Local politicians sponsor different health plans

By Trumier Camphor
General Assignment Writer

Local legislators agree Southern Illinois needs a universal health care plan, but they disagree on the method to solve rural health care problems.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, is co-sponsoring the HealthAmerica "pay or play" plan.

This plan would give employers the choice of paying 80 percent of the premiums for their employees or adding a payroll tax to help those without health insurance.

The plan would offer a benefit package that would include hospital care, office visits and preventive services.

Amendments to the plan, submitted by Simon and Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., would establish an independent Federal Expenditure Board to set national expenditure goals and negotiate with providers and purchasers on acceptable rates.

The amendments also would allow the health expenditure board to set payment rates if health care providers and purchasers cannot negotiate and give states the chance to develop a single payer system as an alternative.

The added amendments provide access to affordable health care for every family in the United States and attacks the problem of escalating health care costs, Simon said in a statement.

"My amendment moves the HealthAmerica bill closer to the concept of a single payer system," he said.

But Representative Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, said a single payer system for universal health care would better serve Southern Illinois.

Poshard is co-sponsoring the Russo bill, a single-payer system proposal that would replace insurance premiums, co-payments and uncovered medical services with a replacement tax.

"Taxes would be collected instead of paying premiums and co-payments. There would be no new tax. You can look at it as relieving people of what they're already paying," Poshard said. "The General Accounting Office has already told us that $67 billion would be saved by going to this system."

Peace boycott

PLO to shun Moscow meeting

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI) -- The Palestine Liberation Organization, saying the conditions imposed by Washington on the makeup of its delegation are unacceptable, has decided to boycott this week's Middle East peace talks, a high-ranking PLO official said Sunday.

Yasser Abde Raboo, a member of the PLO's executive committee, said the organization could no longer accept the exclusion of its members from the Palestinian delegation to the talks, which are scheduled to take place in Moscow Jan. 28 and 29.

The decision to boycott the third round of peace talks was made during an all-night session of the PLO's executive committee in Tunis, but no formal announcement of the boycott has been made and none was expected until the committee meets again Sunday night.

Raboo said the PLO refuses to accept "the formula that is being imposed on it" concerning the Palestinian delegation, which includes only Palestinians living in the occupied territories while excluding those living in East Jerusalem and members of the PLO.

Shortly before the start of the executive committee meeting Saturday night, PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat complained to reporters about what he called Washington's "incomprehensible reversals" on the issue.

Arafat said the Bush Administration was insisting that the Palestinian delegation to the Moscow talks be the same as the one that attended the bilateral talks with Israel in Washington and the opening session of the talks in Madrid last fall.

The PLO leader said the new U.S. policy on the issue was a violation of the American "guarantees" he had received that representatives from East Jerusalem and the PLO would be allowed to integrate the delegation to Moscow.

Arafat said he was surprised that Washington had "totally allied" itself behind Israel on the issue

Tuition plan would charge according to course level

By Christine Leninger
Administration Writer

An SIUC proposal to charge students different rates of tuition would base the cost of tuition on grade-level or course-level.

The differential tuition proposal is one of seven the University's budget advisory committee is considering. The committee reports to President John C. Guyon, who is expected to make proposals to the SIUC Board of Trustees in March.

Gov. James Edgar's recall of $5.3 million from SIUC has forced the University to realize the seriousness of the state and university problems, said Albert Melone, budget advisory committee chairman.

"The state will not grow out of its problems. SIUC must become self-sufficient to raise the funds we need to operate the

Judge throws out arguments against state legislative map

By Todd Welvaert
Politics Writer

A U.S. District judge threw out two major contentions Friday against the recently approved legislative remap for Illinois.

A three-judge federal panel will hear arguments Feb. 4 on the third contention, dilution of minority voting districts.

Democrats contend the legislative remap, approved Jan. 10 by a sharply divided Illinois Supreme Court, weakens minority voting power in Chicago, Rock Island, East St. Louis and Waukegan.

"This is no longer a party fight," said the Democrat's attorney

William Harte.

"The voting rights of minorities in Illinois will depend on what this court says," he said.

The Democrats asked U.S. District Judge Charles Norgle to overturn the new state, House and Senate districts, a move expected after the Illinois Supreme Court on a 4-3 vote, with one Democrat joining three Republicans.

The Voting Rights Act as amended, will not allow the new map to separate minority voting power in the districts, Harte said.

"It should block that part of the remap," Harte said.

"The current map will severely limit minority voting power and the Minorities Voting Act was designed to stop that. Without minority voting power it will also limit the amount of minority representation in the General Assembly."

The approved remap is expected to give the GOP the upper-hand in the Democratic-controlled House and Senate.

The map did not meet all of Illinois' constitutional objectives but was considered fair by the Illinois Supreme Court. It was approved to allow candidates time to file for the March 17 primary.

"We had hoped they would throw out the whole map," said Democratic Party spokesman Steve Brown. "But we will be prepared to have an election, too."

Redskins blow by Bills in Super Bowl

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The Washington Redskins, parlaying the radar-like passing of Mark Rypien with a backbreaking interception by Kurt Gouveia on the opening play of the second half, defeated the Buffalo Bills 37-24 Sunday to win their third Super Bowl.

In a game far more one-sided than the score indicated, Buffalo became the third team to lose two straight Super Bowls, joining Minnesota and Denver. Buffalo's troubles were in large part due to Washington's success in shackling superstars Jim Kelly and Thurman Thomas.

Kelly, who threw 33 touchdown passes during the regular season, turned the ball over five times with four interceptions and a fumble. Thomas, the NFL leader in yards from scrimmage, was never a factor and embarrassed himself by misplacing his helmet and missing Buffalo's first two offensive plays.

