Survey shows city merchants disregard price posting policy

By David Mahan
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Most Carbondale merchants are breaking the law. Under Phase II of the federal Economic Stabilization Program, retailers are required to post base price information for certain merchandise. This requirement became effective Jan. 1, but most Carbondale merchants surveyed last week by the Daily Egyptian seem to be ignoring the new regulations.

Gus Chamber, manager of Southern Illinois Book and Supply, 719 S. Illinois Ave., to a query about the required price lists, "We don't know what to do. I'm waiting for clarification."

County's store displayed a large sign above the cash register in the rear of the building telling customers that base price information is available upon request, but there were no lists of the top 40 items.

Phase II rules state that retailers must display prominently the base prices of the 40 items in each department with the greatest dollar volume of sales or the items which account for 50 per cent of the department's sale, whichever is less. Store with less than $100,000 in annual sales may post prices for fewer items.

Base price referred to under Phase II is similar to ceiling prices under Phase I—that is, the highest price charged for an item between July 15 and Aug. 15, 1971.

In addition to the posted prices, merchants are required to have signs at least 22 by 28 inches posted on each floor telling customers how to obtain prices not listed. All of the stores surveyed displayed the required sign except Sgt. Pepper's and University Drugs in the Campus Plaza Shopping Center. A sign in Diener Stereo, 315 S. Illinois Ave., was located so that it probably would not be seen by most customers. "We had a sign but took it down because it was in the way," explained an employe at Sgt. Pepper's. An employe at University Drugs said she knew nothing of the regulations.

The signs displayed by most merchants were supplied by the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, according to Ray Lech, the chamber's executive director, when the Carbondale merchants are displaying the proper sign, only two of those surveyed complied completely with the law.

Penney's and Sav-Mart, both on Highway 13 east of Carbondale, had the required price list as well as the large signs. At John W. Murphy's, where price lists were in booklets behind the information center, 40 per cent of the items which account for 50 per cent of the base price lists required by the law by this week.

Some merchants said they were preparing price lists. According to Louis Pownski, an Internal Revenue agent in charge of the Phase II program in this area, customers should not be asked to see the price list.

Chuck Rapozo, Penney's personnel manager, explained that his price books had just been made up, and employes had not been briefed on the new regulations. Penney's was surveyed on Wednesday. Rapozo said his personnel would be informed of the new law by this week.

The managers of the Mohr Value store on West Main and of Sohn's, 700 S. Illinois Ave., said they were preparing price lists. Gene Palisch of Sohn's said he would post more than his top 40 items, and Bill Withers at Mohr Value promised that his lists would be available soon.

By and large, however, other Carbondale merchants were in limbo concerning price lists.

Independent status sought

U-seenate ok's leaving conference

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A motion stating that SIU should withdraw from the athletic portion of the Midwestern Conference was approved at the Monday meeting of the University Senate.

A recommendation to withdraw had previously been made to President Robert G. Layer by the Committee on Men's Intercollegiate Athletics. Layer would make action on the recommendation.

The motion, approved by an 18 to 14 margin, followed a series of questions and answers concerning the conference.

James BeMiller, committee chairman, tried to explain how the committee reached its decision.

"The process began last summer when the question of conference expansion came up," BeMiller said. "The question was raised on the conference. The conference was heading and the reasons for the formation of the conference. We decided that a study should be made concerning SIU's first year of membership."

BeMiller said Delyte Morris and Robert MacVicar, the president and chairmen respectively of SIU when the conference was formed, were contacted.

"The study found that none of the expected advantages of conference membership had come about and were not likely to occur," BeMiller said. When asked what these "advantages" were, BeMiller said, "Some are sensitive matters. One of the primary reasons had nothing to do with athletic or academic reasons. One was political advantages."

BeMiller said the political advantages became known as the "Route 51 Alliance." The presidents of SIU, Illinois State and Northern Illinois thought that such an alliance would be helpful.

"An administrative representative said it would be tough for SIU to survive without ISU and NIU," BeMiller said. According to BeMiller, Morris and MacVicar said SIU had joined the conference because the Indiana schools wanted SIU or because of scheduling difficulties.

