KGB suspects U.S. spying

Los Angeles Times

MOSCOW—The former KGB is mad as hell about aggressive Western spying on Russia and its patience is running out, says an article in the official Russian government newspaper.

The unusual article, which was published in Saturday's editions of Rossiyskaya Gazeta and turns out to have been written by a senior Russian counterintelligence official, names three U.S. diplomats whom Russia accuses of spying.

It alleges that Pepperdine University in Southern California collected Russian defense industry secrets under cover of a U.S. government-funded program to encourage defense conversion. And it charges that the CIA has stepped up recruitment of Russian citizens with the goal of penetrating and undermining Russia's military-industrial complex.

The author, Col. Sergei G. Gorlenko of the Federal Counterintelligence Service, hinted Tuesday that more expulsions of U.S. diplomats from Russia may be forthcoming.

In an interview in his office in the KGB successor agency's Lubyanka headquarters, under a portrait of the founder of the Soviet secret police, Gorlenko said the counterintelligence service has extensive information "about not-quite-diplomatic activities of the U.S. diplomats I mentioned in my story, and some others, too."

"We are working hard, and we have a lot of facts, believe me," he said.

Gorlenko, 45, said he joined the KGB in 1971, and was a longtime operative before joining the public relations department of the KGB successor agency. He said he and his superiors decided to publish the article now because the hemorrhage of defense secrets has become "intolerable."

The CIA and other U.S. agencies, as well as private American companies, "will use any means to obtain the last

Professors study population model

By Diane Dove
Staff Reporter

For most people the Volterra model, used to predict population growth among species, is complicated and its solution could never be reached. Among wildlife specialists, however, the model is very basic. But an SIUC professor recently made a contribution to understanding it.

Theodore Burton, professor of mathematics at SIUC, and Geza Makay, a former graduate student, recently studied the model.

Understanding the model is important to ecologists, biologists and others concerned with monitoring the growth of a particular plant or animal species, Burton said.

Burton and Makay published the results of their study in the recent edition of Acta Math Hungarica.

Titled, "Asymptotic stability for functional differential equations," Burton's work "concerns behavior of a physical system that is dependent on its whole past history," he said.

"That kind of equation allows us to predict what a population will be at a later time by looking at its past history," he said. "The functional differential equation describes the physical system (species and their environment)."

Burton said his study looked at predicting a populations sustaining level based on resources which support it.

"There is a certain level, 'L' (of a population) its resources can support," he said. "If the population goes over L it will eventually come down (to that level)."

"You can not solve (the problem), we know that," he said. "But we can learn more about what the solution would look like if we could solve it."

Burton said some universities, such as University of British Columbia, have professors appointed in both the departments of mathematics and ecology.

Alan Woolf, director of the Cooperative Wildlife Research Laboratory, said the Volterra model, named for Italian mathematician Vito Volterra, is basic compared to other population growth models.

"(The model) is just an exponential model of population growth," he said. "When it is used

New group gives support to sexual assault victims

By Connie Fritzsche
Staff Reporter

Sexual assault usually leaves the victim with many emotional scars and a need for emotional support. A newly-formed group this semester,

Common ground key to creating understanding among peers

sponsored by SIUC Women's Services offers that support through peers who have also been the victims of sexual assault.

Leslie Strategier at Women's Services said the group is comprised solely of women who have survived sexual assault in order to provide an environment of understanding.

She said those who are interested in the group should call as soon as possible to set up an interview appointment.

The interview is an informative discussion session with someone from the service. She said the interview gives each participant a chance to decide if the group is right for them. It also gives the partici-

Students receive class credit for traveling abroad

By Stephanie Moletti
Senior Reporter

Students interested in receiving class credit for travel should begin pinching pennies for one of four international business study tours next spring.

John P. Fraedrich, SIUC associate professor of marketing, said this is the third year the University has worked in conjunction with Southeast Missouri State University on the tours.

"The advantage of our tours is they are very price sensitive," Fraedrich said.

Tours are for undergraduate and graduate students in any major. Students taking the tour are enrolled in Southeast Missouri State University courses which transfer to SIUC as independent studies.

"The credits (three) do not transfer as those gut buster courses people hate to take," Fraedrich clarified.

Leesa Joseph, a graduate student in business management from Montreal, went on the last trip because she had never been to Europe and she wanted to get a flavor of different cultures.

PALESTINE POLICE ARREST JIHAD MEMBERS

GAZA CITY, Gaza Strip — In a showdown with the powerful Muslim fundamentalists here, the Palestinian Police on Tuesday arrested 21 members of the militant Islamic Jihad in connection with a weekend attack on an Israeli army patrol in which one Israeli soldier was killed and two were wounded. In pre-dawn raids throughout the Gaza Strip, special internal security units pulled the men from their homes and from several mosques that serve as their bases, Palestinian officials said. The sweep, the biggest the police have carried out, was ordered personally by Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat.

COASTAL SHARKS COULD FACE EXTINCTION

MIAMI — Two years after the imposition of strict federal quotas on shark fishing and a ban on the related practice of "finning," there is little evidence that the depleted population of large coastal sharks in the Atlantic Ocean is recovering from years of overfishing. In fact, many scientists say that the threat of extinction is so severe that some species should now be listed as endangered and given the same type of global protections that apply to whales and dolphins. Beneath the waves, the disappearance of the marine world's top predator would ripple down the food chain, triggering catastrophic fluctuations in entire populations of stingrays, octopuses, bait fish, lobsters, sea birds and even mammals.

NEW STUDY BLAMES SEX FOR INNER-CITY HIV

Most HIV-infected inner-city mothers seem to have become infected through heterosexual sex rather than from intravenous drug use, a study of newborn babies and their mothers at Harlem Hospital Center concluded. The study, published in August's Archives of Pediatrics and Adolescent Medicine, included 2,971 women who gave birth at the hospital in 1989 and found that 3.3 percent were HIV-positive. Of those, only 21 percent admitted ever using injected drugs, a far lower number than the 61 percent of women with AIDS in New York City from 1981 to 1993 who admitted to intravenous drug use.

ARTS SUFFER FROM FEDERAL FUNDING CUTS

BUFFALO — Ravaged by a huge deficit and funding cutbacks, the Buffalo Philharmonic begins its fall season on life support, sustained only by the willingness of its musicians to take steep pay cuts and the hopeful expectation that it can raise more than half a million dollars in emergency financing. Once considered one of the finest orchestras in the country, the Buffalo Philharmonic has turned into a symbol of the problems facing the arts in less-affluent communities. Federal arts funding has dropped, as have state allocations. From 1989 to 1993, the money given to dance by New York state dropped 59 percent, and in the last six years the country's orchestras have run deficits totaling $100 million.

VITAMIN MAY CONTRIBUTE TO LUNG CANCER

A research report about vitamins and cancer has spurred a debate among doctors and scientists on their ability to remain objective when faced with data they don't believe. At issue is a highly publicized study that appeared in the April 14 New England Journal of Medicine, which found that supplements of vitamin E and beta carotene did nothing to reduce the incidence of lung cancer in Finnish smokers. The findings were especially disturbing to vitamin devotees because men in the study who took beta-carotene supplements were more likely to get lung cancer than their placebo-taking counterparts.

Students experience Japan

By Katie Morrissey
Staff Reporter

Eating rice and fish at every meal rather than burgers and fries, speaking and eventually dreaming in Japanese before your trip is through and learning how to nod and smile among a crowd of rapid paced native speakers are among topics that will be discussed at a meeting Thursday.

Students can find out about SIU at Nakajo, Japan, from members of the SIUC community who have been involved with the program at a meeting at 3 p.m. Thursday in the University Museum Auditorium at Faner Hall's north end.

