Miller Beer backs 'rocking' Halloween

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

Despite earlier indications to the contrary, Miller Brewing Co. has apparently decided to once again sponsor rock bands appearing at the annual Halloween street celebration.

Miller representatives informed members of the Halloween Core Committee of the company's decision on Tuesday. Miller had informed the Student Programming Council two weeks ago that it would not be sponsoring live entertainment at this year's celebration. Since Miller traditionally provides the bulk of the funding for the shows, the move would have effectively canceled any SPC plans for live performances by rock bands on Grand Avenue.

SPC CONCERTS Chairman Glen Phillips said Thursday that Miller Brewing donates about $5,000 to the SPC each year, enabling the group to book bands for the celebration. Miller finances "the whole thing," Phillips said. "If we hadn't gotten the money, there would have been no show."

Phillips blamed local bar owners for Miller's initial decision to withdraw funding for this year's street bash, claiming the owners "put pressure" on the local Miller distributor in order to convince the company not to support the celebration. Phillips, repeating rumors reported earlier, said that downtown bar owners were unhappy with Miller for funding entertainment that draws Halloween crowds away from their business district.

EUT JIM Prowell, executive director of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, dismissed Phillips' charges as "speculation." In initially deciding to withdraw their support of the Halloween festival, Miller "was just making a business decision," Prowell asserted.

Prowell said he and Doug Diggle, owner of Old Town Liquors, had talked to bar owners and local Miller Representative John Earls and established that there was no validity to the rumors. The two were successful in convincing Miller to change its position on funding after explaining to Earls just how much the SPC was relying on the company, Prowell added.

"IT WAS a very, very good meeting," he said. "I think now we realize there was no validity to reports of pressure."

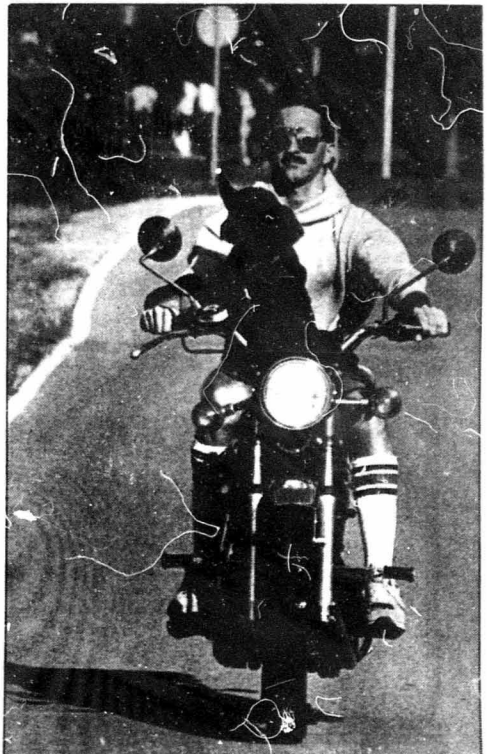

Rumors of pressure from local bar owners have been "going off and on for two or three years," Prowell added. "This is the third year that I've heard them and I do not place any validity in those rumors at all."

Earls could not be reached for comment.

Aid hinges on draft form

By Catherine Edman
Staff Writer

Students cannot receive financial aid until they have signed a Selective Service Compliance Statement.

However, since March 1983, when students were first required to sign the compliance statements, no SIUC students have been denied aid for that reason, said Joseph Camille, director of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

There were three males who initially refused to sign when the act went into effect, and one quite adamantly, he said, but they all signed in the end.

Under the Solomon Act, passed in 1982, students are required to comply with selective service registration before they could receive federal financial aid, said Laurie Van Dyke, supervisor of the registration and information office of the Selective Service System.

All eligible males over the age of 18 must register with the Selective Service. Women are not required to register, but must sign the compliance statement.

Because people who do not register are ineligible for federal benefits, employment, police work or immigration approval, the student compliance is an offshoot of the law, Van Dyke said.

The federal government was concerned that male students would not register for the draft, Camille said. The confirmation form was seen as a way to ensure that at least one group of eligible males — those requesting federal aid — would be registered.

Camille said the act originally had a two-year duration, during which time students would be required to sign the form before they could receive financial aid. After the first two years, the government planned to issue draft cards, which would prove registration.

Had the government followed through on that plan, students would be

Tax support urged

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

The Council on Problems of the Aged, Inc. is working to get people to support a referendum increasing property taxes to provide money for support services for senior citizens.

The tax would be 2.5 cents for every $100 of assessed property value. The estimated revenue this tax would provide is $60,000 — 10 percent of the current $600,000 council budget.

The petition was approved Aug. 13 by the Jackson County Board to be placed on the Nov. 4 gubernatorial ballot. The council provided almost 500 signatures supporting the referendum.

John Holmes, volunteer coordinator, said that if the tax doesn't pass "we won't be able to provide as many services to as many people."

"What we're especially interested in is that services to the elderly, particularly the feeble, would be maintained," he said.

During 1985, the council provided 63,254 meals to people at group gatherings and 24,917 home delivered meals. They provided 1,731 people with meals, according to the council.

The council is currently working with about 20 volunteers to gain support for the referendum. Holmes said they aren't working with any voter registration drives because "older people are more likely to be registered."

The council is located at 409 N. Springer.

Nuclear plant accidents increase 23 percent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A research group critical of the nuclear industry charged Thursday that safety in American nuclear reactors has deteriorated, with 5,400 mishaps of varying levels of seriousness in 1984 and 1985.

Public Citizen's Critical Mass Energy Project said 3,000 problems were reported by nuclear utilities to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in 1985, about 23 percent more than in 1984.

Up to 85 percent more may have gone unreported, said the group, a research organization founded by consumer activist Ralph Nader.

"The message from the operating experience of U.S. reactors in 1984 and 1985 is clear," said Joshua Gordon, the report's author. "The plants are unsafe and their safety record is getting worse. The haphazard and lax manner in which the NRC regulates nuclear power is increasing the risks to which Americans are exposed."

Ellen Werther, a spokeswoman for the Atomic Industrial Forum, the chief trade group for the nuclear industry, said the report drew incorrect conclusions from data taken out of context.

"They give the public a false impression that safety is lax at nuclear power plants, when the opposite is true," she said.

All mishaps are reported to allow the industry to "pick up problems, if there are any, before they become major problems," she said. "It's one of the indications of how openly and safely we operate nuclear power plants in this country."

Ken Bossong, director of Critical Mass, dismissed past industry statements that no U.S. reactor could experience problems as serious as the April 26 accident at the Soviet Union's Chernobyl plant.

Soweto violence killed 21, South Africa officials say

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The government Thursday revised its death toll in Tuesday night's violence in Soweto black township — saying 21 people died instead of 13 — and announced an investigation to "determine what really took place." In Johannesburg, riot police fired tear gas at 400 students holding a rally on the University of the Witwatersrand campus to protest the shooting of blacks by security forces in Soweto. Witnesses said no one was hurt at the university, but cars were stoned and a panicky motorist fired a shot into the air.

Bolivia president imposes state of siege

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — President Victor Paz Estenssoro, accusing labor unions of trying to overthrow his government, imposed a state of siege in Bolivia Thursday and sent soldiers to break up a rowdy 125-mile march on the capital by 5,000 striking tin miners. More than 100 people, including political activists, union leaders and journalists, were reportedly arrested. Jet fighters streaked over the capital of La Paz for an hour beginning at 7 a.m. as radio stations read the decree announcing the state of siege, the second in less than a year.

Rescue try is death to hostages, captors say

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Pro-Iranian Moslem extremists holding American and French hostages in Lebanon warned Thursday that they would kill their captives if the United States tries a rescue mission. "Let it be known by everybody that we will have no mercy ... and the punishment will be hard," warned a statement accompanied by a black-and-white photograph of American hostage David Jacobsen, who was bearded and solemn.

Missile blown-up in flight after malfunction

VANDENBURG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — An unarmed Minuteman 3 missile was blown up in flight Thursday because of problems that developed after launch — the second rocket failure in less than a week, Air Force officials said. The test flight of the Minuteman 3 was aborted shortly after its launch at 7:04 a.m. when computer data from the missile indicated a malfunction, spokesman Capt. Tom Connell said. A team of Air Force and Defense Department contract engineers were analyzing flight data to isolate the cause of the malfunction.

Insurance costs to quiet fraternity bashes

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Fraternities at the University of Tennessee, faced with rising insurance costs, will tone down parties this year to limit liability risks, university and fraternity officials said Thursday. The higher insurance costs mean closing parties to uninvited guests, bringing an end to "come one, come all" events. The rates also mean organizations must control alcohol intake, prohibit any "hazing" and disband "little sisters" programs, officials said.

Convicted murderer's trashy escape foiled

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — A convicted murderer who escaped the state prison in the back of a garbage truck Thursday was dumped back into the hands of police within hours, officials said. Corrections spokeswoman Reina Alarid said officers concluded Louis Velasquez, 32, hid in the trash truck because officers failed to find any breaks in the security perimeter after he was discovered missing around 11 a.m.

Library to restore braille version of Playboy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The blind may soon be able to get copies of Playboy magazine in braille at the Library of Congress because of a judge's ruling Thursday. The nation's library violated the First Amendment rights of the blind by failing to offer the magazine in a way that is readable to them, ruled U.S. District Judge Tom Hogan.

Contract talks fail, teachers walk picket lines

By United Press International

Striking teachers walked picket lines outside schools in seven districts in Illinois, Michigan and Pennsylvania Thursday, leaving nearly 22,000 students without instructors. Teachers in the Bethel Park School District in the Pittsburgh area went on strike Thursday, the third teachers union in the state to walk out this school year. The 312 members of the Bethel Park Federation of Teachers failed to report for an in-service day after contract talks broke off Wednesday.

Increased U.S. military presence near Libya leads to suspicion

By United Press International

The United States and Egypt ended five days of war games Thursday as two U.S. aircraft carriers arrived at the entrance of the Mediterranean Sea. Officials refused to comment on speculation of another U.S. attack on Libya.

The carriers USS John F. Kennedy and USS America were anchored outside the Rota naval base in Spain, the Navy said.

In Moscow, the Soviet Union accused Washington of preparing another military strike against Tripoli and pledged its support for Libya.

Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said a high-level Soviet delegation will travel to Tripoli Saturday for the 17th anniversary celebrations of the Libyan revolution Sept. 1.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Madrid refused to comment on speculation the arrival of the aircraft carriers — and of 18 F-111 fighter jets in Britain Wednesday — are in preparation for an attack on Libya.

The 18 F-111s — the type used to bomb Libya April 15 — arrived in Britain as part of extensive NATO exercises beginning Friday to test the Allies' northern defenses, a spokesman for the U.S. 3rd Air Force said.

Robert Plotkin, the U.S. Embassy spokesman in Madrid, said ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet "move in and out of Rota as part of their normal pattern of rotation. As far as I know, their presence there has nothing to do with NATO exercises."

