S. I. N. U. TAKES TWO ON TRIP

Charleston Defeated 19-14

HOME BOYS WIN SECOND GAME OF TRIP

The terrors from the old home town won the second game of their trip from Charleston on Thursday last. The game, as a whole, was better than the Sparks game, although both were about equally close from the start to the finish. Like the game the day before, the Normal boys from home gained their real advantage in the first half, and succeeded in sustaining their lead throughout the game.

The Charleston team used the five man defensive system, and used it to such good advantage that their defense was almost impregnable—would have been, perhaps, totally so, to a shooting system less versatile and resolute than the Normal possesses in Brooks, Chance, and Valentine. Allen and Carter, defending the Normal's goal, did noticeably good work in reducing the number of short shots to the minimum. During the entire game Charleston got but one field goal.

The Carbondale team started with a bang from the outset. Three baskets from the hands of Valentine and two from Brooks constituted the score of the Normal in first half, with the addition of two field goals pitched by Chance. Chance made a fifty-fifty score with his field goals, getting three out of six attempts. Personal fouls were called liberally on the Carbondale boys by the referee for a total number of seven personals and five technicals. Of these, Lynch and Wilson, pitching for Charleston, got six goals out of twelve attempts.

The close guarding tactics used by both teams contributed toward making it a hard fought battle clear through. The comparatively small score indicates that neither team had "pickings" on short shots. The total score of the home team was distributed as follows: Valentine, 4 field goals; Chance, 2 field goals, 3 foul shots; Brooks, 2 field goals, and Allen, 1 field goal. "Skeezli" made his long one well along in the last half when a basket was needed to break the streak of hard luck the boys had been having in shooting. Allen's good eye makes him an especially

TRI-CLUB DEBATE TROPHY

This is the cup that the Illinae, Agora and Forum are debating for. The second of the series of debates will be held in Zetetic Hall next Monday evening.

ILLINAE SCALPS AGORA!

The first of the series of debates arranged between the three debating societies of the school, namely: Illinae, Agora, and Forum, was held Monday evening, January 23, in Zetetic Hall, before a goodly number of students and friends of the societies. H. S. Walker, President of the Forum, presided.

The "Clash" was between the Illinae and the Agora upon the interesting and vital issue, "Resolved, that organized labor strikes should be abolished." The Illinae, ably represented by Misses Belva Young and Wanda Johnson, had the affirmative side of the issue; while the cause of the Agora was duly upheld by Charles Nealy and Ransom Sherretz, upon the negative side.

The debate proved to be one of intense interest, and on the whole was very good indeed. Miss Young, the first speaker on the affirmative, opened the debate in a convincing manner and continued to present logical arguments throughout to support her side of the question.

Mr. Nealy, first speaker on the negative, spoke in a very convincing way, which gave evidence of much thought upon the subject.

Miss Johnson was the second speaker for the affirmative, and gave, her points in a charming manner which was very effective.

Sparks Falls Before Normal Offensive

SHELBYVILLE TERRORS DEFEATED 25-19

In a rather poor game for the home boys, Sparks Business College was defeated last Wednesday night to the tune of 25-19. The wielders of pen and pounders of typewriter showed themselves inferior in every way to the boys from Carbondale.

Valentine again starred for the home team in ringing up eight baskets out of seventeen chances—an almost 50-50 score. The long boy from Marion is right there when it comes to dropping the ball down between the leathers.

The Normal boys started out speedy from the first, gaining a big lead and holding it. At no time during the game were the Captains of Finance ahead. The five-man defensive used by the Normal proved a puzzle the Sparks forwards could not solve. Allen and Carter allowed few close shots and most of these were missed. The half ended with the Normal leading 16-7, Sparks getting only two field goals the whole half.

In the second half the Sparks team came back and attempted to pass up the score of the Normal team. The boys in the Zebra sweaters allowed them to climb within one point (19-18) and then held them scoreless, except for one foul goal, while they amassed three more field goals to make the score a little more decent.