Tom Saville, coordinator of study abroad programs with International Programs and Services, said he hopes to see people outside of the foreign language departments show an interest in spending a semester or a year in Nakajo, Japan.

John Hopkins, a junior in marketing and Japanese from Chicago took part in last year's program.

Hopkins stayed in Nakajo for two full semesters, and worked and traveled throughout Asia.

"This is something I may never have thought of doing if I didn't stumble across one of the meetings and wander in," Hopkins said.

Hopkins had no previous knowledge of Japanese before going. Saville said students are not required to know Japanese but will soon learn the language, once fully immersed in the Japanese culture.

Some of the students Hopkins met and studied with in Nakajo have come to Carbondale as exchange students.

Ikuko Honda, 21, is originally from Nakajo. She studies psychology at SIUC and became friends with Hopkins when he was in Japan.

Campus Life Editor

Although many students will have free refreshments on their minds when they donate blood tomorrow, they also do it to help others, said a Red Cross representative. "When students hear the need, they will respond," Vivian Ugent, blood drive coordinator, said.

"They're not the kind of people to turn their backs on people in need."

The blood drive, one of five per year on campus, begins at 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. today in the Student Center and from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Delta Chi fraternity house at 105 Greek Row.

Ugent said although SIUC has hosted blood drives since the early 1970s, today is the first time a site other than the Student Center or the

Election year politics: Candidates go South

SINCE MID-SUMMER, POLITICIANS HAVE BEEN flocking to Southern Illinois to attend fairs, luncheons and ground-breaking ceremonies. While residents wonder who these people are, whether they are incumbents or challengers, and what they are doing down here, there are two things they all have in common: this is an election year and their campaigns are under way.

The Du Quoin State Fair, for example, brought in almost every state, federal and local candidate to one area where they spoke, signed bills and pledged support for issues in order to get votes for the Nov. 8 election. Politicians visited schools and vowed support for funding education, and they met with law enforcement members and talked about crime and drug prevention.

Around this time of an election year, it is typical to see politicians shaking hands and making those last fall parades before really starting the home stretch of a campaign. After the election, politicians may forget faces and names, but they remember how much support they got out of an area. Whether they won or not, sometimes politicians will return to their offices or homes and forget about those residents for awhile.

FOR EXAMPLE, ILLINOIS GOV. JIM EDGAR HAS visited this area several times during his term, but not as many times as in the last four weeks. Edgar has literally become a resident of Southern Illinois because of the Du Quoin State Fair. During his most recent visit, Edgar has signed several bills giving money to downstate coal research, a new juvenile boot camp in Murphysboro and a new school bus driver identification check program.

Even though most of the bills were needed, the timing of signing these important bills is too coincidental to be overlooked. For Edgar, signing these bills is crucial for the downstate support he will need in this governor's campaign. While Edgar signed bills, walked in the Shawnee National Forest and opened fairs, his opponent, state Comptroller Dawn Clark Lutsy, criticized his rediscovery of Southern Illinois and campaigned for her own cause.

Residents will forgive and forget these trusted public servants after the November election, but they wait to see their candidates come out again at the spring and summer fairs. But should people forgive so easily that some candidates only travel to Southern Illinois during critical campaign time? No, they should not forgive nor forget.

POLITICAL CANDIDATES WHO CARE ABOUT winning an election will strive for and pursue support from Southern Illinois. Candidates who make their way down here for more than just a picture or chat at a meeting and those who visit more than twice a year will probably get a better response from residents in the voting booth in November. Politicians, especially locally and state-wide, are indebted to local residents who get out there to meet with them and eventually vote for or against them. These residents are the votes that can put one candidate in office over another.

Letters to the Editor

Guyon promotes only SIUC athletics

In an August 25 editorial, you asserted that "President Guyon has made it clear that he does value student opinion on the subject of the athletics fee increase."

Guyon's actions, however, demonstrate that he cares not at all what the students think. Regarding student input on the proposed athletic fee increase, this is what Guyon has done:

- 1) witnessed a referendum (last February's) in which students voted down a proposed $40 athletic fee increase;
- 2) glibly reaffirmed that "student input is a critical variable"
- 3) then, without any systematic attempt to obtain further "critical student input," pushed through the Board of Trustees (on July 14) the idea of a "reduced" $30 athletic fee increase, which could be officially passed at an upcoming meeting.

Such maneuvering reveals Guyon to be more invested in promoting SIUC Athletics than he is in determining student body wishes; no amount of sophistry should be allowed to cloak this fact.

Unofficially, proponents of the athletic fee increase discount the results of last February's referendum on the basis that voter turnout was "low," when in actuality, more students than usual voted on this issue. Officially, though, Guyon just ignores the referendum's results on the basis that while students did vote down an increase of $40, they never expressly voted down an increase of a different amount. Thus, he now has conveniently provided the BOT with that different amount—$30. Voter turnouts and exact monetary figures aside, though, there remains one salient fact: Guyon has moved to increase student athletic fees when the only existing measure of student body sentiment reflects opposition to such an increase.

Are these actions of a university president who values student opinion.
—Neil Romney, graduate student

Administrators need to actively listen

I am complaining to my fellow students about the fee they are about to have shoved down their throats by the president of our university. Lately, given the mind-set of our school's administration, there are a few others I can complain to besides students.

This summer, a program which had been worked on for a long time, the Saluki Card, a debit system for students; something students and parents alike were looking forward to, was indiscriminately killed by the bankers of Carbondale.

In Spring of 1994 we voted, with significant opposition against raising fees for athletics. The resounding NO from students fell on deaf ears, and we are now being told to accept a higher, un-warranted, unfair fee increase. It is time for use to start defending ourselves against these aggressive assaults on our rights. The only way this would be possible is in a court of law.

If the individuals who voted against the new fees would come forward and commit 34 cents a day, less than the cost of a can of soda, or $40 a semester, we could very quickly raise $121,380. This would buy us some significant legal representation.

In a court of law there is always an even battle ground. At least we will earn the right to have a fair and equitable hearing. Something we are completely lacking right now. We could also join together and pressure Springfield to remove those administrators who have acted so incompetently. This is an election year. If we are going to have a chance this is the year to take action.

—Andrew J. Ensor, USG commissioner

Learning versus alcohol at Southern

The most desponding experience of my life took place recently while reading the Daily Egyptian. Perhaps I was misled by myth or the big screen (I never saw Animal House), but I fully expected to be surrounded with intellectuals upon my arrival to a major United States university. My mind was prepared to be challenged by greater minds soaked with the fervor to learn and create new, intelligent ideas. Sadly, I have found a majority, not all, but a majority of the minds at SIU to be saturated with alcohol instead of a zest for advanced knowledge.

After reading the August 26th article about teenage drinking, I actually felt deep shame for some of the students I share this campus with. One student, Tim Shirk, admitted to basing his college decision on the local bar entry age. I found this to be careless and childish reasoning. I hope that I am not alone here, but I believe that degree programs, finances, professors, and the prestige of a school are the most important aspects of higher education.

Southern has binged on the party school image and is now drunk with stupidity and immaturity. I love to party and have fun, but a distinct border between fun and learning must be established. Mr. Shirk, will you turn down a high-paying job in your future because there are no liquor stores in town? It sounds ridiculous, but you have already made that choice once.

—Edward Miller, undecided sophomore depends on the population sample."

Wooff said there is no single population growth model applicable to every situation.

Bruce Tetizlaff, research project director for Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory, said the Volterra model probably is not sophisticated enough for many applications — researchers in the laboratory usually use other models.

"Which model works depends on the species of the fish, its reproductive capacity, fertility rate and mortality," he said.

