Grid star going for blood — donations, that is

The American Red Cross week-long blood drive will officially kick off at 10 a.m. Monday with a parade through the Student Center featuring the Marching Salukis, University and local dignitaries, and a short speech by alumnus Jim Hart, former star quarterback for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Hart will be introduced by Saluki football coach Ray Dorr and give a short address at 10 a.m. in the Student Center International Lounge.

Joining the parade will be Mayor Helen Westberg,

President Albert Somit, and the blood drive's two mascots — a chicken whose motto is "don't be chicken," and a cow whose motto is "don't be a coward." The mottos address people's fears of giving blood, most of which are baseless, says Vivian Ugent, regional Red Cross blood drive coordinator.

Rumors that AIDS, Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, can be transmitted by giving blood are completely false, Ugent says, because the Red Cross uses sterilized needles to draw blood from donors. She says no AIDS cases have been linked to blood transfusions since a test was developed to find AIDS in donated blood.

The blood drive's goal is to have 5,000 units of blood donated, which would break Auburn University's world record of 4,812 pints set in 1967. In November, donors at SIU-C gave 3,479 pints, setting the world record for a peace-time blood drive.

Ugent says 5,000 units will provide a five-day blood supply for the local region, which stretches from a 250-mile radius around St. Louis. The region includes 140 hospitals in 80 counties in Missouri and Illinois, requiring 1,000 units of blood per day to perform operations, therapy and other critical medical practices.

The blood drive was set up Sunday for those who couldn't meet an appointment during the week. The drive will continue from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday in the Student Center.

Ugent suggests that donors set an appointment by calling 453-5714. The number of Red Cross nurses staffing the blood drive has been doubled to prevent long waits that drew complaints during the November blood drive, Ugent says.

Anyone between the ages of 17 and 65 who weighs more than 105 pounds can give blood. The only major restrictions are pregnant women, those who have had cancer or have had hepatitis.

The blood drive is sponsored by Mobilization of Volunteer Effort, Arnold Air Society, WCIL radio station, Ugent says.

1,400 students reap honors, scholarships

By Darci Allen
Staff Writer

Over 1,400 students were recognized for academic achievement at various honors day programs Sunday.

The day's events started with a buffet dinner at 11 a.m. in the Renaissance Room of the Student Center for honor students and their parents.

Each college held separate ceremonies, which were followed by a reception at 2:30 p.m. in the ballrooms of the Student Center.

Three hundred twenty-nine students were recognized as having maintained a 3.9 grade point average. The list included 60 freshmen, 39 sophomores, 41 juniors and 89 seniors.

Three hundred fifty-one students were commended for having a 3.5 grade point average or higher. This included 54 freshmen, 61 sophomores, 67 juniors and 169 seniors.

Three hundred seventy-one students were honored as recipients of general awards, scholarships and prizes. Ninety of these students are Illinois State Scholarship Commission winners. The state of Illinois gives the top 5 percent of each high school graduating class an ISSC award.

The SIU Foundation presented 123 scholarships relating to various fields of study to 218 students.

Gus says at Honors Day they're called scholars — at other times they're known as curve busters.

Quick learners

They may be freshmen, but they learned quickly. From left, Dave Wiedman, Kevin Woods and John Faur went to the SIU Arena at 5 a.m. on Saturday to get in line for Van Halen tickets. Their reward: second and third row seats.

Bonn studies Libyan link to TWA, disco bombs

BERLIN (UPI) — A West German newspaper Sunday quoted Bonn security officials as saying Libya was behind the bombing of a discotheque frequented by American soldiers and is planning more attacks on U.S. targets.

The Welt am Sonntag newspaper also reported that security officials suspect a link between the disco bombing, which killed an American soldier and a Turkish woman and injured 204 people, and Wednesday's bombing of a TWA jetliner over Greece, which killed four people.

It said the officials will use laboratory tests to compare remnants of the bomb used in the disco bombing with the explosive device used in the airliner.

The U.S. Berlin Command identified the dead soldier in the disco bombing early Saturday as Sgt. Kenneth Terrance Ford, a 21-year old infantryman from Detroit. He was assigned to the 6,000-strong U.S. garrison in the Western outpost in September 1984.

The Welt am Sonntag newspaper, known for having good intelligence sources, quoted unidentified security officials as saying the attack on a main street in the American sector of the city was part of Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy's campaign of vengeance against the United States for the recent clash in the disputed Gulf of Sidra. Sixty-four Americans were injured.

"The Federal Criminal Office believes there is reason for serious concern that Libya will carry out more terror acts (against U.S. targets) on German soil," the newspaper said.

"Khadafy should know that we are informed that his people are on the way, but not what else we know," the newspaper quoted "a high Bonn security official" as saying.

Asked to comment on the newspaper report of Libyan involvement, Manfred Ganschow of the West Berlin security squad, which is in charge of the investigation of the La Belle disco bombing, called it speculation.

"Libyan involvement is one of the possibilities we are looking into," he said. "There are others."

In Washington, a State Department official said the Berlin attack fits "the pattern of Khadafy-inspired terrorism," but he said U.S. officials have been unable to directly tie the Libyan leader to the attack.

Two organizations have claimed responsibility for the nightclub attack — the anti-American Arab Liberation Front and the Holger Meins Commando, named after a member of the Baader-Meinhof terrorist group who died during a prison hunger strike in 1974.

The Holger Meins group, an offshoot of the Red Army Faction, also claimed responsibility for the Feb. 28 assassination of Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme. Police said they had no evidence either organization was involved in Saturday's bombing.

Ganschow said there is no evidence to confirm reports the terrorists entered West Berlin from East Berlin and returned there after the attack.

Ralliers remember King's dream of justice

By Tom Atkins
Staff Writer

On April 4, 1968, a bullet claimed the life of the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. Eighteen years later his dream has not been forgotten.

King dreamt of a society that was peaceful and fair, where people were free from hunger, want, war and oppression, Dennis Makhudu, one of ten speakers at a rally Friday, told about 120 rallyers in the Free Forum Area. "He dreamt of an America that stood up for justice."

The rally was sponsored by a campus social-justice group called People Living the Dream to mark the 18th anniversary of King's assassination.

People must become more active in social protest before the dream can become a reality, Makhudu said.

Students should be at the forefront in social and political issues, Makhudu said. They are young and have their whole life ahead in which they can live the dream and work for social justice, he said.

Students at SIU-C should be working to persuade the administration to divest its holdings in South Africa, Makhudu said. "We don't want this University to have its money invested in a country that practices oppression."

Makhudu said the arrest of 120 students at the University of California at Berkeley

Thursday during an anti-apartheid rally was a good example of activism. Students who are active in protests are setting a good example and should continue to speak out, he said. Those who are not involved should be, he added.

Luke Tripp, professor in the school of social work, said the United States is failing to pursue King's dream by supporting the Contra rebel

Weinberger encounters demonstrators in Manila

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — A jeering crowd of demonstrators chanted "Weinberger go home" and waved anti-U.S. banners as Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger arrived Sunday for talks with leaders of the new Philippine government. Weinberger, 67, is the highest-ranking Reagan administration official to visit the Philippines since a civilian-backed military revolt ousted 20-year ruler Ferdinand Marcos Feb. 25 and installed President Corason Aquino.

