Presidential politics comes to Carbondale: Dole wit rips Carter

By Jim Wisuri
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Robert Dole, Republican vice-presidential candidate, came to Carbondale Friday to cut down the Democrats before dinner and cut up with his GOP friends after dinner.

In a news conference before the biennial Republican Pre-Hambletonian Dinner, Dole criticized Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter for his stands on gram embargoes, presidential vetoes, unemployment, and defense.

Some concrete issues were discussed openly however.

- Hartigan, running for re-election, said he would continue to work toward making Southern Illinois more apt for tourism, guaranteeing more jobs for area residents.

- Earlier in the week, he endorsed an effort to create a cabinet-level department of tourism.

- Simon, running for re-election, said he feels funding for education is a top priority at the national level, but not necessarily at the state level.

- Partee, running for state attorney general, said he believes the Equal Rights Amendment still has a chance of ratification in Illinois. He said a new bill may be introduced into the legislature by a male instead of a female as it had been in the past.

- Sec. of State Michael Howlett, running for governor, and scheduled to attend the gathering, did not make an appearance. A spokesman for the Democratic gubernatorial candidate Howlett had no comment on the latter's commitments.

The spokesman also said he was not sure whether Howlett would attend the Hambletonian harness race Saturday, an event traditionally attended by politicians of both parties.

Democrats talk business over cocktails

By Steve Hahn
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Watching the Democratic politicians sip cocktails and crunch on pretzels, the casual observer probably would have assumed the "Salute to Bruce Richmond," held Friday at the Carbondale Holiday Inn, was an informal party.

But the Democratic get-together was an arena of informal persuasion. No arms were twisted, no speeches were made and no votes were taken, but everyone knew nothing was off the record.

This is not to say the Democratic gathering was any different than the Republican dinner held the same night in the SIU Student Center; nor that this specific gathering was any different than others, but this is an election year and all attempting were aware of that fact.

Officially, the cocktail party was to help Richmond kick off his campaign drive for re-election to the Illinois House, but many long-time political observers at the gathering agreed, each politician was also there to further his own career.
U.S., S. Africa to meet in Switzerland

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The explosive issue of black boycotts will dominate the top level U.S.-South African talks in Switzerland this weekend.

The future of more than 30 million blacks and whites in white-ruled Rhodesia, South-West Africa (Namibia) and South Africa — countries vital to the future of South Africa — is at stake, and the fear of a regional racial conflagration, spurred by escalating black nationalist wars of liberation in Rhodesia and South-West Africa, hangs in the air.

Ford receives report on FBI director

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has received Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi's report on possible improprieties involved in FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's acceptance of gifts from senior agency officials.

Spokesman said Friday.

Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel said Levi sent the report to the White House Thursday in response to a request from Ford. The report also contains information about the use of government materials and labor for construction of a pair of drapery valances at Kelley's apartment two years ago. Havel refused to discuss the report.

White House Press Ron Nessen said Ford will not start reading the report until later today, and that no White House comment on its contents could be expected until next week.

Jobs scarce; Illinois unemployment rises

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Jobs prospects for thousands of Illinois residents worsened as unemployment last month rose close to levels of a year ago, government figures show.

The state Labor Department said Friday that after several months of improvement, unemployment lines grew longer again in August when 7.2 per cent of the workforce was off jobs.

Of the 12,000 persons unemployed last month, 6,735 were between 16 and 24 years old. The unemployment rate for that age group was 7.3 per cent. The 2,072 per cent translates into 360,400 persons who would work if they could find employment.

The job picture worsened nationally, too, with unemployment nationwide increasing from 7.8 per cent in July to 7.9 per cent in August.

Two state labor agencies showed sharper increases in unemployment. In Decatur, unemployment Decatur increased from 8.2 to 10.1 per cent and Peoria went from 9.4 to 9.6 per cent.

Walter calls state fair bill unconstitutional

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Declaring it is still unconstitutional, Gov. Daniel O. Walker on Thursday vetoed the General Assembly's Friday a bill which would shift control of the Illinois State Fair. The bill would have removed the authority to pick who wins the annual event from the government and gave it to a 15-member board.

