from the Edwardsville faculty and student constituencies, a suit from the Madison County State's Attorney charging the trustees actions in the governance change were illegal and a call for the board's resignation from a Southern Illinois legislator.

Through it all, the trustees plodded along like some great terrapin, withdrawing its head to avoid criticism and ignoring the catcalls of those who would dare disagree.

THE CHANCELLOR, his staff and all that goes with it are here to stay. The trustees have remained impervious to public outrage more than once in the past.

But the question of what the change in structure cost and what it accomplished should haunt the board right up to the scheduled five-year review of the system.

It took the trustees six months and $67,721.71 to find the man they wanted to lead SIU in the 1980s. Their choice of Kenneth Shaw—fig ratively (and perhaps literally) the boy next door—makes the chancellor search seem like an expensive diversion.

BUT WAIT, there's more.

In what appeared to be a move to appease campus constituency groups opposed to the change, Shaw promised that the chancellor and his staff would not exceed the budget allowed the board staff under the old system. The seduction worked. What appeared to be a limit on the bureaucratic hierarchy turned out to be the rationale for swelling the ranks of the administration.

When it was discovered that the eight-member board staff left a surplus of $160,000 in its budget last year, the trustees scrambled to find a way to spend the funds which had previously been shared between the two campuses. Never a group to deny reward for years of good service, the board promptly handed former General Secretary James Brown the $53,284 per year post as vice chancellor.

When questioned about the new position—it had never been mentioned during the public hearings on the governance change—Board Chairman Harris Rowe replied, "It's true we didn't say we were going to establish a vice chancellor's office. But we didn't say we wouldn't either."

THE TRUSTEES also "didn't say" that the chancellor would need a public information officer at an annual salary of between $16,000 and $22,000. They "didn't say" the budget would have to absorb the $175 per month cost of Shaw's apartment in Carbondale or the travel costs between the two campuses and around the state. Not to mention the loss of $160,000 that would have otherwise been available to the campuses.

The board also forgot to mention that searching for a president for each of the campuses might cost double the search for a chancellor. The administration contends the cost of hiring a new president cannot be tied to the governance reorganization. About seeking a replacement for Brandt, Brown said, "The same thing would have been faced had a truck run over him (Brandt)." That begs the question; a truck did not run over Brandt. The Board of Trustees did.

In the end, the trustees will probably have paid nearly $307,000 to have a central voice, a figure head and an extra layer of administration. It's a sad commentary on the priorities of this University at a time when teachers salaries lag far behind inflation and the salaries paid in other states and when fewer and fewer students can afford the cost of higher education.

Will column wrong; abortion still option

In response to George F. Will's column, "Choice not at issue," (Sept. 19th Daily Egyptian) I can only say that I am shocked that such an otherwise open-minded and liberal newspaper would print such conservative garbage.

Mr. Will failed to realize that previous to the 1973 court ruling legalizing abortion, there were estimated to be nearly 1 million illegal and dangerous abortions performed each year. The death rate among women from illegal abortions was 40 deaths per 100,000 procedures compared with the current death rate of 1.7 per 100,000 procedures among women from legal abortions.

Regarding the recent Pregnancy Discrimination Act, if Mr. Will had bothered to research he would have noted that an employer is not required to pay for an abortion except when medically necessary to protect the woman's life. The employer must pay other expenses only when there are complications, which comprises less than three percent of all abortions.

First trimester abortions are usually uncomplicated regarding the procedure itself and any physical considerations. Abortions often follow days or weeks of soul searching on the part of the woman or couple. It is not an easy decision to make and it is definitely not taken as a "trivial matter," as George Will claims.

In closing, Mr. Will also makes several remarks about the pro-choice movement, implying that as a group our goal is to make abortion another form of birth control. Quite the contrary. The very name of pro-choice implies that we want to leave all possible options open so that the woman and her doctor can best decide. Abortion is not always the right answer but it must remain an option.

Create ticket system

It is time for the SPC to establish a system for selling concert tickets which accommodates the whole student body, rather than a chosen few.

According to the DE and WTAO, tickets for the Tom Waits performance were to go on sale Sept. 27, at 8:00 a.m. in the Student Center ticket office.

Assuming this to be true, we arrived at 5:45 a.m. in order to get some decent seats. We were then informed that there was a sign up sheet taped to a pillar in front of the Student Center. We ended up being No. 90 on the list.

Normally, a few well chosen words directed at no one in particular would have alleviated our anger. However, in this case we, along with many others, were on the receiving end of the royal screw. On Wednesday afternoon we called the ticket office and the activities council informed us there was no sign-up sheet.

We spoke with the person in charge of the sign-up list and found there was no connection between her and the SPC or any other committee related to the University!

She could very easily have not been an SIU student. We asked her if she thought it fair practice to start a sign up list without making it public knowledge. She replied that as long as her name was on the top of the list, she did not care. This letter, however is not directed toward her.

We are addressing the SPC for honoring the sign-up sheet system and for making no effort to establish a procedure which gives everyone an equal chance at getting great seats.

Ticket sign-up fair; formal control urged

I have just returned from purchasing tickets to the Tom Waits concert, and feel that certain action should be taken in the future to avoid possible impairment and to ensure that the distribution of tickets is handled as fairly as possible.

The Waits ticket sales were handled just as the last few concerts have been, by creating a list a few days beforehand, and checking each name on a periodic basis. Because this avoids disorder and disrupting of traffic, alleviating the necessity for campus control, and still allows the first-come-first-serve process to remain, I feel that this system should be maintained in the future.

Unfortunately, because the system was operated by a few individual students not involved with the Student Center or the SPC, there was a tendency on the part of certain individuals to not follow the guidelines set up by the list procedure. These people were not willing to come early, and follow rules agreed on by the rest.

We were able to persuade some of the ineligible ones to compromise their positions, but there were others who were able to stay ahead in line at the expense of those willing to cooperate.

This problem could have been alleviated if the ticket office had been willing to accept the list that we agreed to. However, because we were not affiliated with the SPC, they refused to honor it and sold the tickets to those first in line.

For these reasons, I urge the SPC and/or Student Center offices to take formal action in future ticket sales. If these offices were involved in the organization of the selling process, there would be the needed authority to discourage future trespassing, and prevent future injustice by working in cooperation with the ticket office.

Buffett not after cash

Your review of Jimmy Buffett's new album made this fan angry. You called him a bum and spoke of him as if he were nothing more than a beach parasite. You said he "hangs around" the Florida Keys. He does not just "hang around" the Keys, he lives there. Jimmy Buffett may seem like a bum to you, but to me he represents the adventurous and fun side of life. When I finally found the last paragraph of your article on page 14, not on page 11 as indicated, I was surprised at your suggestion that Buffett get out of the water and think of some new ideas. It seems from this statement that you fail to understand that Buffett does not look at his music as a money-making industry. You do not know about Jimmy Buffett. He writes music that can make depression take a hike. Pulling him out of the water would be something like raising the drinking age to 21.

