CHAIRMAN TO TRY NEW HORSE—Charles D. Neal, chairman of the Department of Student Teaching, has requested to tackle teaching and administrative duties beginning Sept. 1. Story on Page 2.

SIU Construction Could Depend On Bond Market

The Illinois Board of Higher Education took precautionary steps Tuesday to guard against the possibility of soaring interest rates on construction revenue bonds, but the exact effect on SIU will not be known until after March 5.

On that date, the Illinois Building Authority will attempt to sell bonds for the second stage of the Physical Sciences Building and the completion of Morris Library. If those bonds can be sold under the legal limit of a five per cent interest rate, SIU construction might not be affected, according to John S. Rendleman.

The latest interest rate on IBA bonds was 4.999 per cent. The Board of Higher Education has recommended that a mandatory system of priorities on construction of educational facilities be established if the rate goes higher.

The Board will then ask Gov. Otto Kerner for a moratorium on further bid advertising, unless the Board gives its priority.

The Board asked all state higher education institutions for a rating of priorities on projects which do not already have firm bid dates, such as SIU's for March 5.

"The Board is getting ready in case there is a bad bond market in March," Rendleman said.

The Illinois General Assembly has authorized $51 million worth of construction projects for SIU, and some $20 million have been bonded.

In other action, the Board authorized the building of dormitory facilities for approximately 1,000 students at the Edwardsville campus. Already approved is housing for

Students Still Unnamed for Council Talk

Students selected to appear at the University Council meeting today have not yet been named.

Student body president Ray Lenzi, his assistant Stuart Novick, and Senators Jerry Finney and Steve Antonacci formally applied to speak at the meeting.

However, they indicated they would like to speak to the Council on a variety of topics. Ralph W. Ruffner, vice president for student affairs, said it is the general policy of the Council to limit visitors to one subject.

Ruffner said he assumes the most pressing issue about which the students are concerned is athletics. If they would like to talk on athletics, he said he will attempt to have that subject placed first on the agenda which now totals 15 items.

Broadcasting Director Assumes Responsibility for Film's Nixing

By John Durbin

Buren Robbins, SIU broadcasting director, and his staff made the final decision in postponing the scheduled showing of the film "Inside North Vietnam" on WSIU-TV Monday at 8:30 p.m. The program will also not be shown as scheduled Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

Robbins said he made the final decision after conferring with Ralph Ruffner, vice-president for area and student services. Ruffner said that he will view the film on Thursday.

The film was produced by Felix Greene for Columbia Broadcasting Company and later sold to the National Educational Television Network. Greene is considered to be a pro-communist sympathizer.

The program was part of the regular National Educational Television offerings to which the station subscribes.

Robbins explained that the film was postponed in order "to allow the University to reassess the situation and find out exactly what the University's position on the matter will be.

The postponing of the film came after Robbins and University officials received four phone calls and one telegram threatening unfavorable action against the University if the film was shown. The threatening calls and telegram came just prior to the time that the film was scheduled to be shown. Two of the phone calls were from outside the Carbondale area.

According to Robbins, none of the threatening phone calls were from Carbondale city officials. He said that the station received over 100 calls from individuals protesting the removal of the program.

The broadcasting director added that "We will be able to bring together differing viewpoints on whether it is permissible to show the film.

"It will also give us time to evaluate the threatening phone calls and see whether such a vocal group can exert any power in the showing of the film."

Robbins declined to identify the persons or groups making the threatening calls. Neither would he reveal the nature of the threats.

He stated that the film was reviewed and "was not damaging to the war effort because the commentary which follows the discussion explains the meaning of the film and how it should be taken.

"The commentary is essential to the showing of the film," Robbins added.

Over the weekend the St. Louis Globe-Democrat in an editorial criticized the scheduled presentation of the film on WSIU-TV. Robbins said the editorial "did not have any effect on the decision to postpone the film."

Robbins said that after the film is re-evaluated "I am hopeful that it will be re-scheduled."

Student body president Ray Lenzi said he was "disappointed that students and people of the community were not able to judge the merits of the film for themselves."

In a statement issued Tuesday afternoon, Lenzi questioned whether anyone in the University has the right to make decisions such as the one not to show the film Monday.

"You can't defend freedom by taking it away," Lenzi said.

City Council Meeting

City Manager Proposes Fiscal Advisory Group

By George M. Killenberg

The City Council, last night, unanimously approved City Manager C. William Norman's proposal to establish a citizen's fiscal advisory committee, which would assist Carbondale officials in determining where future city funds were to come from and how they are to be spent.

Norman indicated that he would form the committee as soon as possible so that it would be able to participate in the formulation of the city's annual budget.

The proposed committee would be comprised jointly of area businessmen and SIU officials chosen for their talents in fields related to fiscal matters such as government accounting and economics.

According to Norman, this concept has "produced valuable results" in DeKalb, Illinois, a university community, which he said is comparable in size and its problems to Carbondale.

Norman said that Bernard Ross, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors and Councilman Randall Nelson, professor of government at SIU, have consented to serve as chairman and co-chairman of the proposed committee.

The committee is expected to be composed of between 13 and 15 members. However, Norman said, he probably wouldn't name the members until an introductory meeting was held.

In other business, the council approved a letter to be sent to federal authorities indicating the city's intent to apply for planning funds under the model cities program.

The letter is the first step of the city's reapplication process for a model cities program. Carbondale was recently turned down in its initial bid for the model cities grant.

The Council also approved Mayor Keene's recommendation that Class C liquor licenses be granted to Hickory Log Restaurant and to Village Inns Pizza Parlor, Inc., which will build a restaurant on West Main Street.

Time to Change Horses

Chairman Neal Requests New Position

By John Durbin
There is a sign on the desk of Charles D. Neal, chairman of the Department of Student Teaching, which reads: "I complained because I had no shoes—Then I met a man who had no feet."

In his duties as chairman, Neal organizes and plans the functions of the department along with solving the problems of student teachers and teachers alike.

Neal says the message from the sign has served a good purpose in showing teachers who come to him with problems "that their problems are not so big after all." Throughout his 38 years of teaching experience, Neal has made it a practice not to make mountains out of molehills.

It has now come the time in Neal's life "to change horses" as he puts it. He has requested a change in assignment effective September 1 from chairman to spending one fourth time instructor in the Administration and Supervision Department and three fourths of his time in the Educational Research Department.

Neal pointed out that "last year it dawned on me that on September 22, 1968 I would be 60 years old. I decided at that time to list all the reasons of why I should go into my 6th decade holding an administrative post," he said.

According to Neal, "to date—I have not come up with a single reason for staying on in my present capacity." It is a customary practice for Neal to stop every 10 years throughout his life and "consider the next 10 years."

The 59-year-old Illinois resident explained that he "enjoys teaching and developing new curriculums." He says that his new capacities in the Administration and Supervision Department and Educational Research Departments will provide him the educational fulfillment he desires until retirement.

In administration work, Neal says, "one is responsible for other persons' acts. I would like to finish my career being responsible for my own acts," he said.

Neal, who holds four degrees from Indiana University and the University of Illinois, came to SIU in 1948. At that time there were between 15 and 20 student teachers operating at three different off-campus public school systems per term.