Walker rejected a similar bill last year, but it was enacted by the General Assembly. Walker vetoed it last year, however, the Illinois Supreme Court struck down the law as being unconstitutional.

Ford told plenty of flu vaccine available

WASHINGTON (AP) — Health Secretary David Mathews assured President Ford Thursday there will be enough swine flu vaccine available to inoculate every American who wants a shot before the peak of the flu season in January and February.

He said about 110 million to 115 million adults will be inoculated by Christmas. In the inoculation of persons under age 18 cannot be completed until January because testing on the exact dosage for young persons will not be completed until late this year.

Reporters jailed for not revealing sources

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Four Fresno Bee newsmen began serving jail sentences Friday for refusing to reveal a news source, saying they are "firmly proud" for "defending one of our basic freedoms."

Reporters were the first pictured when they reported to sheriff's deputies, ending a 16-month fight to overturn an open-end jail sentence. Reporter Joe Rosati, newspaper's James Bartt, Staff Editor George Grumner also surrendered at the Fresno County Jail.

Appeal to ban TV violence turned down

CHICAGO (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals turned down an appeal Thursday by a group that wanted the Federal Communications Commission to ban TV violence programs. In refusing to order the FCC to hold hearings on proposals to ban violence on television, the appeals court said the group never had asked to hold such hearings.

Health inspectors study goods spared by blaze

Three inspectors from the Illinois Public Health Department examined the food and foodstuffs at Astor Liquors, 109 N. Washington St., Friday to determine which items could not be sold at auction Thursday.

One inspector said all foodstuffs packaged in cellophane, such as potato chips and peanuts, will have to be destroyed. A close inspection of food packaged in cardboard containers will also be made. The inspector said it is not necessary to have been destroyed. He said it is not necessary for the food to be stored in a back room where the fire started to have been destroyed. He said a food inspection may be completed by Tuesday.

Thursday's fire caused extensive damage to the rear room of the building. Carbondale Fire Department reports estimate damage to the building at $200,000, as well as $1,000,000, as well as the building's contents at $21,000.

Don Mcnab, manager of ABC, said he believes all items in the store will be removed, and the monetary loss, including insurance, will total $21,000.

He said no estimate of the value of the damaged items has been established.

An inspection of the store shows that the store is still under a sales embargo, nothing can be moved from the premises without the head inspector's permission and until the health department finishes its inspection.

A health department official said the damaged items will be taken to the Jackson County landfill, North De Soto, where the inspectors will watch as the items are buried.

Utility rate hikes spark opposition effort

Two weeks ago they were eight angry people.
Today, they're 161 strong, and members of the Southern Counties Action Movement (SCAM), a citizen action group engaged in the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) in the battle over utility rates.

Thursday night, SCAM held its first major organizational meeting in the City Hall basement room to discuss public hearings about the company's rates.

A SCAM pamphlet distributed at the meeting, CIPS report showed, indicating the cost of energy.

A SCAM pamphlet about the new rate hike on May 18, 1976, less than two months after the ICC had approved the last rate increase.

CIPS is currently asking for a 21 percent increase in electricity rates and an 11 percent hike in natural gas rates.

The rate increases, and the way CIPS goes about getting them, are sore points with the group.

CIPS is buying advertising to explain to utility customers the need for rate increases, Mike Schechtman, member of Illinois South Project, a three-person public interest research group, said. CIPS spent $300,000 on ads last year.

Schechtman told the crowd at the Carterville Civic Center: "CIPS is spending our money to put ads in the newspaper, urging us to spend more money on them."

Sam Poe, a CIPS spokesman, told the group that they were concerned about the "woeful" manner in which the ICC has handled the rate hearings.

Poe made the proper forum for determining the relevancy and applicability to the CIPS need for a rate increase is before the ICC and not the press.

SCAM spokesman Larry Flesner of Carterville, said Poe's statement strikes him as odd. The ICC is "the proper forum" for the issues in the case, Poe agreed, "yet CIPS are running ads trying to convince us we need a rate increase."

Flesner said.