Two thumbs up: Student produces film for degree

By Katie Morrissey
Staff Reporter

While many Carbondale residents enjoyed the Labor Day holiday, one SIUC student spent the three-day weekend working on his required film for a master's degree.

John Harper Philbin, a candidate for a master's degree in fine arts and an SIUC instructor in radio and television, produced his MFA thesis film in the communications building's sound stage.

The film, "Opus 27," is based on an anonymously written story Philbin read as an undergraduate.

Philbin said he wrote the script based on what he remembered of the plot.

The black and white film is set in Germany in 1801 and features Beethoven in his 30s, when his hearing began to decline.

In the film, Beethoven wanders into a cobbler's shop where a young blind girl is playing his music. Their meeting results in Beethoven's creation of the famous "Moonlight Sonata."

"This is a story I have wanted to put into film for a long time, but never had the money," Philbin said.

He said the University provided the lights, cameras and the actual sound studio needed for the film, while he paid for film costs and the set.

The actors in the film responded to ads Philbin placed in a local acting trade paper and were auditioned in Chicago's Sheld Park, a community center that rents its space to people with projects like Philbin's.

Teri Clark, a Lincoln Park resident, was one of three actors chosen for the film. She plays the blind, unnamed character whose pianoforte playing attracts Beethoven.

Clark said this film is the best opportunity she has had to display the skills she learned from stage acting and years of study.

Clark said one difference between stage and film acting is that in film, the actor has much less control over what the audience will see.

She said most of the effort of a film is put in by the director and the lighting, photography and sound directors.

"My part is actually so minuscule," Clark said.

Philbin said he expects the film to be finished during next spring semester. It will be released for viewing some time next summer.

pant an idea of what to expect at the meeting.

The group is available every semester and has been very helpful to survivors in the past, Strategier said.

"Survivors have a lot of emotional reactions," Strategier said. "This (support group) provides a good place for survivors to work through emotions."

Strategier said it helps victims to just be with others who have had the same problem.

"Many victims have reactions that they think people won't understand," Strategier said. "The group gives them a chance to be with people that do understand."

The support group will be led by Strategier and Debbie Letarie.

Even though the group size is limited to six or eight members, Letarie said it is open to students, community and staff.

"The groups are held every semester in response to a need in the community," she said. "Women's Services offers a variety of support groups."

Letarie said other groups in progress include Women Loving Women; Assertiveness; Women in Relationships; Women and Self-Esteem; and Shyness and Social Skills, which is a coed group, while the others are only for women.

Registration is now in progress.

The group will meet once a week beginning either next week or the week after.

Anyone interested in joining the group can contact Women's Services at 453-3655.

and communication," Joseph said. "It could be applied to other majors and you get class credit."

Joseph said one of the drawbacks of the trip was the mode of travel.

"We traveled on a coach bus during the day, so it cut into your time in the cities," Joseph said. "Most of the trips were under five hours, but one was a 10-hour drive; we drove all day and there was no bathroom on the bus."

Another drawback was the expense of food, she said.

Scott Motzny, a graduate student in sports management from Rockford, agreed food prices were steep.

"After spending $2 for a can of Coke in every country, you're ready to come home," Motzny said. "It was expensive but it was worth it. I sacrificed (buying) a car to go."

Motzny said one of the best parts of the tour was experiencing completely different cultures and languages.

"I got to see and touch all the things I've always heard about," he said. "You hear and read about these places, but unless you go there, you just sort of accept it but never really appreciate it."

He said the tour gives students a good perspective on how business interacts with the cultures.

An informal informational meeting is scheduled for Sept. 22 from 4 to 5 p.m. in Rehn 108.

The 1995 tours include one from May 14 to June 1 which begins in St. Louis for orientation.

where students go through about 8 or 9 hours of classes in a hotel at St. Louis Airport. The first tour stops in London, Paris, Strasbourg, Brussels and Amsterdam.

The second tour is from May 21 to June 8 and includes stops in London, Paris, Germany and Austria.

The first two trips cost about $2,395.

The third tour is a combination of trips one and two and is from May 14 to June 8. It costs about $2,995.

Tour four, of the South Pacific including stops in Hawaii and Australia, is from Aug. 5 to 20 and costs about $2,795.

Prices for the trips include all transportation, hotel accommodations, at least one meal each day, certain museum and entertainment charges and all business tours.

"We go to a lot of corporations and students get to talk to (company) vice presidents and (learn) about different business aspects in Europe," Fraedrich said.

Each student chooses a corporation to do a report on before the trip. This report is what the student is graded on. Fraedrich said. SIUC is allotted 20 seats which must be filled by Oct. 15.

Southwest Missouri State University, Western Illinois University and Eastern Illinois University are also participating in the tours.

JAPAN, from page 3

"I really respect John, because he made lots of Japanese friends and did very well in learning another culture," Honda said.

Honda said getting used to a new culture is not easy, but it is well worth the trouble. Honda studied English at SIU in Nakajo for three years before coming to Carbondale.

She lives off-campus in an apartment and spends a lot of time with other Japanese students, but said she hopes to meet more Americans when her English improves. Honda said she would like to join the choir, where she expects to meet more Americans.

Hopkins said he is glad he stayed longer than one semester, because it took the first four months to really adjust. He said the experience helped him see a more outgoing and resourceful side of his personality.

"You become more willing to take risks and do your best when you go abroad," he said.

Hopkins said the knowledge that he may never again be able to take part in some activities encouraged him to seize every opportunity.

Saville said most people can afford a two or three week trip overseas later in life, but the true cultural immersion a person gains from studying abroad may only happen in college.

The program will run in academic year 1995. The program fee for 1994-95 was about $4,500, which included instructional fees, room and board, two meals a day and some transportation. Other estimated costs, including airfare, began at about $3,300.

Students who cannot attend the meeting can reach Saville in the International Programs and Services office at 453-7660.

Breakdowns plague ARCA stock car race

By Aleksandra Macys
Senior Reporter

Mechanical problems with some of the cars in the ARCA Southern Illinois 250k race Sunday at the Du Quoin State Fair made for an eventful day in motor sports.

ARCA, the Automobile Racing Club of America, holds Supercar Series events, such as the stock car race at the Fair, throughout the year. This is the 39th season of the event.

The cars raced 156 laps on the dirt track, which at times caused problems for some racers in the turns. Average speeds of more than 80 m.p.h. at times caused cars to career through turns, almost colliding with other drivers.

In lap 27 of the race, Jim Elliott was positioned well when his car backfired and spit out a fireball, once again making the caution flag a necessity.

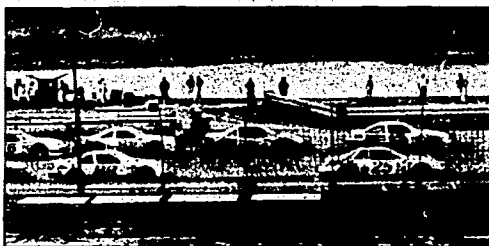

Dean Roper of Fair Grove, Mo., driving a Pontiac, won by an 8 second margin. Bobby Bowsher of Springfield, Ohio, driving a Ford, was favored to win the race by local fans and came in a close second. Roper won $12,500 for his victory.

Bowsher, who holds the current laps completed ARCA record, started fourth in the race, while Roper started in the eighth position.

Completing the race under the checkered flag in third and fourth positions were Ed Dixon, who started sixteenth and was driving a Pontiac and Randy Huffman, who started ninth and drove a Ford.

Gary Bradberry led the race during the first fourteen laps but finished the race in the 26th position because of frequent pit stops. Roper took over the lead position only during the last three laps of the event. Other lap leaders included Bowsher; Bob Hill, who finished in the 20th position; Bob Keselowski, who finished in the fifth position; and Glenn Brewer, who finished in the 13th position.