Date corrected for parade entries

It was mistakenly reported in Wednesday's Daily Egyptian that the deadline for entering the Homecoming Parade is Oct. 13.

The deadline for recognized student organizations to register floats, cars or stunts with the Student Programming Council for the Homecoming Parade is at 5 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 4. The Homecoming parade is Oct. 13.

The theme of this year's Homecoming is "The Roaring Twenties," and all floats should be consistent with this theme and within the boundaries of good taste, according to Theresa Peters, Homecoming chairwoman.

Community groups have been encouraged to participate. Chancellor Kenneth Shaw will be the parade's Grand Marshal.

The parade will start at 10 a.m. Oct. 13 at the corner of University and Walnut and will end at the spotlight near McAndrew Stadium.

Trophies will be awarded to the second place winners in the float contest and for first and second place winners in the car and stunt categories.

UAW picketers block plant entries

PEORIA (AP) — Striking United Auto Workers, angered when a picket was allegedly struck by a car, blocked entrances seemingly at random Wednesday at two Caterpillar Tractor Co. plants.

There was no apparent order or continuity in the action in which hundreds of company employees were turned away.

Most management employees eventually were able to enter through other gates at Caterpillar's diesel engine workers north of Peoria, but most at the plant south of the city gave up and went back home, a company spokesman said.

There were no similar incidents reported at Caterpillar plants in East Peoria and the distribution center east of town. No injuries were reported and there was no record of anyone being hospitalized.

More than 23,000 UAW workers are on strike in the Peoria area, shutting down Caterpillar's sprawling operations here where most of its U.S. assembly of construction machinery takes place.

The strike by Local 974 in the Peoria area has idled more than half of Caterpillar's employees nationwide. It is in defiance of the international UAW, which had asked that members at Caterpillar and International Harvester plants nationwide continue working under extended contracts while the union focused its attention on new contract talks with Deere & Co.

The union's contract with the Big Three farm and machinery makers expired last Monday.

Some 31,000 Deere workers are off the job, mostly in Illinois and Iowa, and no new contract talks had been scheduled Wednesday between the company and union.

Employees at all International Harvester plants in the U.S., totaling some 35,471 UAW members, remained on the job under an extended contract. About 17,000 union members at Caterpillar plants elsewhere in Illinois and Iowa, Colorado, Tennessee, Ohio and Pennsylvania also were working under an extended contract.

Show aims to explore SIU-C

By Paula Walker
Entertainment Editor

A television show designed to explore research, activities, people and events at SIU-C will air at 9 p.m. Thursday on WSIU.

"SIU Today" will depict the contemporary SIU-C, according to Diane Havinga, producer of the series. "It will deal not only with administrators, but with the faculty and students."

Thursday's show will feature an interview with Chancellor Kenneth Shaw who will discuss his "feelings on his new job," Havinga said. "He will hopefully be a regular guest and not a stranger to our viewers."

Other administrative officials "SIU Today" will feature include Frank Horton, vice president of academic affairs, and Hiram Lesar, acting president of SIU-C and dean of the School of Law.

"We hope to have Horton appear at least monthly to introduce new topics," Havinga said. "Lesar is to speak about his role as acting president and as dean of the law school."

"We will also go to the law school to find out what students think of it and why they came here," she said. "We will be shooting a lot outside the studio. We have remote equipment and will try to use it to its best advantage."

Some of the "SIU Today" segments will explore different types of research projects being conducted at SIU-C. Programs on a fishery experiment and an SIU-C professor's research on the narrow pathways in the brain are planned, Havinga said.

Some human-interest programs are being prepared for the magazine-format television show, including a segment on roller skating and one on a blacksmith shop, she said. Other programs in the planning stages are one about a professor who teaches math on television and a report on the aviation program at the School of Technical Careers.

Havinga hopes to take the television cameras "behind the scenes" to explore activities such as setting up an art gallery display or auditioning for a part. "There is no subject 'SIU Today' can't handle, as long as it deals with our audience," she said.

The show is to be hosted by John Holmes, faculty adviser for the series, who will moderate and conduct interviews. The show's crew is made up of eight students, who "do everything" from running cameras to editing film, Havinga said.

"If anyone sees something that will interest our audience, I would be more than happy to research the idea and see if it's worth telling other people about," she said.

History portrayed with song, dance

By Paula Walker
Entertainment Editor

Three men and two women walked onto the makeshift stage which was bare except for a trunk and a backdrop depicting a horizon with a rain bow. Two easels were placed by the side of the stage. On them were black-and-white drawings of clay pots.

The five on the stage were all dressed alike, in faded red long underwear and white drawing pants. A tall woman began strumming a guitar, accompanying a man playing a recorder. The woman spoke in a clear voice about the plants and wildlife which were the first residents of Southern Illinois.

As the music filled over the crowd, the other three on stage performed a slow and graceful dance. Without betraying their next actions by changing their serene expressions, the three dropped to the floor, made snorting noises and pantomimed the actions of wild beasts.

The performance of "Illinois Ozarks: A Heritage of Crafts" was excellent. Touching melodrama faded into zany antics which kept the audience members on their toes. Written by Bonnie Krause, the 50-minute drama combines acting, music and dance in an intriguing, and innovating way.

A Review

Originally designed to entertain children, the play offers enough interesting information, pleasing dance and intriguing dialogue to keep an adult entranced. The play followed the history of Southern Illinois from the days when Indians were the only residents to the days of the French settlements. It takes the audience on a tour through the lives and customs of the people that lived in Southern Illinois during the Civil War, during the first days of the railroad and during the era of the first coal mines.

"A Heritage of Crafts" is designed to be performed for children, and the play is presented for a fee in requested locations. Persons wishing to have the play presented can contact the Illinois Ozarks Craft Guild.

Hikes and canoe trips planned

Jenell Olson
Staff Writer

Touch of Nature has planned several outings, ranging from wild berry picking to canoeing, for its Environmental Workshops' Family Programs scheduled throughout the remainder of the year.

How to identify and collect edible wild plants is the topic of a workshop from 1 to 4 p.m. on Oct. 7. A brief introduction on the utilization of field keys and guides will be the starting point of the workshop.

A slide presentation of plants that are not in season will precede an hour-and-a-half hike through the woods to identify wild berries. Poisonous plants will also be pointed out.

Samples of dishes and herbal teas made from wild edibles will complete the workshop. Participants are also urged to bring their own recipes of wild plants that grow near their homes.

The cost of the workshop is $2 and reservations may be made by calling Touch of Nature by Oct. 5.

A "swamp tromp" is planned from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Oct. 20. The exploration of Little Black Slough near Vienna will consist of a five-mile hike through several undisturbed plant communities including a hill prairie, a virgin hardwood and bald cypress forests. A guide will explain the history of the area along with the various logging methods used in the past.

Transportation will be provided and the cost is $5 for adults and $4 for children.

An overnight canoeing and hiking trip is offered from 10 a.m. Oct. 27 to 2 p.m. Oct. 28. The excursion will begin with a short canoe trip and hike to Hidatsa Indian lodge where participants will spend the night.

