S. Africa kills apartheid law

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — South Africa Monday scrapped the last of five major apartheid laws, ending most legally sanctioned segregation in the country after decades of racial discrimination.

The bill to abolish the Population Registration Act was passed in all three houses of Parliament, with only the right-wing white Conservative Party opposing it. The law had called for all South Africans to be registered at birth according to government definitions on race.

South African President Frederik de Klerk, addressing a joint session of all three houses of parliament said 1991 would go down in history as the year in which his country finally killed off apartheid.

"Now it belongs to history," he said.

"Now everyone is free of it."

South Africa's only major remaining vestige of institutional racism is the 1983 constitution, which gives blacks no representation in Parliament. Only whites, Asians and people of mixed race, known as coloreds, are represented in the national legislature.

De Klerk has pledged to change that, giving the country one-person, one-vote democracy for the first time. He has asked for patience from his black countrymen, arguing that the logistics and mechanisms of a new constitution will take time.

He told Parliament Monday that, "It has to be achieved by negotiation, and I want to say here today that it is within our reach within a few

Budget compromise step in right direction

A bridge across the state's budget gap has been offered, but whether it will hold any weight has yet to be seen.

Last week Illinois House Speaker Michael Madigan, D-Chicago, revealed a $384 million budget cutting plan considered a compromise to the $500 million in budget cuts Gov. Jim Edgar has proposed.

Everyone at the bargaining table cautioned the breakthrough was only a preliminary step that still leaves more than $600 million in cuts to be faced. State Rep. Larry Woolard, D-

Carterville, said both the governor and Legislature are aware the budget has to be balanced one way or another.

"We all feel the bottom line has to match, but the bottom line has changed," Woolard said.

State budget forecasters are predicting a further $98 million decline in state revenues when the fiscal year ends June 30.

Edgar's proposals won't cut the budget nearly as low as it has to be, Woolard said.

He said new areas must be found for cuts to help relieve the losses.

Expansion of nightclub considered

By Leslie Colp
Staff Writer

Carbondale Liquor Control Commission will consider an expansion for a nightclub on the Strip and a license for a new liquor store.

The commission will review plans for the expansion of Sidetrack's Inc., 101 W. College. The expansion would be to the east toward the railroad tracks and could increase the occupation capacity for the bar by about 50 to 75 people.

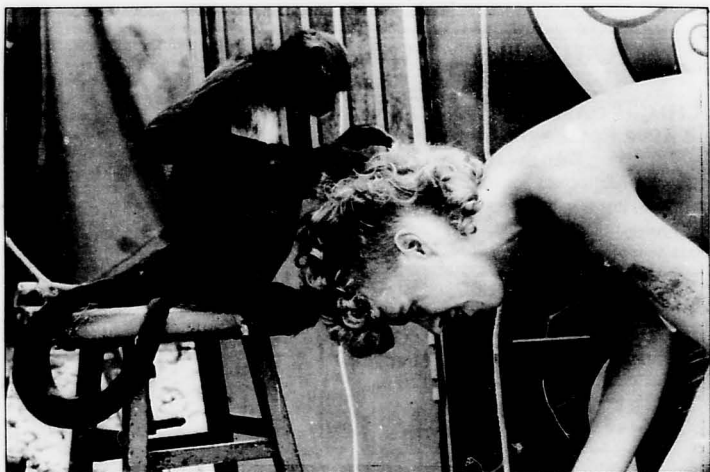

The group also will decide if Dennis Immen, owner of Murphy's Bar and Grill on East Walnut Street will be given a 1991-1992 license to open a liquor store on U.S. 51 south of Pleasant Hill Road.

Immen applied for and was refused a license from the Liquor Control Commission last summer. But the decision was reversed by the Illinois State Liquor Commission.

The City Council passed an ordinance Sept. 18 prohibiting the sale of alcohol in Carbondale south of Pleasant Hill Road because, according to the ordinance, Carbondale wants to preserve "the dignity and tranquility of certain areas."

A liquor license was granted, how-

Postal wages, automation up

By Leslie Colp
Staff Writer

In addition to receiving wage increases, United States postal workers have the stamp of approval to continue automating post offices.

An arbitration panel for the U.S. Postal Commission and the major postal unions Wednesday issued new contracts that outlined wage increases and allowed more flexibility in pursuing automation.

The wages increased 1.2 percent Friday and will increase 1.5 percent in November 1991, 1.5 percent in November 1992 and 1.6 percent in November 1993 for the 560,000 workers in the National Association of Letter Carriers and the American Postal Workers Union.

William Prewitt, Carbondale's superintendent of postal operations for mail processing, said all but 15 of Carbondale's 160 postal workers are affected by the wage increases. Those

Seven dead after chemical plant explosion

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — A "tremendous" explosion rocked a chemical plant Monday, killing seven people and injuring 26, officials said.

The afternoon explosion heavily damaged one building within the Albright-Wilson chemical plant complex, a county official said.

"It was a tremendous explosion," Charleston Police Maj. Edward Hethington said. "It blew out the walls and blew off the roof."

Cathy Haynes, deputy director of the Charleston County Emergency Management division, said the seven people killed worked for a sub-contractor of Albright-Wilson.

The sub-contractor was not identified. One of those killed was an employee of Albright-Wilson, Haynes said.

Haynes said the 26 injured suffered mostly minor burns and skin irritations.

