The largest class in the history of Southern Illinois University will be graduated next Friday evening.

It will total approximately 1,600 SIU and VTI graduates on the Carbondale campus separate exercises are scheduled for Thursday on the Edwardsville campus.

The degrees will include the doctorate, the master's, bachelor's, and the two-year associate degree from the Division of Technical and Adult Education.

The ceremonies are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in McAndrew Stadium. In the event of inclement weather, the new SIU Arena will be used.

A concert by the Southern Illinois Symphony, under the direction of Warren van Bronkhorst, will precede the commencement ceremonies.

The processional will follow. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Jerreal B. Buchanan of the University Baptist Church in Carbondale.

Margaret Mead, the noted anthropologist and author, will be the commencement speaker. Following her address, associate and baccalaureate degrees will be conferred by President Delyte W. Morris.

The candidates will be presented by William J. McKeefery, dean of academic affairs; John E. Grinnell, vice president for operations; and Charles D. Tenney, vice president for instruction.

Air Force reserve officers will be recognized prior to the conferring of advanced degrees by President Morris and John Page Wham, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

The candidates for advanced degrees will be presented by Grinnell and Tenney.

The presentation of faculty service awards, the distinguished service award, and Alma Mater, and benediction by the Rev. Mr. Buchanan will complete the program.

The recessional of graduates and faculty will bring the ceremonies to a close.

Tennis Threesome To Represent SIU

Three members of Coach Carl Sexton's tennis squad will be representing SIU at the NCAA college division meet June 10 to 13.

Bob and Roy Sprengelmeyer will be putting their perfect singles records on the line in the meet along with Pachito Castillo who was 10-3 during the regular season.

Bob Sprengelmeyer was 16-0 during the season, tied with Al Pena for the best record for the team. Bob also picked up an extra victory last weekend in an invitational meet at Colorado State University.

His brother, Roy, meanwhile, was 14-0 during the season and was also victorious in the meet last weekend.

The other member of the trio, Pachito Castillo, lost only three matches this year

Check Distribution To Be at Bursar's

Student pay checks will be distributed at the Bursar's Office starting at 8 a.m. Tuesday rather than at the Personnel Office as reported earlier.

A spokesman for the Personnel Office said students who want their final checks mailed to their home address should arrange to leave a stamped, addressed envelope at the Personnel Office before leaving campus for the summer.

Long Tradition Lives On

Caps, Gowns Are Cumbersome, But Add Color to Ceremony

More than 100 years before Columbus the rich, young sons of English aristocrats became the first university students in the world to take their diplomas dressed in caps and gowns.

They started a practice that is now standard for any graduation exercise.

And though students at SIU may complain of waiting in line to get their caps and gowns and of the heat while waiting for their diplomas, the conventional mortarboard and flowing gown are essential. The costume indicates rank like an officer's stripes and adds a dash of color to a somber ceremony.

Jack Graham, former chairman of the Commencement Committee at SIU, thinks the academic regalia adds a certain amount of dignity to the graduation ceremony.

"In this country we tend to minimize tradition," Graham said. "The cap and gown are one of the few remaining links with the past," he said.

Frank Adams, director of the Student Work Program, is chairman of the committee this year.

Caps and gowns in the United States are regulated by an Intercollegiate Code first formed in 1895. The code was revised in 1932 and 1959.

Colors, the opening in the front of the gown and the cut of the material indicate the graduate's university, division and degree.

The black mortarboard is standard. The tassel bears the colors of the school of the university. At SIU the School of Education tassel is light blue; liberal arts, white; agriculture, maize; business, drab; communications, blue; fine arts, brown; music, pink; music education, light blue; home economics, maroon; technology, orange; nursing, apricot; VTI - technical, orange; and VIT - business, drab.

Recipients of master's degrees wear black tassels. The Ph.D. tassel is gold.

The bachelor's gown has a closed front and long, pointed, open sleeves. The master's gown is either open or closed in the front with long, closed sleeves, open at the wrist. The end of the sleeve is square

Miss Mead Studying Space Age

Margaret Mead, internationally famous anthropologist who will speak at the June 12 Commencement, began her career studying the primitive people of the South Seas.