Rypien threw for two touchdowns and consistently rattled Buffalo's secondary with his strong and accurate arm. Rypien, the Most Valuable Player, completed 18 of 33 passes for 292 yards, as the Redskins ended their season at 17-2.

Kelly was 28 of 58 for 275 yards, and the 58 attempts broke a Super Bowl record by 8. Buffalo finished with a 16-4 record.

Before a national television audience of possibly 120 million, Washington extended the NFC's streak of victories in the Super Bowl to eight. And after two exciting NFL title games in the last three years, Sunday's result marked a return to the Super Bowl's

The Redskins built a 17-0 lead at the half, one that could easily have been larger, and then sealed the game with one big play and one big drive in the third quarter.

Needing a spark to start the second half, Buffalo's first play of the third quarter turned into a disaster when Kelly's pass was intercepted by Gouveia. The linebacker's 23-yard return to the Bills' 2-yard line set up Gerald Riggs' second touchdown on the next play, giving the Redskins an all but unbeatable lead.

Then, after the Bills rallied to within 14 points late in the third quarter, Rypien drove the Redskins 79 yards in 11 plays and his 30-yard touchdown throw to Gary Clark for a 31-10 advantage removed all doubt.

Washington added fourth-quarter field goals of 25 and 37 yards by Chip Lohmiller as the Redskins' Joe Gibbs became the third coach to capture three Super Bowls.

After frittering away two early chances, Washington built its 17-0 halftime lead with a 34-yard field goal by Lohmiller, a 10-yard throw from Rypien to Earnest Byner and a 1-yard scoring run by Riggs.

Swimmers husked by Nebraska

By Cyndi Oberle
Sports Writer

Before the SIUC-Nebraska meet Friday, Husker head swimming coach Cal Bentz said he was wary of SIUC divers.

After the meet he found he had every reason to fear them. The Saluki divers captured the first three places in the one-meter boards and took two of the top three in the three-meter event.

Even though the divers dominated the competition, the Dawgs lost their first home meet of the season 148-95 to bring their season mark to a 7-5.

The women's team came closer to beating Nebraska, but still fell 127-116. Their mark stands at 6-6.

Sophomore Rob Siracusano took first in the one-meter diving with a score of 312.0, but he fell to second in the three-meter competition.

Freshman Travis Niemeier finished second in the one-meter competition, and senior Greg Testa took first in the one-meter and third in the three-meter boards.

Bentz said he was glad his divers had the opportunity to compete against SIUC.

Nebraska's men's team is ranked in the Top 20 and SIUC coach Doug Ingram said he expected to have his hands full.

The Dawgs captured first in just two other events. Freshman Robert Weger claimed the 1,000 freestyle with a time of 15:58.26 and

Basketball teams hold on to first place

Mer, 7-0 in MVC play after topping ISU

By Todd Eschman
Sports Writer

Rocky is the road to a Missouri Valley championship, but not for the Salukis.

The 14-2 basketball Dawgs have been invincible in conference games—especially on the road. Rich Herrin's group is 6-2 in hostile territory but 3-0 in conference road games.

The Salukis kept the string alive Saturday night at Illinois State beating the Redbirds 64-59. The win keeps SIUC undefeated in the Valley in seven games, and puts them two games ahead of the second place Redbirds.

Illinois State could have taken a share of first place with a win but instead fell to 6-2 in the MVC and 8-8 overall.

"It was a good road win for us," said Herrin. "Every other ballclub has at least two losses now. We just want to stay up when we go to Northern Iowa."

The Dawgs had to overcome a halftime deficit and foul trouble to pull out the win in a game that had 14 ties and 16 lead changes.

The Redbirds and Salukis exchanged buckets for most of the first half until ISU scored 4 straight points to take a 30-26 halftime lead.

SIUC responded early in the second half by taking the lead with a 12-4 run. Just three minutes later, with the score 45-38, the Salukis found themselves on the down side of the game's widest point margin.

To make matters worse, sophomore guard Chris Lowery and freshman forward Marcus Timmons each had four fouls with almost nine minutes left to play. But Ashraf Amaya alleviated the Salukis' second half woes with 21 of his game-high 31 points.

"Amaya got 21 points in the second half and 31 overall," Herrin said. "He baited us out and he deserves a lot of credit."

The junior forward's 14 rebounds also were the high total. Amaya's output followed a 25-point performance against Bradley.

SIUC scored 7 straight points to tie the game at 50, and

Women sweep two-game road trip

By Norma Wilke

Shutting out the opponent's top gun was the name of the game for the SIUC women's basketball team on its two-game road trip.

In action Thursday the Salukis shut down Illinois State's Tami Baalke, the Gateway's top scorer, Saturday the hoopsters held Angie Eichhorst, who came into the game averaging 18.5 points a game, to 10 points.

SIUC, 11-4 and in a first-place tie in the Gateway at 6-1, handed Indiana State its worst home court loss in Gateway history winning 81-53. The Salukis are tied with Southwest Missouri, which beat Wichita State 98-64 Saturday. Indiana State dropped to 5-3 in conference play and 8-7 overall.

Indiana State's Tonya Hamilton gave the Salukis a run early in the game, scoring 6 of the Sycamores' 8 points. The teams were tied 8-all, but SIUC took off on a 13-3 run and left the Sycamores in the cold by taking a 42-26 halftime lead. The Salukis dominated the rest of the game.

Coach Cindy Scott said before leaving on the road trip the two games could be the toughest of the season, but a tremendous defensive effort made the winning difference.