Since CIPS filed for the new rate increases in May, an initial ICC hearing was held in June. Company officials stated their increase justification at the hearings and the Illinois Commerce Commission, according to the SCAM pamphlet.

Robert Howerton, Williamson County state's attorney, and the city of Carterville failed to file a complaint with the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Flesner told the predominantly overflow audience that he is concerned about the 15,000 Williamson County residents who live on fixed incomes.

Dave Osmond of the Illinois South Project said the utility company is being audited by the ICC at a cost of $47,350.

SCAM organizers were concerned that the results of the audit might not be released to the public, and the group sent a letter to the city of Carterville urging Lieberman Aug. 27 asking for public disclosure of its findings.

Flesner charged.

Corporate crime worthwhile racket

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features Syndicate

Scene: The ancient Chateau Briand, secret hideaway of the notorious Little Caesar Salad Mob. Little Caesar, chewing a cigar, is divvying up the billion-dollar haul from their latest caper with his fellow criminals — musclemen Crunchy Granola, Artie (Chokes) Vinaigrette, the dashing swindler, Beau Jollas, the little Japanese cat burglar, Shrimp Tempura, and the gorgeous new boys, Peachy King, and the two elderly poodles. Pac Strami and Ma Caroni.

With a shrug, Caesar points to two sheiks, and there stands that nemesis of crime, Elliot (Lock) Ness, Tommy gun in hand.

Peaches (blanching) "Lock Ness, you monster!"

Ness: "Freeze, you rats! I've caught you with the goods this time, little Caesar." (Grabs him)

Little Caesar (leaving in his chair, and smiling evilly) "You can't keep a glow on us, Ness. We're incorruptible!"

Ness (lowering his gun) "Incorporated!"

Little Caesar: "That's right, Ness. We'll see what you have to do with that little man of yours." (Grabs the man)

Ness: "You mean, then, that you've turned to..."

Little Caesar (triumphantly) "That's right, Ness. Corporations are incorruptible!"

Ness (removing his hat) "I'm sorry, sir, to have bothered you. But you had betrayed a respectable businessman and a pillar of the community."

Peaches (buffing her nails) "And don't you forget it, copper."

Ness: "Naturally, I won't fill you full of lead. But I fear I must seek a subpoena charging you with fraud, bribery, price fixing, false advertising and illegal campaign contributions. You will have to be punished to the full extent of the law." Little Caesar: "What's the rate, fatso?"

Ness (apologetically) "I'm afraid you may get as much as a $400 fine or ten days in jail. But I must do my job."

Ness backs out the door and the mob bursts into laughter.

Little Caesar (drinking champagne from Peaches' slipper) "Always remember, you guys, unincorporated crime doesn't pay."

Editorial

Though the farmer's viewpoint on price supports is hard to pin down, the consumer's side certainly isn't. The removal of price supports in the last eight years by the Nixon and Ford administrations have neither helped nor hurt farmers. What stung farmers was the embargo, on grain exports, such as the grain embargo Ford imposed on the Soviet Union in 1974. Without the specter of an embargo, there is really no need for price supports, as they merely raise the price of food for the consumer, which the consumer can ill afford. There certainly is enough of a world market for export, which encourages farmers to engage in maximum production and make a reasonable profit, depending upon market conditions.

Of course, the Presidential candidates can't seem to make up their minds on whether there will ever be another embargo.

Carter said that if elected President, he would stop embargoes once and for all. However, an hour later he said that his language may have been "too strong." And remember, Carter never lies. Or is this just another example of waffling? ---

Dole, again playing "Follow the Carter," said that an embargo might be ordered in a national emergency. But last year, Ford told a farm belt audience in Champaign the chances of an embargo were "virtually nil" for the next year or so. This statement stops slightly short of saying there will be no more embargoes, as he did with a group of delegates at the Republican convention in Kansas City this year. That's not waffling, that's contradiction, or, if you will, lying.

But as distasteful as it is for farmers, the threat of an embargo must almost, unfortunately, remain. The presidential candidates know this, so they would be wise to be straightforward with farmers and the rest of the voters on this issue.