Presently, Neal oversees an average of over 400 student teachers per quarter at 76 different off-campus public school systems. Six of these school systems are located in the Chicago area proper.

Student teaching facilities have been extended throughout the northern portion of the state to accommodate the students living in those areas, according to Neal.

"We have students who want to student teach in schools which are similar to those they want to teach in upon graduation," Neal said.

Public school systems providing student teaching facilities for SIU extend from Cairo in the southern part of the state to Mt. Carmel in the east, Altamont in the north and Chester in the west side.

In addition to his teaching and administrative positions, Neal has enjoyed several "avocations" or hobbies throughout his life. His first hobby was keeping bees and then he became interested in woodworking. Both of these "avocations" came and went, according to Neal.

But currently he is doing a great deal of professional photography as a sideline. He is in the process of putting together a book entitled "How to Build a House" which will include many photographs he has taken himself of the steps involved in building his own house.

Along with his photographic skills, Neal has had published 12 books and 26 articles in magazines or journals.

Not all of his writing has dealt with education directly. He has written in such publications as Popular Mechanics, Work Bench, Science and Mechanics and Mechanix Illustrated.

In looking back over his career, Neal remarked with a twinkle in his eye, "I never have a dull moment."

Frank Kirk Named to Staff For Model Cities Program

Frank Kirk, a coordinator in the president's office at SIU, has been named to the staff of three regional seminars set up to develop better understanding of the national model cities program.

Kirk will serve at seminars in San Francisco Feb. 6-9, in Dallas, Feb. 13-16, and at Chicago March 19-22. He will be dean of the staff in Dallas and Chicago.

The National Training Laboratories Institute for Applied Behavioral Science, a Washington, D.C., organization associated with the National Education Association, has a contract with the Public Health Service to conduct six regional seminars for teams of eight to 10 persons from each model city chosen. Besides those where Kirk will participate, seminars will be in New York, Atlanta, and Philadelphia.

Besides general instruction, Kirk's special area will be by intergovernmental relations and coordination. Kirk's areas of academic study have been regional planning and human relations. He became familiar with the model cities program in seeking to qualify Carbondale for it. He has had a background in intergovernmental relations as regional director of the Illinois Board of Economic Development and as a council member of the City of Carbondale.

Researcher Luck to Review Southern Illinois Economy

David J. Luck of the SIU School of Business will discuss "The Anatomy and Future of Southern Illinois Economy" at a meeting on the Carbondale Campus Thursday.

Luck, known for his extensive research in marketing, will review the economy of the area since 1870 and trends indicated to 1980. He will discuss economic problems such as manpower shortages, unemployables, self reliance and community and regional organization.

The discussion is the fifth in a six-session weekly series on "Southern Illinois: Region of Opportunity" offered by the SIU Division of Technical and Adult Education in cooperation with the University's Community Development Services. It will be held at 7 p.m. in Pulliam Hall.

Previous speakers have been author-historian John W. Allen, Stanley Harris of the SIU Department of Geology, Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge Project Director Arch Mehrhoff, and Robert Mueller of the SIU Department of Music.

The series will wind up on February 15 with a panel discussion on "Educational Opportunities in Southern Illinois: Key to Its Future" led by Katharine Lackey, SIU community consultant.

Student Legal Research Bureau Applications Available In Center

Applications are now being taken in the Student Government Office in the University Center for positions on the "Student Legal Research Bureau."

The purpose of the agency, according to Student Body President Ray Lenzl, is "to obtain evidence as to the legality of present University policies of search and seizure, arbitrary disciplinary processes, withholding of paychecks, and housing and vehicle restrictions."

Lenzl said the bureau is being formed to implement action ordered in a bill passed by the Senate several weeks ago. That bill ordered investigation into legality of University policies, with the possible goal of bringing suit against the University.

Wills to Address Grain Merchants

The complicating problems of modern grain transportation will be discussed Tuesday afternoon by Walter J. Wills, chairman of the SIU agricultural industries department, at a meeting of the Farmers Grain Dealers Association in Peoria.

Wills will speak at a 1:45 p.m. session in the Pere Marquette Hotel. The association will be meeting Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 13-14.

Grain marketing and transportation problems in Illinois have been the object of studies by Wills for several years.

Landmark Tells All in 1974

Peek Into Past Captured in Campus Capsule

By Tom Kerber

The cannon in front of Old Main and the "Kissing Rock" in Thompson Woods are traditional campus landmarks familiar to most SIU students. But what about the bullet-shaped projectile mounted on a concrete base at the steps of Shryock Auditorium?

What purpose does it serve? Where did it come from? Why is it there?

The bullet-shaped object is a "time" capsule presented to SIU in 1949 by Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity in honor of the school's 75th anniversary.

The shell, purchased by the group from the U.S. Navy is a little over a foot wide, three-feet high and weighs 677 pounds.

After the shell was purchased, the fraternity welcomed suggestions from the student body as to what its contents should include. Everything from beer labels to vital statistics of homecoming queens was offered.

It was finally decided campus organizations should cooperate with Alpha Phi Omega by supplying contents for the capsule.

Clubs, societies, honorary fraternities, sororities and other groups affiliated with the University contributed two- or three-page histories of their organizations and any additional material they thought would be of lasting interest to students and faculty of SIU.

Space was limited but there was enough room in the projectile for all of the organizations to be represented.

Books or bound volumes were not permitted unless they were considered relics of SIU's history. Small pamphlets were included.

The pledge classes of Alpha Phi Omega have looked after the capsule since 1949 and will continue to do so until December, 1974. At that time the capsule will be opened as one of the highlights of Founder's Day commemorating SIU's 100th anniversary, and its contents will be returned to the various clubs and organizations who contributed.

Then, after a look into the past, the process will be started all over again.

Limits to Obedience

To the Daily Egyptian:
 If we have learned nothing else from the trials of Nuremberg war crimes we must certainly have learned that there are limits to the obedience which a citizen owes to his nation, even in the relatively civilized twentieth century.

Yet the actions of persons who have opposed personal conscience to orders that they participate in what they feel to be morally unconscionable national policies have been criticized as if any disobedience is bound to lead to anarchy and national disintegration. (According to the letter "Pacifism Leads to Destruction," Feb. 1.)

Disobedience of the kind at issue today, which is limited to refusal to participate in offensive war which the dissenter feels to be aggressive and morally wrong, cannot be destructive, while absolute undeviating obedience to the militaristic policy of any nation can lead only to destructive warfare.

The three co-authors of that letter, in common with all opponents of the exercise of individual conscience (except where its exercise doesn't matter), seem unable to understand that our country's political civilization, like that of any civilized nation (yes, even the USSR), is built upon a balance of the rights and interests of the individual and the interests of the state.

Perhaps they ought to take a trip to Greece, where the fascists are in power again. I think they'd like it there. They urge in their letter, "...the interest of the individual must be subordinate to the collective interest of society," and today the nation of Pericles and Socrates groans under a relentless application of that doctrine, and conscience is quite effectively stifled.

Cowardice and The Objector

To The Daily Egyptian:

The "conscientious objector" diametrically opposes Ares, the war god who destroys, corrupts, defiles and curses man.