Today she is completing a major project on the response of the American people to the Space Age. In her present study she is dealing with the changing conceptions of time, space and the strange and unknown, with special reference to the senses--sight, thought and hearing.

Miss Mead is presently the curator of ethnology at the American Museum of Natural History in New York, and adjunct professor of anthropology at Columbia University.

As an author Miss Mead is probably best known for her early books, "Coming of Age in Samoa" and "From the South Seas," on the customs in the South Seas. In addition, she is the author of "Male and Female" and "Sex and Temperament in Three Primitive Societies," as well as the author and editor of more than 16 other books and numerous articles.

Miss Mead's special interests, which include education and culture and the relationship between character structure and social forms, have taken her to all parts of the

Book Return Deadline Set

Heinie Stroman, manager of textbook rental, says that the deadline for returning textbooks is noon Thursday.

He said the Textbook Service will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. today; from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. with no closing for lunch or dinner Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday; and from 8 a.m. to noon Thursday.

Stroman said students going to summer school can pick up their books June 15.

Housing Available For Summer Term

Housing is still available for men and women students during the summer quarter at SIU starting June 15. J. Albin Yokie, coordinator of housing, said.

On-campus residence halls will be in full use during the 12-week summer quarter which marks Southern's pioneering in year-around use of campus facilities.

There will be some changes, though. Woody Hall, traditionally a residence hall for women, will house male students during the summer term. The Thompson Point complex of residence halls will house women students.

Since many married students attend school the year around, housing for married couples will not be so plentiful, Yokie said. However, provisions have been made for couples who leave to sublease their apartments for the summer term only.

A portion of "Greck Row" will also be used this summer. Two buildings have been reserved to house Peace Corps trainees and instructors in a program awaiting approval for training before service in Niger and Senegal, in West Africa.

Funeral Services To Be Held Today

Funeral services will be held today in two northern Illinois cities for two SIU students who died this week.

Services for William R. Wegener, who died in an auto crash southeast of Murphysboro Saturday, will be at 10 a.m. in Epiphany Lutheran Church in Elmhurst. Burial will be in Elm Lawn Cemetery in Elmhurst.

Services for Maria A. Rigotti, 22, a senior who died Wednesday night in her apartment at 609 S. University, will be this morning at Cord-Ryan Funeral Home in Homewood. Burial will be in Oak Lawn Cemetery, Homewood.

Last Issue Until Summer Quarter

The Daily Egyptian will stop publications on the spring term with today's issue.

Publication will be resumed on a regular five-day-a-week basis on June 16, the first day of regular summer school classes.

Wham Building Ceremony To Hear Peabody Professor

WILLARD GOSLIN

Willard E. Goslin, chairman of the Division of Education at George Peabody College, Nashville, will speak at the dedication ceremonies of Wham Education Building on Friday.

The $3.5 million structure was completed early this year and named in honor of George D. Wham, faculty member from 1906 to 1938 and the only person given the title, "Dean of Faculty."

It is the first academic structure completed on Southern's campus using funds voted in the Universities Bond Issue Act of 1961.

The new building ceremonies, starting at 9:30 a.m. with an open house, building and campus tours, will also honor another notable in SIU's history. The 300-seat auditorium on the first floor of the building will be dedicated as Davis Auditorium, honoring General Robert W. Davis, retired newspaper publisher of Carbondale, soldier, member of the last teachers college board to administer the University's finances and chairman of its successor, the first Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees.

Formal dedication of the new structure will take place at 2 p.m. in the Davis Auditorium.

world. She spent many years studying and living with South Seas peoples.

Miss Mead was born in Philadelphia, Pa. She received her B.A. at Barnard College in 1923 and her M.A. and Ph.D. at Columbia University. She has taught at and has several honorary degrees from colleges and universities in the United States and abroad.

In 1940 she received the National Achievement Award. The Associated Press named her the Outstanding Woman of the Year in the Field of Science in 1949. In 1963 she received the Leadership for Freedom Award of the Women's Scholarship Association of Roosevelt University.

Miss Mead is a fellow in the American Anthropological Association and was president of the organization in 1960. She is also a fellow and member of many other organizations.

Faculty Will Parade To Commencement

Pomp and Circumstance

All members of the SIU faculty above the rank of lecturer are expected to participate in commencement exercises next Friday evening.