British official says more troops may be used

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Britain is ready to send more troops into Northern Ireland to quell escalating Protestant violence directed at police and firefighters, Britain's chief minister in Northern Ireland warned Sunday. Northern Ireland Secretary Tom King's warning came after Protestant extremists, apparently angered by a recent Anglo-Irish accord and restrictions on their traditional parades, attacked and firebombed the homes of 16 police officers and fought weekend street battles with police and firefighters.

Eastwood campaign adds to town's tourism

CARMELO-BY-THE-SEA, Calif. (UPI) — If the hundreds of tourists scurrying from boutique to boutique could vote, Clint Eastwood, it appeared Sunday afternoon, would become mayor of this tiny coastal village by acclamation. But they can't, which is why incumbent Mayor Charlotte Townsend maintains she can still gun down Carmel's number one celebrity when the town's 4,124 registered voters go to the polls Tuesday. "Clint for Mayor" buttons and T-shirts are as thick on the hamlet's main drag as the traffic.

Bush meets Saudi king over dessert in desert

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — Vice President George Bush sat down to a Bedouin feast of roast lamb and ice cream in the Arabian desert Sunday, and met with King Fahd to discuss the spillover of violence from the Iran-Iraq war and the precipitous plunge in world oil prices. On a day marked by a motorized ostrich chase in the desert, Bush sought to clarify remarks he made last week that appeared to favor a return to higher oil prices.

Soviet-backed Afghan troops battle rebels

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Afghan rebels said Sunday they downed a military aircraft and surrounded several army positions as 1,200 Soviet-backed Afghan troops fought for control of a rebel stronghold near the Pakistan border. There were no immediate reports of casualties Sunday and no independent confirmation of the details of the second day of fighting around the rebel stronghold.

Researcher says Halley's heralds disasters

ATLANTA (UPI) — A wave of teenage suicides and airline crashes last year coincided with the appearance of Halley's comet, the "evil star" herald of death and disaster since ancient times, a researcher said Sunday. Loren Coleman, director of a suicide prevention project at the University of Southern Maine in Portland, said the word "disaster" evolved from "evil star" or "bad star" — as comets were often termed. He said an analysis of suicides or epidemics and the appearance of comets "demonstrates some interesting correlations."

Canadian bus crash injures 25 Americans

TORONTO (UPI) — A chartered bus carrying 40 Americans to the Toronto Zoo crashed into a chain link fence Sunday, injuring up to 25 people, including three impaled on a fence rail that smashed through the windshield, police said. The bus was one of two taking adult students and their children from Erie Community College in Buffalo, N.Y. to the zoo for a day's outing, police said. It was not known how many children were injured or how seriously they were hurt.

Finance ministers agree to realign values

OOTMARSUM, Netherlands (UPI) — Acting on a request from France, European Economic Community finance ministers agreed Sunday to realign currency values for six of the eight countries comprising the European Monetary System. The move amounted to a 6 percent adjustment between the flagging French franc and the strongest currencies in the system — the West German mark and the Dutch guilder.

Official decries purse-pinching as threat to U.N.

By Tom Mangan
Staff Writer

The United Nations faces a crisis of cash and confidence because of member nations seeking to decrease their financial commitments to the organization, says John Paul Kavanagh, assistant to Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar.

Kavanagh, a native of Ireland and a career diplomat, was the keynote speaker Friday at the 21st Annual Model U.N. Simulation. He said funding cuts by U.N. members, particularly the United States, threaten to undermine the integrity of the U.N. charter because such cuts violate the charter's mandated contributions for each country.

Each member nation contributes a percentage of the U.N. budget, as established by the charter. The United States, he said, is seeking to cut its share from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Such a cut would send a signal to other members that one of the most powerful members does not place a high priority on U.N. doctrine, he said. Once any nation establishes a precedent of cutting funds other nations will undoubtedly follow suit, which would drastically curtail the organization's peace-keeping ability, he said.

The United Nations faces an immediate shortfall of $100 million, and an additional $70 million has been lost because of late payments by members, Kavanagh said. U.S. funding

U.N. simulators try on others' shoes

Staff Writer

Twenty-one people participated in the United Nations General Assembly simulation in the Student Center Saturday, debating the merits of resolutions concerning such issues as terrorism, nuclear disarmament, foreign involvement in Central America and combating AIDS.

The simulation was sponsored by the Southern Illinois chapter of the United Nations Simulation Association. In the simulation, people play the roles of diplomats representing different countries that are members of the United Nations and vote on resolutions relating to international issues. Among the participants were eight students from Carbondale Community High School.

J. Paul Kavanagh, assistant to the secretary general of the U.N. and a native of Ireland, said events such as the UNSA simulation are "extremely healthy" because they help students realize problems other countries in the world have.

"They encourage the consideration of international problems from perspectives different from those young people might normally have available to them," Kavanagh said.

Participants "get into situations where they have to put themselves in the shoes of other countries and that's not always easy," Kavanagh said. During the time Kavanagh was at the simulation, he commented on the different resolutions that were introduced and discussed how they would be probably be handled in the United Nations.

Kavanagh said while some of the resolutions introduced there may not have come before the U.N. General Assembly, the experience for the participants was good.

"The benefit of this type of exercise here is not on the merits of the individual issues, but in the experience it gives the participants to participate in debates and to see opposing views emerge and try to reconcile them."

Kavanagh said he was impressed with the participants at the simulation.

"They were very good," he said. "They were very good from the point of view in that they showed how debate in this type of environment can evolve, how positions can be defined, and how opportunities from compromise can emerge, and those opportunities can be seized if there is will on the part of the participants."

"This has been the case here and this is very definitely the case in New York."

Frank L. Klingberg, a retired political science professor who has been involved in the Southern Illinois chapter of UNSA since its establishment in 1957, agreed with Kavanagh that the UNSA is worthwhile because it helps students empathize with the problems of other nations.

"It's a tremendous opportunity for students to learn more about international problems, to become acquainted with international students who participate and to develop empathy with other countries' problems and points of view," Klingberg said.

Record Setting Blood Drive

Sunday, April 6, SIU Arena 1:00pm-6:00pm

April 7-11, Student Center 10:30am-4:30pm

The need for blood in this region has increased dangerously this past year. The Red Cross has again urged this community to meet this ever increasing demand on its blood supply. Join this united University and Carbondale community effort to collect 5,000 pints of blood and establish a new world record. Together we can prove that this truly is the Heart of Southern Illinois.

MOVE

Give up a little time and save a few lives

FORGET THE CHANCE to break a record, the free cookies, the prize raffles and other incentives.

There is only one important reason for giving blood at the American Red Cross Blood Drive in the Student Center this week: 140 hospitals in Missouri and Illinois are counting on the donations made by students, staff, faculty and the community to save lives. The University is one of the major veins for the area, so to speak.

IT DOESN'T HURT TO give blood -- the insertion of the needle feels like a slight pinch. You can't catch AIDS, because individual packaged sterile needles are used. Giving blood should leave you with few, if any, side effects, if you follow the Red Cross donor instructions.