Several 6th Fleet vessels that were involved in the U.S.

Libyan clash in the Gulf of Sidra, which preceded the April 15 bombing, sailed from Spanish ports, and F-111s that bombed the cities of Tripoli and Benghazi flew from Britain.

A series of statements and news stories have coincided with the U.S.-Egyptian maneuvers over the purported intentions of Libyan leader Muammar Gadhafi to launch new terrorist attacks.

The U.S. strike on Libya was in response to the Gadhafi government's alleged role in the April 5 bombing of a discotheque in West Berlin that killed three people, including two U.S. soldiers, and wounded 230 other people.

In Cairo, Egyptian Naval Commander Adm. Tewfik Gad said the U.S.-Egyptian maneuvers were not intended to provoke anyone.

Millions in overruns sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force announced Thursday it may try to recover potential cost overruns of between $400 million and $500 million by Lockheed Corp. on production of the giant C-5B Galaxy jet transport.

"The Air Force is initiating action with Lockheed-Georgia to obtain an appropriate price adjustment," the announcement said of what is believed to be the largest defective price case yet encountered.

An $8 billion contract for 50 of the C-5B's, an improved version of 247-foot-long four-jet C-5, was negotiated in December 1982. The final craft is due to be delivered in 1989.

But after the Defense Contract Audit Agency reviewed the pricing for the first 29 aircraft actually bought, the Air Force said, it concluded that the cost of all 50 would exceed the negotiated price by between $400 million and $500 million because of additional labor costs and other factors Lockheed had concealed.

"Lockheed failed (in 1982) to tell the Air Force negotiators their collective bargaining objectives for union negotiations scheduled for October 1983," an Air Force spokesman said. The wage structure was "far different" from what Lockheed told the Air Force, he said, and this and other "defective pricing issues involving materiel and subcontractor costs" inflated the potential, overall cost.

Lockheed issued a statement from Calabasas, Calif., that said it had not received the audit report upon which the Air Force position was based.

L.O. Kitcher, the company's chairman, said, "In the course of negotiations for the C-5B, Lockheed provided the government with complete current and accurate costs and pricing data."

Lockheed still could appeal such a decision to the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals of the U.S. claims court.

McAndrew needs natural grass turf

AT ONE TIME, THE "natural" look — windblown hair and little or no facial makeup — was fashionable. Today, it's more fashionable for people to eat "natural" breakfast cereal and drink "natural" beer.

Less fashionable, but more practical, has been the switch many American sports stadiums have made from artificial turf back to "natural" grass, a prudent change that should include McAndrew Stadium.

For the last 14 years McAndrew's green stuff has not been real grass but something akin to industrial-strength polyester, a much stronger grade of the same material used 14 years ago to make brightly-colored leisure suits and plaid neckties.

MCANDREW'S ARTIFICIAL turf was replaced once, in 1976, because weather elements and turf-crunching tackles produced tears and gaps that were made worse by more weather and tackles. The new turf was supposed to last eight to 10 years.

A decade has passed and Saluki Football Coach Ray Dorr wants a new gridiron rug in place for his boys. And he wants it now. Tears and gaps in the turf have once again appeared. President Albert Somit says the campus is short on funds and cannot lay out half a million dollars for Dorr's demand just at the moment.

Perhaps next year, Somit says.

HOWEVER, NEXT YEAR may be too late. It's hard enough to play football on artificial turf when it's in good shape, what with its semi-slick surface — a surface that, after a light rain, gets even slicker.

The advantage of artificial turf, of course, is that it's an all-weather surface — it sheds rain and doesn't get muddy. But several studies have shown that more injuries occur to players on artificial turf than on natural grass.

But the tears, split seams and loose patches of turf make the stadium floor less of a playing field than a booby trap. Each time the gridders take to the field they increase their chances for injury. A wrong step into one of these worsening obstacles could spell the end of a promising player's career, or at least cause him serious injury.

NATURAL GRASS, ON the other hand, doesn't promote these problems. It doesn't tear or separate. If for some reason it comes loose, it can be stamped back into place with a well-heeled shoe or a football cleat. If it gets wet, it gets slick. That can't be helped.

Natural grass looks nicer too, not plastic in appearance like artificial turf. Enough of the campus is made of plastic. Natural grass also better absorbs some of the impact when the players hit the ground. That's because there's several inches of soil beneath the grass to allow the grass to take root. The soil gives a little more under a hard punch.

UNDERNEATH ARTIFICIAL turf there's a thin layer of foam padding, a rubber sheet and then asphalt or concrete. When a football player takes a hard dive onto this, he's liable to bounce once or twice, absorbing nearly all of the impact and jarring himself hard enough to sustain internal injury.

But the University administration primarily speaks in the language of money. Comparing artificial turf to natural doesn't translate easily into the language of money.

A lawsuit filed by an injured player could change that.

If he gets mad enough, all an injured player has to do is prove the University knew of the dangers of playing on the damaged turf prior to the player's injury.

The University knows now.

IF THE PLAYER WINS the suit, the University could be subject to serious penalty, probably a monetary penalty that may run more than what it would cost to replace the artificial turf.

Furthermore, why bother replacing the artificial turf with artificial turf and risk this same hassle a decade from now. It will cost less to put down natural grass and maintain that grass for a decade than it will to put down more polyester.

The University can do nothing about the worn turf this year except patch it up, and cross its fingers.

In the meantime, the University ought to give serious thought to making McAndrew a "natural" place to play football.

Baby-boomers possess key to 1988 presidential race

Enter Ed Debevic's restaurant and slip through a crack in time, back to the 1950s, to meat loaf, macaroni and cheese, Ovaltine and "wets" — french fries with gravy. And be the first on your block to have a blazing insight about the 1988 presidential election.

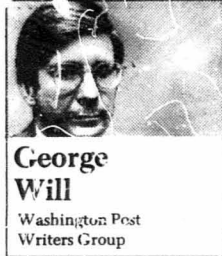

In Ed's, a meticulously recreated 1950s short-order diner, the music is interrupted only when the maitre d' — wearing shades and a ducktail haircut — commands the audio system to bark: "At table five — the lady missing the grilled cheese. We'll get there, just hang in."

ON A GOOD week, Ed's serves upwards of 18,000. The fare includes peanut-butter pie and other delicacies not for the fainthearted.

Ed's, like the movie "American Graffiti," caters to the powerful sense of identity among the 76 million "baby-boom" Americans born between 1946 and 1964. In 1988, they could comprise 60 percent of the electorate. A candidate who wins, say, a 60-40 split of that group probably becomes president.

A pioneer of boomerology — the study of them — is Pat Caddell, democratic consultant. He says this generation is uniquely "self-contained." Because of its size — which means, in part, because of its purchasing power — the generation has always been a center of attention, an experience that has bred "a certain arrogance."

DAVY CROCKETT hats and Hula Hoops were instant, continental fads in the 1950s because of this generation, the first television generation. Caddell says the movie "The Big Chill," in which boomers evidently see themselves

George Will

clearly, depicts a generation in which "pictures, memories, ideas and experiences are shared universally and music is the greatest conductor of these."

Peter Hart, another democratic consultant, notes that because of the boomers, the nation may be ready to "skip a generation" in picking its president. If were John Kennedy alive, he would be 69. He and Reagan and Lyndon Johnson and Nixon and Ford and Carter came from essentially the same generation.

HOWEVER, IN 1988 we may elect the first president born after Franklin Roosevelt's first inauguration. If booming Sen. Joe Biden, D-Del., gets his way, the next president will have been born after Roosevelt's third inauguration.

Hart says elections are about moods and popular culture is a measure of moods. In 1978, five liberal senators lost and, in California, Proposition 13, which limited taxes, won. These were the first indications of the conservatism to come.

But television, says Hart, also foreshadowed the conservative future. Two especially popular shows in 1978 were "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley." Both were set in the glow of the remembered 1950s. Hart surmises that both indicated a need for reassurance. That was a Reagan specialty in the presidential election that followed.

HART SUGGESTS listening to the jargon of the young. In the 1950s, the young spoke of being "hip" and "cool" and "with it" — "it" denoting the right or "in" group. The 1960s echoed with rhetoric of "doing your own thing" and "getting your act together," a vocabulary of self-absorption for a decade of disintegration.

Today, Hart says, the punctuating expressions of youthful discourse are "for sure" and "really" — again, a reaching for reassurance. Something to think about at Ed's — Ed, by the way, is a fiction — in the glow of the pink neon announcing "No Premium Beer Here."

IN 1983, before enlisting with Democratic Presidential Candidate Gary Hart, Caddell tried to talk Biden into running. Biden is six years younger than Hart and so can adopt a more-boomer-than-thou attitude. However, from George Bush's elephantine — in size and grace — staff comes an entertaining thought. Bush, at 62, is the boomiest because he has five children aged 26 to 39.

Still there may be a risk in relying on the support of boomers raised on rock 'n' roll and television. In 1984, Gary Hart's hot streak of Democratic Presidential Primary victories was about as long as the run of success enjoyed by a hit record. Perhaps that is the boomers' attention span.

Disposing of dead cattle next job of relief workers

YAOUNDE, Cameroon (UPI) — Relief workers Thursday finished burying more than 1,500 people killed by a poison gas cloud from a volcanic lake and focused on disposing of thousands of bloated dead cattle to avert an epidemic.

A U.S. team of scientists began investigating what caused the cloud of toxic gas to bubble out of Lake N'ios in northwestern Cameroon the night of Aug. 21 and what type of gases came out of the lake.

More international airlifts arrived as part of a $1 million relief effort to aid the 20,000 people displaced by the disaster.

"Under the circumstances, I think we are doing the best we can," Northeast Provincial Gov. Wilson Mboe Ntuba said at the disaster coordination center in the town of Bamenda, some 40 miles south of Lake N'ios.

"We are still counting on more food coming in. We hope we can get more tents and clothes for displaced people," he said after touring the stricken area.

In Geneva, a spokesman for the U.N. Disaster Relief Agency said relief supplies were sufficient "for the time being and the government is being very cooperative about channeling supplies there."

State-run Radio Cameroon said relief workers finished burying the bodies of 1,534 victims, having placed many of them in mass graves. The bodies were found in the four villages closest to the lake — N'ios, Cha, Sobum and Fang.

But the radio said the threat of an epidemic persisted from the thousands of unburied cattle killed in their grazing fields and uttering the countryside. The U.N. relief agency said it planned to appeal for a special chemical to burn them.

The radio said the 6-mile area around the lake was still sealed off by the army until the cattle could be disposed of, and evacuated villagers were not yet authorized to return to their homes.

It was uncertain when they would be able to return. Radio Cameroon said all the cattle should be buried within the next three days.

