It happens every spring

Those proverbial April showers turned to that white flakey stuff Monday and continued to cover the SIU campus and vicinity with a reported seven inches of snow. Daily Egyptian photographer John Lopinot captured these three scenes. The U.S. Weather Service predicted that the snow would stop late Tuesday. The weatherman is predicting highs in 60's for the Easter weekend.

Brandon, Blythe win township elections

Republican incumbent W. L. "Ike" Brandon captured the Carbondale Township supervisor election Tuesday by a narrow 172 vote margin over Democratic challenger Tom Bevirt. Bevirt is a 26 year-old SIU student.

Brandon received 1,479 votes, while Bevirt polled 1,307. In the contest for the Township highway commissioner Rollin Blythe, Democrat, beat Roy Clark, Republican, 1,459 to 1,300. A total of 2,786 votes were cast.

Brandon won 12 of the 18 precincts in the townships. Blythe scored a majority in 10 of the 18 precincts.

Brandon has served as Carbondale Township supervisor for the past eight years. He has been on the Jackson County Board for the last 18 years.

He will serve on the Jackson County Board of Supervisors until May, 1972. At that time county supervisors will be elected independently.

Brandon won precincts two, three, four, five, seven, eight, nine, ten, 15, 16 and 18.

City, SIU form task force on annexation

By David L. Mahman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A committee of Carbondale and SIU officials Tuesday formed a joint task force assigned to determine if the city's proposal to annex the SIU campus can receive the backing of the SIU Board of Trustees staff, according to City Manager William Schmidt.

The task force, formed in the second Carbondale-SIU committee meeting, is to work out terms and conditions of annexation agreeable to both parties. Schmidt said Tuesday. He said that the task force will prepare a statement to be reviewed by the committee and transmitted to the Board of Trustees.

"The task force makes Board staff support a bit more possible," Schmidt said.

Schmidt, who proposed the task force, would not comment further on why he made the suggestion. He said that he did not want to risk influencing the task force talks in any way, but added that the task force got some general direction in the committee meeting.

Schmidt said that he hopes the task force can meet "in the next few days" so that the city may still have a chance to get on the Board's April agenda. The Board will meet April 16 and 17 in Carbondale.

Richard Mager, campus legal counsel and coordinator of the task force, said, however, that "certain data" need to be collected by both parties before the task force can meet and "get anything accomplished." He said that no time has been set for the task force's first meeting and added that May is probably the earliest practical date for the city to get on the Board agenda.

April agendas have already been sent to Board members.

Schmidt said that the city could push for immediate agenda time, but the city's annexation proposal might not receive Board staff concurrence if this was done. He said that the Board staff would not be as likely to support the city if it felt that the city was put on the agenda prematurely, without time for full reaction to the city's proposal on the part of the Board staff. Schmidt and Mager both expressed optimism that some agreement can be worked out quickly.

Schmidt has emphasized that annexation is needed very soon. He said Tuesday that annexation is the only financial option that the city can have any control over for solving its current financial problems, which include an impending financial deficit shortly after the next fiscal year begins May 1. Annexation will give the city an estimated $120,000 per year in additional revenues. This figure represents revenues prior to paying for increased city services to SIU if the campus is annexed.

Task force members are City Attorney Ron Briggs; Frank Kirk, Carbondale's federal-state programs coordinator; C. Richard Grunz, Board legal counsel and Mager.

Committee members, who also met last Friday, are Schmidt, Chief of Board Staff James Brown; Jerry Maxwell, Schmidt's administrative assistant; Chancellor Robert Laver, Assistant to the Chancellor Gene Peebles; Robert Gallegly, University treasurer; Briggs; Kirk; Grunz and Mager.

Committee work to be main task for U-Senate

If Monday's Provisional University Senate meeting is any indication, committee work will be the main task for the U-Senate members during the next few weeks.

Committee reports on the by-laws and the Board of Trustees Statutes revisions given during the meeting were necessarily short since both committees said they did not have ample meeting time since their appointment.

More detailed reports from both committees are expected at the next U-Senate meeting, April 19.

A report on the establishment of the U-Senate's joint standing committees is also expected at the next meeting, according to Donald Gladden, nonacademic employes representative on the executive council.

The joint standing committees, as provided in the Joint Task Force Governance Report, now consists of nine committees. The task force report states that the committees may be considered responsible to the U-Senate and to the constituency bodies represented on the committee.

The nine committees include Student Life and Welfare; General Studies; Undergraduate Education Policy; Graduate Education Policy; Research Policy; Faculty Status and Welfare; Graduate Student Status and Welfare; Administrative and Professional Staff Status and Welfare; and Nonacademic Employes Status and Welfare.

Black Studies to sponsor play

By University News Services

Last season's longest running off-Broadway comedy is coming to SIU. "To Be Young, Gifted and Black," by the author of "A Raisin in the Sun," Lorraine Hansberry, will be presented at 8 p.m. April 28 in Shryock Auditorium.

The cast last month toured more than 116 cities and colleges.

The play is a self portrait of the late Miss Hansberry and was adapted for stage by Robert Nemiroff from the book of the same title. The play recreates the world of the woman, the artist and the black experience and will use an interracial cast, portraying Miss Hansberry, her acquaintances and the characters she created.

The play is sponsored by the SIU Black American Studies department. Admission is $2 for students and $3 for the public.

Workshop to aid school principals

By University News Services

Grade school principals, the middlemen between teachers and school boards, can sharpen their negotiation skills at a workshop Thursday sponsored by SIU.

The 2 to 8:30 p.m. meeting and dinner will be held at Giant City Lodge, located in the state park. Cost of the workshop is $4.50. Reservations can be made by calling SIU Extension Service, 453-2395, or at the lodge when the meeting begins.

Titled "Professional Negotiations: Alternatives for Elementary Principals," the workshop will include talks by Morris L. Lamb and William Mathias of the SIU Education department.

Drugs, birth defects

Meeting to aim at youth

By Vera Fekler
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"If we can help kids prevent some of the birth defects of tomorrow, then I personally will feel that I have accomplished something," says Max Waldren, chairman of the Little Egypt chapter of the National Foundation of March of Dimes and an SIU civil service employe.

Waldren has been instrumental in organizing the weekend-long Illinois Youth Conference on Birth Defects and Drug Abuse, to be held at the Carbondale Holiday Inn April 16 through 18.

The conference, aimed exclusively at high school students, will host an impressive list of speakers and panelists.

Among the speakers will be Mitchell Ware, Superintendent of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, and Irving Miles, an ex-convict and ex-drug pusher, according to Waldren.

Ware will speak about the "Solution to Drug Abuse Problems," and Miles, coordinator of the East St. Louis chapter of the Alcohol and Drug Dependency Council, will deliver a speech titled "Tune into Reality—Turn On Life."

A panel discussion of drug use and related areas will include several physicians, as well as Capt. Carl Kirk, SIU security officer.

Raymond Knowles, associate director of the Missouri Division of Mental Health, will be the keynote speaker.

"This is the first conference of this nature," Waldren said. "Our aim is to present good drug abuse facts to these students so they will have the chance to decide whether they want to use drugs."

Expecting 250 high school students and guidance counselors from the state, Waldren hopes to provide these students with the type of information that they can carry home with them.

"These kids will be conducting symposiums of their own when they return to their schools," he added. "We're trying to point out the relationship between drug use and the birth defects which might result from this use."

By reaching "key youth leaders" from high schools throughout the state and some from Kentucky, Waldren hopes to have drug use and birth defect information disseminated throughout the state.

Fraternity to sponsor 4-day 'Wild Thang'

By John D. Towns
Daily Egyptian Special Writer

"Wild Thang," four days of festivities, will be presented by Omega Psi Phi fraternity Thursday through Sunday, according to Dana Brinkley, chairman of the publicity committee.

Brinkley said the event will begin with a Purple and Gold dance from 10 p.m.-2 a.m. Thursday at the Zodiac Club on Illinois Avenue.

"Everyone wearing purple and gold will be admitted free, but if they aren't wearing these colors the admission will be 10 cents," Brinkley said.

A pre-weekend dance will also be held at 10 p.m. Friday at the Zodiac Club. A $20 door prize will be given and the admission is 50 cents.

Saturday night in the Zodiac from 10 p.m.-4 a.m., the fraternity will combine its talents in presenting "Wild Thang," a program which features the talents of the brothers. In addition to "Wild Thang," door prizes will be given and a dance and a hot pants contest will highlight the evening. The admission is 75 cents.

The Funkadelics, a recording group of 10 members will perform at 8 p.m. Sunday in Stryock Auditorium. The admission is $3. This will be the group's second time appearing in Carbondale. Following the Funkadelics program, a dance will be held at the Zodiac beginning at 11 p.m. The admission is 1 cent.

"The purpose of the four-day 'Wild Thang' is for students, black and white, to come together and get away from the usual Friday or Saturday night movies," Brinkley explained.

"The events are for students to come and enjoy live entertainment and dances at a price they can afford," he said.

VISTA: idea for graduates

It's a popular credo for college students to say that they want to make a contribution to the world. It's equally popular for college students to protest many of the conditions existing in the United States today. Many say they want to get involved in the decision-making processes of this country.