"We shut down Eichhorst and (Hazel) Olden, two big offensive threats," Scott said. "Eichhorst doesn't shoot as well when under pressure. If we can continue to play good defense and play as confidently as we have been, we'll keep winning."

A big key to the game was Indiana State's poor shooting. The Sycamores shot just 29.8 percent from the field. Indiana State coach Kay Riek said SIUC hit their shots early, and ISU took terrible shots.

Coach: Track team makes mark in Air Open

By James T. Rendulich
Sports Writer

SIUC's men's track team had a chance to observe and compete against some of the top athletes in the world this past weekend.

They participated in the U.S. Air Open Friday and Saturday at East Tennessee.

Although the meet was not set up for teams and gave no team scores, head coach Bill Cornell said his team did well and made an impression.

"As the placers from the events were read over the loud speaker no school was heard more than SIUC," Cornell said. "When we left there they knew who SIU was."

SIU did not have any first place finishes but did place in several events.

Darren Plab placed third in the high jump with a mark of 7-3.

Bernard Henry scored a personal best in the 800-meter run with a time of 1:50.89.

The time was good enough to place him third in SIUC's record book, but it placed him only third in the event.

Also scoring a personal best was Brian Miller, who had a score of 54 feet in the shot and placed eighth in the event.

In the 3000-meter, Mark Stuart placed second and Mike Danner did not place in the event, despite a personal best time of 8:27.

Also placing were Nick Schwartz, second in the mile, and Ed Williams, fifth in the 55-meter hurdles.

Although Williams said the competition was not the best he has faced, it was quite strong.

"In addition to building character and experience, going up against competition like this shows you what kind of talent is out there and where you need to be," Williams said.

Cornell said that just to compete in the meet was an honor and his players should use it as a learning experience.

"Considering there were between 60 and 70 teams and other track clubs, the competition was just outstanding," Cornell said. "To go out and compete against athletes of this level should make our athletes better."

Although pleased with the his team's performance on the whole, Cornell says that those who did not train during winter break still have work to do.

"Last week we worked very hard and the athletes who came back out of shape showed signs of fatigue and soreness at the meet," Cornell said. "We have some big meets coming up and we will continue to work hard so everybody is conditioned."

The squad's next competition will be this weekend at home.

Local cemetery offers burial services to poor

By Scott Wuerz
Special Assignment Writer

The president of a local cemetery hopes to lay to rest state budget concerns over the burial of the poor.

Legislators approved an emergency budget plan Jan. 21 that cuts the amount of aid funeral directors receive to bury people on welfare, but Gov. James Edgar said the state would continue to pay to bury Illinois' poor.

Bob Crain, president of Pleasant Grove in Murphysboro, said Friday his organization will offer burial plots and ground opening services to anyone in Southern Illinois who cannot afford to pay for these services.

"We've decided that since Pleasant Grove has been so well received by the community we have an obligation to help it in a time of need,"

Crain said.

Crain is confident the state legislature will soon reassume the responsibility of paying for the burial of those who are affected by the budget cuts, he said.

"I hope the government recognizes quickly that this is a mistake," he said. "This is definitely a big responsibility for private organizations to take on. I hope this situation will be resolved by July 1, but our offer will stand as long as there is a need."

Funeral directors receive $945 from public aid to cover the funeral cost.

Public aid paid for nearly 8,400 funerals and burials in fiscal year 1991.

Crain, who also is president of Crain Funeral Home in Anna, said Pleasant Grove Memorial Park provided grave sites and grave opening services for state-assisted funerals in the past.

State begins program to combat sales tax abuse

By Christy Gutowski
General Assignment Writer

The Illinois Department of Revenue has implemented a new tax enforcement program this year to expose abuse of a sales tax exemption for vehicles operating for interstate commerce.

Vehicles must be purchased or leased by an interstate carrier and be used to transport either people or property for a fee in interstate commerce to be eligible for the exemption, said Bill Brejcha, transportation lawyer.

A commercial bus and a semi-tractor trailer, for example, fall into this category.

If the vehicles, classified as "rolling stock," are not used directly in the way described by law, the business or individual will be liable for taxes and interest owed, said Kevin Johnson, spokesman for the Illinois

Department of Revenue.

"The Department of Revenue has come across numerous cases where pick-up trucks and automobiles are being claimed as rolling stock when they are being used as service vehicles or as company cars for salespeople," he said.

Construction contractors and excavating companies also claim the exemption on vehicles used solely to transport their own property. Under the law, this would be an abuse, Johnson said.

"We've already collected $417,600 from suspect companies and expect to collect about $300,000 more in liability," he said.

But the Illinois Trucker's Association and the Mid-West Trucker's Organization said the Department of Revenue is misconstruing the federal statute exemption.

A truck does not have to cross state lines to qualify for the exemption under Illinois law, said Robert Jasmon, executive vice president of Mid-West Trucker's Organization.

Whether the vehicle is involved in the first, intermediate or final leg of an interstate transaction, the final destination of the product qualifies it for the exemption.

"As long as the goods or people the truck carries ultimately involve interstate movement, the company is engaging in interstate commerce," Jasmon said.

"They (Department of Revenue employees) are not grasping the concept of single state/interstate operations," Brejcha said. "It's possible to operate interstate carriers without leaving Illinois."

Whether the vehicle leaves the state is the decision of the individual company, he said.

The Mid-West Trucker's Organization won a suit against the revenue department in 1976 when the department stipulated that certain companies were not eligible for the exemption because they did not operate in interstate commerce an adequate amount of time.