IT MAY TAKE AN HOUR or so to register, supply your medical history, donate blood and rest afterward. You can use the time to read, study, listen to music. Or go with a friend -- the buddy system.

After all, if it's worthwhile to spend an hour waiting to get into a concert or a bar, it is even more worthwhile to use that time to help save lives.

Editor's note -- Friday's Viewpoint was written by David H. Everson and Jack Van Der Slk of Sangamon State University's Illinois Legislative Studies Center.

Letters

Remedial math needed

When the USO Senate voted to give the Faculty Senate a John Henry Cockroach Award for their proposal to end the Pass-Fail system, they received it because of false statements and a total lack of research into the issue. After reading Professor James Redden's letter to the editor on this issue, I can begin to understand why the Faculty Senate does so poorly in research.

Mr. Redden stated, "The transcript contained only two grades, A and F. When the grade point average was calculated the student was denied admission to our graduate school, since P grades were evaluated as worth only a C. This made the student's GPA less than 2.0."

Might one suggest a remedial math course for whomever is calculating GPA's. Since A's are worth four points and C's are worth two points, it is mathematically impossible to average these two grades at less than 2.0.

In addition, the Faculty Senate's own research shows that the Pass-Fail system was changed in 1978. Therefore, the more than "Dozen Years Ago" incident has no bearing on today's policy.

Under the current SIU program, only 15 credit hours of Pass-Fail are accepted for graduation. Thus, only 12.5 percent of the total hours needed could affect your grade. If you were to calculate a 4.0 average and 15 hours of C's, the GPA would drop by less than 1.0. The student would still be highly qualified for graduate school.

We at the USO would be happy to listen, to consider and even vote for changes to any policy, but only when based on fact, not invention. — Daniel DeFosse, senior, Education, and four others.

Rich man's war, poor man's fight

The war against Nicaragua that Rambo Reagan is trying to stampede Americans into accepting, like Vietnam, will be fought by working-class people.

Martin Gershen, a professor of journalism at the University of Illinois and award-winning war correspondent (Ernie Pyle Award, 1967), who wrote the book "Destroy or Die: The True Story Of My Lai," said it best when delivering the Elijah P. Lovejoy lecture here at SIU in 1970. His remarks were recorded in the Grassroots Editor: "We have learned since My Lai that the middle classes didn't fight in Vietnam -- only the working classes and the poor. These men, who had the least to gain from capitalism, were being sent out to stem the tide of communism... This society sent its underprivileged children to fight an unfortunate war."

Peoria, black, hispanic and white who will fight and die in Central America. And it will be the kids from the small towns and villages in Illinois who will be added to the slaughter.

It was, as Nicaragua will be if Reagan has his way, a rich man's war but a poor man's fight. It won't be the Harvard Law School graduates who will "pay any price or bear any burden." It won't be the middle-class kids from Barrington Hills and Evanston who will be sent to fight and die in Central America. It will be the working class kids from Chicago, Joliet, Kankakee, Decatur, East St. Louis, East

Over 40,000 soldiers killed in Vietnam, and another 60,000 combat veterans have committed suicide. The VA hospitals are filled with the hopelessly maimed and mangled and Ronald Reagan wants an instant replay -- this time in Nicaragua. Intervention in Nicaragua with American troops would be a tragic mistake. No more Vietnams in Central America! — Randal C. Fulk, Law Student.

Synergy volunteers do great work

We would like to comment on the article "Synergy enables people to help themselves" (DE, March 27). We Synergists appreciate the recognition; the work we do is valuable to the Southern Illinois community, and it's nice to get positive feedback on it.

We would like to clarify the statements made by Reid Christensen of Network that some situations require more expertise than paraprofessionals can handle. Although we are paraprofessionals, Synergy volunteers receive over 120 hours of classroom and on-shift training before taking a solo shift.

Training continues through in-services and other opportunities.

What sort of dangerous situations would we be unable to handle? We use crisis intervention, listening skills, referrals, and above all, caring to give the client the best help we can. Often, one wants face-to-face counseling immediately, rather than waiting for a counselor to be contacted. We give help, not appointments.

We Synergists believe we do great work, and we have gained a lot by working here. As Phoebe Bringle-Naar said, "Two heads are better than one" -- that's what Synergy means. We would also like to invite anyone who wants to talk, or is just curious, to call 549-3333 or 985-6161, or come by the geodesic dome, 905 S. Illinois Ave., Carbondale. — Karen Hampton and 12 other Synergy volunteers.

Pick up trash!

This letter is addressed to the many low-lives who frequent Giant City State Park, particularly Shelter Area One. The sad fact is that most of you in said large group don't realize you're one of them. Let me clue you in. You throw or leave your beer cans, bottles, tabs, plastic cups, etc., on the ground.

If you are capable of stopping at the store to purchase your goodies and carry them into the park, why then are you unable to carry the empties back out? After all, containers and wrappers weigh considerably less once emptied.

Finally, for you subhuman creatures who drink atop the bluffs (it's illegal anyway), who toss garbage over the edge, stop endangering the lives of rock climbers! We are tired of your bottles, cans, repelling devices, boxes, coolers and even dogs slamming into the ground nearby with killing force! — Eric Uiner, member, Shawnee Mountaineers.

forces in Nicaragua, by supporting the government of South Africa and by supporting corrupt dictatorships in Chile and El Salvador.

Tripp said if people are going to live the dream, it will have to be with the support of people of all races and colors. King called this the "Rainbow Coalition." Tripp said the many different races and colors of people who participated in the rally Friday is a good sign that King's dream has not been forgotten on campus. Only when all people work together to oppose injustice will they be successful, he said.

"We're going to form a rainbow coalition and rainbow them out of town," Tripp said, referring to those who stand in the way of justice.

Half-way through the rally President Albert Somit walked by the energetic crowd. Immediately the group began pointing at him, shouting "Divest! Divest!" Somit continued on his way without acknowledging the group.

Toward the end of the rally, the group marched around and then through Anthony Hall, where many administration offices are located. The group passed through the building without incident, then gathered outside the building and sang "We Shall Overcome."

would drop by $36 million through cuts demanded in the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings legislation, he said.

Austerity moves within the organization, such as frozen salaries and limits on travel, will not go far enough to save the U.N. from its financial crisis, he said.

Kavanagh said there is no basis in fact for the reasoning by some in the U.S. government that funding should be cut because most of the 159 member nations tend to vote against the United States.

He said that on current issues, particularly terrorism and condemnation of the Soviet military presence in Afghanistan, member nations are supporting U.S. policies.

Recent legislation passed by President Reagan demands that the U.S. contribution be cut from 25 percent of the U.N. budget to 20 percent unless the

John Paul Kavanagh

U.N. adopts "weighted voting," which would give more votes to countries that contribute the most money.

Kavanagh said the general assembly will not accept weighted voting because such a change would require an amendment to the charter. The charter has not been amended in the 40-year history of the United Nations, he said, and the organization is unlikely to allow a weighted-voting amendment because this would lead to a flurry of amendment proposals geared toward special interests of other nations.

