Sigma Pi Victors In Variety Show

Sigma Pi fraternity was awarded the first place traveling trophy in the eighth annual Theta Xi Variety Show Friday night.

It was written by Don Reed and featured Dave Creath as Odysseus. The fellows exchanged their college flannels for classical togas and kept the audience in stitches with the tragic antics of Odysseus.

Had they tried for housing closer to campus?

"Oh, yes, we tried Woods," said one, "but it was filled. Then we were given the 'addresses.'"

"It's impossible," declared one. "In some places there's not enough room. In others the householder has lights out at 10:30."

"Don't like rules," said another. "In my house we can't get phone calls from men."

"You think that's bad?" someone asked her. "In my house the water's constantly freezing in the pipes. But when we CAN wash our clothes, the landlady won't let us hang them up! And where do you suppose we have to wash them? Out on the back porch, in the open air!"

"The bathrooms in my house are just filled with men and women swam."

"The landlady cleans and changes the linen once a week. I just started bringing my own."

"Some of the Negro men had suggested probably their living conditions were worse than the girls'."

"The girls looked at each other. 'I don't know,'" one said finally. "I suppose that could be. But, gee—"

The same concert will be presented in the Chester High School Auditorium, March 27, Kesar said.

A workshop for the teachers of Educable Mentally Handicapped Children was held in the University school Friday.

The Egyptian Editors' Views On Negro Housing

When the Egyptian started the series of stories on student housing we planned to do a comprehensive analysis of the situation.

But today's story was the toughest of all. The writers told me Friday afternoon that they were having a hard time getting the students to talk.

When the first two housing stories we have had little difficulty in obtaining photographs.

When the housing situation is as bad as the facts indicate, it is time for something to be done.

The University cannot be totally blamed, but it is disgraced to give students addresses of such living places.

Any Education major who wants to take the federal and state commission test, to be given in the School Auditorium at 10 a. m. Friday, should sign the roster in the Registrar's Office before then.

While state law permits anyone to teach five years—through no more—without passing this test, the Learning Service recommends prospective teachers take it during their student days.

Speeches ranging from serious talks on international affairs to light comments on childhood romances will be presented by speech 101 students during the 10 a. m. SASSAFRAS hour Friday.

George Kuhn, senior speech major, will emcee the program in the Little Theatre.

The purpose of SASSAFRAS, according to Dr. Paul Hunsinger of the SIU Speech Department, is to give speech students the opportunity to perform before larger audiences than is possible in regular classrooms.

Baptist Week Potpolened

The Baptist Union Vocational Emphasis Week scheduled Feb. 14 to 18 has been postponed until Spring Term, according to BSU Secretary Gene Phillips.

Students sit in their living rooms, with their landlords or landladies at their elbows, and tell you they find such facilities "satisfactory."

Get them alone in the Student Union, however, and their story is much different.

Many of these homes, we found, have hot-bellied heating stoves in the living rooms.

Cooking in such homes is often awkward and coal stoves that serve also as auxiliary heating units.

We found several houses with virtually no studying facilities. One, which houses five students, hasn't even a desk or table on which to lay books.

The wallpaper was dull and dingy. The spiraling staircase, about two feet wide, was badly in need of repair.

In another house a student had just finished his washing and had hung the clothes in his room to dry.

We found several houses with indoor toilets, several with only handlumps in the kitchens to do the job.

From all of them there's the long walk to school—enduring the cold in zero weather, slogging through seas of mud when it's warmer.

We found one outstanding exception to the general rule—one house in which living conditions seem to be completely satisfactory.

In our house, the roof leaks where it rains. Leaks so badly at times that one night my roommate wore his raincoat to bed.

French Girl Tells Her Impressions Of U. S.

By Jack Barban

MONIQUE Goussery, French exchange student and teacher, takes time out from her duties to pose for an Egyptian cameraman. Monique is slated to return to France sometime this year.

Among a setting of people chatting, a petite woman with a very charming smile attempted to explain how a French woman feels living in the United States for a year.