The conference is made up of SIU, ISU, NIU, Ball State and Indiana State. BeMiller said the committee had recommended that SIU become an independent if withdrawal is approved. Approval from the Board of Trustees is needed for withdrawal.

"I haven't decided if I will take this to the board at the Jan. 21 meeting," Layer said. "If we give the withdrawal notice prior to July 1, withdrawal would be completed the following year, the 1973-74 academic year."

Eckert opens headquarters

Carbondale Mayor Neil Eckert, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, officially opened his Carbondale campaign headquarters Monday night with grins and handshakes for some 40 persons at the event.

The candidate was 40 minutes late in arriving at his new center of operations at 201 W. Main. In a brief speech, Eckert introduced the core of his campaign staff and announced his campaign schedule.

Eckert's staff will include Roland Hawkes, campaign manager; Mike Ashby, director of campaign operations; Carol Fells, director of financial activities; Gaye Bost, office manager; and Bill Whitson, campaign treasurer. Ashby, Ms. Fells and Ms. Whitson will be paid, the others being volunteers. Eckert said he will release a financial statement soon.

During the remainder of campaign time from now until the end of March, Eckert said he will spend Mondays in Southern Illinois, Tuesdays in Carbondale and Wednesdays through Saturdays traveling north.

"City business will be taken care of," Eckert promised those present at the headquarters opening. He did not elaborate, but the mayor has said that Councillman George Karnes, also mayor pro tem, has agreed to spend more time at City Hall.
Safety law provides support for stoplights

By Bob Morits
Student Writer

The new stoplights being put up in Carbondale are expected to be finished sometime in June, according to Harold Hill, superintendent of streets.

Hill said a definite date cannot be given on when the lights will be turned on because the city is still waiting for the lights, which are necessary to finish the job.

Carbondale became eligible for the stoplights under the Federal Highway Act of 1968, which allowed federal and state money to be used in communities that proved that the lights were a necessity.

Hill said he is counting the number of cars which traveled some of the streets in the city of Carbondale, Hill said. By using this method he found that within a 24-hour period approximately 30,000 cars used Main Street: 10,000 used Illinois Avenue; 10,000 used University Street and 4,000 used Walnut Street. The majority of the stoplights will be placed on these roads.

According to Hill, 10 intersections will have lights, making 19 intersections guarded by stoplights in Carbondale.

Hill said that the total cost of all the new lights will be approximately $75,200. Under the Federal Program, federal funds will pay 76 percent of the cost and Carbondale will pay for the other 24 percent.

The total number of all the lights will operate all night and will be synchronized by telephone.

Hill said that the lights at all the intersections will be synchronized by telephone.

In the future it is possible that the corner of Grand and Wall Streets could get lights, Hill said. They would be put up as soon as the intersection is straightened out Grand Street at Wall. This would be done by moving Grand slightly south, using part of the Bruss Tower parking lot. At the present time the corner has stop signs and a flashing red light.

Guidelines allow 5.5 per cent

IRS investigates legality of pay raises at SIU

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Internal Revenue Service agent Louis Powenski said Monday the main thrust of his investigation into whether pay increases at SIU will be to decide whether the increases should be considered as one package or broken down by individual units.

Powenski is scheduled to meet Tuesday with James M. Brown, head of board staff, to determine whether the increases granted last month by the Board of Trustees comply with federal wage-price guidelines. The guidelines allow increases up to 5.5 per cent.

Powenski agreed with C. Richard Gruny, SIU legal counsel, that the guidelines apply only to the overall average in the pay hike increases and not to individual increases.

However, he said, this overall average is computed on the basis of a specific bargaining unit or group.

New Shryock organ
in recital by designer

Mrs. Marianne Webb Bateman, University organist, will present an inauguration concert of the new Reuter organ in Shryock Auditorium at 8 p.m. on Wednesday.