The building, between two and three stories tall, had fiberglass siding and a tin roof and was "pretty much destroyed" in the blast, Haynes said.

Terry Martin, a spokesman for Albright-Wilson, said he did not know the cause of the explosion.

Stewart wins U.S. Open in playoff

CHASKA, Minn. (UPI) — Payne Stewart survived an 18-hole playoff with a 3-over-par 75 Monday to win the U.S. Open by two shots over Scott Simpson, whose game collapsed on the final three holes for the third straight day.

Stewart, winner of the 1989 PGA, went into the last three holes trailing by two shots. But he nailed an 8-iron over a tree on the 16th fairway to 20 feet and rolled the putt into the middle of the cup for a birdie-3.

"I finally made a birdie on 16, and that helps," Stewart said.

Simpson was also on in two, but he three-putted from 35 feet, missing a three-footer for par and dropping into a tie. That typified much of the round at Hazeltine National Golf Club, with the lead swinging between the two golfers.

On the 17th, Simpson bogeyed again, skipping his tee shot off the top of a bunker into a pond to the left of the green. He took a drop and recovered nicely, holing a 12-foot bogey putt. Stewart dropped his tee shot 20 feet from the flag and two-putted for par.

On the 18th, Stewart drove into a sand trap, and his second shot landed in greenside rough. He chipped to three feet and parred.

Simpson bogeyed that hole, too. He skipped his ball out of the bunker into the rough about 180 yards out. His approach rolled through the green into the rough.

His next shot was six feet past the hole. He missed the putt and took a bogey to finish with a 77 over the 7,149-yard course.

Stewart, in his trademark knickers and cap, won $235,000 in claiming the second major championship of the season. He pumped his arm when he knew victory was his. He tossed his ball to the gallery and embraced his wife and daughter.

Nominations accepted for Hall of Fame

By John Sommerhof
Staff Writer

SIUC Intercollegiate Athletics is accepting nominations for the Saluki Sports Hall of Fame until June 20.

Anyone can nominate a former athlete, faculty member, coach, staff or outstanding supporter of SIUC athletics.

"We very much want the public to be involved," said Mitch Parkinson, chairman of the Saluki Sports Hall of Fame. "Anyone they feel is especially deserving can be nominated."

The committee consists of 12 members, four coaches, two SIUC employees, four members of the community and two chairmen of the Saluki Hall of Fame.

"The selection committee will remain anonymous to avoid pressure by other people about the selection," Parkinson said.

The selection committee will choose a maximum of three women and three men to join the ranks of those already chosen for the Hall of Fame.

The member's pictures hang on the walls of the south side of the Student Center.

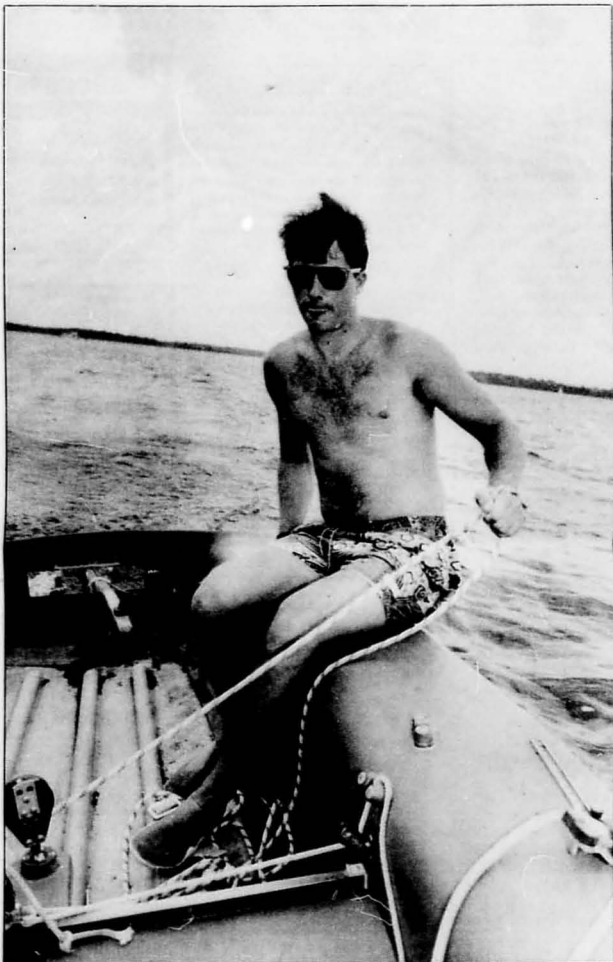

Seymour Bryson is president of the Saluki Sport Hall of Fame and an inductee to the Saluki Sports Hall of Fame for basketball from 1955 to 1959.

"It's very gratifying and feels good to know that you were thought of as the best in your sport," Bryson said.

"It is a great honor to be considered for the Hall of Fame and an even greater honor to be inducted," he said.

This year's nominees will include Petra "Pistol Pete" Jackson. Jackson played for the Women's Basketball team from 1982 to 1986. She was the

SIUC volleyball gets new leader

By Rob Neff
Staff Writer

Sonya Locke is back at SIUC to break some records—this time as a coach.

The SIU Hall of Famer has returned to the women's volleyball program as head coach.

"I'm extremely excited to be back at SIUC as a coach.

"I'm a little overwhelmed right now by all I have to do, but once I get settled I'll be ready to go," she said.