The plans for faculty participation are outlined in a special bulletin signed by Frank C. Adams, chairman of the Commencement Committee.

"Every member of the faculty with the rank of instructor or above is expected to participate in the academic procession unless excused by the dean or director of his college, school, or institute," the bulletin stated.

Faculty members have been asked to be present by 7:25 p.m. Friday between Old Main and U.S.-51. The procession will be in four lines arranged according to departments and departmental chairmen will be responsible for lining up the members of their departments.

The faculty processional will follow the platform party into McAndrew Stadium. The processional will proceed across Harwood Avenue and enter McAndrew through the north-center gate, according to the bulletin.

After entering the stadium, two of the four lines will proceed down the east track, and two down the west track, to their assigned areas.

Faculty members have been asked to remain standing when they reach their seats, and to remove their caps when President Delyte W. Morris removes his. This will immediately precede invocation, and after its completion, members of the faculty will be seated and replace their caps.

A recessional will follow the exercises.

In the event of rain, the exercises will be conducted in the SIU Arena, and half of the faculty as designated by the dean or director of the various units are required to attend.

In the event of rain, the designated members will assemble in the north lobby of the Arena floor. The procession will follow the platform party in double lines through the northwest door and be seated on the east side of the Arena floor.

Honorary Doctorate Awarded to Wieman

Henry N. Wieman, professor of philosophy at SIU, received an honorary degree from Grinnell College in Iowa, where he taught before coming to Southern.

The Doctor of Literature degree was conferred upon Wieman during commencement exercises Friday.

Wieman, who has written or coauthored several books on theology and is himself the subject of a volume in the Macmillan Company's "Living Theology" series published in 1963, came to SIU in 1956 after spending the 1955-56 academic year at Grinnell.

Mrs. Wieman, who accompanied him to Iowa, is a graduate of Grinnell.

Three former grads will return to campus June 13, to receive honors for their outstanding work in their profession or for service to the University and the Alumni Association.

Alfred W. Richardson, professor of physiology at St. Louis University School of Medicine, will be honored for work in his field. He is noted for his research and medical inventions related to the proposed exploration of outer space.

Goffrey Hughes, executive director of Southern Illinois Inc., will be honored for services to SIU and the association. Hughes, a member of the Board of Directors of the SIU Foundation, publicizes and promotes the Southern Illinois area.

Another member of the foundation board, Claude Vick, will also be cited for his services to SIU and the association. He was director of professional and public relations with the Illinois Education Association for 17 years and also served as chairman of the Department of Education at McKendree College.

They will receive their awards at the Alumni Banquet at 6:30 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom on Alumni Day.

15 to Receive SIU Awards

Fifteen awards for service to SIU will be presented next Friday evening during commencement exercises.

One will be a special Service to Southern Award to John W. Allen, retired educator who has been credited with doing more than any other individual to popularize the history and folklore of Southern Illinois.

Allen is a native of Hamilton County who joined the SIU Museum staff in 1942 after serving as an elementary school superintendent. He is now on emeritus status at SIU, but continues to write a newspaper column.

Last year, he completed a book, "Legends and Lore of Southern Illinois."

The 14 other awards will be to members of the faculty for their long years of service to SIU.

William J. Tudor, director of area services, will present the candidate for the Distinguished Service Award.

Frank C. Adams, chairman of the convocations committee which is in charge of arrangements, said Edward V. Miles Jr. of the Department of Economics will receive an award for 45 years of service at Southern.

Other service awards: Forty Years: Dilla Hall, Department of Mathematics.

with an arc cut away at the bottom.

The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed. It has large bell-shaped sleeves with three velvet bars.

The color of the velvet edging of the hood shows the degree being received. The color of the hood's lining indicates the university conferring the degree.

All SIU faculty members above the rank of instructor are required to attend commencement exercises. Faculty members' costumes are more colorful and diversified because most are graduates of other universities, many of them foreign.

One of the most interesting graduation costumes at the SIU commencement is worn by Prof. Albert Bork, director of the Latin American Institute. Prof. Bork is a graduate of the University of Mexico. His gown has a cape in place of a hood. He wears a fez instead of a mortarboard.