Mrs. Bateman has selected a varied program. She explained, "Together, the selections will show many of the tonal capabilities of the instrument." Her selections will include Michelisen's "Concerto on Carmina Esponsion Drei Engel"; Thomas Arne's "Flute Solo," Bach's "Prelude and Fugue" and Fugue in B Major." She purchased the Reuter organ in 1970 for $63,165 from the Reuter Organ Company of Lawrence, Kan. Mrs. Bateman designed the organ which replaced the 1897 Frieden-Votey organ located in the Shryock Auditorium.

Mrs. Bateman explained she is "always getting ready for a recital." She added she has been practicing six hours a day to prepare for her concert Wednesday.

Mrs. Bateman came to SIU in 1965 after teaching at Iowa State University and Madison College in Harrisonburg, Va.

Show and tell with Mr. Laird

By Arthur Hoppe

"Show and Tell Time" has been temporarily banned at the Millard Fillmore Elementary School. The exact cause of the ban is not clear, but it appears to be related to the issue of Vietnamese language teaching.

School officials said the ban would last for the duration of the Vietnam war.

"We are not going to let them bring in any more propaganda," said Mr. Laird. "We are not going to let them put any of their language in our schools."
Ms. a mistake

To the Daily Egyptian:
As The Egyptian has taken to using the non-informative Ms. it is perhaps a bit late to comment on it, but it seems to me it is the wrong approach. Whenever one person meets an attractive person of the opposite sex (sorry, Women's Lib) the question on whether said person is married arises. Marriage does make a difference. Ergo, rather than clouding the situation in the Mystery of one female term of address, why not go to two for men, as Mr. for married and Bach for single?

Correction

To the Daily Egyptian:
I would like to correct an omission in the Jan. 6 printing of my letter on the Community Conduct Code. The abbreviated clause should have read "that it is better, if we must have a code of conduct, to have a single code binding on all members of the University community than to have one code directed only at students and another directed only at demonstrators."

I am grateful to the Daily Egyptian for printing my criticisms of the proposed code, and I am pointing out this minor omission only to remind those non-students who want no community-wide code at all that without one students will continue to be subject to the present Student Conduct Code, which is a vague, archaic and arbitrary infringement of their proper rights as members of the University community.

Letters to the editor

Dogs aren't human

To the Daily Egyptian:
I am writing in reference to Mr. Meenanah's letter in the Jan. 7 Daily Egyptian, which was very ironic since he is a premed major. I like dogs just as well as the next person and I even own one. I have nothing against them, but I do realize they're not human. You cannot equate the personal hygiene of an animal with that of a human because animals have no concepts of cleanliness, thus they are more susceptible to diseases.

There are many dangerous parasites that are carried by dogs, which, if contacted by humans, can lead to serious illness or death. These parasites are usually passed to humans by a dog licking a person's hand or face. Besides having a host of parasites, dogs are known to carry lice, ticks and leeches, which, in themselves, are carriers of disease. Therefore, dogs should be restricted from places where people habitate. I like my dog, but I will never let him use my toothbrush, wear my clothes or eat with me because he's not a human, but a "dog." Even Christ would agree with this, Mr. Meenanah.

Southern Dancers offering fast-paced and professional Good Show! The Southern Repertory Dance Company's production of "Their Own Thing Four," to be performed at 8 p.m. Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays on alternate weekends this quarter at Parr Auditorium, is fast-paced, slickly professional and a bit breathtaking. This show really moves and there's thought and intelligence evident behind every movement.

"Their Own Thing Four" takes the form of a dance company rehearsal, and while it's not a particularly innovative notion, it gives the show a necessary structure and context it might otherwise have lacked. It also provides co-directors W. Grant Gray and Nancy Lewis a chance to participate in the onstage action.

Basically, the show is fashioned from a number of small pieces, solos and full-scale production numbers that enable the company to display its own ideas and choreography opposite concepts. The Southern Dancers are at their best when they are given free rein in designing and staging their own productions, and "Their Own Thing Four" adheres happily to this tradition.