Locke officially returned as head coach June 1, more than a year after she left SIUC to coach at Kankakee Community College and serve as the school's fitness center director.

"Whenever you have an opportunity to step up, you want to take it," she said. "I'm just glad it was at Southern. I have a very strong loyalty to SIUC."

Locke replaced Patti Hagemeyer, who left in April to coach at Kansas State University after coaching at SIUC for two years.

Locke is no stranger to SIUC volleyball.

With the exception of her year in Kankakee, she has been involved with the SIUC volleyball program since she graduated in 1983.

Upon graduation, Locke served six years as an assistant to coach Debbie Hunter and spent one year on Hagemeyer's staff before leaving SIUC in March of 1990.

During her playing career at Southern, Locke was a four-year starter on teams that averaged 23 wins a season.

Locke still holds five school records, including a career marks percentage of .320, 135 block solos and 331 block assists.

She also is SIUC's No. 2 all-time kill leader, with 1147 kills.

"We worked very hard on being a team," Locke said of her playing years. "We knew we accomplished things as a team."

Last season, her Kankakee team took second place at the NJCAA Region 4 tournament and finished the season with a 35-5 record.

Charlotte West, SIUC associate athletic director, said she expects Locke as coach to lead the team to success.

"I'm looking at success right from the start," she said about Locke. "We were 12 and 17 last season. I'm looking for her to improve on that. It'll be a real test for her."

Locke also is looking for improvement in a big way.

She plans to take SIUC to the Gateway Conference Championships this year before Southern moves into the Missouri Valley Conference.

"This is the last year for it, and it's never been done here. I want to be at least in that match," she said.

Officials step up evacuation of Americans in Philippines

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — U.S. officials stepped up the evacuation of American military dependents from the Philippines Monday by shipping out more than 5,000 of the family members from a zone ravaged by a smoldering volcano that has killed more than 100 people. The Red Cross said 101 people had been killed by Mount Pinatubo since it sprang to life June 9 after lying dormant since 1380. News reports put the death toll at 170, with many victims killed when roofs collapsed under the weight of rain-soaked volcanic ash. The dead included the 12-year-old daughter of a U.S. airman. Except for minor tremors, Mount Pinatubo appeared to have calmed down after a weekend.

Experimental drug promising for stopping AIDS

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — An experimental vaccine appears promising for halting the destruction of the immune system in patients infected with the AIDS virus, a controversial French scientist said Monday. "We have had a clinical benefit, that's for sure," said Dr. Daniel Zagury at the 7th International Conference on AIDS. "But we don't have a cure against AIDS. We have to be optimistic, but we don't want to offer false hope." The vaccine, made from a version of the AIDS virus altered to prevent it from reproducing and to neutralize an immune system chemical, appeared to halt the destruction of key immune system cells in six infected patients, Zagury said.

President of Brazil visits U.S. to discuss debts

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Brazilian President Fernando Collor de Mello flew to Washington Monday for a five-day visit that will be highlighted by discussions on renegotiating his country's foreign debt of over $122 billion. Collor is scheduled to begin his round of talks Tuesday morning with a meeting with President Bush in the White House. He is to meet later Tuesday with U.S. Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady, Treasury undersecretary David Mulford, and the heads of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund. Discussing relations Sunday with the United States, Collor said, "We are going to leave behind the amateurish and romantic phase and enter a professional and pragmatic phase."

Superpowers favor treaty to cut nuclear arsenals

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI) — President Bush placed the superpowers closer to a summer summit Monday on the basis of a "very positive" Soviet response over the weekend on how to wrap up a treaty to cut strategic nuclear arsenals. With final snags in the arms talks holding up plans for a summit, Bush disclosed that a letter from Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev had left him "a little more optimistic" about prospects for a breakthrough. While he would not characterize the remaining problems as "wide differences," he did say they "are fairly difficult." After nine years, he said, the issues have been reduced to "some very fine points of arms control."

Officials test Denny's food to find source of salmonella

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Health officials Monday tested samples of food taken from a Denny's restaurant located next to White Oaks Mall in Springfield to try to pinpoint the source of a salmonella bacteria that has felled at least eight people. City Public Health Director Brian Letourneau said the restaurant was shut down Saturday as a result of the contamination. He expected the closing to last at least a week. Eight people, including three restaurant employees, were sickened after eating or handling food at the Denny's on the city's west side. Letourneau said several of those who became ill had eaten turkey at the restaurant. Twenty to 30 more people called the Health Department Monday morning.

SIUC painter shows work in Art Alley

By Allan Towell
Staff Writer

For one SIUC painter, art for art's sake takes a back seat to the messages communicated in his work.

Najjar Musawwir, senior in fine arts, currently has a fifteen-piece exhibit on display in Art Alley on the second floor of the Student Center. Musawwir, a "mixed media" painter, works with a variety of materials, from watercolors and oils to clay newspaper and magazine clippings.

Newspaper and magazine clippings are used to construct collages.

Musawwir refers to himself as an "art activist." He said he keeps active in all aspects of the art community, rather than solely concentrating on his work.

"I try to take a very active role in the art community. I see myself as a spokesman," he said. "I feel it's important for artists to speak out about the things they see as being helpful or detrimental to the art community."

Musawwir's exhibit shows the artist's tendency to dabble in a number of styles. Musawwir said he purposely avoids painting in one identifiable style to keep each piece "fresh" and the message unique.