Others want to be instrumental in bringing about the changes that they feel are needed in our society. Many of these students, who have resources to offer, are turned away by complicated "red tape" procedures, and never try "contributing" again.

Others find that they can make those meaningful contributions by serving in VISTA. Volunteers in Service to America was founded in 1963 as the domestic version of the Peace Corps. Since its inception, it has served a great variety of people in the United States.

VISTA has been responsible for carrying out many programs because young and old people alike have wanted to help.

VISTA has enlisted the services of approximately 5,000 Americans every year who teach in the inner cities, who work on Indian reservations, who work in health departments and in Head Start programs all over the country.

VISTA has sent people to Alaska and Appalachia to work with others who want to help themselves, but didn't have the resources or knowledge.

VISTA volunteers have influenced people all over this country. They have left their mark in hundreds of cities and migrant areas. They have done about every kind of job which exists.

Yet, they are not a well known group of people. Their jobs are seldom glorious and are often hard. And though they may be highly trained specialists, VISTA volunteers work for little financial reward. (A volunteer receives a salary based on the cost of living for the area in which he is serving).

There are few strings attached to a VISTA job. The volunteer is expected to carry out his duties in the best possible way.

Besides the living expenses provided by the government, each volunteer is paid a salary of $60 a month. After a year's service the volunteer has collected $720 and a lifetime of experience. Nothing thing more and nothing less.

For some students graduating from SIU this spring, VISTA might be a worthwhile investment. It's one way to help.

School wastes money on $3200 directory

To the Daily Egyptian:

Upon returning from quarter break, we found an intriguing little note attached to our door stating that in spite of the residents' overwhelming rejection and the Advisory Council's nonendorsement, the Housing Office has begun construction of a $3200 glass enclosed directory for Evergreen Terrace.

What have we done to be blessed with such an ostentatious waste of money? Is this just another make-work scheme for the old fellows who mow our nonlawn in December and sprinkle ice-melting salt on dry sidewalks on sunny days? Why not have the city order such a directory for Union Hill or the Model Neighborhood? Just who will this directory benefit besides door-to-door solicitors and other unwanted visitors? I, for one, intend to request that our name be omitted from this ridiculous register.

There are plenty of obvious areas out here where money is actually and honestly needed—replacement of the drastically inadequate plumbing system (it takes over an hour for the bathtub to drain), a fence protecting play areas (from Reservoir Road, sidewalks to give pedestrians a fighting chance across the areas that become Big Muddy every time it sprinkles, drainage or removal of the permanent pool that infrequently masquerades as a sand box, landscaping to protect lowland apartments from periodic flooding, enough playground equipment equally distributed among play areas and the impossible dream, sound proofing.

With all the recent propaganda about the need to raise tuition because of the unavoidable rising cost of education, this $3200 glorified address book makes me wonder just how much of the so-called "rising cost of education" is real and legitimate.

Lunch-hour-listener praises helpfulness

To the Daily Egyptian

Kudos to the Self-Instruction Center. I would like to use this method to thank a student worker in the Self-Instruction Center (Pete DeCoursey) for being so helpful to me in my requests to listen to tapes for the GSC 100 course last quarter via special telephone setup.

I found this arrangement very useful to me since I am a full-time Civil Service employe and had to use my lunch hour to listen to the assignments for Music Understanding, in addition to the night-time listening schedule. For the number of times I had to call (sometimes back-to-back calls for different tapes), Mr. DeCoursey maintained the same courtesy in his voice in answering. Hats off to Mr. Harry Denzel and the Self-Instruction Center.

Verdict causes furor

Columnists advance two views on Calley

Editor's Note: Now that Lt. William Calley Jr. has been declared guilty, the question seems to be whether he is a hero, a scapegoat, an incompetent or just what. Although the following syndicated columnists do not represent the definitive views on the subject, they differ enough in analysis and philosophy to provide thoughtful contrast.

Scapegoat

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

The nation is in a furor over the conviction of Lt. Calley. Instead of life at hard labor, many patriots seem to feel he deserves a ticker-tape parade.

No one, including Lt. Calley, denies he shot and killed a large number of unarmed women and children, which is an atrocity under the rules of war.

But a good many Americans object heatedly to the verdict on two grounds. First is its effect on the morale of our fighting men.

"Atrocities are committed in every war," they say "To single out and punish one soldier will demoralize every soldier." Or, to put it another way, if our fighting men feel they can't shoot and kill unarmed women and children, it will destroy their fighting spirit.

But more widespread is the conviction that Lt. Calley is the scapegoat for his superiors. Unfortunately, all his superiors deny ordering him to shoot and kill unarmed women and children or being aware that he was doing so.

Fortunately, however, there is a way out that should satisfy everyone. The General Yamashita Doctrine.

Gen. Yamashita, you may recall, was the Japanese commander in the Philippines during World War II. Troops under his command were accused of committing atrocities. When the war was over we captured Yamashita and speedily executed him.

True, the general claimed he hadn't ordered any atrocities nor was he aware they had taken place. But, as we rightly pointed out, he should have known what his troops were doing and was therefore responsible for the atrocities they committed.

That's the General Yamashita Doctrine to which this nation subscribed. Obviously, by applying it to the My Lai case, Lt. Calley's superiors all the way up to Gen. Westmoreland are equally guilty.

Sentencing all these officers to life at hard labor should satisfy the American Legionnaires and others angered by Lt. Calley's being made a scapegoat.

But can we stop there? What of Lt. Calley's Commander-in-Chief at the time? Must we, because of the outcries of patriotic letterwriters, now try former president Lyndon Johnson under the Yamashita Doctrine? Yet fair is fair.

Of course, in our democracy, the Commander-in-Chief is merely our elected representative. We, the people, are his superiors. So, under the Yamashita Doctrine, we are equally responsible.

No use denying we didn't order Lt. Calley to shoot and kill those unarmed women and children. No use pleading we didn't know what was going on.

Surely those patriots who bravely urged on this bloody war are guilty. Surely the rest of us who paid our taxes to train Lt. Calley to kill and to buy him his gun are guilty. Surely, we are all guilty under the Yamashita Doctrine. Or any other you can name.

And if I were the judge, I would sentence each of us to a lifetime of hard thinking.

Rules of war

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Los Angeles Times Syndicate

The conviction of Lt. William Calley Jr. for unjustified killings in the Vietnam war was a proper decision.

In spite of howls of rage from countless millions of Americans, the overwhelming weight of the evidence showed an incompetent officer ordering the indiscriminate extermination of probable noncombatants, including women and children.

"Probable" is a necessary insertion. This is a dirty war, a war in which the native populations of both sides have observed wily Oriental standards of combat far removed from any semblance of what Westerners used to call chivalry.

The obliging kid who has been running errands and begging candy bars may ride by in the next hour and heave a grenade into the tent. The grinning old crone on the river bank may be hiding a land mine beneath those skirts. Any soldier who has seen even one buddy shot down in a daylight ambush may enter the next village "spooked."

Sometimes the ancient law of self-preservation requires the shot before the question.

This is being endlessly pointed out by Lt. Calley's defenders. It is being said, with logic, that if it ever comes to the point where an American soldier will face a murder trial if he cannot make a Supreme Court case against the man he shoots, then we have no business sending men into combat.

Moreover, Lt. Calley has generated sympathy as a result of some of the enemies he has made. These include all those who want the Communists to triumph. They include all those strange, masochistic Americans who are willing—even eager—to believe everything wrong about our side.

They include those peculiar people who doggedly overlook the unspeakable atrocities of the Viet Cong or the cynical and inhuman treatment of war prisoners by North Vietnam. Among Calley's foes are the fellow travelers who flock to Hanoi in violation of their passports and hold out tantalizing hopes for the repatriation of these scarecrows if we will only agree to lose.

But, having said all this, we return to the basic issue that faced the court-martial.

Did Lt. Calley have cause to suspect that the hundred-odd persons whom he allegedly ordered shot down (he was actually convicted of the death of 22) constituted a real and present danger to his company, or were his actions far beyond the realm of reason even in a combat situation?

The jury, acting upon the overwhelming evidence of eyewitnesses, held that this was not war, but massacre. And so it was.

War-guilt by legal process is a new invention. In ancient days, whole cities were put to the sword and retaliation, where possible, was death without quarter.

Rules of war grew slowly. The Romans, more interested in empire than in corpses, won their battles as cheaply as they could and then killed only those leaders who might be presumed to contemplate revolt. Genghis Khan cleverly offered life to all defeated soldiers who would join him, and his army grew like a rolling snowball.

Although medieval armies were rough on townsmen and peasants, the noble leaders gradually developed etiquettes that provided for ransom frowned on rape and forbid winter campaigns or attacks in darkness.

Colonial Americans were outraged at the Boston Massacre, the New York harbor prison hulks and the scalping of Jane McCrea. Yankees cried "Foul!" at Southern torpedoes, and the Confederates thought the powder mine at Petersburg was proof of Northern bestiality.

The theory that war needs rules made it possible for Americans to explode with fury at the Kaiser's U-boat campaign against passenger ships. After World War II we cheerfully tried and scragged Tojo and the Nazi war criminals. We demanded vengeance for Lidice, Anne Frank and the ashes at Dachau.