Monique Goussery, Fulbright scholar teaching French at Southern, is nearing the end of her year here and must return to France this June. Will the return trip be sad?

"Traveling is an interesting experience," she said, "and the trip back home will be doubly exciting."

What does she like about this country?

"I like my teaching experience best," she said, "along with the making of many new friends. Time is flying so fast that it is hard for me to get home."

Home to Monique is a small village in the province of Nord on the border of Belgium, a town so situated it must be rebuilt about every 20 years because of war.

Her first look at this country was New York City on a very warm September day. "I had a flower before catching the train to Carbondale. I started walking round the streets. It was a very warm day and the asphalt streets were melting. The night was as warm as the day. Broadway was a disappointment to me, I had thought it to be much brighter and gay. It did not seem as pretty as Paris."

Monique came directly to Carbondale from New York. Immediately she took up her teaching duties and also became a student of English literature. Over the Christmas holidays she went on a trip through the South. "I was surprised at how all the towns looked the same. In France each village or city has its own personality."

"The American homes that are made of wood were very unusual to me. I had never seen homes made of stone. With all the trees around the homes it looks like the country instead of a town."

Monique is already preparing to leave. Back home she will resume teaching in the French school system.

MAIL BOX

Dear Editor:
During my four years at Southern I wrote only one letter to the editor and never got around to mailing it, but now I have something constructive to say.

In the first place, I feel that the Egyptian has never reported what the students want to hear as well as it could. There have been biases and most students realize it. The journalism department has always had more publicity than other similar sized campus groups (especially during the last year and a half). Other students I know had not read the exchange of love letters between you and Dan Schneider in the "Mail Box" of the Feb. 8 Egyptian. Do most people enjoy reading somebody else's love letters to another person? And, whether or not there was any love lost between you two, at least you have given "love."

I would not have entered this if I had not read the exchange of love letters between you and Dan Schneider in the "Mail Box" of the Feb. 8 Egyptian. Do most people enjoy reading somebody else's love letters to another person? And, whether or not there was any love lost between you two, at least you have given "love."

I have been reading your editorials and admiring your courage in them for considerable time now, but not once have I disagreed with your point of view so intensely as in the Feb. 8 Egyptian. Do most people enjoy reading somebody else's love letters to another person? And, whether or not there was any love lost between you two, at least you have given "love."

A Good Variety Show

The Theta Xi Variety Show presented Thursday and Friday nights was the result of thousands of man hours on the part of many students, particularly the Theta Xis.

Few could complain of the programs quality. It was truly a "variety" show that was neither too long or too short. The acts were generally of high calibre.

Curt Ray is to be commended on his careful and entertaining performance as emcee. He is certainly an improvement over the emcee for last year's show whose behavior was frowned upon by the Egyptian.

Two boys largely responsible for making the show a success are Cliff Kantor and Gary Livingston, event co-chairmen.

All of the proceeds except a nominal amount will be spent for worthwhile contributions to Southern. In reality, it was not a Theta Xi Show, but an all-school event which Theta Xi has originated and directed.

What About Reserves?

The Eisenhower Administration's request for extension of the draft to 1959 seems assured of passage, but a strengthened Reserves program may face rough sailing.

Under the 1951 Universal Military Training and Selective Service Law, an eight-year military obligation was provided for. Each man who serves his required 24 months of active duty was supposed to put in six years in the organized Reserves.

Ninety-five per cent of the men who left the service after serving their tour of duty just laughed at Reserve activity. The government was helpless to do anything about it and the Reserves suffered from weakness. So far there has been no word on the Administration's current draft version of UMIT, which would take 100,000 young men a year into a six-months training program that is thought to help the Reserves. After this service, youths would go into the Active Reserves for nine and one-half years.

Neither has there been any action mentioned apparent in the new draft bill of a way to enforce Reserve training after regular duty. The government probably will rely on administrative action, rather than provisions of law, to keep reservists active under the renewal program. Administration officials first said they would like provisions to give other than an honorable discharge to veterans who refused Reserve training, and make them eligible for additional service. That is pigeonholed now.