Controversy arose during the race when Brewer claimed that Bowsher nudged his car, causing it to slam into the guard rail. Brewer was uninjured, but thought the act was intentional. Bowsher said it was an accident.

About 7,800 fans packed the stands and at many times stood to witness the spectacular race.

remaining secrets of the Russian military-industrial complex," Gorklenko said.

The attack apparently took U.S. officials by surprise.

Relations with Russia seemed to have stabilized in the wake of the Aldrich Ames spying case, which led to expulsions of diplomats last February after Ames, a senior CIA official, was arrested and charged with spying for the KGB and its successor agency.

Sunday, U.S. and Russian troops began their first joint peacekeeping exercises in the Russian heartland, at the Totsk military base in the Ural Mountains.

Nevertheless, Russian officials have never stopped grumbling about Western spying. In July, the director of the Federal Counter-intelligence Service, Sergei Stepashin, said Russia was especially concerned about spying by North Korea and the United States.

U.S. Embassy spokesmen declined comment on the article, or on any complaints made to Pickering, in keeping with their policy never to discuss intelligence matters.

Rison predicts Atlanta victory

Los Angeles Times

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Andre Rison's new career as a pro football forecaster wasn't a big hit with the Los Angeles Rams, who took issue Monday with the Atlanta Falcon wide receiver's prediction of a victory over them next Sunday.

Frustrated after Atlanta's 31-28 overtime loss to the Detroit Lions Sunday, Rison said:

"I'm going to guarantee a win. You can print it in USA Today, as far as you can print it. You can print it all the way to L.A."

Rison's comments made national TV highlight shows, local papers and became instant bulletin-board material for the Rams, who are feeling pretty good about themselves coming off a 14-12 victory over the Arizona Cardinals.

"It's very disrespectful," said free safety Anthony Newman said. "That's not what being a professional football player is all about. That's a bunch of high-school ..."

"He forgets that we still have to play a game. We're going to have a lot of fun out there, believe me. We're not going to say anything. We're not going to stoop down to his level. We're going to do something physically to show what we're all about."

History supports Rison's prediction.

The Falcons have won six of the past seven meetings, and the Rams haven't won in Atlanta since the 1989 season-opener.

The Rams haven't won their first two games of the season since then, but have a chance to do so if they can shut down a Falcon offense that generated 389 yards in the Detroit loss.

Chris Miller described his regular-season debut as Ram quarterback as "ugly."

Knox didn't go quite that far on Monday, but he did criticize Miller, who goes against his former team, Atlanta, this week.

Arizona sacked Miller five times for 29 yards in losses.

He completed six of 16 passes for 131 yards and scored no touchdowns.

"We just have to keep working at it," Knox said of the passing game. "We had a lot of things in there, and we didn't hit some people."

"Sometimes he got some pressure, but I think that if he could do it over, there would be some passes he wouldn't have thrown."

Olympic conference offers stifled debate

Los Angeles Times

PARIS — Turn out the lights in the City of Light, the $16 million birthday party is over.

Also known as the Olympic Centennial Congress, it was conceived as a high-minded think tank that would bring together not only international and national Olympic officials but also academicians, historians, journalists, sponsors, marketing mavens and, yes, even athletes to discuss and debate their roles at the start of the Olympic movement's second century.

Come together they did last week in the underground halls of a charming convention center on the city's outskirts, more than 3,000 strong to hear 430 three-minute speeches over a five-day period on every subject from ambush marketing to the ambush of Nancy Kerrigan.

But as for discussions and debate, there was little of that as speakers were herded to and from the stage as if they were all winners of less prestigious Oscars at the Academy Awards. John MacAloon, a respected Olympic historian and University of Chicago sociology professor, fumed at the lack of opportunity for formal give and take at the end of sessions, as is usually a feature of academic conferences. "I thought the Berlin Wall had come down," he said.

Even informal exchanges in the lobby subsided after it was discovered that Olympia, a metallic green robot that wandered the halls, had super sensitive hearing powers. When one observer practically whispered to another that Olympia must have set the organizers back about $200,000, the robot, standing about a football field away, turned toward the conversants and said, in perfect English, "That's a lot of money!"

All this occurred to the delight of International Olympic Committee President Juan Antonio Samaranch of Spain, who declared that the theme of the Congress would be unity and then gave no one a chance to disagree. That assured that the theme of the Congress for the press would be boredom, which hardly distressed Samaranch.

About to step onto an escalator one afternoon, he spotted an Associated Press reporter in the lobby out of the corner of his eye and abruptly turned on his heels to go speak to him.

"No headlines," Samaranch said, his eyes twinkling.

He liked that thought so much that, in his closing speech Saturday, he said, "Good news is no news."

Most of his deputies were eager to accommodate him. In the opening speech of the first morning session, IOC vice-president Kevan Gosper of Australia said the movement needed the courage to eliminate sports from the Olympics that are no longer popular or modern, the courage to assure that professional athletes competing in the Olympics in increasing number are true lovers of sport and not merely gladiators, the courage to insist upon the continuing participation of athletes from developing nations and the courage to open stadiums to the common man instead of reserving all the seats for corporate sponsors and VIPs.

But then Gosper, fearing that he had been too blunt, went to the press room to inform reporters that he was merely tossing out some suggestions, that he was not sure when or even whether the IOC should act upon them and that what really bothers him is "extravagant, unrelated" entertainment at sporting events. He was unable to describe what he was talking about, but he presumably knows it when he sees it. After that performance, some of his IOC colleagues began sarcastically referring to him as "Captain Courageous."

But if speakers were somewhat circumspect because they were concerned that their words might come back to haunt them, who could blame them? At the most recent Congress in 1981, one conclusion of the final statement's drafters was that there was "no place in the Olympic Games for professional or open competition." Eleven years later, the Dream Team pretty much ended that notion forever.

Watson says improvement is team's goal

By Grant Deady
Sports Editor

After having the Labor Day weekend to reflect back on Saturday's 35-26 opening day loss to Tennessee-Martin, Saluki head coach Shawn Watson said the most positive thing he saw from his players and staff was disappointment.

"Naturally, I'm very disappointed as well as the entire staff, and I know the kids are too," he said. "And to be honest, that's the first positive thing I've seen in this program in a long while. The kids are disappointed in losing and they took losing very hard."

The Salukis were in command of Saturday's game in the first half, taking a 17-14 lead into the locker room after scoring on three of its seven possessions and coming up short on a fourth and goal from the one yard line.

However, the early third quarter letdown by the Dawgs that allowed UT-M back into the game was characteristic of last season's 2-9 team.

Watson said being able to keep a competitive edge after the half will be crucial to the success of this fall's squad.

"There was that lapse there, after they (UT-M) came up with the big score early in the third quarter. That was our test and we just went flat," he said. "That's the door we have to knock down."

On offense, Watson said he was pleased with the play of quarterback David Pierson and the tight end tandem of Dave Smith and Damon Jones.

Junior middle linebacker Brian Tranchitella also impressed Watson with 11 tackles, while red-shirt freshman Shawn Payton stuck out on special teams.

SIUC is now staring down the barrel of an Ole' Miss team that lost Saturday to Auburn 22-17.

Watson said he and the team realize what they are against this Saturday and the important thing is to just improve on week one.

"There were a lot of positive things that happened and yet the reality is we have a lot to do in this football program," he said. "We're not discouraged at all with our kids and our objective this week is to get a week better."