"The Department of Revenue tried to narrow the situation into saying that some companies did not qualify for the exemption based on the percentage of business they did for interstate commerce," Jasmon said.

The court ruled this was an unreasonable limitation because it lacked a test of frequency involved in the law.

Jasmon said although the exemption has been abused, his organization strongly defends those qualifying businesses.

"Some disagreement has come about over this," he said. "If it continues, we will end up in court again."

The audit includes transactions during 1989 to 1991.

Grads in job market must think politically

WHEN 3,000 UNEMPLOYED JOB-SEEKERS stand for hours in the frigid Chicago snow, each hoping to land one of only 500 jobs, SIUC students bound for graduation have reason to shiver too.

The hopeful employees lining up to apply for service jobs at the new Sheraton Chicago Hotel & Towers two weeks ago were only symptoms of a larger illness: mass unemployment in Illinois.

The prospective bellhops, desk clerks and custodians in Chicago have brethren across the state. December figures placed the number of Illinois jobless at 565,000—200,000 more than at the same point in 1991.

The state jobless rate hit 9.3 percent in December, its highest point in five years. Even more distressing is the fact that Illinois' rate eclipses the national level of 7.1 percent.

The numbers are an echo of past recession periods. Illinois is a less-than-friendly environment for job-hunting during an economic downturn. The recessions of the mid-1970s and early 1980s impacted our state harder than most others, and even during boom years Illinois unemployment rates have outstripped national averages.

Southern Illinois, no stranger to economic hardship, is among the hardest-hit regions of the state. Even at University Mall a man can usually be seen holding a sign that reads, "Will work for food."

Every percentage point of state unemployment helps stack the deck against soon-to-graduate SIUC students. The numbers are atrocious, but their psychological impact is worse.

The belief that a college diploma is the ticket to a job is purely myth. Competition is tough for professional jobs, but the truth is there are very few jobs for which to compete. Vice President Dan Quayle might think openings at Burger King are the signs of a resurging economy, but few students attend college to get a Bachelor of Whopper degree. Until national figures start to show economic improvement, no politician's promises of improved conditions should be believed.

Relying on the continued advice that things are going to get better is no way to secure a living after graduation. The only solution is to act on two levels: personal and political. First, it is never too early to send out applications, and a lot of them. University Placement is a valuable resource for collegiate job-seekers.

On the political side, graduates must be more aware of how their government represents them. The recession we live in today is brought to us courtesy of the Reagan years, when massive federal spending put a healthy gloss on a sluggish economy. The American people allowed themselves to be hoodwinked on all political fronts, and the results of that oversight have come home to roost.

Most SIUC undergraduates were too young to vote during the 1980s. But this group has now come of age, and hopefully has learned from the mistakes of its elder siblings. Perhaps, if this lost generation can shake off the shadow of voter apathy, it can prevent a future repeat of Reagan-style economic trickery.

And, hopefully, find satisfying jobs in the bargain.

Scientific wonders of laziness

The world of science is delirious with excitement over the discovery of new, efficient ways to get electricity from here to there. Or there to here, I suppose. It's said that these recent discoveries will have an enormous impact on the economy and our lifestyles and make possible all sorts of wondrous technological advances.

One scientist was quoted in this newspaper as saying about the rapid development and potential of the new electrical conductors: "Nothing like this has ever happened in science before." Another said: "It will change the way we live."

With all respect for the scientists, I have my doubts about that. Changing the way we live, I mean.

For example, nothing I've read has said that this amazing breakthrough will lead to the elimination of some of the most terrible curses known to modern man — the rush-hour traffic jam, flavorless tomatoes, devious politicians or goofs who talk during movies. Every few years, scientists insist on telling us that something new and amazing will change our lives. But what happens? The military uses the new development to refine the methods we might use to blow up the world. And the rest of us wake up with the same problems, bills, aches and pains.

Mike Royko

Tribune Media Services

Consider the transistor, which replaced the vacuum tube and was hailed as one of the great inventions of the ages. What did it give us? A sub-race of zombies who shuffle or jog through life with Walkman radios attached to their heads.

That's why I'm skeptical about most scientific breakthroughs. I've seen few of them lead to a genuine improvement in the way we live. Have any of them eliminated the hangover? And that has led me to compile a list of what I consider to be some of the most important inventions of my lifetime. It isn't a comprehensive list, of course, and others may have their own choices. If so, you might send them to me and I'll add them to the list. In no particular order, here are my choices.

The automatic car wash, especially the kind that lets you shove a slug in a slot and squirt hot wax on your car. The automatic car wash has freed millions of men from the weekend ritual of slopping soap on their sneakers and has permitted them to do more important things, such as nothing.

The cut-proof golf ball. Scientists have estimated that this amazing advancement has eliminated so much stress that the average golfer's life has been extended by 2 1/2 years. I made that up, but it's probably true anyway.

As I said, others may have their favorites. Venetian blinds, for example, which admit light but discourage peeping toms; automatic windshield washers; and any garment made of polyester. But we have a long way to go. We can put a man on the moon, make electricity move more efficiently.

When will science develop a martini that is good for you?

Letter to the Editor

Green Movement seeing red about D.E. article

I am concerned that many misstatements appeared in the article about Green politics which appeared in the Dec. 11, 1991 issue of your paper. Firstly, the characterization that "U.S. Greens are having difficulty taking root" indicates a total lack of understanding of the Green Movement in the U.S., and yes it is a movement, not a political party (as stated in the article), meaning the emphasis of the Greens in the U.S. is concentrated on building a network of local groups working directly to call attention to issues of concern, developing demand for change, and empowering people instead of trying to remedy problems by taking control of the government.