The most impressive thing about the show is the company's ability to apply its choreography to the musical selection. This hasn't always been the case for "Sister Act," for instance, some of the otherwise excellent dance numbers clashed with the rhythms. The show had a schizophrenic dance theatre identity. Here, there is hardly a wasted movement or gesture. Everything fits because there is a necessary respect for the music.

Some of the numbers linger in memory longer than others, and if we're going to talk in terms of a better-than-good-better-best, then I'll cite my personal favorites: Clint Fowley's "Color My World" is the evening's highlight. Her conceptions are distinctive-open, erotic, sophisticated. She moves as if she owns whatever space she happens to be occupying, and exudes energy and old-fashioned high spirits whenever she is onstage.

There is a gorgeously funny takeoff on "Swan Lake," staged by Dave Westphal and Diane Korpitz; a sassy "That's How Yong I Feel," choreographed by Ken Johnson, and last but by no means least, W. Grant Gray's excerpts from "Godspell." Everyone in the company is personable and energetic-energy, in fact, is the key and source of the show's overall success.

Advisory council delays position on tuition hikes The Student Advisory Council to the Illinois Board of Higher Education will take no stand on proposed tuition increases at state schools until March, according to SAC chairman, Ken Munch.

Munch said that in the past the SAC has strongly opposed tuition increases because the Illinois State Scholarship Commission was not granted enough money to keep up with rising educational costs. This year however, the ISSC was granted a substantial increase in funds.

Business school advisement starts Thursday Advisement appointments for students desiring information in the School of Business will be given out Thursday. The announcement was made Friday by Charles Rosenthal, chief academic advisor. The appointments will be given out at the east end of the General Classrooms Building beginning at 8:30 a.m.

Fast track advisements will be done on Jan. 17 and Jan. 18 in General Classroom 121 beginning at 9:30 a.m.

There are a few rough spots that successive performances should cure. The amplification is, for the most part, deplorable; I felt as though I were back at the Mark Hellingner and "Jesus Christ Superstar." Some of the best dialogue scenes between numbers need tighter staging—but no matter. The Southern Dancers score a winner with "Their Own Thing Four," and start the winter stage season on a high note. These are talented people; they know how to bring down the house and down it comes again and again.

Thousands greet president
Bangladesh breaks ties with Pakistan

DACA (AP)—Sheik Mujibur Rahman met bomb-throwing demonstrators Monday and told his Bangladeshis to forget their ties with Pakistan were gone forever.

Hundreds of thousands turned out to welcome him as Bangladesh’s first president. A U.S. diplomat passed the official reception.

In a 15-minute speech at the Dacca racecourse—the same place where the Bengali leader launched a civil disobedience campaign against Pakistani rule last March—72-year-old Sheik publicly rejected appeals by President Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan that Bangladesh remain within Pakistan.

The racecourse also was the site of the surrender Dec. 16 of Pakistani troops in what was then East Pakistan.

Amid thunderous applause, the Sheik declared, “I tell the people of Pakistan: You are happy. You are not responsible for what your army has done in my country. But I regret it is no longer possible for Bangladesh to remain with Pakistan. The links are broken.”

And he warned, “If Pakistan should embark on any adventures, at the bidding of any power, we will not allow it to succeed.”

The Sheik called for an international tribunal to inquire into atrocities he said had been committed by Pakistani forces in Bangladesh and against Bengalis in West Pakistan.

But the Sheik said that persons living in his nation who are guilty of having aided the Pakistani forces would be dealt with by the laws of Bangladesh. As he stood on a red carpet, cameras caught his subtle 31-times for the first president of Bangladesh.

A truck decorated with a picture of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, whose Indian soldiers defeated more than 90,000 Pakistani troops in what was then East Pakistan, took the president to the racecourse.

Before entering to speak to the crowd, he greeted a lineup of diplomats. One was Herbert D. Sprack, U.S. consul in Dacca until Pakistan surrendered. The welcoming greeting was Mujib’s first contact with an American diplomat as head of the new republic.

“The Pakistanis call us non-Muslims,” the Sheik told the crowd at the racecourse. “Let me tell them that Bangladesh is the second largest Muslim nation in the world after Indonesia.”