Runner moves into fast lane

Daehler gets back on track with training after fractures

By Doug Durso
Senior Reporter

Suffering physical injuries might be hard for most athletes overcome, but an SIUC athlete has faced these problems and has become one of the best runners in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Deborah Daehler, who is a senior co-captain for the women's cross country team, said she had a stress fracture coming into her freshman year and then fractured her leg again in the same year.

"I came in with a stress fracture and I was not prepared when I fractured my leg again," Daehler said.

She rebounded to have a good sophomore year including finishing sixth in the conference championship, but re-injured herself while biking before her next cross country season making for a tough junior campaign.

Daehler said with all of the injuries behind her she is ready for a great season.

"I feel good and I am excited to get the season started and perform well," she said.

Don DeNoon, head coach of the Salukis, said he is not only looking for Daehler to be one SIUC's leaders, but also expects her to be at the top of the MVC.

"She has been training really well and we are looking for her to step up as one of the top runners on our team and at least return to her sophomore form," he said.

Daehler said she has personal as well as team goals that she wants to fulfill this year.

"I want our team to win conference and I would like to finish in the top three individually," she said.

"I also want to qualify for nationals as a team and individually."

Daehler, a student in SIUC's aviation program, also takes her studies seriously by earning a 3.75 grade-point average. She said being an athlete helps her to be a better student.

"Athletics helps me in school because it helps me learn discipline and how to manage my time," Daehler said.

She said besides the cross country program, the other reason she came to SIUC was because of the aviation program.

"SIUC has one of the best aviation programs in the country and I want to fly when I graduate so this was the best of both situations."

As for the upcoming season, Daehler said the team is coming together well and she is looking for a strong performance both for the team and herself.

In the first meet of the season the Salukis pounded Southeast Missouri State and Daehler finished second behind teammate Jennie Horner to get the season off to a promising start.

Saturday afternoon at the Saluki Dual meet against Southeast Missouri State, Debbie Daehler, a senior from Zion, placed second behind her team mate Jennie Horner. Daehler's time for the race was 18 minutes, 11.4 seconds.

Water polo club seeks new members

By Chris Clark
Staff Reporter

A team that plays together, stays together. But in the case of the SIUC water polo club, a team that stays together, plays together.

Frank Tanzillo, president of the water polo club, lives with three other members of the water polo team in what he describes as a sort of fraternity house.

"We all met through the club, and decided to live together," he said. "But a lot of water polo players have lived in this house for the last five or six years," he said.

Although he admits last season was not the team's finest, Tanzillo hopes to improve this year.

"We were really unprepared for the low [player] turnout last year," he said. "A lot of us worked too hard because of that and then decided if no one cared, why should we? Things went downhill from there."

This year, the club has seven returning members, but Tanzillo said that he does not want a repeat of last season's skeleton crew.

"We do have some people coming back, but we'd like to have 13 to 15 members this year."

Tanzillo also said the club provides more than just game competition against teams from schools like the University of Illinois, Georgia Tech and the University of North Carolina.

"Water polo provides very good exercise and is a combination of soccer and basketball. You put the ball into a net like you do in soccer, and you set picks like in basketball," he said.

Tanzillo said that anyone can join the club, and membership is on a sign-up basis. Practice begins Wednesday night at the pool at the Recreation Center from 8-10 p.m., and continues every Monday through Thursday at the same time.

Volleyball players treating injuries

By Sean Walker
Staff Reporter

Volleyball injuries are few and far between, but, as the Saluki volleyball team found out last weekend, when they happen they hurt.

SIUC suffered three major losses in last weekend's Florida State Invitational Tournament.

Senior setter Kim Cassidy, who played the entire tourney, came back to Carbondale with a lower back strain. Beth Diehl, the starting left side hitter last weekend, left the tournament with an ankle sprain. And junior Alicia Hansen, also a left side Liker, failed to play due to illness.

Although things look bleak for the SIUC Missouri Valley Conference opener this weekend against pre-season favorite Northern Iowa, the Salukis got some good news yesterday from head trainer Sally Perkins.

"We got Beth Diehl's X-rays back and she didn't break anything," Perkins said. "She has a typical ankle sprain that normally doesn't give her full strength for seven to ten days."

Perkins said Diehl will have to go through some extensive rehabilitation this week. Diehl's rehabilitation includes muscle stimulation, ice and range of motion exercises, which are normal for her injury.

"The muscle stimulation is used to increase the blood flow, decrease the swelling and decrease the pain associated with an ankle injury," Assistant trainer Jennie Hootman said. "The range of motion exercises involves bending the joint to test mobility in that area."

Perkins said Diehl is questionable for this weekend's matches against Northern Iowa and Drake.

Perkins said Cassidy, also injured on last weekend's road trip, has an acute lower back strain.

"Since Cassidy's injury is acute, meaning new, she will be treated with muscular stimulation, ice and range of motion exercises like Diehl," Perkins said. "I will see how she looks later this week, but she is also questionable for this weekend's games."

Alicia Hansen, who left the tourney due to illness, was doing better yesterday, Perkins said.

"Hansen is looking better today than she did this weekend," Perkins said. "She should be ready to play this weekend barring any re-occurring illness."

Hansen said she is excited and ready to play.

"I feel great," Hansen said. "I feel one hundred percent better and I'm ready to go."

Horner given honor after first place finish

By Grant Deady
Sports Editor

SIUC senior Jennie Horner lived up to her pre-season billing Tuesday when the Armington native was named the Missouri Valley Conference Cross Country Athlete of the Week.

Horner captured first place in Saturday's dual meet with Southeast Missouri State after clocking in at 18:06.6, which proved to be the second fastest time ever recorded in a season-opening competition by an SIUC runner.

Horner also topped her career-best time of 18:16 and registered her first individual crown while at SIUC.

Last season, Horner finished among SIUC's top-five runners in all eight of its meets and serves as a co-captain of this fall's squad.

The Saluki women Harriers defeated SEMO 23-34 and are slated to compete in the Kansas Invitational Sept. 10.

CARBONDALE COMMUNIQUE

Welcome Back SIU Students And Faculty!

SEPTEMBER-OCTOBER, 1994

City of Carbondale

Your Safety Is Important

Carbondale's Police and Fire Services are staffed around the clock every day of the year, and if you need help, it's only minutes away. For Police emergencies call 549-2121, for non-police emergencies call 457-3200; to report a fire, call 457-4131. Ambulance service is provided by Jackson County and can be obtained by calling 687-5678.

Although the City has a relatively low crime rate, you need to exercise good common sense to protect yourself and your property. Don't be a victim of crime. The Police Department offers a number of services to help "take a bite out of crime." Consider joining a Neighborhood Watch Program and ask about a residential security survey. If you're leaving town for vacation or break, stop in and complete a request for housewatch services while you are away. Be sure that your valuable property is engraved or marked for identification.

Register your bicycle; the cost is only $2 for a two-year license.

If you have a special talent or interest in law enforcement, let us know. Perhaps we can use you in our Volunteers in Police Service Program. You can also observe department operations first hand by participating in our Ride Along Program. Call the Police department's non-emergency number (457-3200).

Extension 434) for information on any of these programs.

The SIU Security Department works closely with the City Police. If you're living on campus, call SIU Security for assistance or information.

The Carbondale Fire Department responds to all fire related calls both on campus and off campus.

Every 15 seconds a fire department responds to a fire somewhere in the United States.

Nationwide, there is a fire death every 118 minutes. Because of these staggering statistics, the Carbondale Fire Department is dedicated to an aggressive fire prevention program. We will provide speakers, for groups that request them, to present programs on fire prevention, smoke detectors, exit drills, or a subject that you request. The Fire Department also provides a home safety inspection program. We encourage everyone to take advantage of these programs.