Both teams as a whole were rather weak on the scoring side the whole game, the Normal slumping noticeably the first part of the latter half. The scoring machine, Brooks to Chance and Valentine, showed fast streaks, and this proved the real advantage the Normal boys had in this respect.

Brooks, Chance, Valentine, Allen and Carter played throughout for the Normal. Lichtenwalters, Duddleston, Parks, Beems and Mayer started for Sparks; Jones went in for Lichtenwalters the second half.

Lantz, of Charleston, referred the game.

Sparks play a return game with the Normal, Feb. 24th, at Carbondale.

ON COSMETICS

We've often heard the little rhyme—
A little puff of powder,
A little daub of paint,
Makes all those freckles
Look like what they ain't.

But why is it that so many people who don't have a sign of a freckle make use (profuse use, too) of afore-said "puff" and "daub"?

When we visit other towns and schools we realize that the paint and powder aren't so extremely popular with our S. I. N. U. girls. But same are guilty to a certain extent.

We aren't going to sermelize, eulogize, or criticize, but we could not refrain from giving you the benefit of this choice bit of a poem we discovered in a paper. We like it because it is so absolutely true. See if it isn't. We've always known that rouge and powder are bad things to use. Just suppose, fair lady, if you wanted very much to see "Uncle Tom's Cabin" or "East Lynn." You just simply couldn't do it. Stop a moment to think what damage tears would do to that complexion, and it's a theatrical rule to weep at those performances to show the audience you haven't a heart of stone.

So we repeat—don't use them. You're not fooling the public at all by smearing the rouge and using the puff—

Whom do you fool, little girl, little girl,

With your cheek's false blush and your hair's false curl?

Whom do you fool with your penciled brows,

And your neckless—almost waistless—blouse?

Whom do you fool with your skirts so brief

As to bring to mind Eve's fig tree leaf

Do you think you have fooled the modern youth?

He, too, is blaise, and he knows the truth.

Whom do you lure with your vampish glance?

Is it age you fool? Why there's not a chance?

Don't you know that the rogue on your face and lips

Is as plain as the point in a minister's quips?

Has it never occurred to your foolish brain

That your puff and lip-stick work is vain?

Have you never known that the You beneath

Shines plain as day from your chemie sheath?

There is one that you fool, little girl, little girl;

There is one whose head you have set awirl.

There is one, just one, in the world not wise

To the work you do with your shape and eyes.

There is one, just one, who doesn't know

You attract the least when the most you show.

The rest of us know you through and through—
The only one that is fooled is YOU.

A MARK TWAIN STORY

Mark Twain had often heard it said that an Englishman could not appreciate American humor. He had never had enough opportunity to test the correctness or incorrectness of this theory. One day while sitting in the lobby of the Hotel Cecil, London, an Englishman dropped in, who seemed to Mark, a fit subject for experimentation.

Mark entered upon a conversation with him and after the course of fifty minutes he began to relate to him one of his most inimitable stories. The Englishman's face at once assumed a gravity remarkable to behold. His features remained stolid throughout the telling of the story. Mark had finished his story, without any result, seemingly. Mark gave him up as hopeless.

A long time after this, according to Mark's notion, he was again a guest of the Hotel Cecil. One morning about ten o'clock an Englishman rushed in breathlessly and exclaimed, "I've got it! I've got it! I see the point."

Mark said, "Pray be seated, my dear sir. Your nervousness will bring on a fit of apoplexy. What can I do for you?"

"Do you remember, six months ago in this very room you told me a story. Yesterday I heard of your presence in the Hotel Cecil, and last night I saw the point of your story. I said to my wife, 'I shall take the first express train in the morning and tell Mr. Twain about that.'"

Mark looked quizzically at him, and then drawled out in his peculiar, nasal twang, "Why didn't you take the freight?"

Dear reader, do YOU see the point of this story?

PRESIDENT ALLEN
TO VISIT SCHOOLS

President and Mrs. C. E. Allen left Valley City Friday night, January 13, on an extended tour of school visitation in the eastern states. They will be away from the State Teachers College some six or seven weeks. At the request of the editor of the Budget Dr. Allen made out the itinerary which appears below.