The edging of President Delyte W. Morris' hood is black. The color of the lining identifies the University of Iowa. He also wears a bronze medalion signifying his position as president.

"Caps and gowns are outmoded," Graham admits. But he does not think the graduation ceremony would be the same if the costume were not worn. "The costume has a long heritage and tradition," he said.

Vote for Progress

Last in a Series

The city manager is efficient.

The city manager can save cities' money.

The city manager plan is the plan of the future.

The city manager plan means progress.

The city manager will work for the improvement of Carbondale.

The city manager plan means a better and bigger community tomorrow.

After carefully adding up these facts, Carbondale residents will want to run, not walk, to the polls to get such a plan started here.

But the proposal has yet to be brought to a vote.

It can be done fairly easily, though, if citizens who are interested in efficiency, sound government, effective use of city facilities and progress take action now to bring the measure before the voters. How can residents get the proposal on a ballot? First, a petition must be approved by the county judge. This petition must have a number of signatures equal to at least one-tenth of the total votes cast in the last mayoralty election.

After the judge approves the petition, the issue will be scheduled for a vote within 60 days or at the next general municipal election. While waiting for election day, residents favoring the plan should stage a massive campaign to explain the system to other voters.

True, getting a city manager plan measure passed will be no easy afternoon task. However, the results will far outweigh the trouble of bringing it to a vote.

When a city manager system is set up in Carbondale, the city will at long last be able to graduate from the horse and buggy era to the age of progress.

Once a capable city manager takes over city administration, Carbondale will be moving ahead. No longer will the city operate on a day-to-day basis. Plans for major improvements can be carried out with an eye to the future. The city manager will be better qualified to cope with the problems of a population explosion.

City councilmen will be able to devote most of their energies to making policy and planning Carbondale's future.

City departments will operate on a cooperative basis instead of each unit operating as an independent department.

Whether Carbondale gets these advantages is up to the voters.

When the proposal goes to the polls, vote yes.

Vote for progress.

Vote for Carbondale.

Vote for the city manager plan.

GOP Wrists Slapped For Passing Buck

As a member of the Mock Political Convention steering committee I would like to elaborate and reply to Mr. Kellems' letter (Democrats in GOP Disguise Brew Convention Confusion," May 28).

Mr. Kellems states that Lodge was nominated because "the 400-plus Goldwater delegates swung their support to Lodge (unrealistically, true) to prevent complete domination of the convention by Democrats." I would like to say that many of the Goldwater backers were Democrats.

However, we felt that to make the convention a success we should vote as our represented states were pledged. The reasons for the final change in votes were: (1) to stop Rockefeller and (2) after 14 hours at the podium Mr. Moore was ready to collapse.

I think Mr. Kellems has erred in his feelings. True, many delegates did not vote as their states will in July and surely the convention would have been more successful if all states had voted more realistically.

However, passing the blame to the Democrats is the wildest bit of propaganda used by Republicans since they labeled FDR a communist.

The list of "supposedly" pledged Republicans who did not vote for Sen. Goldwater on the first ballot because they were "liberals" would fill this column. The list of Republicans who made a farce of their states by switching their votes on each ballot and sometimes twice would fill a book.

Personally, I wouldn't vote for any of the men nominated, but for two days I was the most conservative Texas Republican at a convention has ever seen, and I must admit it was the most fun I've ever had.

If the Young Republicans are so sure the Democrats ruined SIU's convention, then I suggest that they have their own convention -- financed, planned and run without the help of Off-Campus Housing, the Administration, the Physical Plant and the Democrats!

Is Compulsory ROTC Really Worth Time, Money Involved?

Individuals such as Mr. Springer ("Old Fashioned Patriotism: Has It Died at Southern?" May 19) who are in, or plan to enter the advanced corps and who advocate compulsory ROTC usually support their stand with one or more of the following points.

"What better way to insure our freedom than Universal military training? My experience tells me there is no better way." If Springer considers two years of compulsory ROTC the best way to spend our defense dollar, he disagrees with the Department of Defense, the Pentagon and the SIU student body. There is some question among the above groups and a number of ROTC instructors on campus what value, if any, compulsory ROTC has. Does Springer really believe that six quarter hours of very general classroom work and two quarter hours of drill compensate us for the time spent and the Department of Defense for the money spent? I doubt it!