I also take issue with the lack of concern for environmental issues the author attributed to U.S. voters. According to the League of Green Voters—not officially connected with the Green Movement—the majority of Americans consider themselves environmentalists, and more than 20 percent of voters have decided to vote because of environmental issues.

Furthermore the kinds of polls that give results such as the one cited in the article always slight environmental issues. Choosing between priorities ignores the facts of environmental issues.

Recycling, solar energy, replacing land development with ecological restoration, interracial justice, and other environmental improvements will also put more people to work, improve people's health, rebuild human dignity, improve education, reduce violence-producing tensions in local and international communities, and decrease homelessness.

There is another mistake in the article when it states, "Greens have only one concern." In fact the fundamental orientation of the Greens is based on the Ten Key Values: Ecological wisdom and sustainability, grassroots democracy, nonviolence, social justice, decentralization, community-based economics, post-patriarchal values, respect for diversity, personal and global responsibility, future focus. — Jackie C. Badger, midwest coordinating council representative, Left Green Network, senior, biology/economics.

New York to fund museum for American Indian artifacts

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — New York will provide $8 million to create the first National Museum for the American Indian in one of New York City's landmark buildings, Gov. Mario Cuomo said Friday.

"This national museum, displaying one of the finest collections of American Indian artifacts, will help increase awareness and understanding of the extraordinary history and culture of the Native Americans," Cuomo said.

The museum, in the Alexander Hamilton Customs House in lower Manhattan, is scheduled to open in 1993 and will cost a total of $24 million.

The remaining $16 million is scheduled to come from the federal government and New York City.

The state grant will be used to renovate the 85-year-old Customs House as a home for the George Gustav Heye collection.

The collection contains about a million artifacts from Native American Communities around the world.

Part of the Heye collection is currently on display on 155th Street and Broadway, but most of the artifacts are being stored and researched in a storage annex in the Bronx, said Dan Agent, a spokesman for the Smithsonian Institution, which is a partner in the project.

Heye was New York banker who traveled throughout South, Central, and North America, collecting cultural artifacts and photographing Indian communities he encountered. He died in 1957.

The exhibition in New York City, scheduled to open in the spring of 1993, will feature jewelry, clothing, wood and horn-carvings from Indian communities in the Western Hemisphere including the Apache, Cherokee, Delaware, Mowhawk, Navaho, Lakota, and Seneca tribes.

"I'm delighted that Gov. Cuomo has put the funding in place for the first National Museum for the American Indian," museum Director Rick West said.

"This museum is going to educate people about the Native Americans and will enrich the lives of New York's citizens," he said.

Legislation to create the National Museum of the American Indian was enacted in 1989 by Congress and the New York Legislature, and the Smithsonian agreed to a joint venture to establish two museums: one in the nation's capital, and the other in New York City.

The museum on the Mall in Washington, D.C. will open in the year 2000, Agent said.

Charles Porcari, a spokesman for Cuomo, said the $8 million grant is available immediately.

Judge: Shooting confession valid

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Cook County judge Friday refused to throw out the confessions of a New York attorney accused of killing a Northwestern University medical student.

Judge Michael Toomin ruled there was no indication that Donald Weber, 31, formerly of Robinson, was psychologically, physically or mentally coerced into confessing to the shooting death of Lynda Singhsinsuk, 24, of Robinson.

Singhsinsuk was shot six times April 16, 1990, in her Chicago dorm room and her body buried twice — first in a wooded area outside Robinson and then outside Flagstaff, Ariz.

Her body was removed from the dorm room in a clothes hamper.

Weber is scheduled to go on trial Feb. 18.

Weber was tracked down in Thailand by flamboyant Texas private detective Jay J. Armes.

Weber was arrested by Arizona sheriff's deputies as he and Armes were digging at Singhsinsuk's shallow grave.

given what he charged was the Jewish state's policy of "torpedoing" the peace process.

But analysts in Tunis who follow the PLO closely said a more likely reason for the decision to boycott the talks was to avoid further offending Syria, which has refused to take part in the peace process painstakingly arranged by U.S. Secretary of State James Baker.

The analysts said the PLO was evidently concerned that Syria could create serious problems for the thousands of Palestinians living in Lebanon.

Barring an unlikely reversal of the decision at its meeting Sunday night, the PLO's boycott of the Moscow phase of the talks will further complicate a peace process already sidetracked by the Israeli elections scheduled for this summer.

Yet despite the problems, the PLO's decision took observers by surprise because the organization appeared to have backed off last week from earlier threats not to attend the Moscow talks.

Although members of the Palestinian delegation to the negotiations said Thursday the peace process would receive "a direct slap" if the United States granted Israel $10 billion in loan guarantees, they refrained from repeating earlier warnings they would stay away from Moscow if such a loan were to be approved.

In Damascus, meanwhile, eight Palestinian radical groups Sunday rejected any Palestinian participation in this week's talks, saying the meeting was an attempt to impose an American-Israeli solution on the conflict.

"All participants rejected the multilateral talks in Moscow because of its dangerous position on the Palestinian question and the rights of the Palestinian people," Khaled al Fahoum, leader of the Palestinian Salvation Front, said after the meeting.

The session was attended by six Damascus-based Palestinian guerrilla organizations, the Islamic Resistance Movement, and the Islamic Jihad (Holy War) Movement.

"The Moscow talks have the aim of imposing an American-Zionist settlement on the Arab-Israeli conflict," Fahoum said.

University," he said.

Paul Trescott, SIUC economics professor, said the differential tuition by course-level would make college costs more fair.