A French expert said he believed Lake N'ios was empty of the toxic gas, which he thought was probably carbon monoxide with a trace of hydrogen sulfide — the same combination that killed 150 people on Java, Indonesia, eight years ago.

"There is nothing to fear for a new event at the same place, but of course it can happen at any other crater and there are many in the Cameroon range," French volcanologist Haroun Tazieff said after viewing the area from a helicopter.

The volcano range in the area is about 600 miles long. Tazieff said it might be several weeks before the fumes were accurately identified and the only way to predict future emissions would be an international effort to map the entire region.

"They will try to determine exactly what were the mechanics and chemistry of this event — how it happened, if there is a possibility for it to happen again and how to judge the potential for further problems," said a U.S. Embassy spokesman.

required to show draft cards to prove that they had registered.

A government study, however, found that more than 90 percent of those who said they had signed the form were in fact registered for Selective Service, Camille said.

The federal government, therefore, decided that the additional time and expense involved in supplying draft cards to students was unnecessary, he said.

Now, students receiving any type of financial aid must sign the compliance statements and a statement of educational purpose, which affirms that they will use any "federally or state assisted loan, grant or work study program only for expenses" related to study at a college or university.

This year, students are for the first time required to sign a Default-Recovery Status Certification. Required by the federal government, the form states that students receiving Pell Grants, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, College Work-Study, National Direct Student Loans, Guaranteed Student Loans, Parent Loan for Undergraduate Students, Auxiliary Loans to Assist Students or Student Incentive Grants must not be in default on any state or federal loans or owe refunds on grants at any college they have attended.

Camille said students had been required not to be in default or owe refunds only at the institution they were attending. Now, the rule applies to back payments owed to any school a student has attended. The forms should be sent out in September to any students who have not already signed them.

Movie Guide

Aliens — Suspenseful though often redundantly violent sequel to "Alien." Sigourney Weaver, who had baffled the title monsters in the first film, returns to face them again—this time with a crew of Marines. "Aliens" is one of the first science-fiction movies that gives leadership status to female characters.

Armed and Dangerous — Tasteless, boring comedy about two security guards who uncover an organized crime ring. Bound rigidly to an impossible plot, the movie searches for humor from a doze: different sources and comes up empty every time. It is a mazing that talents like actors John Candy and Eugene Levy and screenwriter Harold Ramis could be involved in such a waste of film. Varsity. Rated PG-13.

Back to School — Rodney Dangerfield plays a vulgar, wealthy man who decides to join his son by enrolling as a college freshman. The movie is rich with Dangerfield one-liners though the "don't get no respect" king does get respect in this movie because everybody Rodney meets respects money. Varsity. Rated PG-13.

Bullies — Starts Friday at Saluki. Rated R.

Flight of the Navigator — A children's adventure about time-travel which resembles last year's "Back to the Future" in that a child is forced to see his parents in a different light. Fox Eastgate. Rated PG.

The Fly — Based on a 1958 movie of the same title in which a scientist experimenting with master transmission accidentally mingles his genes with those of a housefly. Jeff Goldblum and Geena Davis star. University 4. Rated R.

Legal Eagles — Law partners Robert Redford and Debra Winger run into trouble when the defendant is beautiful Daryl Hannah. Liberty. Rated PG.

Karate Kid II — Noriyuki Morita, the old karate master of the first "Karate Kid," must return to Japan for his father's funeral. Accompanied by the "Kid," Ralph Macchio, they soon run into some troublesome family history. University 4. Rated PG.

Manhunter — This thriller is about a retired FBI agent on the trail of a serial killer who has murdered many families in the south. It is said to be extremely violent. Fox Eastgate. Rated R.

Nothing in Common — Tom Hanks stars as an advertising man who tries to get to know his lonely, bitter father, played by Jackie Gleason. The film alternates both comedy and melodrama. Saluki. Rated PG.

Star 8 By Me — In a movie based on a Stephen King story, four Oregon 12-year olds during the summer of 1956 go hunting for the body of one of their peers who was killed. This is perhaps Rob Reiner's best film, as different scenes will make viewers want to laugh and cry.

Texas Chain Saw Massacre II — Remake of the famous, and rather comic, bloodbath, "The Texas Chain Saw Massacre." Varsity. No one under 17 admitted.

Touch and Go — Romantic comedy. Fox Eastgate. Rated R.

Top Gun — Navy Cadet Tom Cruise zooms around in an F-14. Tomcat jet between passes at female flight instructor Kelly McGillis. The movie knows more about planes than it does about love, but on planes rests its enormous popularity. Fox Eastgate. Rated PG.

Information on fellowships available to grad students

By Brett Yates
Staff Writer

Graduate students who have had difficulty funding research projects can find many sources of financial aid through the Office of Research, Development and Administration, says Kelly Cichy, research project specialist with Research, Development and Administration.

A year and a half ago, the office decided to organize the funding opportunities for graduate students to help them get fellowships, scholarships or grants-in-aid to conduct theses or research for dissertations, Cichy said.

"A lot of it resulted from the fact that with the outgrowth restraints everybody is under," she said, "anywhere that we can help students find extra funds benefits not only themselves and their professional development, it also benefits the University."

Information is available on about 1,000 different fellowships, scholarships and grants-in-aid, Cichy said.

Many of the grants offered are private foundation grants and range from funding research projects that are general in nature to those aimed at specific areas, such as the study of turtles.

Cichy said students can obtain grants for almost any research project if it is a valid idea.

She said there are grants available for graduate students to travel to almost any country in the world to conduct research.

Most grants are restricted to American citizens, but there are some grants available to international students, she said. Some grants are especially for women and minority groups.

The fellowships offered range from $12,500 to $4,000; scholarships from $4,000 to $1,000; and grants-in-aid up to $1,000, she said.

The bidding for the grants is very competitive, and someone applying for a grant should be a student in good standing and have an idea for a research project, she said.

Cichy recommended that students who wish to start research projects in fall 1987 should apply for funding now.

Most of the grants offered are at the doctoral level but there are more grants for science than for art and humanities, said Cichy.

For a $10 fee, students can have their research topic ideas sent to the University of Washington, where they are entered into a computer data base system containing about 3,000 different entries about various grants.

Students are then sent a list of grants they can apply for based upon the research topic.

Further inquiries should be made by contacting Cichy, 536-7791, extension 36.

Three skeletons found in Italy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Archeologists said Thursday they have found the skeletons of a man, woman and child clinging to each other, trapped in their house by an earthquake that destroyed their city on Cyprus 1,600 years ago.

David Soren, a University of Arizona classical archeologist who led the digging team, said the find brings to seven the number of human skeletons uncovered at the same house in the Roman city of Kourion.

"Here are people in their last moments," Soren said of the remains. "The find this year was particularly touching in that respect."

Soren believes the earthquake was a tremendous disaster similar in severity to the eruption of Mount Vesuvius and its destruction of Pompeii and Herculaneum.

The quake, which struck just after dawn July 21 in the year 365 A.D., created tidal waves from southern Greece to Alexandria, Egypt. The epicenter of the earthquake apparently was only 30 miles southwest of Kourion under the Mediterranean sea floor.

Evidence indicates that the quake struck so quickly there was no time to flee, so people were trapped just as they were starting their day.

"The most important thing is the really excellent degree of preservation of the material," Soren said in a telephone interview. "It will enable us to reconstruct a large portion of this community as well as to study humans and animals of this period — daily life, people living where they lived, using what they used."

The three skeletons, perhaps a family trapped in a bedroom, were uncovered in early August by Catarina Dias, a Portuguese archeology student.

The woman was about 19 years old. Her neck was broken at a right angle by falling plaster and stones as she clutched an 18-month-old child, who clung to the woman's arm.

The skeleton of the man, whose arm was protectively flung out across the woman to the child's back, was found under 500- to 600-pound stone blocks, its skull and spinal column crushed. The man's age has not been determined.

He had worn a ring with a Christian insignia, indicating the town may have been a settlement of Greek Christians.

In 1984, in what appeared to be a stable, Soren uncovered the skeleton of a girl later determined to be about 13. Her bones were atop the skeleton of a mule. The skeleton of a man aged 50 to 60 was found in 1985 crushed in the doorway of the same house.

PBS sweeps 22 Emmys for news, documentaries

NEW YORK (UPI) — PBS won 22 news and documentary Emmy Awards Wednesday night from the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, easily outdistancing the three commercial networks.

CBS won 14 Emmys, seven of them for "CBS Evening News" with Dan Rather, more than any other network news show. One "Evening News" Emmy went for outstanding coverage of a single breaking story — the Mexican earthquake.

ABC had nine wins, NBC had five and there was one syndicated winner, "Entertainment This Week."

NBC News refused to participate in the Emmys, but individuals were allowed to submit their own entries.

NBC did not take part in the news and documentary Emmys because of "questions about administration and voting procedures," the network said.

ABC picked up an Emmy for its coverage of "Crash of Delta," shown on "Nightline," with Richard Kaplan as executive producer and James Walker and Ted Koppel as reporter-correspondent.

Kaplan and Koppel teamed again as producer-reporter for a win in the same category for a "Nightline" program called "Colombian: Volcano," Andrews said.

Awards were announced during a dinner in New York attended by about 450 members of the academy.

Among the 22 Emmys won by PBS were two for excellence in the category of "Outstanding Background Analysis of a Single Current Story" — "Acid Rain — New Bad News" on "Nova" and "Men Who Molest" on "Frontline."

Also winning an Emmy in that category was ABC's "In South Africa" on "Nightline."

PBS also won for a segment in the background-analysis of a single current story category for "Farm Suicide," shown on the MacNeil-Lehrer Report.

In the category of "Outstanding Investigative Journalism," PBS won the only program award for its "Retreat from Beirut" on "Frontline" with producer David Fanning and reporter-correspondent William Greider.

PBS, which won awards for a total of 12 shows, also took the only honor for an interview program entitled "The Times of Harvey Milk," with David Loxton as producer and Robert Epstein and Richard Schmiechen as producer-interviewer.

CBS won seven Emmys for its "CBS Evening News" with Dan Rather program, four for "60 Minutes," two for "CBS Reports" and one for its Sunday Morning show.

Low gas prices might cause increase in holiday auto mishaps

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff Writer

The number of nationwide highway accident casualties could increase during this year's Labor Day weekend due to falling gasoline prices.

"There are very compelling reasons to forewarn the public of the probability of increased traffic fatalities and injuries in the near future. Whether increases occur during the Labor Day Weekend remains to be seen," says State Police Superintendent Laimutis Nargelenas.

Nargelenas said that a report from the National Safety Council's Board of Directors states that a demonstrated relationship between increased traffic fatalities and large decreases in gasoline prices exists.

The report states that "A 10 cent per gallon reduction in gasoline prices translates into about 25 billion extra miles of vehicular travel per year."

"At current mileage death rates (the lowest on record), this could mean an additional 650 deaths due to travel generated by the 10 cent per gallon reduction."