Somewhere there must be rules. Somewhere a line must be drawn.

It is a solemn thing to convict Lt. Calley, for war is full of gray areas and, heaven knows, the morale in the armed services is bad enough. But there is a difference between the bomb dropped from 30,000 feet that kills 100 and the cool pistoling of one beggar, weeping man. It is the difference between a volley at Gettysburg and Lady Macbeth.

America has been a great nation in the eyes of most of us, for we felt that history could prove it had cleaner hands. Lt. Calley's hands were dirty. We could either notice this or suffer our country to diminish.

The jury noticed it. All credit to them.

Black fraternity to sponsor Kappa Karnival May 6-9

By University News Services

Members of the SIU chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi social fraternity will host over 4,000 fellow fraternity members and visitors at their 20th annual Kappa Karnival, according to Marvin Evans, publicity director from East St. Louis.

Kappa Alpha Psi, a predominantly black national fraternity, will reflect the theme, "Kappas As a Band of Gypsies," in their costumes and decorations at this year's Karnival to take place May 6-9 in Carbondale.

Kappa Karnival is one of the nation's largest social gatherings of college students and last year drew more than 4,000 people, including students, brothers, alumni, friends and relatives of Kappa members.

The Karnival serves a two-fold purpose, as a Kappa reunion and a spring celebration. Ever since its initiation in 1951, the Karnival has increased in size and enthusiasm. The original Kappa Karnival was held in the basement of the Kappa fraternity house, but its popularity as a social event has led to its being held in the largest available facility in the area, the SIU Arena.

A May 6 "Kappa House Uprising" from 6 to 10 p.m. will begin the events. The uprising, located at 112 Small Group Housing, will serve as a welcoming center and a place for all visitors to gather. Tickets for the Karnival will be sold at this time. The gathering at the fraternity house will be followed by a dance at the Zodiac Club.

Friday night, May 7, the Kappas will host a Pre-Karnival Dance at the University Center featuring Al Waples from KWK in St. Louis. The dance, which will take place from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., will be followed by an after-set, "A Wild Gypsy Thing," at Merlin's in Carbondale.

A basketball tournament for all the visiting Kappa Alpha Psi chapters will head off Saturday's activities. The tournament will start at 10 a.m. in the Women's Gym.

Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m. the Kappas will sponsor a Jazz Workshop at the Zodiac Club which will feature "varied artists from the area doing their thing," according to Evans.

Kappa Karnival will take place from 8 p.m. to 12 p.m. in the SIU Arena and will feature Herb Kent of WVON in Chicago and "his bag of surprises." The Karnival features a Midway, decorated like a caravan with booths for dart throwing, penny tossing, fortune telling, basketball, novelties, pool shooting and a fortune wheel.

During the Karnival Saturday night, a queen will be crowned. She is chosen for personality, pose, campus image, and the number of advertisements she sells in the Kappa Book. Cheryl Morris, sophomore from St. Louis, was last year's Kappa queen. Chairman of the Karnival is Lacey Foster of Chicago.

Auto tire load safety margin claimed slim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Figures from auto makers show that 50 models of domestic and imported cars ride on tires which provide an overloading safety margin of less than 1 per cent of the loaded vehicle's weight.

Makers of the cars with the slim tire reserve load margins call the reserves adequate, although tire experts rate overloading and its near-equivalent, under-inflation, as major causes of tire failure.

A tire with more load than it is designed to bear is unsafe, says a government report. "It shortens the life of a tire and may lead to sudden failure." That means a blowout.

But a driver virtually needs a scale in his driveway to tell if his tires can carry the load he's putting in his car.

Beginning with the 1970 models, auto manufacturers have submitted to the Department of Transportation figures showing the tire reserve load, or the amount of weight a tire could support beyond the manufacturer's recommended maximum load.

This year's reports, besides showing the 50 models of domestic and imported cars with a tire reserve load of less than 1 per cent of the loaded car's weight, also disclose that some models of Renault, Toyota, Ford, Plymouth and Dodge have a reserve of 10 pounds or less.

The Tire Industry Safety Council has estimated that 6 per cent of the passenger vehicles on the road have overloaded tires.

Brecht expert to lecture soon

John Willett, author and authority on Bertolt Brecht, will give a lecture, "The Theatre of Bertolt Brecht" at 4:30 p.m. Thursday in the Experimental Theater, Room 1045, Communications Building.

Willett is on the staff of the London Times Literary Supplement and is the author of "The Theatre of Bertolt Brecht" and "Brecht on Theatre." He is considered by outstanding theater personalities as the most authoritative and documented English commentator on German playwright-director Bertolt Brecht. His talk will include slides of Brechtian productions and is open to the public.

SIU legend: girls virginity told by Civil War cannon

By Martha Gustafson
Student Writer

A favorite legend among SIU students centers on the century-old cannon that rests under the flagpole in the quadrangle of the old campus. The Civil War cannon, in legend, has the mysterious power of telling if a girl is a virgin.

The "Virgin Legend" has been a tradition among SIU students for decades.

The story is told that once the cannon fired by itself when a virgin walked in front of it. Legend goes that the cannon will again fire if a maiden passes by it.

Mrs. Loretta Ott, dean of married and graduate students, said she heard of the legend when she was a student in the 1940s, but no one knew its origin.

Mrs. Talbert Abbott, wife of a former SIU dean, said. The cannon was here when I was a student in 1919, but there were no stories. In fact, students did not even paint the cannon in those days.

Mrs. Abbott said the cannon was a favorite place to take pictures, just as the fountain beside Old Main was the favorite gathering place.

Mrs. Abbott said she had heard a cannon story, told to her by a man who graduated from SIU in 1917. The man related the story but declined to be identified. His story follows.

"At the turn of the century, the Civil War cannon sat in front of the Main Building (Old Main) and pointed down Normal Avenue (University) Normal was a residential street in those times.

"One night after everyone was asleep, a few boys sneaked out and met at the cannon. One of them instigated the plot to fire the cannon.

"This was pretty risky business at that time, you must remember.

"So they loaded the cannon. They left enough fuse to allow them to run

Scot wedding

halted by lockup

FALKIRK, Scotland (AP) — A Scottish couple locked up their 16-year-old daughter to stop her from marrying. Under Scotch law anyone may marry at 16 without parental permission. Heather Wilson planned to marry 22-year-old John Easton in a civil ceremony Tuesday, but her parents found out and locked her up Monday.

Heather's mother said, "She'll stay under lock and key, if need be, to make sure the wedding doesn't take place. It's a ridiculous law and we consider it's our own responsibility to look after our girl."

Mrs. Wilson and her husband said John is too old for Heather and has been out of work for six months.

John said: "The girl is old enough to know her mind. She'll find a way."

back home and get in bed before it would fire.

"As soon as they lit that fuse, they beat it.

"When the cannon finally did go off, windows all down Normal Avenue shattered, but no real damage came of it all. The school did plug and seal the cannon after that firing, however."

So it is from this real happening that the age-old students' legend came about. But this still gives no clue about the cannon's history. Where did it come from? How did it get here?

There are theories to these questions, but no definite answers. Mrs. Jane Merchant of University Archives said there is no record of the cannon's acquisition. But she remembers reading somewhere that the cannon was a gift to the University from the John A. Logan family. Logan was a Civil War general.

Bill Johnson of the University Museum thought the cannon was brought back by a Civil War militia unit and given to the school.

The cannon might have been a gift to Southern's militia unit for the purpose of training soldiers, Willard Hart, campus architect, said. He said that his grandfather, Will Crews, was a student at Southern in the 1860s.

"He was a member of Southern's militia—it was their equivalent of our ROTC," Hart added. The militia used to drill with the cannon.

"It probably was mounted in sandstone before 1900," Hart said.

Hart said that the cannon was relocated to its present position after Old Main burned, so it could be easily visible from the street.

Law group to open office

The People's Law Office, the legal association handling the defense of the six men charged in last November's shootings in Carbondale, will open an office here April 14, according to Mike Deutch, an attorney with the group.

Deutch said four persons, including two lawyers, a law student and an associate, are scheduled to begin operation from a house in town when the first shooting trial begins on April 14.

The bulk of the staff's efforts will center around the shooting trial. Deutch said, but under initial operating procedure, a staff member will be available to hear legal problems from the community by telephone during the evening. Further consultations and court dates as needed could then be arranged, he said.

Further services to the community would depend on the manpower required by the trials, Deutch said.

The People's Law Office, Deutch said, is an independent Chicago-based organization. He said financing for its operation comes from both private funds established for legal defenses and from Chicago community groups.

The office also generates support itself, Deutch said, by handling a larger volume of cases at a fraction of the normal legal costs. He said their charges in Carbondale will probably be assessed on an individual basis, according to what each person could afford.

Cases falling within the jurisdiction of the criminal courts will be the area on which the office will concentrate, he said. Criminal violations are those by an individual against the statutes of some level of the government. These would include city charges such as loitering and disturbing the peace as well as narcotics violations and other state charges, Deutch said.

He said other legal aid groups, such as the Southern Illinois Legal Assistance Foundation, are better equipped to handle other types of cases.

