Kerner Declares 'War on Crime'

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. Otto Kerner asked the Illinois Legislature Monday to increase the state police force by 400 men, place controls on hand guns, and crack down on tavern gambling and drunk-en driving.

In a special message on law enforcement, Kerner also requested stiffer sentences for crimes of armed violence, payments to innocent victims of crimes, and regulation of motorcycles.

Many of the Democratic governor's proposals already have been filed in the legislature by Republican leaders.

Sen. W. Russell Arrington of Evanston, GOP Senate majority leader, said Kerner "obviously has read our document and apparently is in accord with our recommendations.

"We think this argues well for the war on crime in Illinois," Arrington added.

Kerner recommended the legal limit of 1,100 state policemen be erased and funds appropriated to permit hiring of 200 additional men a year until the force reaches 1,500. Another 100 state troopers are employed on the Illinois Toll Highway System.

Arrington noted Republicans have offered to boost the force by 200 men but he said, "This is an area where our differences can be ironed out."

Kerner also proposed basic pay hikes for state troopers and compulsory retirement at age 60.

SIU Vehicle Policy Change Takes Effect

Strain on the fleet of SIU-owned vehicles caused by University expansion has brought changes in policy regarding use of University vehicles, according to Paul W. Isbell, University director of services.

The changes were made to do away with inequities in the present system and to curtail misuse of the vehicles which reflects discredit on the University, Isbell's announcement stated.

The policy changes include limiting the use of University-owned vehicles to official transportation requirements in connection with University business.

For out-of-state travel, or travel outside a 300-mile radius from SIU, it is recommended that vehicles other than those from the SIU automobile fleet be used.

Mileage rate reimbursement for use of personal or private vehicles will be eight cents a mile for single trip use up to 300 miles and five cents a mile beyond 300 miles.

Personal or private use of University vehicles will not be authorized.

Botanist Receives Plant Study Grant

SIU has received a $3,500 grant from Geigy Agricultural Chemical, Ardsley, N.Y., to support 1967 research by James A. Tweedy, assistant professor of plant industries. The study will deal with the effect of certain herbicides on corn.

Tweedy's research project, for which the firm made the grant, is entitled: "The Influence of Triazine Herbicides on Nitrate Metabolism in Corn." He says the work will include both field tests and laboratory studies.

Tweedy, a native of Cobden and 1962 graduate of SIU, joined the School of Agriculture faculty last July upon receiving his doctorate at Michigan State University.

While at Michigan State he held graduate assistantships for three years under research grants from Geigy to study the influences of herbicides on fruit tree seedlings and on corn growth. He has been especially concerned with the effect of the chemicals on plant metabolism.

Living Areas Will Vote on Activity Fee; Final Approval Requires Board Action

Residents of the four University living areas will vote Wednesday for or against re-instatement of an area activity fee.

Involved in the referendum are Southern Acres, Thompson Point, University Park and Woody Hall.

The vote does not affect the $10.50 SIU activity fee.

If the fee referendum is approved, it will be sent to the SIU Board of Trustees. They will consider a change

Mu Phi Epsilon Selects 9 Pledges

Mu Phi Epsilon, a national music sorority, has selected its pledges for the year.

The nine pledges will become active members during the winter quarter. To be eligible a student must have a 4.0 grade average in music and a 3.5 overall average.

Pledges are Rebecca J. Hindman, Jean McRoy, Carolyn Sue Webb, Judith Kay Ellsworth, and Reatta Ann Samford, Andrea Shields, Martha Harpstrite, Linda Sparks and Karen Elgert.

The sorority annually sponsors a joint recital with Phi Mu Alpha, a national music fraternity, and participates in the Jazz Venture concert.

in statutes to clear up a legality question.

Since 1962, residents of the areas paid the activity fee before receiving a contract for University housing.

It was discovered last June that the method of collecting the $13.50 fee was not legal, according to a letter to the residents signed by the living area presidents.

University administration termed the method of collection illegal because the money collected by on-campus living areas must be used for retirement of the bonds sold to finance construction of the buildings, according to John R. Anderson, president of Thompson Point.

When the technicality was announced, the areas were not allowed to spend any of the activity money previously available, he said.

The University loaned the areas money on which to operate during fall quarter.

Thompson Point has cancelled all activities until it has money to pay for them, Anderson said.

The mandatory activity fee would become legal if the Board of Trustees agrees to change statutes concerning collection of money by the living areas.

The letter to the residents says that in order for the Board to consider such a change, 90 per cent of the present residents must vote Wednesday.

Polling places will be provided on each floor of each building in the four areas from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in hopes of getting maximum number of voters, Anderson said.

In the past 10 years the money from the activity fee has been spent for such events as free movies, scholarships in Thompson Point, bus service, intramural fees, Spring Festival and Homecoming entries, hayrides and Obelisk pictures.

Bomb Call Brings Police to Woody

SIU received its second bomb scare in two days about 12:30 a.m. Sunday when a caller told the Carbondale police a bomb had been placed in Woody Hall dormitory.

Carbondale and University police searched the dorm but found no bomb.

Dormitory officials, believing the call was another prank, did not evacuate the dorm while police conducted the search.

Defensive Game Ends in Rout

Southern handed Evansville College its tenth consecutive defeat Monday night 55-41 in a give and take basketball game. Both teams gave the other numerous chances through offensive mistakes, but both at the same time appeared reluctant to accept the gifts.

The Salukis threw up a man to man defense that proved impenetrable to the Aces throughout the game, but at the same time Southern had trouble finding the right combination to crack the Aces.

Southern scored the initial eight points of the night. They went on to open up leads of 10-1, 12-3 and 15-5 before the action grew slow and each side started committing floor errors. Baskets grew scarce as action grew old in the first period, which finally ended with the Salukis ahead 25-16.

Even after the period ended and the teams headed for their dressing rooms confusion set in again, only this time not with the respective teams' defenses, rather between the referees and the scorekeeper. The teams were called from the dressing rooms and told the gun had not sounded even though time had run out.

So Evansville threw the ball in, all was made official and the teams once again retreated to the dressing rooms.

During that low scoring first half the Aces hit on only 18 per cent of their floor shots, while the Salukis were compiling a more respectable reading of 41 per cent.