"As an artist, I try to focus more on what the piece I'm creating will say to people than on the mechanics of the piece itself," Musawwir said. "I use various media to transmit messages in my work."

For example, "Moral Destruction," a piece Musawwir worked on with Malaysian international student Hasnul Saidon, employs oil painting, clay, rocks, barbed wire and a number of other media.

Musawwir said with this creation, they were trying to show how the forces of industrialization and greed have contributed to the oppression of the human spirit.

"Although Hasnul is from Malaysia and I'm American, we were able to collaborate on this piece, and to find common ground in identifying some of the greatest obstacles to the freedom of the human soul," he said. "I feel that making this sort of statement is the most important contribution of art to a society."

Musawwir and friend Abdul Haqq manage the Fareedah Arts Center in Carbondale, located on the corner of Marion and Oak streets. Musawwir works with community youths, introducing them to artistic techniques and encouraging them to learn to express themselves creatively.

"I enjoy being involved in all aspects of the art community. Working with children and encouraging them to create is the best way to ensure a healthy artistic future for the region," he said.

Musawwir sells commissioned works and some exhibit pieces. His painting "Reflection" won honorable mention in this year's Student Center Purchase Award.

His work will be on display in Art Alley through the end of June.

Students, faculty helped by day-care

By Christiann Baxter
Staff Writer

Affordable day-care is the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow for SIUC students, faculty and staff with children.

Rainbow's End is a child development center sponsored by the Undergraduate Student Organization.

Its services are for SIUC students, faculty and staff with children from six weeks to 10 years old.

The center has programs for infants, toddlers, preschools, and 5-year-olds.

A before and after school program also is offered.

A staff of nine professional day-care workers provides the care, said Cheryl Walton, director of Rainbow's End.

The majority of the staff have four-year degrees in a child-related field, such as elementary education, she said.

Fees for the day-care are decided on a sliding scale, Walton said.

A student or faculty member who makes less than $15,000 will pay on the lower end of the scale, she said.

On the average, people on the low end of the scale pay about $40 a week for pre-school care and about $45 for infants and toddlers.

Rainbow's End developed from a parent co-op, Walton said.

Student parents arranged a schedule for watching each other's children while the parents were in class.

A professional staff was brought in about 12 years ago to provide the day-care, she said.

Rainbow's End has an outdoor play area and a gym with bicycles, mats and climbing equipment, Walton said.

Learning centers, including blocks, arts, dramatic play and reading also are part of the program. "Kids make their choices and can go freely among the different areas," Walton said.

Senior citizens are a part of the children's activities at Rainbow's End.

Once a week a group of 10 children go to the Adult Day Care Elder-Wise center in Carbondale to interact with the senior citizens.

Liz Schill, director of Adult Day Care Elder-Wise, said the children and seniors participate in many activities, from making fruit salad to arts and crafts.

"It's wonderful for the elderly to have the young ones come and visit, because they have such enthusiasm," Schill said.

The children also benefit from the contact, Walton said.

"A lot of them are away from their grandparents," she said.

"This gives them a chance to interact with elderly people."

The visits to Elder-Wise lead the children to talking about the life cycle and what happens when people get older, she said.

Linda Smith, a graduate student in communication disorders, has a 10-month-old daughter in Rainbow's End.

The food the center provides for the food and the 3-1 staff/child ratio in the infant program are commendable features of Rainbow's End, she said.

"We're comfortable with the people who work there," Smith said.

"They're caring, and they seem to be really interested in the development of the child."

Rainbow's End currently has 89 children enrolled.

Usually about 69 are enrolled during the fall and spring semesters.

The center, located at 925 S. Giant City Road, is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. every day the University is in session.

Back taxes do not mean loss of dollars

A report stating Illinois residents and businesses owe the state nearly $1.1 billion in taxes is enough to make conscientious citizens, who pay their taxes as soon as the bill comes, a little hot under the collar. What came next was enough to shoot them to the moon.

According to the report from the Illinois Office of the Auditor General, an estimated 80 percent of these unpaid taxes, equivalent to $868 million, would be impossible to collect because of inadequate systems and records at the Department of Revenue.

Before half the state goes into orbit, though, the Auditor General's report needs some clarifying. The outlook isn't as bad as it sounds.

First, for all the people who think they are the only ones actually paying their taxes, the Department of Revenue collects $99.18 of every $100 dollars owed to the state. Taking into account the large amounts of money being discussed this is a good figure, even better than the collection percentage of the Internal Revenue Service.

Second, the $1.1 billion in uncollected state taxes has been building up during the last 20 years. Half of the uncollected taxes are more than three years old. Death of the taxpayer, military service, bankruptcy and protest of tax assessment are among the reasons these taxes have not been collected.

The department's processing time also attributes to bloating the state's back tax figure. Even after taxes have been paid the processing time can vary from 11 to 338 days, causing the uncollected tax figure to appear larger than it is.

Third, interest and penalties for these back taxes are figured into the state's $1.1 billion figure. If the state is having difficulties collecting the original debt, adding to this amount only decreases the likelihood of collection.

These points in favor of the department's work are not meant to lull taxpayers to sleep. The Auditor General's report did contain some valid criticisms of departmental procedures. Chief among these is the five, incompatible tax reporting systems and the unclear criteria for writing off uncollectible taxes.