Deutch said the office will be open to all members of the Carbondale community who need legal aid. "We are not just interested in serving the freak community," he said.

1. (Q.) Are fraternities social clubs, out "only" for a good time?
(A.) No, some fraternities also value service. Sometime in the near future we hope to become human lanterns and roam around in Thompson Woods at night. Then any chick in trouble could yell "Hey, Human Lantern!" and be valiantly rescued. Until then we run a Textbook Return Service, returning books from 5 living areas for students in a hurry to get home and see their parents. These are major aspects of college life — service to chicks and textbooks.
2. (Q.) What are "Hazing" and "Hell Weeks"?
(A.) The answer to this question varies. For example, the Phi Scruples of Badland flats require their pledges to balance on their heads on a rubber ball, with one hand tied behind their back while wrestling an alligator. We at Sigma Tau Gamma have a slightly more lax philosophy on what is meaningful. We have no hell week and we feel that hassling pledges is a useless tradition. We merely suggest with sincerity that our pledges should come out and interact with us as we pass through our college years. We realize that this is rather harsh treatment, but we are still searching.
3. (Q.) Just what do we mean by Brotherhood?
(A.) Let us answer this question with another question. "What does the word "enemy" mean? We do know alot of what Brotherhood is not.
 1. Brotherhood is not running errands.
 2. Brotherhood is not in the bottom of a beer keg.
 3. Brotherhood is not easy to find.
4. (Q.) What is a Rush?

Annexation resolution passed

The Carbondale City Council in special formal session Tuesday night passed a resolution appointing to the SIU administration and Board of Trustees for annexation of the SIU campus to the city.

The resolution, similar to another resolution passed by the Council 15 months ago, cites needed revenue as the primary reason that annexation is sought. Because of the university's presence, certain services are required of the city, but the revenue to provide those services is not available because most of the SIU campus lies outside of the Carbondale city limits, the resolution states.

In its conclusion, the resolution asks that SIU allow that part of the campus north of Reservoir-Pleasant Hill Road and west of Wall Street to be annexed into the city. Only Evergreen Terrace lies outside of these boundaries, and it is already a part of the city.

Carbondale City Manager William Schmidt, who drew up the resolution, told the Council that the new resolution is important because of current talks between SIU and Carbondale officials concerning annexation.

In the second meeting between city and university officials Tuesday, a joint task force was appointed in an attempt at some agreement over an annexation proposal. Schmidt told the Council that he hopes the task force can meet within the next two days.

Williams elected first black mayor of East St. Louis

EAST ST. LOUIS (AP) — James E. Williams Sr. who campaigned on a no-strings-attached theme, was elected Tuesday to be the first black mayor of this economically and racially troubled city.

Williams, a political newcomer, defeated another Negro, Virgil E. Calvert, a city commissioner and veteran political figure in East St. Louis, across the Mississippi River from St. Louis, Mo. A final, unofficial tabulation showed Williams with 10,813 votes and Calvert with 8,202.

Williams campaigned on the theme that he has no ties with the political organization that has run East St. Louis.

"Calvert is of the past regime," he once said. "People do not want a business as usual situation at City Hall."

Senate to consider smoke committee

A bill calling for a Student Senate committee to investigate smoke emission control in the Carbondale area is the only new business scheduled as of Tuesday for Wednesday's senate meeting.

The bill was submitted by Dennis Kostinski, Eastside nondorm senator. It calls for the Campus Physical Facilities committee to find out if any anti-pollution devices are being used in this area to prevent the harmful contents of smoke from reaching the persons of Carbondale.

If approved, the bill would also have the committee investigate the possibility of obtaining low sulfur coal for use by SIU's physical plant.

The committee, if any recommendations were found, would submit them to the Provisional University Senate screening committee along with a copy of the bill.

The senate meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. on the third floor of the University Center.

Daley wins 5th term

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley was elected Tuesday to his fifth straight term, building an overwhelming margin against a challenger who had accused him of being out of touch with the people.

Daley ran up a better than 2-1 plurality over Richard E. Friedman, 41, the Democrat-turned-Republican who challenged the mayor's 16-year reign as one of "bricks and mortar."

Daley also wanted to win by a large margin to silence critics of organization politics and those who deplored his hardline tactics during the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

With 3,359 of 3,412 precincts counted, Daley had 70 per cent of the vote—703,452 to Friedman's 305,515. Friedman conceded the election two hours after the polls closed at 6 p.m.

A short time later, Daley said in a victory speech, "The overwhelming vote is a mandate to us to make Chicago a better city for all the people. The 'I Will' spirit of Chicago is bright tonight."

Experts felt that Friedman's liberal and vigorous campaign might deny Daley the big win he wanted, and some observers felt the mayor might not win by more than 150,000 votes. Daley himself was reluctant to claim a large triumph in advance of the election, saying in his final news conference that he would win by a "substantial margin." Yet the organization which he joined more than 40 years ago, and has led nearly 30 years, cheered up the votes. Daley is the third man in history to win five mayoral terms in Chicago, but the others won only two-year terms and they were not successive.

Daley has said this probably will be the final campaign of his colorful career, and a victory of landslide proportions would make it easier for his Democratic successor to hold City Hall in 1975 and preserve a party-winning streak dating to 1927.

Symposium here Thursday

A symposium on "Life Sciences and Society" will begin Thursday in celebration of the opening of the new Life Science II (LS II) Building at SIU.

The symposium will feature non-technical speeches by seven scientists from across the nation. Alfred LI, chairman of the symposium, extended a special invitation for students to attend the event. LI said it would be an excellent opportunity for students to hear renowned scientists.

All lectures will be held in Shryock Auditorium and are open free of charge to the public.

Thursday's program will open at 9:45 a. m. with introductory remarks by Delyle W. Morris, SIU's president emeritus.

At 10 a. m., Chauncey D. Leake, a senior lecturer in pharmacology at the University of California Medical School in San Francisco, will speak on "History and Future of Life Sciences." He is a noted pharmacologist and medical history scholar who has authored 10 books and some 600 publications dealing with biomedical science, philosophy and education.

Leake received his Ph.D from the University of Wisconsin Medical School in 1923. He has taught at medical and pharmacological schools at the Universities of Wisconsin, California and Texas and at Ohio State University. Leake founded and edited "Texas Reports on Biology and Medicine," 1943-55. He is a consulting editor for several medical journals.

David R. Stadler, a geneticist at the University of Washington, will open Thursday's afternoon session at 2 p.m. Stadler will speak on "Mankind Evolving."

Stadler received his Ph.D. in 1952 from Princeton University. He has taught at the University of Rochester and the California Institute of Technology. He is the treasurer for the Genetic Society of America.

A talk on "Preserving Mankind" by Paul B. Sears will start at 3 p.m. Sears is professor emeritus of conservation at Yale University.

He is past president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Sears' special interest is ecology and its application to the management of natural resources.

Sears received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago and has taught at Ohio State University, Oberlin College, Yale University and the Universities of Nebraska and Oklahoma.

Sears' books include "Deserts on the March," "Charles Darwin," "The Living Landscape" and "Lands Beyond the Forest."

The last speech, scheduled for Thursday's symposium will begin at 4 p.m. Paul Hurd, professor of education at Stanford University, will deliver a talk on "Science Education."

Hurd received his Ed.D. in 1940 from Stanford University. He has taught science education and biology in Greeley, Col., the University of Northern Colorado, the Menlo School in California and at UCLA.

Hurd is president of the National Association for Research in Science Teaching. He is a member of the Education Advisory Committee of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency (NASA). Hurd received NASA's Apollo Award in 1970.

The "Life Sciences and Society" symposium will continue Friday and will include a display of special research exhibits in LS II during an afternoon open house.

'Bucky' Fuller-SIU's unique 'average' man

By Sue Roll and Vera Pakier
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

He says he's just an average man, but little he does seems to be average.

Does an average child spend his time making tetrahedrons and octahedrons while all the others are making squares?

Does an average child contemplate the unity of the universe while others are concerned about making it across the street?

No. But that's what R. Buckminster Fuller, University professor at SIU, did as a child. And it seems as though his childhood never really ended.

A graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, Fuller (known as "Bucky") has collected some 20 honorary degrees and citations from all over the world.

An avid "world gamer" who believes that the ills of the world can be solved, Bucky serves as consultant to some of the world's most famous people.

An average week for this man might include addressing a dinner audience of United Nations dignitaries in New York one day, flying to India to discuss plans for the world's largest airport the next day, and cutting back to Canada to tell Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau how he can improve world relations.

Fuller, though University professor at SIU, is rarely in Carbondale. When he is here he can be found at his College Street office, where he is surrounded by the things he likes most.

An active sailor, Fuller displays models and pictures of sailboats all over his office. Pictures of his family and designs occupy a good deal of his office space as well.

A sincere and intense person, Fuller enjoys young people. He's devoted a good part of his life to improving the world for them.

Fuller spent some three hours Monday evening explaining the basic structures of the universe to a crowd of people in a Lawson Hall lecture room.

He also expounded on the inadequacy of plane geometry and presented the triangle as the only structure of the universe, and the tetrahedron as its minimum structural system.