Saturday, January 14, was spent in Minneapolis in search of a member of the faculty to succeed Miss Gertrude M. Vanderhoof of the Training School. The Allens expect to leave Minneapolis either over the Soo or the Canadian Pacific Railway to Montreal. From that city they will go through central Vermont to White River Junction and then on to Hanover, New Hampshire. Three days are to be passed at Dartmouth College after which a short trip will be made to Ware, Massachusetts. The Normal Schools at Keene, N. H. and Westfield, Mass., will be visited and inspected at this time. Boston will be the city next visited. Mrs. Allen will make a short visit with Carl Allen, Jr., who is a student in Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass.. While in the vicinity of Boston Dr. Allen will go to the Salem Normal School and will have the opportunity also of visiting the College of Education in Harvard University. There is a possibility of including Clark University at Worcester where Mr. J. E. Switzer, Head of the Department of Science at S. T. C., is doing graduate study this year.

The next move will be to go to New York City where President Allen will spend about three weeks in Teachers College, Columbia University. Visits will be made to Normal schools in New York State and possibly to some in New Jersey and Maryland. About the middle of February Dr. and Mrs. Allen will come west to Carbondale, Illinois, and on February 20 it is their expectation to be at Fillmore, Ill. On February 24 and 25 Dr. Allen will attend the National Council of Normal School Principals in Chicago and from February 27 to March 2 he will attend the sessions of the Department of Superintendence of the N. E. A. which will also hold its annual meeting in Chicago. From Chicago President and Mrs. Allen will come directly to Valley City. The best wishes of the faculty and the students will be with them on their journey of busy and profitable days.—The Teachers' Budget.

Dr. Allen was formerly vice president and registrar of this institution.

THE ART APPRECIATION CLUB

The Art Appreciation Club met Tuesday evening, January 24, 1922. Several new members were voted into the club.

Miss Ruth Gibbs gave a most graphic description of Abbey's Fifteen Panels in the Boston library illustrating the legend of the Holy Grail; Miss Winifred Kugler, a reading; and Miss Mary Roberts favored us with a piano selection, "Autumn Birds are Calling."

The members of the Club are making individual portfolios, which are to contain prints cuts from magazines and newspapers pertaining to American art. They are planning also, to spend a Saturday in St. Louis soon, to visit the Art Museum. Miss Williams will accompany the club if they take this trip.

MANUAL ARTS

We reached the Normal campus with the intention of spending the day at the Manual Training department. As we ascended the stairs of Science Building our ears caught the humming sound from machinery on the floor above. We had reached our destination. There we were in a real shop, where everything seemed to be in motion and everybody busy. The very atmosphere of the place impressed us as being that of earnest effort and business-like activity.

We were met by Mr. Peterson who, upon learning of our purpose in coming, bade us feel free to look around and secure whatever information we desired. He told us that the class that we saw was composed about equally of students taking first and second term benchwork and that Mr. Pratt was the student-teacher in charge. Also, that aside from the twice-a-week general demonstration lectures on the uses of tools, method of construction, kinds and properties of materials, etc., the students received individual instruction.

So we started out to see what the class was doing. The first young man we talked with was making a cutting board of wood stripes of different colors. He showed us how the edges were fitted together by planing them straight and square and then joining by means of glue and dowel pins, inserted in the holes, bored in edges and matching exactly. "This problem," he said, "serves a two-fold purpose: First, it makes a durable and beautiful utensil, much needed in the home. Secondly, the making of it affords a most excellent practice in the use of tools. The dowel joint involved is one of the several fundamental joints so much used in cabinet making. We do our experimental work on small articles. In case we spoil a piece, the damage is not so very serious. The important thing is to develop skill and forethought in planning and construction to such an extent that when one wishes to undertake a more pretentious job he may be reasonably certain of the outcome. This same method is followed also with the other joints and with wood carving, inlaying, veneering, hardware fastenings, fittings of hinges and locks and other operations belonging to that class.