The second period didn't start off any faster than the first finished. Southern out-scored Evansville 15-5 through the first few minutes

High Court Finally Says Token Integration Wrong

The fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has blown the whistle on token school desegregation and the evasions that have perpetuated a largely segregated public school system in the Deep South in defiance of the Supreme court and Congress.

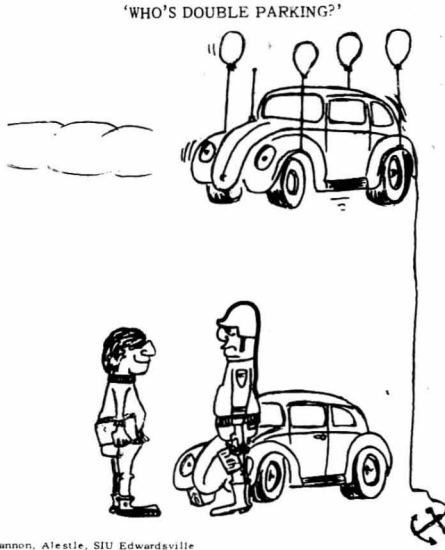

Upholding federal school desegregation guidelines, the court, in a 2-to-1 decision (the dissent was by segregationist-minded Judge Harold Cox of Mississippi) declared: "Now after 12 years of snail's pace progress toward school desegregation, the courts are entering a new era. The clock has ticked the last tick for tokenism and delay in the name of 'deliberate speed.'"

This means that the seven school districts involved in the case before the court, and by extension all school districts in the South, must desegregate all grades next fall and achieve substantial faculty desegregation by the following school year. This is what the federal guidelines, issued to implement the civil rights act of 1964, call for.

In its decision, the court closed off virtually all maneuvering room for Southern officials bent on preserving segregated school systems. No longer can local school officials disclaim responsibility for lack of progress under "free-choice" plans when they know that more Negroes do not choose to attend white schools simply because they are intimidated if they do.

No longer can federal district courts be used as "shields" to delay desegregation. Some school systems, in order to circumvent federal guidelines, rushed into federal district courts and obtained desegregation orders that left procedures and details to local school boards.

Armed with this latest court ruling, the Office of Education should not hesitate to press for full compliance with its guidelines. Further evasion and flouting of the law of the land should not be tolerated. —Louisville Courier-Journal

Lies About Bombing of Hanoi Merely Add to Grievance List

It seems that we have lost something. And it's not clear exactly when it was lost.

At one time it was considered standard operation procedure for the United States government to at least make a show of telling the truth.

Not lying to the populous was considered good form. And if there was an occasional slip-up, then it was at least expected that there would be a good deal of breast beating.

The United States has been bombing the city of Hanoi. This fact the North Vietnamese and a good number of other people consider despicable.

But what is being overlooked is that the Pentagon and administration policy has been to lie about the situation.

No one can doubt that if there is a war being carried out, then there must be military secrets.

But this was not a military secret.

It was a policy secret. The information was not released because those in charge feared the public reaction.

In the face of news reports from all over the world describing the bombings, the United States insisted that it was their policy only to bomb military targets.

There probably are military targets in residential areas

Heap Big Bunglers

Bureaucratic bunglers have always found a happy hunting ground in Indian affairs. The latest example occurred on Wyoming's Wind River Indian reservation where the federal government erected a $225,000 low rent apartment building. Embarrassed officials have extended the deadline from Dec. 23 for housing applications because only one family has requested an apartment in the 20-unit structure.

The Shoshone and Arapaho Indians prefer their log shacks to the new building—not because they are used to living in poverty or want to, but because they like to live apart and enjoy some privacy. The officials didn't bother to learn this until after opening the apartments for business. After all these years of overbearing paternalism, we think it is time the federal government dropped its Great White Father act.

—Chicago's American

of Hanoi. But, then why didn't the Pentagon say that in the beginning instead of denying the charges?

This question first came to a head with the U-2 incident under the Eisenhower administration.

It was then renewed during the Cuban missile crisis of 1962.

But this time there doesn't seem to be a ripple. It may well be that the big lie is now becoming part of the accepted procedure for dealing with unpopular situations.

Arthur Sylvester, who recently retired as assistant secretary for defense for public relations, was often criticized for managing the news.

After the Cuban crisis, he admitted that he had intentionally misled the press.

He defended his action by saying that a government had a right to lie in order to save its own life.

That's one criterion. It's a principle that doesn't have much to do with either truth or democracy.

But even this weak guideline doesn't apply to present government policy.

Tim Ayers

Nation's High Crime Rate Disgraceful

It is ironic, but true, that Washington, the city under the direct control of Congress, is becoming one of the worst crime centers in the United States.

The President's Commission on Crime in the District of Columbia has again confirmed this ugly trend.

What is appalling is the apparent breakdown in the anti-crime machinery revealed in the commission's study. It reported that in fiscal 1965 only about 14 per cent of the 10,822 adults arrested within the United States Attorney's jurisdiction were prosecuted as felons, although almost half the arrests were on felony charges.

This poor record of prosecution sheds light on another grim statistic in the survey—that an astounding 92 per cent of the federal court in the District of Columbia had been arrested previously.

The study committee purports to be astonished at the high percentage of crime committed by juveniles, nearly 50 per cent of all major crime.

For one recommendation of the survey group, there certainly can be strong endorsement—a proposed revision of the criminal code in D.C. to evaluate sentencing provisions and introduce new treatment provisions, such as rehabilitation programs for offenders.

It is becoming glaringly apparent that not only the District of Columbia setup but the whole nation's judicial and penal system is failing abysmally to rehabilitate those that society had assumed were being made useful citizens.

This then is a story of crime—fighting machinery failing all along the way.

It should be the job of the Ninetieth Congress to take the long-delayed action of restoring police powers that have been taken away by Supreme Court rulings, and to take necessary action to see that laws are not only vigorously enforced and prosecuted, but that new and more effective means of rehabilitating criminals are developed. — St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Letter

Bike Accidents, Work on Cycles, Merit Rethinking

To the Editor:

Just as statistics can be slanted to prove anything, so can words. Matt Hall in his letter of Jan. 6 to the Daily Egyptian made two incorrect references to my article on motorcycle regulations.

In his reference to my figure on accidents for last year Hall failed to recognize that I stated in my article "motorcycle related accidents" and not "motorcycle accidents" as stated in his letter.

This was done at the recommendation of Dr. Clarke (not Dr. Scott as Hall stated in his letter) so as to include not only the serious motorcycle accidents but also the minor ones. Taken in this light the figure of 25 accidents a week is more realistic.

