Reputed drug baron in local prison

By Edward Rahe
Staff Writer
and UPI

Reputed Colombian drug baron Jaun Ramon Matta-Ballesteros, a key suspect in the torture-murder of a U.S. drug enforcement agent, arrived Wednesday morning at the federal penitentiary in Marion.

Matta was arrested by Honduran police Tuesday morning in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, and placed on a flight to the Dominican Republic, where he was turned over to U.S. Marshals. He was taken to New York on a commercial flight and then spirited off to Marion.

Matta is suspected of killing Enrique Camarena, an agent of the Drug Enforcement Administration, outside Guadalajara, Mexico, in 1985.

George Wilson, executive assistant to the warden at Marion, said that Matta was temporarily placed in the prison's administrative detention unit. Marion is the most secure federal prison in the country.

Matta's expulsion from the Dominican Republic was based on a federal warrant for Matta's 1971 escape from the Egin Federal Prison Camp in Florida, where he was serving a five year sentence for illegally entering the United States and using a fraudulent passport, U.S. Marshals said. Justice Department officials said a Tegucigalpa judge ordered Matta's arrest. According to a report by NBC news, Matta is believed to be worth about $2 billion and was protected by Honduran military officials. He reportedly moved to Honduras after paying $2 million in bribes to get out of a Colombian prison.

However, NBC said, Honduran military officials became embarrassed by Matta's presence after news reports about his operations, and wanted to show there were "no Noriegas" in their country, a reference to Panamanian strongman Manuel Noriega. Noriega was indicted this year by two Florida grand juries on federal drug charges.

Steve Boyle, a spokesman for the U.S. Marshals, said that "Matta emerged as the major cocaine trafficker in the United States" and that he far surpassed cocaine kingpin Carlos Lehder in the volume and value of the cocaine he trafficked.

DEA officials said Wednesday Matta faces criminal drug charges in Los Angeles, Phoenix and New York. Authorities now are weighing which of the three pending indictments will take precedence and determine where Matta would be moved for a probable court hearing. The officials said they expect a decision to be made by early next week.

Library will not pay fine

The Carbondale Fire Department will not fine Morris Library for violations of state fire codes, Fire Chief Everett Rushing said Wednesday.

The library is violating the codes by having boxes of books stacked near doorways and in its corridors.

No student workers or library staff have moved the boxes to other parts of the library, Suzanne Baulieu, library staff member, said.

The boxes are not preventing or impairing movement, University safety officer John Meister said.

The boxes will not be moved until Monday morning. "The McLafferty (Road) library storage facility is not ready because paint still is drying and some electrical work needs to be done," Allen Haake, Physical Plant supervising engineer, said.

RAC: 3 rapes reported in six days

By John Mohler
Staff Writer

Three rapes have been reported to the Rape Action Committee in Carbondale in the last six days, a number that RAC coordinator Juli Claussen said is "kind of scary" when compared to last year's average of four rapes reported each month.

RAC received eight rape reports last month, compared to five reports received in March 1987. Three of the rapes reported in March occurred on the SIUC campus or involved University students, Claussen said.

Claussen said the monthly average of reported rapes also has increased in the last few years from three in 1986 to "five or six" in 1988.

She attributed the increase to a higher number of rapes being committed, as well as to an increased willingness on the part of victims to report and discuss rapes.

Carbondale also has a substantial number of women between 16 and 21 years of age, the group most often sexually assaulted according to national statistics, Claussen said.

Claussen said while RAC encourages victims to report rapes to the police, "increased (police) patrols may not help" because 80 to 90 percent of rapes occur between acquaintances.

"The stranger-jumping-out-of-the-woods rape isn't what's happening," Claussen told a Daily Egyptian reporter in 1987.

To deal with the increasing occurrence of "date rape," RAC is coordinating with the Program of Rape Education and Prevention and the

Hijackers free 57 hostages

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Gunmen who hijacked a Kuwaiti airliner demanding the release of 17 jailed extremists in Kuwait freed 32 more hostages Wednesday night but said their remaining captives would be treated as "political prisoners," the official Iranian news agency said.

The release brought the number of hostages set free to 57 since the Kuwaiti Airways jet with 112 people aboard was forced to land at the Mashad airport, 500 miles east of Tehran near the Afghan and Soviet borders. Fifty-five people remained aboard and it was thought between five and 10 of them were hijackers.

The hostages remaining included three members of the Kuwaiti royal family.

In a statement issued minutes before the release last Wednesday, IRNA reported that the hijackers said, "The other passengers will remain hostage and will be considered political prisoners and thus treated... to settle our account with the Kuwaiti government."

The 32 passengers were released at 11 p.m. and included two flight crew members, a Sudanese and a Yemenese, the Islamic

Panama calls for arrest of Delvalle

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — The government Wednesday ordered the arrest of deposed President Eric Arturo Delvalle for promoting U.S. economic sanctions aimed at forcing Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega from power.

Assistant Federal Prosecutor Alvaro Visuetti said on government television his office had issued arrest warrants for Delvalle, as well as Panamanian Ambassador to the United States Juan B. Sosa and Gabriel Lewis Galindo, a prominent opposition businessman living in Washington.

Delvalle, ousted Feb. 26 by the Noriega-controlled National Assembly after he tried to fire the military strongman, last month asked U.S. courts to freeze Panamanian government assets held in U.S. banks, sparking a cash crisis that has shut down the country's banking system since March 3. Recognized by the United States as the legitimate leader of Panama, Delvalle has been in hiding since his ouster.

Sosa, speaking by telephone from the Panamanian Embassy in Washington, said, "I knew it was coming. According to Noriega I'm a traitor to the country."

"I haven't done anything wrong," he said. "All I've done is oppose him."

He also denied rumors that Delvalle was contemplating giving himself up. "I talked to him today and he vowed to stay until Gen. Noriega is gone."

Asked if he was worried about the arrest order, Sosa laughed and said, "If the United States cannot extradite him (Noriega), he certainly can't extradite me."

The United States has sought to topple Noriega, the Panamanian Defense Forces chief and de facto leader of the

Shultz commends efforts of Hussein towards peace

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz praised Wednesday the Middle East peace efforts of Jordan's King Hussein but pointedly refrained from mentioning Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, an opponent of the U.S. peace plan. In a departure statement before continuing his Middle East peace mission, Shultz also pleaded for Israeli acceptance of the peace plan he has been pushing on a five-nation shuttle.

Beirut 'or key city in Lebanon leaves 16 dead

NABATIYEH, Lebanon (UPI) — Fierce fighting between pro-Syrian Shiite Amal militiamen and the Iranian-backed Hezbollah left at least 16 combatants dead and another 27 wounded in two days of fighting, security sources said Wednesday. Scores of residents fled Nabatiyeh as the rival groups fought for control of the town, 33 miles southeast of Beirut. The battle for Nabatiyeh followed a seven-hour encounter described as the fiercest fighting between the two groups in their six-year struggle for control of south Lebanon.