Along with the criticism came recommendations for fixing the problems. But more importantly, the department was receptive to both criticism and recommendation.

No time given to save landmark

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the Carbondale City Council on their victory yesterday in the destruction of one of Southern Illinois valuable landmarks, the Franklin Hotel. I am sure they will reap great rewards, if not just in dollars, then in the satisfaction of having destroyed the oldest building in their community; a building that was able to survive since 1857, 134 years of fires, floods, tornados, earthquakes, etc., but not the wrath of the politicians of Carbondale in 1991. What a victory.

I do understand why the Carbondale City Council worked so hard to have the building destroyed. After all, this building saw history being made, men like Abraham Lincoln and every president since come and go, it watched soldiers of the Civil War, Spanish American War, World Wars I and II march before it and rest in it. This hotel that welcomed settlers to our part of the country was in bad shape and, like all things old must be buried, after all, if it is old and in bad shape it is no longer worthy of our time and effort. In this case something useful must be done, knock it down and make a pretty parking lot or something great like this—good thinking!

I feel it is very strange how much more rapidly the City Council moved on the destruction after the news media and area politicians on the federal level started asking questions and looking into the plight of the hotel. No more questions now. My wife was surprised, as she has been trying to save the building and understood it would not be destroyed until the end of June or beginning of July. She felt there may have been a chance to save the building and its' history for our children and grandchildren to benefit from. I was not surprised. I felt the issue was getting too much attention and, like anyone fearing public opinion, the City Council destroyed the building as soon as possible to have a victory without too much trouble. Please always remember this would not have happened so easily if there had been time to get the people who create city politicians involved and made aware of what was taking place. So, good move—no time, no problem.

Well, goodbye to the Franklin Hotel and its history and good luck to you on your political careers. It was a hollow victory at best.—Floyd J. Teltor, Buncombe.

Discrimination found in SIUC housing regulation

I am writing about SIUC's regulation requiring unmarried freshman and sophomores under 21 to live in University housing or with their parents. This regulation discriminates against the poor who cannot afford to live in residence halls. Many must live cheaper than SIUC housing allows. The regulation discriminates against people wishing to stay single. A person only has to find a willing mate and purchase a marriage license to dodge this regulation. This regulation also discriminates against gays and lesbians because they cannot legally marry. If a homosexual couple under 21 wished to live together, go to college, and start their lives elsewhere than residence halls, SIUC would not let them because they could not be legally married. It is as if SIUC is saying it is wrong for an unmarried couple under 21 to live together. SIUC claims the regulation is based on studies that say living in a residence hall improves chances of graduation and contributes to "personal growth and learning." SIUC assumes students' needs and development are the same. It assumes that students are incapable of deciding which form of habitation is appropriate. I was planning to attend SIUC in fall, but because of this regulation I am postponing my education until I am 21 or perhaps permanently. Please express your opinions to President Guyon.—David Hunkeshne and Michelle Douglas, Poplar Bluff, MO.

Education has been mentioned several times as a possible source for cuts.

The budget proposed by Edgar issues no cuts for higher education and a $50 million increase for grades elementary education.

"The governor believes it would be short-sighted to cut aid from education," said spokesman Mike Lawrence.

That proposal passed the Illinois Senate by a narrow 31-27 vote, but faces tough opposition in the House.

Although education will remain a priority for both himself and the state, Woodard said the budget must be looked at seriously and no area is safe from cuts.

Madigan eased his position on where money from the temporary income surcharge would go if the tax is made permanent, saying he might consider shifting some of the revenue away from schools and local governments.

The income tax surcharge goes partly to the Education Assistance Fund and partly to local government spending. The surcharge provided SIU with $7.8 million in fiscal year 1991 and $111.2 million for higher education in Illinois.

SIU Vice Chancellor for Administration Thomas Britton said shifting money away from education is a matter of great concern for the University, but until more information is made public it would be premature to speculate on the effects.

"At this point and time any movement in Springfield that will extend the surcharge we view as positive," Britton said.

ever, after Judge J. Phil Gilbert ruled Jan. 22 the city had no reason to deny the license, but the commission will decide if Immen is to receive a license for 1991 and 1992.

John Ham, owner of Saluki Laundromat on U.S. Highway 51 south of Carbondale, also wanted to open a liquor store in the same area, but his case has yet to be heard by the Liquor Advisory Board before it can be considered by the Liquor Control Commission.

Prior to the commission meeting, the City Council will consider a request from the Station Carbondale Restoration Committee to use part of Town Square July 4 for Independence Day activities and vote to approve Sunny Acres East Subdivision.

Gilbert Bolen, chairman of the Station Carbondale Restoration Committee, said the Independence Day celebration, if approved, is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. and continue into the afternoon at the Town Square.

The celebration will feature addresses by U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville; Carbondale Mayor Neil Dillard and City Manager Steve Hoffner. There also will be a flag raising and a flyby from Scott Air Force Base. Bolen said he has not yet been notified what type of airplanes will be sent.

The event will act as a fundraiser for the restoration of the passenger depot on Town Square. Barbecue pork sandwiches, hot dogs, pies, T-shirts and caps will be sold.

Bolen said he would like to see this become an annual event because the first train came into Carbondale July 4, 1854.

The council also will consider the approval of plans for a subdivision east of Giant City Road and north of East Walnut Street. The land is zoned for planned business.

workers handle about 7.5 million pieces of mail each month — all by hand.