Remember to practice "Fire Safety." The life you save may be your own.

* SPECIAL NOTE: Carbondale does not yet have a 911 emergency telephone service so please memorize the numbers for police, fire, and emergency medical service. 911 is coming but it's not here yet.

Fire Can Happen Anytime!

Did you know that 80 percent of all fire deaths happen in the home? A smoke detector doubles your chances of surviving a fire, but only if it has working batteries. And, if the alarm goes off, will you know what to do? Whether you're awake or asleep you may have only seconds to escape, that's why you and your family need to take simple steps that may save your lives:

- Make sure everyone has two ways to escape from the bedrooms. Collapsible ladders are available from many stores.
- Design and practice an escape plan from each room in the house.
- Practice feeling the way out with your eyes closed.
- Designate a meeting place outside.
- Caution everyone to stay low to the floor when escaping from a fire and never open doors that are hot to the back of your hands.
- Install smoke detectors on every level of your home. Place them strategically, near bedrooms and the kitchen.

- Check smoke detector batteries monthly and replace in the spring and fall.

- Plan for the unexpected.

In an effort to assist the citizens of Carbondale in making their homes "fire safe," the Carbondale Fire Department offers a "Home Safety Inspection Program." They will send firefighters to your home to assist you in detector location, exit plans and an overall evaluation of your homes' safety condition. This home safety inspection will not result in any code violation notices or follow-ups. They are concerned with your family's safety, and community co-operation is the first step in lowering our statistics in fire loss and injury. The fire injury or property loss prevented may be yours.

For a "home fire safety inspection," call 529-5115, 457-3299 or 457-3221. "YOUR SAFETY IS OUR BUSINESS."

Fire Prevention Week 1994

This year Fire Prevention Week is during the week of October 8th to October 15th. The Carbondale Fire Department will be hosting the third annual Fit For Life Road run on October 1st as a kickoff to Fire Prevention Week. The event is co-hosted with the Carbondale Police Department and Memorial Hospital of Carbondale.

The 5K run and walk begin in downtown Carbondale at 8:00 a.m. Saturday October 1st. An awards ceremony and raffle drawing will immediately follow. There will be refreshments, a mini-health fair, police and fire displays, and free post-race massage therapy for the contestants.

We welcome your participation in the event. Applications can be obtained at the Police Department, Fire Department or at sporting goods stores throughout town. The entry fee will be $10 if registered before September 30th or $15 the day of the race.

On October 8th we will have an open house at Fire Station #2 at the corner of Oakland Avenue and Walnut Street. The open house will be from 11:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. There will be refreshments, fire prevention literature, and pictures taken with "Sparky the Fire Dog." Come visit the fire station and bring your children so they can sit in a fire engine and meet the Carbondale Firefighters.

We are hoping for the arrival of our new "smoke house" during Fire Prevention Week. The smoke house in a trailer set up to simulate an actual house with a bedroom, stairway, kitchen, and control room. We will be able to take children into the trailer, fill it with smoke and teach the correct way to escape from a house fire. Also fire prevention practices can be taught at this time. We will be scheduling classes with the area schools so we can reach all the children in Carbondale and the surrounding area.

The "smoke house" is being purchased from donations contributed by Carbondale businesses and individuals. The Carbondale Fire Department is very happy for the overwhelming support we've received in our efforts to purchase this excellent training aid.

We would like to sincerely thank those individuals and businesses that contributed.

Please take some time this year to reflect on the importance of fire safety. The damaging emotional, physical and economic impact of a fire cannot be stressed enough. The very sad fact is that most fires could have been avoided with a little common sense and by practicing fire safety.

The Carbondale Fire Department hopes you have an enjoyable and "fire safe" year.

"No-Burn" Ordinance

The City of Carbondale has established by ordinance, through adoption of the 1993 Building Officials and Code Administrators (BOCA) Fire Prevention Code, a no-open burn policy inside the City Limits. The only allowable burning is listed under Section F-403.3, "Allowable Burning." Allowable burning shall be allowed without prior notification to the code officials for highway safety flares; smudge parts; fires set by public officials in the performance of their duties; and fires used for cooking, provided the fires are in approved devices designed for cooking.

If you have any questions about approved devices, call the Fire Chiefs office at (618) 457-3221 or Inspector Webb at (618) 457-3298.

Change Your Clock - Change Your Battery

Each year, thousands of people die or suffer serious injuries in house fires. Even more tragic is that many of them could have been prevented with working smoke detectors.

Although 88 percent of American homes have smoke detectors, nearly one third don't work because of worn or missing batteries. With the early warning that a smoke detector can provide, residents stand a much greater chance of escaping to safety.

In fact, a working smoke detector cuts the risk of dying in a house fire by nearly half. As part of our commitment to help reduce these needless deaths and injuries, we encourage people to adopt a single habit that could save their lives: changing their smoke detector batteries each fall when they turn back their clocks from daylight savings time. So, this October 30, when you turn back your clocks, take an extra minute to install fresh batteries in your smoke detectors, too. Then, push the test buttons on the smoke detectors to make sure the alarms are working. We recommend that families also plan two escape routes from their home and practice them regularly.

A smoke detector is a family's best defense against fire. Keeping it in top working condition, with an annual battery change, will help ensure that it's working when you need it most.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Mammography Services Offered At Eurma C. Hayes Center

The Shawnee Health Center is conducting a Mammography Screening Program at its Clinic located in the Eurma C. Hayes Center at 441 E. Willow Street, Carbondale, Illinois.

A mammogram is an x-ray examination of the breast used for early detection of breast cancer.

Eighty percent of all breast lumps are non-cancerous. Mammography assists in distinguishing between cancerous and non-cancerous breast lumps. This service will include a brief exam and education provided by a licensed Physician Assistant supervised by a physician employed by Shawnee Health Service and Development Corporation. This professional service is covered by Medicaid and Medicare. Provided by Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, Center for Mammography Screening in cooperation with the Shawnee Health Service and Development Corporation, the screening will be offered on the third Tuesday of each month from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. (noon).

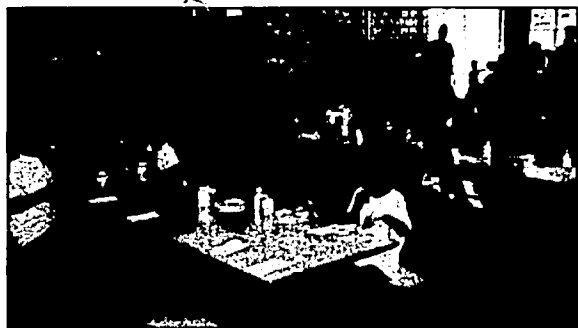

The screening will be performed by a Registered Radiological Technologist. The Technologist will also complete a history form and answer any questions patients may have. The screening tests are processed through Memorial Hospital's Center for Mammography Screening and a copy of the test results will be sent to Shawnee's sponsoring physician. Within three weeks the patient will receive a letter informing them of finding, whether positive or negative, and advising them if further medical follow-up is needed and who to contact.

Each patient will be asked to participate in a brief educational session prior to the mammography screening. Patients will receive a breast exam and be taught self-breast examination technique by the Physician Assistant who will also answer any health related questions.

The target population is low income women age 30 or older with household incomes below 175% of poverty and/or those eligible for Medicaid or Medicare. Medicaid and Medicare recipients must present their eligibility cards at time of service. There will be no out of pocket cost to any patient.

Patients must be 30 years of age or older, not pregnant or nursing, must not have had a mammogram in the year, is asymptomatic, i.e., no breast disease, no existing lumps and not receiving treatment. To schedule an appointment call (618) 457-6507 between the hours of 8:30 to 5:00. For further information about the program contact Aletha Broadnax at (618) 985-8221.