We doubt that the government can make a civilian into an acceptable soldier ready for an emergency in only six months. There appears to be little benefit either to the inductee or to the preparedness program. Certainly years of weekly Reserve sessions—which resemble Boy Scout meetings—is distasteful and a definite curtailment of individual freedom.

This short training program and compulsory service in the Active Reserves need to be dropped. (Svrauce Daily Grange)

Early entries for the SIU Photo Fair (Feb. 19-20) are running ahead of last year, Don Phillips, president of the SIU chapter of Kappa Alpha Mu photography fraternity, said today.

Barney Cowherd, well-known Frankfort, Kentucky, photographer, and Arthur Brown, St. Louis, representative of a photographic supply firm, will appear on a program

Circle K Gets 3,000 Names On SIU Petition

Nearly 3,000 SIU students, faculty members, and employees have signed a petition to the Illinois state legislature asking for increased aid to SIU which has encountered financial difficulties because of a 52 per cent increase in enrollment. The petition was submitted to the 69th General Assembly recently according to David McAttee, member of the Circle K Club, a campus service organization which is distributing the petition. McAttee and sophomore class president Carl Blackwell, also a Circle K member, originated the idea.

Over 250 names were signed under the petition within an hour and a half after its issue, Jan. 28. Strategic campus locations for the main roll, plus "Take-home" sheets circulated to students, have helped boost the total toward the 3,000-stature goal. The petition was drawn up by Dr. William O. Winter of the SIU government department and designed by Circle K member Forest Lunck. It cites reasons for which the signers are supporting SIU's request for increased budgetary allocations in the coming school biennium.

$80 World Tour Described By Adventurer

The presentation of awards for intramural sports was just an interesting sidelight to Robert Christopher's tale of his trip around the world on $80 at the freshman assembly Thursday.

Dwight Armstrong, president of the intramural club, presented championship trophies to Tau Kappa Epsilon and Sigma Tau Gamma fraternities for corkball and touch football, respectively, at the beginning of the assembly. He also presented medals for horse shoes and table tennis to Bill Price, for badminton to Gib Kurtz, for golf to Charles Hardy and for tennis doubles to Sigma Tau Gamma.

After the presentations, President Morris introduced the speaker as "a hitch-hiker par excellence."

Christopher made the description seem to be the total of his 84 day 28,000 mile trip.

Christopher got a ride across the Atlantic on a cargo-airliner in exchange for pictures of the plane's operations.

He made the rest of his trip in similar fashion, using to good advantage his dumb, 65 pounds and international driver's license (good anywhere except in the U. S., four cartons of cigarettes and a good bargaining voice).

Even though Christopher was arrested at least 5 times enroute, he said, he learned from his experiences that people all over the world, despite different customs, languages and ways of life, are friendly and basically alike.

Christopher brought back 1,000 specimens of soil at the request of some medical scientists and sold the story of his trip to Collier's magazine.

He is leaving April 17, for a tour of the Orient, but this time he will be on a budget of much more than $80.

Salukis Win Two

Southern Stalls And Wins, 72-67 Over Centenary

By JACK HESS
Southern's Salukis hit their longest winning streak of the season by stalling Centenary of Louisiana to a 72-67 decision. It was their third straight triumph and their eighth win against 11 setbacks.

The Southern attack was well balanced with Kurtz and Whitlock top scorers with 23 and 16 respectively—On the Louisiana side of the ledger, Plunkett with 14 and Edelen with 15 provided the punch.

The Gents dumped in six more fielders than did Southern, but the Salukis won the game at the charity strips by hitting 28 to Centenary's 11.

During the opening minutes the score was tied five times, while the lead shifted hands seven times.