Carlucci in Pakistan discussing arms sales

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci arrived in Pakistan Wednesday to discuss regional security issues and the delivery of more F-16 jet fighters under a $4.02 billion U.S. aid package for Washington's staunch ally in west Asia, officials said. Carlucci arrived in Islamabad after a visit to India where Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi expressed concern over Pakistan's efforts to build up a large arsenal of sophisticated weapons with U.S. aid.

U.S. receives large number of MIA remains

HANOI, Vietnam (UPI) — Vietnam turned over to the United States Wednesday remains believed to be those of 27 Americans missing during the Indochina War. It was the largest single repatriation of possible MIA bodies. Also returned were such items as dog tags and identification cards relating to still unresolved cases of Americans missing in action in the war. The Pentagon says 1,767 Americans are missing in Vietnam and 627 others in other Southeast Asian countries.

White House says Delvalle not disenchanted

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — The White House Wednesday brushed off a report that Eric Delvalle has threatened to abandon his presidency-in-hiding if Panamanian military ruler Manuel Antonio Noriega does not step down soon. Spokesman Martin Fitzwater said the White House is unaware that Delvalle is unhappy with present U.S. policy, as reported by The Los Angeles Times. The newspaper, quoting unnamed sources, said Delvalle is disenchanted with U.S. policy because it has failed to result Noriega's ouster.

Mecham vows to be re-elected in recall vote

PHOENIX (UPI) — Former Gov. Evan Mecham vowed Wednesday to use a scheduled recall election to run again for governor, while the Arizona Senate formally adjourned its historic impeachment trial by awarding Mecham $202,433.75 to pay his legal fees. "I can win it again," Mecham said. Although Mecham said he would run in the recall election if he could get on the ballot, State Elections Officer Jim Shumway said Wednesday he has ordered that ballots be printed without Mecham's name.

Jury has one verdict in supremacists' case

FORT SMITH, Ark. (UPI) — The jury in the government's trial against 13 alleged white supremacists for seditious conspiracy and plotting to assassinate federal officials reported Wednesday it had reached a verdict on one of the counts but was deadlocked on the others. U.S. District Court Judge Morris S. Arnold then told the jury to return to deliberations to try again to reach an agreement on the other counts. Arnold has said no verdict would be read until the jury has finished with all counts.

Surrogate mother of Baby M wins visitations

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead Gould may bring Baby M into her home for unsupervised visits, but must accept a subordinate role in raising the little girl she signed away and then tried to reclaim, a judge ruled Wednesday. The judge granted Whitehead Gould a "liberal" schedule of visitation with her daughter, including one six-hour unsupervised visit each week beginning immediately and three visits every two weeks beginning in six months.

Students' privacy, parking dominate candidate's list

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

Stephanie Bedinger wants to increase student participation and involvement in student government.

Bedinger, 20, a junior in marketing, is the Stand Party candidate for vice president of the Undergraduate Student Organization.

Bedinger said the Stand Party is democratic and is working as a team on a platform which includes the following categories:

Student service aims:

—Making better use of available parking space. An idea submitted in a letter to the Daily Egyptian suggested that some spaces could be designed for compact cars, which includes about 35 percent of the cars on campus, Bedinger said. If 35 percent of the spaces were made to fit only compact cars, space in each lot would be increased by 11 percent, she said.

Bedinger said the parking division had told her that some lots are repainted during the summer. This would be a good time to repaint them for compact cars, she said.

—Increasing the amount of child care available to University students.

Student rights planks:
—Protecting students' right to privacy at the doors of Mae Smith, Schneider and Neely halls. Freshmen and sophomores are required to live on campus and are searched almost every time they enter the residence halls, Bedinger said.

The University should stop violating the students' civil rights or make sure students are aware of the searching procedure before they sign a housing contract, Bedinger said. Searches also should be consistent, she said.

—Establishing a student worker bill of rights, which would include flexible working hours, overtime pay for working more than 20 hours a week, grievance rights, and a safe and healthy work environment. Students also would have to be given notice and cause for discharge and should not have to perform personal tasks for supervisors.

Student safety goals:

—Making the campus safe after dark. Changing the priorities of the Saluki Patrol would be a good start, Bedinger said. Sometimes the patrol members will congregate and talk while on patrol, Bedinger said.

In one case, a woman who was walking alone at night through Thompson Woods had to ask patrol members to escort her, Bedinger said. They shouldn't have to be asked to do their job, she added.

—Promoting the use of the Night Safety van and Women's Transit and keeping the Brightway Path lights in good repair also will promote safety, she said.

—Repairing the Recreation Center gym floor.

Academic goals:

—Enhancing the Black American Studies program. "We feel the black American culture has had a huge impact on American society and SIU-C should recognize this as an important factor in our education," Bedinger said.

—Providing tolerable classroom testing environments.

—Mandating instructor evaluations for all classes. All the instructors should have to be evaluated, not just the ones who want to, Bedinger said.

—Including instructor evaluations in the schedule of classes. This way students would know what kind of teacher to expect before enrolling in the course, Bedinger said.

Other issues:

—Establishing evening practice locations for musicians.

—Establishing more study areas.

—Involving dorm councils with the USO.

—Extending Morris Library's hours.

Bedinger said the Stand Party motto is "We promise never to play golf with the administrators," because the party works for students.

Debate team wins third championship

By Steven Starke
Staff Writer

There's no debate about it.

The SIU-C debate team proved its No. 1 ranking by claiming its third straight national championship last weekend.

The team defeated 240 teams at the Cross Examination Debate Association national finals at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Teammates Mark West and John Lapham were the winners at the four-day tournament, defeating Kansas State University in the final round.

"It was an incredible tournament," West said. "It was the most difficult one of the year and it was a full team effort."

Jeffrey T. Bile, debate team coach, said, "We have some very bright students and we won because we have a debate squad that works together." Bile was named Barkley Forum Coach of the Year earlier this year by Emory University in Atlanta, Ga.

In addition to clinching the national championship, the squad also won the separate national championship tournament event, won the debate association's Founders' Award for cumulative success, and placed four members among the top seven individual speakers in the tournament.

West was named first speaker of the tournament from among 480 students who competed. Teammate M. Scott Parsons placed fourth, Mike Korcok placed sixth and Brian R. McGee, seventh.

SIU-C won the tournament based on points accumulated from their six best performances during the 1987-88 season. The University of California at Los Angeles finished second.

Hammond's court date set

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

The case of music professor William Hammond, who sued the Board of Trustees in federal court charging that he was unfairly denied tenure, will go to court June 6.

Steven Yokich, the attorney representing Hammond, said he tried to reach a settlement Monday at a status conference in which both sides in the suit discussed their case.

But Shari Rhode, chief trial attorney for University Legal Counsel, said the settlement Yokich was seeking was the same thing he was seeking by taking the matter to court.