Nine people died in traffic accidents on Illinois roadways during last year's Labor Day weekend and 439 died nationwide, Nargelenas said.

Illinois State Police District 13 officers and other state police agencies will direct enforcement efforts toward accident-causing violations such as driving while intoxicated and violating speed limits. The Illinois seat belt law and the child passenger protection act will also be strictly enforced, Nargelenas said.

In Illinois, primary attention will be directed toward all interstates, expressways and state highways that have a greater than normal rate of accidents, he said.

Increased Labor Day weekend enforcement will begin at 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 29 and end at midnight Monday, Sept. 1.

Police close to Palme assassin

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Swedish police said Thursday they are close to uncovering details of the plot behind the February assassination of Prime Minister Olaf Palme.

"We are keeping certain people under surveillance," police spokesman Leif Hallberg said. "We have a pretty good picture of the motive and who may be responsible for the killing."

"That picture is getting clearer every day, but we are counting on several more weeks of work" before arrests can be made. Hallberg told United Press International.

Newspapers, quoting police sources, said investigators know the names of a loosely linked group of eight to 10 political extremists, both Swedes and foreigners, suspected of plotting the Feb.

28 assassins.

It is not the first time police have made optimistic statements about solving the slaying, which they maintain was carefully planned, without making any arrests.

The only hard evidence presented by police so far is the two .357-Magnum bullets fired by the killer and found by passersby in the street. The murder weapon, a Smith & Wesson revolver, has not been found.

Palme was shot in the back on a snowy downtown street while walking home — unguarded as usual — from a Friday night at the movies. A second bullet grazed his wife, Lisbet.

Two composite pictures based on witness accounts were released within weeks of the killing. One showed a tall dark-haired man whom police believe could be the killer. The other depicted a tall blond man described by police as an accomplice who stalked Palme.

A 33-year-old Swede once seen as the prime suspect in the killing was freed March 20 for lack of evidence and was eventually dropped from the investigation.

Chief prosecutor K.G. Svensson then resigned from the case, accusing Stockholm Police Chief Hans Holmer, who is heading the biggest manhunt in Swedish history, of meddling in his work.

Police also have been criticized for bungling the investigation in the crucial hours after the killing, allowing the assassin to slip away.

Firefighters return from Idaho

Two teams of firefighters from the Shawnee National Forest have returned to Southern Illinois after spending several weeks fighting fires in Idaho. Dennis Gillen, spokesman for the Shawnee National Forest staff, said that the Shawnee II crew would be back home by Thursday afternoon. The other crew, Shawnee III, returned Sunday.

Gillen said that the western crews that had been relieved by the Shawnee crews are now back on duty.

A spokesman for the Boise Interagency Fire Center said that the stubborn Anderson Complex Fire in central Idaho, which the Shawnee II crew had been battling since Aug. 18, has been contained, but not controlled. This means that firefighters have completed a fireline around the 18,400-acre blaze and are letting the interior burn out. Forty crews, about 800 men, are still assigned to the Anderson Fire.

Gillen said that another crew has been formed at Shawnee and will be ready to go west if needed. Fire activity in the western region is expected to increase this weekend, but should slack off soon with the beginning of the rainy season, Gillen said.

Group strives for women's political involvement

By JoDe Rimar
Staff Writer

TWO POLITICALLY active women from Southern Illinois are concerned about a lack of women's involvement in politics, and plan to do something about it.

The duo, which includes Sheila Simon, daughter of Democratic Sen. Paul Simon of Makanda, and Barbara Brown, professor of political science, has organized the "Women's Coalition for Southern Illinois" to get women involved and informed in politics.

Simon, who is making up her last semester of law school at SIUC this semester after dropping out a semester in 1984 to campaign for her father, said the coalition, which is made of "Democratic and progressive independent voters," plans to create a network of women to promote issues and candidates in Southern Illinois.

RAISING QUESTION about the "second wave" of issues concerning women's rights will be only one of many subjects the coalition will address, Simon said. One issue of the "second wave" Simon said she is interested in includes government-funded childcare programs for working mothers.

Brown, Democratic party committee chair of Randolph County, says part of the strength of the coalition is that it is not limited to women's issues. Brown said the coalition has attracted a "broadly based" group that has expressed concern about many issues — including promoting environmental safety, enhancing educational opportunities and maintaining peace.

BROWN SAID that although the Democratic Party has been strong for women's participation in this congressional district, the motivation of the coalition is to get women involved in politics who normally wouldn't participate.

The idea of organizing the coalition "crystallized" after the Democratic primary last spring, when Janice A. Hart and Mark J. Fairchild, two supporters of extremist Lyndon LaRouche, made the Democratic ballot for the November election, Brown said.

Brown, who called the nomination a "fiasco," said the nomination of the LaRouchites made her realize there are "too many people paying too little attention to issues."

"THE LAROUCHITE nomination was not a fluke," Brown said. "It can happen again."

The first step the coalition has taken to promote candidates was to sponsor a fundraiser for gubernatorial candidate Adlai Stevenson.

Stevenson, who left the Democratic ticket after the LaRouchites won nominations on the ballot, has re-entered the gubernatorial race on the Solidarity Party ticket.

The fund-raiser was held at the Student Center the second week of August, and included an appearance from Penny Severas, Democratic candidate in the 51st Senate District.

BROWN SAID that although the controversy of the election gave the coalition a good reason to come together, she said it gives them even more reason to stay together. Brown said she sees the coalition as a "long-term" organization.

Although the group labels themselves a women's coalition, Simon said membership is not limited to women.

The group, although not formally organized, has formed a steering committee to study issues and direct the organization, Simon said.

The coalition, which Simon said is seeking, to expand its membership, will have its second meeting on Sept. 17.

THOSE INTERESTED in joining the "Women's Coalition for Southern Illinois" can call Sheila Simon at 529-4222.

Krishna trial relocated

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI) — The trial of a Hare Krishna devotee accused of killing another member of the religious sect was moved to another county Thursday because of pre-trial publicity.

Marshall County Circuit Judge Richard Warmuth ordered the case of Thomas Drescher of Ravenna, Ohio, transferred to Preston County where it will be heard by Preston Circuit Judge Robert Halbritter.

Drescher is charged in the June 1983 murder of Charles Saint Denis, whose body has not been found. Authorities have speculated that Saint Denis was shot, then bound in logging chains and thrown into a lake near the Krishna community in West Virginia's northern panhandle.

Authorities say Saint Denis may have been killed over a personal loan or alleged child abuse at or near the Krishna community, known as New Vrindaban.

Drescher also is charged in California in the May shooting death of Krishna dissident Steven Bryant, whose body was found in a van in Los Angeles.

Information linking Drescher to the Bryant killing came from Randall Gorby of Bethesda, W. Va., who was seriously injured in a May explosion at his home.

Authorities believe Gorby, who has had a long association with the Krishnas, was a witness to the Saint Denis murder.

Bryant had raised allegations that the New Vrindaban Krishnas had been involved in drug dealing to finance their "Krishnaland" spiritual theme park. He also accused them of child abuse.

U.S. economy surges 1.1 percent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An administration forecast of renewed economic growth in the last half of the year got a shot of credibility Thursday from a 1.1 percent surge in a government barometer of future economic activity.

The Commerce Department's Composite Index of Leading Indicators rose from a revised 177.4 to an estimated 179.4 in July on a scale that began at 100 in 1967. It was the first gain in three months.

Based on more complete data, department analysts said the index rose by 1.2 percent in April, then slipped 0.1 percent in May and fell again, by 0.4 percent, in June. The monthly figures are adjusted for seasonal differences.

A preliminary report last month had charted a 1.3 percent increase in April and a 0.3 percent gain in June.

Much of the June revision was associated with a 0.46 percent drop in business inventories not contained in the early report. A 0.28 percent fall in net business formation also contributed to the setback.

The index, which seeks to forecast domestic economic activity three to six months in advance, has advanced by a healthy 3.3 percent in the last six months and 6 percent since July 1985.

The largest contributor to the July gain was a 0.35 percent surge in the money supply (M2), followed by a 0.33 percent increase in net business formation.

Vendor performance, raw materials prices, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, outstanding credit patterns and weekly initial claims for state unemployment insurance also made positive contributions.

A drop in stock prices partially offset the gains, knocking 0.14 percent off the index. Building permits and manufacturers' new orders for consumer goods and materials were the other negative contributors. One indicator, the length of the average work week, remained unchanged.

The gross national product, which the index seeks to forecast, rose by 3.8 percent at an annual rate in the first quarter of this year but slowed to a sickly 0.6 percent in the spring quarter.

Larry Gatlin, of the Gatlin Brothers, stopped in the middle of the first song Wednesday at the Du Quoin State Fair to let a woman in the audience snap his picture. Gatlin was surprised by the telephoto lens and tried out the camera for himself.

Despite cool winds, Gatlins warmly received

By Debra Keen-Cooper
Staff Writer

It's interesting to note that rock 'n' roll performers "play for their audience" and country western artists "sing for their audience."

Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers sang in a big way for an adoring crowd at the DuQuoin State Fair Wednesday night.

Keeping in tune with the original style that made them famous, Larry, Steve and Rudy Gatlin, along with their band, thrilled an audience of about 3100 with hits such as "Love Is Just A Game" and "She's A Broken Lady." Their intricate harmonies and casual wit created a relaxed atmosphere, despite the chilly winds that whipped through the grandstand.

The Gatlin Brothers have performed together nearly all their lives. In 1979, the group was showered with awards by the Academy of Country Music, winning album of the year for "Straight Ahead" and single of the year for "All The Gold In California." Larry was also voted Top Male Vocalist by the ACM in 1979.

Larry attributes his success to country western singer, Dottie West, who is responsible for getting him to Nashville. "If it weren't for Dottie West," Larry says, "I'd be a lawyer in Texas."

The Gatlins are Texas born and bred country boys who currently reside in Brentwood, Tenn. In addition to being fluent on several guitars each, Larry sings lead, Steve provides the bass (vocals) and Rudy sings tenor.

During the performance, Larry busted a string on one of his guitars. He took hold of the situation, joking with an audience member explaining that it was his 'G' string.

Tammy Wynette is also credited with aiding the success of the Gatlins. All three brothers have worked with Wynette's band, "Young Country." Larry was a member of the "Imperials" when Elvis performed with them.

Preceding the Gatlin's on the grandstand stage was Warner recording artist, Gary Morris. Morris replaced Kris Kristofferson who was unable to perform because of a scheduling conflict.

A definite hit with the ladies, Morris was showered with flowers and kisses during his love songs. His melodic voice mesmerized the crowd to a hush so intense that the wind could be heard through the quiet chords.

Morris is currently on tour, promoting his latest album, "Plain Brown Wrapper." He performed several cuts from the album including his current hit single "Honeycomb."