A hike to Progress, an old pioneer town, is among the activities planned for the second day of the trip. Indian and pioneer history will be taught.

Cost of the overnight trip is $15 for adults and $12 for children. The fee includes canoes, instruction, food and insurance. Backpacking equipment will be available for an additional charge.

An additional canoe trip will be offered at Little Grassy from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. Nov. 11. Guides from Touch of Nature will discuss the area's plant and animal life along with the impact humans have made on the region.

Basic canoeing instructions will also be offered. The cost of the trip is $4 for adults and $2 for children under age 15.

Other trips include a hike through Panthers' Den on Dec. 2 and a night hike on Jan. 30.

There will also be half- and full-day outdoor educational activities offered only to 9- to 16-year-olds. "Fall ecosploing" is scheduled for 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Nov. 9 and "winter ecosploing" will be from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Feb. 9. Both will include field studies, hiking and interpretive programs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said the Senate should consider the SALT II treaty on its merits and not in connection with the Russian combat force reported to be in Cuba.

Reacting to President Carter's message on Soviet troops in Cuba, Percy said in a statement that the only question the Senate should consider concerning the treaty is: "Is it beneficial to our security?"

German choir to perform Thursday

Shubert Bund, an all-male German choir, will perform Thursday at 8 p.m. in Ballroom D of the Student Center. The choir from Wuppertal, Germany is currently performing in selected cities throughout the United States.

Thursday night's performance in the Student Center came about when the choir's scheduled concerts in Mexico were cancelled, according to Tilly Vaughn, a German native and a secretary in the SIUC School of Art.

Herbert Appelmann, a choir member and an employee of Allen Industries in Wuppertal, was supervising the installation of machinery in an Allen Industries plant in Herrin when the Mexico concerts were cancelled. Vaughn's sister, who works at the Herrin plant, became aware of their plight and asked Tilly Vaughn to help them out.

She was able to obtain funds from the Carbondale City Council and the Student Center making Thursday's performance possible. In addition, a student in the school of art arranged for the group to perform in Paducah last Tuesday night.

Shubert Bund is not a professional choir. Vaughn said. The group sings for its members' enjoyment and for the enjoyment of the audience, she said. The members themselves are providing the bulk of the funds for the tour. The choir has made several recordings.

Movie portrays political reality

By Craig DeVriese
Staff Writer

Where most studies of the personal and public lives of a politician fail, "The Seduction of Joe Tynan" succeeds.

Director Jerry Schatzberg and script-writer Alan Alda manage to account for each aspect of Senator Joe Tynan's life as his political fortunes rise and his personal life disintegrates. More importantly, the subtle changes in his personality that even Tynan himself can not recognize are clearly brought across to the audience.

The film stars Alda as a liberal senator from New York, Barbara Harris as his wife Ellie and Meryl Streep as the ambitious daughter of the Louisiana Democratic Party Chairman. Rip Torn is also featured as an unscrupulous southern senator and Melvyn Douglas turns in an excellent performance as a powerful yet benevolent senator from Louisiana who fears old age as the only enemy that can unseat him.

In the beginning of the film, Ellie tells Joe, "You're not a politician, you're just a good man who happens to be in politics." That is the crux of "The Seduction of Joe Tynan."

A Review

An honest, dedicated man is swept up and lost in the political struggle for power.

The film's first few moments show Tynan as a decent, loving family man. He has been in the Senate for almost two terms and has gained some stature as a liberal. Though he works in Washington and his family stays in New York he manages to stay close to his wife, son and daughter. As the film progresses that closeness evaporates.

In office, Tynan is depicted as an honest politician who knows how to play the game. But as events progress, the honesty loses out and the gamesmanship takes over.

The plot centers around the nomination of a Louisiana judge, Joe Anderson, to the Supreme Court. Senator Birney (Douglas) fears Anderson as a severe threat to his re-election chances and would like to have him safely tucked away on the Supreme Court.

The black lobby, lead by lawyer Streep, wants Anderson's nomination blocked on the grounds that he is a racist. They produce evidence of racial statements that he made 20 years earlier in the heat of the integration battle and pressure Tynan to lead the fight against the nomination.

The people around Joe Tynan believe that opposing the nomination can enhance his liberal reputation. But Tynan isn't convinced that Anderson is truly a racist and doesn't want to battle Birney, whom he respects. But he relents under the pressure and leads the battle.

Tynan wins and in the process is consumed by political ambition. He loses touch with himself and his family. He falls in love with Streep, who understands and loves politics.

In the end, Tynan recognizes what he has become. As he sweeps to the presidential nomination and tries to re-establish his ties with himself and his family, the audience is left to decide whether he can be both a successful politician and a decent man.

While the plot has a soap-opera-like tone, Schatzberg and Alda present it in a sincere, believable manner. The acting in this movie is excellent and the characters are real. "The Seduction of Joe Tynan" is the most honest depiction of political reality to date.

Activities Fair features student organizations

By Joseph T. Agnew
Student Writer

"The Main Event" will be the theme of this year's Activities Fair, which is scheduled from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday in Ballrooms C and D and the International Lounge of the Student Center.

The Activities Fair is an annual event sponsored by the New Student Orientation Committee to provide all recognized student organizations, various offices and campus agencies an opportunity to generate interest for membership. Representatives will be on hand to present information about their organizations.

"We want to make students aware of other ways to spend their free time that are important to college life," said Vera Tarsitano, coordinator of the event.

The Student Center will be decorated in the theme of "The Main Event," and each organization will be encouraged to utilize this theme when preparing its booth. Awards will be given to groups that utilize the theme in the most unique and attractive manner.

Organizations will be encouraged to use demonstrations or skits to promote interest and as a way to present information about the types of activities offered.

Any recognized student organization that has not reserved a booth as yet can contact the Office of Student Development on the third floor of the Student Center to reserve one.

Flee food and refreshments will be served to all attending the fair.

Local bands slated for nuclear benefit

The Appletree Alliance for safe energy will be sponsoring a benefit concert and bake sale from 5 p.m. to midnight Friday on the steps of Shryock Auditorium.

Bands scheduled to perform include Cheektz, a local rock band, from 5 to 6 p.m.; acoustic guitarist Dean Greenberg from 6 to 6:30 p.m.; Katie and the Smokers from 7:30 to 8 p.m. and Mr. Mirage from 8 to 8:30 p.m. A jam session is scheduled to take place after the performances.

Alliance members Don Gallagher and Kathie Erickson will speak on nuclear energy from 6 to 6:30 p.m. and Joe Harding, a former employee at the Union Carbide gaseous diffusion plant in Paducah, will speak on nuclear energy from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

The purpose of the Apple Tree Alliance is to promote a "safe energy awareness," according to Alliance member Jeanine Jones.

Thursday show stars Tracy

The SPC Films Committee will be presenting "Bad Day at Black Rock" at 7 and 9 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Auditorium. Admission is $1.
The 1954 film stars Spencer Tracy, Robert Ryan, Lee Marvin and Ernest Borgnine. The movie depicts Tracy as a one-armed karate expert who unearths some unpleasant truths in this tense mystery-drama of the treatment of Japanese-Americans during World War II.