Attucks Community Service Board Summer Food Program

On August 19, 1994 Attucks Community Service Board ended its annual Summer Food Program. Serving an average of 200 children per day the program provided meals and snacks for children from low income families during the summer months of June and July, ending August 19. The food was served at Thomas School and the Carol Moseley-Braun Center. The City of Carbondale and the Illinois Department of Education provided the funds for the program.

Beat The Heat At Attucks Park

On three occasions during the month of July the Carbondale Fire Department went to three sites in the city and gave the neighborhood children a relief from the heat and a fun time under the sprays of the department's aerial fire truck. The other sites were Oakdale Park and Tatum Heights Park. A big thank you to the Carbondale Fire Department.

Carbondale Begins Home Buyer Tax Credit Program

The City of Carbondale in cooperation with the Illinois Housing Development Authority and local lending institutions has implemented a program to issue mortgage credit certificates (MCC's) that will provide housing assistance to eligible first-time buyers purchasing homes within the City limits of Carbondale.

Congress authorized the use of MCC's as a method of reducing the cost of financing the purchase of a home. A MCC reduces the amount of the borrower's federal income tax liability. Twenty-five percent of all mortgage interest paid qualifies as a tax credit, that is, a dollar for dollar reduction of the borrower's tax liability. The remaining seventy-five percent of mortgage interest paid continues to qualify as an itemized tax deduction.

A mortgage credit certificate will save the typical homebuyer over $1,000 per year in federal income taxes. The tax credit will be good for the life of the mortgage, so long as the home remains the buyer's principal residence. If the borrower applies the income tax savings to the mortgage payment, a 9% interest rate loan can be effectively reduced to nearly 7%. At the time when home mortgage interest rates are creeping up, the MCC can be an important tool for use to keep the cost of the home purchase affordable.

To defray the cost of developing and administering the MCC program, the MCC recipient must pay a one-time program administration fee of $350. The borrower will quickly recover this fee through the income tax credit. During the first 12 months, the tax credit earned will be approximately 50 percent greater than the one time fee paid by the borrower.

To be eligible, the homebuyer cannot have owned a home within the past three years and must have a household income within the applicable limit set by the federal government. Also the home purchase price must not exceed the applicable limit set by the federal government. In an effort to stimulate homeownership in lower income neighborhoods, certain "target areas" have been identified by the federal government in which the homeowner's income and the purchase price can be higher than for the rest of the city. The part of Carbondale identified as a "target area" is north of Main Street and east of the Illinois Central Railroad. For households of 1 or 2 people, the income limit is $46,000; except in the "target area" where it is $55,200. For households of 3 or more people, the income limit is $52,900; except in the "target area" where it is $64,400.

The mortgage loan must be for the purchase of a home, not a refinancing. The home must generally be a single family residence; but in some cases a building with up to four dwelling units might qualify if the purchaser lives in one unit and meet the income criteria. For existing construction (previously occupied home), the purchase price limit is $55,350 except in the "target area" where it is $67,650. For new construction (never occupied home), the purchase price limit is $92,070 except in the "target area" where it is $110,330. The borrower must occupy the residence for the MCC to remain effective.

It is important to note that the designation of "target area" only affects the homebuyer's income limit and the maximum allowable purchase price. All parts of the city are equally eligible to participate in the MCC, and persons interested in purchasing a home anywhere in the city are invited to participate in the program if they meet the

Carbondale Community Education, Inc. Elects New Officers and Initiates Annual Membership Drive

Carbondale Community Education, Inc. has elected new officers to serve during the term of September 1, 1994 through August 31, 1995.

They are Co-Presidents Milly Kaiser and Dan Shannon, Vice President Anita Lenzi, Treasurer Carol Johnson, Secretary Judy Ashby and Member-at-Large Marie Vicher.

Community education, conceptualized in the 1930's, is a process which seeks to serve the entire community for both leisure and work by mobilizing community resources. It aids in the development of cooperation among agencies, institutions, business and labor for the benefit of both the schools and the community. It encourages participation of all citizens in community life. Carbondale Community Education, Inc. was organized in 1977 and has since evolved into a non-profit corporation which seeks to meet the goals of community education in the Carbondale area. It is composed of a variety of individuals and representatives of community groups in Carbondale. Working goals established for the upcoming year include promoting community volunteerism, encouraging improvement of education for all age groups, ensuring the safety of the Carbondale community, expanding public recreation for all populations, encouraging and supporting after-school programs and increasing membership. Regular monthly meetings are usually held at noon on the second Wednesday of the month at Carbondale City Hall, 609 E. College Street.

During the past three years, using Positive Youth Development Grant funds awarded by the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, Carbondale Community Education's Positive Youth Development Committee chaired during the first two years by Glenn Seebor and during the third year by Marie Vicher, assisted a variety of activities designed to promote self-esteem and positive growth experiences for area youth. A pot-luck thank you dinner for the work done by Seebor and Vicher is planned for September.

During the past year, Carbondale Community Education member Art Wright received the Illinois Community Education Association's Citizen Leadership Award. Wright involved Carbondale Community Education in promoting a number of neighborhood safety programs and initially proposed and has helped to implement an annual senior citizen appreciation program to honor seniors especially for their volunteerism in the Carbondale area.

During the next month, there will be a special emphasis on the renewal of memberships and recruitment of new members. Anyone in the community who wants more information about Carbondale Community Education, Inc. and membership may contact Anita Lenzi at 457-6170.

COUNCIL COMMENTS

By Councilman Richard Morris

I would like to take this opportunity to reflect on the past year, and look at a few of the many accomplishments that has occurred in the city, and look forward to things to come. As you know, we have opened the new water treatment plant, (if you have not had a chance to see it, I encourage you to do so.) This is a state of the art facility that is equipped to take our city comfortably into the twenty-first century. It will benefit the city of Carbondale for years to come, with the best quality of water possible. As was stated at the Grand Opening, this facility has incorporated some of the first of its kind in innovations in some categories in the world - that is something to be very proud of, because this could have never happened without the support of the residents of Carbondale. Things happen for the better when we work together, and we have done that very successfully.

Another great accomplishment is the Town Square. The comments that the city has received have ranged from exceptional to having one of the best entries into a city's downtown. The floral display adds a touch of class to a flourishing town square and you can see the domino effect of attractive new fronts on all the businesses in the area - a great show of pride. If you were not at the Founder's Day celebration you missed a great event, especially the dedication of the Pavilion, which again took support from the residents to accomplish.

Looking forward into the near future is the much needed and long awaited Civic Center/City Hall complex that will continue to add to the great beginning of the town square. This complex will house the City Administrative Offices, Council Chambers, and Civic Center. This great addition will be the stabilizing force that will continue to accomplish those things the residents of Carbondale have asked for in the revitalization of downtown Carbondale. This facility, in my opinion, will be the turning point that will change the way we will view downtown Carbondale. This is an accomplishment of which all residents of Carbondale will and should be very proud.

eligibility criteria. This program is only available within the Carbondale city limits as a result of Carbondale's Home Rule status. Rural areas and nearby communities are not able to offer the MCC program.

Buyers will be able to apply for a MCC when making mortgage loan application. The City will play no role in the mortgage underwriting process. Lenders will offer loans at prevailing interest rates and loan fees. Participating lenders in Carbondale are:

First Bank
.....1500 West Main, Carbondale
First National Bank & Trust Co.

The City encourages additional lenders to join in the program.

A MCC Fact Sheet can be obtained by calling Don Monty at the City's Finance Department (618) 549-5302, or by visiting the reception area of City Hall located at 609 East College Street.