Kavanagh said the United States, as U.N. founder and host country, has an obligation to uphold the moral and legal foundation of the United Nations, which would surely wither away if the United States establishes and upholds a precedent of turning away from the organization's charter.

Gunman holds ex-wife hostage in Texas

EULESS, Texas (UPI) — Police brought in two brothers of a Polynesian man Sunday to talk with the gunman holding his ex-wife hostage at a store, but officers reported little progress 38 hours after the standoff began.

The gunman, identified by friends as Malone "Maron" Mataele, 27, an unemployed waiter from the South Pacific island of Tonga, entered the Kwik Pantry store where his ex-wife worked as clerk and pulled a gun about 9 p.m. Friday.

Within minutes, Police Sgt.

Harlan Westmoreland was shot in the left shoulder when he responded to the alarm. He was in good condition Sunday at H.E.B. Harris Hospital in Euless, which is between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Capt. T.C. Free said the gunman was making no demands and police planned to wait for a non-violent end to the situation.

"Sure we are still willing to wait it out, there is no reason to change direction now," he said. "The deal is as it has always been — to throw the gun out and come out narmed."

Police continued negotiations with Mataele through his two brothers, who were brought in overnight to keep communications going.

Police said Mataele had bound and gagged his former wife, Sane, but she has not been injured.

The Euless gunman and his wife reportedly have been divorced since 1980. Friends of the woman say he followed her to Texas from California and had threatened her with a gun before.

News reporters have to realize that they can hurt and destroy just as easily as they can help and inform, says Paul M. Davis, news director at WGN in Chicago.

Davis was the speaker at the first Virginia Marmaduke Lecture, held Friday in the Museum Auditorium in Faner Hall.

Davis said today's news reporters lack story-telling skills and have a problem writing. They don't always know much, especially about things a beginning reporter would be covering, he added.

"In days past, they simply wouldn't be hired," he said. Knowing what you're writing about and having style in your writing is required of good journalists, he said, adding that articles are becoming too drab and colorless.

Critics write of sensational reporting, but Davis said he fears the opposite is true.

"We have taken objectivity as a call for sterility in writing," he said. "Brevity as a license for cloudy and incomplete. Format as successor to bright writing and unique words or phrases."

Davis said the news is tired and that it is no wonder both print and television are rushing to improve the graphic look of news.

There is no shortage of den-and-for news but reporters are less careful than in the past and are poor in benefiting from criticism, he added.

In story telling, in the age of graphics and stereo sound, it is time to make sure and then assure future listeners and readers that news reporters are competent observers and writers, Davis said, and can be better than anyone else in seeing and condensing what is happening.

"If we succeed, someday, someone will write of our news reporting as they wrote about Virginia Lee Marmaduke... that by listening to our reports, they could have saved money and been richly rewarded," he said.

Marmaduke, a retired journalist, established the lecture series that will bring a mass media professional to campus to lecture and speak to faculty and students.

Davis said he remembered when Marmaduke was working in New York as a member of the state's Sesqui-centennial Commission and as special events director for the Illinois Pavilion.

She sent WGN postcards daily, Davis said, and Chicago Tribune columnist Larry Walters wrote that it was easy enough to spend money to cover the fair, but had he followed her radio and short film reports on channel 9, he would have saved money and been richly rewarded.

Mr. & Ms. Muscle flex 'em for 500

By Nola Kucsvort
Staff Writer

Oiled bodies and muscles were centerstage for about 500 spectators at Davies Gymnasium at the Second Annual Mr. and Ms. SIU Bodybuilding Competition.

Nine men and two women competed for the Mr. and Ms. SIU title Saturday afternoon, with Joe Jurkovich and Carmelle Bonic muscling their way to the championship.

Jurkovich, a senior in microbiology, said, "I've been lifting weights for four and a half years, but I really got into it after last year's contest." He placed fifth last year. "I wanted to do better, so I put my heart into it," he said. He added that he had missed only 22 days in the weight room since July. The hardest part of the competition, Jurkovich said, was the 10-week diet he has been on for the SIU competition and the State Collegiate Championships next weekend at Wheaton.

Bonic, a senior in dental hygiene, said she started eating healthy foods at the beginning of spring semester and had stayed on a strict diet for the past eight weeks. She has been bodybuilding since August 1984. Bonic will also compete next weekend at the Collegiate competition.

"It felt real good to win. I

British historian of science study to give lectures

John H. Brooks, senior lecturer in the Department of History of Science, University of Lancaster, Lancaster England, will speak on "Methods and Methodologies in the Development of Organic Chemistry" at 4 p.m. Wednesday in Neckers Room 218.

On Thursday, Brooks will speak on "The Relations Between Science and Religion in the Mind of Charles Darwin" at 12:35 in Browne Auditorium, Parkinson Laboratory.

The lectures, both open to the public at no charge, are sponsored by the Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry along with the American Chemical Society.

was real excited," Bonic said. Fifteen mandatory poses and a 90-second individual freestyle competition were required for judging the bodybuilders.

Bill Battle, freshman in general studies, finished second and Kent Probst, senior in advertising, received the third place trophy. Christine Rojas, junior in physical therapy, took the second place trophy in the women's category.

Tom Royal, last year's Mr. SIU, took the stage between the women's and men's competition. Royal was first runner-up in the 1985 Collegiate competition and took third place in the 1985 Mr. Southern Illinois competition.

This year's event was sponsored by Pi Sigma Epsilon, the SIU Weightlifting Club and European Tan Spa.

Carmelle Bonic, standing, senior in dental hygiene, and Christine Rojas, junior in physical therapy, give the crowd one last pose. Bonic won first and Rojas placed second among the women.

English major wins AAUW award

The Carbondale branch of the American Association of University Women selected Rebecca Spears Schwartz as the winner of its annual scholarship award.

Schwartz, a graduate student in the English Department, said she hopes to continue teaching and writing for children. Schwartz has written several articles that have been published in children's magazines.

SIU-C to be host for community conference

By Patricia Edwards
Staff Writer

SIU-C has been chosen to be the host for the National Community Development Society's 18th Annual Conference July 28-31. The conference theme is "Capturing Community Initiative: Issues, Needs, Challenges."

Jnan Bhattacharyya, chairman of the department, said he is "happy, excited and proud" that the school was chosen.

The CDS board of directors met in Carbondale this week to discuss plans for the conference with planners from community development. Bhattacharyya said the plans have been underway since last summer.

The conference is expected to attract between 300 and 500 participants, although Bhattacharyya said he has optimistic hopes of having 1000 participants at the conference.

A number of renowned community development and social change theorists and activists are scheduled to speak at the conference.

Peter Berger, sociologist and professor at Boston University, will speak at the conference. He has written numerous books and articles on social change, religion and the delegation of power. Berger wrote "Social Construction of Reality," "Homeless Minds," "Pyramids of Sacrifice" and "To Empower People."

Harry C. Boyte, a prominent political activist and community organizer from Minneapolis, will also speak at the conference. He is the author of "The Backyard Revolution," "Community is Possible" and the soon to be published "Free Spaces."

Also set to speak is Leon Finney, the executive director of the Woodlawn Organization in Chicago. The organization, founded by Saul Alinsky, is one of the oldest and largest citizen-based organizations in the United States.