Yokich asked to have Hammond's case heard by a jury, but said he was considering having a judge hear the case because that would be quicker and less expensive.

Hammond filed suit in federal court Jan. 27. Hammond's employment at the University will end this semester unless he gets tenure.

Summer school: class dismissed

STUDENTS WHO PLAN to attend summer school at SIU-C may be in for a surprise. Budgetary problems have made it necessary to drop several courses, some of which are necessary in various majors, from the schedule of classes.

Budget woes are nothing new on campus, and the majority of current students won't be attending school this summer, but that's no excuse for the wholesale cuts being made on the curriculum.

It's understandable that summer school can't offer as much diversity as the spring and fall slates, but the classes selected for elimination raise questions.

THE DEPARTMENT OF Philosophy, for example, requires Philosophy 304, Ancient Philosophy, for all its students. But a section of that course has been scratched because of a shortage of funds. So has Existential Philosophy and Special Problems.

That leaves the Department of Philosophy with only four classes of the seven that are listed in the summer schedule. And three of those are 500 level or higher.

The political science department is being forced to cut PS 340, Introduction to Public Administration, and one or two more classes yet to be determined.

THE DEPARTMENT OF English had to cut courses this summer. It isn't offering all twelve originally listed in the summer schedule. In addition to a funding problem, no professor is available for English 426, American Poetry to 1900.

Summer school has been a tradition here for decades, and we hope it can continue to be. But if the budgetary blues chop important classes from the schedule and continue surprising students with disappearing curriculums, maybe the prudent thing to do would be to re-evaluate the wisdom of having summer school at all.

Opinions from elsewhere

The Milwaukee Journal

Sen. Bob Dole's elimination from the presidential campaign is regrettable. Had Dole managed to remain in the race to the end, even without getting the nomination, he could have contributed significantly to the campaign discourse.

That's not to say he should have doggedly pressed his candidacy after defeat became inevitable. Nor do we want to imply that Dole's departure created a major philosophical void in the Republican column.

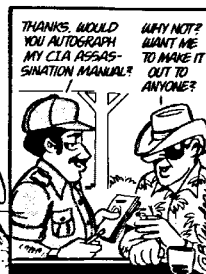

Yet (Bush and Dole) are not peas in a pod. Dole shows a greater awareness that the needs of the poor should not be ignored and a greater sense of awareness about the budget deficit. Furthermore, Dole's ability to deal with Democrats in Congress is a matter of record. Bush's is speculative.

An even more significant difference is that Dole does not carry the baggage of the Reagan administration. We think Bush eventually will have to show some individuality if he hopes to win in November.

Giving blood really can save lives

This week we've been seeing the Red Cross insignia that tells us it is time to give blood again. I am constantly reminded about those people who truly need others for support. In many cases this support is in the form of giving blood.

At one time in my life, I needed such support, and I am forever indebted to those people who caringly and unselfishly donated their time and blood so I could have a second chance.

I was ill for six months before a doctor diagnosed my condition — total renal shutdown. Neither of my kidneys functioned any longer. During the time I was ill, I received over eight pints of blood to keep my red blood cell count high enough so I would not pass out.

The kidneys produce red blood cells and, without the cells, I could have become anemic enough to die. When the problem started I was only 16 years old and by the age of 17 the terror of death had come to me several times.

I was started on a renal dialysis unit (a kidney machine) that helped clean my blood and eight months later I received a transplant. I was lucky. But many people do not make it as far as I did because they do not get the help and support they need. I made it thanks to those people who gave for me.

I have worked with the Red Cross blood drive several times during my college career and I have heard all the excuses. Well... I have been there and, in my opinion, there are only bad excuses for not giving blood.

But there is a good reason to give blood: It may save someone's life! — Allen Goebel, senior aviation management.

Losers don't necessarily wear dresses

Since its inception, I've been following the Morris Library Two for Two campaign. The Battle for the Books competition is a great way to get graduate and undergraduate students involved in the improvement of our library, which, when properly used, is certainly the most academically necessary and useful facility on campus.

However, I think our graduate and undergraduate student leaders need to re-evaluate their view of what it is to be a loser. Apparently, the male president of the losing organization will wear a dress to the presentation of prizes during Springfest. Does the absurdity of male chauvinism still prevail, even among our respected leaders?

To me, dresses are obvious references to women, and to suggest that a loser wears a dress seems to suggest that women are... well, that women aren't exactly winners. Isn't belief in male-eminence, regardless of whether it is openly expressed or subtly implied, a little behind the times. I hypoos.

Obviously, the losing president is supposed to be degraded by wearing a dress to the ceremonies. In my opinion, however, both leaders have already degraded themselves and the contest with their intention to not only allow, but also take part in a public display of prejudice. Perhaps both the loser and the winner of the contest should show up at the presentation with their feet in their mouths.

— Jill Butler, sophomore, English.

Jackson's success has good and bad sides

This is the first time in American history that a black person has been a serious contender for a presidential election. That has its good points as well as its bad. On one hand, it shows how far we've come from the discrimination openly displayed 20 years ago. The bad part is that it shows how far we have yet to go. What I'm referring to can be called "the peer-pressured vote."

Many friends of mine don't care for the politics of Jesse Jackson, but they feel if they don't vote for him, they are letting down "the cause" of the American black people. It sounds a bit silly, but it is true. Even Mike Royko noted in Monday's column on Jackson that the Democrats are afraid to openly criticize Jackson for fear of being labeled racist.

It's a sad situation when a person is pressured to vote for or against someone because of the candidate's race, or when citizens cannot criticize a political candidate openly without being labeled racist. Have we really come a long way in the battle against racism and discrimination, or have we just complicated matters and switched colors? — Mark S. Jones, sophomore.

Student elections: get informed, involved and support mass transit

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

Student elections '88. The candidates are qualified. All the senate seats will be filled. The issues are controversial. One more thing is needed for a successful election—voters.

Here's my advice on how to cast your vote. First, find out who the candidates are in your district and support those you agree with. Second, support the mass transit referendum because it could benefit you.

Fewer than 900 students voted in last year's election and I will admit I was one of those who didn't. But this time I will. All of us should vote, after all, it's our education that we're really voting for.

Maybe all the students at SIU-C don't know what USO is or does or who is running and what they're running for. Here's a short lesson.

The USO is the Undergraduate Student Organization, our student government. It makes important decisions that affect the quality and cost of our education and it acts as a liaison between the students and the administration.

The USO is made up of senators who are elected from East Campus, Thompson Point, East Side (students living off-campus on the east side of the railroad tracks), West Side (students living off-campus on the west side of the railroad tracks), and all the colleges.

There are three parties running in this year's election. There are 69 candidates running for the 43 senate seats. Most seats are contested, and all will be filled.

There also are some important referendums on the ballot.

The referendum on the Illinois Student Association will ask students for a $1 refundable fee that would go toward operating the ISA, a statewide, student-run organization working to improve the quality of higher education.