Fuller also commented about the place the humanities and sciences have had in the world, saying that the great break between science and humanity resulted when scientists were asked what was going on and could only respond in mathematical theories.

"Science has been flying instruments ever since," he said.

The triangle and tetrahedron provide a "beautiful, rationally based geometry," he said, and remove the need for the obscure mathematics and irrational numbers now based.

Fuller advised his enthusiastic audience to retain their imaginations.

"The way the system goes," he said, "we stop entertaining intuition. And as a consequence, people accept the invalid assumptions of science as it is today."

The audience was overwhelmed by the charisma of Bucky, an intense and energetic man who readily admits being a citizen of the world.

As he closed his eyes, lifted his head, brought his hands and thought together and drew from his fantastic memory bank, the audience came nearer than most to observing the thinking processes of a great mind.

His enthusiasm and thoughts spilled into the audience, and no one was the same anymore.

Opinions are plentiful

Campus reacts to Calley verdict

Opinions are plentiful on a college campus, and SIU is no exception. The trial and conviction of Lt. William Calley for the murder of Vietnamese civilians is the current topic of often heated discussions, nationally and locally.

Daily Egyptian student writers Claire Reuland, Marsha Gustafson, Jeff O'Grady and Rita Fung asked students their opinions of the trial and verdict.

"He should never have been brought to trial," said David Fazio, a junior in microbiology from Joliet. "He was over there to kill, and that's what he did. I think Nixon should go on trial for every American killed in the war."

Debbie Fox, an education major from Chicago said, "It was really wrong. He was not the one responsible for it. I really think he should get off. He's been made a scapegoat and the bureaucratic system is set up to protect the people in high level positions who give the orders."

Jim Peters, a sophomore from Quincy, said, "He shouldn't have been convicted, and I hope that the President will let him off. If they start putting limitations on the guys as to who and how many they are allowed to kill, the psychological burden of the soldiers will be increased."

Peters said that Calley was in a combat zone and under psychological strain at My Lai and therefore the killings cannot be premeditated. Calley should be acquitted, he said.

"The verdict is unjust," said E. Todd, a senior in art from Chicago. Todd said Calley was ordered to kill, and that he accepted his orders and carried them out. "The whole Army should be on trial," he said. "Not everyone agreed that Calley was innocent."

"He was guilty for what they tried him for," said Ron Pierce, a junior from Aurora. "You've got to look at what caused it. What the Army has done here has made Calley act as a machine and when he killed those 100 people, he probably thought he was right because he was doing what the Army had taught him."

Ron Bibart, a sophomore from Chicago, said he felt that the conviction is important because My Lai was the first publicized massacre.

"I honestly thought he knew what he was doing all the time, and I think, in Vietnam, this happens every day," he said.

Kirby McVey, a senior from Monticello majoring in mathematics, said, "I think that justice is being served and that Calley should serve a life sentence. We have enough killing over there without endorsing the wanton, brutal murder of villagers."

Veterans also had opinions on the Calley case.

Joe Schaefer, from Albers, a veteran and a graduate student in agricultural economics, said Calley should not have been convicted of first degree murder.

"Perhaps a lesser degree, like manslaughter, would have been more appropriate," he said. Schaefer said he could not really pass judgement without sitting in on the trial.

John Menton, a senior majoring in history, spent a year in Vietnam. Menton said, "I'm against it (the conviction)...it's scapegoating...it's absurd."

Menton cited My Lai as an example of the Administration's foreign policy, and charged that the policy itself is an atrocity. "It's not the people with the guns, but the people behind the guns that are guilty. It is not Calley's guilt, nor Captain Medina's."

"Most veterans are now seeing the light about their involvement in Vietnam," Menton said. "No matter what they were doing over there, it's all complicity," Menton said.

Another veteran, government major Mick Barrett, said he thought Calley was guilty, but could not be held specifically accountable for the acts.

"If you are going to be moral, then you have to be moral on a much larger scale," Barrett said. "How moral is the war?"

President Nixon's intervention into the Calley case also brought some comment.

Diane Dunlop, a junior from Pennington, N.J. agreed with Nixon's decision. "He (Calley) should be restricted, but he should not be treated like an animal," she said.

George Tervaunt, a sophomore from Carbondale, said "Nixon may have stepped in now, but in the future I'm sure he'll abide by what the appeals courts decide."

John Towles, a senior from Peoria, was rather skeptical about Nixon's decision. "His action was up to no means his own. I think that Nixon was pressured by public reaction," he said.

The case against Lt. Calley is not over, and the great outpouring of reaction from the not-so-silent majority of Americans has just begun.

Local committee supports Calley

The Jackson County Republican Central Committee has sent President Nixon a telegram, which says the committee wants to go on record "in complete support of Lt. (William) Calley for a full pardon."

Calley was sentenced last week by a military jury to life imprisonment for the killing of at least 22 Vietnamese men, women and children at My Lai in 1968.

The telegram, mailed Saturday afternoon, is signed by Ray E. Doerr, chairman of the central committee. The committee is composed of 50 precinct chairmen from Jackson County.

A spokesman for the county Republican headquarters said Monday the decision to send the telegram was made at a meeting Friday night attended "by better than half of the precinct chairmen."

VISTA recruitment drive here this week

If you've ever thought of yourself as a catalyst, there may be a job for you.

VISTA is conducting a recruitment drive at SIU on Wednesday and Thursday to enlist students interested in serving America.

Often likened to the Peace Corps, Volunteers in Service to America, an Office of Economic Opportunity program, functions mainly as a "help" organization, restricted to America.

Volunteers serve for one year on Indian reservations, rural poverty areas or migrant labor camps according to Stephanie Stutzman, VISTA's representative at SIU.

"More and more of the VISTA volunteer strength is coming from college students with specialties in education, business, law, architecture, city planning and health related areas" said Miss Stutzman.

According to Miss Stutzman, volunteers assist the poor in identifying problems and work with the people toward overcoming their problems.

Kosygin tells economic plan for 'peace and progress'

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Alexei N. Kosygin outlined the Soviet people an economic plan for "peace and progress" Tuesday but said the armament forces also must be expanded to balance the threat of "American imperialists."

While promising to spend "vast" sums to make more food and other consumer goods available, he warned that "tension and the threat of war continue in the world."

"We have no right to forget"—even for a minute—the need to strengthen our armed forces and maintain their high combat preparedness," the premier told the Soviet Communist party's fourth congress.

The American imperialists are trampling on international law by waging a disgraceful, dirty bandit war in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, and are helping the aggressors in the Middle East.

The new five-year plan will ensure the further consolidation of the defense capability of our state."

At the same time, he said, Soviet life will become "more prosperous, and spiritually more meaningful and interesting."

Kosygin said the guidelines for economic growth in the next five years give more attention to the consumer than ever before in Soviet history.

The Tass summary of the premier's speech emphasized concern for the consumer rather than for the heavy industry sector which traditionally is given priority in the Soviet economy.

The draft directives for the 1971-75 economic plan call for production of consumer goods to increase by 44-46 per cent, while heavy industry is to grow by 41-45 per cent. But with heavy industry's enormously broad base, it would take many years at such conservative rates of increase for consumer goods to move into priority position.

Kosygin, known as a proponent of expansion of consumer goods, conceded that heavy industry "remains the foundation of the Soviet Union's economic might and the future of the people's well-being." But he listed numerous specific benefits the population can expect before 1975, including:

—Extra financial assistance to families with many children.

—Improvement of working conditions for women.

—Salary increases averaging 30 per cent in five years.

The value of industrial output will reach $20 billion to $44 billion rubles—$580 billion to $968 billion at the official rate—by 1975, he predicted. He said this would be an increase of 100 per cent in 10 years, or since the ouster of Nikita S. Khrushchev.

VISA election Saturday

By University News Services

Visiting International Student Association (VISA) will hold a business meeting at 3:30 p.m. Saturday in the International Center Lounge to elect officers for this year and two committees.

Also on the agenda are the reports of activities of winter quarter and of the bus trip to Washington, D. C. which was sponsored by VISA during the spring break.

All VISA members and interested students are invited to attend the meeting.

SCF lunch seminars to start on Monday

The "More Than Bread Luncheon Seminars," sponsored by the Student Christian Foundation (SCF), will begin at noon Monday and continue every weekday for the next six weeks.

The hourly sessions are designed to deal with topics of relevance, to help the understanding of problems and come to humane solutions, according to Rev. Allen Line, director of the SCF.

All days will have specific themes with the exception of Monday. On Mondays, the topic can be anything, and there will be various speakers to lead the discussions.

Tuesdays will be the day for natural foods prepared by Sheera Cohen from the Mr. Natural Food Store.

"The Black Experience" will be the topic on Wednesdays and will incorporate panels and speakers in the program. Ellis May, information officer for the Black Student Union, will serve as moderator.

Thursday the Theater Department invites its students to participate in "Clips and Sandwich Theater." This is a chance for new playwrights to read their plays, after which there is a discussion of the work.

On Fridays, Chris Jensen of the English Department will lead discussions on Teilhard de Chardin's work, "The Phenomenon of Man."

The SCF, which is located at 913 S. Illinois Ave., charges 50 cents for a home cooked lunch and welcomes the public.