In the Aristotelian ethical system, the criterion for the courageous man is death--the most terrible thing confronted by man. Death, as a test to courage, does not include death by drowning and by disease. The measure to courage, the mean between fear and confidence, is death in battle, which the conscientious objector rejects as a method of resolving difference among nations.

Death in battle is encountered in the midst of the greatest and most noble of dangers. The courageous man will fearlessly confront the noble death.

By contrast, the rash man is insensitive to pain. Generally, he is an impostor who pretends to courage which he does not possess. Like the coward, the rash man is without fear and without confidence. He displays excessive fear in face of pain. He is impetuous, though eager before the danger he recoils at the critical moment.

To seek death, for example, in order to escape from poverty, the pangs of love, from pain or sorrow, is not the act of the courageous man.

The coward, like the character in the Sophoclean tragedy, is governed by "hubris" and by over-idealism. At best, he asks the right question at the wrong time, such as the relationship between ruler and ruled in time of crisis.

In essence, the coward as well as the conscientious objector is a despondent person, being afraid of noble death. Consequently, to protect itself from the temporary enemy from within, the state degrades the coward by compelling him to wear a dogskin cap or by forcing him to remain in prison; whereas the Republic recognizes the brave by giving him public honor or by proclaiming him a Homeric hero.

Bridging Gaps

To The Daily Egyptian:

Constituents, we would consider it an honor and a privilege to be invited to your dorm meetings to give a five minute talk on what student senate is doing for you. Please, invite us or your area student senators once, and we are sure you'll find it a gratifying experience to know what's happening on your campus.

Remember--we senators want to bridge the credibility gaps. If you'll invite us at your convenience we will be more than pleased to speak to you.

At times it's hard for senators to identify the problems you face at SIU today. But we could discuss these items exhaustively and reach a cure for your uneasiness if you will let us.

Vietnam: Time Is Running

Americans including many Vietnam war critics have rightly accorded President Johnson a kind of diplomatic immunity over the last three weeks in order to give him time to explore, develop and respond to Hanoi's Dec. 30 peace feeler with due caution. His State of the Union speech indicated the exploration is proceeding. He left the door open to negotiations.

But time is running, and a definite U.S. response to the North Vietnamese initiative cannot be delayed indefinitely. One is called for. The U.S. diplomatic position will be awkward until one is made.

So far as the American and North Vietnamese positions are known publicly, they appear to constitute a basis for some risk-taking by the United States in the interest of testing Hanoi's readiness to begin negotiations.

It is important to sort out the substance of what is being said. Hanoi is saying it will enter talks only if a U.S. bombing halt is unconditional. But the statement is empty on its face, since Hanoi is accepting the condition that it must enter talks as the price of getting the bombing halted.

The United States is saying North Vietnam must not take advantage militarily of the bombing halt, and Hanoi is replying that the United States has no right to demand reciprocity. But the United States is not demanding reciprocity; it is demanding only that Hanoi not take advantage of the situation, which implies that military supply and operations on present levels can continue, so long as Hanoi does not take advantage of the situation to escalate them. Obviously Hanoi cannot agree to reciprocate by cutting off all supply and abandoning its troops in the South, and the United States is not demanding this.

The President wanted to be sure talks following a bombing halt would be "prompt and productive." The Soviet Union has said they will be prompt, and the Soviet Union supplies North Vietnam, so that assertion may carry weight.

Whether any talks are going to be "productive" is a matter that usually must wait for the talks themselves. Hanoi's statement that it will talk about "relevant questions" is a key sticking point, of course, and probably the one that Mr. Johnson is taking so much time to explore. If Hanoi considers the only relevant question to be a U.S. and South Vietnamese surrender, then talks would be silly. But, again, only the talks themselves can finally tell with certainty.

Thus the United States faces risks in calling North Vietnam's bluff by halting the bombing. But the American and South Vietnamese military posture is stable enough for them to accept some risks now in the interest of ending the war, and ending the war was the purpose of military build-up in the first place. Meanwhile, elections have given South Vietnam a government.

Both sides have slowly softened their diplomatic positions over the last several months, obviously moving toward mutually acceptable ground rules for talks.

Negotiating while shooting is obviously dangerous and frustrating, and the likelihood of treachery is considerable as the United States learned in Korea. But with the conditions for talks as close together as they have now come, we'd like to see the President do something, even if taking the chance that it's wrong, to see if he can get them going. If he can't, Hanoi knows the bombers are still available to him.

We had faith that President Johnson wouldn't go off half-cocked. But the country needs some assurance during this lengthening period of non-response that he is in fact moving.

SIU Athletics: Second Time Around

By John Epperheimer

The University administration goes the second time around on athletics again today when the University Council meets at 2 p.m. in the President's Office on this campus.

In that meeting, a sub-committee of the group is expected to make a report on the findings of the Study Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics.

That report, and any advisory action the University Council takes, goes to President Delyte W. Morris, who also is a member of the Council. The University Council is an advisory body composed of administrators and faculty.

It is expected—but not known for certain—that Morris will present some proposals on athletics to the SIU Board of Trustees when they meet Feb. 16 on the Edwardsville campus.

That may sound like a replay to those students and staff who were around in 1966, when the Board of Trustees was to make some decisions on athletics at a Chicago meeting in April.

At that meeting, the Board of Trustees authorized the granting of up to approximately 50 additional NCAA "full ride" athletics scholarships. The number was finally increased to 32.

It also approved the comprehensive study of athletics out of which grew the Study Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics, whose report is now being discussed and debated.

Before that April, 1966 Board meeting, approximately 3,000 students voted about 22-7 in favor of a fee increase for athletics.

In January, 1966 the Student Senate by a 0-7 vote had endorsed a fee increase for athletics. The bill making the endorsement was sponsored by Senator Ray Lenzi, who is now student body president. That endorsement also recommended the granting of 130 NCAA scholarships, mostly for football.

After the Senate endorsed the proposal, they were told by campus architects and John S. Rendleman, vice president for business affairs, that a new football and track stadium might be built starting Spring term, 1966. The stadium proposal, along with the proposal for 30 NCAA scholarships, was held up in April, 1966 by the Board of Trustees until the athletic study could be completed. However, the new stadium has been included in the Carbondale Campus Master Plan since 1954, and a General Offices Building is planned for the site.

Also endorsing a proposed $4 fee hike and more NCAA scholarships in 1966 was the Committee for Intercollegiate Athletics, a standing body which sets policy for athletics.

Then in its February, 1966 meeting the Board discussed the athletics situation in a closed session. That was before Illinois' new open meetings law was in effect. Such a discussion cannot take place in February, according to law.

Approximately a month after the athletics study was endorsed by the Board, Morris wrote the commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference, asking that SIU not be considered for membership at that time, as had been reported. He cited the study which was soon to begin. The conference then admitted Memphis State.

In the same week, the structure of the Study Commission was set, and Charles Tenney, vice president for planning and review, said the Commission might report as soon as Jan. 1, 1967.

He was wrong, for the school year 1967 was used in making the study and writing the report. In August, 1967, the Commission's report was released.

The report was researched over a nine-month period, including interviews, trips to other facilities, the testimony of experts outside the University, and the administering of some 50,000 questionnaires to students, faculty, staff, alumni, and people not directly connected with the University.