The referendum for a mass transit system, if it passes, would probably have the most visible effect on students. For those of you who haven't seen the sheets of paper with buses on them taped all over campus and the Strip, or for those who have and still don't know what they're supposed to "vote yes" for, the referendum would support a $15 per semester mandatory fee for a mass transit system.

If the word mandatory scares you and you're thinking, "I'm not going to pay for something I'm not going to use," let me remind you of some other fees that I'm sure not all of you take advantage of. The Recreation Center fee, which recently was increased to build an addition that many of us will never get to use, is $39.75 per semester. The student activity fee, which goes to fund many events for students, is $9.55, and the athletic fee is $38.

Now, how many of you think mass transit would be worth the money? For those of you who still aren't convinced, let me alert you to what you would get for $15.

Students would have unlimited ridership on any route at any time. There could be as many as 15 routes and the system would operate about 18 hours a day. Routes not only would cover campus, but downtown, the mall and clinic areas, off-campus housing areas, and possibly such nearby communities as Carterville and Muryphysboro.

This system would be cheaper for students than driving a car or taking a cab to campus or buying a bike. In addition, we would have transportation to almost anywhere else in town.

For students who live on campus and don't have a car, this would mean not having to walk to the mall or pay a fortune for a cab. For those of us who have cars and are fed up with the parking system—need I say more?

In fact, the USO mass transit committee has discussed a park and ride system, where students could park in such distant regions as the Arena south parking lot and still get to class on time—yes, on time.

Even if the referendum passes, the fee must be approved by the SIU Board of Trustees, but a positive response to the referendum would show the Board that students see the need for a mass transit system, and would increase the chances of making it a reality.

I could go on with the benefits of a mass transit system, but I won't. I'll just say please vote in the USO and student trustee elections and please support mass transit.

You can vote on the second floor of the Student Center near the ticket office from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. on April 13. Bring your student ID.

Remember, you can make more than a difference.

Larry the Liberal says give Noriega the boot

My friend Larry the Liberal was mad, I could tell. He was slapping a rolled-up newspaper into the open palm of his free hand.

"It's a disgrace," he said, glaring a challenge to disagree. I didn't know what he was talking about, but I could guess. Attorney General Edwin Meese's aides had started quitting in embarrassment over their boss's legal problems the day before.

"You think he should quit, then?" I replied, with as much innocence as I could muster.

"Of course I think he should quit, the dirty crook. We've put up with him for too long now. I think the President should get him on the phone and say, 'Look pal, I know you've been useful in the past but you've become a burden I can no longer tolerate. Leave now or I send in the Marines.'"

"The Marines?"

"You betcha. I wouldn't fool around."

"The President isn't going to send Marines into the Justice Department; that's absurd."

"Who's talking about the Justice Department? I'm talking about Panama. I'm saying we shouldn't put up with a tinhorn like Manuel Noriega standing on the necks of people in Central America."

"But I thought you were against American intervention in the affairs of Central America."

"I am, usually, but when a drug thug like that is trying to hang on to power, using guns that we gave him, I think we have some responsibility to rescue the people we put at his mercy. Want to make something of it?"

"Not me. What about Meese?"

"I think he should stay on if he wants to."

"What? You, the quintessential liberal, siding with Ed Meese?"

"If a liberal believes anything, it's that a person is innocent until proved guilty. I don't think you should be able to drive someone from office by charging that he did something wrong. You should have to prove it on him."

"But aren't you the guy who called Meese the worst attorney general in our history?"

"Yeah, but I forgot about John Mitchell. That's not the point, though. The point is, if you can do it to Meese, you can do it to anyone."

"What about the morale problem at the Justice Department? Everyone's quitting. People are writing 'RESIGN' on the walls of the corridors."

"That's a different issue. If it turns out that he's lost control of his department and can't run it effectively he should be fired, just like any other incompetent. That's the President's decision. I wouldn't be stamped into doing it by the resignation of a few middle-level bureaucrats, though."

"So you think the President is right in standing up for him?"

"It's one of the few things I like about Ronald Reagan, his loyalty. He doesn't forget his friends, even when the heat's on. One of the worst things I know about Mike Dukakis is the way he dumped his campaign adviser when the guy was caught squealing on Joe Biden. This was a man who'd been with him for years, his right hand. And he hadn't even done anything wrong. The wolves get on him and Dukakis gets rid of him."

"George Bush is loyal."

"Bush is loyal to his master; you can get that from a cocker spaniel. Reagan is loyal to people who depend on him. I like that."

"By the way, who are you going to vote for in the fall?"

"The loser, I suppose. I usually do."

USO lends support to hike income taxes for education

By Susan Curtiss
Staff Writer

The Undergraduate Student Organization voted to support a state tax increase for Illinois education Wednesday night.

The joint resolution from USO and the Graduate and Professional Student Council stated that Illinois is tied for last with West Virginia in terms of percentage increase in state tax appropriations for higher education over the past 10 years.

The resolution also stated that Gov. James R. Thompson's budget proposal for higher education in 1989 provides buying power equal to the higher education budget of 18 years ago.

In other business the USO voted to:

—Place the USO name change as a referendum on the student election ballot April 13. The USO committee on internal affairs recommended that the name be changed to the Undergraduate Student Government.

—Place a polling place referendum on the election ballot. The referendum will read "should the SIU-C student government hold elections with polling places located in more than one building on campus."

—Support the USO-sponsored Better Book Sale. USO and the American Marketing Association have provided an alternative for students to sell their books for more money and purchase their books at a lower cost.

The book sale formerly was known as the book co-op and has been an ongoing project for the past few years.

—Table a bill to amend the USO constitution to remove the 2.0 grade point average as a requirement for senators.

Wellness Center in an educational campaign aimed at males and females on campus, Claussen said.

The campaign will consist of advertisements to teach preventive measures to women and to dispel fallacies held by many men, Claussen said. Some men may be confused by "the wrong information from their peers, like the myth that 'no means yes,'" she added.

"We have an on-going educational program year-round, but we'll make a concerted push in April" to help curb the number of rapes during Springfest, Claussen said.

Four rapes were reported during the 1987 Springfest weekend.

The Rape Action Committee offers counseling and assistance to rape victims and their friends and families. The group is affiliated with the Women's Center at 408 W. Freeman St.

The RAC was established in 1974. It serves Jackson, Williamson, Perry, Franklin and Union counties.

Claussen said RAC receives "probably three-fourths" of its reports from Jackson county. This is because RAC's services are more widely known in Jackson County, she said.

The government's move to arrest Delvalle came as a U.S. helicopter task force arrived as part of a 1,300-member troop contingent ordered to Panama by President Reagan to bolster security at American military bases.

Republic News Agency reported.

An ailing Jordanian and 24 female passengers already had been released by the hijackers, IRNA said.

The hijackers, armed with pistols and hand grenades, seized Flight KU422 Tuesday on a flight from Bangkok, Thailand to Kuwait and forced it to land at the Mashad airport, 500 miles east of Tehran near the Afghan and Soviet borders.