Women's group shares coping experiences

By Clady Humphreys
Staff Writer

The International Women's Group provides a format to share experiences about coping in Carbondale.

Ilona Sebestyén, the graduate assistant for international student relations, said some of these experiences include American social customs, SIUC educational information, and American food buying and preparation.

The weekly meetings are from 7 to 9 p.m. in Woody Hall, Wing A, Room 308. The meetings are on Fridays during the first and third weeks of the month, and on Thursdays during the second and fourth weeks. The next meeting is Friday.

Students and non-students are welcome, Sebestyén said. "If the women can't find someone to watch their children, they're welcome to bring them along," she said.

Each meeting has an organizational theme and is "good language practice for those women who want to improve their English, as well as an opportunity for international women to meet and get to know each other," Sebestyén said.

"This is an international group," she said, "we're all internationals, including Americans."

"There will be discussions about the mannerisms and speaking styles that are unique to our ethnic and cultural backgrounds, and especially about the differences between these and American styles of communication," Sebestyén said.

Meeting set at Morris Library

Waste problem to be aired

By Diana Penner
Staff Writer

Representatives of the Human Rights Survival Group, an organization concerned with toxic waste disposal, will be speaking at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Morris Library Auditorium.

The representatives will focus on the situation of Wilsonville, Ill., near St. Louis. The 700 residents of Wilsonville have been fighting court battles to stop Earthline, a Boston based waste-disposal company, from dumping chemical wastes in their town.

Mike Higbee, a graduate student in community development, has been following the case and plans to write a paper on the degree of community involvement in the issue. Higbee said the town won the latest round of the battle in September, when a Macoupin County Circuit Court ruled in favor of Wilsonville. Earthline will appeal the decision, Higbee said.

Higbee said the legal involvement in the case began about a year and a half ago, when Wilsonville residents discovered that Earthline was burying barrels of chemical waste on top of an abandoned mine in the town.

Earthline had posted a sign at the disposal site to the effect that conservation measures were being taken there, and a fence surrounded the area, Higbee said. Residents found out that barrels of chemicals were actually being buried at the site and initiated legal action.

Higbee said the corporation would not disclose what kinds of chemicals were in the barrels, claiming protection under a "trade secrets" regulation. Residents became concerned at the prospect of the old mine shafts collapsing and the barrels becoming damaged and leaking, allowing the chemicals to mix, Higbee said.

Certain chemicals can produce dangerous reactions when mixed, he said, and because the nature of the chemicals being dumped in Wilsonville was not known, residents were worried about a possible dangerous mixture of chemicals.

An injunction preventing Earthline from disposing wastes until the case is settled has been in effect since legal proceedings began, Higbee said.

Higbee said that one of the most amazing aspects of the Wilsonville case is the degree of community involvement and the unity of the residents. He said that more than 50 percent of the community is at least somewhat involved, and that about 15 percent are actively participating in the campaign.

He cited one incident: when the residents camped out on the main road of Wilsonville to block the path of the trucks carrying the chemical wastes. Activities such as bake sales and barbecues have also been organized by residents to raise money, Higbee added.

Pre-law night provides forum for discussion on law schools

By Shelley Davis
Staff Writer

Lawyers-to-be or students simply interested in what law school entails are encouraged to attend Pre-Law Night at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Morris Library Auditorium.

According to Chairman of the Pre-Law Advisory Committee, M. Browning Carrott, "It's a chance for undergraduates to find out more about the Law School, and to find out more about admission into law school."

Carrott said that undergraduate students can also find out how to prepare for entrance into law school.

David Jonsson, associate that comprise the final year.

Rodgers said he will also discuss faculty and student relations and the ways in which the Student Bar Association can enhance the legal education of the student.

An opportunity for questions will also be provided.

dean of the Law School, will give an address and Rita Moss, director of placement, will talk about career opportunities.

Moss said, "I hope to give some advice on the flexibility of students coming into law school. They have a better chance if they are willing to be flexible."

Jim Rodgers, president of the Student Bar Association, and three other students will talk about their experiences.

Promiscuity study reveals increase among SIU students

By Ronda Sloan
Student Writer

A study by Dr. Lee Spalt, psychiatrist at the student health program, reveals that students who have histories associated with a least one psychiatric illness tend to report more than two sexual partners.

The study, "Sexual Promiscuity: Search for a Definition," attempted to discover if the number of sexual partners an individual had would be higher for those people with antisocial personalities.

"We studied promiscuity," Spalt said, "because it was one of the textbook symptoms of antisocial personality."

According to Spalt, antisocial personality is a familiar disorder characterized by significant trouble in several areas of social functioning, such as school, family, law, work, marriage, tolerance, deception, sexual behavior, prolonged periods of wandering and financial dependency.

Spalt mailed questionnaires to about 2,300 randomly selected SIU-C students. The 550 questionnaires returned to him were analyzed for symptoms and characteristics of various illnesses, including affective disorders, alcoholism, drug use, antisocial personality and hysteria.

If students' responses indicate one of these disorders, they were placed in the "illness" group. Because non-prescription drug use and alcoholism were classified as illnesses, over 60 percent of the respondents qualified for placement in the "illness" group.

The "illness" group was then divided into various subgroups depending on the illness. The other 20 percent of respondents were classified in the "no illness" group and used as a basis of comparison.

Spalt found that persons in the antisocial personality illness group, about 9 percent of total respondents, had more heterosexual partners than any other group. Over 50 percent of the women in that group had more than 18 partners and 60 percent of the men had more than 12.

In pointing out one of the factors he found significant, Spalt said, "The old idea that for women, fewer sexual partners than for men represented promiscuity, was shown not to be true, and if anything, a female student may have a few more sexual partners than male students."

Spalt said he was surprised by the number of sexual partners people reported. The number was higher than he had previously expected," he said. The mean number of partners for the total sample was about eight, but for those in the "no illness" group, the mean number was slightly more than two.

According to the study of 242 women and 318 men, about 76 percent of the total sample had had sexual intercourse by the age of 17.

Latest presidential contender is an 'unknown' U.S. senator

By Mike Shanahan

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After eight months as a U.S. senator, with no measurable legislative record and no other particular accomplishments on the national level, Larry Pressler believes he is about ready to be president.

With little money and less organization, the 37-year-old South Dakotan has decided he is the new face the Republicans need to beat Jimmy Carter or Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

His principal qualifications appear to be an impressive academic record, an attractive appearance and two political upset victories in rural, sparsely populated South Dakota.

Pressler, a convivial and handsome bachelor who is a regular on Washington's social circuit, has made no significant mark with his legislative record, and is identified with no particular issue before the Congress.

Yet his mere presence in the Senate has given his ambitious visibility in a year of wide-open Republican presidential politics.

Pressler's candidacy provides a further clue that the Watergate scandals which drove Richard M. Nixon from the presidency may have a direct impact on American politics for a long time.

Pressler was first elected to Congress as a House member in 1974. Nixon had resigned a few months before and a "throw the rascals out" mentality cost many incumbents, including Pressler's opponent, their jobs.