It has 75 million people. Compared to 188 million for Indonesia and 25 million for the remaining portion of Pakistan.

The Sheik broke down twice at the racetrack—sobbing uncontrollably as he was introduced as the bangaliputra, the father of the nation, and again when he finished speaking.

He had been arrested last March and imprisoned in West Pakistan. A British Air Force jetliner brought him from London, where he had been flown Saturday from Pakistan.

En route, he had stopped for nearly three hours in New Delhi, where he praised Prime Minister Gandhi and hailed India as "the best friend of my people.”

Two killed as protestors, police clash

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—One police officer and one Negro protester were killed Monday by gunfire in front of a theater in a black section of town, police reported.

At least five blacks and three other officers were wounded in the confrontation, police added.

The incident occurred on North Boulevard in front of a theater, where a group of Negroes was meeting.

Reporters on the scene said the blacks had been meeting in protest of the weekend arrests of some civil rights workers on possession of marijuana charges.

A newsman at the scene reported that after the burst of gunfire, which lasted about one minute, three young men lay in the middle of the street.

The incident occurred shortly after noon in front of the Temple Theatre, he said.

Baton Rouge Mayor W.W. “Woody” Dumas said four persons had been shot.

“Five of our police majors are in the hospital,” Dumas said. “The chief has been pretty badly whipped.”

Dumas said he believed the arrest of “those two or three Muslims” last week precipitated the shootings Monday.

“They’re talking about taking over the city,” Dumas said.

“That’s a matter of opinion. We’re clearing the deck and we’re ready to take them on.”

Patients on rise at Care Clinic

By Sue Miller
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

With the advent of winter weather in Southern Illinois and the usual rise in respiratory ailments, flu and other minor ailments the patient flow at the Minor Care Clinic has increased.

Mrs. Alexander, one of the two nurses at the clinic, said, "Since the cold weather arrived about a week ago we've had a definite increase in patients," She said most of the patients that come in have colds or the flu.

Dr. Walter Clark, director of the Health Service, has prescribed medication for patients who have been given a set of guidelines which they follow in distributing antibiotics and other medicinal articles.

Clark said that many of the things that the doctors are handling at the Health Service could be treated in the clinic if the Minor Care Clinic were available. Clark said that the service is very much needed by the students from the Chicago area who are going to the University of Illinois.

The Clinic is located at 407 E. Stoker.

OGILVIE VOWS TO INCREASE SCHOLARSHIPS

CHICAGO (AP)—Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said Monday that all students who demonstrate need will get scholarships to Illinois colleges in the fall.

Ogilvie told a news conference, "Students and their parents have the top priority in Illinois higher education for the coming fiscal year." The Illinois State Scholarship Commission estimated it will need $50 million in scholarships to help qualified students, an increase of 25 per cent over the $40 million it will spend in fiscal 1969, Ogilvie said.

There were 21,415 students receiving awards in 1968. The governor said he is being given the top priority in Illinois higher education for the fiscal year that begins in May 29. Final examinations are scheduled for June 6. The spring quarter classes begin March 28.

The schedule of classes for the spring quarter has come from the press and yearbook materials are available in the lobby of the Student Center.

The governor said that the appointments set for spring advisement week will be "an opportunity to help the students to get ready for the fall semester." He said the appointments will be handled at the Student Center and the Student Union.

He said, "I want to see that this will be a time for individuals to get ready for the fall semester." He said that the appointments will be handled at the Student Center and the Student Union.

Teachers' group protests denial of Allen's tenure

By Pat Nussman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Federation of University Teachers (CFUT) became the second teachers organization to protest denial of tenure to Douglas M. Allen, assistant professor of philosophy, with a statement released to theEgyptian Monday.

The CFUT joined the SIU chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) in condemning "the violation of academic freedom" showed by the board in denying tenure on grounds other than those of professional competence, according to Garth Gillian, CFUT president.