We next turned to a young lady who was engaged in making toys from thin wood. She explained that the chief reason for taking up that work was to be able to teach it in the intermediate grades in co-ordination with other subjects and she was very fascinated by the work. These toys were indeed very clever things. It seemed no wonder to us that children could become enraptured over them. Here we were, grown-ups, dignified and sedate, catching ourselves playing with them and thoroughly amused at the stunts these figures could perform. The collection that we saw was as varied as it was interesting. Kicking acrobats, rope-climbing sailors, walking ponies, whirling clowns, dinky birds, airplane swings, ferris wheels, merry-go-rounds, and many others. The diplopecus, the queerest of all, could wobble along an inclined board in such a ludicrous fashion that it almost seemed alive.

We were attracted to some beautiful articles made on the wood-turning lathes. There were vases, bowls, plates, rapkin rings, candle sticks, and floor lamps. We were also shown many wood-patterns, such as wheels, pulleys and all parts for a lathe. These patterns are used in the iron foundry for making machine parts.

Pattern work requires a high degree of skill as their forms are very complex and must be made exactly to size; many of those patterns are partly made on the lathe and partly on the bench, and must be so dexteriously united that the various surfaces seem to flow together and also be strong enough to stand rough usage.

After the noon hour we visited a class in drawing which, we were informed, begins in the Fall by taking up mechanical drawing and in the Winter and Spring takes up architectural and machine drawing respectively. The students brought their drawings of plans and elevations of garages of different styles. The recitation was centered on house foundations: the location on the lot, the squaring up, the excavating, drainage, nature of soils and relative bearing power. Topics assigned for study were foundation materials, such as: stone, vitrified brick, concrete blocks, hollow glazed tile and solid concrete. We were told that during the term the class will work out the different problems connected with the construction of buildings, including the calculation of sizes of joists and rafters, arrangement of staircases, styles of roofs and framing, wind and snow pressure, roofing materials, cement, proportions of concrete ingredients, waterproofing foundations, method and cost of construction, relative merits of different materials for exterior and interior surfaces of houses.

During the term each student makes drawings, sections, elevations and specifications of a garage, a five-room bungalow and a seven-room two-story residence. Also drawings in detail of the five classic orders.

The machine shop class came next; the last for the day. The students took up their work at their respective places; at the bench, the speed lathe, the planer or emery wheel, as the case might be. They were engaged in various operations such as chipping, filing, laying out work, drilling tapping, polishing, turning, boring, grinding, sawing and planing. The projects included in the course are: wrenches, calipers, clamps, plumb-bobs, straight and taper-turning, right and left-hand thread-cutting, jack-screws, making parts of a speed lathe. The students take turns in keeping the tool room, also in taking charge of "straightening-up" shop at the end of the period; each student is assuming the responsibility of each of these two offices, for a week per term. This gives them training in shop supervision.

What impressed us in all the classes we observed was the genuine character of the work. It was all to a purpose and yet each project was designed to give the student the practice in mastering some fundamental process in construction.

When, in leaving, we told Mr. Peterson the things we had observed in particular, he said: "Were it not for the fact that the students realize the substantiality and intrinsic value of this work, this department wouldn't amount to anything. Our work here is planned and carried on according to the highest standards of the modern shop. It is practical and technical education combined. Our work is practically all effective, but the students take it because of the great value this kind of training is to them. Some take this work on account of its meaning in skill, insight, and power to them personally. Others decide to become teachers of manual arts. Four of those graduated from this department last spring are teaching good high schools and getting two hundred dollars a month. Not a bad start, is it?"

HONOR LETTERS

It might be well to call attention at this particular time to the system of honor awards inaugurated last year, and which has proved to be highly successful.

Last year honor letters were awarded to twenty-two students. Students making over 90% in all their grades receive honor letter automatically. For the others, general scholarship, attitude toward work, activity in student affairs, personality and leadership counted strongly in the selection. Activity in the different societies, library and debating, also count to this end.

The process of elimination down to a reasonable number is taken care of by the students themselves, through a committee on nominations. The group selected is submitted to the faculty committee on this matter, and a two-thirds vote is necessary to secure this letter. So far as now known it is the intention to continue this practice year by year.