They threatened to destroy the plane unless Kuwait freed Shiite Muslims jailed for the 1983 bombings of U.S. and French embassies and other targets.

In a statement issued minutes before the release of the 32 passengers, the hijackers said they wanted the world to become aware of their demand for the release of the 7 imprisoned extremists, IRNA said. The hijackers said Kuwait "severely tortures Moslem prisoners" in the country, IRNA said. "They (the hijackers) said the account of innocent people was separate from those guilty. Therefore, they stressed, they will free anyone they thought had nothing to do with the issue. They said the three members of the Kuwaiti royal family will be among the first who should pay a dearly price," IRNA reported just after the release.

Once the 32 passengers were set free, the hijackers closed the doors of the Boeing 747 and turned off the lights inside the cabin.

The release came after a Kuwaiti delegation arrived in Iran Wednesday to try to negotiate the release of the hostages. A deadline set by the hijackers had passed earlier in the day and they had warned "time is running out" for their demands to be met.

Barbara Cordon-Kupiec, left, as Fanny Church, Amy Harrell as Mags and Craig Hinde as Gardner Church, in a scene from the Stage Co.'s production of Painting Churches.

Sensitive 'Churches' brings laughs, tears

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

What happens when a poet who is in love with words becomes too old and is unable to write poetry?

Theater Review

This sensitive issue is explored in Tina Howe's play "Painting Churches," which is being performed at The Stage Company.

The play centers around Mags Church, an artist who comes home to help her aging parents move out of their home. She also hopes to paint their portrait.

Mags, played by Amy Harrell, has been out of touch with her parents' lives for some time and is dismayed to see that her father is slowly becoming senile.

Mags' father, Gardner Church, played by Craig Hinde, is a recognized poet who is now unable to write good poetry. He decides to write a book of criticism on the subject and spends most of his time typing in his study.

Mags' mother, Fanny Church, played by Barbara Cordon-Kupiec, knows that Gardner does not have a critical bone in his body and is writing the book only to keep himself busy.

"Painting Churches" is similar to "On Golden Pond," a play and movie that explored the lives of an aging couple and their strained relationship with their daughter.

Hinde is hilarious and often touching as Gardner. At first, his actions are the butt of a series of jokes, but then his actions become painfully dramatic as his absent-mindedness reveals the frustration he is experiencing from his inability to write.

Times & Tickets

Dates:
"Painting Churches" will be presented Friday through Sunday and April 15 through 17 at The Stage Company, 101 N. Washington. Performance times are 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

Tickets:
Available at The Stage Company box office weekdays 4 to 8 p.m. and Saturdays noon to 4 p.m. For information call 549-5466.

Prices:
$6 Friday and Saturday and $4 Sunday.

Cordon-Kupiec delivers one of the finest performances of The Stage Company this season. She is given the pivotal and difficult task of balancing attention between her daughter, who is accusing her of stunting her artistic growth, and her husband, whom she must coddle and humor as his mind slowly deteriorates.

In a symbolic moment, Fanny points out to Gardner and Mags that, while they have been packing up and moving out of the house, Gardner's cluttered study has remained untouched.

When they begin packing Gardner's books and papers, he becomes frantic and believes Mags and his wife do not care about his life's work. In the play's most moving scene, amid the clutter of his manuscript, Gardner finally reads from his work of criticism.

According to director Roy Weshinsky, "Painting Churches" should make you laugh, and it should. But he also said it may make you shed a few silent tears and, indeed, it may.

Undergrads take lead in 'Battle'

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

The undergraduates have taken the lead in the Battle for the Books. They have collected $847.24 to the graduates $823.41.

Bob Cole, graduate assistant for the Student Alumni Council and the Alumni Association, said the undergraduates are doing well in ticket sales for a trip for two to Cancun, Mexico.

"The tickets are flying out of here," Cole said.

About 7,500 of the 10,000 raffle tickets have been disbursed, Cole said. Many registered student organizations, especially fraternities and sororities, are getting involved, he said.

The Undergraduate Student Organization and the Student

Alumni Council are also offering first and second place prizes from local merchants to the five RSOs that raise the most money.

Darrell Johnson, Graduate and Professional Student Council president, said the graduates had distributed about 2,500 of their 10,000 tickets for a trip for one to Hawaii.

The graduates and undergraduates are each trying to raise $10,000 for a named endowment for Morris Library. Kenneth Peterson, dean of Library Affairs, challenged students to raise $10,000 for the library.

Police evict fans of Grateful Dead

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Police with bullhorns roared hundreds of devotees of the rock group Grateful Dead from their sleeping bags before dawn Wednesday, ordering the "Dead Heads" to leave their park encampment.

The "Dead Heads" fans followed the rock band around the national concert circuit, drifted toward illegally parked buses and vans as a fleet of tow trucks waited to remove stragglers' vehicles.

Evicted music lovers in tied-dyed T-shirts and head bands toled sleeping bags through the office district during the morning rush hour, mingling with executives wearing suits and carrying brief cases.

Police said there were no incidents of damage and within hours city workers had cleaned up historic Bushnell Park, which flanks the gold-domed Capitol.

"There were tons of trash — truckload after truckload of garbage and junk on the street and lawn," Assistant City Manager John Burke said. "I have no desire to have these people back. This year was a total disaster."

The Grateful Dead played three sold-out concerts this week at the Hartford Civic Center and the city allowed fans for the second year to camp in the park, which is a short walk from the arena and

Flyway offers Southern Illinois atmosphere

The Mississippi Flyway brings the great outdoors inside.

By Dena Schulte
Staff Writer

The Mississippi Flyway is one restaurant that sidesteps color schemes, rock bands and teeny boppers. Instead, owner Frank Hiller says he prefers a down-to-earth atmosphere and a decor that illustrates a return to nature.

The Mississippi Flyway, at the Murdale Shopping Center, is a woodsman's retreat.

"It's directed at Southern Illinois. Southern Illinois is our theme, which isn't what most bars go after," Hiller said.

The walls inside the Mississippi Flyway are covered with mounted fish, birds and other animals, giving the bar a woody atmosphere to appeal to the hunters, fishermen and local communities of Southern Illinois.

"All the mounts are from the Southern Illinois area," he said. "Most of them are mine although I didn't personally take all of them."

Many of the mounts were given to Hiller, while other mounts belong to taxidermists or to people who don't have room for them, he added.

The mounts are changed and rearranged constantly, he said.

The Mississippi Flyway is a family restaurant, serving citizens of outlying local communities, not just Carbondale, Hiller said.

"We get a lot of University students, but the majority is local working people and their families. We get a lot of out-of-town traffic too," Hiller said.

The Mississippi Flyway also has served local politicians and a few celebrities, he said. One such celebrity was Dennis Franz, who starred as Lt. Norman Buntz in the TV show "Hill Street Blues."