He also said the motorcycle shops in town were now doing their part by refusing to work on motorcycles with improper exhaust systems.

He has failed to recognize just how easy it is for a student to remove his baffles or replace his legal exhaust system with scrambler pipes or megaphones. Then when he needs work done on his motorcycle all the student has to do is replace the illegal system with his old legal pipes.

Surely, Mr. Hall, after being in the motorcycle business for 28 years you should know how easy this is to do.

Anti-Anti Missile System Gets Confusing

By Arthur Hoppe
(San Francisco Chronicle)

"I have called this emergency meeting on national security, gentlemen," said the President gravely, "to discuss the growing missile gap."

"Excuse me, Mr. President," said Dr. Werner von Teller, "it isn't a missile gap precisely. I am proud to say we still have 342 more missiles than they have. The problem is that they are developing anti-missile missiles with which to shoot down our missiles. And while we have more missiles than they, we fear they have more anti-missile missiles. This creates an anti-missile gap."

"Did you say 'missile-missile'?" asked the stenotypist, Miss Carbondale.

"No," said Dr. von Teller. "'Anti-missile missile.' The hyphen comes between the 'anti' and the 'missile.'"

"Thank you," said Miss Carbondale.

"The danger," continued Dr. von Teller, "is that if they perfect an anti-missile missile that would destroy our missiles, they would then feel free to launch their missiles at us because we have no effective anti-missile missiles."

"Our choice then," said the President, frowning, "is to build either more missiles than they have anti-missile missiles or more anti-missiles than they have missiles."

"Excuse me, sir," said Miss Carbondale. "I am anti-missile," said the Secretary of State. "We have a hard enough time now projecting a peaceful image with all the missiles we've got around."

"And I'm afraid I'm anti-anti-missile missile," said the Secretary of Defense, shaking his head. "Did you say two 'antis,' sir?" asked Miss Carbondale.

"Yes," said the Secretary. "I am against the anti-missile missile. My cost projection analysis shows that an effective anti-missile missile system would require a capital outlay which breaks down to $97.32 1/2 cents per casualty. And that's too high. We need a bigger bang for our buck."

"Well, there's a third alternative," said Dr. von Teller. "With a crash program we could, in a couple of years, perhaps develop a small missile to be carried by our missiles. Thus, when our missiles were attacked by their anti-missile missiles, we could launch these anti-anti-missile missiles to . . ."

"Pardon me," said Miss Carbondale. "Hold on, now," said the President. "That's a dangerous time lag. And what if they're already working on an anti-anti-anti-missile missile?"

"Did you say 'missile missile missile,' sir?" asked Miss Carbondale.

"Missile missile," said the President. "But maybe we could build an anti-anti-anti-anti missile. Now is there anybody present who is anti-anti-anti-anti . . . Humm. Please read that back, Miss Carbondale."

But Miss Carbondale was suddenly seized with a fit of nervous giggling. For some unaccountable reason it spread around the table until even Dr. von Teller was rolling on the floor, clutching his stomach and guffawing, "Anti-anti-anti-anti-anti- . . ."

Enormous War Costs Hurting U.S. Economy

By Robert M. Hutchins

On or about the same date the people of the United States learned that their new budget might reach $140 billion, that the administration had miscalculated the cost of the war in Vietnam this year by $10 billion and that the President was cutting non-defense programs now by $3 billion.

The only variation in the monotony of this martial music was the report that three-quarters of a billion dollars would be released for mortgages on new houses.

Since this amount can finance not more than 50,000 homes, and we must have 1.5 million to stay even with last year, we derive little consolation from this trifling concession to the needs of our people.

We know from the screams going up all over the country that money is being taken out of every program that might help usher in the Great Society and being diverted to the war in Vietnam and the Defense Department.

This is the richest country in the world. But even we cannot lavish our wealth on war and armaments on the scale now contemplated and hope at the same time to make progress at home.

Defense expenditures in the current fiscal year will probably reach $67 billion.

What of progress on the home front? Seymour Melman, professor of industrial engineering at Columbia, estimates that if we are to deal effectively with only one of our pressing problems, that of the city, we shall have to spend at least $55 billion a year more than we are now.

He would allocate $15 billion to the elimination of slum housing, $8 billion to the improvement of health services, $25 billion to urban education and $7 billion to water and transit. He believes these investments would generate 6 million new jobs.

Melman's article, which appeared in Commonweal, deserves the attention it has received. But it leaves this basic question unanswered: How did we get this way?

How did we get a budget of $140 billion? Only a couple of years ago the President was assuring us that expenditures would be kept under $100 billion and going around turning off lights in the White House in order to convince us of the sincerity of his intentions.

How can an administration that boasts of a computerized, "cost-effective" Defense Department make a mistake of $10 billion in estimating the outlays required by a relatively small war? Many months ago Fortune magazine alleged that the war was actually costing far more than the official figures disclosed and implied that the Pentagon was either ignorant of its own operations or disingenuous in its dealings with the public.

We can be reasonably certain that the news of the $140 billion budget and the $10 billion error was as much a surprise to Congress as it was to the rest of us.

Democracy is a form of government in which the people have an effective voice in decisions about their public affairs. Public expenditures are supposed to reflect the decisions that the people, through their representatives, have reached.

The figures recently released, therefore, raise a constitutional question of the first importance. The question simply is, how can the people gain control of their government?

SDS Movement Seen as Sinister Plot

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones
(General Features Corp.)

Last Nov. 16 the Students for a Democratic Society, on the campus of the University of Michigan, sponsored a referendum in which 10,000 students, representing a little less than one-third of the student body, voted 2-1 that the University should cease to supply Selective Service with student grade rankings.

When this straw vote failed to bring the university to heel, the SDS sponsored a "teach-in" at Hill Auditorium with 4,000 attending, and a few days later an hour "sit-in" in which 1,500 students plugged up three floors of the Administration Building.

What is going on? It's very simple. In a carefully calculated campaign the "new left" is out to seize control of America's university system. And it intends to use student distress about the draft and worry about grades as instruments for gaining that control.

Who says? The "new left" says. It has spelled it out for you.