CARELESSNESS

Carelessness can add to your troubles, subtract from your earnings, multiply your aches and pains, take interest from your work and discount your chances for safety. Besides this, it can divide your thoughts between business and pleasure and be a potent factor in your failures. Even if it is with you only a small fraction of the time, it can lessen your chances for success. It is an enemy to be reconed with. Cancel it from your habits and it will add to your total happiness. —C.

F. G. BLAIR

A NOTABLE GATHERING OF EDUCATORS

A most important gathering of prominent school men of southern Illinois occurred here last week, Wednesday and Thursday. The occasion was the annual conference of the county superintendents of this end of the state under the direction of State Superintendent F. G. Blair, of Springfield.

The state superintendent and the county superintendents were considered the guests of the Normal, and invitations were sent out to the high school principals and city superintendents to attend, and participate in the conference held by Mr. Blair.

The Illinois Educational Commission was also present. County Superintendent A. M. Shelton of McHenry county, chairman of the commission, was accompanied by Hon. Harry Wilson, member of the General Assembly, and Dean C. M. Thompson, of the College of Commerce, University of Illinois. All of these members are southern Illinois boys—real "Egyptians."

There were present some county superintendents, and about the same number of city superintendents, and of high school principals.

Among the visitors was Dr. Chad-sey, head of the College Education, University of Illinois.

At the general exercises on Wednesday Mr. Shelton gave a brief account of the work of the Educational Commission. The commission holds sessions in different parts of the state for the purpose of gathering up information in certain lines—rate of taxation, per capita cost of education, attitude of all classes of people toward the present plan of carrying on the educational activities, etc. This will be systematized and recommendations made to the next general assembly. Dean Thompson also made a very interesting short talk.

Throughout the day the visitors inspected the work of the various class rooms, and held little conferences here and there about the halls and corridors.

At six-thirty the visitors and faculty to the number of 100 sat down to a feast of good things in the spacious dining room of Anthony Hall. Prof. Bannum's orchestra of forty pieces discoursed sweet music during the dinner hour. Following the dinner the company repaired to the Zetetic Hall where Dr. Chadsey delivered the regular address of the evening.

The formal opening of the conference was set for 9 o'clock Thursday morning in Zetetic Hall. About forty-five county superintendents and high school principals took part in the conference. At general exercises the conference was seated on the stage and following the devotions, Mr. Blair made one of his most charming short talks. Dr. Chadsey also made his first bow to the students of the S. I. N. U.

The conferences continued till 12:30 and after dinner at the New Roberts, they were continued in the hotel parlors.

All in all it was one of the red letter days for the Southern Illinois Normal University.

BIBLE STUDY

"Let brotherly love continue."

Hebrews 13-1.

This little article is written simply to remind you that a Bible study class, for men, meets every Tuesday evening at six o'clock in Association Hall. This discussion group is under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. You do not have to be an authority on the Bible to be eligible for admission to this class, but we merely want to know that you are interested in becoming better acquainted with the life and history of our Lord.

Some of the men of our school are showing a deep interest in this Bible discussion group. If we are to do the work that is expected of us, we must study and do our work well; but may we not forget that the study of the Bible is a part of our work. We owe it to God and to ourselves. It is necessary to keep our religion sentiments in repair, because genuine Christianity is love in action.

Again, let me extend the invitation to all men of the S. I. N. U. to meet with us each week, and learn how Jesus met life questions.

ILLINAE SCALPS AGORA

Mr. Sherretz, second speaker for the negative, enthusiastically delivered his part of the argument, establishing new points which furnished material for Miss Young's timely rebuttal.

The judges of the evening were: Prof. Peterson, Miss Hickson, and Miss Browne, who rendered a unanimous decision in favor of the Illinae.

We may say: "To the victors belong the spoils." Illinae, we congratulate you.

The second debate of the series is to be held in Zetetic Hall, February 6, at which time the Agora and Forum will match skill. A "live-wire" question will be thoroughly discussed.