Morris was voted Billboard's New Male Singles Artist of the year in 1982. He has been nominated for several awards, including the CMA Horizon award in 1983 and Top Male Vocalist of the year for the ACM in 1985.

This versatile entertainer was a hit on Broadway last fall, performing "La Boheme" with Linda Ronstadt, and was seen on ABC's, "The Colby's."

Fair attendance rises by 5,000

By Bill Ruminski
Staff Writer

Southern Illinoisians have four days to visit, or revisit, the 64th Annual Du Quoin State Fair. About 105,000 people attended the fair during the first half of its 10-day run. The five-day attendance estimate exceeds last year's total by 5,000.

"There are two things you need to have a great fair," says Jim Skilbeck, aide to Gov. James Thompson, "clean grounds and good weather."

Friday is SIU Day at the fair. Students with an SIU ID can purchase $7 wristbands for $5. Wristbands entitle wearers to enjoy midway attractions without buying tickets each time. Fares for attractions range from 50 cents to $2.

Grand Circuit Harness Racing, ballroom dancing and a concert by Jermaine

Jackson highlight Friday's lineup. The day begins with the opening of the midway at noon while the bands Gunrunner and Cimarron perform inside the Miller and Budweiser tents. The tent entertainment is free.

Grand Circuit Harness Racing, featuring the Filly Division of the World Trotting Derby, will start at 1 p.m. Also at 1 p.m., a senior citizen's ballroom dance contest will be at the Fair-A-Gon Ballroom. Danny Davis and The Nashville Brass will perform on the stage behind the ballroom at 7 p.m. and Jermaine Jackson takes over the grandstand stage at 8 p.m.

Saturday's fair schedule begins with livestock judgments at 8:30 a.m. and the Illinois Classic Quarter Horse Show at 9 a.m.

Highlighting Saturday's schedule is the running of the World Trotting Derby at noon and a grandstand performance by Willie Nelson at 8 p.m.

Sunday is Race Day. Time trials for the ARCA 200-mile Permatex Super Car series race begin at 1 a.m. The race will follow the time trials. A concert in the grandstand by John Clafferty and the Beaver Brown Band begins at 8 p.m.

On Monday, the final day of the fair, fairgoers can watch the time trials and running of USAC 100-mile Silver Crown Series Dirt Car race beginning at 11 a.m.

As the sun begins to set Ronnie Milsap and John Conlee will take command of the grandstand for the final performance of the fair.

Houston hits back at Mets after arrests

HOUSTON (UPI) — A city police officer is boasting of brisk sales of T-shirts that commemorate the arrests of four New York Mets outside a nightclub last month.

Officer Al Skoczen said Wednesday more than 400 of the shirts which say, "Houston Police 4, New York Mets 0," were sold within the first two days they were offered for sale early this week at two area stores. Skoczen designed the shirts.

But attorney Dick DeGuerin, who represents the four Mets, said the 4-0 printed on the shirts is "only the first-inning score."

The slogan on the $8 gray shirts with blue and white lettering refers to a July 20 incident outside Cooter's nightclub that resulted in the arrests of second baseman Tim Lincecum and pitchers Ron Darling, Bob Ojeda and Rick Aguilera.

Future looks bright for agriculture students

By Paul Buckner
Staff Writer

So, you want to be a farmer? Farming may not be a bad idea, especially in Southern Illinois. Better yet, if one is a student in the SIU-C School of Agriculture, chances are pretty good that a job can be found in one of the fields of agriculture.

Agriculture, like most occupations, experiences cycles of good times and bad, says Don Elkins, associate dean for the Ag School. Agriculture, he said, is on an upswing.

"It's probably the right time to get into agriculture," Elkins says, "because it's in the low part of the cycle now. It's not all roses here, it's going through some tough times."

BUT THE opportunities are broad in agriculture because it's more and more becoming a highly technical and scientific field, he says.

The first agriculture school, associated with a land grant college, was established in the 1700s. The Land-Grant Colleges Act, passed in the 1860s, allowed the government to give land reserved for agriculture for the establishment of colleges.

The SIU-C Ag School was established in 1956. It offers programs in three curriculums — agriculture, food and nutrition, and forestry — which are divided into five departments: agribusiness economics; agriculture education and mechanization; animal science; forestry; and plant and soil science.

GENERAL AGRICULTURE, the school's major, focuses on general farming and other agriculture careers where a broadly based training is needed. The school also offers an environmental studies specialization within the major.

The school has 55 faculty members, all of whom hold doctorate degrees. Current enrollment is 700 undergraduate students and 230 graduate students, many at the master's degree level. Of the students, about 30 percent are women.

The enrollment, however, is on a decline, especially in forestry. The department, established in 1957, currently enrolls 120 undergraduates and 15 graduate students. George Weaver, chair of the department, says the decline is probably related to the number of decreasing jobs at the federal level.

THE FORESTRY Service has not been hiring many new people in the last few years, Weaver says. The decline in enrollment at SIU-C, he says, has decreased at the same rate as enrollment at other forestry schools in the nation.

Even with the decline, Weaver says, it is a good time to get into forestry because the field could "turn around in a hurry." Recent articles in professional forestry journals show that "within four or five years, there will be a shortage of professional foresters."

"The federal agencies have a lot of people reaching retirement age in the next five to 10 years, and there is a concern whether those slots will be filled," he said.

IN THE MEANTIME, many graduated students become employed with state governments, county agencies and municipalities, and in private industry.

Others, Weaver said, go into private consulting firms. "They are self-employed, as business persons, and work with land owners who wish to have their land managed for soil and water conservation or wildlife refuge purposes," he said.

To help combat the decline in the agriculture departments, a telemarketing campaign, more commonly known as a phone-a-thon, was conducted in February by the school's outstanding students.

OF THE 170 people who applied and were accepted for the fall 1986 semester, about 120 were contacted by telephone.

Follow-up letters providing information on scholarships, housing, sports and other university offerings were sent. Faculty members made phone calls about two to three weeks afterward to offer prospective students further help or information.

Elkins said 107 of the ap-

plications were identified as incomplete because something, such as transcripts, were lacking, Elkins said he expected about 37 percent of those students would show up.

ALSO ASSOCIATED is University Farms. Established on 60 acres of land in the 1940s, the farms now occupy 2,000 acres just west of the central campus.

The farm land is used for research and cash revenue. Elkins said, SIU-C operates two agronomy research centers — one near Evergreen Terrace and one in Belleville. Both are under the direction of George Kapusta, professor of plant and soil science.

The centers grow several crops, including corn, soybeans and wheat. The aim of the centers, Kapusta says, is to learn to produce a higher yielding crop for less money.

CURRENTLY, RESEARCH in soil conservation, crop protection and pest control is being conducted by 12 faculty members. "There is an economical aspect that has to be considered all the time, or the farmers don't make money," he said.

About 12 other research projects are being conducted at the horticulture research centers, which are supervised by Brad Taylor of the Plant and Soil Science Department.

The center on Chautauqua Street, he said, is used primarily for research on horticultural crops such as flowers, vegetables, turf grass, fruit crops and woody ornamentals, or shade trees and shrubbery.

The research that is done, Taylor said, is partially funded by cooperative projects with chemical companies, the Botany Department and SIU-C. But money is not a direct function of the research centers.

"Our main function is to uncover new knowledge," Taylor said. "If there is a surplus crop, we may dispose of it by selling it, but cash revenue is very limited."

Learning disabled students can achieve via program

By Nola J. Cowser
Staff Writer

The Achieve program at SIU-C gives students with learning disabilities a chance they otherwise might not have, says Barbara Cordoni, director of the program.

Cordoni, who has a doctorate in educational psychology with a specialization in learning disabilities, came to SIU-C in 1978 with an idea, she said.

She had been working with learning disabled students at the elementary level, but thought she needed to look at young adults and adults with learning disabilities to better understand what learning disabled children needed most.

By understanding problems faced by the older students, Cordoni said educators might be able to focus on solving problems younger students face before they reach college.

THE PROGRAM accepts 50 incoming freshman every year and works with a total of about 120 students at various stages of development. Cordoni emphasized that these students enroll in the same academic courses as all university students and must fulfill the same requirements.

"I want them to graduate knowing their degree are no less than anyone else's," Cordoni said.

Cordoni said Achieve helps students with all types of learning disabilities. "Some have difficulty reading, but orally are at the top of the class; others have no difficulty reading but have difficulty expressing themselves orally or in writing," she said.

ONE OF the first things a student in the program is introduced to is a computer word processor. Cordoni says writing for the students is not as difficult once they start working on the computer.

"You find these beautiful creative minds that have been held back by a pencil," she said.

Services available to students with learning disabilities include notetaking, tutoring and test proctoring. Cordoni added that students usually do not require all of these services for all of their classes. Only one-half of the freshman students need full services and only seven or eight of the original 50 need any of the services by the time they reach their senior year.

CORDONI SAID students are provided with letters to give to their professors, if they want to, explaining their learning disability and the Achieve program. "Professors at this university are almost uniformly supportive. They do understand that students are required to do the same course work," Cordoni said.

All Achieve students have the full confidentiality of the Achieve staff. The staff will not tell anyone about the learning disability without the permission of the student.

If the student wishes, he is allowed to take exams outside of class with a proctor. This allows a student who has difficulty writing extra time to complete the test and also allows the professor to adequately see what the student has learned.

"THE TEST measures how fast the student can learn, not how fast he can write," Cordoni said, stressing this does not mean a student cannot read or cannot write, but it is a slower process for them.

"With learning disabilities we are talking about a matter of degree," she said.

Cordoni explained learning disability as difficulty grasping abstract concepts used in learning. For example, when a child goes to kindergarten, he is introduced to the letter "m." He is told, "this is 'm.' This is the letter that is found at the beginning of 'mama.'" So, letters are abstract symbols for the sounds children have known for a long time. Numbers are the same, Cordoni said.

THE FIGURE "4" represents a number of items that a student can count. Some children have little difficulty with the abstract, but others have a lot of difficulty.

Thomas Edison, Woodrow Wilson and Winston Churchill are common examples of famous people with learning disabilities. Each of these men were either the sons of teachers or were wealthy enough to hire private tutors. Cordoni said research into what helped these people achieve success showed that it was the one-on-one tutoring they received.

"Over 25 percent of the students in SIU-C's Achieve program are gifted and do very well when they have that kind of help," Cordoni said.

ACHIEVE HAS a two-pronged effort, Cordoni said. While tutoring students in their classes they also teach remediation skills, such as learning how to take notes or write papers. Students with learning disabilities must work harder than students without learning disabilities on classwork as well as working to overcome the disability, she said.

Students in the Achieve program on the average have a higher level of success than students in the University at large, Cordoni says.

Cordoni has two success stories: two of her children have learning disabilities but have overcome them. Doctors told Cordoni to take her third child home and to love him because there was no one who could help him. "This was ridiculous, because I already loved him and I was definitely taking him home," she said.