The statement quoted an American Federation of Teachers (AFT) position paper which stated that "The academic employee's rights as a citizen should not be diminished or alienated as a condition of employment or retention." The CFUT, the statement said, "finds ample evidence in the minutes of the December meeting of the Board of Trustees to substantiate a finding that Professor Allen's rights as a citizen were violated by the Board of Trustees in denying him academic tenure."

The statement also quoted an AFT position saying that an instructor whose credentials are examined for retention should be considered responsible "until specific evidence is brought forward to the contrary." It also stated that this evidence must conform to due process of law.

"Professor Allen had neither had the opportunity to confront the evidence against him. If there is any, our has he had the opportunity to be informed of the reasons for which such tenure should not be granted," the statement said.

"Elementary justice demands that such reasons be forthcoming."

According to an AFT statement, academic freedom is essential to the responsibility faculty members must demonstrate toward their discipline and the public interest.

"Academic freedom is not a thing of the past, nor is tenure no longer required for maintenance of academic freedom within the university," the CFUT statement said. "The Board of Trustees action in the case of Professor Allen proves that the contrary is true."

Gillian said the CFUT executive committee met Thursday and adopted the resolution for the support of Allen, an active critic of the controversial Center for Vietnamese Studies.

To comply with University policy in reducing operating costs where possible, changes have been made in the Transportation Service open garage policy.

Gene Peebles, assistant to the president, said in a bulletin to faculty and staff that an auto mechanic no longer will be on duty on Sunday mornings. Garage hours now are Saturday, 6 a.m. to 2 p.m., and Sunday, 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. Vehicles cannot be turned in prior to 2 p.m. Monday should be turned in on Sunday, Peebles said. Any vehicle that cannot be turned in prior to 10 p.m. Sunday should be turned in on Monday. Rental for these vehicles will be governed by the date the cars are returned to the garage, according to Peebles. No change is planned in the 8 a.m. to midnight operation of the garage Monday through Friday.

New freshmen from Johnston City and Peoria Central high schools scored tops in scholarship last fall. They led a grading of cars 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Admissions Director Jerre Pfaff identified the schools from a listing of high schools whose graduates compiled highest overall grade point averages as beginning freshmen.

Pfaff said the "Top 10" ranking is based on those schools with 10 or more graduates enrolled at SIU last fall. They led a "Top 10" listing of high schools whose graduates compiled highest overall grade point averages as beginning freshmen.

A panel of women who returned to school, finished their programs and are now putting to work the skills and knowledge they absorbed, will deliver this know-how to a class of women thinking about entering or returning to college. The group will be featured at one session of a seminar, "Educational Opportunities for Women," one of several offered during the winter quarter by the Division of Continuing Education.

The course, from 1-3 p.m. every Wednesday for 11 weeks, started last Wednesday and is designed to give women an idea of what college life is like and to acquaint them with opportunities available for developing their potential. Sessions are held in the Agriculture Seminar Room.

The registration fee is $10 and may be paid at the Technology and Adult Education Office, 900 S. Wall St.

Pollution 'army' wants better sewage plants

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) -- "General" Michelle Lovenier formed an army complete with colonels, majors, captains and lieutenant colonels to battle phosphate detergents out of Dade County. Now the "Pollution Revolution" is on the march for more and better sewage treatment plants.

"We can celebrate but we aren't finished yet," said the 36-year-old woman whose brigade of retirees was responsible for an ordinance that made the sale of phosphate detergents illegal as of New Year's Day.

"We're getting into sewage treatment plants now, and we also want to look at the recycling thing," she said. "There's lots to do, and we are the people with the time to do it."

Mrs. Lovenier said the group is determined to force cities in Dade County to build more effective plants and use the same tactics of petitions and public forum would concentrate on getting federal funds to pay for the plans.

Film series to start Wednesday

"The Gospel According to St. Matthew" at 8 p.m. Wednesday and at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Davis Auditorium will be the first film to be shown in the series sponsored by the Southern Illinois Peace Committee (SIPC).

This movie won the special jury prize at the 1964 Venice Film Festival and also the Catholic Film Office Prize, according to Fred Whitehead. He is an instructor in English and coordinator of the series. Whitehead was incorrectly identified as a professor of English in Saturday's Daily Egyptian.