Briefly, it recommended the following things: major college status for all sports; conference affiliation; a total of 20 NCAA grant-in-aid scholarships and 150 work scholarships; five more coaches, another trainer and six more graduate assistants for coaching; creation of the post of business manager for athletics; construction of a new stadium and a field-house; and the grouping together of Health, Physical Education and Athletics into a new academic School.

To accomplish this, the Study Commission recommended a $3.50 hike in activity fees making the total tuition and fees for Illinois students $84.00. Construction could be financed with state funds and the current $15 per term Student Welfare and Recreation Fund, the Commission said.

The Study Commission made it clear that it felt football could eventually be capable of supporting the entire athletic program. They cited questionnaire results which showed 65 per cent of the students polled, 55 per cent of the faculty polled, 59 per cent of the alumni polled, and 51 per cent of the non-University persons polled as feeling football is presently under-emphasized.

The Study Commission was the subject of largely private study and discussion, until the administration asked campus groups representing three segments of the University to make their recommendations, based on the Study Commission report.

They were the Faculty Council, the Graduate Council and the Student Senate.

An ad hoc committee of the Faculty Council made a study of the Commission report, and then the full Council issued a general statement.

That statement dealt with areas of the Commission report concerning academics, according to the Council. The statement recommended against the formation of a School of Health, Physical Education and Athletics because it was felt undue emphasis might be placed on athletics, and because the Council said goals of athletics are not the same as those of other departments which would be in the proposed school.

The Faculty Council also concluded that it might be well to eliminate work scholarships for athletics and use only NCAA grant-in-aid scholarship; it also advocated setting up grant-in-aid scholarships for scholastic achievement.

Results of the Study Commission questionnaire were not judged to be valid because of shortcomings in "design, execution and in the interpretation of the results," the Council stated.

The Faculty Council urged further consideration to be given to the future of football, including alternatives such as expansion, status quo or elimination of the sport.

More study was called for in the areas of financing, and use of the Student Welfare and Recreational Fee.

The Graduate Council did not release its report, but was generally against the expansion of football, according to David Kenney, chairman. He said members of the Council felt such an expansion would unduly expensive.

Kenney said they also were concerned with the cost of a new stadium. No specific alternatives were advanced, Kenney said, because the Council felt it was their duty only to react to the recommendations of the Study Commission.

The Student Senate then passed an ad hoc committee report which backed the Study Commission recommendations down the line, calling for all its major recommendations, in stronger language.

Then the next week, in a surprise move, the Senate decided to hold a referendum on the athletic question. In that referendum conducted last Thursday, 1,809 students voted, with 1,507 casting ballots for expansion, 19 for status quo and 68 for a decrease in the program. In another question, 667 voted for a fee increase of more than $3.50, 724 voted for a $3.50 increase and 339 voted for no increase.

The Senate could still change its official position of backing the Study Commission report, but it is not considered likely to do so.

While the Faculty Council, Graduate Council and Student Senate were preparing their reports, Morris was out of the country on a tour of SIU overseas education facilities. At the same time, some members of the Board of Trustees expressed their impatience and indicated they wanted some final recommendations from the University administration on the future of athletics.

Robert MacVicar, vice president for academic affairs and acting president in Morris' absence, told the Board he would present a set of recommendations to Morris on his return, with copies going to the Board members.

That is where the next-to-the-final decision stands now—in the hands of President Morris. As of Monday, it was not certain that he would make a presentation to the Board Feb. 16. He declined to comment on athletics at a press conference Monday because he had been ill since his return from Asia, and had not been briefed on what took place during his absence.

Kenneth L. Davis of Harrisburg, chairman of the Board of Trustees has said he expects the matter to be on the agenda Feb. 16. And the Board members have expressed impatience at least twice in the last few months.

As for today's University Council meeting, it was anticipated Monday that at least one student would be allowed to attend, probably student body president, Ray Lenzi, who authored the Student Senate bill of two years ago and has pledged to present what he feels is the student body's point of view—a view towards expansion.

So on the second time around it is again a tossup as to which way the SIU athletic ball will be bounced, although there is much speculation. The safest bet is that probably some decisions will be reached this month, and whatever they are, they will have a far-reaching effect on SIU's future.

Viet Cong Tanks Overrun U.S. Camp

SAIGON (AP)—Communist troops using tanks and armored cars early Wednesday overran and occupied a U.S. Special Forces camp near Khe Sanh, South Vietnamese military headquarters reported.

There was no immediate word whether the fighting at the Lang Vei Green Beret camp represented the start of a long-expected major offensive by four or five North Vietnamese divisions massed along the northwest frontier of South Vietnam.

If the South Vietnamese report is confirmed, it marks the first time that the Communists have been known to use tanks in the Vietnam war. In Saigon, the U.S. Command announced that the intensified attacks the Communists launched across the country

Jan. 30 cost the enemy 22,748 dead up to midnight Tuesday. It said 1,768 allied troops have been killed, including 614 Americans and 1,130 South Vietnamese.

As U.S. warplanes kept up their raids over North Vietnam, the U.S. Command said an Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bomber shot down a MIG21 interceptor west of Hanoi Tuesday.

U.S. air power also was called in near the Lang Vei battle early Wednesday. B52 bombers hit enemy concentrations northwest of Khe Sanh.

The U.S. Command said the Lang Vei defenders came under mortar and artillery fire just before midnight Tuesday.

As the enemy pushed through the camp's perimeter, the defenders, aided by artillery and tactical air strikes, engaged in close-quarter fighting from their bunkers.

South Vietnamese headquarters said seven enemy tanks and armored cars, supported by artillery, moved from the direction of Laos for the attack on the camp.

Headquarters spokesmen said four tanks were destroyed in the fighting.

As the countryside Communist attacks went into their ninth day, enemy forces continued to hold out in Saigon and Hue, the old imperial capital 400 miles to the north. The allies were girding for possible second-wave attacks.

A major fight that broke out Tuesday one mile north of Tan Son Nhut air base in the suburbs of Saigon was reported still going on Wednesday morning. The enemy, estimated at battalion strength, was pulling back under the pressure of reinforced South Vietnamese troops.

At Hue, Associated Press correspondent John Lengel reported that Communists blew up the main bridge connecting the north and south sides of the city early Wednesday. He said they dropped the two center spans of the six-span structure.

U.S. Marines were fighting through an area on the south side of the Perfume River and South Vietnamese troops were battling for the walled Citadel on the north side.

Kerner to Announce Third Term Decision

SPRINGFIELD, (AP) — At a news conference at 10 a.m. today, Gov. Otto Kerner is expected to announce whether he will seek a third consecutive term.

No Illinois governor has ever won this prize.

Although many other leaders in the Democratic party have expected Kerner to announce he would seek the nomination of his party again, other incumbent Democratic officeholders in the state held off their announcements out of deference to him.

Therefore, Kerner's decision is expected to trigger a series of declarations by other Democratic office seekers.

The party's State Central Committee is likely to choose its recommendations for a state slate sometime this month, and is expected to adopt Kerner as the gubernatorial candidate if he announces he will run again.

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, the most powerful committee member, said in a speech at the Illinois State Fair last year, he hoped Kerner would be the party standard bearer in Illinois.