"It makes sense to charge a student more for upper level classes in the same way that when you go to the grocery store, you pay for what you pick out and some products are more expensive than others," he said.

It presumably will take longer for students to graduate under this plan because students will be forced to take less classes at a time because of the costs, Trescott said.

But Graduate and Professional Student Council President Susan Hall said even though the University is in a bind, a student should not be discriminated against according to grade level or major.

"A student is a student and should not be charged more for upper level classes especially when some lower level classes cost more to administer," she said.

"The worst would be to charge students tuition according to major. We would lose a lot of good engineering, technology and science majors because those classes are usually more expensive than, for instance, an English class," Hall said.

The University of Illinois uses a form of differential tuition by charging freshmen and sophomores $2,236 a semester. Juniors and seniors pay $2,496 and graduate students pay $2,836.

International Programs' Spring workshops to help foreign students cope with needs

By Fatima Janvekar
General Assignment Writer

International Programs and Services is planning a number of workshops this semester to meet the needs of international students on campus.

The first workshop will be in conjunction with the Morris Library computer system at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

"We also have numerous workshops that will aid students to improve their study skills and learn resume writing techniques," said Carla Coppi, assistant director of IPS.

A workshop on women's issues will be held in March at the Baptist Student Center, Coppi said. Sexual harassment and women's health issues are among the topics that will be discussed.

IPS also will provide guidelines for students leaving the country to travel, at a pre-departure workshop arranged for April 2.

Students will be given the chance to explore work opportunities overseas at an international employment fair, also scheduled for April. Employers from various parts of the country will visit the campus to meet with students and discuss work options.

Leisure activities also are on the schedule for this semester, starting with International Nite at the Rec Center, where volleyball, badminton and wallyball tournaments will be held.

During the week of the International Festival from Feb. 10 to 17, a tax seminar is planned for campus students and faculty, where they can get help filing their income tax returns.

"We are also having our annual spring trip to Washington D.C., the dates of which will be announced at a later time," Coppi said.

For more information about IPS activities, call 453-5774.

City celebrates community

Past, future activities to take spotlight at community breakfast

By Teri Lynn Carlock
City Writer

The City of Carbondale will sponsor its third annual Community Pride Breakfast from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Student Center ballrooms.

The theme this year is "Celebrating Community" and City Manager Steve Hoffner said the breakfast is more than an early meal.

"It is an effort to inform people about all the positive things that are going on in Carbondale," he said.

REPRESENTATIVES from the city, school districts, park district, public library, Business Development Corp. and SIUC will update residents and business leaders on progress made throughout the city in the past year.

Speakers also will discuss projects for 1992.

For the first time at the event, representatives from the city will present a slide show with music, Hoffner said.

"IT WILL BE similar to 'a picture is worth a thousand words,'" he said. "It will be a photo view of community projects over the past year."

Michael Neill, president of the Carbondale Park District, will be one of the speakers at the breakfast.

It is the 50th anniversary of the park district, so Neill will highlight

Representatives from the city, school districts, park district, public library, Business Development Corp. and SIUC will update residents and business leaders on progress made throughout the city in the past year. Speakers also will discuss projects for 1992.

how it has changed during the years.

"When we first started 50 years ago, there were very few parks in this area," he said. "Now there are 16 park sites in Carbondale."

THE PARK DISTRICT has used the services of the Executive Service Corp., a group of retired executives who analyze the entire structure of the park district.

The group visited the park district in December and conducted interviews with community leaders such as commissioners, the city manager, the director of the Chamber of Commerce and park district officials, Neill said.

"THE EXECUTIVES will spend the next three to four months analyzing our park district, and hopefully we will be able to incorporate the information and put it into practice," he said.

Neill also will explain the process of creating a new public golf course on New Era Road in Carbondale, the district's largest project this year.

THE IDEA FOR a public golf course was first developed in 1982, and workers began constructing the course last year.

"All the dirt has been moved, the lake is built and we are ready to plant grass this spring," he said. "We have made excellent progress so far."

BECAUSE THE DISTRICT expects a heavy use of the golf course, it will make sure the grass is thoroughly seeded and sprouted before opening it.

"I expect the course to be open to the public sometime in 1993," Neill said.

Tickets for the Community Pride Breakfast are $8.50 each and are available from the city clerk's office at 609 E. College St. The deadline for registration is today.

Poshard is supportive of any serious legislative action taken on health care issues but still prefers a single payer system, he said.

"I haven't seen it yet. If this bill is a compromise, then we may be looking at something workable," he said.

The average yearly cost for health care for a family of four is estimated at $6,700, according to a study done by the General Accounting Office.

Under the single payer system, the average cost for a family of four with an income of $54,000 would be $50.

Families earning less than $39,000 would incur no cost.

Poshard said the pay or play system would not be adequate for Southern Illinois, and it would hurt the small businesses.

"The guy that sells shoes or flowers or something is going to have problems with a pay or play system," Poshard said. "The Russo plan offers a better framework and imposes controls that would help the hospitals and physicians. Physicians and hospitals could get paid in advance instead of the current reimbursement system."

Simon said his amendments to the HealthAmerica plan would give small business greater protection from possible discrimination against "high risk" employees.

Kathleen Welsheimer, SIUC health education professor, said Southern Illinois needs a combination of both the "pay or play" and the single payer system.

The pay or play plan with the amendments still ties health care costs to employment status, she said.

"If you're not working and you're not eligible for Medicaid, then you'll have no coverage under either plan," she said. "This would be a critical drawback for Southern Illinois because of the high unemployment levels."