"We're still in the planning stages (for automation)," he said. "But it definitely will have an impact on Carbondale."

Automation could include putting bar codes on envelopes so a machine could read it and speed up the time it takes to send mail.

NALC officials reported the contract will give the average letter carrier $4,291 in additional gross wages over the next 3 1/2 years.

Richard Watkins, spokesman for the United States Postal Service, St. Louis Division, said automation for individual post offices will vary.

"Automation is an ongoing process," he said. "We want to put it where it makes the most sense."

A written statement from Anthony M. Frank, postmaster general of the United States, said "clearly, automation is going to change somewhat the character of the work our people do, but our hope always has been that we can make this transition without the layoffs, furloughs and other employee impacts that have plagued so much of the public and private sector in recent years."

Watkins said automation in St. Louis has reached about 50 percent, and the goal is to have bar codes on all pieces of mail by 1995 to reach full automation.

"Any time you have people touch a piece of mail, it costs money," he said.

years." De Klerk called on the Parliament to talk like an organization which really believes in negotiation and is committed to it."

After parliament's abolition of the Population Registration Act, de Klerk said, "Everybody is liberated from the moral dilemma caused by this legislation, which was born and nurtured under different circumstances in a departed era."

"Today the vast majority of our population is rejoicing," the president said.

"They are rejoicing because they know there is no turning back. They are rejoicing because they see that we keep our word and fulfill our promises."

Registration under the Population Registration Act of 1950, a cornerstone of apartheid enforcement, effectively determined the rights and privileges of each citizen for the rest of their lives — where they could live, whom they could marry, even what public transport they could use.

De Klerk's reforming National Party has already abolished all the country's other major race laws — The Immorality Act, the Land Acts, the Group Areas Act and the Separate Amenities Act.

John Kane-Berman, the director of South Africa's Institute of Race Relations, hailed the abolition of the last legal pillar of apartheid and called for the rapid lifting of global economic sanctions against his country.

"Sanctions will now operate as one of the main impediments to speedily getting rid of the backlogs and inequalities that apartheid has created," Kane-Berman said.

Reaction from the Bush administration was for the most part positive.

In Los Angeles, President Bush said U.S. officials would analyze the development carefully to determine its effect on the future of U.S. sanctions.

His national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, called the action a "major step" toward dismantling apartheid, but said South Africa's continued imprisonment of political prisoners remains the biggest and perhaps final obstacle to any lifting or modification of those sanctions.

Thinking camps

Gifted teen-agers to attend special learning session at SIUC

By Christine Leninger
Staff Writer

For the next two weeks, gifted students will be challenged to excel at SIUC.

The Challenge to Excellence is a residential camp for gifted students in junior high and high school.

The students are split into two one-week sessions. The first week is for junior high students, while the second week is for high school students.

Don Elmore, a sophomore at the Illinois Math and Science Academy, is returning to the Challenge for the fourth year.

"The classes teach you different ways of looking at things — they give you a new perspective," Elmore said.

"Throughout the years I've been going to the camp, I've met different people that you don't get to see during the school year.

"The camp gives you a chance to see those people and to meet new people from the same academic background but different social backgrounds."

Gifted students gain valuable experiences they can't get from the schools they attend during the school year.

John McIntyre professor in the Department of Curriculum and Instruction, said students who attend the program "realize that it is all right to be smart."

"They also receive the knowledge of what college is like, and what they have to look forward to," McIntyre said.

"Some campers even return to SIUC when it comes time to go to college."

Students were picked from schools in Illinois, Kentucky, and Missouri for participation in the camp according to Student Achievement scores and the results of an IQ test.

Seventy-five students participate each week.

Roughly 60 percent of all who applied were accepted.

The students stay in residence halls at Thompson Point where they are supervised by camp counselors and resident assistants.

During their stay at SIUC, campers take three classes.

They may choose from a list of six, which includes aquatic biology, architecture, creative writing, math, drama and a class called open forum, a discussion of recent social issues.

Elmore said open forum is a new class, and students were asked on the application to name topics to discuss.

"In past years I've heard of people discussing ways of housing the homeless in other creative thinking classes," he said.

The classes are taught by area teachers and SIUC teaching assistants.

Various SIUC faculty also may participate.

All classes are based on the student's decision-making skills, and McIntyre said the classes are geared toward "learning through discovery."

The remainder of the daytime is spent taking field trips around campus and inside campus buildings where students may interact with SIUC faculty.

The evenings are spent at the Recreation Center or watching free movies at the Student Center. One night the campers will put on their own talent show.

The camp originated in 1984 as the brainchild of McIntyre and then-director of the Gifted Area Service Center Glenn Poshard.

Then it was funded by the State Board of Education.

In 1985, the funds for the camp were diverted to public schools, but local teachers and various SIUC faculty decided the program was too good to let die.

It soon was adopted by SIUC, which continued it each year since 1986.

It is the teachers' receptiveness to the students that keeps many of them coming back year after year, McIntyre said.

"I have found that some of the professors and teaching assistants keep in touch with campers after they have gone from the program," he said.

Although the program is offered only during the summer session, McIntyre said he has received many positive comments about the campers' experiences.

"Many campers see that although facilities may not be at their particular school, there is something special in other schools for them," he said.

SIUC sponsors the event, which runs from June 17 to June 28.

A television producer at SIUC has won a Fulbright grant to teach radio-television production to students in Guatemala.