On page 11 of the Sept. 9 issue of "New Left Notes" the national vice president of Students for a Democratic Society, Carl Davidson, presented a blueprint for this seizure which was also as plain as Hitler's plans as outlined in "Mein Kampf." Not enough people read Hitler's book in time. So perhaps our college administrators should now pay some attention to Mr. Davidson.

The purpose of the SDS, he says is to "radically transform" the university community and "radically alter" the lives of the students. This is to be achieved by a "student syndicalist movement." He continues:

"What we don't want is a 'company union' student movement that sees itself as a body that helps a paternal administration make better rules for us. What we do want is a union of students where the students, themselves, decide what kind of rules they want or don't want. Or whether they need rules at all."

Davidson asserts that existing student governments may be broken up by "constantly harassing and disrupting the meetings like showing up en masse."

If the "left" ever succeeds in getting control of the student government it should, again quoting Davidson, "push through a list of demands in the form of a Bill of Rights, containing a time limit for the administration to reply." If the demands are met the students should celebrate "the victory of the revolution." If not, they should "immediately begin mass demonstrations, sit-ins, boycotts of all classes, and strikes of teaching assistants."

Because, as Davidson states it, grades are "a direct cause of most student anxieties and frustrations," the SDS demands the end of grades. What Davidson doesn't say is that if grades are ended "students" who have no other purpose on the campus except organizing riots will remain in good standing indefinitely. Also, as he puts it, "Selective Service would have a hell of a time ranking us."

Does SDS have plans to control what is taught? You bet. Listen:

"The student syndicalist movement must incorporate in secondary issues the ideology of participatory democracy. . . . Approach students in teachers colleges with a counter-curriculum based on the ideas of Paul Goodman and A.S. Neil for the radical education of children. . . . Organize students and liberated profs in certain departments to work out model counter-curricula and agitate for its adoption, mainly because students participated in shaping it rather than on its merits."

Mr. Davidson sums it up:

"Participatory democracy is often like a chronic and contagious disease. Once caught, it permeates one's whole life. . . . Within a manipulative, bureaucratic system its articulation and expression amount to sabotage. It is my hope that those exposed to it while building a movement for student syndicalism will never quite be the same, especially after they leave the university community."

So there you have it. A pipe dream? The irresponsible sounding off of power-hungry youth? Look South.

The Communist takeover of colleges and universities in many Latin American countries followed this plan exactly. Campuses were turned to chaos. Classes were disrupted. Student syndicates seized power. Conservative professors were driven away. Sincere students left in discouragement and the universities became not educational institutions but producers of cadres for revolution.

Can it happen here? Probably not. Even at Berkeley only a small minority joined the riots. But students do love to raise hell. And the prospects of no grades and beating the draft are juicy carrots.

Let no American college administration confuse agitation such as Mr. Davidson outlines with mere healthy student shenanigans. All college faculties, regents and trustees should read Mr. Davidson's piece. They should at least be curious to know the plans for turning Alma Mater into Mater Sedtitiosa.

Newspaper Officials Attempt To Set Up Dates Negotiation

Lindsay-Schaub negotiators and union officials are attempting to set up meeting dates this month in a bid to settle a strike against the Southern Illinoisan newspaper. The strike is in its third month.

John Gardner, general manager of the paper, said he told union officials that most dates are open for meetings this month for officials of Lindsay-Schaub, Inc., owners of the newspaper.

Gardner said he hopes to have more information soon on possible meeting dates.

Gardner said Lindsay-Schaub still is offering a three-year contract, but declined to discuss company wage offers.

The unions originally asked for a one-year contract and a wage increase. On strike are Local 418 Printing and Pressmen and Assistants, Union and Local 217, International Typographical Union.

Gardner said Lindsay-Schaub officials are still in contact with federal mediators. A meeting in December arranged by a mediator produced no progress in negotiations. No meetings have been held since.

None of the federal mediators stationed at the area office in Evansville was available for comment. Local union officials also could not be reached Monday afternoon.

Overseas Jobs Recruiter Due

Paul B. Altemus, a representative of International Voluntary Services, Inc. (IVS) will visit the campus on Jan. 23 and 24 to discuss overseas opportunities.

IVS, founded in 1953 as a private, non-profit organization, provides small scale technical assistance and works directly with the peoples of developing countries. Over 200 volunteers are now in Southeast Asia in the fields of education, agriculture, rural development, and youth work.

Altemus recently returned from a tour of duty in Laos where he taught English in a Lao high school and worked with local youth programs. He has a movie illustrating the work IVS is carrying out in Viet Nam which he will show to interested groups on campus. Those who want to talk with him about the opportunities for service with IVS may arrange an appointment through the Placement Services.

Firemen Answer Call at Tiffany III

Two Carbondale fire department trucks answered a call at Tiffany III restaurant at 719 S. University Ave. about 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

A fireman said Monday that the fire apparently started in grease around the grill spit.

No estimate of damage was available, but the fireman said most damage to the restaurant and the offices upstairs was caused by smoke.

There were no injuries.

Conditioning Retards Colds

The best way to avoid cold season miseries is to be in sound physical condition, according to Dr. Walter H. Clarke.

Doctor Clarke, a University physician, said a person's resistance is higher when he takes good care of himself. Dr. Clarke said many of the complaints he receives this time of year deal with the upper respiratory system—flu, colds and sore throats.

Lower respiratory ailments, such as pneumonia, occur less frequently, in proportion to the number of students, he added.

Noting that the medical personnel are generally busiest in the fall quarter, Dr. Clarke recommended that students returning from summer vacation exercise and get plenty of fresh air.

Citing the often repeated aspirin, fluids and bed rest for the cold virus, he advised anyone who has suffered 36 to 48 hours with a minor illness to consult a physician.

Activities Office Releases New Rules for Trips

A new procedure for off-campus trips, effective this quarter, has been announced by Lyle Gohn, head of the Student Activities Office.

The trips are classified as either "academic" or "activity," Gohn said. The first involves those which are a part of regular course work for which the student receives University credit; the second are those made by a recognized student organization or in connection with an all-campus activity.

Gohn said students are being asked to inform their instructors of anticipated absences caused by either academic or activity trips. Formal reports will no longer be sent to the departmental offices, the announcement continued.

"All academic trips should be initiated with your academic dean," Gohn said. Forms will be available from the deans and must be filled out and returned to them for final approval, Gohn explained.

Forms for academic trips will no longer be sent to the Activities Office for approval, he added.

However, all requests for activity trips should be started with the Activities Office, where forms are available.