It is, of course, recognized that the military needs officers. It is also recognized that those people who wish to make the military, or any other legitimate field, their life's work have a right to expect their state supported university to offer them the needed training. I strongly advocate voluntary ROTC at SIU, but feel that compulsory ROTC is a waste of time and money.

Head Shape Theory Called 'Wrong on Every Point'

In his review of "Africa and Africans," (May 6) F.L. Masha states that author Paul Bohannan "challenges the science of phrenology in 'linking physical traits with mental ability.'" Phrenology, of course, is not a science except to a few cultists.

For all I know, phrenology may be something big among African cultists, but it surely isn't among anthropologists or psychologists. No reputable anthropologist should find it necessary to build up the myth that phrenology is a science in order to have a myth to challenge.

Bohannan's background is such that I find it difficult to believe that he believes that "phrenology" exists as a legitimate study whose effects must be countered.

If Bohannan seriously attacks "phrenology" in a work of this sort, he must be in his dotage. I hope he isn't, because he's only three years older than I! Does Bohannan actually use the word "phrenology," or does Masha use it while not knowing what it means?

R.G. Schipf
Science Librarian

Reviewer Masha quotes this passage from Africa and Africans, p. 73, paragraph 2:

"The science of phrenology" was also instrumental in spreading the idea of linking physical traits with mental ability. Phrenology held the stage for some decades, only to be proved wrong on every point. Unfortunately it too left a residue of prejudice from which anthropology was long in freeing itself: the idea that head shape was meaningful did not disappear until well into the twentieth century."

Philosophy for Forced ROTC: Take It, Make the Best of It

L. E. J.'s "ROTC Uber alles" (Ka, May 29) seems to me to have been thrown together by someone who is upset because he could not escape taking one of the University's requirements.

"The 'R' stands for required." In fact if he is truthful with himself he will have to admit that "College Education stands for required" in today's competitive society. I do not see any mention of his disgust towards himself, for he is to blame for his insipid attitude toward self-discipline.

The purpose here is definite. Somewhere these students who cannot stand to follow directions must learn that one cannot lead until he is able to follow. We are not born with an instinct to lead or follow. We must learn these; an organization based on leadership is a very good place to do so.

ROTC is what the individual makes it. If he carries a chip on his shoulder every Tuesday morning, or anytime for that matter, you can bet someone is going to take a swing at that chip. It isn't too much to ask to accept the fact that one has to take it and make the best of the situation. I'm sure that L.E.J. will find that he cannot avoid being confronted with unpleasantness. I'm sure that I would not want to, for it is an integral part of life.

Normal Service Hitch Extended By Added Obligation at School

Rumor has it that it is as futile to expect an end to compulsory ROTC as it is to look for the Old Main cannon to detonate spontaneously at high noon on Friday, but I believe that there are several sound reasons for discontinuing compulsory ROTC here. Such a program is objectionable because in effect it attaches a special military obligation to the privilege of getting a public education at the college level. In some states and localities education is now regarded as a right, and undoubtedly it will generally be recognized as such in the future. Once a state institution begins to make inordinate demands on citizens who wish to exercise a privilege, the intended spirit of the privilege is violated.

Secondly, compulsory ROTC results in discrimination by singling out a particular class of citizens--college freshmen and sophomores--and subjecting them to a period of military training beyond their normal military obligations under the Selective Service Act. Such a policy actually punishes merit: Those high school graduates with the ability and ambition to continue their formal education are precisely the ones who have an additional military obligation thrust upon them.

Finally, no one can deny that the SIU ROTC program for freshmen and sophomores is a form of compulsory military training. The fact that the program involves theoretical study of warfare rather than teaching the actual techniques of combat does not make it any the less compulsory or military oriented. Compulsory military training should be left to the armed forces, not the schools.

Voluntary ROTC Points Way To End of 'Long Khaki Line'

The office of president of the student body would seem to indicate a position attained by mature students--for the office carries a great responsibility--that of leadership. Two such leaders, Pat Micken, president-elect of the student body, and Dick Moore, president of the student body, have joined forces to shorten the "long khaki line" of SIU Air Force ROTC.