ANOTHER TWAIN STORY

A number of years ago some of the publishers and noted writers of New York and vicinity held a banquet at Sherry's. Mark Twain was among the guests, for at that time no function like this would have been complete without Mark's presence. The decorations of the room were exquisite, the vines of the best, and wine was not forgotten. The toastmaster was at his best. A number of noted speakers had made their talks and all seemed to be in the gayest mood. No, there was one individual, who sat opposite Mark Twain, who had the lugubrious mien of a funeral director. Mark happened to notice this. He addressed him in this wise, "My dear sir, you look as solemn as a tree full of owls. Have you lost all of your friends?"

The individual addressed raised his head, looked mournfully at Mark, shook his head sadly, and said: "How can I, when I reflect that every time I blow my breath a soul wings its flight to eternity."

Mark drawled out, "Did you ever try cloves?"

FOOTBALL MEN PRESENT COACH McANDREW'S SWEATER

Letter Men Show Appreciation to Mac

The letter men of the football squad showed their appreciation of the work of Capt. McAndrews in his leadership of the foot ball team of 1921 last Wednesday morning when Capt. Carson, representing the team, presented "Mac" with a sweater of the slipover type with his Chicago University numerals, 1911, upon it.

That "Mac", as a leader of men, is unequalled goes without question with all who know him. In the army, too, "Mac" showed what he could do in this line, in a Captiancy. To know that besides feeling a deep respect for his powers of leadership the boys hold him in high esteem as a man, and a friend, must make Mr. McAndrews proud of the opportunities that present themselves to him in his chosen profession.

And it is by means of this feeling of hearty co-ordination between "Mac" and the boys he coaches that the S. I. N. U. is so well represented on the grid, the floor and the field. As long as this feeling is in evidence we need not fear that our athletes will not truly and heartily represent the best that there is in S. I. N. U. loyalty.

G. A. A.

The newest thing S. I. N. U. is offering to the girls of this school is the Girls' Athletic Association. They met some time ago and elected the following officers: Dora Davis, president; Edith Reed, vice president; Leah Cockrum, treasurer; Viola Lurtz, secretary; Hilda Stein, corresponding secretary; Miss Wanda Newsum, advisor.

The purpose of this organization is to raise the standard of physical mental and moral efficiency among the women of the Southern Illinois State University, developing ideals of health, sportsmanship and physical control. A committee consisting of the above mentioned officers and the following members: Sue Ellene Lay, Florence Melhuish, Alice Barrow, Dorothy Furr, met and worked out a system of points. Later editions of the "Egyptian" will explain the carrying out of these. If you see a girl with a letter "N" on the left sleeve of her sweater, you know she's a member of the Girls' Athletic Association. Girls, ask some of the members what the plans are and when you hear them you'll want to join immediately and we'll want you, too.

DEAN CHADSEY SPEAKS TO COUNTY AND CITY SUPERINTENDENTS AND PRINCIPALS

After the banquet and informal reception at Anthony Hall given by S. I. N. U. President and Faculty, the city and county superintendents and principals of southern Illinois were entertained in the Zetetic Hall by a short program. The numbers rendered were:

Reading by Mrs. A. Hendy; music by Euterpe Quartet; Dean Chadsey head of the Department of Education of the University of Illinois, spoke on School Administration.

He first took up the historical phase of the office of superintendent, especially city superintendent, showing how the duties and powers of the office were undefined, and the effects of this.

The second phase of his lecture had to do with the qualifications of the superintendents, city and county. He gave some interesting data here which had been collected by an Educational Committee, of which he served as head. From a report of 1,100 superintendents taken from all over the state he found the following medians:

Age of superintendent—43 years.
Salary—$3,400 per annum.
Educational experience—19 years.
Time spent as superintendent—9 years.

Term in present position—4 years.
Living expenses—$2,400 per year.
For professional improvement—$284 per year.

Qualification in terms of years—9 years above 8th grade.
In 800 cities of 2,500 population 67 superintendents had no training beyond the 8th year.

Dean Chadsey made a plea for better college training for superintendents.

While he emphasized the idea that men who by their efficiency and good personalities have attained these positions without college credits, should not be thrown out of position, he also spoke of the inconsistency of the required standards for the teachers with no definite required standard for superintendents.