Of course, the object of an embargo would most likely be the Soviet Union again, now enjoying a "labeled nation" status in regard to trade. The new atomic test ban treaty signed by President Ford and Leonid Brezhnev last spring is now before the Senate for ratification. But to and behold, the Soviets just happened to detonate two atomic blasts July 4 and July 29.

Explanations from the State Department are of the usual weak-kneed variety, saying that maybe the estimates of the strength of the blasts were wrong, and as the treaties have not yet been ratified by the Senate, the Soviets were not really bound by treaty limitations.

There are the kind of explanations that can be expected from the State Department, for it is not politically feasible for Henry Kissinger to be involved in a controversy with the Soviets. After all, he's still trying to sell us detente, whatever term they may use now.

The bottom line is that Russia still seems to violate any agreement made with the U.S. whenever it's inconvenient for them to abide by it.

One of the principle diplomatic weapons the U.S. has over Russia is the threat of an embargo, which will be especially effective in the coming year, as Russian crop production is down again. If the Soviets refuse to honor the test ban treaty, let them eat bombs.

No one wants an embargo: farmers are not alone in this matter. But the threat has to be there, as sure as the U.S. needs a nuclear balance with the Soviet Union.

And in case another embargo does occur, there is a market for the excess grain, which should take some of the economic pressure off both farmers and consumers.

At last report, there is still a large segment of the population of this country that is starving.

One solution to the racial question in South Africa would be to put all the black people on a big boat and send them back to England where they came from.

If people would stop complaining about utility rate hikes, we could spend all that money trying to get them to like it.

Austrian flavor can be found in Kornthal's historic church

The old Kornthal Church, one of the most historic landmarks in the area, rises out of the Southern Illinois landscape like a part of rural Austria. A number of Austrian families immigrated to the fertile, wooded valley in 1852. They named their valley, located just south of Jonesboro on Route 127, "Kornthal" which means "Corn Valley" in German.

About five years later the immigrants organized the church and began work on the building, which was completed in 1860. The building is a replica of 19th century rural Austrian churches, with the exception of the church's steeple and front door.

Protestant churches were forbidden to build front entrances or spires on their buildings in Roman Catholic areas of Austria, so new immigrants followed the mandate and constructed the original Kornthal church building with side entrances only. In 1889 the steeple and front door were added.

The interior of the Kornthal Church also reflecting its Austrian heritage includes an encircling balcony and a high pulpit, reached by 12 steps representing each of the 12 Apostles. At one time the church had more than 200 members, who lived in the community of Kornthal and worked in the nearby box and shoe factories, sawmill, grist mill, distillery and stores, none of which are open today.

Due to a population decline in the area, the church was forced to close its doors in 1947. The building fell into disrepair until it was rescued by an act of the Illinois legislature in 1960, when the church was designated an official state shrine. Today it is known as the Kornthal Union County Memorial and still retains its rural Austrian beauty.

This pump organ isn't an original fixture of the church. It is used for occasional weddings which take place in the church.

The bell tower and the words inscribed above the front door, "St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church", were added to Kornthal Church in 1889.

Text and photos by Peter Zimmerman

The old German script is evident throughout the building, as seen on the hand-carved altar. The 12 steps, to the left of the altar, lead to the elevated pulpit.

This illustrated German Bible, resting on the altar, is almost as old as the building itself. It was published in the early 1860's.
Police find book thieves difficult to track down

By Keith Tushorn
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Three books were stolen last week from the student book store of John M. Holtz, chemistry professor. One of the stolen books sat on shelves with about 200 other volumes. Before the day was over, one of the books, which Holtz had borrowed from another instructor, had been sold to the Student Book Store, 825 S. Illinois Ave. Holtz calls this case unexplainable, but only one arrest has resulted.

The Carbondale Police have received information on this incident. The police have advised all bookstores to keep a watchful eye on their book sales.

Sandra Welch, of the security police's records division, said that most book thefts go unreported. She also said that if a theft is not reported to the police immediately, it is more difficult for them to track down the book.

When Welch called the bookstore to report the theft, she was told that all the city's bookstores have been reported to the police department. According to Bolling, a patrolman who was at the scene when the theft occurred, there was no evidence of a break-in.