"Loretta Young" was one of the movies to be shown, also was incorrect, according to Whitehead.

A SIPC sponsored film is to be shown at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday each week in Davis Auditorium, Whitehead said. Admission is 75 cents.

Under Phase II of the Economic Stabilization Program all retail outlets are required to post base price information of their top 40 items. This prominent sign at Penney's is of the same type displayed by most Carbondale merchants. (Photo by John Lopinot)

Looking for price list?

Merchants lag in posting required price information

asked about the price lists, Robert Roland of Roland's Studio and Camera Shop, 816 S. Illinois Ave.; pulled out a large book of retail prices for nearly everything photographed.

"This is our bible," Roland said. Some merchants also do not meet the federal regulations for posting of base prices. and most merchants who were surveyed said they weren't sure what is required.

"Most of the merchants are trying to comply with the law," Lecch contended. "I've gone around and tried to explain what's going on." Lecch said that despite his personal visits and Chamber of Commerce Newsletters, which have had wage-price information in each monthly issue since President Nixon announced the program in August, the merchants are still confused.

But of the merchants who were notified of the regulations from the federal government, they may be in trouble.

"Many merchants are not aware of the regulations, but there has been enough publicity," Pawenski of the IRS maintained. "It's the responsibility of the individual to find out what he must do. It's not our job to come out and tell him. We're charged only with enforcement.

"Pawenski did say that "quite a few" Carbondale merchants have called his office for information on the regulations, but he has received few calls from merchants in smaller towns in the area. He said most area merchants eventually will be checked by the IRS to see that they are obeying the law.

"The IRS has already made many spot checks of merchants in the area, Pawenski said. These have been mainly in food stores, however, which are required to post lists of nearly every item in the store. The Daily Egyptian survey indicated that most Carbondale food stores are in compliance with Phase II.

"Pawenski has his hands full in trying to enforce the program. He is the only full-time enforcement agent in Illinois Southern counties. He said, however, that he has part-time help and can call in more agents.

"Initially, merchants were not used to the new price lists and signs on display last November, but there have been no problems since that time. Even now, with a list given to retailers for compliance with the law there will be some leniency until Jan. 17, Pawenski said.

"They (the merchants) will have to shape up by that date," the IRS agent said. "There will be penalties.

"What irks me is that this has been extended from Nov. 1 to December to Jan. 1, then to Jan. 17," he continued. "No merchant can come along and say that he had no notice. I don't think there will be any more extensions."

No one has questioned the fact that the Phase II regulations on price posting are in effect, but some merchants are questioning the usefulness of the law.

"I've had my sign up three months, and no one asked for prices," one merchant said. "Why bother? I look the sign down." Of the stores surveyed, only Zwick's Shoes and Penney's reported having any requests for price information.

Pawenski explained that the purpose of the requirements on price posting is to let customers and the IRS know if there have been any violations in the Economic Stabilization Program. He added that since price increases are justified, but price posting will allow identification of potential law breakers.

"How does anybody know what my price was in August?" asked Ed Appel of Dresser Stores when asked of the posting requirement. "I could pay any price down and who's going to check on it?"

"Merchants who think they can throw up any price are wrong," Pawenski responded emphatically. He said that the IRS will ask for invoices as proof of pre-freeze prices during Phase II investigations. If a merchant has posted a false base price, he is subject to a greater penalty than if he had posted no prices at all, he said. The fine for not complying with the price posting requirement is $500 for each violation.

"The customer has his rights, and he should use them," Pawenski advised in reference to asking merchants for price information. At the same time, he cautioned that customers with potential complaints should ask the store manager about any price increases before going to the IRS. "Most merchants want to explain," he said.

But whether customers will exercise their rights is a subject of doubt in merchants' minds. Exuphoria, a head shop in University Plaza, has required the large sign informing customers that price information is available, but as with most stores, there have been no requests.