He ran against the advice of many GOP professionals in South Dakota who said he was too young and inexperienced.

Pressler ignored the advice then and again in 1978 when he went after the Senate seat vacated by Democrat James Abourezk. Again, he successfully defied the conventional political wisdom.

Now, Pressler is hearing the same sentiments from skeptics of his presidential run. His reaction: "We'll let the chips fall where they may."

A second Watergate legacy is the likelihood that Pressler's run for the White House will be financed partially by taxpayer funds.

In reaction to campaign abuses — mainly in Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign — Congress established in 1974 a system of matching federal funds for presidential campaigns.

If Pressler, a former Rhodes scholar and a Harvard Law School graduate, can raise $5,000 in campaign contributions in each of 20 states, the government will match that dollar for dollar.

Pressler said he hopes to raise the $100,000 necessary to qualify for matching funds by January.

Some political observers say Pressler's candidacy may indicate it has become too easy to run for president. It remains to be seen whether Americans will take his candidacy seriously.

WORKER SAFETY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court said it will decide whether workers may refuse to perform jobs they consider too dangerous and be protected from retaliation by employers. Two federal appeals courts have made opposite rulings on the matter.

'Black' English was topic at conference

By Cindy Humphreys
 Staff Writer

Black English and education was the subject of one of the sessions of last week's Third International Conference on Frontiers in Language Proficiency and Dominance Testing.

Jerrie Scott, the keynote speaker of that session, detailed her perspectives on bidialectal education, which deals mainly with the problem black schoolchildren have learning standard school English with a black English dialect background.

"Bidialectalism is a compromise: between eradicating non-standard dialects in the schools and teaching in dialect only," said Scott, who was involved this past summer in a Michigan Black Language court case.

Scott said that speaking a non-prestigious dialect is a barrier to schoolchildren because of the lack of respect and knowledge about these dialects in the school system.

"Teachers have low expectations of students who use black English," she said. "Sometimes these children are inappropriately placed in classes for the speech impaired or the mentally handicapped." Scott said that some consideration must be given to changing the teaching methods of those who work with dialect speakers, since black English and standard English exhibit differences usually found in different languages. "The problems of black dialects in the school system, standard English are similar to those of foreign language students," she said.

YOU'LL HEAR 99.98%

PURE MUSIC

That's right! Yamaha receivers don't waste a watt on distortion. Special equipment can find just a trace (0.02%) but we guarantee your ears won't hear a bit.

And no matter which Yamaha receiver is in your budget range, you'll get the same super low distortion.

Take for example:

YAMAHA CR 640

You get 40 watts per channel, both channels driven into 8 ohms, 20-20 KHZ, 0.02% THD. Tuner, pre-amp and amp sections are accurately matched to assure that performance will live up to Yamaha's high standards.

The CR-640 AM-FM Tuner Section combines high station receiving ability razor sharp tuning and ultra-low distortion. Twin Meter FM tuning gives you an exact visual reading of both signal strength and center zero tuning. In addition, auto circuit automatically modifies IF range to give you high sensitivity and high selectivity in reception.

The CR 640 also gives you the kind of control flexibility usually found only on high priced "separates". There are comprehensive tone/filter controls for bass and treble, each with a FLAT central position that removes their influence from the circuit. There are also individual high and low filters to eliminate hiss, scratch and rumble.

Of special interest is the Continuous Variable Loudness Contour control which adjusts to compensate for the ears reduced sensitivity when listening to music at low volume levels. With the independent audition and recording switches, you can listen to one source while recording another. And, there are two headphone jacks on the front panel for private listening for you and a friend.

Don't miss the chance to audition this excellent low priced Yamaha CR 640 at our store this week.

Swarms of paper wasps expected invade Giant City for 2 to 3 weeks

By Shelley Davis
Staff Writer

People venturing out to Giant City State Park in the next couple of weeks should be careful not to infringe upon the territorial rights of one of nature's creatures.

It might resent it. Swarms of this creature, the paper wasp, will be gathering around the water tower and the lodge for the next two to three weeks, according to Nelson Gilman, maintenance worker at the park.

"It is the highest point around to swarm and breed," Gilman said. "The wasps go to the top of the silly thing and use it as a place to get together."

Gilman said the wasps will lay one queen egg in each nest and then will die. He said the swarming is an annual occurrence and poses no threat to park visitors if they leave the wasps alone.

"They are ornery if you swat at them. But just don't swat at them and they're alright," Gilman explained.

Although Gilman said he expects a number of complaints, there is nothing that can be done about the wasps.

"How big of a can of Raid do you think you'd need to do anything," Gilman said.

He said the park will put a caution sign near the tower this weekend to warn visitors about the wasps. He urged all persons who are allergic to stings to stay away from the area until the wasps have gone.

More efficient production of meat sought

By University News Service

Increased sales of grains and breeding livestock from Illinois to Japan could result from the tour of a 26-member team of Japanese feed and livestock experts looking for the technology that may enable them to produce meat more efficiently, according to a swine nutritionist who met the group.

Harold Hodson, chairman of the Animal Industries Department, conducted a swine nutrition seminar for the group, which is touring under the guidance of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Feed Grains Council.

"Japan produces all its own meat," Hodson said. "But it doesn't grow any corn. It buys almost all its corn and soybeans for livestock from the United States."

And livestock production is rapidly rising in Japan. Swine production last year, for instance, was up to 9.5 million head, nearly 175 percent higher than 10 years ago.

"Japan also imports a large number of breeding stock and a good deal of that comes from Illinois," Hodson said.

Koichi Ito, escort for the group, said the meeting with Hodson was planned because his work as a consultant to Japanese swine breeders and the swine industry is well known in Japan.

"Most of the technology for feeding swine that has been taken from the United States to Japan in the last five years has been taken by Dr. Hodson," Ito said.

Other stops on the group's Illinois itinerary include the Chicago Board of Trade, a feed mill in Springfield and a soybean crusher in Decatur.

Shoplifting against ordinance

By Amy Young
Student Writer

Students should be made aware of the consequences of shoplifting, says Student Attorney Elizabeth Berg Streeter.

Shoplifting is a Carbondale local ordinance charge, which means there can be no jail sentence. However, a convicted shoplifter can receive up to a $500 fine and the conviction goes on the offender's record.

"The civil charge is termed 'quasi-criminal,'" Streeter said. The reason for this, she said, is the charge does not fall under criminal classifications (i.e. misdemeanor, felony). She said that because the charge falls under the local ordinance and not state law, the prosecutor does not have to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

"If a person is caught with concealed merchandise, it is almost impossible to get out of a conviction because the burden of proof is less than with a civil charge," Streeter said. "Intent is sometimes taken into consideration, but very seldom."

She said that Jackson County Circuit Court Judge Brockton Lockwood does not allow plea bargaining and does not offer court supervision in shoplifting cases.