Is There A Project That Would Improve Your Neighborhood

Carbondale has a five-year capital improvement program. Each year the program is updated by adding projects for another year. All of the suggested capital improvements are evaluated and those projects deemed necessary are placed in the five-year period as funds permit.

Items typically included in the Capital Improvements Program (CIP) are street reconstruction, storm sewer construction, sanitary sewer construction or replacement, sidewalks, traffic signals, public buildings, water or wastewater treatment plant construction or expansion, and bicycle paths.

If you want to propose capital improvements projects, please complete the form below and return it to City Hall by September 30, 1994 so projects can be considered for inclusion in the next five-year CIP plan. Our address is P. O. Box 2047, 609 East College Street, Carbondale, IL 62902-2047.

Once suggestions from the public are received, they are placed with other suggestions received from City staff and sent to the City Council. The City Council then makes a determination as to which projects should be included in the CIP program. During the winter, as the City budget is prepared, the staff tries to match approved CIP projects with available funds.

This house is one of the first to be rehabilitated under the city's Housing Rehabilitation Program. Funded by the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and the Illinois Housing Development Authority, the program is expected to rehabilitate as many as 20 houses in northeast Carbondale during the first round of funding. The City is preparing an application to participate in a second round of funding to rehabilitate more houses. For more information about the program, contact the Building and Neighborhood Services Division at 549-5302.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Steve Larson, Building Inspector for the Building & Neighborhood Services Division, recently obtained the prestigious designation of Master Code Official by the Building Officials & Code Administrators International, Inc.

Mr. Larson has been employed with the City of Carbondale since January 30, 1986, as the Building Inspector for the Building & Neighborhood Services Division. As the Building Inspector for the City, his duties include examining building plans and specifications to assure structural stability and life safety in new construction, remodeling, and additions to existing buildings. Mr. Larson is also responsible for the performance of the more complex building inspections for compliance with the approved building, plumbing, electrical, mechanical, fire safety, and accessibility codes.

To obtain the designation of "Master Code Official," Mr. Larson has consistently over the past 8 years pursued his professional development by completing eighteen tests including building, plumbing, electrical, mechanical, management, law, and plan review within the National Certification Program for Construction Code Inspectors.

This certification is held by only a small number of persons nationwide and is the highest award given to building code officials. Congratulations, Steve, on your exemplary pursuit of professionalism!

CRITTER CORNER

By Cindy Nelson, Animal Control Officer

ARE YOU A GOOD PET NEIGHBOR?

"Love Me, Love my dog" is what every dog owner would like. How lovable your dog is to others depends upon the kind of training and care he receives from you. If you acquire a puppy, start training immediately while his habits are in the formative stage. If you acquire an older dog, allow both time and patience to train the dog to adjust to your lifestyle and to become a welcome neighbor.

The time you spend training your dog will be returned to you with long hours of loving companionship, free from worry about your own property and your neighbors property.

DO'S AND DON'TS OF DOG OWNERSHIP

DO:

- teach your dog to be obedient and well-behaved.
- walk your dog on a leash and curb your dog when necessary.
- teach your dog to stay in your yard.
- train your dog to stay quietly within his quarters while you are away.
- train your dog to walk quietly at heel on a loose leash.
- have your dog properly licensed and vaccinated against diseases.
- take your dog to the veterinarian at least once a year for a vaccination up-date and check-up...a healthy dog makes a good pet neighbor.

DON'T:

- let your dog roam the neighborhood.
- let your dog BARK excessively.
- let your dog soil your neighbor's lawn or gardens.
- let your leashed dog jump on passers-by.
- let your female dog have an affair with a stranger.

CARBONDALE DOG OWNERS MUST HAVE THEIR PET LICENSED AND LEASHED

HANDY CAT FACTS (to keep the neighbors happy)

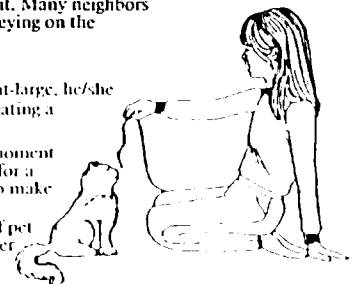

1. Since cats are obstinate about training, simply keep your cat away from neighbors who get upset with your cat.
2. Be sure your cat is healthy so he won't infect other neighborhood pets. Take your cat to a veterinarian at least once a year for vaccinations and a checkup.
3. Keep a collar on your cat with an identifying tag, so neighbors can easily recognize your cat from similar appearing stray cats.
4. If your cat is an outdoor cat, get a safety collar with a bell on it. Many neighbors enjoy feeding birds and other wildlife. Keep your cat from preying on the neighbors feeders.

CARBONDALE CAT OWNERS.....

1. Must have your cat vaccinated for rabies; 2. If your cat runs at-large, he/she must be neutered; and 3. Are subject to fines if your cat is creating a nuisance.

The pleasure of pet ownership brings responsibility. From the moment you take possession of a new pet, you are entrusted with caring for a creature with sensitive feelings and special needs. You must also make sure that your pet places no burden on others.

Enjoy your new four-footed friends and the responsibilities of pet ownership. The two go hand-in-hand and make the world a better place for people and pets.

Downtown On-Street Parking Reminders

The on-street parking meters in the downtown business district are designed for short-term parking. To encourage the turnover of the spaces for the maximum number of users, the meters are equipped to provide 15 minutes of free parking. To obtain the free minutes the handle on the meter must be turned before depositing any coins. A maximum of 2 hours of parking is available for on-street spaces. Customers requiring more than 2 hours should use the off-street parking lots that allow for 8 or more hours of parking.

ON THE GROW...

The first seven months of 1994 have been a period of steady construction activity in Carbondale. Building permits were issued for an average rate of construction of just over $1,000,000 per month for a total of $7,098,084 for the seven months. Building activity was spread over several categories. Commercial repair and remodeling accounted for 37 building permits. Another 27 permits were issued for residential repairs and remodeling. There were 19 building permits for new residential structures and 10 for new commercial structures. A total of 18 permits were issued for accessory structures such as storage buildings and swimming pools. Most were residential in nature. There were ten permits for additions to buildings. These were evenly split between residential and commercial additions.

The building permits for new residential construction included 15 houses and 28 duplex or apartment units. The duplexes or apartment units were located on West Mill Street, East Park Street, East Grand Avenue, and West Sunset Drive in areas of similar existing uses.

New commercial construction included a new church for the First Christian Church, a new Baptist Student Center, a new medical office to replace the Professional Building next to Memorial Hospital, the temporary "clubhouse" for the Hickory Ridge Golf Course, Sonic Drive-in, Comfort Inn motel, Rex TV and Appliance, the Fishback professional office building, and the new Benning Gallery building. Commercial additions were made to Magna Bank, Archway, the Flower Box, and New Zion Missionary Baptist Church.

Commercial remodelings reflected improvements to existing businesses and changes from one business to another. Among the significant remodelings were the following: The First National Bank is undertaking substantial remodeling. Henry Printing is doing work including a new facade treatment. Larry's Pit BBQ is remodeling the former Hardee's on the east side of the City. The Mississippi Flyway is growing again. The Checkered Flag has opened at the former Popeye's Chicken site. Mid America Services is rebuilding after a fire.

Flickers opened this spring in the old Bleyers Sports Mart building. The Days Inn is continuing its renovation program. Krystal is now open in the place of Captain D's. Paul Harris Stores and the Reel Collection will occupy space in the University Mall.

Construction activity should remain strong for the rest of the year. In addition to the above building permits, site plans are pending or have been approved for two new restaurants, three more apartment developments, and additional professional medical offices.