A.Z.M. Obaidullah Khan, ambassador of the People's Republic of Bangladesh, will also speak at the conference. He is highly regarded as a scholar and practitioner of international development.

Richard Poston, who founded the Community Development Department at SIU-C in 1953, is scheduled to speak. He is the author of numerous books including "Democracy is You," "Small Town Renaissance," "The Gang and the Establishment" and "Action Now."

Charlie Daniels kicked off the Alabama Daniels and his band played for one hour concert Thursday night at the SIU Arena. before Alabama performed.

Alabama attributes its success and inspiration to 'You the Fans'

By Martin Folan
Staff Writer

High-intensity country music charged the audience at the SIU Arena Thursday night when Alabama and the Charlie Daniels Band performed as part of the 1986 "The Fans Tour."

The Charlie Daniels Band opened the show to set a mood for a night of country music and set the stage for Alabama. Daniels, topped with a big brown cowboy hat, played songs off his new album, "Me and the Boys," as well as older hits.

Daniels included "He's an American Farmer" in his performance. The song, subtitled "The Endangered Species," focuses on the crises of the farming industry.

THE POPULAR music theme of drinking was also touched on when Daniels sang "Drinking My Baby Off My Mind."

Daniels' performance would not be complete without his fiddle. The one-hour opening act ended with Daniels racing his bow across his fiddle to one of the band's most popular songs, "The Devil Went Down to Georgia."

The Alabama members were elevated on a platform from below the stage up to stage level as the crowd arose to welcome country music's best entertainers. Alabama opened their performance with "You Can't Keep a Good Man Down," the first song of a medley.

COMPARING "The Fans Tour" with last year's "40-Hour Week" tour, Teddy Gentry, electric bass, said, "This year's show is shorter as far as timely, but we've got three new songs in the show. It's a higher-energy faster-moving show."

Alabama didn't skimp on any hit songs, though. The opening medley included verses from such popular favorites as, "There's a Fire in the Night," "If You're Gonna Play in Texas," and "The Closer You Get," among others.

Smoke ascended from the floor of the stage occasionally throughout the concert. Small colored lights illuminated the outline of the Southern flag on a black backdrop, which complemented various songs.

RANDY OWEN, lead vocals and rhythm guitar, opened the song "When We Make Love" with the line "There's a light..." as dozens of tiny starlights shined on the backdrop.

The song-and-light performances only briefly defined the outstanding success of Alabama, whose love for the fans is expressed through the song lyrics and in the words of Owen.

"This next song is dedicated to all you fans because we love you all and you're the reason we make this happen," he said.

Owen, singing one of the group's newest songs, "You the Fans," told the audience about life on the road for Alabama and what inspires the band.

THE SINCERITY and thankfulness of the group was expressed in the chorus of the song, as Owen pointed out to the audience and sang, "What keeps the fires burning is you the fans."

The fans clapped and stomped their feet to the group's 1983 hit, "Dixieland Delight," as green, red and white lights showed the image of the Southern flag on the backdrop when Gentry and Owen sang the last chorus.

Gentry settled fans in their seats by singing the second new song, "She and I," off the group's latest album, "Alabama's Greatest Hits."

Acid rain plus aluminum spells woe for fish, researcher finds

By Mary Lung
Staff Writer

When aluminum found naturally in rocks and soil is released it has adverse effects on fish and other aquatic organisms if it comes into contact with acidic water, better known as acid rain, a Syracuse University researcher says.

Charles T. Driscoll, of the Department of Civil Engineering at Syracuse University, discussed the impact of aluminum on the environment during a seminar on acid rain Friday in Necker.

In a study of lakes in British Columbia, the Adirondacks and New England, Driscoll examined the correlations between acid rain and elevated aluminum levels in watersheds.

He said that one ecological reaction to elevated aluminum levels is a reduction of fish populations.

Aluminum is chemically released from rocks and soil after it comes in contact with acidic water, Driscoll explained, causing several effects on lake systems.

An image of masses of dead fish is what commonly comes to people's minds when they think of acid rain and an adverse reaction by fish to certain toxic forms of aluminum is one of the effects elevated aluminum content has on lake systems, he said.

Through normal drainage action, aluminum enters watersheds such as lakes, entering fish as they breathe through their gills, Driscoll said, binding with the filament mucus in fish gills and irritating the membranes.

The irritation causes repeated shedding of gill filaments, resulting in respiratory problems as the filament deteriorates, he said.

The effects of elevated aluminum were studied in brook trout fry, Driscoll said, and similar results with varying degrees of toxicity have been found in other studies done on salmon, brown trout and other species.

Driscoll also said that aluminum lowers pH of watersheds, which increases the water transparency and changes heat distribution. He said this affects all aquatic organisms.

Fun in the sun leaves 7 dead, 2,300 arrested

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Spring break rolled through Florida's glimmering resorts in the bittersweet swirl of boy meeting girl, girl meeting boy, beer and sun, surf and fun, and death.

The annual spring hiatus by high school and college students from the nippy North ended Sunday. The last few vacationers downed their last beers, gave their last goodbye kisses and packed their bags for home.

Seven college students who came to Florida for a few days of romping on the sand never made it back. Two of deaths occurred in Fort Lauderdale.

Four students fell to their deaths from hotel balconies, one man died falling from a drawbridge, one student drowned and a woman died when she was tossed from a motorcycle that rammed into a car.

Police made more than 2,300 arrests during the six-week bash, mostly for disorderly conduct and drinking in public. A third of those arrested were college students, police spokesman Ott Cefkin said.

But most of the hundreds of thousands of students who flocked to Florida beaches left unscathed, dodging misfortune and the police.

Four seniors from Fitch High School in Youngstown, Ohio, went home Saturday after a week in Fort Lauderdale, famed as the spring break capital in the 1960 film "Where the Boys Are." They were asked if it was also where the girls are.

"Oh, yeah!" they said, laughing.

Steve Shonn, 18, said, "If you have a good tan and muscles ... you've got it made."

Many students spent their nights walking up and down the Strip, bantering with members of the opposite sex.

Water, sewer rate hike expected to get city's OK

By Tricia Yocum
 Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council is expected to approve its fiscal year 1987 operating budget, as well as an increase in water and sewer rates at its meeting at 7 p.m. Monday at the Council Chambers, 608 E. College St.

The council has discussed both matters at the last two meetings. The city's operating budget is $3,352,903.

The increase in water rates would be a flat rate of $1.40 per 1,000 gallons and the sewer increase would be $1.94 per 1,000 gallons.

Minimum monthly water bills would increase 22 percent to $10.02 per month. Monthly water bills for an average family of four using 8,000 gallons per month would increase to $26.72.

City staff had originally proposed a higher increase but lowered it after Charles Hindersman, vice president for financial affairs, told the council that the increase would cost the University about $400,000.

Hindersman added that it was too late for the University to budget for the proposed increase for this fiscal year because budget planning takes about 18 months to complete.

The amended proposal would cut about $75,000 of the University's previous water rate increase, city officials said.

Jeff Cook, vocals, lead guitar, keyboards and fiddle, displayed his multi-talented musical abilities by playing an instrumental version of "Tennessee River" on the guitar with his teeth.