HER SON is now in his second year of attending medical school.

One of Cordoni's daughters, who completed high school in three and a half years and now attends SIU-C, also has a learning disability.

Cordoni said she once asked her daughter whether she resented the time spent helping other people's children. "She said, 'No, Mama, they are all my sisters and brothers.'"

"It's OK to be a gas station attendant if that is what you want to be. What is not OK is to be denied the chance to try to be what you want to be," Cordoni said.

Campers worry forest officials

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Victory was declared over one of the worst eruptions of wildfires to ever hit the West but U.S. forestry officials Thursday expressed a new worry — the hordes of Labor Day weekend campers headed to the tinder-dry back country.

Forest managers in Idaho, Oregon and Washington — three of the states hardest hit by the destructive blazes — imposed stiff fire restrictions on their public lands.

They were especially wary because wilderness visitors typically make the Labor Day holiday one of the nation's biggest outdoor weekends of the year.

The last major blaze among the thousands that raged over nine Western states was finally declared contained Wednesday night.

The Anderson fire in Idaho's Boise National Forest blackened 18,000 acres before firefighters could corral it.

A total of 6,895 forest and range fires — most caused by lightning — have burned 742,000 acres since Aug. 2 in one of the nation's worst fire seasons on record. Five men died in the massive firefighting effort that once involved 18,000 personnel.

"For God's sake, don't throw matches or cigarettes out the car window," pleaded Arnold Hartigan of the Boise Interagency Fire Center, which coordinates the nation's firefighting efforts. "Use common sense."

"We're not allowing anyone to use a chain saw until we get more moisture," he said.

Campers going into Idaho's northern and central mountains for the weekend and the first hunting season of the year will not be permitted to build campfires outside developed campgrounds, he said.

Car loan rates at GM dive to all-time low

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Co. Thursday offered 2.9 percent financing on all of its 1986 cars and most light trucks, the lowest retail rate in its history, in a drive to clear packed dealer salesrooms for 1987 models.

"If anyone has been waiting for GM's final closeout of 1986 models, this is it — and for that reason, we're calling the program 'The Big One,'" said James G. Vorhes, vice president in charge of GM's sales and service staff.

The 2.9 percent annual rate applies on 36-month contracts with 4.8 percent available on 48-month contracts on all passenger cars and most light-duty trucks. As an alternative, customers may receive cash rebates ranging from $300 to $1,500, depending on the model.

Ford Motor Co. President Harold Poling reacted quickly, saying, "It ruined my day." There was no immediate response from Chrysler.

The biggest incentive package in the 67-year history of the General Motors Acceptance Corp., the No. 1 automaker's financing arm, comes at a time of lagging sales and reported customer indifference to look-alike models.

"GM dealers have over 1 million new 1986 cars and light trucks for sale," Vorhes said. "This massive new incentive program offers outstanding bargains to customers and will enable us to clear our decks for a fast start on GM's 1987 model year."

At the same time, GM is delaying 1987 model introduction from Sept. 25 to Oct. 9, Vorhes said, "so the (incentive) program can achieve maximum impact with our customers in GM dealerships."

The million vehicles in dealers' hands amounts to a 65- to 70-day supply, Vorhes said, adding, "That's really not too far out from what you traditionally have going into a cleanup."

New law to protect police

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Reagan signed "long overdue" legislation Thursday that bans armor-piercing "cop-killer" bullets and urged law officers to further reduce threats to their safety by wearing bulletproof vests.

"We are doing our best at the federal level to enhance the safety of police officers," he added, "but must have the cooperation of the officers themselves to secure the full benefits of this important legislative action."

The legislation signed by Reagan, endorsed by a variety of law enforcement organizations and similar to proposals submitted by the Justice and Treasury departments in 1984, would ban the production and importation of armor-piercing ammunition capable of penetrating most bulletproof vests worn by police.

Reagan called the bullets "an unreasonable threat" to those officers who wear body armor and said the ban "recognizes that certain forms of ammunition have no legitimate sporting, recreational or self-defense use and thus should be prohibited."

"Such action is long overdue," he said.

School book censorship rises

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There were 130 incidents of attempts to censor library and public school books and teaching curricula in the last year, up a third from the previous year, People for the American Way said Thursday.

Among the most popular targets of the citizen censors were Alice Walker's Pulitzer Prize-winning book, "The Color Purple," on the basis of "inappropriate" language, and the film version of Shakespeare's play, "Romeo and Juliet," because it allegedly promotes teen suicide and drug use.

"This year's censorship picture is a portrait of educators under siege," said Anthony Podest, president of People For the American Way, a national non-profit organization that focuses on constitutional liberties.

"In the middle of a drug epidemic that reaches farther and farther down into our schools, educators are being pressured by the censors to end drug education programs," he said. "In the face of a crisis of teen pregnancy, censors are pushing to eliminate sex education."

According to the survey, "Attacks on the Freedom to Learn" and based on published reports, the 130 incidents happened in 44 states and are nearly equally divided among every region of the country and occur in urban as well as rural areas.

The survey said that many more of the incidents are initiated by organized groups rather than individual parents, saying that "far right groups" were responsible for 43 percent of the efforts to censor books, films or curricula. It named several groups, including Concerned Women of America, the Eagle Forum, and the Freedom Council.

But other points on the ideological spectrum also were represented, the report said, noting that the NAACP chapter in Pinal County, Ariz., objected to use of Harper Lee's book, "To Kill A Mockingbird," and environmentalists in Oregon said a 4th grade social sciences textbook contained "pro-industry propaganda."

Vitamins a waste, nutritionist says

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — A nutritionist claims vitamins are a waste of money for most people and can be downright hazardous to your health.

"Forty percent of the population takes some type of nutritional supplement at a cost of more than $2.6 billion a year," William Evers of Purdue University said. "That means 40 percent of us are making very expensive urine."

"My bottom-line concern is that it promotes a false sense of security: 'If I take a vitamin a day, it doesn't matter what I eat,'" he said.

But Evers, a professor in Purdue's Department of Foods and Nutrition, says scientists aren't even sure that all of the nutrients needed by mankind have been identified. And he contends scientists aren't completely sure how vitamins work and when they work.

"When you take a vitamin in the morning with your cereal and juice, probably only a portion of the vitamin is absorbed," he said. "Iron absorption would be aided by the presence of the ascorbic acid vitamin C in the orange juice. But many other vitamins would be absorbed best with more fat, which you might not eat until lunch or dinner."

"And no one knows if the vitamins that require fat will hang around in the system, sort of like a time-released capsule, until you eat your meat loaf at dinner," Evers said.

Researchers aren't even sure how long the body can go without a nutrient before the body's stores are depleted, Evers said.

"Most of the fat-soluble vitamins and minerals — like vitamin E — are stored, and it takes a long time to see a deficiency," he said. "Even water-soluble ones, like vitamin C, require several days to deplete body stores."

Because the body stores many nutrients, an overdose can produce a sometimes fatal toxic reaction, Evers said.

"Large doses of vitamin A can cause loss of weight, loss of hair, nausea, and pain in bones and joints of children," he said. "Other nutrients known to have toxic effects are vitamins D and K and the trace minerals zinc and selenium."

Pesticide linked to birth defects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The pesticide dinoseb, commonly used on soybeans, potatoes and other crops, may cause birth defects in children whose mothers are at work in the fields when the substance is applied, the government warned Thursday.

The Environmental Protection Agency said women of child-bearing age should avoid exposure to dinoseb during its application and shortly afterward.

Because sterility tests have shown less serious problems in male laboratory mice and rats, the agency suggested that men working with dinoseb also avoid direct exposure. The EPA advised other precautions in handling or laundering clothing contaminated with dinoseb.

Dietary exposure to dino. eb causes no problems, the EPA said, noting the "extremely low" residues found in foods harvested from dinoseb-treated fields.

"Today's announcement is primarily aimed at making sure that the agricultural community in particular understands the health risks associated with exposure of women to dinoseb," said Deputy EPA Administrator James Barnes.

The EPA will draft regulations shortly to deal with the problem, he said.

An EPA spokesman said the agency's warning has particular urgency because dinoseb is used in late summer to dry certain vegetables, especially potatoes, before harvest.

Dinoseb is used primarily as a contact herbicide to control broadleaf weeds in fields of soybeans, cotton, potatoes, peanuts, alfalfa, beans, berries and other fruits.

Between 7 million and 11 million pounds of dinoseb are used each year in the United States in the form of 180 registered products.

The EPA considers dinoseb highly toxic to humans by exposure through the skin and by inhalation. Label directions require protective clothing for those who apply the substance, either with ground equipment, hand-held spray guns or airplanes.

The EPA action is based on recent studies that indicate dinoseb caused irreversible neurological and skeletal malformations in the offspring of laboratory animals exposed to the substance during pregnancy.

NASA discontinues shuttle salvage effort

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — NASA called off the search for shuttle wreckage Thursday, ending the largest ocean search and salvage project in history seven months to the day after Challenger exploded in a deadly ball of flaming debris.

In Port Canaveral, where hundreds of reporters once maintained vigils awaiting salvage ships, the final three vessels in the search operation tied up at a Navy pier in what amounted to a symbolic conclusion to the aftermath of history's worst space disaster. Only a handful of journalists were on hand.

REAR ADM. Richard Truly, chief of the shuttle program, said in a statement the Navy salvage office at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station will be closed as well as Defense Department support office. At the height of the salvage effort in February, 22 ships were involved.

But Air Force Col. Edward O'Connor, who directed the massive salvage operation for NASA, said in an interview that some minimal recovery efforts probably will continue indefinitely. But he said all key components of Challenger, destroyed Jan. 28, had been recovered.

"In the case of the shuttle accident we wanted to extract as much technical information as we could from the debris," he said. "So we set a goal that we wanted at least 25 percent of each major vehicle component."

THE SALVAGE operation, believed to have cost about $20 million, accomplished much more than that.

O'Connor said close to 100 percent of the shuttle's two solid-fuel boosters, called 3FBs, was located and 50 percent was brought to shore, including the fuel segment joint that ruptured to down Challenger 73 seconds after blastoff. In addition, salvage teams recovered about 50 percent of the shuttle's giant external fuel tank.

As for the shuttle, O'Connor said 55 percent of the vehicle was located and 45 percent was brought to shore, including 95 percent of the crew module. Remaining on the murky seabed is the orbiter's left wing, largely intact, and other debris that was not vital to the investigation.

AS FOR Challenger's payload, O'Connor said 35 percent of a $100 million shuttle tracking satellite was recovered along with 90 percent of its booster rocket. In addition, salvage crews recovered 95 percent of the Spartan-Halley science observatory.

"We have now confirmed that this is indeed the largest ever search and recovery operation conducted," he said.

"We have covered 93,600 square miles of surface search, so we're dealing in huge numbers.