Either the Academic Deans or the Activities Office will return one copy of the request to you for your file. Likewise, one copy will be kept on file in either of the offices in case of emergencies or for faculty members who want to determine if a student is legitimately missing his class. Previously used trip permit cards signed by the parents will no longer be checked. This is now normally signed by parents at time of admission.

Syrian, Israeli Tanks Battle Along Frontier

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Heavy gunfire exploded Monday near the Sea of Galilee for the seventh time in nine days as Syria and Israel exchanged tank shells across their tense frontier.

A Syrian army communiqué claimed one Israeli tank was destroyed. Israel claimed it destroyed two Syrian tanks and damaged a third.

The latest skirmish along the 47-mile border of rolling hills, split by a demilitarized zone, lasted four hours and threatened for a time to develop into something more serious.

It followed a warning by Israel last week that it would not tolerate further Syrian blows against its security, and a counter warning from Damascus that Syrian forces were under orders to strike heavily against Israel in future flareups.

U.N. observers who man 10 points on the demilitarized zone sped into the fighting area in their white-flagged cars to investigate the hostilities. They managed to arrange a truce after four hours of shooting.

Border firefights have become almost routine between Syria and Israel, especially at this time of year, when farmers from both sides try to plow for planting in forbidden areas. But the frequency of the latest exchanges have increased the tension.

Red China May Be Close to Civil War

TOKYO (AP)—Bloody resistance to Mao Tse-Tung's purge reported Monday to have spread to south China; a powerful general and secret police leaders in Peking said to be arrayed against Mao, and wall posters in Peking suggested Red China may be close to civil war.

Red Guard posters appeared on walls in Peking saying "1967 will be the year of battle between the two lines Mao and anti-Mao and the proletarian forces representing Mao must score total victory." President Liu Shao-chi and others opposing Mao are called bourgeois reactionaries.

Furthermore, the official Peking People's Daily printed an urgent appeal for help from elements loyal to the 73-year-old party chairman in the city of Shanghai. Anti-Mao elements attacked Shanghai's water, power and transportation network and thousands of anti-Mao workers struck last Thursday.

Judging from the call for assistance, anti-Mao forces appeared to be in command of Shanghai, where Mao himself may be staying. He left Peking in December and was reported spending a winter holiday in Shanghai.

Also last reported with him was his heir apparent, Defense Minister Lin Biao.

Further evidence that matters may be coming to a head was the exodus of Red Chinese diplomats to Peking from capitals in Britain, Scandinavia and India.

Chinese reaching Hong Kong told of the spread of the fighting to Canton, south China's majority city.

Japanese correspondents in Peking said Red Guards posters appeared Monday accusing Gen. Liu Chih-Chien, a member of the important National Defense Council, of siding with Mao's opponents.

If true, this would be further evidence that leaders of Red China's 2.5 million-man army are cracking under the stresses and strains of the purge.

Lo Juiching, chief of the general staff, already has been purged.

The Tokyo paper Asahi's correspondent in Peking said the capital's security police headquarters was closed and Red Guards were stationed in front of the building. He reported the action came apparently because headquarters was staffed with officers loyal to President Liu.

Nanking's city official were said to have called on the army and security forces to carry out house-to-house raids on pro-Mao forces after bloody rioting in which 54 persons were reported killed and 900 injured.

Clashes between Mao's young Red Guards and workers were reported last week in Peking, the old wartime capital of Chungking and several other cities. During the weekend, Chinese peasants stormed a pro-Mao rally in the Choushan Islands, at the gateway to Shanghai, injuring many.

A factor in the new violence may have been the Maoist denunciation of Tao Chu, the head of propaganda who had risen to No. 4 in the Chinese Communist party since the purge began. He was accused of siding with President Liu and Teng Hsiao-ping, the party secretary general, in following a capitalist, pro-Soviet line.

As one blow in the conflict, Red Guards struck at Liu through his wife, Wang Kuang-mei. Red Guards posters said she was lured to a hospital Friday by a telephone call saying one of her daughters had been hurt in accident.

'Extraordinary Precautions'

Jury Chosen for Baker Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—A jury of six men and six women was chosen Monday to try Bobby Baker on multiple charges. Six alternates—four men and two women—also were picked.

Both the government and defense expressed satisfaction with the selection after a day of questioning a panel, and with federal Judge Oliver Gasch taking extraordinary precautions to get and maintain a fair and impartial jury.

The judge announced that the jury would be locked up each night during the trial, which he said is expected to run from two months to 10 weeks.

Baker, 38-year-old former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority and confidant to many of the senators, including Lyndon B. Johnson, watched attentively as the panel was questioned.

And as the jury and alternates were sworn, Baker arose and faced them.

The questioning began the trial which is expected to include the issue of electronic surveillance of hotel or office suites of Baker acquaintances. The government maintains the admitted bugging operations had no connection with the indictments charging Baker with income tax evasion, larceny and conspiracy.

He pleaded innocent at the time of his indictment a year ago.

Gasch emphasized that "both the accused and the government are entitled to have this case tried by a fair and impartial jury."

He recognized, Gasch said, that there would be extensive press coverage of the trial, and said that this is in accord with the principles of American society.

"I must also take note of the decision in the Sheppard case," he said. In that case the Supreme court ruled that Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard was deprived of his constitutional right to a fair trial because the jury that convicted him of killing his wife wasn't shielded from prejudicial publicity. A second trial won him acquittal.

Baker sat at a table with his four attorneys, including the noted trial lawyer Edward Bennett Williams.

Gasch first excused those who said they are acquainted with Williams or the other lawyers. He excused those also who said they had formed an opinion about the case.

Remarking that there had

Students Protest Fee

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—About 100 persons, mostly students, watched on the Fresno State College campus Sunday as Gov. Ronald Reagan was hanged in effigy because of a tuition proposal.

been many news stories about the case, particularly in weekly magazines, Gasch asked the panel if they subscribed to or read regularly the following:

National Review, U.S. News and World Report, New Republic, the Nation, Time and Newsweek.

Many said they subscribed to one or more of the magazines; some said they read them; but none said they had formed an opinion from their reading.

Gasch asked also if any knew the senators and two members of the staff of the Senate Rules committee. The Rules committee, which conducted an investigation, issued a denunciation of Baker in June 1965 saying he used "the political influence of his public office to feather his own nest."