Bolling relayed that information to the police. The police had no evidence to support the theory that the bookstore was broken into.

According to Joe Trobaugh, bookstore manager, the store has been carefully searching for the stolen book. The bookstore has been using security devices to track down the book.

Bolling said that if his store receives reports of lost or stolen books, the identification cards are checked.

Mike Pollock, assistant manager at the bookstore, said the store tries to keep track of all the books that are sold. When a book is reported lost, the store places an notice on the book, and the bookstore tries to locate the book.

Bolling said, "We have had a few reports of missing books, but we have been able to locate them."

Steelworkers union backs Carter ticket

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The 1.4-million-member United Steelworkers union has thrown its support to Jimmy Carter as delegates to the union’s convention here unanimously endorsed the Democratic ticket.

In a sometimes raucous session late Thursday, the 4,000 delegates also rejected a move to roll back union dues. It was a resounding vote of confidence in the administration of retiring president L.W. Abel.

The decision to endorse the Carter-Mondale slate in this year’s national election followed a plea by Al Barkan, director of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education to turn President Ford out of the White House.

Behind that plastic smile is a man who has voted consistently against labor,” Barkan said.

The dues issue was the most controversial so far at the week-long convention, with delegates from all parts of the country joining a pack of dissidents from the Chicago area in opposition to the system. Union members currently pay dues equal to two hours’ gross pay per month. At the union’s last convention in 1974, a $10 ceiling was removed despite heavy opposition.

Alex George of Allegheny, Pa., spoke against the present system, saying some members in his local who work five days in a month have paid up to $80 in dues.

Edward Sadlowski, president of District 15, Steelworkers, and a leader of a dissident faction, demanded that the issue be taken back to committee for revision.

The 52 local union representatives of the Hillel Foundation to hold elections

The Hillel Foundation will hold a general organizational meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, at 73 S. University. The program includes election of officers and planning of activities for the coming year.

Old age is no handicap for Archway volunteer

By Deb Taylor

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Elizabeth Meehan, 79, does not spend most of her time rocking empty-handed. She is usually building and feeding one of the children from Archway School for the Handicapped Children.

Meehan comforts the children by massaging their legs and spine. “Even though they are physically and mentally handicapped, they respond to love. I believe that the foundation of everything is love,” Meehan says.

“Mrs. Meehan has done a lot of special things for us,” said Gordon Riches, executive director for the school. At the first Archway graduation in August, Meehan and Marly Glenn, from the Department of Mental Health, both received certificates of recognition for their work with the school.

“I think it’s a privilege to work at Archway. I feel very happy about my relationship with the children,” Meehan says.

Meehan became involved with Archway about four years ago. “I was very interested, because I felt something was being done for those poor unfortunate children,” Meehan said.

Meehan, whose eyesight is slowly deteriorating, spends three to four hours a day, five days a week as a volunteer grandmother at the school.

Of the future, Meehan says, “I want to stay at Archway as long as I am able to. We ought to know what our limitations are and live to the limit with them.”

Meehan was an assistant professor of education at SIU before her retirement in 1963. She now lives in Carbondale and has five grand-children and two great-grand-children which she “loves to look after,” Meehan said.

A devoted Catholic, Meehan helped start the Newman Club on campus. For this and other work with the church, she received the Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice Medal in 1959, Pope John XXII in July 1959. Meehan’s work at Archway is in the spirit of a quote from Carl Sandburg which hangs on one of the school’s walls, “A baby is God’s opinion that the world should go on.”

Philis get visions of '64
during six-game skid

PHILADELPHIA (AP)--The Philadelphia Phillies say they aren't panicking, despite losing six straight games and seeing their big National League East lead slipped from 131/2 to 9 games in nine days.

But memories of their 1964 collapse die hard. That was the year the Phils built a 6-1 game lead with down games left; then lost 13 straight games and blew the pennant.

The Phils, runaway division leaders most of the summer, had the day off Thursday before taking their six-game losing streak to New York for a weekend series against the Mets.

While the Phils have been losing, the second-place Pirates have seven straight, heading for a three-game series between the two teams next week that starts with a Labor Day doubleheader.