Daley did not say whether he saw Kerner as a candidate for governor or for U.S. Senator.

Choice of a candidate to oppose U.S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Republican Minority Leader, is another decision facing the committee.

Consumer Bills Sent to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday to authorize a national study of what he termed the "overburdened and unsatisfactory" auto insurance system.

He also called for new laws to protect Americans against diseased fish and poultry.

In a special message, Johnson outlined an 8-point program which he said would help make sure the American customer gets "a fair and honest exchange for his hard-earned dollar."

The President called for new laws to:

- Protect against excessive radiation from color television sets, dental x-ray machines and other electronic devices.
- Permit speedier federal crackdowns on home improvement frauds and other sales cheats.
- Fix more stringent boat-safety standards.

In addition, Johnson announced he will appoint a "consumer counsel" in the Justice Department to advise and prod officials on legal moves to protect the buying public.

He also said the government will undertake a broad study to determine if legislation is needed in such areas as appliance and auto repairs and the policing of warranties and guarantees.

Pointing to rapidly rising auto insurance premiums, arbitrary cancellation of some policies, difficulties of Negroes in obtaining coverage and other problems, Johnson called for "the first comprehensive study of the automobile insurance system."

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd, who would supervise the study, told a newsmen the work could proceed without congressional authorization but he said legislation would provide subpoena powers that might be needed. He estimated that the study would take from 18 to 24 months.

In his message, Johnson also called for enactment for his still-pending 1967 consumer proposals, emphasizing his support for "truth-in-lending" law.

Wholesome fish and poultry legislation would extend to these products the provisions of last year's meat inspection law. States would be encouraged to do their own inspecting but the federal government could move in if they didn't do the job within two years.

Under the hazardous radiation legislation, the government would set and enforce safety standards and require manufacturers to recall defective equipment and devices.

The deceptive sales bill would permit the Federal Trade Commission to seek immediate court injunctions against fraudulent and deceptive sales practices, without awaiting conclusion of commission proceedings that sometimes drag on for months or even years.

Union Leader Jailed In Garbage Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The leader of a five-day sanitation men's strike was sentenced to 15 days in jail Tuesday for defying a court's back-to-work order and allowing 40,000 tons of garbage to pile up in New York City streets.

"Employees cannot strike against the government," State Supreme Court Justice Saul S. Streit told John DeLury, president of the striking Union of Sanitation Workers' Association, an affiliate of the Teamsters Union.

DeLury also was fined a maximum $250 under the state's Taylor law, which prohibits strikes of municipal employees.

The union head was allowed his freedom overnight and his lawyer said DeLury will begin serving his contempt of court sentence Wednesday.

Streit continued until Wednesday contempt charges against the union itself. A maximum fine of up to $10,000 a day against a union is provided under the State's Taylor law, which works out to $1 per day for each sanitation man.

Meanwhile, piles of garbage at many city curbsides mounted six or more feet high. Normally 10,000 tons a day are collected during a six-day week by the city sanitation men.

Midtown Manhattan was fairly clean, however. Private garbage collectors pick up 6,000 tons a day from commercial buildings and restaurants, as well as some luxury apartment buildings.

Winter weather helped moderate the health hazard to the city's eight million as a result of the exposed refuse heaps. But Thomas Hagan, fire chief, said outdoor rubbish fires had doubled or tripled from the normal 80 a day.

Mayor John V. Lindsay had tried to deputize Hospital Department drivers to man sanitation trucks and remove infectious waste from 71 hospitals in the city. But their AFL-CIO State, County and Municipal Empolys Union ordered them not to act as "strikebreakers."

Late in the day, the sanitation union agreed to resume garbage collections at hospitals through the city on Wednesday.

The city's 10,000 sanitation men struck Friday in a demand for a $600 a year increase in annual salaries that range from $6,424 to $7,956 after three years. A mediation panel recommended $400 a year.

'City of Miami' Cancelled Today

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Illinois Central Railroad said Tuesday it will cancel its "City of Miami" train Wednesday because of the strike by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen against the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad in Florida.

The train operates between Chicago and Miami and runs through Carbondale. A spokesman said service will be restored immediately when the strike is settled. The train is operated by Seaboard crews south after leaving Birmingham, Ala.

South Korea 'Indignant' Over Talks

SEOUL (AP)—The tempo of official protest against secret U.S. negotiations with the North Koreans for the return of the USS Pueblo increased Tuesday night. The National Assembly adopted a resolution expressing "national indignation" at the negotiations.

Park Choon-kyoo, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, told the assembly that South Korea was being shut out of the talks at the armistice town of Panmunjom on subjects of vital concern to the country.

Park's remarks and the assembly's action reflected growing government concern over the U.S. handling of the current crisis. They followed closely a protest note Premier Chung Ilkwon handed U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter on the secret talks.

The assembly's resolution insisted that the recent attempt by North Korean commandos to assassinate President Chung Hee Park was more important to South Korea than North Korea's seizure of the Pueblo, a communications ship.

The assembly resolution asked the government to take "punitive measures, if necessary alone" against Communist provocations such as the attempt to assassinate Park.

It suggested that "military reprisals would be the best measures" since North Koreans "do not stick to diplomatic agreements."

One legislator explained that South Korea feared the United States did not react forcefully when the attempt on Park's life was made Jan. 21 but it alerted all South Korean and U. S. forces when the Pueblo was captured two days later.

The South Korean forces remain under the U.N. Command that fought the Korean War, and this is another point of irritation.

Chairman Park declared the United States was employing a double standard. He said South Vietnam has its own command while South Korea's forces remain under the United Nations—that is U.S.—command.

The protest note to the United States and the assembly resolution both contained a hint that South Korea might remove its 560,000-man army from U.N. control to meet any

North Korean threat. South Korea also has 40,000 men fighting in Vietnam, and there have been some reports these might be withdrawn to fight at home.

Syrian Attack on Israel Feared by Soviet Officials

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet officials are worried that Syria might make a desperate try for revenge on Israel this spring, creating the danger of another Middle East war.

April is being mentioned in informed Soviet circles as the time Syria might be ready to do something rash.

The high-ranking Soviet sources who gave this information Tuesday indicated the Soviet Union wants to restrain Syria. But the informants expressed doubt Moscow has enough leverage in Damascus.

Syria has refused repeatedly to subscribe to the Soviet public position that political means—rather and military forces—should be used to eliminate the results of last June's war. Syria also has rejected U. N. efforts for peace.

Leftist Syria, which is armed, advised and aided by the Soviet Union, follows Soviet suggestions on economic policy. It echoes Kremlin views on most aspects of world affairs.

But, one Soviet source said: "When it comes to Israel, they don't listen to us."

As interpreted by informed Soviets, the Syrian hatred for Israel is so irrational that it can lead to suicidal attempts at revenge.

If another war should break out, the Soviet Union has no more intention of risking a nuclear confrontation with the United States than it did last time, the sources said. The Middle East is not regarded as vital enough to basic Soviet interests to be worth global destruction.

Action Taken Against Illinois Loyalty Oaths

CHICAGO (AP)—Attorneys for the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) filed two suits in U.S. District Court Tuesday challenging the constitutionality of the Illinois law requiring teachers to sign loyalty oaths.