The restaurant doesn't offer live entertainment, big crowds or a dance floor, but it does offer comfort, conversation, drink and food.

"A big part of our business is the food," Hiller said. The Flyway offers sandwiches, plate lunches and seasonal specials such as ribs, fish and chicken.

Pool tables and video games are available in the back room, he said.

Hiller built the Flyway about seven years ago. Before that, he owned the Varsity Grill, which operated for several years in downtown Carbondale.

"At the time that I built it (the Flyway), it was different from any other bar in town. A lot of people came in just to see it," he said.

The Flyway's decor gives it a woody atmosphere to appeal to the hunters, fishermen and local communities of Southern Illinois.

Official: Tax increase needed

Education needs money to appeal to foreign interest

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

The Illinois Legislature will approve an income tax increase in the next few weeks to keep the state attractive for foreign trade, Lt. Gov. George Ryan said Wednesday night.

The increase is needed to make the basic level and quality of education available in Illinois attractive to foreign businesses, Ryan told a group of about 50 in the Student Center.

When foreign exporters look at Illinois as possible industry sites, they first ask about the

"If we don't get some new money, higher education is going to pay the price"

—George Ryan

education system, Ryan said.

At least one foreign language, geography and international studies class is needed to prepare students to work in foreign trade, he said.

"We have a big investment in Illinois and we need to protect it," Ryan said. "We can't train people using yesterday's equipment, but we're almost at that stage now."

"It's not going to be cheap, but we have to end the economic and cultural isolationism and break the language barrier for expansion," he said. "When you go to the head of a company in the marketplace, you better be able to speak the language of the people you're doing business with or they'll go to someone else who can."

"If we don't get some new money, higher education is going to pay the price," Ryan said. And that will handicap the growth of foreign business and international trade in Illinois, he added.

Lecture set on election financing

By Phyllis Coon
Staff Writer

A consumer economist will be the first speaker in the Charles D. Tenney Distinguished Lecturer Series at 8 p.m. Friday in Shryock Auditorium.

Jane Bryant Quinn, a critic of personal finance, will speak on election financing. The Washington Post syndicates her financial columns to more than 200 newspapers and her columns are published in Newsweek and Woman's Day magazines.

Her business news reports also are broadcast nationwide on the CBS Evening News.

She also can be seen on public broadcasting service channels in her television program, "Take Charge."

Quinn was awarded the John Hancock Award for excellence in Business and Financial Journalism and the Janua Award for excellence in television business reporting. She also is a three-time winner of the National Press Club Award for Consumer Journalism.

Tenney served the University for 42 years. He founded the philosophy department and helped establish the University Computing Service, the Rehabilitation Institute and the University Press.

Tenney was the University's first vice president for Academic Affairs. He held the position for 18 years.

The lecture is co-sponsored by the University Honors Program and the SIU Foundation.

1988 SPRING EXAM SCHEDULE

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Other information about final examinations is listed below:

1. The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days configuration listed on the first line of the class entry in the Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed line for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule book on two lines in the manner:

08:00 T Th
09:00-10:50 W

The listed starting time for the first line of the entry is "8:00." The meeting days of that first line are "T TH", and therefore are in the category "Only T or TH or T TH". The Exam Date and Period is by the attached Spring '88 Final Examination Schedule to be Thursday, May 12 at 10:10a.m.-12:10p.m.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

3. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

More summer classes get axed as budget continues to tighten

COBA cuts 14, Liberal Arts cuts to be announced

"The flat implication is that 'no, we cannot offer all the courses listed in the summer schedule."

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

—John Jackson

Summer school budget cuts are taking a big bite out of summer course offerings, University officials say.

Several of the courses listed in the summer session schedule will need to be cut because of budget limitations, University officials say.

Departments in the College of Business and Administration will need to cut 14 courses listed in the summer schedule.

"What was in the catalog was the upper limit of what we could offer and we had to cut back from there," Greg White, associate dean of COBA, said.

The summer budget for teaching was reduced by $300,000, from $2.1 million to $1.8 million. Vice President for Academic Affairs Benjamin Shepherd said in early March that colleges received "nearly identical proportions of the 1988 budget as they did of the 1987 budget."

The summer school budget cut is the result of a 4-percent cut the University received this year. The state is facing a no-increase budget for next year if there is no tax increase to supplement state funds.

John Jackson, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said "The flat implication is that 'no, we cannot offer all the courses listed in the summer schedule.'"

Jackson said he won't know which courses in COBA have been cut until later this month.

Cuts in the summer school budget have the greatest effect on departments that employ teachers with nine-month contracts. Colleges that have most of their teachers on 12-month contracts, such as the College of Agriculture, don't need money from summer school funds to employ teachers for summer courses.

"We have never been allocated any summer school funds," James Tweedy, dean of the College of Agriculture, said.

Some departments were hit hard by the budget cuts, though. Two-thirds of the 100- and 200-level courses in the art department had to be cut.

Many departments cut lower-level courses before the higher-level courses so students who need the higher-level courses to graduate won't need to stay in school an extra semester.

Russell R. Dutcher, dean of the College of Science, said the departments in his college will average two fewer courses each compared to last summer as a result of budget cuts.

"I hope that we can offer what the students really need," he said. "Our major concern relates to the need of the students."

He said his college will try to cut courses that will have less impact on students trying to graduate.

A 0.5-percent tax increase has been called for by local legislators, the State Board of Education and the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The University is supporting a tax increase but is not specifying the level of tax increase it would like to see.

Gov. James Thompson has said he will not propose a tax increase this year, leaving that up to the Legislature. In his State of the State address in late February, Thompson presented a budget that did not include a tax increase or increase funding for higher education.

Police Blotter

A University student will remain in Memorial Hospital of Carbondale until the end of the week with mouth injuries he received when he rode his bicycle into a parked car on Oakland Street Tuesday night.

"They found all my teeth and put them back in," Robert L. Jennings, senior in general agriculture, said jokingly from his hospital room. "The car and the bike got the worst of it."

Damage to the car, a Toyota Celica belonging to Evangelos Alexandris of 1200 E. Grand Ave., was estimated at more than $500, police said. The car was unattended at the time.

Police said Jennings was taken to Memorial Hospital by the Jackson County Ambulance Service following the 9:50 p.m. accident.

Rule takes punch from game

NCAA players face suspensions for on-court fights

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Players involved in fights will be put on probation and involvement in three fights will cause a player to be suspended for the remainder of the season, the college basketball rules committee announced Wednesday.

The get-tough policy against on-court fights was the only major rule change for next season.

A first fight could get a player ejected and put on probation. A second fight brings an ejection from that game and suspension from his team's next game. If the player is involved in a third fight, he will be suspended for the season.

"We're not looking to suspend people," said Ed Steitz, the secretary-editor of the NCAA basketball rules book and athletic director at Springfield (Mass.) College.

"People who have earned the right to be suspended are the ones we're looking for."