The number of shoplifting cases brought to court seems to correlate with the amount the offender is fined, Streeter said. She said there has been an increase in shoplifting charges and in the average fine. She said the average fine has increased in the last two years from about $150 to from $200 to $300. She also said there has been a greater incidence of the maximum fine of $500.

Streeter said the increase in shoplifting cases could be a result of the larger security forces many discount and department stores in the Carbondale area have acquired.

Paul Keeney, security officer at K-Mart, said that his security staff of five "apprehended from one to two shoplifters per day."

Jean Oisen, security officer for J.C. Penney's, said that the store's security force caught more than 650 shoplifters last year.

"Clearly, shoplifting is a major problem," Streeter said. "I want to stress the severity of the charge, and the strong probability of conviction."

"A shoplifting conviction could greatly restrict a person's job opportunities. I don't think many students are aware of the consequences," Streeter said.

Professor heads study of stuttering

By Gayle Simpson
Student Writer

A team of speech pathologists led by an SIU-C professor, used a space gear disguise in Holland earlier this year to help find out the age when children make the decision to stutter.

The pathologists are engaged in a pioneer study to discover whether stuttering in children is the result of expected trouble with sounds and words.

Researchers introduce peculiar-looking equipment to their child subjects such as a "Star Wars" game, and thus eliminate anxieties which the lab environment might otherwise cause.

Gene Bruten, professor of speech pathology and audiology, designed the study currently being conducted at the University of Utrecht in Holland during a six-month sabbatical from SIU-C.

A major difference between this study and others in the same area is that physiological measurements are the basis for the data rather than self-reports by the stutterers.

Equipment used in the tests traces the path of the children's eye movements, and measures the diameter of the pupil of the eye during silent and oral reading. From this test, a child's emotional reaction to different words can be gauged.

Researchers note whether excitement levels as the child reads silently match the portions of the material which caused the stutterer problems when recited orally.

According to Bruten, such match-ups show an expectation of difficulty. In the preliminary research, results indicate that seven-to-nine-year-olds know in advance the words they will stutter on.

Another facet of the research is a comparison of the responses of Dutch and American stutterers. Bruten said that on certain standardized tests given to the Dutch children, responses appear to be very similar to those encountered by American children who stutter.

Bruten said the study will continue for several years.

Police investigate apartment theft

Carbondale police are investigating the theft of $972 in home entertainment equipment from an SIU-C student's apartment.

Richard Labak, senior in zoology, reported that an unknown number of people forced their way into his residence at Lewis Park Apartments, 800 E. Grand. Police said Labak reported the incident late Wednesday night.

Police did not have an itemized list of the stolen goods Thursday.

Shaw outlines objectives of college

Shaw said his strong background in liberal arts education did not mean he was advocating a return to traditional education. Students who know what specialization they want to follow should be allowed to do so, he said.

"But no one should walk out of here without a good liberal arts education. These three areas are important and the choice as to which you become outstanding in should be yours. I think that's a hallmark of American education."

Shaw, a sociologist by profession, cited studies showing that aside from family background, the most important element in "getting ahead economically" is finishing college.

And while students are in college, he said, they should get involved.

"Education can't take the place in a vacuum. You should seek personal satisfaction, too. You're involving yourself in something that transcends you and you're enabling yourself to grow."

First plane ride motivates student toward career

By Mike Paluck
Student Writer

At age nine, Bill Dixon received a get well present that was to shape his future—his first plane ride. Eleven years later, as president of the Saluki Flying Club, Dixon is preparing for a career as an airline pilot.

His first plane ride followed near fatal contact with high tension wires that put Dixon in the hospital for almost two months. "A family friend in the Air Reserves visited me in the hospital and said that as soon as I got out, he would take me for a ride."

"Well, I finally got out and went for my ride," Dixon said. "We flew out of the old Chicago and Airport; I really like it, it motivated me."

Now a sophomore with a special major in aviation flight, Dixon has his private pilot's license, and is working toward a commercial license. In order to reach this point, he must accumulate 180 flight hours before he can be "checked out." After his check flight, he can continue toward his goal as a certified flight instructor.

Dixon said working as an instructor is a good way to accumulate the flight hours necessary to be eligible as an airline pilot. Another alternative would be to fly for a corporation. "If you can get in with a corporation that flies Lear jets, you'd be in an even better position. Airlines are looking for pilots with turbine time," he said.

For Dixon, flying isn't the only attraction of an airline career. "The benefits are fantastic; the money is unbelievable," he said.

Dixon is optimistic about the future and sees himself as an airline pilot in six years. "That's my goal; when I set a goal for myself, I usually get it," he said.

Chinese celebrate anniversary with traditional performance

By Laurie J. Anderson
Student Writer

When the Ching dynasty was overthrown in 1911, Sun Yat-Sen founded the first democratic nation in Asia: The Republic of China. Oct. 10, referred to by the Chinese as the double 10th (10th day of the 10th month), was declared a National Day for the people of the new republic.

In celebration of the 68th anniversary of the founding of the Republic of China, the club of SIU-C students from the Republic of China will present a cultural performance at 8 p.m. Saturday in Quigley Hall auditorium.

The National Day celebration, supported by the Graduate Student Council, will feature classical and tribal dances, Chinese opera, Kung Fu performances and a Chinese musical instrument session, said Chung-Ping Chang, executive officer. All performances reflect the traditional regard for ceremony and moral righteousness of the Chinese culture.

"We are proud of our Chinese heritage," said Ping, a native of Taiwan. "The celebration is not only an important inter-cultural exchange, allowing other nationalities to learn about our traditions, but an important reminder for the Chinese students in Carbondale as well. We must hold on to our heritage."

Ping, who shares the executive office of the club with Hui-Erh Yuan, said the club has worked on planning the annual celebration since June.

"All the club members have worked hard in contributing their individual efforts to the program," Ping said of the

"The flow of Tai-Chi is gentle and smooth, emphasizing the necessary discipline of the Chinese life style."

Chinese students who comprise the club. Many of the students have made their own costumes for the performances.

The cultural dances featured in the program will be performed in the native Chinese dress. The classical dances, according to Ping, are typical of the ceremonial rituals that were performed before the emperor and his retinue.

"It's the aboriginal tribal dances with their own special rhythms that represent the different ethnic groups," Ping said. "Many of the folk dances are typically performed after feasts and celebrations using chopsticks, tiny wine cups or small bells."

Tai-Chi, a form of Kung Fu to be performed by Jem Kao, is similar to American shot-boxing, Ping said. "The flow of Tai-Chi is gentle and smooth emphasizing the necessary discipline of the Chinese life style," Ping explained.

Another feature of the celebration, the Chinese opera to be performed by Diana Sun, is highly symbolic through the use of body gestures, Ping said. Variations and embellishments of melodic lines are added to suit the opera's appeal.

The classical instrument performance will represent the serene and ritualistic melodies of classical Chinese music, according to Ping.

Instruments featured will be the hsiao, a bamboo flute with a soft, quiet tone and the ti, similar to the hsiao, but with a more piercing quality.

The cheng, a 16-string zither invented in the Ts'ing dynasty at the time of the building of the Great Wall, will also be played during the classical music performance.