The concert closed with the audience clapping to the beat of the 1983 Grammy Award winning song, "Mountain Music."

Always willing to give fans what they deserve, Alabama returned to the stage answering calls for more. The audience chanted, "We want more! We want more!"

The encore featured a highly intense instrumental, Bachman Turner Overdrive's "Taking Care of Business" and the group's theme song, "My Home's in Alabama."

Women tracksters retain quality in performances; 2nd at SEMO

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

Despite the dearth of first-place performances by the Saluki women's track team at the SEMO relays at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau, Mo., Coach Don DeNoon credited the tracksters with a quality effort.

"Overall, I thought we ran very well and competed well in the field events," DeNoon said Sunday. "I think we had a good meet."

The Crimson Tide of Alabama dominated the meet, winning 10 of 18 events on Friday and Saturday, but the Salukis were "right there behind them," said DeNoon.

Saluki jumper Sue Anderson turned in an outstanding performance in the heptathlon, finishing second with 4,683 points. That performance was a 600-point improvement over last year's effort in the heptathlon, DeNoon said, calling Anderson's performance a "tremendous gain."

Anderson, a junior from Streamwood, achieved a total of four personal bests in the seven events she completed in. Her effort in the heptathlon earned her a spot on the all-time top-five performances list.

The Salukis also turned in a strong performance in the field events. In the discus, thrower Rhonda McCausland finished second with a 158-0 effort. She also finished second in the shot put, hitting a 49-11.5, less than a foot behind ex-SIU-C athlete Connie Price, who participated in the meet as an unattached athlete.

McCausland, a senior from Valparaiso, Ind., also took fifth in the javelin, with a throw of 136-0. Freshman Audra Corson took fourth in the event with a 136-2.

In the open high jump, Anderson placed fourth with a 5-6 effort. Christiana Philippou and Jenna DeMattei turned in solid performances in the long jump, with Philippou moving to the No. 4 position on the all-time top-five performances list for her 19-0 jump. DeMattei, a freshman from Marion, achieved a personal best of 16.7.

Sue Anderson

The Salukis experienced an upset in the sprints when star runner Denise Blackman was eclipsed by the competition in the 100-meter dash. Blackman, a senior from St. George, Barbados, finished fourth in the event with a time of 12.37.

DeNoon blamed Blackman's subpar performance on a poor start. "She was out of it from the beginning," he said. Although Blackman was able to pick up some lost time, DeNoon said "she didn't have enough room. The race wasn't long enough."

In the longer runs, sophomore Amy Marker took fifth in the 10,000-meter with a time of 37 minutes, 58.5 seconds. The effort was a one minute improvement over Marker's lifetime best and earned her a slot on the all-time top-five performances list.

Also turning in a solid performance in the runs was Vivian Sinou, who placed fifth in the 1500-meter with a time of 4:38.5, also earning her a slot on the top-five all-time bests list.

In the hurdles, Felicia Veal, a sophomore from Saginaw, Mich., placed fifth in the 100-meter hurdles with a 14.81 effort. Veal also placed fifth in the 400 hurdles, turning in a time of 63.94.

In the relays, Dora Kyriacou, Carlon and Denise Blackman, and Angie Nunn teamed up to turn in a second-place performance in the 1600-meter relay with a time of 3:39.03.

The performance in the 1600-meter was just two seconds shy of the national qualifying time for the event.

The same team turned in a third-place performance in the 800-meter relay, achieving a new team record with its 1:36.50 effort.

In the 400-meter shuttle hurdle relay, Veal, Anderson, Natalie Tyus and Kathy Raske combined to turn in a second-place performance for the Salukis with a 60.1.

Brenda Beatty, Darcie Stinson, Raske and Denise Blackman teamed up to finish fourth in the 400-meter relay, with a team record of 46.72.

Men tracksters 'very mediocre,' with 2nd at SEMO, Cornell says

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

Saluki men's track coach Bill Cornell described his team's performance as "very mediocre" last weekend in the fifth annual SEMOTION Relays at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

The SEMOTION Relays marked the second time this season that the Salukis failed to record a first-place finish in a regular season meet.

"There was tough competition in this meet," Cornell said. "It's always nice to have individual first-place efforts but in these big, relay meets it is pretty common not to get them."

Alabama dominated the non-scored meet, winning 11 out of 23 events.

Cornell said his top two performers in the meet were weightman Ron Harrer and middle-distance runner Andrew Pettigrew.

Harrer, a sophomore from Arthur, finished fourth in the discus (184-9) and fifth in the hammer (169-8), setting personal bests in both events.

Harrer's performance in the discus put him second behind former Saluki Stan Podolski (187-9) on the all-time school list.

"Ron is just doing a super job and is getting better every week," Cornell said. "He deserves the success he is enjoying because he pays the price in practice."

Harrer also added a fifth-place finish in the javelin with a 187-9.5 effort.

Pettigrew, a sophomore from Maidenhead, England, finished third in the 1500-meter run with a time of three minutes, 45.96 seconds.

Cornell said Pettigrew led throughout the entire race with the exception of the last 200 meters.

Ron Harrer

Andrew Pettigrew

"Pettigrew wanted to qualify for nationals but nobody would take command of that race," Cornell said. "But that was a pretty good time considering he set his own pace. I think there is no doubt he is going to qualify for nationals if he gets in the right race."

The Salukis' other third-place finish was turned in by the 6400-meter relay team of freshmen David Beauchem, Darren Christy, Jim Childers, and Jobie Kelly, who combined for a time of 17:29.1.

SIU-C added a fifth-place finish in the sprint medley relay. The quartet of Larry Holloway, Tim Mayhorn, Connor Mason, and Bret Garrett combined for a time of 3:25.49.

Adding sixth-place finishes for the Salukis were Bill Henning in the decathlon; Christy in the 3000-meter steeplechase; and the 3200-meter relay team.

According to Cornell, Henning, who scored 5,885 points in the decathlon, might have scored more if he hadn't sprained his ankle halfway through the competition.

Christy had a personal best 9:51.14 in the steeplechase and the 3200-meter relay team of Beauchem, Childers, Kelly, and Gerard Horan combined for a time of 7:58.3.

Also competing in the meet were former Saluki stars Tom Smith and Michael Franks.

Smith, competing unattached, won the hammer competition with a 181-8 effort. Franks, representing the Athletic West Track Club, finished second in the 200-meter dash at 21.2.

The Salukis return to action next weekend.

Softball squad opens GCAC play, wins 2 of 4

By Steve Merritt
Sports Editor

The Saluki softball team opened up its 1986 Gateway schedule by splitting a pair of weekend twinbills with Western Illinois and Bradley.

On Saturday, the Salukis faced preseason conference favorite Bradley in Peoria and were no-hit in the first game by Braves' hurler Beth Hawkins. SIU-C pitcher Lori Day allowed just one run on two hits, but in tossing her third no-hitter of the season, Hawkins picked up the 1-0 win to go 12-4.

Saluki coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said it was a tough game for her freshman pitcher to lose, adding that it was a great performance against the "best pitcher in the state and one of the best in the nation." Hawkins was the Gateway's most valuable player last season.