VTI building plan revised, second bid session April 19

By University News Services

The Illinois Building Authority has set April 19 for a second attempt to get bids within budget limits for a new classroom-office building at SIU's Vocational-Technical Institute.

New specifications have been sent to contractors eliminating prefabricated plastic sandwich panels which were to have been main features of the two-story building's exterior. The cost of the panels—nearly $300,000 and three to four times higher than original manufacturing estimates—was a major factor in earlier construction bids that were about that much over budgeted funds, according to SIU mechanical engineer Donald Crocker.

Carney General Contractor of Highland Park was low bidder at $2,620,000 at the March 9 opening. The project has a construction budget of $2,410,000, and SIU's board of trustees postponed action to see what could be trimmed from the plans.

Crocker said a standard steel curtain wall may be the best of alternatives included in the new specifications.

Bids on the revised plans will be opened at 2 p.m. in the IBA's Chicago offices.

The building will be the first permanent educational facility at the VTI campus, located 10 miles east of Carbondale.

Blacks serve dual roles to help people

Editor's Note: This is the second of three stories on some of the contributions of black people to American society.

By FRANK MACHOBANE
Copley News Service

You can describe Cliff Dummett in five words—hard-driving, outspoken, busy and black.

Two of his posts at the University of Southern California will give you a clue to Clifton O. Dummett. He is associate dean at USC's school of dentistry and associate dean for extramural affairs.

One of Dummett's chief projects, aside from his official school duties, is to create opportunities for Negro students who want an education and then a future.

He has encouraged corporations and civic groups to establish grants and scholarships for black students. But it has to work both ways. Dummett believes. The Negro young people must be convinced there will be opportunities once they have been educated.

"That's one reason I try to spend as much time as possible talking with undergraduates and high school students, telling them of these opportunities and encouraging them to qualify by continuing their schooling," he said.

The son of a dentist and the father of another one, Dummett admits he probably is more demanding of black dental students than most other members of the USC faculty.

"There's no question but that the black student deserves to be here," Dummett said. "We as a dental school have a reputation of excellence to uphold. The black student doesn't want or need to be coddled."

Black or white, a student with educational deficiencies must face up to it, and so must the faculty, in his view. But the student losing ground should get a chance to stage a scholastic comeback, he adds.

"It isn't easy," Dummett said, "to convince black youngsters that long years of study and dedication such as are required for dentistry will truly keep them from what they consider menial labor."

"Because there are now federal, state and foundation assistance programs, it's essential to visit the high schools and make the students aware of these aids."

"Universities must find ways to reach even into the grade schools, arousing in the youngest an interest in the profession."

A native of Guyana, a naturalized U.S. citizen and an alumnus of Howard and Roosevelt Universities, Dummett at 51 written articles and lectures to make his points. But he has done more than that. As dean of Meharry Dental School in Nashville, Tenn., in 1946, so strong was his opposition to the segregation

Americans leave East Pakistan

NEW DELHI (AP) — More American refugees were expected in West Pakistan today as the evacuation of foreigners from war-torn East Pakistan continued.

More than 300 foreigners, including 132 Americans, were flown to Karachi Monday by the Pakistan airline. Another 25 Americans sailed with 84 other foreigners aboard a British ship from the East Pakistani port of Chittagong.

The evacuee brought reports of bloody fighting in the eastern province and of the first known American casualty of the 13-day war, 18-year-old Charles Van Blaridina, who was slightly wounded.

Most of the first evacuees were wives and children of American officials in East Pakistan. Six were sons of the Holy Cross Order who were teaching there.

Reports reaching Chandanaga, on the East Pakistan-Indian border, said Independence forces were holding stretches of Pakistani territory along the border and vowing to fight until they defeat the army, which is made up of West Pakistanis. The army, however, appeared to be in control of the cities, including Dacca.

William J. Ogletree

provisions of a southern regional education plan that he resigned his deanship.

Dummett came to Los Angeles first under a grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity as dental director and later associate project director of a medical program for the needy in the Watts district. When some doctors complained the clinic would take patients away from them, Dummett argued that many of the poor needed to be introduced to proper health and dental care.

He was right. Later, doctors and dentists noted a gain in their patients once the Watts medical center had treated the underprivileged enough to teach them better health habits.

Dummett, one of only two Negro dentists ever granted an honorary membership by the American Dental Association, has achieved more than his share of recognition. The honors coming his way now seem to serve as fuel to trigger his efforts to help other black people walk down the same road to achievement.

William J. Ogletree served 12 years in the U.S. Air Force as an electronic technician. All that time he was becoming aware gradually that more frank talk was needed to promote better understanding between ethnic groups in the armed forces.

Now Ogletree, a black man, is getting a chance to do something about this idea of greater understanding. A technician in Range Operations at the Pacific Missile Range (PMR), Point Mugu, Calif., he also is chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Committee there.

In the latter role he heads a group of employees who serve as counselors for PMR civilian personnel with grievances or problems, many of them with racial, religious or cultural overtones.

"Lots of times employees simply ask questions of a member of our group and we're able to resolve their problems on an informal level," explains Ogletree. "Sometimes of course, we don't have the immediate answer or solution. But we find out as soon as we can."

Still a young man, Ogletree lives in nearby Oxnard. He got plenty of experience for his leadership of the PMR committee by becoming involved in community affairs as a member of the Ventura County USO board of counselors and a member of the NAACP and of the Ventura County Retarded Children's Association.

He helped to found the Oxnard Gent's Social Club, an organization dedicated to promoting better understanding between ethnic groups through social contact.

Ogletree's philosophy goes like this: "If you have a grievance, it's better to get it off your chest and clear the air."

Ogletree won't get headlines for his work in bringing people of different colors and beliefs together. He isn't looking for any. He already has what he is seeking—satisfaction that he has trod out some frowns and turned them to smiles of understanding.

Genesis urges man to dominate "Breed as fast as you can and take command" of the earth is the ecological implication of the book of Genesis, according to John F. Hayward, program director of religious studies.

Hayward spoke Tuesday to a meeting of the SIU Fish and Wildlife Association.

He discussed man's religious involvement with the environment and used the "mythology" of the Old Testament to illustrate man's belief in the supremacy of man.

Japan spends bundle on winter Olympics

By John Fisherman
Copley News Service

SAPPORO, Japan Determined to achieve the success of their nation's Expo '70 and the 1964 Olympic Games, the Japanese are spending $801 million preparing for the 11th Winter Olympic Games to be held here in February, 1972.

Thousands of workers are completing work on 14 sites where 35 skiing, skating, bobsled and other events will be held. This Hokkaido island capital city of one million is also building a subway, new hotels, an Olympic Village with accommodations for 2,300 participants and officials, and many other facilities.

The people of this northernmost main island of Japan are an independent lot and are determined that the Winter Olympics to be staged over the 11-day period from Feb. 3 through 13 next year will win them the acclaim that came to Tokyo for the 64 Summer Olympics and to Osaka for the highly successful Expo '70 of last March to September.

They boast that these are the first winter games to come to Asia and that Sapporo is the biggest city ever to host the quadrennial competition.

"Also, these will be the most convenient games for spectators," Olympic committee spokesman Toshihiko Kon said in an interview. "Most of the events are within five miles of downtown Sapporo. Our new subway will get spectators to the Makomanai rinks and Olympic Olympic Village in 13 minutes. Most of the ski, slalom, luge and bobsled courses aren't much further—only 30 to 25 minutes away.

The furthest site is the Mt. Enawa downhill course in Shikotsu-Toya National Park near Lake Shikotsu.

"It is 25 miles from here and we are building a new highway that will put it within 35 to 40 minutes of the city."

In 1968 at Grenoble, France, there was a problem of too little snow, but that is, unlikely to be the situation here.

"Our problem," Kon said, "will be too much snow in the city. Immediate snow removal in Sapporo (where there are frequent six-foot snowfalls), to clear roads for traffic to the sites, is most important and we are ready to cope with whatever comes. The temperature here in February ranges from 18 to 4 below zero.

Many of the rinks and outdoor courses were tested in the International Winter Games held here in February. This competition proved a helpful "dry run" for the Olympic committee in making sure Sapporo was prepared for next year's event. The Olympics, however, will bring many more competitors and visitors here. It is estimated that 20,000 foreign visitors will be in Sapporo. So far, 42 countries have indicated they will send men's teams; 22 will send women's teams (in 1968 there were 27 men's teams in France).

The United States plans to send the most athletes—115, with West Germany sending 106 and Russia 105. Olympic Village will include a five-story building with 600 units for the men, and an 11-story building with 132 units for the women. After the games these facilities will be rented or sold as public housing.

There also will be facilities for 3,000 reporters near the hockey, speed and figure skating arenas in the Makomanai section of Sapporo.

Three new hotels are under construction and the city's other hotels are building additions. The Olympic committee also is asking 200 home owners to provide Western style accommodations for the expected overflow.

Although one of the more beautiful areas of Japan, the island of Hokkaido has not had the tourism lure of places like Tokyo and Kyoto, and is not fully experienced in handling a large influx of visitors.