Baker made $19,600 a year in his Senate post, but he built holdings which he estimated as worth $2 million in such diverse fields as vending machines, real estate, and law.

VC Attack U. S. River Facilities

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—Viet Cong frogmen sank a huge American dredge while shellfire hit a British tanker and two South Vietnamese mine-sweepers Monday in a concentrated enemy assault on allied river traffic.

Two American dredgeworkers were killed and another is missing as the $3-million Jamaica Bay, the fourth largest dredge in the world, sank in 20 feet of water near the Mekong River delta city of My Tho, 35 miles southwest of Saigon. A fourth American was wounded.

Closer to Saigon, Viet Cong gunners rained recoilless rifle fire on the 12,000-ton Shell Oil Co. tanker Haus-trum, wounding the vessel's master and killing a Chinese crewman. But the vessel in the Long Tau River suffered only slight damage.

A new civilian tragedy was reported by U.S. spokesman in the delta. Ten children were killed and 16 wounded when they and some adults were used as human shields by the Viet Cong in an attack on South Vietnamese rangers.

The rangers warned the Viet Cong not to fire, but the Communists opened up and the rangers had no choice but to retaliate, the spokesman said.

Air activity over North Vietnam was curtailed by bad weather and U.S. pilots flew only 54 missions Sunday, less than half the total for a good weather day.

Communist ground fire downed a U.S. AC47 Dragon plane, of the type known as "Puff the Magic Dragon." It crashed 26 miles southwest of Quang Ngai near the central coast, killing all seven crewmen aboard.

Ground fighting continued at a slackened pace, and no major engagements were reported by either the U.S. or Vietnamese military commands.

With more than 390,000 military personnel in Vietnam, word came from Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps, that more American troops would be sent.

At a news conference, the visiting commandant said that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of American forces in Vietnam, "is going to get more men." He did not say how many, or when they would arrive.

House Votes to Boot Powell From Committee Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)—In an unprecedented move, House Democrats overrode their leader Monday and voted to bounce Rep. Adam Clayton Powell as chairman of the Education and Labor Committee. And indications mounted the House will refuse to seat him Tuesday.

By an overwhelming voice vote, the Democrats replaced the controversial Harlem congressman with Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., for the 90th Congress which starts today. Although the House must approve committee assignments, the action is considered conclusive.

Powell, visibly shaken, called the move "a lynching, Northern style." He said that although the move is for one Congress only, "I'll never get it back."

Powell and his supporters insist the actions against him are racially motivated but his accusers deny this.

Compromise supported by Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts which would have taken the chairmanship from Powell temporarily pending an investigation, was voted down 122 to 88, in the closed Democratic caucus.

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin of California said the action does not change his plans to ask Powell to stand aside when members are sworn in Tuesday.

He plans to offer a resolution to defer seating of Powell pending a study of his legal difficulties in connection with a $164,000 defamation judgment in New York. Powell's nonpayment of the judgment has brought him contempt-of-court sentences.

The caucus action against Powell, who has been under fire for excessive travel expenses and because his wife was on his payroll even though she lived in Puerto Rico, was described by some liberals as the only thing that could be done to save his seat.

Georgia Legislature Seats Julian Bond

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia's embattled legislature, its actions dominated by court decrees, quietly seated a twice-barrred Negro member Monday and moved toward election of a governor Tuesday to resolve a popular-vote stalemate.

"The eyes and ears of the world will be focused on this chamber when a joint session is convened to untangle one of the greatest governmental snarls of our day and time," Speaker George L. Smith told the House.

"I know you are ready," he said.

Democrat Lester G. Maddox, who hit public view in 1964 with his cafeteria segregation stand, was favored heavily in the 259-member legislature which has 229 Democrats.

Maddox and Republican Howard H. Bo Callaway, a conservative who shifted to moderate views in the campaign, were thrown into a no-majority deadlock in the November election by write-ins for a third candidate.

Court rulings opened the way for the legislative election of a governor and the seating of Rep. Julian Bond, 26, Negro Democrat from Atlanta.

Bond, denied his seat a year ago, took the oath of office with a group of other members. There was no challenge, although Rep. James Floyd of Trion staged a one-man walkout in protest.

"I don't want to be associated with a man who does not know whether or not he will commit treason," said Floyd, who took the oath minutes later with another group of legislators.

Bond said only that he was not surprised that no challenge was made of him. The Supreme Court ruled in December that the House could not exclude Bond because he endorsed a statement labeling U.S. involvement in Vietnam as aggression and murder and calling on young men to seek alternatives to military draft.

Leaving the capitol, Bond appeared at a news conference with Stokely Carmichael, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee SNCC. Carmichael read a statement opposing the stripping of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., of his committee chairmanship.

Bond, who resigned from SNCC last year, said nothing. It was an SNCC statement that led to his being barred from the House.

Science, Math Institutes Set

Summer institutes for superior high school science students and high school mathematics teachers will be conducted at SIU under grants from the National Science Foundation.

The two grants total $92,295. The largest—$71,360—will support SIU's ninth annual program for mathematics teachers. It will run eight weeks, from June 19, and two thirds of the 60 teachers enrolled will be continuing from previous summers.

The institute, directed by Wilbur C. McDaniel, professor of mathematics, emphasizes coursework and materials used in the "new mathematics." Teachers continuing in the program can earn a master's degree in four summers.

Some 50 juniors and seniors from high schools across the nation will be selected for the 10th annual science institute. The NSF awarded SIU a $20,935 grant for this program, which also is scheduled for eight weeks beginning June 19.

Students will take college level courses and tackle special research assignments in fields of their choice. Study areas are zoology, physiology, chemistry and physics, computers, engineering science and economics. Director of the institute is Duwayne Englert, assistant professor of zoology.

Selections for the two programs will be made in April and May.

ICE FORMING ON LAKE—SIU's Lake-on-the-Campus takes on many seasonal dresses in the course of a school year. In late spring, summer, and early fall, the lake serves recreational purposes such as swimming, boating and fishing.

If the weather this time of year is sufficiently wintery, ice skaters will get an opportunity to use the lake. It's beginning to get a skim of ice, as the water solidifies in coves such as this one.

Theta Xi Tryout Forms Available

Applications for tryouts for the 20th annual Theta Xi Variety Show, to be presented March 3 and 4 in Shryock Auditorium, are available at the information desk in the University Center.

Applications for master of ceremonies are also available there.