"Around 6,000 people have been involved in this recovery. In most water recovery activities you're looking at one spot, so to speak, where something impacted. Here, we're talking about things that were spread over a large amount of ocean."

FOR THE past few months, only the Liberty Star, the Freedom Star and the Independence have been involved in the search operation. The NASA ships were built to recover booster rocket casings after they fall away from a climbing shuttle.

"There'll probably be minimal recovery activities going on for a long time because the SRB retrieval ships are available assets, they also need to do continuing training so a good way to train them is to continue to go out there and pick up small components," O'Connor said. "That could go on through next year possibly."

O'CONNOR HAS proposed a plan in which the shuttle wreckage would be stored indefinitely in abandoned Minuteman missile silos at the nearby Cape Canaveral Air Force Station. If the plan is approved by NASA headquarters, transfer of wreckage would begin early next year.

The search operation did much more than result in recovered shuttle debris, it taught NASA what is needed if another such operation is ever required in the future.

AS FOR problems, O'Connor said one of the first lessons learned was that NASA's contingency plan was inadequate for the massive scale of the job.

Groups support teen parents

By Paula Kurtzwell
Staff Writer

Teen Parent Support Groups held in Carbondale, Benton, Murphysboro and Marion are providing encouragement, advice and information to area adolescent parents.

Begun two years ago by the Carbondale-based Adolescent Health Center, the support groups give young parents a chance to discuss their problems with other teen parents and to receive information about better parenting.

The group meetings also provide an opportunity for participants to learn about decision making, sexuality, job hunting, college and other relevant topics, says Paul Logeman, parent group and volunteer coordinator.

"All of this promotes a healthy family atmosphere," said Logeman. "If a mother feels good about herself and her future and can clarify her values, she will be a better parent."

Logeman added that the information offered in the support groups can help break the chain of child abuse and may help prevent a second pregnancy.

Support groups taught Sharon Hampton, a freshman in child care at John A. Logan College who became a mother at 17, about "real life." Hampton now plans to share her experiences with the current group of young parents as a group facilitator.

One killed, injured in car-truck crash

A Carbondale man died and his wife was seriously injured from an accident that occurred Wednesday at around 9:30 p.m. on Highway 51 north of Du Quoin.

According to Illinois District Thirteen Police reports, a truck going south on route 51 was waiting to turn left when a car driven by Eugene Baggett, 64, ran into it. Baggett was killed and his wife Pauline, 64, was taken to Marshall Browning Hospital in Du Quoin in serious condition.

The driver of the truck, David G. Kristen of Sheller, had a minor injury but was not treated, the report said.

Democrats warn against LaRouchites

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — New Hampshire Democrats, acknowledging they could lose to a Lyndon LaRouche candidate, teamed up with an Illinois senator Thursday to warn that the political extremist represents a Nazi-like movement.

The three LaRouche candidates who are running for congressional nominations in New Hampshire's Sept. 9 Democratic primary called the move a last-minute attempt to confuse voters.

State Democratic Chairman George Bruno said his news conference, which included party candidates and a live telephone hook-up with Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., was an "extra step" to thwart LaRouche efforts.

"I expressed some vulnerability for the Democratic Party in the 2nd Congressional District," Bruno said. "That vulnerability is diminishing as each day goes by."

The 2nd District race pits LaRouche candidate Stephen Gryce against party-backed Laurence Craig-Green. In the 1st District, LaRouche follower Kenneth Bush faces three mainstream Democrats while in the Senate primary LaRouche follower Robert Patton faces two party-backed candidates.

Simon said Illinois learned the "hard way" when two LaRouche followers won statewide party primaries earlier this year.

"We were negligent," Simon said. "The lesson from Germany back in the early 1930s is a very clear one—don't ignore these fringe groups. People regarded the Nazis as a little fringe group."

Bruno said LaRouche has created a "cult" that believes the Queen of England is involved in the international drug trade and that former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is an agent working for the Soviet Union.

Politician in soup over ad campaign

MIAMI (UPI) — State legislative candidate Jack Campbell may be in the soup over his campaign advertising.

The Campbell Soup Co., based in Camden, N.J., filed suit Wednesday accusing the candidate of trying to take advantage of the company's reputation by copying its famous label on signs and other campaign material.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court six days before the Democratic primary, said there is no link between Jack Campbell and the soup company, which it called a symbol of "traditional all-American values and wholesomeness."

The company charged that Campbell, a Dade County businessman who is running for the state House of Representatives, violated the soup company's 81-year-old trademark and is seeking a court order forcing him to change the design on his campaign ads.

"We don't want people to see our trademarks and think of Jack Campbell," said William Hamilton, an attorney representing the soup maker.

Campbell, 33, said he will wait for a court order before taking any action.

the lifeblood of the Indians pumps through the wishbone.

Also teaming up in the 'bone will be returnee Boris Whiteside at left halfback and Nikita Johnson at right halfback.

Defensively, the Indians will be led by end Marvin Neloms and cornerback Greg Lee.

NELOMS, A 6-FOOT-3, 220-pound senior, is a two-time All-America honorable mention and two-time all-conference selection who made his name by collecting 31 sacks in the last two seasons. Lacewell called Neloms "a natural passer-rusher and the best in the conference."

Lee, a junior and yet another all-conference selection, swiped six passes last season to help pace the Indian defensive backfield. Other returnees on the defensive side include two-year starting linebacker Anthony Winters, tackle Clint Ledbetter, strong safety Elbert Shelley and free safety Vincent Barnett right cornerback.

JOHNNY FIELD WILL NOT be making the trip in a playing capacity; he was in a rest jersey at Thursday's light practice and was walking with a noticeable limp.

Youthful spikers set for Ole Miss and others on tough '86 slate

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

A young but quicker SIU-C women's volleyball team will begin the 1986-87 season with 13 consecutive road matches. The first opponent they face will be Mississippi on Aug. 31. The road trip will include tough matches against defending NCAA champion University of Pacific, Colorado State, Oklahoma, Northwestern and Iowa.

"Our schedule the first three weeks of the season is one of the toughest we've ever had," coach Debbie Hunter said. "Given the fact that we have only two returning starters from last year, winning half of our matches in September is going to be a major challenge."

Hunter said all of the players

are looking forward to starting the season. The team has a lot to prove to everybody against their first opponent, Mississippi, because of the loss SIU-C suffered last at Davies against Ole Miss. "We hope to put on a better performance than we did last year," Hunter said.

Ole Miss has a new coach this year in John Blair, who used to coach at Illinois. Hunter expects Ole Miss to be a little unsettled because of the coaching change and it being the first game of the season. Hunter feels the important factor to winning the game against Ole Miss will be consistency and keeping the number of errors under control.

Hunter returns only two starters from last year's 26-11 team that finished second in the Gateway Conference and was ranked ninth in the region by Midwest Volleyball Magazine. They are senior middle blockers Pat Nicholson (Waukegan, Ill.) and Jan Tremblay (Montreal, Canada).

Alumni to scrimmage spikers Friday

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

The 1986-87 women's volleyball team will be playing a five-match scrimmage in the 4th Annual Alumni match Aug. 30, at 1 p.m. in Davies Gym.

Head coach Debbie Hunter said that it should be a very strong scrimmage. She added that it is pleasing yet questionable on why the alumni are so much better after they leave SIU-C.

There are six alumni expected to play in the match, but Hunter said that if necessary she will put a couple of the current players on the alumni squad. The expected alumni are: Fay Chea, Lisa Cummins, Darlene Hogue, Mary Maxwell, Bonnie Norreuberns and Lynn Williams.

The two names that should bring back memories to people who followed the Saluki spikers last year are Cummins and Hogue. Both were seniors on the 1985-86 team.

Cummins was honored last year as a first team all-america academic player. Hogue, who was probably better known as "the hammer," made the all-conference second team last year.

Hunter said that the scrimmage should be even and that she looks for her team to develop a feeling for competitive play. Hunter also hopes the scrimmage will be very productive.

Trotting derby up for grabs, down-to-wire finish possible

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

The trotters could race to a photo finish in the $630,000 World Trotting Derby, unlike the no-surprise runaway victory of Prakas last year.

The event begins at noon Saturday to cap off a week of Grand Circuit horse racing held at the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds.

The lightning-fast mile track, nicknamed the "Magic Mile", has yielded 15 world records, including the mark of 1:53.2 set by Prakas last year.

This year, suspense falls among betting favorites Nuclear Kosmos and Tabor Lobell of the Per Henriksen Stable from Norway, and Royal Prestige and Barbeque of the Continental Stable from Sweden. Stablemates race with the same head, or betting number, at the same odds.

Uli Thoresen, of Norway steered Nuclear Kosmos to a straight heat victory in the Hambletonian, Aug. 2. The Per Henriksen-trained colt trotted to a lifetime best of 1:55.4 in the elimination.

Royal Prestige collected the season's best mark for three-year-olds in 1:55.2 in the first division with Berndt Lindstedt in the sulkey. However, in the final Nuclear Kosmos edged Royal Prestige by a neck in 1:56.1.

Royal Prestige went on to capture the $105,000 Review Futurity, Aug. 14.

Gov. James Thompson's wife, Jayne, drew Royal

Prestige in the No. 5 position, and he became Saturday's pre-race favorite at 3-1 odds. Lindstedt is listed as the probable driver of the Jan Johnson-trained colt, which has six 1986 victories in nine starts.

With Thoresen as probable driver, Nuclear Kosmos will take the No. 7 position at 7-2 odds, Saturday. Nuclear Kosmos has a record of five wins in eight starts.

Tabor Lobell, a 1986 newcomer, picked up his seventh win at the $185,000 Zweig Memorial at Syracuse in 1:55.4, Aug. 17, and takes a slate of eight wins in 14 starts into the race Saturday. As the other Per Henriksen stable entrant at 7-2 odds, Tabor Lobell will likely be driver, by Mickey McNichol from the No. 9 post position.

Barbeque, trained by probable driver Jan Johnson, suffered a break in the Hambletonian but rebounded with an elimination victory in the Review Futurity in Springfield. Barbeque clocked his best at 1:57 in a division of the Beacon Course Trot at the Meadowlands, Aug. 8. He starts in the No. 10 pole position Saturday and as the stablemate of Royal Prestige takes 3-1 odds. Although he scored nine wins in 1985, Barbeque has just three wins in 14 starts this year.

The lone filly, Chickadee Newton, faces her first test against the colts Saturday. Chickadee Newton sports two winning times of 1:55.3 at Springfield in heats of the Review Futurity two weeks ago. The James Simpson-trained filly has four wins in 12 starts to her credit and will likely be driven by Row Waples from the No. 13, second-row position, Saturday at 6-1 odds.

The horse to win two heats wins the World Trotting Derby. If a new horse wins the second heat, the entire field returns for the third heat. If yet another new winner takes the third heat, then only the three previous winners return for the fourth heat, approximately one hour later, to determine the race winner.