"We look forward to sharing our cultural heritage with everyone this Saturday," Ping said.

Bees get new menu

Scientists invent pollen substitute

By Don Kendall
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, which tries to fool Mother Nature by making fuller-breasted turkeys, drought-resistant tomatoes and artificial sex lures to trap gypsy moths, is now cooking up a synthetic food menu for honeybees.

Scientists at the department's Bioenvironmental Bee Laboratory in Beltsville, Md., say they have come up with low-cost substitutes for pollen, the honeybee's natural food.

So far as can be determined, the synthetic food smells and tastes like the real thing to bees.

Bees scientists Elton W. Herbert and Hachiro Shimanuki use a chemical process called "starch encapsulation" to capture and hold the aroma, or flavor, of real pollen. The flavor then is mixed with pollen substitutes such as whey, yeast or other high-protein items.

The encapsulation process was developed recently by scientists at the department's Regional Research Center in Peoria, Ill.

The bee food project was described in a report by the Agriculture Department's Science and Education Administration.

"Experimental colonies fed pollen-flavored foods produced as much honey and reared as much brood as colonies on diets containing real pollen," it said.

Several substitute diets currently available are nutritious "but up to now bees simply have not enjoyed eating them," the report said.

Other pollen substitutes can include pollen-flavored soybean flour, dry skim milk, cottonseed meal and corn gluten, which the scientists said are "at least eight times cheaper" than pollen.

"Thus, when beekeepers need to supplement the honeybee's natural diet of foraged pollens and nectars, they could save money by using pollen-flavored substitutes instead of real pollen," they said.

Beekeepers normally provide artificial or natural food supplements to colonies in early spring to help stimulate brooding, the reproduction process. Colonies then are able to be built up in time to pollinate early flowering crops such as blueberries and almonds.

Gomez picked as new Cub manager

By The Associated Press
Preston Gomez, who had 11ings at managing the San Diego Padres and the Houston Astros, will manage the Chicago Cubs in 1980.
Gomez succeeds Herman Franks, who resigned last week after piloting the Cubs for three seasons. Coach Joe Amalfitano was named interim manager for the final week of the season.

Gomez, 56, and a native of Oriente, Cuba, has been a coach with the Los Angeles Dodgers the past three seasons. He will be introduced to the press in Chicago next Monday.
General manager Bob Kennedy made the announcement Tuesday and said all of the Cub coaches except Peanuts Lowrey, who is retiring, will be retained.

Kennedy called Gomez "a good baseball man who didn't have very good teams when he was at San Diego and Houston.

Ruggers to meet Highlanders

By Dave Hanetho
Student Writer
The SIU rugby club will host the St. Louis Highlanders at 1 p.m. Saturday on its field south of the Arena. It will be the Salukis' first home game of the season.
The rugby club suffered its first loss of the season, 26-7, to powerful Louisville Sept. 22. The Salukis scored first outside center Jimmy Wilson's penalty kick put SIU on top, 3-0. The lead was short-lived, however, as Louisville scored three consecutive tries to take a 14-3 halftime lead.
The second half proved to be no better for the Salukis, as Louisville continued to dominate play. The home team added two more tries before Saluki scrum-half Dave Hanetho's try ended the scoring.

Saluki scrum Coach Al Bromsmith said a poor week of practice and transportation problems caused SIU's lackluster performance. He added that the team is working hard in preparation for the contest against the Highlanders.
In other contests against Louisville, the "B" team battled to a 0-0 tie.

Bucs edge Reds in 10 innings

By The Associated Press
Sluggo Dave Parker drove home Omar Moreno with a 10th-inning single and gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in Wednesday's second game of the National League championship series.
The Pirates, driving for their first NL pennant since 1971, will try to finish the Reds off when this playoff resumes Friday at Pittsburgh.
Moreno, who led the league with 77 stolen bases, opened the 10th with a single against reliever Doug Bair. Rather than risk the steal, the Pirates used a sacrifice by scrappy Tim Lincecum to advance Moreno to second.
With Moreno dancing off second, Bair worked to the dangerous Parker. The left-handed slugger ripped a single to left, and George Foster charged the hit, hoping for a play at the plate.
Three innings earlier, Foster had thrown out Ed Ott trying to score. But his arm was in a match for Moreno's speed this time, and the Pirates had their winning run.

The Reds seemed finished earlier, but came off the deck to tie the score.
Pittsburgh reliever Kent Tekulve pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the eighth to preserve a 2-1 Pirates lead.
Tekulve struck out leadoff batter Cesar Geronimo in the ninth but suddenly, the Red recovered.
Pinch-hitter Heity Cruz doubled to right-center and scored the tying run when leadoff man Dave Collins followed with another two-base hit. That finished Tekulve and reliever Dave Roberts walked Joe Morgan, bringing up Dave Concepcion.
Don Robinson, who saved Pittsburgh's 5-2, 11-inning victory Tuesday night, came on as the sixth Pirate pitcher of the game — tying a playoff record. Concepcion, who had doubled and singled earlier, struck out. And the dangerous Foster was retired on a ground ball, sending the game into extra innings.

ISU offense hampered by youth, injury

Illinois State Head Coach Charlie Cowdrey believes his club must stop Saluki fullback Burnell Quinn if it is going to win Saturday's game. Quinn rushed for 104 yards in 12 carries in SIU's 22-14 loss to Eastern Illinois.

Illinois State is a football team which finds itself in much the same situation as the Salukis.

Both squads have starters hurt. Both are winning after being beaten by Division II clubs the previous week. Both are having problems scoring points.

ISU's problems revolve around the loss of senior quarterback Butch Monaghan, who had surgery on his right shoulder Sept. 24. Monaghan recovered from injuries last season to lead the Redbirds to their two victories.

Inexperience also has caused problems. ISU started many sophomores and freshmen last year. The result was a 2-9 record. Illinois State Head Coach Charlie Cowdrey said his club is maturing, but still isn't performing at the level he thinks it is capable of.

"We have been playing fairly good football," said Cowdrey, who will lead his 2-2 team against the Salukis at 2 p.m. Saturday in McAndrew Stadium. "We have improved a bit from last year."

Cowdrey starts sophomore Don McInturf at quarterback. Although the switch has caused some turnovers, the third-year coach said McInturf has done a good job. McInturf completed 12 of 20 passes for 110 yards in the Redbirds' 20-0 loss to North Dakota.

McInturf works with an offensive unit which Cowdrey calls "sophomorphish" in terms of experience. Only three starters are seniors: fullback Mike Doneff, left guard John Bavester and right guard Brad Markobrad.

The unit has proven capable of moving the ball. Against North Dakota, ranked fourth nationally among Division II schools, the Redbirds ran 34 more plays, gained 125 more total yards and had possession of the ball for 13 more minutes than the Fighting Sioux.

With Monaghan out, Illinois State relies more on Bill Fenn, its 6-0, 195-pound tailback. Cowdrey compares Fenn to Saluki fullback Burnell Quinn. Besides running style, there is another similarity. Cowdrey has shifted Fenn from fullback, where he played last season, to his new position. Saluki Head Coach Rey Dempsey has moved Quinn from tailback to fullback.