The format of the different act categories has been changed this year. The individual category consists of one or two participants, intermediate category three to eight, and the group acts nine or more participants.

The number does not include accompanists. Accompanists do not have to be entirely from within the group, but all members of the cast, without exception, must be a member of the group.

Applications must be returned to the Student Activities Office by Jan. 20. Further information may be obtained by calling 3-2525.

Free Schooling Registration Set

Registration for the student government sponsored Free School will be held all day Thursday and Friday in Activity Area H of the University Center.

Classes are slated to begin next week, a student government spokesman said Monday. Registration was originally planned for last week.

PROPOSED ANNEXATION TO CARBONDALE

City Mulls Annexation Of Land to Southeast

Approximately 20 acres of land, much of which holds apartments and homes for SIU students and faculty, will be considered for annexation and zoning to the city Jan. 25.

A public hearing is scheduled for the City Hall courtroom at 7:30 p.m.

The Carbondale City Council has drawn up an ordinance for annexation of the land, known as Tatum Heights and Crestview, located on the east edge of Carbondale. The Council is taking the action under Illinois Municipal Code rules which allow a municipality to annex 60 acres or less if the territory is wholly surrounded by the municipality.

The land became surrounded late in December, according to Thomas Easterly, building and zoning administrator for the city.

The master plan of development for Carbondale recommends that the land be placed in an R-3 zone for single family housing.

Some commercial interests near Illinois 13 now are contained in the area up for annexation. Easterly said the Carbondale Planning Commission will make a decision on zoning following the hearing Jan. 25.

The City Council must ratify the zoning decision by the Plan Commission but agreement by four of the five Council members is necessary to change a decision by the Plan Commission.

Cedar View Drive runs north and south through the area, Lynda Street runs in a semicircle through the land and Cindy Street runs east and west in the area.

The Plaza Motel is at the north-west corner of the area. Buena Vista and other apartments are in the territory.

Also to be considered for annexation at the hearing are four pieces of land south and east of the Tatum Heights area near Lewis Lane. School District No. 95 is petitioning for annexation of the Lewis School site, the Mormon Church for its church site north of Lewis School, the Carbondale Park District for land east and adjacent to Lewis School, and the First Presbyterian Church for land south of the school and north of the Snyder Hill Cemetery.

The groups petitioning have not asked for a specific zoning classification, Easterly said.

Anthropologists To Hear Lecture

Philip Weigand, research assistant in the SIU Museum, will describe an 11-month archaeological expedition to northern Mexico in a Anthropology Club lecture.

The talk, at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Agriculture Building Seminar Room, will mark the first in a series of club lectures and seminars during the winter and spring terms. It will be open to the public.

Fred Schmidt, the Museum's curator of exhibits and Club chairman, has launched a membership drive aimed at undergraduates interested in anthropology. Current membership is about 35, mostly graduate students and faculty.

Sycamores Fall to Salukis, 72-69

ED MOSSOTTI—Anchors two relay teams, wins 50-yard freestyle against Sooners.

Sooners Beat SIU Swimmers

SIU's swimming team tasted its first dual meet defeat of the season Saturday as the Salukis fell before Oklahoma, 59-45.

"We swam real good. Some of our men swam the best they have ever swam in their lives and Gerry Pearson and Kimo Miles swam the best they have all year. They were just better than us," said Saluki Coach Ray Essick.

The Salukis and the Sooners each had six first place winners. It was the depth of the Sooner squad which proved the difference. They were taking the seconds and the thirds.

"They were a very fine team. They did everything right. They were better in some phases than we thought they would be," said Essick.

"Ed Mossotti swam great for us. He anchored both relay teams and won the freestyle relay for us and came within a few feet of winning the medley relay for us as well. He also came up with an individual win in the 50-yard freestyle," said Essick. Mossotti last year was named the most valuable swimmer as a sophomore.

This was the first time in history that an Oklahoma swim team has beaten the Salukis. The six first place finishers for the Salukis in Saturday's meet were Mossotti in the 50-yard freestyle, Pearson in the breaststroke, Mike Quane in the diving, Scott Conkle in the 200-yard freestyle and Miles in the butterfly. The Saluki free-style relay team of Mike Miles, Reinhard Westenrieder, Conkle and Mossotti also won.

Quane just regained his eligibility and his showing at Norman was a surprise to Essick. In fact, the display of the diving by the Salukis was a real surprise. George Morley finished second in diving and the Salukis haven't been known to be particularly strong in diving.

The basketball Salukis started their five-games-in-nine-days basketball marathon Saturday with a 72-69 victory over Indiana State in the Arena.

The Salukis rode an early second half flourish, that saw them scoring 22 of the first 29 points in that period, into what eventually amounted to a 13 point lead before a Sycamore rally brought them within striking distance in the final four minutes.

Southern trailed at the intermission 36-34 after a see-saw first half. During the initial 20 minutes the lead changed hands 10 times. However, after halftime the Salukis took command by forcing Indiana State into several of their 14 total turnovers and breaking open for numerous lay ups and short jumpers.

Just when things looked as though they would be all downhill for the Salukis, Indiana State got a hot hand and gradually cut into Southern's lead until they trailed by a mere two field goals with 3:59 left. After the Salukis twice missed on one and one free throw situations, giving the Sycamores two opportunities which they were unable to cash in on.

With 2:11 left Indiana State's Jim Crone brought the ball downcourt. The Sycamores trailed 67-63 and had an opportunity to close the gap to a bucket. But Crone was called for charging and the Salukis made it 69-63 on a Walt Frazier lay up.

After Frazier missed a free throw, Rich Mason scored for Indiana State with 1:52 left. Chuck Benson made two free throws for another six point lead, but that was cut to four again by Jerry Newsom at the 1:02 mark. Frazier fouled and missed a one and one, but the Sycamores couldn't find the range this time and Saluki guard Ed Zastrow sank a charity to put things out of reach at 72-67 with 23 seconds left.

The Salukis continued to be less than potent from the free throw line sinking only 10 of 22 for a .455 reading. They missed eight of these in the final five and one half minutes. Three were on one and one situations where a converted initial attempt would have produced another chance.

The leading scorer in the game was Indiana State's Newsom, the 6-6 All-American, who scored 20 points and also grabbed 11 rebounds.