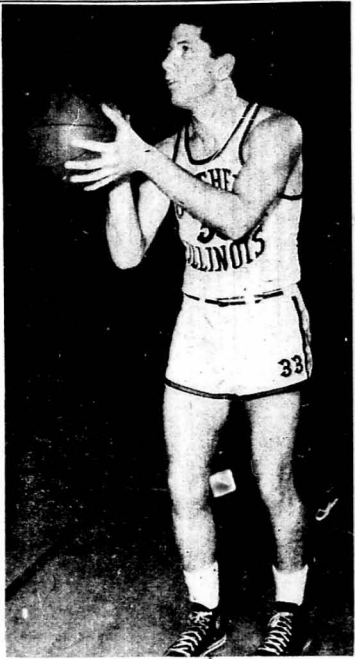

Trailing 18 to 13, the Salukis suddenly sparked to life when Morgan hit a long corner shot. The Holdermen then proceeded to put on a show for the sparse crowd. Southern poured through 21 corners, scored 11 times while the Gents couldn't buy a point for better than five minutes.

Southern continued to play fine basketball and built up a 40 to 28 halftime score.

Starting the second half, the Gentlemen threw up a pressing defense that brought the Southern attack to a halt. The Salukis could not cope with the defense, and the Louisianians crept steadily closer.

The Salukis retaliated by playing possession ball with Blythe, Johnson and Kurtz in control. The Gentlemen decided to let Southern play the game their own way. Joe Johnson, standing near the mid-court, started dribbling out the clock. The game continued that way until the Gents were forced to come after the ball, but were not late with their decision.

Although only five points separated the two clubs at the final gun, the Salukis were never in danger.

Capt. Gib Kurtz, 6-0 senior, he scored 23 points each night, put together two of his best nights against the two weekend visiting Louisiana teams as

Louisiana Falls Again to Salukis Thursday, 88-63

By JACK THATCHER
The Salukis did a repeat performance Thursday night of the show they performed Wednesday when they walked over the North East Louisiana Indians, 88-63, in the West Frankfort High School gymnasium.

The Southerners entertained a sparse crowd with good rebounding and sharp shooting. The Indians, a good passing ball club, had a cold night both from the floor and the freethrow line.

Louisiana broke the scoring ice but the Salukis took it from there and built up a commanding 20-10 lead at 10 minutes. They increased it to 43-28 at intermission time.

Gus Doss and Capt. Gib Kurtz were the big guns for Southern as they scored 28 and 25 respectively. Pat Patterson and Mel Gibson led the Indian efforts with 14 and 15.

The outstanding point of the game was the footwork of Gus Doss as the big man race-bored with the rest of them and followed up several Salukis fast-breaks to dump in the missed sets.

The Salukis ran the whole show as the Indians couldn't get started and both benches saw action.

INTRAMURALS

By Jerry Romback

The Royal Flush won the I-CL championship in a thrilling final game last Tuesday. They defeated the Hawks with a tie-breaking basket with three, second, to go. The game was tied at 33-33 when Luce shot a set shot from the center circle and made it to win the game and the championship in a story-book finish.

Both teams started without their star players and the game advanced very slowly. But when the Royal Flush had a six point lead with five minutes to go, two of the absent Hawk stars finally arrived from a game played in another town. One of the players, Blackman, had a twenty-point average before the game. With their arrival, the Hawks rallied and tied the score with a minute to play. The Royal Flush then stalled until the final five seconds, when Luce made his thrilling game winning basket. The Hawks shot a gold 235 for the game and the Royal Flush shot only a little better at 210. Williams, average 22 points, didn't play for the Flush, but the star player for the Hawks did show up and scored five points in the five minutes he played. Luce led the winners with 14 points. The Flush had a 6.0 record before the game compared with the 5.1 record of the Hawks.

Cleon West scored 46 points Thursday night and virtually clinched the individual scoring championship. He is a 26.5 average for seven games. His closest rival is Tom Frey. Frey has scored over three points twice and has a 20.8 average. He has played in six games.

The MRHL ended Thursday night with a tie between the House of Southern Comfort and Anthony Hall. A play-off will be played later.