"Bill is a good back," Cowdrey said of the junior who is averaging 109 yards rushing per game. "He combines speed with balance."

Ideally, Cowdrey said he would like to grind yards out on the ground against the Salukis, who will be without nose guard Tom Pihl and defensive tackle James Phillips. Both are out with injuries.

When Illinois State throws the ball, junior split end Jim Fitzpatrick is usually the target. Fitzpatrick is ISU's leading receiver, but he, too, has been plagued by injuries. He has caught 12 passes for 179 yards this season. Tight end Doug McCrary has 11 receptions. To win, Cowdrey believes the Redbirds must stop SIU's running game.

"We could be better against the run," Cowdrey said of the defense, which has given up an average of 280 yards per game.

The line is the youngest part of the Redbird defense. Left tackle Tim Lucas is the only senior, while two juniors and two sophomores hold the other starting positions.

These five will be in charge of stopping Quinn and tailback Walter Poole. Cowdrey said both Saluki backs had good speed.

Cowdrey said he is also concerned about the SIU passing attack. His primary worry is containing split end Kevin House.

"You've got to stop House, but how do you do it?" Cowdrey laughed. "He's a great receiver."

Cowdrey is also concerned with preventing passes to tight end Larry Kavanagh, who did not have a reception against Eastern Illinois last Saturday.

The Redbirds may be strongest against the pass. Both linebackers, Kevin Murphy and Tim Mayhew, are seniors. Two seniors and juniors start in the secondary.

Saturday's game marks the 42nd meeting between the two teams. ISU leads the series 20-18-3. The Salukis have won the last three contests, including a 26-0 victory at Normal last year.

Top hockey scorer Bruckner believes teamwork important

By Jeffrey Smyth
Staff Writer

To be successful in athletics, women's field hockey team captain Brenda Bruckner believes there should be a closeness among team members that will allow them to achieve their goals, while allowing them to enjoy themselves.

Bruckner achieved a personal milestone last week when she scored the 34th goal of her career to move into third place on the Saluki all-time leading scorers list.

The closeness Bruckner talks about is something she didn't find when she came to SIU on a track scholarship. It is also the reason she quit track and joined the field hockey team.

"I'm into team sports. I like joking with my teammates and having fun," the native of New York said. "Track was too much of an individual sport. I played hockey in high school and (field hockey Coach) Jules Illner said my level of play was high enough that my scholarship could transfer over to it."

Bruckner, a physical education major, said it is the relaxed atmosphere Illner maintains that makes SIU one of the top field hockey teams in the nation.

"Our coach lets us stay pretty loose," Bruckner said. "She jokes with us and keeps practice fairly informal. Field hockey is a non-contact sport, so going crazy is a way to let our aggressions out."

Bruckner, who needs just seven more goals to move into second place on the leading scorers list, feels she should have more goals than she has this season.

"There are about five or six new players on the team this year, and it takes time to get used to playing with them," she said. "Last year I knew how my teammates played and would know when they were going to pass to me or when they were going to break for the goal."

Bruckner is very anxious about this year's team because of the way it has been progressing. She thinks the Salukis are going to surprise a lot of people when national tournament time rolls around.

"We started pretty slow this year," she said. "But it's phenomenal how we have improved since the Pena State Invitational."

Bruckner takes her role as captain very seriously. She likes to help her teammates when they have problems and believes she can relate well to the other team members.

"Last year's captain was good at keeping the team loose," Bruckner said. "I feel that if a teammate has any problems, they can come to me."

Bruckner, who is a student teacher at Carbondale Community High School, says she would like to coach field hockey some day. But right now, her main goal is to see SIU-C in the November national tournament in New Jersey.

Netters to play in Millikin meet

By Scott Stahmer
Staff Writer

Ever seen those television gum commercials which emphasize such diverse topics as double dating, double plays in baseball and double dips of ice cream to make a pitch for the gum? Well, those commercials could apply to Friday and Saturday's Millikin University Invitational in Decatur, which the SIU-C women's tennis team will compete in.

"Each team will be allowed to bring only two singles players," Saluki Coach Judy Auld said. "There doubles teams per team will be allowed."

Auld said the doubles portion of the meet will probably be stronger than singles.

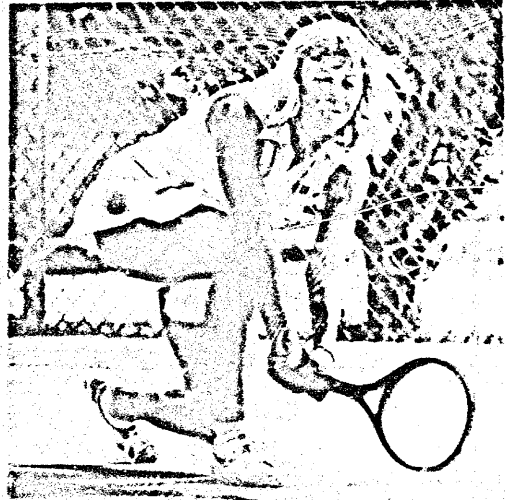

"I know doubles will be super-strong," she said. "A lot of the teams in the tournament have put their better players in doubles."

Eighteen teams will participate at Millikin, including Illinois State, Western Illinois, Eastern Illinois, Valparaiso, the University of Cincinnati, Northeastern Illinois, DePaul, Bradley and Augustana. No team scores will be kept.

"I don't think the tournament field is as strong as it has been in the past, when Northwestern, Ohio State, Indiana and Wisconsin played there," Auld said. "But there will still be some good players there."

Auld said Illinois State would probably be the strongest overall team in the tournament. She added that pairings were being decided by seeding, and she had a good idea which players would be seeded.

"The tournament director indicated that the girl from Western who beat Lisa (Warren) would probably be seeded," Auld said. "The players from Cincinnati, Augustana and Northeastern Illinois will probably be the other seeds. The top doubles seeds will probably be from ISU."

Auld will take Jeannie Jones and Mauri Kohler to the tournament to play singles, and will team Debbie Martin and Carol Foss, Thea Breite and Fran Watson, and Mona Fitchison and Tammy Kurtz in doubles. Auld said Warren, whom she originally planned to have play doubles with Etchison, is still suffering from complications of mononucleosis.

Kohler, who was sidelined early in the season by hepatitis, has also been feeling weak in practice, according to Auld.

"She went over to the Health Service to have a blood test," Auld said. "She'll be able to play this weekend."

Auld said the Salukis have bounced back well from last weekend's losses to Missouri, Northwestern and Western Kentucky. In those matches, SIU-C was able to score just one point.

"In practice, the morale has been pretty good," Auld said. "The players seem to have recovered quickly from those three losses. They're preparing for this weekend, which is about all they can do."

Auld said the team's goal at Millikin is "just to get back on the winning track."

"I just want the players to be able to come off the courts and feel happy for themselves," she said. "Since no team scores are being kept, they can win these matches for themselves."