"We've got the sign," shrugged Exuphoria employer Mike Yergen. "But everybody sees the sign and thinks it's just another posture for sale."
Wrestlers bounce back

By Ernie Schretti

Horatio Alger, the rags-to-riches type of American literature, is not dead. He is alive and well, living in the soul of the SIU wrestling team.

Alger would have been proud of the Saluki wrestling team as they bounced back late Saturday afternoon to Northern Illinois, to end a three-loss winning streak. They had that much left for the season.

As far as Miles is concerned, the most surprising of the two marks was the 500. “I wanted to go fast in the 1,000 and I didn’t think I had that much left for the 500,” he said.

He had plenty left though, as he finished the 500 in a 4:45.6 clocking.

The Salukis looked like a different group in which his squad, the way he swam Friday night in the 500 in a 4:45.6 clocking, was the lead on wins by Andy Burge in the 500 and 100-yard freestyle and his score was sudden .nly with Wisconsin finally taking the lead after the one meter diving win by the Badgers’ David Bush.

That put the outcome of the contest squarely on the shoulders of the 400-yard relay team. After the first three swimmers had done their legs Southern held a half body length lead.

That put McGinley in the water for the final leg. The finish wouldn’t even close as McGinley pulled away in the final lengths to seal the victory for SIU and set a new meet record of 3:13.6.

Sleeping Salukis lose to Panthers, 88-77

By Mike Klein

Milwaukee—They call this place the Beer Capital of the World. And more recently, Backstown. But in the Milwaukee Arena Monday night, the entire show belonged to a scrappy little guard named Harold Lee and his University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee Panther teammates.

Southern Illinois, searching hard for a stabilizing influence, couldn't find one. Their teammates couldn't buy a basket twice and got easy layups.

"There's no question in our minds how important these two meets are to us," Meade said. "I know we'll be up for them just as both of the other schools will."

By Jim Braun
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Gary Morava threw a party for the rest of his teammates on the gymnastics team Saturday night.

Before he hosted the party in his house, though, Morava also entertained an enthusiastic audience of about 3,500 at the SIU Arena that evening as the Salukis whipped Northern Illinois 164.15-152.95.

Morava was not only the high-scoring all-around performer in Southern's first dual meet of the year, but he set a new school record in the process by attaining an overall score of 56 points out of a possible 60.

In capturing first place in three of the six events, Morava's scores of 9.5 and 9.35 twice, 9.2 and 9.1 topped second-place teammate Tom Lindner for all-around honors. Lindner finished with 52.95.

SIU's Jeff Farris, in the first dual meet of his collegiate career, topped NIU's number one all-around performer Bob Berglund 46.40-45.95 for third place.

The team's final score of 164.15 is also one of the highest accumulated by any school in Arena history.

But, more important, the score indicates that the 1972 Saluki gymnasts should be more productive than ever loaded with depth from their specialists and added scoring punch from the Saluki's one-two all-around team of Morava and Lindner.

It can also be noted that SIU's final team mark was achieved without the services of specialists Steve Duke or parallel bars and Rich Hawthorne in vaulting.

The Salukis swept at least the top two places on each apparatus. In the final event of the evening, horizontal bars, Southern Illinois completely dominated as all five competitors finished ahead of their Northern Illinois counterparts.

Morava led the squad with individual firsts on floor exercise, vaulting and parallel bars. His 9.5 score in floor exercise edged Lindner and Huskie specialist John Schmitz.

Morava was awarded the MVP plaque during the pregame ceremony.

This was the last in a trio of meet victories for the Beer City. The '72 Salukis never threatened after Southern was down just a point, 16-15, Southern Illinois nearly came back from the half when coach Chuck Parsley's team stole intermission lead.

It was less than 48 hours later, the team travels to Ames, Iowa, for a Saturday afternoon contest with the defending champions, Iowa State. The Cyclones also edged SIU in a dual last year while beating the runnerup Salukis by less than two points in the nationals.

Head coach Bill Hill said he was sure that there are any schools which stand in the way of a perfect dual-meet season for SIU, they are New Mexico and Iowa State.

"The '72 team is every department of the physically bruising battle.