In the second game, Saluki slinger Lisa Peterson threw a six-hit shutout while shortstop Jenny Shupryt went 2-for-3 and scored two runs in a 3-0 win.

The split left Bradley 4-2 in conference play and 17-7 overall.

On Friday at Western Illinois, the Salukis split once again, losing the first game 3-2 and coming back to take the second game 3-1.

The Salukis were down 1-0 in the second game in the sixth inning, but catcher Kelly Fox hit a base-clearing triple with two outs to get the game-winning hit.

With Peterson picking up two wins and Day getting two losses, the Saluki hurlers now stand at 5-5 and 4-5, respectively.

Brechtelsbauer said she was happy with the split at Bradley and that overall, it was a good weekend for the team.

"We were really struggling last week," Brechtelsbauer said. "All in all, I'm pleased with the weekend and especially the split with Bradley."

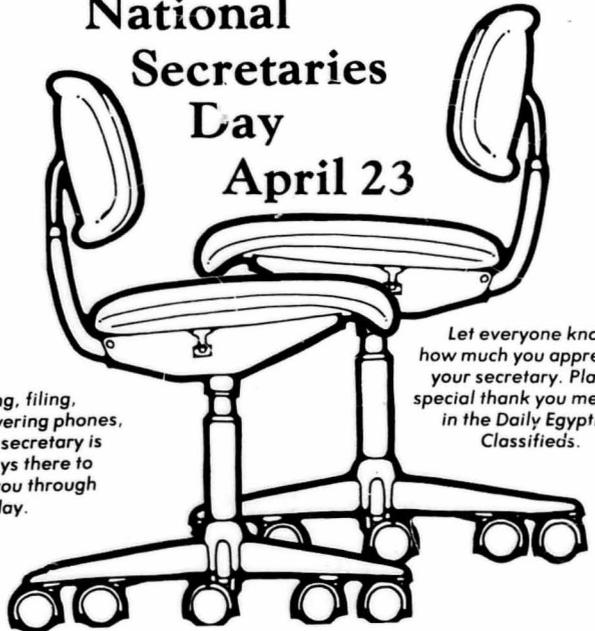

The Salukis have an 11-day break from action now, a rest that Brechtelsbauer called well-deserved.

"The time off is really needed - it'll give us a chance to catch our breath," Brechtelsbauer said. The 19-year mentor added that the break would give the players a rest mentally and let them catch up on studies.

"We'll have a good, hard week of practice and work on some problem areas," Brechtelsbauer said.

The Salukis, 2-2 in Gateway play and 9-11 overall, will next play on April 16, when they travel to Cape Girardeau, Mo., for a 5 p.m. twinbill with Southeast Missouri State University. After that non-conference matchup, the Salukis will resume conference action, with weekend home games scheduled with Northern Iowa and Drake on April 18 and 19.

On the uneven bars, all the gymnasts hit their routines except one, but only one Saluki placed in the top 10. Spillman notched a seventh-place finish with a score of 9.25, while freshman Cheri Crosby placed 23rd with an 8.75.

The balance beam, which has been an obstacle for the Salukis all season, was "a disaster for almost every team," said Vogel. The highest scoring Saluki gymnasts were Steele (19th) and Spillman (29th).

SPILLMAN managed to place in the top 10 in floor exercises, one of her strongest events. She took seventh place with a 9.30 score while senior teammate Steele performed a "very good routine," according to Vogel, but only placed 16th with a score of 9.15.

In all-around competition, Spillman scored her second-best score of the season (36.65) to take seventh while Steele finished in 18th place with a score of 35.85. Crosby placed 23rd in her first collegiate regional competition, scoring a 34.95. Maggi Nidiffer rounded out the Salukis' all-around scoring, taking 26th place (34.20).

SPILLMAN now has a national all-around qualifying score of 36.6067, which gives her a slim chance of qualifying as an individual for the NCAA Women's Gymnastics Championships. Spillman has a 40-percent chance of qualifying, Vogel said. The results from the other regions are not in yet, so it is not known if the gymnasts will compete again this season.

THIS MEET was the last for the SIU-C women gymnasts, as the program will be dropped at the end of the fiscal year. The other five teams at the regional meet were informed of this decision, and as a result, much of the conversation between the gymnasts and the coaches concerned the situation.

Vogel said that although the team had planned on going into the meet as if there was no problem, he admitted that the administration's decision probably did affect the team.

COACHES FROM some of the other teams talked to Spillman about recruiting, but Vogel said that LSU seemed to be especially interested in obtaining her for their program.

The team went into the meet with a glimmer of hope that the program might be saved, Vogel said, but when they found out that their peers knew about the decision, "they knew it was the end of the line."

Jones' homer in the third brought the Salukis to within one. The Bluejays, however, got back their two-run lead with a Gadsden walk and Tim Osgood's RBI double off the center field wall.

SIU-C trailed by one in the fifth with Finley's leadoff triple and Gerald Pitchford's RBI single, and Chuck Vershoore drove home Robert Jones with a single to tie the game at five.

The Salukis loaded the bases with one out in the bottom of the seventh, but failed to score when Hall was retired on an infield fly and Hillmann flew out to left.

With two out in the eighth, Servais reached base on Burch's second overthrown error of the game. Taking advantage of the extra opportunity, Ed Blanco smashed a line drive down the third base line that just dropped a few feet fair of the foul pole for the heartbreaking, game-winning home run.

Before being the goat of the second game, Jay Burch was the hero of the first, as he hit the game-winning two-run homer while Dale Kisten struck out five for his fourth victory in as many decisions.

In the first Saturday game, SIU-C held a slim 5-4 lead in the top of the seventh, led by Tim McKinley's three RBI on two doubles. Leadoff hitter Mike Barbatto hit a hot grounder which handcuffed second baseman Chuck Vershoore for an error.

With two out, Osgood walked and Servais hit single down the first base line in shallow right field which fell between two infielders and Robert Jones, tying the game.

After that, left fielder Gerald Pitchford watched helplessly as Ed Blanco's three-run homer sailed over the fence for the game-winner.

In the second game on Saturday, Robert Jones hit an RBI single to tie the game at 1-1 in the first inning and drilled a bases-loaded double down the left field line for three more for the fifth and final run of the eventual victory. David Henley was awarded his first win of the year and Larry Beattie got the save.

Gymnasts 7th at NCAAs with two All-Americans

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

The SIU men's gymnastics team went into NCAA competition this weekend ranked seventh and came out the same way, with a score of 278.00.

The Salukis also placed three gymnasts in individual competition, two of which were named All-Americans.

Juniors Mark Ulmer and Preston Knauf qualified for individual competition on the still rings and vault, respectively. Northern Illinois University transfer Tom Glielmi qualified for individuals on the floor exercises.

Knauf scored a 9.525 in the vaulting finals to place third. Ulmer took sixth place in rings with a score of 9.55. Glielmi just missed sharing All-American honors with his teammates by finishing seventh in floor exercises with a score of 9.50.

Ulmer and Knauf have been performing well throughout the season and both have competed in NCAA Championships, but Glielmi has only competed in floor exercises seven times for the Salukis. The Salukis' fourth trip to national competition is only the first for Glielmi.