Leading the Salukis was Frazier with 18 points on eight field goals and a pair of free throws. Zastrow, making his first start, drew praise from Coach Jack Hartman for his 15 point contribution. He made seven of 11 field goal attempts. Forward Clarence Smith chipped in 12 points, Ralph Johnson had 11 points on four of five from the field, and Dick Garrett and reserve center Benson had eight each.

Hartman felt that the Salukis did a particularly good job defensively, pointing out that senior guard Butch Wade, who is on his way toward breaking the all time school scoring record was held to nine points for the night's performance.

Hartman added that the team did a good job offensively early in the second half, but was a little too anxious once it got the big lead. "The boys had trouble pacing themselves and controlling the tempo offensively," Hartman said.

Indiana State Coach Duane Klueh said that the Sycamores hadn't met any teams of the Salukis' caliber prior to Saturday. The loss leaves the Sycamores with a 9-2 record, their only other loss coming at the hands of Columbia University in the Steel Bowl Tourney in Pittsburgh. They went into Saturday's game ranked sixth in the small college polls.

St. Louis Baptist Third Win for Frosh

SIU's freshman basketball team fought off a stubborn rally and defeated St. Louis Baptist Junior College, 61-57, in the first game of Saturday's basketball doubleheader at the Arena.

The victory was the third in four starts for the yearling Salukis. They own victories over Louisville, 60-58, and Belleville Junior College, 92-73, while they have been beaten by St. Louis University, 68-65.

Bruce Butchko, the leading frosh scorer with a 25 point a game average, had a cold night from the floor hitting only five of 19 shots and getting only 13 points for the night. The 6-7 Butchko, however, pulled down 14 rebounds to lead the Salukis in that department.

High point man of the night for the Salukis was 6-3 forward Bill Steppe who hit on 4 of 7 from the field and converted 7 of 13 from the free throw line to finish with 15 points. Steppe also grabbed 9 rebounds.

Guard Mike Dixon had 11 points and guard Rex Barker and forward Juarez Rosborough had 10 points each for the Salukis. Rosborough, averaging 15 rebounds a game, was credited with 11 rebounds.

The game was close from start to finish with the score tied at 34 each at the half.

The closing seconds saw the Salukis ice the game when the St. Louis five were called on several fouls.

In the end, the free throws, and control of the boards proved to be a decisive factor in the Saluki victory.

The next game for the frosh, following the tilt with Evansville College last night, will be with Louisville University tomorrow night. Game time is 6 p.m. at the Arena.

Matman Post Victory In Quadrangular Meet

SIU's varsity wrestling team did what was expected of them over the weekend. They won the Miami (Ohio) quadrangular.

The Salukis went into the meet as a slight favorite over the Indiana State Sycamores. They scored 88 points while the Sycamores garnered 79 points for the second place finish.

Host Miami Redmen were third with 56 points and Ashland College finished last with 36 points. Ted Parker, Indiana State 130-pounder, was voted the outstanding wrestler in the quadrangular. He received this following his upset of SIU's Larry Baron, the favorite in the 130-pound division. Parker beat Baron in the championship match by the narrow margin of 2-1.

Southern once again exhibited the trait which Coach Wilkinson pointed out at the beginning of the season—strength at both ends and weakness in the middle weights.

The Salukis had five individual champions at this meet and none of these came from the middle weights. Wilkinson's grapplers won two of the three light weight classes and all three of the heavy-weight classes but lost in two middle classes where they had finalists.

Terry Magoon was the victor in the 123-pound division. He reached the finals with an opening decision and then pinned his man at 5:42 to win the championship. Dean Ohl was the victor in the 137-pound division, winning both the preliminary and championship matches by decision.

Joe Domko, SIU's leading wrestler to date, won the 177-pound division. Domko had been wrestling the 167-pound division earlier this season but switched to a higher weight class.

Allen Bulow won twice to cap the 191-pound class. He now has a record of 9-4 for the season.

Richard Selover continues to be impressive at the heavyweight position. Selover ran his record to 7-3 on the season with two victories and the heavyweight championship at Miami. He recorded a pin in the preliminary match and then won the championship with a decision.

Sinclair Brown, 152 pounds, made his first appearance for the Salukis and came out with a 1-1 record. Brown lost in the preliminaries and won in the consolation bracket.

3 Interviewed For Illini Job

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Dave Nelson of Delaware, Burt Smith of Michigan State and baseball coach Lee Eilbracht of Illinois have been interviewed for the Illinois' athletic director job, it was learned Monday.

The Athletic Association's board of directors, however, did not make a recommendation during a meeting over the weekend.

BASKET ATTEMPT—Clarence Smith (30), senior SIU forward, was pictured Saturday night attempting to make a lay-up. Looks as though he wasn't successful. He did, however, contribute 12 points in the Saluki win over Indiana State.

SIU Looks Toward Louisville

as the Salukis' fastbreak began to click. However, Southern still had trouble finding the basket when the ball was slowed down.

Walt Frazier scored 10 of the Salukis first 17 points in the half and then turned the one man offensive show over to guard Dick Garrett, who rang up 11 of Southern's final 13 tallies, mostly on long range jump shots. Garrett was outscored by Evansway by three points in the final eight minutes, but by then the Salukis had a 19 point lead and Coach Jack Hartman had turned the reigns over to his sophomores.

Garrett and Frazier were the leading scorers in the contest with 18 points each. Forward Clarence Smith had nine, Ralph Johnson four, Ed Zastrow four and Roger Bechtold 2 points. Also seeing action for Southern were Chuck Benson, Creston Whitaker, Willie Griffin, Bobby Jackson and Craig Taylor, who was playing in his home town.

The scoring for the Aces went this way: 6-9 Tom Niemeier had eight as did Howard Pratt. Dave Riggs had seven, Dave Harvey six, Darrell Adams and Ron Johnson four and Jerry Mattingly and Herb Williams two each.

Clarence Smith once again turned in one of his stellar defensive performances by holding the high scoring Williams, the Aces' big weapon, to a pair of free throws. Both teams repeatedly missed opportunities throughout the entire game. The Salukis had chances to break the contest open much earlier and the Aces couldn't utilize their numerous opportunities to close the gap on Southern.

The win brings the Salukis' overall record to 7-2, while the Aces are 2-10 after winning their first two contests this year.

Southern returns home to play Louisville Wednesday. The Cardinals are riding a 13 game winning streak this season and are ranked second to UCLA in the University Division polls.