One suit was filed in behalf of Mrs. Suzanne McCormick Thalberg, of Chicago, a visiting lecturer in the philosophy department at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle Campus. The other suit was filed in behalf of Mrs. Ernestine Krehbiel of Jacksonville, a former kindergarten teacher at Woodson Elementary school, and Murrayville School in Morgan County.

Both women have refused to sign the loyalty oath and have been denied compensation for their teaching, the ACLU said. The teachers are seeking their back pay as damages. Mrs. Krehbiel's suit asks $1,721 for teaching from Jan. 3 to June 2.

In addition to the boards of education, Ray Page, state superintendent of public instruction, and Michael Howlett state auditor, have been named as defendants in Mrs. Krehbiel's suit.

The ACLU said the loyalty oath is a violation of the First, Fifth and Fourteenth amendments of the Constitution.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled similar statutes unconstitutional in Arizona, Florida, Maryland, New York and Washington, the ACLU said.

Deadline June 24

Certificate Redemption Set

The deadline for the redemption of silver certificates for silver is June 24, 1968. After that date the silver certificate will be worth only the value as stated on the bill or coin.

Charles Renfro, cashier at the First National Bank of Carbondale, stated that the bank plays no part in the silver deadline. He said that Carbondale businessmen would not be affected by the federal stoppage of redemption of currency in silver.

Alworth Casper, president of the Pyramid Coin Club, stated that the initial effect of this redemption stoppage will be found in the scarcity of silver certificates and coins in the Carbondale community. He said many persons will collect this type of currency and sell it as a collector's item in the future.

Casper believes that silver certificates and coins will be worth more in the future as collectors' items than they would be worth today sold at the current price of silver ($2.10 per ounce).

Casper explained that the government is not interested in obtaining the return of silver certificates and coins, however; it will not make payment to the holder of such currency in silver after the June 24 deadline.

Presently individuals possessing silver certificates and coins may redeem them for the current price of silver. Individuals wishing to do so must transact such business through a coin dealer.

Casper said individuals within the Carbondale community might transact such business at the Pyramid Coin Club's monthly meeting. The club's meetings are held the fourth Sunday of each month from noon to 4 p.m. in the Springmore Grade School gymnasium. Coin dealers from the surrounding area attend these meetings and are quite interested in purchasing such currency.

Casper said that at the present time a $1 silver certificate can be sold to a coin dealer for $1.35.

Help for Disadvantaged

Head Start Program Receives Federal Aid

SIU has received a $25,451 federal grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity to continue the Head Start program for young children.

Mrs. Charlotte Wheeler, who has been Head Start regional training officer for the south half of Illinois since last September, said the funds will be used to operate the office, which gives technical assistance and helps coordinate programs initiated locally. Some counties have year-around programs and many have them during the summer months.

Chief purpose of the Head Start programs is to give disadvantaged children from three and a half to five years old, or six if no kindergarten class is available, experiences that will put them more on a par with children from advantaged homes when they enter the public schools.

This is the third year SIU has received a Head Start grant. Mrs. Wheeler succeeded Rebecca Baker, professor of education at SIU who went to Saigon on a six months mission with the SIU team that has been training Vietnamese teachers since 1961.

Purses Create Many Uses

By Jane Elledge

"I just don't believe the number of different things girls can think of to put in those purses they carry around," said Jim Kezios, a sophomore from Chicago.

"Some of those 'suitcases' they lug around campus must weigh 10 pounds. You'd think their arms would get tired."

The noun "purse" means a pouch or bag generally used to carry money. But a campus survey showed that SIU girls carry purses for numerous reasons.

Carole Kabot, a freshman from Skokie, said, "I carried a monkey wrench in my purse for nearly two months so I could return it to the person who had loaned it to me whenever I happened to run into him."

"Generally I use a purse to carry my books and school supplies. I keep my money in a cigaret case and a comb and lipstick in a coat pocket," she said.

Many women carry a certain type of purse because it happens to be in style.

"I've been buying shoulder bags since they're the current fashion," said Sharon Taft, a sophomore from Rochester, Ill. "But I don't carry it over my shoulder because it keeps falling off."

"The new long fur handbags are really nice too—until some dog decides that you're carrying a rabbit," she continued.

Rena Schweitzer, a junior from Chicago, said she always carries a large well-stocked purse because "you never know when you might have a need for any number of things."

"Of course, keeping a large purse from becoming cluttered is a problem," she said. "The other day I found some book receipts and fee statements from my freshman year in the bottom of my purse."

Mike Kouimeles, a senior from Chicago, said he thought some girls' purses should be classified as dangerous weapons.

"Have you ever been hit in the head with one of those things?" he asked.

Christine Duganich, a junior from Decatur, agreed with him.

"I almost ripped a guy's shirt off one day when he passed me on the street and a buckle on my purse got hooked on it," she said.

Nick Maduri, a sophomore from Chicago, has his own philosophy concerning girls and their handbags.

Chemistry Seminar

A departmental seminar for the Department of Chemistry will be conducted by J. Rasiel of the Chicago Circle campus of the University of Illinois. The seminar is titled the "Direct Approach to Solution of the Schrodinger Equation" and will be held at 4 p.m. on Thursday in Parkinson 204.

studies, will be part of the International Festival to be held on campus between February 11-18. McHale is a former British designer, artist, and writer who came to SIU in 1961 and is now associated with R. Buckminster Fuller, research professor at SIU.

Uses Novel Technique

Abstractions Created By Resident Artist

Southern Illinois scenes, industries and activities are being transmuted into highly original art by an artist-in-residence at SIU.

Margo Hoff of New York, who used a novel technique of building up the dimensional design in cardboard relief on wood panels before applying color to her paintings, in the three months she has been here has developed such themes as a "tree house," inspired by a real tree house in an area orchard; a baseball diamond; railroad signal lights and switches; a motor cycle; a theatrical costume trunk; and tools used by an SIU silversmith.

With the exception of the baseball diamond, which is visually true to life, most of her paintings display a rearrangement of components to create abstractions, but the subjects still are identifiable.

Mrs. Hoff will have a one-man show of her work, most of it done since coming to SIU, at the Banfer Gallery in New York City Feb. 12-Mar. 7. The exhibit will include both paintings and drawings.

One of Mrs. Hoff's paintings was reproduced as the 1967 UNICEF Christmas card and another won the Illinois Bell Telephone Company competition for the cover of the 1967 Chicago telephone directory. A portfolio of her work has been published by the International Minerals and Chemicals Co. and other commercial concerns have selected her work for architectural display or publication. Some of her work is in the collection "Art in the Embassies," touring American embassies in foreign countries.

A native of Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. Hoff has illustrated two books and is working on a third, has executed commissions for wall paintings, tapestry designs and mosaics, and has designed stage settings, costumes and masks for Chicago and New York theaters.

Two SIU Educators to Speak At Junior College Program

Two SIU educators are scheduled to appear on the program of a state junior college conference in Chicago Feb. 9-10.

Robert W. MacVicar, vice president for academic affairs, will be a luncheon speaker on the first day of a conference of junior college boards to be held in the Sherman House under co-sponsorship of the Illinois Association of Community and Junior Colleges and SIU's Coordinating Committee for Junior College Services.