Some of the new facilities for the 35 events include the Makomanai outdoor speed skating rink seating 50,000 and the Makomanai indoor rink for figure skating, seating 12,000. The opening ceremonies, including acceptance of the torch from Greece, will be in the outdoor rink and the closing ceremonies indoors. The 12 other facilities have spectator stands for easy viewing of ski jumping, men's and women's slalom and giant slalom, luge, bobsled, biathlon and other ski events. The hockey competition will be in two indoor rinks.

The budget, shared by the national government, Hokkaido prefectural government, city of Sapporo, Olympic committee and private firms, includes $55 million for sites and operating expenses, $334 million for the subway roads and other related projects, $112 million for hotels, shopping centers and other private investments.

The Republic of China will participate in winter games for the first time. Red China has not been invited but otherwise East-West political differences will be forgotten temporarily, with both South Korea and North Korea present, both East and West Germany and other nations from both sides of the Iron and/or Bamboo curtains.

Sapporo is a relatively new city (settled in 1800) compared to other Japanese favorites like Nara and Kyoto. But it is determined to preserve the Japanese reputation for outstanding hospitality.

"The total expenditures ($801 million) are high," Kon said. "But, we think it is a good investment. We want to stage the best Winter Olympics ever and we think we will."

Munich prepares for Olympics

By Peter Bythner
Copley News Service

MUNICH, West Germany — Despite a bitter cold winter "smile" is the official word here as Munich feverishly prepares for the 1972 Summer Olympics.

The focal point of Olympic construction is an old airport site at Oberwiesenfeld, a one-square-mile area only 2½ miles from downtown Munich. Here workers have created rolling hills from Munich's World War II bomb rubble and transplanted over 4,000 trees from its parks and city streets making a wonderland of nature, now preserved by a blanket of snow. Another 8,000 trees, a man-made lake and a typical Bavarian beer garden are to be added before opening day Aug. 26, 1972.

At the foot of the already completed 950-foot concrete television tower (symbol of the 1972 Games) an 80,000-seat track and field stadium, a 12,000-seat indoor stadium and an enclosed swimming hall are being built. Next to the stadium there will be training facilities and a bicycle track. Across the way an Olympic Village for 12,000 athletes, a radio and television center and underground and suburban railroad stations are under construction.

Medals send Olympic athletes to world games

By Paul J. Weis
Copley News Service

Every four years the Olympic Committee has a big problem—to raise funds to send U.S. athletes to the site of the Olympic Games. This year the committee has decided to offer everyone a chance to participate in the fund drive.

The official U.S. Olympic Team Commemorative Medals are being made available for the first time to the public.

The Franklin Mint, world's largest private mint, has been authorized by the U.S. Olympic Committee to create and strike three official medals commemorating U.S. participation in the three major Olympic events of the first Olympic archery competition since 1920 will take place in the English Garden, Munich's green "oasis" which runs through the center of town. And at Kiel, 550 miles to the north on the Baltic Sea, the Olympic yachting championships will sail on the Kieler Förde.

For the expected 200,000 visitors a day for the 16 days of events, Aug. 16-Sept. 10, a new subway is being built with a special Olympic line.

New railroad lines are being added in and around the city and a new autobahn that will circle the city is under construction. Five airports will be used, including a North Atlantic Treaty Organization airfield, a German Luftwaffe field and an American forces field in addition to Munich's international and municipal airports. All of the airports are no farther than 12 miles from the Olympic site and connected by rail and excellent roads.

Parking should be no problem with Olympic lots for 30,000 cars at the site and if these lots are full, electric signs will be posted on all incoming highways advising the motorist to park his car elsewhere and come in by train or subway.

By 1972, Munich will have 24,000 hotel beds in the city and an additional 130,000 beds in the surrounding area. An average room for two will be available for $8 and the 1971-72. Each of the athletes will receive the commemorative medal of the games in which he has participated.

The complete set of three medals is being offered to collectors and any others as a means of raising funds. The sterling silver medals with Lucite display holder may be obtained from the Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pa., for $35.

These official U.S. Olympic medals commemorate the Pan American Games which will be held in Cali, Colombia, July 30-Aug. 13, 1971; the Winter Olympic Games in Sapporo, Japan, Feb. 3-13, 1972; and the Summer Olympic Games in Munich, Germany, Aug. 26-Sept. 10, 1972.

Olympic Committee is selling a room-with-ticket package. Tickets to each event will go from $3 to $18 with over 50 per cent of the 44 million tickets the lesser price.

For the back packers and campers, Munich will have 3,500 accommodations in 100 different areas for sleeping bags.

The cost of the Olympic structures will reach a whopping $472 million but they have been planned with an eye to utilization after the Games are history. The Munich Olympic Village was designed to avoid the troubles that have plagued Mexico City, Tokyo and Rome.

Weather hampers practice

Tennis team heads for Oklahoma City

By Leslie Belmont
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

With an opening day victory over the University of Illinois under its belt, the SIU tennis team will face the snowy weather of Carbondale to compete in the Oklahoma City Invitational Tournament, Thursday through Saturday. And according to coach Dick LeFevre the change in climate will be welcome.

"We just haven't been able to practice," he lamented as the snow continued to come down Tuesday afternoon.

"The last work out we had was day before yesterday (Sunday). We may hit some in the Arena tonight."

Normally a layoff of three to four days might hurt a team but in this instance, according to LeFevre, it may not. "The team has been working very hard," he said, "and with the spring trip, plus a chance to work out before the meet, it might not hurt us."

The weather also effected the play of SIU's No. 1 singles man Jorge Ramirez, who, according to LeFevre, was not playing up to his capabilities.

"It's very hard to be critical about Jorge because he won," he said, "but Jorge wasn't hitting the ball as well as he could be, particularly in the doubles match. But when the warm weather comes I'm sure he will improve."

The effects of the weather on Ramirez didn't show up in the score card though as the native of Mexico City beat Illinois' Rick Wack, 7-5, 6-2, and later combined with Graham Snook at the No. 1 doubles slot to beat Wack and Rod Schroeder, 6-1, 7-4, in sudden death.

Also victorious for the Salukis at No. 2 doubles were Chris Greendale and Ray Briscoe who defeated Illinois' Chap Clements and Kevin Morrey, 6-4, 6-3. Including the spring trip, the victory was the sixth for Briscoe and Greendale against a single setback.

Snook and Ramirez's victory was their fourth of the year including the spring trip and their first of the regular season.

"We like to think of the spring trip as being separate from a statistical point of view," LeFevre said. The reply was in reference to the possibility of Briscoe and Greendale moving up on the basis of their records.

Egyptian 'Stars' win

The Daily Egyptian All-Stars opened their 1971 softball season Sunday taking both games of a doubleheader from a tough WCIL team 20-19 and 9-8 at Northeast Park.

The first game was a free scoring affair aided by 20 to 30 mile per hour winds. The All-Stars led 20-15 going into the bottom of the seventh inning but gave up four runs before the defense tightened, stranding the tying run on first.

The teams switched fields for the

"Of course we have a moral obligation to play our best players at No. 1 and our next best players at No. 2."

"Snook and Ramirez have the second game and the blowing winds made it a, relatively speaking, defensive battle. WCIL led most of the way but the All-Stars tied the game in the sixth. The Daily Egyptian's winning run came in the seventh when the WCIL catcher (who shall forever remain anonymous) dropped the ball on a play at the plate.

All ten Daily Egyptian players were put on the disabled list Monday. The most common injuries included chafed joints, sore muscles and hangovers. A rematch has been tentatively scheduled for as soon as the DE players fully recover sometime in 1978.

possibility of being an excellent doubles team which is why they beat Garcia and Reed."

LeFevre was referring to Luis Garcia and Raz Reid from Miami. Garcia was part of the NCAA doubles champion team last year and hadn't lost a doubles match since 1968.

"Our top four players are so good that we can count on the No. 2 team to win. Our problem is to find the best combination to play at the No. 1 slot."

Saluki trackmen meet Indiana State Friday

If the results of the Midwestern Conference indoor track and field championships are any indication, the Salukis will have little trouble with Indiana State.

The Sycamores will meet SIU—conference indoor track champions—Friday evening in McAndrew Stadium. Running events will start at 8 p.m. and field competition will begin 30 minutes later. Indiana State placed last with 31 points in the conference meet at Illinois State in the final week of February.

The Salukis ran off with the meet accumulating 87 points leaving the runnerup school—Northern Illinois—far behind with 58.

SIU coach Lew Hartzog said he expects the outdoor version of the Sycamores to be much stronger than the indoor squad that went to the conference meet.

Only two Sycamores topped the Salukis. Steve Cooksey in the triple jump and Charles Warthan in the two-mile run.

Cooksey took the triple with a 46-6 mark but SIU was high scorer in the event with Obed Gardner's second place jump of 46-8 1/2 and Don Miller and Pete Totman taking fourth and fifth.

Warthan took second place in the two-mile run for Indiana State at 9:10.9, two men ahead of SIU's Dave Hill.

Hill, the fourth place finisher, came in at 9:20.3. However, the freshman from Canada ran a 8:56.4 in the Central Collegiates in Detroit and can't be counted out in the Friday meet.

Sycamore Greg Martin came in two-tenths of a second ahead of Ivory Crockett in the 300 yard dash but this event isn't run outdoors.