He intimated that soon perhaps the median 9 years above 8th grade would become the minimum requirement for superintendents.

Metinks I see "The Hand-writing on the Wall."

Dean Chadsey seemed optimistic concerning the future of the schools in view of the advancement made by the superintendent within the last 25 years.

CAMPAIGN FOR RELIEF OF EUROPEAN STUDENTS ON AT I. S. N. U. THIS WEEK

Student Council Recommends Drive for Raising Funds to Help Unfortunate Brethren on Other Side—Interest in Other Schools Shown

A campaign is being waged in the Normal school this week for the relief of European students. A like campaign is being carried on in every university and college in the country.

A similar campaign was carried on in this country last year with the result that many European students were enabled to carry on their school work. The campaign this year is for the purpose of conserving the physical, mental and moral gains resulting from the relief sent the Europeans last year.

The campaign has been recommended by the student council and is being waged by a committee from that body. When you are approached this week for a contribution to this fund give all you can. Some schools have gone the 100 per cent in contributions. For more particulars of the campaign read the special articles on other pages of this issue.—Ex.

We give the above that students of S. I. N. U. may know what other schools are doing along the above mentioned line.

STICKERS

How many students are proud that they are enrolled in the S. I. N. U.? We hope all are. But on trains going home and returning from vacations we do not display our pride. Your eyes wander in a suit-case beside yours with a read seal "ILLINOIS", and then that makes you feel that you should have a conspicuous suit case. Why can you not have? Are you not going to a wonderful school? Is not your very soul branded with school loyalty? Yes, it is, but fellow-students, let us show it by sticking labels on our suit cases, bearing the ensign, "S. I. N. U." But you will say, "Where would we obtain them?" If our book store would not order them then they need no longer expect our patronage. Why the manager of the store would be delighted to obtain them for us. Students, those labels are one of the best methods for advertising our school. Is it not embarrassing for people to ask you where you are attending school? Place your suit case in plain view and look wise. What do you say, gang? So we want stickers.

We are pleased to receive "The Headlight," which is a weekly paper published by the students of the Dupo Community High School.

Our exchange numbers thirty schools in Illinois and schools in Kansas, Ohio, Wisconsin, Texas, N. Dakota, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Oregon, Iowa.

CHARLESTON STUDENTS ERECT BALCONY IN GYM

Perhaps the most noticeable thing in the way of a student enterprise that has come to the attention of the writer for a great while was noticed by the fellows who made the basketball trip to Charleston.

For a long while, there had been a recognized need for a bigger seating capacity in the gymnasium. Upon this need becoming especially pertinent, the students launched an enterprise for the purpose of building a balcony in the gym to provide additional seating capacity. This enterprise purposed to raise the money necessary to buy the lumber, provide the labor, (student labor), and to see that the whole thing went off right. All of which it did—or rather, is doing, for the balcony has not as yet been quite completed. It is estimated that this will increase the capacity of the gymnasium by about 300.

All of which might lead us to believe that the Charleston spirit might prove a dangerous one to encounter if in opposition to us—if they always take such energetic measures to secure a thing they want.

AN ANSWER

In reply to the article in the January 24 number of the Egyptian entitled "More School Loyalty," we wish to say that the "Alma Mater Song" has been printed and pasted in the back of every song book in the Auditorium, and if anyone doesn't know the words it is because he hasn't taken the trouble to learn them. We also are strong for school loyalty. If the person who hasn't heard the Alma Mater Song more than six times had attended all the football games, basketball games, and Friday morning pep meetings as well, he most certainly would have heard the song played and sung more than six times. Our band is quick to take advantage of every opportune occasion to start up our school song. Let's have everyone else as quick to take advantage of every opportunity to sing it.

Miss Bowyer: "Mr. Smith, do you teach in your room the fifth hour?"

Mr. Smith: "Yes. Why?"

Miss Bowyer: "Why, I couldn't tell whether it was you, or Mr. Felt's voice."

Mr. Smith: "Why, have you lowered your voice till you can hear me talking?"