The top three teams in the competition were Arizona State University (first place with a score of 283.90), host University of Nebraska (283.60 for second place) and Stanford University with a third place score of 279.50.

Gymnasts take sixth at regionals

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

The Saluki women's gymnastics team "went out looking good" by finishing in sixth place (177.55) at the regional meet in Baton Rouge, La., Coach Herb Vogel said.

The University of Alabama, the favorite to win the competition, finished in second place on Saturday behind Louisiana State University in the six-team field. Both teams' scores, 185.25 for LSU and 185.05 for Alabama, mark the first time that the winner of regional competition has scored in 1985, Vogel said.

SINCE LSU won the meet, it will automatically advance to national competition. Alabama will also advance to NCAA competition, but as a wild card, because of the team's high qualifying score of 187.11. The national meet will be held in Gainesville, Fla., April 18-19.

Vogel said that this year's regional meet was one of the best competitions he has seen in years. The competition was tougher, the talent was better and the scoring was higher, he said.

Third place went to Michigan State University, which Vogel called "the most improved team in the region." Indiana State University and the University of Missouri grabbed fourth and fifth places.

THE SALUKIS started the meet on the vault, where Michelle Spillman and Lori Steele again led the team. Vogel said that both gymnasts performed their best vaults of the season, with Spillman grabbing third place with a 9.50 and Steele scoring a 9.35 for 12th.

Salukis split four-game series with Bluejays

By Ron Warnick
Staff Writer

It was once again a mixed bag for the can't-be-consistent baseball Salukis, as they split a four-game series against the Creighton Bluejays over the weekend.

Dale Kisten twirled a four-hitter for a 5-1 win in the first game Sunday, while the Dogs gave the second contest away for a 7-5 loss in extra innings, committing three errors for five unearned runs.

On Saturday, SIU-C, with the help of an infield error, blew a one-run lead in the last inning of the first game for an 8-5 downer. Fueled by Robert Jones' four runs batted in, the Salukis took the second game 5-2.

The Dogs' record stands at 18-10-1 overall and began the Missouri Valley Conference season with a 2-2 record.

"It's going to be hard in the Missouri Valley Conference if you start out at .500. I don't think we have the killer instinct to put teams away," coach Richard "Itchy" Jones said.

"We had them by the leg in those four games, and we let two get away," outfielder Robert Jones said.

Robert Jones tied Chuck Curry's Saluki record of 27 career home runs in the second game Sunday with a slightly wind-blown solo shot over the left field fence in the third inning.

But he had a rough day, driving in just one run and striking out three times in the twinbill.

"I was a little unselective at the plate today. I didn't make good contact," he said.

"Itchy" Jones felt the same way about the team as a whole, especially in the second Sunday contest when 13 runners were left stranded on base.

"I was very disappointed with the offense. I did not think we were very productive this weekend," he said.

Starter Robb Osborne ran into trouble early with two singles and a walk which scored a Bluejay run. Eddie Ortega hit a double play grounder, but shortstop Jay Burch nearly beamed a Hill Gang spectator when he threw the third out over first baseman Jim Limperis' head, scoring another run.

"When you throw the ball high, you have a tendency to drop your arm. Normally, he's a very accurate thrower," Coach Jones said.

Scott Fervais doubled off the left field wall for the third and last run of the inning, two which were unearned.

SIU-C spat back with two runs in the same inning, brought on by a dropped infield fly hit by Charlie Hillemann and Steve Finley's subsequent line drive home run over the left field fence.

Saluki third sacker Joe Hall's over-throw, followed by Chris Gadsden's infield single produced another Bluejay run for a 4-2 lead in the second.

Men netters take loss to defending MVC champ Wichita

By Martin Folan
Staff Writer

Another mark was scratched in the Saluki men tennis team's loss column Saturday by Wichita State, defending MVC champions, in an 8-1 defeat at a three-team meet last weekend with Memphis State.

Saluki No. 1 singles player

Per Wadmark, defending MVC champion, lost a poorly played match against WSU's Jeremy Grubi, 6-4 and 6-4.

Wadmark, a serve-and-volley player, felt he didn't play his own game Saturday. "I stayed at the baseline too much," he said. "I wasn't playing well enough to get up to the net, and I wasn't hitting my strokes well."

Wadmark said there were no surprises in the match. "It was just a matter of whoever plays best wins."

Wadmark still feels confident about defending his MVC title, even if he plays Grubi in a rematch.

Saluki No. 5 singles player Fabiano Ramos scored the only point for the team by defeating John Thorpe, 4-6, 6-3 and 7-5.

Ramos and Juan Martinez, No. 6 singles player for SIU-C, took their opponents three sets and nearly scored a second victory at No. 3 doubles but lost, 3-6, 6-3 and 6-4.

Memphis State lost to Wichita State Sunday morning, but a showing of poor sports conduct on the court by WSU's Grubi left question in the minds of opponents about the worth the team's MVC title.

"Grubi's language was so bad that his coach took him out of doubles competition," Saluki coach Dick LeFevre said.

False start lands men swimmers in 17th place

After two days of tearing up the water and climbing the point ladder from 15th to 14th with season-best performances in Indianapolis, Ind., the Saluki men swimmers' chances for a Top-10 finish at the NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships looked promising.

But when the time came on Saturday for the 400-yard freestyle relay, which was expected to reel in crucial points, a dark cloud situated itself over the Salukis and cut loose a torrential blow of bad luck — the quartet was disqualified for a false start in prelims, and the team ended up with a 17th-place overall finish with 49 points.

For the second year in a row, Stanford clearly dominated the meet, scoring 404 points, whereas from second through fourth places a point war raged. California-Berkeley was second with 335, Texas was third with 325.5 and Florida took fourth with 321. UCLA rounded out the top five with 288.

Seinor Gary Brinkman, one of two point netters in Saturday's events, made a 10th-place showing in the 1650 free with a season-best 15:09.22. Anders Grillhammar and Erwin Kratz, also in the 1650, did not make the top 16.

In his first NCAA meet, Alex Yokoichi finished the 200 breaststroke in 13th place with a 2:01.93.

Junior Tom Hakanson sprinted to a :44.69 in the 100 free, however failed to qualify for finals on Saturday.

On Thursday evening, SIU-C scored 19 points with season-best performances by all Salukis, to start the team off in 15th place.

Brinkman earned All-American honors with a fifth-place, 4:18.79 showing in the 500 free, and Grillhammar, although hitting a season-best swim in the 500 of 4:25.69, did not edge into the top 16 for finals.

In the 50 free, Hakanson qualified for 13th place in prelims with a :20.33, but ended up in 16th with a :20.55.

The 400-medley relay team of Giovanna Frigo, Gustavo Torrijos, Gerhard Van Der Walt and Hakanson finished 15th with a 4:20.17. In prelims, the team hit its season best with a 3:20.00.

On Friday, Van Der Walt and the 800-freestyle relay chalked up enough points to hike the Salukis' team standing up to 14th with 38 points.

Van Der Walt stroked to 10th in the 100 butterfly with a :48.50, and the 800-free relay team took 11th with a season best of 6:33.03.