Donald J. Tolle, associate professor of higher education and associate director of the Ford Foundation Occupational Instructor Project, a joint venture of SIU and St. Louis and St. Louis County, will make a presentation and lead a discussion at one of the afternoon sessions.

The state junior college association has four divisions—board, administration, faculty, and student—and this conference is designed to provide members of junior college boards some insights into their roles and their responsibilities.

SIU established its University Coordinating Committee for Junior College Services to provide a mechanism for achieving mutual benefits for the University and the junior colleges.

The president of the board division, Mrs. Jessalyn Nicklas, will open the two-day meeting at 9 a.m. Feb. 9. One panel discussion will feature J.L. Zwingle, executive vice president of the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges, Washington, D.C.; Lyman A. Glenn, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education; and Warren E. Wilder, president of Sauk Valley Junior College board, Sterling.

Engineering Club To Sponsor Talk

Richard Buck, a representative of Spurland Valve, will be the featured speaker at a meeting of the SIU Engineering Club to be held at 9 p.m. Wednesday in Room 111 of Technology Building A.

'Man Who Lost the River'

Mark Twain Play to Open Tonight

"The Man Who Lost The River," a new play about Mark Twain, opens tonight in the University Theatre in the Communications Building.

Mark Twain is played by Oliver Cliff, guest artist in residence. Cliff is a noted actor, singer and director. He spent five years with the Katherine Cornell company, ten years in Musical Theatre in St. Louis, Sacramento and Los Angeles and has performed on Broadway.

The author of the play is Bernard Sabath, instructor at Illinois Northwestern University. In preparation for "The Man Who Lost The River," Sabath made a special study of Mark Twain. Sabath reveals that, in his later years, Mark Twain was not a sentimental wise-cracking author, but a cynical, disillusioned agnostic. "The Man Who Lost

The River" is the first play by Sabath to appear on the SIU stage.

The play is the first directing task of Visiting Professor Herbert Marshall.

The play will start at 8 p.m. tonight and run through Sunday. Tickets are on sale at the University Theatre Box Office in the Communications Building and at the Information Desk in the University Center.

Admission is $1.50 for students and $2 for non-students.

Professor to Address Beta Alpha Psi

E. J. Schmidlein Jr., Professor of Accounting, will speak on "The Status of Management Consultancy in Europe," at 8 p.m. Thursday in Lawson 231. The speech will be given at the monthly meeting of Beta Alpha Psi, a national accounting fraternity. The meeting is open to all accounting students and faculty.

A MESSAGE EXCLUSIVELY FOR ENGINEERING GRADUATES WHO ARE LOOKING FOR RESPONSIBILITY:

At Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, we are selectively seeking engineering graduates with executive potential who are able and willing to share the heavy responsibilities in our business of building and operating the facilities for transmission of billions of cubic feet of Natural Gas each year from the gas fields of the Southwest to millions of homes and thousands of industries in the Midwest usage areas . . . a business which demands outstanding engineering talent.

THE MEN WE WANT are distinctively creative, with a desire to direct their energies and capabilities into services of significance. They are men who prefer to work with a compact, knowledgeable group rather than be lost in a large but non-singularized staff. They are dedicated men who want to develop careers in a growing industry where individual achievement is still recognized and rewarded on the strength of merit.

At NGPL, furthermore, there are excellent career openings for qualified men regardless of their engineering specialties—agricultural, chemical, civil, electrical, industrial, mechanical or petroleum.

GRACEFUL MOVEMENT—Joyce Tanac displays the form which has made her one of the top women gymnasts in the country. Miss Tanac and the Seattle, Wash. squad will clash with the SIU women gymnasts Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Arena.

Expert Olympic Hopeful To Face Women Gymnasts

By Dave Cooper

Joyce Tanac, an 18-year-old wonder, will be the girl to watch when SIU's Women's Gymnastics team meets the Seattle-Washington Women's squad. The club is composed of girls from the University of Washington and the Seattle Gymnastics Club.

The contest will be held starting at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the SIU Arena.

Seattle boasting a 5-0 record, credits its winning ways to Miss Tanac, a member of the 1966 World Games and the 1967 Pan American Games teams. She has not placed below third in National All-Around competition in the last three years.

Donna Schaezner, SIU's scoring leader, edged Miss Tanac in last season's dual match. Since that time, however, Miss Tanac has out scored her in the Pan American team trials, the National AAU meet, and the Olympic training meet last month.

SIU Coach Herb Vogel describes her as being "as close to the ideal gymnast as one can find in the United States."

She has good looks, a good figure, fine talent, and is highly coachable," he says. "She has courage, willing to take a chance for the Gold medal finish rather than to settle for a place or show qualification. If anyone can be considered a "shoo in" for the 1968 Olympic team membership, it's Joyce Tanac."

Miss Tanac is the finished product of the Seattle Gymnastics Club, the combined coaching effort of the University of Washington and the YMCA. She is financially backed by these two organizations plus the Seattle Athletic Club. This combined effort is a package type age group gymnastics program that takes young people and trains them from elementary school to college level.

Cooper Shows Strength, Hustle

By Dave Palermo

A collegiate wrestler going through the motions for eight minutes may look easy enough for the fans, but it's far from that for the participant.

Wrestling eight minutes at full strength is a grueling task that leaves the wrestler exhausted at the final buzzer.

A good wrestler, however, makes it look easy; and no Saluki wrestler makes it look easier than sophomore Ben Cooper.

"He's undoubtedly the best wrestler on the team," said Coach Jim Wilkinson. "He's got all a coach wants in a wrestler; speed, strength, desire and hustle."

Cooper, who accumulated a 51-1 record in his last two years in high school, won the Illinois State High School Championship while wrestling in the 154-pound division for Decatur.

With a 13-2-1 record this season, Cooper has found a marked variance between wrestling on the prep level and as a collegiate.

"The style is a great deal different in college than in high school," said Cooper. "You move on your feet more in college and you have to make every move count."

"You've also got to keep in better condition because the matches are longer," added Cooper. "You wrestle for eight minutes up here while in high school a wrestler only goes for six."

Cooper quickly earned the fancy of the SIU fans when the Salukis opened their dual meet competition at the Arena against Colorado State.

After the visitors won the first seven matches, Cooper ended the drought with a 13-2 decision over State's Mike Patterson.

Cooper followed up his Arena debut with a fall over his Southwest Missouri State opponent and a decision over Peter Naff of Oklahoma State.

At Bloomsburg, Pa., Cooper continued his winning ways with a decision over Jim Coleman, 15-4.

While having to settle for a draw against his Iowa State opponent, Cooper rebounded with three victories in the Nebraska Invitational held over the weekend.

With the NCAA finals coming up in March, wrestling fans are looking towards Cooper with hopes for an SIU finalist.

"I'll have to see what I can do during the regular season," commented Cooper. "I'm going to try and go down for the nationals. I'd like to get my weight down enough by the end of February so that I can wrestle 167 in the finals." He normally wrestles in the 171-pound class.

Whether or not Cooper is able to finish in the NCAA championships this year, it's certain that SIU wrestling fans will be hearing of Ben Cooper for a long time to come.

Olympic Skiing Controversy Avoided

GRENOBLE, France (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle beamed with pride as the Winter Olympics opened Tuesday, and Games' officials were even happier later in the day after erasing a ski controversy that had threatened to reduce the Games to mini-Olympics.