Pole positions, horses and probable drivers for the race are as follows:

- 1 - Summer Home, D. Miller, 2 - Remarkable Nevele, G. Sholty, 3 - Pamela's Pride, R. Silverman, 4 - Defiant's Pride, H. Beissinger, 5 - Royal Prestige, B. Lindstedt, 6 - Mr. Novak, J. Takter, 7 - Nuclear Kosmos, U. Thoresen, 8 - Armbr Eldorado, D. Richardson, Jr., 9 - Tabor Lobell, M. McNichol, 10 - Barbeque, J. Johnson, (second row) 11 - Shannon Bright, H. Wallner, 12 - Long Legend, J. Simpson, Jr., 13 - Chickadee Newton, R. Waples, 14 - Everglade Hanover, J. Simpson, Jr., 15 - Elgin Almahurs, J. Nordin, 16 - Brandenburg, D. Magee.

Stock and champ dirt cars highlight fair racing slate

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

The Du Quoin State Fair will be featuring what should be two exciting auto races during the Labor Day weekend.

Practice laps get underway Aug. 31 around 11 a.m. for the 200-mile ARCA Permatex Super Car Series. The feature race will follow qualifying.

Last year Lee Raymond topped a field of 37 drivers and took home the winning prize amount of $42,000. There should be an exciting finish in which any car will be able to take the checkered flag first.

On Sept. 1 the USAC Silver Crown Dirt Car Race will be featured. This event could determine the 1986 Valvoline USAC Silver Crown Championship Series leader.

Jack Hewitt is currently the leader with 504 points, followed by Rick Hood who has 312 and Steve Butler with 303.

Hood pulled out a spectacular victory last year at the Du Quoin State Fair, and any hopes he might have of repeating as the 1986 Valvoline USAC Silver Crown champion may hinge on his ability to win the 100-mile race on Labor Day.

A victory for Hood at Du Quoin will give him 200 points. Currently he trails Hewitt by 192 points.

Hood surprised race fans last Labor Day by coming from third place to pass both leader Steve Chassey and runnerup Chuck Gurney with less than three miles remaining in the race.

Hood also established the 1-mile track qualifying record of 112.282 mph last year and became the first driver to cover the 100-mile distance in less than one hour. His average speed was 101.726 during last year's feature race.

Hewitt finished eighth at the Du Quoin race last year, but this year he has yet to suffer a loss on a dirt track. Hewitt's most recent victory was on Aug. 16, when he won the "Tony Bettenhausen 100" in Springfield, Ill.

The 1-mile oval race track at Du Quoin is sporting a complete facelift.

Driesell criticized for his actions in aftermath of Len Bias death

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI) - Maryland basketball coach Charles "Lefty" Driesell was spared criminal charges by the grand jury investigating the death of Len Bias, but is still being criticized for his actions following the death of his star player.

A Prince George's County grand jury declined Aug. 27 to return an indictment for obstruction of justice against Driesell.

State's Attorney Arthur Marshall, the prosecutor handling the case, called Driesell's actions "stupid" and also blasted the University of Maryland basketball program for "using" young athletes for monetary gain.

Conditioning to be major factor in ASU contest

By Wendell Young
Staff Writer

Fitness could be among the factors that determine the outcome of Saturday's Arkansas State-Saluki dog fight. The 1986 season opener for both teams will resume this old rivalry.

After losing to the Indians 41-12 last November, the Dogs are seeking to elude some embarassment this season. "We're going to do a lot better than we did last year. That's for sure," said 1985 all-Gateway conference and 1986 pre-season all-america running back Byron Mitchell. "The seniors want to win and they are going down (to Jonesboro) and give 110 percent."

Despite his absence from the Saluki lineup this year, Mitchell said he extends his lack and inspiration to his teammates. The Dogs may miss the legs of their backfield greyhound, but they feel strongly that their increased physical conditioning will pay big dividends to the team while Mitchell's knee is healing.

"Everyone came in stronger and in better shape (this year)," said starting senior defensive tackle Jim White. "Come fourth quarter, we'll be in better shape than they will. We'll outlast them."

Senior defensive back Tyrone Washington said he knows the game is going to be physical "because it was last year. We're in good shape. I'm very excited and I'm really looking forward to Saturday's game. The main objective is to win."

The game will be a challenge for the Salukis because the Indians have always played the Dogs well, said White. "My personal goal is to win the conference, the playoffs, and then the national championship."

Returning regulars make No. 7 Indians tough opening foe

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Saluki coach Ray Dorr called Arkansas State one of the best Division I-AA teams in the nation on a year-in, year-out basis, and he may be right. On paper, the Indians certainly seem to stack up as formidable foes for the Salukis.

Last year, the Indians advanced to the Division I-AA quarterfinals for the second consecutive year and won the Southland Conference with an overall record of 9-4. Laceywell was named the conference's coach of the year and the Indians finished ranked sixth in the final NCAA I-AA poll.

ASU was ranked as the best I-AA defensive unit in the nation, allowing a miniscule 258.8 yards per game — with the seventh best I-AA rushing defense (96.3 ypg), the 17th-best pass defense (162.5 ypg) and the fourth-best scoring defense (12.5 points per game) — only six touchdown drives longer than 32 yards and held five of their opponents to less than 100 yards rushing. Shredding offensive lines became a standard feature of ASU games; 44 regular season sacks and 64 tackles behind the line of scrimmage helped the Indians strike fear into the hearts of opposing quarterbacks.

Offensively, the Indians did not rack up such impressive statistics, but they did finish — for the fifth straight year — with the fifth-best I-AA rushing attack, grinding out an average of 260.9 ypg on the ground. In the air, the Indians averaged 115.6 ypg.

ASU's season ended in Reno, Nev., in the I-AA playoffs, but they didn't go down without a strong showing. The Indians came back to score 13 fourth-quarter points, only to fall short by one and lose 24-23 to eventual second-place capturing Nevada-Reno.

ASU was indeed on a roll. The Salukis were sandwiched in the middle of a seven-game Indian winning streak that didn't end until the fateful matchup with Nevada-Reno.

BUT OPPOSING COACHES probably won't be sending cards of sympathy for Laceywell, since he returns six starters from the nation's best I-AA defense and seven regulars from his grueling, pounding offense. His list of personnel has made the Indians preseason favorites among Southland Conference coaches and sports information directors.

To top it all off, ASU has been picked in the NCAA's I-AA preseason poll to finish seventh in the nation.

Leading the list of seven returning offensive regulars is All-America candidate Randy Barnhill (6-3, 285), a senior offensive tackle and two-time All-Southland selection.

Saluki coach Ray Dorr calls Arkansas State one of the best football teams, year-in and year-out, in Division I-AA. Dorr leads the Salukis into the Indians' Jonesboro on Saturday.

THE "TRIBE" ALLOWED

Shutting down the wishbone key to beating ASU, Dorr says

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

When the Saluki offense takes the field Saturday night at Jonesboro, Ark., coach Ray Dorr says that fans are liable to see a lot of movement on the offensive side of the game.

"We're going to use a lot of different formations to try and keep the defense confused and guessing," Dorr said after Thursday night's practice.

"We've eliminated a lot of the audibles and we'll go with a split-back formation and a lot of multiple sets."

Dorr said he and his staff "decided a long time ago that this game would be won or lost at the line."

"Our offensive line has the greatest responsibility," Dorr said. "I expect we'll have the greatest success on tackle-to-tackle inside runs."

DORR SAID HE WAS happy with the No. 1 offense at practice Thursday, and added that he was pleased with the overall conditioning of the team.

"We're in pretty good shape, and I don't expect us to run out of gas," Dorr said.

Defensively, Dorr said that spending the past summer studying the wishbone at schools like Colorado and Arkansas State will help the defense be more prepared for ASU's potent wishbone attack. Dorr said the linebackers will be expected to set the tempo for the game, and the front line will consist of a basic four-man front line.

"CONTAINMENT OF their two runners (quarterback Dwane Brown and fullback Rickey Jimison) will be a big part of our defense," Dorr said. "We'll really have to watch Brown to the outside and Jimison to the inside. On every play, we'll have at least one man designated to cover just those two and on some plays we'll have two defensive players covering them."

Dorr said the big play and mistakes would be crucial parts of the game, and that the Salukis would have to be mentally tough throughout the duration of the contest.

"WE DON'T WANT TO give up the big play," Dorr said. "Last year, two things really hurt us when we played ASU — we'd hold up for two plays, then let up to allow a big play or a first down. This year, we're really stressing that we can't allow the big play type of thing to happen. And we can't be making mistakes, like putting the ball on the ground or dropping passes that should have been caught."

Dorr said that even though ASU was a very patient team that was willing to work for what it got, the Salukis could force them, into mistakes by holding their ground.

"The hidden yardage factor I call it," Dorr said. "It will be a critical part of

See DORR, Page 29

LACEWELL AND THE Indians, however, have lost a lot of talent from that team, prompting the eighth-year coach to declare that his team would not be as dominant and overpowering as it was a year ago.

Five players from last year's squad had flings with professional teams this season, but only offensive tackle Ray Brown remains. Brown has one more cut to make before he is officially on the roster of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Laceywell said his chances of sticking look good.

"We had a once-in-a-lifetime group of seniors here last year," Laceywell said. "We're just not going to be as strong — you can't lose talent like that and expect to be as strong."

AND LACEWELL OF- FERED other suggestions to explain why the Indians administered a 41-12 bludgeoning to the Salukis at McAndrew Stadium.

"We were really on a roll and were at our peak just about the time we played Southern," Laceywell said.

"Southern had just come off two tough losses on the road (a 35-34 setback at Wichita State and a 41-38 loss at Indiana State) and it wasn't a season-opener for us," he said. "Everything was going good for us and it was pretty much the opposite for Coach Dorr."

ALSO RETURNING WILL be all-conference honorable mention quarterback Dwane Brown, a junior who Laceywell called "the premier quarterback in the conference and the best wishbone quarterback in the country." Saluki fans should remember Brown's name from the 54-yard scoring dash he reeled off against SIU in a 19-0 Indian victory in 1984.

Last year, Brown passed for 1,205 yards and ran for 865 more, accounting for 19 of the Indians' season total 39 touchdowns.

Teaming with Brown to form a potent wishbone tandem is senior fullback Rickey Jimison, ASU's third-best all-time leading rusher and an all-conference pick last season as well as an Associated Press honorable mention All-America selection. Jimison netted 918 yards a year ago (5.3 yards per carry, 83.5 ypg) and his name, like Brown's, should ring familiar to Saluki fans — in last year's 41-12 ASU victory, Jimison ran for 146 yards — a career high — 109 of them coming in the first half.

THE OFFENSIVE THREATS of ASU's top two guys will provide a challenging task for an improved Saluki defensive squad. Although Laceywell said his squad may try some split back and I-back formations, it's no secret that