After his club lost sixth straight game Wednesday night in Houston, Ozark said: "We haven't had one of these all year," adding that it was a bad time to have it.

More keep saying they wish there was a pennant race. It looks like they might see one after all," said Phils shortstop Larry Bowa.

The Phils have been a slugging club all season, but their bats have been anemic the past week.

"The way we're swinging the bats, everybody looks good against us," said third baseman Mike Schmidt.

Wednesday night, Ozark rested second baseman Dave Cash, the team sparkplug who hasn't missed a game in two years, but whose error set up loss No. 5 Tuesday. Cash pinch-hit during the game.

"He's been awfully tense here," Ozark said. "I just wanted to give him a couple of days of rest. I told him I decided not to run him today.

But Cash was unhappy. "When I came to the ball park, I came to play, not to rest," he said. "You get all the rest you need when you're dead.

"I don't know why he rested me. I don't know too much happening around here any more.

IM office sets date for men's golf tourney

The Office of Recreation and Intramurals has announced a men's intramural golf tournament slated for 3-4 Sept. 14 and 15 at Midland Hills Golf Club.

All make SIU-C students are eligible for the two day, 18-hole (nine hole a day) tournament. The registration fee is $5, and all entries must be registered and paid at the intramural office by 5 p.m. Friday.

Golfers will be divided into three classes, determined by their 18-hole scores.

A trophy will be awarded to the individual winner, and a winner of each class. A "closest to the pin" award will be presented to the player hitting the closest tee shot on the second hole.

Carts and clubs may be rented from the Midland Hills Golf Club.

For additional information, contact the Office of Recreation and Intramurals, Room 128, of the Arena, 536-5021.

Dempsey: no clear favorite seen

By Doug Derris
Assistant Sports Editor

As post time for the 51st Hambletonian nears, much discussion has emerged from the 18-horse field.

Of the four strongest horses in the field, three drew back row starting positions, hurting their chances for harness racing's biggest purse ever, a record $263,524.

Cubs needed a tie-breaking pinch single to win the 51st Hambletonian set; the Cubs tied it in the sixth on doubles by Lou Boyd, Manny Trillo and a single by Jerry Herrera. The Salukis are gradually improving day-by-day, Dempsey said. "They built a lead in the fourth on a double by Tim Simmons and Keith Hernandez. Larry Emery of Carterville, Jack Halter of Clayton, and Marshall Sheffer of Herrin are all freshmen," said Barrett. "We are going to have an awfully young team, three freshmen can crack the starting line up.

Brown is the Saluki's top golfer.

The five other scholarship players that round out the nine man squad are Larry Emery of Carterville, Jack Halter of East St. Louis, Jim Reburn of Herrin, and a junior from Chadbuck Ill., Kevin Klaine, a freshman from Carbondale, and Jay Venable, a junior from Carterville.

All three passed Barrett's consistency test by shooting good games on the tough Midland Course. They either improved from a bad first day, or stayed close to par throughout the two-day event.

Seniors Jim Brown, from Paducah Ky., finished the tryout with the best scores. It surprised nobody, because Brown is the Saluki's top golfer.

Cubs overpower Cards 8-5

CHICAGO (AP) — Rick Monday hit a three-run home run on Sunday to help the Chicago Cubs needed a tie-breaking pinch single by rookie Wayne Tyrone in the eighth inning Friday to post an 8-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Former Saluki Joe Wallis and Jerry Terry both singled off rookie Eddie Schofield to give the Salukis their only hit of the game.

The Cubs took a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the second on singles by Bob Sperring and Kelleher and a sacrifice fly by starting pitcher Ray Buran.

St. Louis tied it in the fourth on singles by Gary Templeton, Simmons and Keith Hernandez but the Cubs took the lead in the fourth on a double by Manny Trillo and a single by Sperring. They built a 5-2 lead with two runs in the fifth on singles by Simmons and Hernandez.

The Cardinals retired it with three runs in the fifth on singles by Lou Brock and Simmons and Hernandez. Fourth, off reliever Buddy Schultz.