Game officials will determine who should be ejected in fights. Television replays, if available and deemed necessary, may be used by the officials to determine those individuals involved in a fight. "It is up to the officials," said Steitz. "If there is just lots of pushing, the official may eject them, calling it a flagrant technical foul. But if it's not deemed fighting, there is no probation."

Conferences may have tougher rules and some are expected to, said Steitz. But conferences cannot set aside the NCAA rules, and there are no avenues of appeal for individuals or schools.

In other actions, the committee:

- Adopted a new procedure to speed play following a timeout. A horn will sound with about 15 seconds left in the timeout, then the ball will be put in play after a second horn is sounded. The Big East and Atlantic Coast Conference have used this procedure.

- Altered the 5-second rule for an inbounds pass. The passer must release the ball within 5 seconds. Previously, the pass had to be released and touched by a receiver or defender within 5 seconds.

- "It is easier for officials to see the release than the actual catch," said Steitz.

- The rule gives a team more time, if only a split-second, to make an inbounds pass. The extra time may be as long as two seconds on a full-court

"People who have earned the right to be suspended are the ones we're looking for."

Approved experimentation with a widened free-throw lane and with awarding three free throws if a player is fouled in the act of attempting a 3-point shot that misses.

Conferences will decide at annual meetings the next two months whether they want to experiment. Sun Belt Commissioner Vic Bubas had requested the lane experiment, but he said he didn't know if his league's coaches would vote to try it.

The college lane is 12 feet. Steitz said leagues may experiment with either the NBA width of 14 feet or the international width of 16 feet.

- Announced the following points of emphasis for next season: hand checking, principle of veracity, rough low-post play, illegal screening and minimizing conversation between officials and coaching.

Big Eight seeks Final Four again

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The success of the NCAA's Final Four, capped by the twist of a local team winning the tournament, makes the Big Eight Conference thirst to host another.

Local merchants are still counting the proceeds from the Final Four extravaganza, and expect even more from the sale of souvenirs commemorating Kansas' 83-79 victory over Oklahoma in the championship game Monday night.

Estimates set the take well above the $16 million originally anticipated. This by far was the most lucrative of the 10 Final Fours the city has hosted, and the bonanza rivals that experienced by the metropolitan area during the 1976 Republican National Convention and the 1985 World Series.

The city aside, the Tournament was even a bigger success for the Big Eight Conference. The league will get more than $2.6 million from the NCAA from Tournament receipts, and a mountain of prestige in having two conference teams playing for the national title in the conference's home city and Kemper Arena, the site of the league's postseason tournament.

The Final Four ran like clockwork. The few glitches were quickly handled and the bevy of special events in connection with the 50th Final Four were top-notch. The NCAA, Big Eight and Kansas City Organizing Committee have a right to be proud.

"They were highly organized in the beginning, and the execution of their game plan appears to be flawless," NCAA Assistant Executive Director Tom Jernstedt said of the KCOC.

With the success still fresh, Big Eight officials have turned to the future. They would like another Final Four, but the NCAA Men's Division I Men's Basketball Committee has determined that future basketball championship sites must have a capacity such greater than Kemper Arena's to stage the event. Denver's McNichols Sports Arena, which will be the Final Four site in 1990, will likely be the last small arena to host the event.

"We would like to press the committee so that if they ever reconsider and return to a small building, we would like it to be here," said Big Eight Assistant Commissioner Bill Hancock.

"What our real goal out of all this is that we would like to have an NCAA Tournament event every year."

Rhode Island success gets coach new job

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — Tom Penders, who guided underdog Rhode Island to the final 16 in this year's NCAA tournament, Wednesday was hired as head basketball coach at Texas.

Penders, who uses a run-and-gun style and had a 48-17 record in two seasons at Rhode Island, flashed the familiar "hook 'em horns" sign and promised to restore enthusiasm for basketball at Texas, where football is king.

"People will support a winning and exciting program," he told a news conference. "I believe in fundamentals, but I believe in running and pressing. I like exciting basketball."

Penders, 42, succeeds defense-minded Bob Weltlich, who was fired March 15 partly because his teams were only able to attract an average of less than 7,000 fans.

Veal receives Gateway honors

Senior Felecia Veal was named Gateway Conference track athlete of the week for her performance in the Ole Miss Invitational April 1.

Veal won the 100- and 400-meter hurdles and was a member of the winning 4 X 400 relay team. All of her performances set new meet records.

"I was very excited," Veal said.

Coach Don DeNoon said, "She's probably the most excited (athlete) that ever got it. She's the fifth different athlete to win this honor (this season)."

Other Salukis honored include Vivian Sinou, Lisa Judiscak, Danielle Sciano and Christiana Philipou.

Veal ran the 100-meter hurdles in 14.44 seconds. Her time in the 400-meter hurdles was 1:03.54.

"I think I'm doing much better at this point than I was last year," she said. "I hope to go much further."

Veal ranks 13th on SIU-C's all-time scoring list and is ranked second in both the 100- and 400-meter hurdles.

"She's done a real fine job for us for four years," DeNoon said. "She's one of the few injury-free athletes we've had."

pressure than at home. They're really out to prove themselves at home. There are a lot of distractions at home. On the road we can limit their activity. Sometimes we do better away."

Because the team is mostly freshmen, it is their first experience with these demands. But youth is also in their corner, Brechtelsbauer said. "They're young, they'll bounce back quickly."

is the U.S. Open. Players are still going to play in those tournaments."

The Masters officially opens at 8:45 a.m. Thursday with 86-year-old Gene Sarazen hitting a ceremonial first ball. Sarazen and 75-year-old Sam Snead will then play nine holes, followed by the greatest current names in the game.

Occasional heavy rain fell on the course during the final day of practice Wednesday, but clear skies, mild temperatures and blustery winds were forecast for the first round.

"The course is in unbelievable condition," said Tom Watson, a two-time winner at Augusta who has not captured a major title in five years. "I think about 6-under-par will probably win."

"The rains will soften the greens some, but, of course, they say the winds will blow and that will make it tougher. Let me revise that. I think 3-under might win."

It took a score of 3-under 285 to make the sudden-death playoff that ended last year's Masters, the highest winning score in 15 years. That playoff added another piece of lore to the dramatic history of the event when hometown product Larry Mize holed a 100-foot chip shot on the second extra hole to defeat Greg Norman.

"My game isn't as good as it was at this time last year," said Mize, who ranks 91st on the money list. "But I think it's getting close. Maybe this is the week it will come around. I hope so."

The tournament starts with non-American players hogging the favorite's role with annual challengers Seve Ballesteros of Spain and Greg Norman of Australia leading the way.

Watson and Norman will make up one of the most attractive first-round pairings, leaving the first tee at 12:29 p.m., while Woosnam will play with 1984 champion Ben Crenshaw at 10:30 a.m.

One of the largest galleries, however, will walk with Nicklaus — hoping the 48-year-old winner of 20 major championships will find the same magic he worked two years ago in winning the tournament.