Shortly after 60,000 spectators in Grenoble and an estimated 60 million television viewers in the United States and Europe heard de Gaulle proclaim the Games open and watched Alain Calmat light the Olympic flame, the United States dropped the opening match of the hockey competition, losing to Czechoslovakia 5-1.

More significant for the Games, however, was the compromise reached several hours later between the International Olympic Committee and the International Ski Federation in the ski-trademark controversy.

The IOC, which had wanted all manufacturers' names removed from skis of competitors, ruled after a lengthy session that skiing would remain in the Grenoble Olympics but that no skier would be permitted to show any trademarks on his skis at the end of a run.

The decision appeared to be accepted by the IOC of a compromise formula proposed by FIS to leave the trademarks on but to make sure the skiers do not display their equipment to photographers and television cameras.

The compromise eliminated the possibility of the ski events being crossed off the Olympic program and being reduced to world championships. Skiing represents the backbone and much of the glamor of the Winter Games and its elimination from these Games would have damaged both the prestige and interest in them.

Marc Hodler of Switzerland, president of FIS, said any skier defying the new rule would be disqualified.

Aside from the opening ceremony, Tuesday's Olympic schedule was light.

The U.S.-Czechoslovakia hockey match was first, and it got the games off to a clean start.

Only four penalties were called in the game, three against the Americans, but the U.S. team was not happy, feeling that the referee kept the game in too tight a rein and never let the players cut loose.

Doug Volmar, an engineer from Minneapolis, scored the only U.S. goal, tying the game 1-1 at 16:22 of the first period with an assist from Larry Pleau of Boston.

When the Olympic athletes first awoke Tuesday, they saw that rain and snow threatened to turn the opening ceremony into a dismal affair. But by the time the approximately 1,350 athletes from 37 countries lined up for the march into the stadium, the storm had stopped and the sun had broken through the clouds.

Following the parade, President de Gaulle, dressed in a dark overcoat and bareheaded, stepped to the microphone and proclaimed the opening of the 10th Olympic Winter Games.

Shortly afterward Calmat, a former French Olympic figure skating ace, jogged into the stadium and up the row of 101 blue steps to the tower housing the flame.

At the top he turned and held the torch high toward the crowd. The spectators cheered loudly. Calmat then turned back to the bowl, touched it with the torch and the Olympic flame blazed in the sky. It will burn for the duration of the Games.

As Alain Calmat ran up 101 steps to light the Olympic flame, the crowd of 60,000 could hear his heartbeat. An electronic device was attached to his chest, and the sound was amplified through the loudspeakers.

At one point during the ceremony, three helicopters flew over the stadium and dropped 30,000 perfumed artificial red roses. Many of the approximately 1,350 athletes on the field scrambled for the souvenirs.

Meade Is Winner Now; Success Came Slowly

By George Knemeyer

Gymnastics Coach Bill Meade's office would never get the Good Housekeeping seal of approval.

His desk is covered with letters from past and prospective gymnasts, from the NCAA, and magazines concerning gymnastics. The materials completely cover the top of his desk.

All this shows that Bill Meade cares about gymnastics, and as proof of this he has coached SIU to three NCAA championships in the last four years.

Meade rated himself as only an average gymnast while at Penn State, although he was good enough to win the Eastern tumbling title one year.

While Meade is a big winner now at SIU, it wasn't always that way.

Meade came to SIU in 1957 at the start of the first full year of gymnastics here, and led SIU to a 1-8 season, the only losing season he has had at SIU.

During the next three years, the Salukis had a 26-11 record. In 1961, Meade coached his first NCAA finalist, finishing second with a record of 9-3. Two more second place finishes followed in 1962-63. Then came his first championship team in 1964.

While Meade doesn't like to think back on bad times, there is one loss that the SIU gymnasts suffered that Meade will remember for a long time.

It occurred in 1961--a three-point loss to Michigan State. He remembers the loss because it was the last regular season loss SIU has suffered.

Since then Meade and SIU have scored 68 consecutive dual meet victories during the regular season. Meade's 12-year record at SIU, including a 7-0 record this season, is 93 wins and 22 defeats.

Meade is blunt when it comes to talking about the Salukis' chances to win an unprecedented third straight NCAA title.

"We'll be favored again this year," Meade said, without batting an eyelash.

And while his office may not win the Good Housekeeping Seal, he has won the Olympic Seal of Approval. He will be manager for the 1968 U.S. Gymnastics team.

Salukis Test Duke, Face Mike Lewis

When center Mike Lewis was a sophomore at Duke University he was the school's third highest scorer. Last year he was the number two scorer on the squad. This year Lewis is running away from all competition for team scoring honors.

After the Blue Devils' first 14 games Lewis was averaging 23.6 points per game. His rebounding has also picked up somewhat this year as he holds a 15.2 retrieving average.

Last season, when the Salukis were up against the Blue Devils for the NIT quarterfinals, it was senior Bob Verga they had to contend with. The sharpshooting forward was hitting the hoop at a 26.1 point clip per game. At that time last year Lewis was averaging 15.5 points per game and was mainly feared for his prowess under the boards where he was pulling down rebounds at the rate of 12.3 a game.

This year it's a different story. Lewis the rebounder is now Lewis the shooter as well.

The muscular 6-7, 225-pounder was a second team choice for the All-Atlantic Coast Conference Team.

An accurate shooter, Lewis has a superb field goal percentage of 52.9 and a free throw accuracy rate of 75.8 per cent.

A possible All-American, Lewis as a junior has hit for 33 points twice. The first time was against Vanderbilt and the second was against Virginia.

This season Lewis has already hit the 30 point threshold five times, his high game coming in Duke's 103-76 mauling of Wake Forest, when he hit for 35 points.

His best game, rebounding wise this season came against North Carolina when he pulled down 22 as Duke fell, 75-72. His career high is 24. It came in his junior year in a 113-71 victory over Wake Forest.

The double threat Lewis poses comes in the wake of a crushing defeat at the hands of another giant, Kansas State's Nick Pino. While Pino's biggest weapon was his intimidation, Lewis's is his talent.

HAPPY FEELING--Gymnastics Coach Bill Meade seems elated about something, perhaps SIU's 68 consecutive dual meet victories. The Salukis will try to extend the streak against Iowa at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Arena.

THE "UNHEARD VOICE" IS CLEARING ITS THROAT

The "Unheard Voice" is a newly created weekly Carbondale newspaper devoted to erasing barriers between Negroes and Whites. We are primarily concerned with events in the Negro and White communities which are related to the race question as well as public opinion on major topics. We feel we're the best thing ever to hit this community, but we need help. We need writers, reporters, photographers, cartoonists. No journalism experience is necessary. We're looking for people who want to say something but are stymied in their search for an outlet. We'd be pleased if you can help us regularly. If you have time now and then, we are also interested. We pay well in an intangible manner. We offer you journalistic experience, the opportunity to have your thoughts printed in the paper, and the indescribable feeling that envelops you when you know you have contributed to a worthwhile cause. We realize we're not going to make any money from our venture, but we also know we're going to bring a deeper understanding between all people on earth.

Please help us.