He will teach television and some radio courses at Rafael

"Guatemala in general has some very fine television production facilities, but it also has some very pathetic ones," Bell said before he left.

Bell earned bachelor's and master's degrees from Murray State University.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Bell, live in Hickory, Ky.

Costner plays Robin Hood, steals first slot at box office

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Kevin Costner, still riding the crest of the wave generated by "Dances With Wolves," took his surfer-talking "Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves" into a comfortable first place slot at the box office during the Friday-through-Sunday weekend.

The action-adventure film, which cost Warner Bros. an epic $50 million to make, sold $25.6 million in tickets at 2,369 theaters over the weekend, far outpacing No. 2 "City Slickers," which generated $11.3 million on 2,001 screens in North America after debuting in the top slot last week.

A lot of critics panned "Robin Hood," which takes the legend of the Sherwood Forest guerrilla band and blends in some New Age mysticism and modern-day lingo, but negative reviews in New York, Los Angeles and Chicago newspapers did little to cut into the lines of people waiting to see Costner's merry men.

Warner Bros. introduced the film with an intensive marketing campaign, hoping to repeat the successful strategy that launched "Batman" in 1989 with a record $41 million Friday-through-Sunday weekend on its way to making $251 million at the box office.

"Dances With Wolves," Costner's critically acclaimed mega-hit, has grossed more than $173 million domestically, so far.

"Robin Hood" is opening in a tepid summer at the box office. "City Slickers," the Columbia cowboy comedy which debuted last week, earned an adequate $11.3 million on 2,001 screens over the weekend, with other films in the top 10 also posting numbers that don't add up to blockbuster status.

With "Robin Hood" in the No. 1 slot and "City Slickers" in second, The Ron Howard film "Backdraft" moved into third position.

"Backdraft," which played to mixed reviews, held the top spot for two weeks before dropping behind "City Slickers," and now occupies third place. The firefighting drama made $5.2 million for Universal at 1,983 movie houses in North America over three days.

Cutting plan to be discussed

Shawnee National Forest Service to have four open houses

By Jennifer Kuller
Staff Writer

The Shawnee National Forest Service will have four open houses to inform the public of a proposed amendment to the Forest's Land and Resource Management Plan.

The proposed amendment to the Forest Plan addresses issues such as biological diversity, forest fragmentation, timber sales, streamside and wetland ecosystems, all-terrain vehicle use, oil and gas exploration, tourism, economic development and wilderness, said Tom Hagerty, a spokesman for the Forest Service.

The open houses will provide an opportunity for people to discuss the proposed forest plan with Forest Service employees, Hagerty said.

Rodney K. Sallee, supervisor of the Shawnee National Forest, expressed similar sentiments.

"We want people to have all the information they need for understanding forest management and developing written comments that will help us decide on a final revised Forest Plan," Sallee said.

The open houses will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on June 24 at the Jonesboro Ranger District, 521 N. Main St. in Jonesboro; 7 to 9 p.m. on June 24 at the Vienna Ranger District, U.S. Highway 45, north of Vienna; 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on June 25 at the Murphysboro Ranger District, Route 13, west of Murphysboro; and 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on July 24 at the Elizabethtown Ranger District, Route 146, northeast of Elizabethtown.

The Forest Service also has scheduled four public informational meetings from 7 to 9 p.m. on July 2 at these locations: Southeastern Illinois College cafeteria, U.S. Highway 13, east of Harrisburg; Sunshine Inn, 400 S. Main, Anna; Hardin County Courthouse Courtroom in Elizabethtown; and Murphysboro Junior High School auditorium.

Sam Emmons, planning staff officer for the Forest Service, said he believes the open houses will provide people with an explanation of the plan.

"We hope that people will look over the proposed plan and come to the open house with any questions they might have," Emmons said.

An environmental impact statement explaining five management alternatives and copies of the proposed plan amendment are available from the Forest Service and at several local libraries, including Carbondale Public Library, 405 W. Main.

Public comment on the proposed plan is very important to the Forest Service, Emmons said.

"People will have a lot of impact on the final plan," Emmons said. "One of the main things that influences us in the planning process is knowing what people desire from their national forest."

A team of Forest Service employees reviews the public comments and decides if they are already covered in the proposed plan, or whether they should make a change in the plan, Emmons said.

Written comments should be sent to the Forest Supervisor, Shawnee National Forest, 901 S. Commercial St., Harrisburg, 62946, and postmarked no later than Aug. 15.

A decision on the final amended Forest Plan is expected in December 1991, Hagerty said.

Arts in Celebration wins Governor's Home Town Award

A thousand points of light have been recognized in Carbondale.

"Arts in Celebration," a two-week art celebration with arts and crafts booths and hands-on children's activities, won second place in the Governor's Home Town Award.

The Governor's Home Town Award is Jim Edgar's effort to help fulfill President Bush's goal of encouraging people to become more involved in their community. The award recognizes the contributions of volunteers in Illinois.

About 400 to 500 volunteers worked for nearly 500 hours in the activities. Gayle Klam, coordinator for "Arts in Celebration," said some volunteers worked six hours a day for a year.

"We're thrilled that all of the volunteers have been recognized," Klam said.

Klam said the celebration always will be a massive volunteer effort that brings together the university and non-university community.