But Poshard said employment is not a requirement for health care under the Russo bill.

"If you're unemployed, you don't have to pay the tax and you still get health care," he said.

Discovery astronauts may spend extra day in space to gather data

Taking a break from around-the-clock research, commander Ronald Grabe, co-pilot Stephen Oswald and other members of Discovery's crew planned to chat with CBS Sports co-anchors Greg Gumbel and Terry Bradshaw toward the end of the network's Super Bowl pre-game show.

At the time of the interview, Discovery was expected to be flying over the equator just south of Borneo northwest of Australia. Despite the communications gear on board the orbiter, the television transmission was strictly one way. The crew was not able to watch the big game, although flight controllers promised to keep them updated.

Back on Earth, NASA managers at the Johnson Space Center in Houston spent the day studying Discovery's fuel consumption to determine if the flight can be extended one day to give the astronauts more time to gather data about the effects of weightlessness.

To collect as much data as possible, Grabe, 46, Oswald, 40, Norman Thagard, 48, William Readdy, 40, David Hilmers, 41, Canadian neurobiologist Roberta Bondar, 46, and German physicist Ulf Merbold, 50, have been working around the clock in two 12-hour shifts since takeoff last Wednesday.

Working in a roomy Spacelab module in Discovery's cargo bay, the astronauts have been carrying out a smorgasbord of experiments, growing radiation-sensitive crystals, studying how humans adapt to weightlessness and conducting research on how plants, insects, slime mold, mouse bones and other biological materials are affected by weightlessness.

NASA officials said last week Discovery did not have enough liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen on board to power the ship's electrical generators for an extra day in space. But early Sunday, flight controllers told the astronauts that electrical consumption was less than expected and that a mission extension was being considered.

"There is an opportunity for a really significant science expansion, especially with respect to all the crystals," Ken Money radioed the crew from the Spacelab science control center in Huntsville, Ala. "All of these could really tell us a lot more with an extended period. There wouldn't be a great deal to do because the crystals grow pretty much by themselves so it wouldn't be a very busy day. But it would be enormously valuable."

Grabe replied that if the flight was extended an additional day, he wanted a relatively light schedule for the crew because they had been putting in late nights.

"We'd be more than happy to stay up, assuming that the (hydrogen and oxygen) margins work out," he said. "Our thoughts were entirely in line with yours, that the crystal growing experiments would benefit the most and also would (require) the least attention from the crew."

NASA's mission management team planned to meet in Houston early Monday to decide whether the mission should be continued.

Discovery originally was scheduled to land Wednesday at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Dozens of experiments have been conducted on weightlessness and crystal growth.

Fraternity boxing fund-raiser banned because of dangers

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The University of Florida is banning an annual fraternity boxing fund-raiser after next month's show because the fighters are getting so good they're dangerous to each other.

"I let this thing go on too many years," said Art Sandeen, vice president for student affairs, as the Phi Delta Theta fraternity made preparations for their 15th annual Slugfest Feb. 7.

"The way it started, I thought it was relatively harmless. Now they look like semi-pros. I'm afraid somebody's going to get hurt," Sandeen told The Miami Herald.

Fraternity boxers have been spending as long as three to four months training.

The brothers at Phi Delta Theta are outraged, pointing out that Slugfest is one of the most successful fraternity charity shows in the nation. The proceeds go to the Boys and Girls Club of Alachua County.

"Last year we gave them $15,000," said Robert Bradley, Slugfest chairman.

Agricultural job fair gives students chance to explore career options

By Kara Grover
General Assignment Writer

Prospective employers will meet Thursday with SIUC students and alumni interested in agriculture fields during the fourth annual College of Agriculture/University Placement Center Career Fair.

A myriad of job representatives ranging from chemical, feed and grain corporations, food and hotel-hospitality operations, state and federal government agencies, landscape firms and financial institutions will be present.

"Some (employers) are coming a day early and leaving a day later," said Don Elkins, associate dean for instruction at the College of Agriculture.

"If they spot someone they want to talk to in more depth, they have rooms that are reserved specifically for interviewing," said Elkins, co-coordinator of the Career Fair.

The career fair will enable students and alumni to investigate the agriculture job market in more detail, Elkins said.

"They can find out more about the nature of the job and various employment opportunities," he said.

Placement Counselor Dinah Miller, co-coordinator of the fair, said students and alumni can benefit from the important contacts they will make at the fair.

"Students can enhance their employment potential by networking and improve their self-presentation skills," she said.

The fair also will provide opportunities for internship possibilities, Miller said.

"While many employers are presently on hold for full-time employers, they will be hiring interns," she said.

Companies that plan to interview include Tan-Tara, Grow Mark, Archer Daniels Midland Co., Soil of Conservation Service and Akin Seed.

Wendy's, Pillsbury and Ciba-Geigy also will be present.

The fair will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in room 209 of the Agriculture Building.

Admission is free to students and alumni interested in agriculture fields.

Coordinators of the fair suggest the following tips for students interested in attending:

- wear professional attire,
- bring a polished resume,
- research companies and prepare questions,
- learn first hand what employers say it will take to persuade them to hire you,
- be genuine, self-confident, pleasant and honest; be yourself,
- ask for business cards from employers with whom you wish to initiate a follow-up contact.

Psychotic nanny takes upper hand in box-office fight

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Disney's nanny thriller, "The Hand that Rocks the Cradle," continued to hold on to the top spot at the nation's box office with about $7.9 million during the Friday through Sunday weekend, according to industry estimates Sunday.

It was the third weekend in a row that "Cradle," starring Rebecca De Mornay as a psychotic nanny, has topped the box office. The performance pushed the film's 17-day total to more than $30 million.