Indiana State will host the outdoor conference championships May 14-15.

Salukis gymnasts go to Pasadena

Former SIU gymnasts Charles Ropiequet and Mark Davis have been invited and will compete in the Pasadena Invitational Gymnastics meet this Saturday. The meet, held annually by Jerry Todd, coach at Pasadena City College, is one of the nation's best, as it includes only the nation's top gymnasts.

Ropiequet, fresh off winning the national still rings championship, was rated by his coach, Bill Meade, as a good bet to win that event.

Davis, whose last year of competition for SIU was 1970, should be in the top three, according to Meade.

"They wanted Tom," said Meade of junior all-around man Tom Lindner, who finished fourth in the meet the nation last weekend, "but he needs a little rest because he'll be going to the Soviet Union with the U.S. team shortly."

The Pasadena meet is the source of much of the gymnastics budget for Pasadena City College.

'Pushers' track team organizes

Anyone interested in joining the Pushers—a new SIU wheelchair track and field team—should come to an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the University School Gymnasium.

The Pushers will face the University of Illinois later in the quarter for a track and field meet and will compete in the national Paralympics in New York in June.

Running events will include the 40, 80 and 100-yard dashes and the 300 and 400-yard relays, while the javelin and shot-put will make up the field events.

The Pushers will also compete in archery, bowling, swimming and weightlifting.

Vogel making progress

SIU women's gymnastics coach Herb Vogel, seriously injured in an auto accident several weeks ago, is coming along slowly but surely, his household reports.

He can move around slowly on crutches and is improving steadily. Vogel's doctors have ordered three months bed rest for the SIU coach.

Red Sox stop Yankees, 3-1

BOSTON (AP) — Ray Culp allowed only one hit for seven innings and was bailed out of a bases-loaded jam in the eighth on Reggie Smith's throw to the plate Tuesday as the Boston Red Sox edged the New York Yankees 3-1 in a frigid American League baseball opener.

With the bases loaded and two out, Horace Clarke singled to right, scoring Danny Cater. Jim Lytle also attempted to score from second with the tying run, but Josephson blocked the plate, took Smith's perfect throw and applied the tag for the third out.

Two to swim for meet spot

SIU swimmers Dale Korner and Rob Dickson will represent Southern in the Pan American Game Trials Thursday through Sunday at Washington State University in Pullman.

Dickson and Korner will see action in the 200 and 400-yard individual medleys. Korner will then compete in the 200-yard breast stroke while Dickson will compete in the 100 and 200-yard butterfly. If either of the Saluki swimmers finishes in the top two places of their individual events they will be entitled to represent the USA in the games which will be held in Dogota, Colombia, July 30 through August 13.

Indiana University, winner of the Big Ten and NCAA swimming championships, is expected to come in full force and win the championship.

Among the coaches for the Pan American Games is SIU's swimming mentor, Ray Esack.

Making of a staff

Dave Martin is an athlete who looks like he spends more time in the training room than on the field. He's got a semi-Babe Ruth physique with one exception. No bulging biceps.

Nevertheless, Martin is a walk-on player who, after three years of watching from the sidelines, is moving into a prominent position on Southern's pitching staff.

In the first game of SIU's Sunday twinbill, Martin stopped MacMurray College on seven hits and struck out nine enroute to his first season win against a single loss.

Richard "Itchy" Jones, entering his second year as head coach, said Martin "has great desire, is a hard worker and because of his ability, desire and dedication, is where he's at today."

Bad spring trip

Martin may be pitching today, but last year about the only action he saw was during batting practice. Final 1970 statistics credit him with two innings pitched and a glaring 9.00 earned run average.

His first three appearances this season were more of the same as Martin yielded 10 runs in just over nine innings during the spring trip.

Not until he came back to now snow-infested Carbondale, was Martin able to fashion his best performance ever on the mound.

Martin is one of many holdovers from which coach Harry Gurley is attempting to construct a pitching staff.

And like Martin, most of the others have been doing their pitching in batting practice the past few years.

The only returner among Gurley's frontliners is Dick Langdon who compiled a 9-1 record and 1.67 earned run average last spring. His present record is 2-1 with a 2.38 ERA.

Alongside Langdon are Jim Fischer and Steve Randall who totalled only 22 innings last year. Neither had a decision.

But they're both off to 3-1 starts this spring, if you can call this weather spring, and Randall's 1.20 earned run average almost tops the staff. His 30 innings pitched leads the team.

Fischer has a 2.10 ERA and held a perfect 3-0 record until two homers were hit off him in a 4-3 defeat last Saturday at Memphis State.

Need more depth

The quartet of Martin, Langdon, Fischer and Randall gives Jones a good nucleus but by no means is the entire staff set.

"We're still looking for the best staff possible and I feel like if we're going to return to Omaha, we must have six good pitchers," Jones said. "We must have good relief pitchers who can come up and put the stopper on."

The College World Series will be held June 11-18 in Omaha, Neb., and so far, only Dan Horn has shown early promise of developing into an effective spot starter or reliever.

Horn pitched an 8-1 victory Sunday over MacMurray, his first decision of the year. His 0.90 ERA leads the staff but the junior college transfer has pitched only 10 innings.

Earned run averages among the other pitchers are pretty fat. Scott Waltemate has a 5.14, Mike Broeking a 5.16 and Willie Jones a 6.77.

But the Tough Luck Award must be given to Jim Bohelmann, proprietor of a 94.50 ERA. That's right. 94.50!

But if Tough Luck Jim can get another man out before a run is charged his way, the ERA will "shrive" to only 63! Not bad for a kid who isn't even listed in the season guide.

Hill: College athletes are pros anyway, why shouldn't they sign?

By Fred Weinberg
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"If I was an athlete in college," said Calvin Hill, and a professional team offered me—especially with a merger in the wind—a million dollars to play for them, I wouldn't hesitate to sign."

Hill, a running back for the Dallas Cowboys, was speaking at a press conference shortly before his scheduled speech to the Carbondale chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in the University Center Tuesday.

"Most owners of professional teams are not benevolent people and if you don't happen to sign before a merger takes place, they'll get you for what you're worth when you graduate."

He was speaking about the recent controversy which has flared as a result of an all out economic war between the two professional basketball leagues, one facet of which has been the signing of undergraduate athletes.

"Sure, it'll wreck college football and basketball to a certain extent," said Hill. "But you have to remember that college athletics have wrecked college academics to a certain extent also."

"Most athletes go to school to play football or basketball and they are for all intents and purposes professional athletes then, so why shouldn't they sign?"

"I would be in favor of a four year rule if the colleges would set it up so that every player gets as much from school as he does from athletics. But most—not all, remember—coaches could care less if his athletes get their degrees."

Hill, a graduate of Yale and one of the few modern day athletes to make it from the Ivy League into professional football, said that he had seen cases of players who were good scholars go to big-time football schools so they would get the chance to play big-time football and make it into the pros.

"I don't think you'll ever see too many players coming out of the Ivy League," said Hill, "because if they want to go pro, they go to the big time schools."

The running back was named rookie of the year in 1969 but played almost all of last season playing behind Dwayne Thomas because of an injury he sustained against St. Louis.

He generally defended present day football protective equipment but maintains that a poorly designed shoe caused his injury.

"I think that the old high top shoes were much better for the whole foot," he said. "I injured my toe last season because I was wearing a flimsy shoe which gave me the mental illusion that, perhaps, I was faster."

"I think, though, that today's equipment is much better than the older equipment. The helmets and the shoulder pads protect you much better."

It was mentioned to Hill that football great Tom Harmon had been quoted as saying that perhaps the older equipment kept football injuries down, but Hill dismissed that by saying, "Tom Harmon never had to go against a Dick Butkus."

As far as a possible player strike this year, Hill declined to speculate on whether it will come off or not but he noted that a strike would hurt a lot of people—and not just financially.

"A strike would definitely hurt a lot of people," he said. "Houston lost a lot of players last time because they didn't have a conditioning camp."

"All the Cowboys had a meeting just the other day and they said something about the contract between the players association and the owners. I don't know exactly what happened but there was something about the players submitting a contract to the owners and the owners giving it back with a few changes to make it more understandable.

"Someone said they changed 40 pages."

Hill was asked if he thought he was a better player than Thomas.

"Well, everybody likes to think he's better than another guy," he replied.

"And I'm not going to say I'm better than Gale Sayers or Leroy Kelley, but we'll see next year. The cream always rises to the top."

Williams' blast beats Cardinals

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Williams lined a home run into the right field seats in the 10th inning, giving the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in their baseball opener Tuesday.

Williams' one-out blast off a 1-1 pitch ended a pitching duel between the Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins and St. Louis' Cy Young Award winner Bob Gibson. Jenkins yielded only three hits, Gibson seven.

Joe Torre pulled the Cardinals even at 1-1 with a two-out homer in the seventh inning, the final hit off Jenkins.

Chicago took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when Williams opened with a single and moved to third on Ron Santo's single. Williams was cut down at the plate on Joe Pepitone's bouncer, but Johnny Callison's pop double down the right field line scored Santo from second.

Gibson got out of that jam by trapping Pepitone off third on Jose Ortiz' roller to the mound and getting Ken Rudolph on a liner.