Nicklaus recently has begun using a metal driver, one which has increased yardage on his tee shots by 30 yards.

season. The Salukis have scored just seven runs in his wins.

"I feel we're going to score runs," he said. "Right now, we're just going through a phase, but I think it helps me out. Knowing that we're not scoring many runs makes me bear down a little bit more."

With Dale Kisten struggling and Lee Meyer suffering from a sore arm, the pitching staff's success will largely depend if the Salukis "Soup" can stay hot.

90 golfers strive for 'elegant link'

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The Masters, which serves as an elegant link to golf's heritage and provides the game's first major champion of the year, begins Thursday over the sculptured landscape created more than a half century ago by one of the greatest heroes in American sport.

"This all started as a party," said Masters chairman Hord Hardin. "It has changed somewhat."

What the late Bobby Jones started in 1934 as a gathering for friends and gentleman amateurs has grown into one of the world's leading sporting events and a player's first trip to the beautifully manicured Augusta National Golf Club course usually brings a response bordering on awe.

"It is the kind of place," said first-time participant Robert Wrenn, "that makes you want to say—'wow.'"

A field of 90 players will compete this year, one that includes 17 former champions, 12 amateurs and 17 players who have never been in the tournament before.

It also begins with a hint of concern from Hardin, who oversees the tournament in hopes of keeping alive the traditions and values cherished by Jones — the only man ever to win the U.S. Open, British Open, U.S. Amateur and British Amateur in the same year.

Hardin, admitting he may be an alarmist, said on the eve of the tournament that escalating prize money and the commercialization of golf could drive the Masters out of business.

"I don't envision us having the Pizza Hut Masters," Hardin said. "Now that I've said that, they will probably send me a lot of pizza, but I don't eat it anyway."

"Maybe I'm alone in thinking this, way, but if it came to that (commercialization of the tournament), I don't think the members would want to continue (the Masters)."

Such thoughts were not shared by the man who has won the Masters a record six times.

"I don't care how much money people play for in other tournaments," said Jack Nicklaus. "The Masters is still the Masters and the U.S. Open

There's more on road trip than games

By Troy Taylor

Put yourself in the shoes of a player as preparation begins for another away game for the softball team.

You won't be in class Friday, so talk to your instructors and get the assignments. Don't forget the books because you study on the bus. Remember to bring both uniforms. We play Friday and Saturday. Shoes. Make sure you have cleats and spare laces.

Next, anticipate Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer's questions as she goes over her checklist. Is all the equipment packed? Does the trainer know when we leave? Are hotel reservations confirmed?

The softball team must do these things and more when it takes to the road again to play Bradley in Peoria on Friday and Western Illinois in Macomb on Saturday.

The bus ride to a game has become second nature to this crew. It went by bus all the way to Tallahassee, Fla for the spring trip. The team has been to Clarksville, Tenn., Columbia, Mo., and Charleston already.

By the time the Salukis return home this weekend, they will have been visitors for 23 of the first 29 games of the season.

"It's particularly tough on the players right now," Brechtelsbauer said. "Academically a lot of papers are due, tests are coming up. They are under stress and the play's showing it."

The Salukis are 15-10 overall after losing twice to Eastern Illinois on Tuesday. They haven't won two straight games since beating Southeast Missouri on March 30 and Southwest Missouri on April 1.

"I've talked to them about budgeting their time," Brechtelsbauer said. She's instructed the players to especially take care to eat properly, schedule a proper time and place to study, and to get plenty of rest.

"Right now they're looking at exam schedules. They have to get the priorities in line to handle all that. I can't have them running out of gas now."

The Salukis have an 11-8 record on the road and playing away from home has its advantages, Brechtelsbauer said.

"Sure, it's tiring on the road, but it's also easier to prepare on the road," Brechtelsbauer explains. "There is less

Forget the past; Campbell's cooking

By Dave Miller

Saluki pitcher Rich "Soup" Campbell is heating up.

After going through a disastrous rookie season in the bullpen, Campbell has found a niche in the starting rotation.

In five starts this season, Campbell is 3-1 with a 3.10 ERA.

This season's success, though, is a far cry from last year. After transferring from John A. Logan junior college in 1987, Campbell went 1-4 with a 5.87 ERA as a reliever.

"Last year was the most disappointing year I've ever had in sports," Campbell said. "It seemed like game after game I constantly let the team down and that bothered me psychologically."

Coach Ichy Jones said Campbell's performance was affected for the rest of the season after he pitched against Missouri. Campbell came on in relief to give up a game-winning homer in a 4-3 loss.

"I think he lost all confidence in himself," Jones said.

Campbell survived the season and regrouped back home in Ohio. He pitched in a summer college league in Cincinnati where he slowed down his delivery and improved his change-up.

Campbell returned to school in the fall determined to make up for his disappointing season.

"I told the coaches I might feel more comfortable as a starter," he said. "They kept confident in me. They said 'Hey, we're going to give you the ball. Forget last year. You're better than that.'"

Jones inserted Campbell into the starting rotation. He thought Campbell's temperament may be more suitable as a starter.

"When you're a reliever, there's not much leeway for error," Jones said. "You come in, you throw the pitch, they hit it and it goes into the gap for a double. The game's over. You give up one hit and the game ends."

"When you're a starter, you can give up a run or two and you're still out there. You can plug away. Maybe he's a better plugger than he is a shorter person."

Thus far, Campbell has flourished as a starter. He has had to be near perfect in his three victories this

Baseball team gets last tune-up before expedition into Valley

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The baseball team has one last chance to get its act together before the Missouri Valley season opens.

The Salukis play Southeast Missouri State at 3 p.m. today in Cape Girardeau, Mo. and coach Ichy Jones will use the game to tune his pitching staff for the conference opener this weekend at Illinois State.

"We're still trying to get ready for the weekend," Jones said. "We'll probably throw Chad Metton and would like to throw (Rob) Hass. We'll probably work in some other guys for an inning apiece."

Pitcher Dale Kisten, 3-4 and the loser in his last three outings, is scheduled to pitch one or two innings.

Like Kisten, their ace right-hander, the Salukis 15-10, got off to a good start but have lost six of their last nine games. The Salukis are 7-8 against Division I teams.

"What you try to do at this time of year is build some confidence, get yourself ready to play and get everybody excited," Jones said. "I'm not sure our kids have done that at this point."

Jones is concerned that the team has been emotionally up for one game and down the next.

"It just seems like if our pitchers don't get out of the first inning, the defense and the offense look at it like 'Here we go again,'" he said. "But that's beside the point. They should still come out excited and ready to score some runs."

Chuck Verschoore, who has been the team's most consistent hitter, can't explain the team's mood swings.

"It's really a question mark," Verschoore said. "Sometimes we play really well and put everything together and other times we go out there and it doesn't seem like we have much fire. I think everybody is disappointed that we're 15-10 right now. We should be a lot better than that. When the conference starts it'll be a new life, a new beginning."