"Cradle" was easily the most successful movie of the weekend, which saw movie going drop off from what had been a relatively solid January performance. The pro-football Super Bowl was at least partly responsible for the decline.

The best of the rest was Universal's southern drama "Fried Green Tomatoes," starring Jessica Tandy and Kathy Bates, with about $5 million.

In the second half the Salukis kept the pace giving ISU an 11-4 run. The Sycamores scored for the first time five minutes into the half.

The substitutes got a chance to play for SIUC, and every player who got to play scored at least one point for SIUC.

Junior center Kelly Firth had 17 points and 10 rebounds for the Salukis. Freshman forward Rocky Ransom chipped in 14 points, a career high, in 16 minutes of play. Senior forward Karrie Redeker had 13 points.

Hamilton had 12 points and Kim Darner had 11 points for ISU.

The Salukis play Bradley at 7:35 p.m. Thursday at SIUC.

DAWGS, from Page 16

Amaya gave the Dawgs the lead for good with a layup at the 7:06 mark.

Illinois State stayed close behind, but junior guard Tyrone Bell hit two free throws with 15 seconds left to seal the victory.

Illinois State sophomore forward Mike Vandegar paced the Redbirds with 21 points. Junior forward Scott Fowler pitched in 13.

Amaya was the only Saluki to score in double figures. It was the first time all season SIUC didn't have two or more players hit double digits.

A sellout crowd of 10,396 packed Redbird Arena to see the game. It was the second largest crowd in Arena history.

"This was a tough crowd to play against," Herrin said. "This is a victory we are very excited about."

The Salukis will be at Northern Iowa at 7:35 tonight. The Panthers are 5-10 (2-5 in the conference).

the 500 free with a 4:38.16.

Senior Todd Edison finished second in the 200 free and the 100 free, and senior Deryl Leubner took second in the 500 free.

Ingram said he was anxious to see the two women's squads swim together because they both received votes to the Top 25.

The team was hoping to upset Nebraska in its first home meet, like in its earlier upset against University of Illinois.

But it could not capitalize on its depth, Ingram said.

The Salukis finished first in the 400 medley relay and the 200 free relay.

Senior Tonia Mahaira took first in the 200 free with a 1:51.64 and 100 free with a 51.83.

Senior Julia Hosier finished first in the 200 individual medley and second in the 200 butterfly.

Senior Nancy Schmidtkofer took first in the 50 freestyle with a 23.78.

Freshman Sara Schmidtkofer captured first in the 200 backstroke with a 2:06.62.

THE EPICUREANS are here!

Southern Illinois' Best Places to Dine

They're housewives, secretaries, business executives, and professional people. You'll see them every night at the finest restaurants. What all Epicureans have in common is their "GOOD TASTE".

It all began back in 306, B.C. Athens, Greece, that's when Epicurus founded a school of philosophy which made an impact that would earn him a place in world history. Along with Epicurus teachings of the value of high moral and ethical standards he believed and taught the importance of the relationship to a healthy body and a healthy soul. Epicurus believed that good food in moderation was good for the body, therefore, good for the soul.

Epicurus students were called EPICUREANS. In later years the word Epicure was adapted to the English language to mean, "to dine well" therefore an Epicurean is one who dines well.

June 1977 A.D. in Pensacola, Florida a modern EPICUREAN Movement was launched under the direction of W.F. Johns, a native Floridian known to his friends as Bud.

The Epicurean Club would provide a recommended list of Pensacola's best places to dine and discount dining privileges for card carrying members referred to as Epicureans.

As club popularity grew, membership increased to 5,000 in the first year.

Not to be confused with dining discount punch cards nor coupon books, the EPICUREANS Club is America's ONLY true discount dining club. Records of members names, addresses, and telephone numbers are kept on a computer "confidential" file for member correspondence, restaurant updating renewal notification etc.

EPICUREANS pay a nominal fee for a one year membership. Proof of membership is a prestigious plastic identification card.

When a member and guest dine at an EPICUREAN sponsored restaurant they may each select any entree from the regular menu, they identify themselves to the waiter or waitress as EPICUREANS and when the meal ticket is presented for payment one of the entrees will be "paid for by the restaurant." The meal entree that is paid for is the lowest priced, or equal if both entrees are the same. When more than two parties are dining only one meal is deducted for each membership card. Members receive a list of local restaurants with a daily schedule (7 day week) of restaurant participation. Several restaurants will honor a member's card each night of the week allowing members a choice of restaurants every night. The schedule is repeated each week.

Along with local restaurant information, members receive lists and schedules of participation restaurants in other cities. All restaurants honor valid member cards of local and traveling EPICUREANS.

Local residents will be happy to note that EPICUREAN endorsed restaurants are To n's Place, Mugsy McGuire's, Oriental Foods, Ferris Steakhouse, Grand China, Antonettes-airport Restaurant, Fiddlers Restaurant & Lounge, Stuarts Restaurant & Lounge, Southernaire (Holiday Inn), and Prime Time. There are also many fine restaurants in Paducah, Cape Girardeau and many other cities.

EPICUREANS are always proud to show their card because it "Shows Their Taste." Through this program the EPICUREAN Club had developed an image of growth and vitality which attracts people who enjoy fine dining, good company, and special customer treatment.

EPICUREAN member enrollment since 1977 number more than 500,000 most of whom were contacted by telephone about joining after being recommended by a friend who was a happy EPICUREAN.

For information the local club chapter office is located at 103 S. Washington St., Carbondale, IL 62901. Telephone no. 549-0500