British sprinting star knocks U.S. ruling on track waiver

LONDON (UPI) — British sprint star Linford Christie Monday assailed U.S. track authorities for allowing Butch Reynolds to compete at the U.S. Championships while under an international drug ban.

"I think that's diabolical," said Christie, a 100-meter silver medalist at the Seoul Olympics. "The state of the sport at the moment is disgraceful. Sometimes I'm just embarrassed to be among these people, and I'm glad I'm near the end of my career and not starting it."

The Athletics Congress, the U.S. governing body of track and field, has flouted the sport's international ruling body, the International Amateur Athletic Federation, by sanctioning Reynolds' return.

TAC says there is substantial evidence to show that the positive test drug attributed to Reynolds after a meet in Monaco last year came from someone other than the world record-holder at 400 meters.

But the IAAF, which banned Reynolds for two years, insists the Americans' action in allowing him to run in their national championships last week was "unlawful" under IAAF rules. It warned that all U.S. athletes could be barred from the World Championships.

Wimbledon draw stirs tennis stars

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Nine-time champion Martina Navratilova was relegated to the No. 4 spot Monday when officials of the All England Lawn Tennis Championships released the seeds for Wimbledon.

Club officials stuck strictly to the world rankings in determining the seeds even though Navratilova is the defending champion and is acknowledged as perhaps the finest woman's player ever on grass.

Monica Seles, the current French and Australian champion who is ranked No. 1 in the world, was seeded first although she has yet to prove she can adapt her baseline game to grass. Seles herself said she didn't think she was ready to win Wimbledon this year.

Former champion Steffi Graf is the second seed, and Argentina's Gabriela Sabatini, the U.S. Open champion, is third. The championships begin their two-week run next Monday.

Navratilova has extra reason to feel slighted, particularly since she won the Dow Classic at Birmingham, England, Sunday, indicating that at 34 she still is supreme on grass. Most of the top women have said recently they would not be surprised or upset if Navratilova was top seed.

Zina Garrison, who beat both Seles and Graf on her way to the final last year, may also feel that being seeded eighth this year is hardly justice.

Among the men, the faint-hearted Wimbledon officials placed Andre Agassi as the fifth seed. Agassi is a colorful character and a great player on clay and cement, as he has proved in reaching the finals of the French Open twice and the U.S. Open once in the past 13 months.

But he has only played at Wimbledon once, in 1987, when he was knocked out in the first round. He hasn't played any grass court tournaments before Wimbledon. The probability is that he could again be an early casualty.

Other seedings which might have been different if they were based on grass court form are American Michael Chang (seeded ninth), Spaniard Emilio Sanchez (11th), Soviet Andrei Cherkasov (12th) and Czechoslovak Karel Novacek (14th). All four are noted clay court players.

Chang, at least, has reached the last 16 twice at Wimbledon but Sanchez has been knocked out early in three of his four previous attempts and did not play in either 1989 or last year.

Jett lets the wind take over as it catches a sail of one of 12 boats the University Club owns.

"You get away from everything in society out here," he says from the boat on the lake. "It's just you and Mother Nature."

Jett and members of the Sailing Club are offering free sailing lessons to SIUC students and community members again next weekend at Crab Orchard Lake.

The club of both students and community members meets most weekends throughout the summer to sail on Crab Orchard.

Lynn Bosek, treasurer of the club, said she didn't know how to sail before joining the club.

But she isn't alone.

Member Grant Hicks said 90 percent of the club's members have never sailed before they joined.

Bosek said it doesn't take much to convince prospective members to join.

"For me, it started out as a class project," she said. "But just learning how to sail was convincing enough to join."

The cost to join the club is $25 for students and $35 for non-students.

Jett said once members pass a written and practical examination and obtain a license, they have free access to the club's boats and windsurfers.

Dawn Marie Ahlberg, a junior in dental hygiene from Bolingbrook, took advantage of the club's free lessons Saturday.

Ahlberg said sailing looks more complicated than it really is.

"This is my first summer down here and with nothing to do I decided to give sailing a shot," she said. "I'm glad I did."

The SIUC Adventure Resource Center in cooperation with the Sailing Club will transport students to Crab Orchard next weekend.

The club will offer lessons from 12 to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

It's an experience which far too few students take advantage of, Bosek said.

"But once they do," she said, "most of them are hooked"—hooked to an experience Jett finds hard to put into words as the boat sails past an island of trees toward shore.

FAME, from Page 12

SIUC No. 3 all-time scorer with 1475 points and an All-Gateway Conference pick for two years.

The Women's tennis coach, Judy Auld, also has been nominated.

Men's tennis coach Dick Lefevre is a nominee.

"It is quite flattering to be nominated to be included into such a distinguished group," he said.

The Saluki Sports Hall of Fame has 134 members, 45 of whom are women.

The majority of the inductees have been members of the SIUC football team.

Notable members of the Saluki Sports Hall of Fame include St. Louis Cardinal quarterback Jim Hart and New York Knicks star Walt Frazier.

Nominations may be mailed to Mitchell Parkinson, Athletics-Arena, SIUC, Carbondale, IL 62901.

Coroner rules on jockey death

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI) — Lute Proctor, one of the leading quarter horse riders on the West Coast, died from a crushed chest during his weekend spill at Bay Meadows Race Track.

Hugh Swaney, an investigator for the San Mateo County coroner's office, said Monday the 22-year-old rider also suffered lacerations of the lungs and heart when he was trampled.