They are acting in response to the whim of the male students of Southern who desire this change. Messrs. Micken and Moore are allowing themselves to be swayed by immature public opinion in this matter. The easiest thing in the world is to give up; the hardest thing is to choose the responsible way. Voluntary ROTC is not the responsible way.

There is no substitute for victory. Allow this notion of voluntary ROTC to fan itself into a rampant, consuming fire and it will defeat itself. It is a short step from a voluntary ROTC to no ROTC.

There is too much concern (an excuse, really) for education among the male students to insure a continual sufficient number of volunteers. The solution lies in impressing the ideals of duty-honor-Southern upon the discontented; to clarify the responsibility of a diversified character in keeping with the ideal in time of need--soldier, statesman and citizen, and to strengthen individual pride of accepting and accomplishing any task regardless of the temporary sacrifice involved.

Cloture Filing Today, Vote Set for Tuesday

WASHINGTON—More than twice the number of senators necessary to force a vote on the question have signed a petition to close the Senate's marathon civil rights debate, which has lasted for 72 days.

The petition will be filed today and, under the rules, will come up for a vote Tuesday.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana appealed Friday to senators to sign the debate-limitation petition in order that "we may make as good a showing as possible."

The petition carried the signatures of 37 senators, compared to the 16 required by the rules to get the petition before the Senate.

The 37 signatures are far short of the two-thirds majority required to put the Senate's debate — limiting cloture rule in effect, but many senators who have not signed the petition have said they will vote for cloture.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader and floor manager of the bill, said he is reasonably optimistic that the Senate will vote to shut off the debate.

He said he expects all senators except Clair Engle, D-Calif., who has had two brain operations, to be on hand for the test.

Republican senators who have signed the petition are Dirksen, Kuchel, Case, Fong, Keating, Beall, Allott, Saltonstall, Cooper, Scott and Javits.

The Democratic signers: Mansfield, Humphrey, Brewster, Randolph, Muskie, Clark, McNamara, Ribicoff, Inouye, Douglas, Kennedy, Young, Dodd, Hart, Metcalf, Hartke, Moss, Morse, Jackson, McIntyre, Pastore, Pell, Nelson, Neuberger, Williams and Bayh.

Filing the petition today will automatically bring a vote on cloture one hour after the Senate meets on Tuesday.

Former SIU Alumni Director Placed on 2-Year Probation

CHICAGO - A former Southern Illinois University alumni director was placed on probation for two years Friday for securities law violations in promoting a Utah mining venture.

He is Wayne H. Mann, 42, who was convicted in U. S. District Court in March.

Judge Abraham L. Marovitz assessed the punishment on three of four counts of which Mann was convicted. The judge entered a verdict of acquittal on the fourth count and instructed the U. S. district attorney to drop the remaining six charges against Mann.

The indictment had accused Mann of 10 counts of mail fraud and failing to register securities with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Judge Marovitz sentenced Mann to two years' imprisonment and fined him $10,000 on each of the three counts, then suspended the sentence and ordered probation.

During the six-day trial the government charged Mann raised $187,000 from 55 Chicago area investors and spent $81,000 on himself.

Mann testified he had spent the money in developing mining claims in Kane County, Utah, and was indicted only because work was progressing slowly for lack of capital.

He said he still owns the claims and intends to pursue his mining venture. He declared the land contains titanium, zirconium and other Space Age metals.

3 Nations to Study Cambodia Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Security Council President Arsene Assouan Usher is expected to name Brazil, the Ivory Coast and Morocco to make an on-the-spot investigation of the border troubles between Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

Usher, the Ivory Coast's delegate, has held formal consultations with other council members on the make-up of the study group. But diplomatic sources said the three countries had been agreed on.

The council called for the study Thursday. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

BALTIMORE, Md.—A television station has quoted an aide to Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace as saying the governor will campaign for the presidency in at least eight Southern states.

Pathet Lao Attack Fails

VIENTIANE, Laos -- Communist Pathet Lao forces attacked a neutralist hill position Friday northwest of the Plaine des Jarres, but were beaten back, an army spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the target of the Red attack—first military action reported in the civil war in five days—was Phou Kout. The hill had been recaptured by neutralists last week.

The spokesman said the Pathet Lao were reported to have left 0 dead behind after seven hours of fighting. He gave no figure for neutralist casualties.
