By Jeremy Finley
Administration Writer

SIUC deans are facing faculty cutbacks, leaving them with classes that do not have instructors.

John Jackson, dean of the college of liberal arts, said his college, like the other colleges on campus, is faced with the problem of excess student enrollment in classes, with no professors to teach the classes.

Jackson said term faculty, faculty who usually work for only a year, and graduate students have been hired to teach classes usually handled by professors.

If help is not received from the budget, classes will have to be cut, Jackson said.

"I have a number of fall classes with students enrolled with no faculty to teach them," he said.

The classes in COLA with unfilled teaching positions include general education classes and department major classes, Jackson said.

Jackson said class cutbacks will not harm the academic reputation of SIUC, because other universities are having the same problem.

"SIUC is facing the same problems that every other higher education facility in the state," he said. "At the University of Illinois, classes with 1,000 to 2,000 students enrolled in them are already being cut. SIUC is not near that."

James Tweedy, dean of the college of agriculture, said he believes the college will be able to keep classes, but not without some

Pettit takes job at U of Pennsylvania

By William Ragan
City Writer

Former SIU chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit has been appointed as the president of Indiana University of Pennsylvania, effective Aug. 1.

Pettit was selected by the IUP search committee and the Council of Trustees, who reviewed more than 100 candidates for the position.

Lawrence K. Pettit

Dixon, Jr. said Pettit's experience at SIU and his high-profile work with universities in four states was the main factor in the selection.

"Dr. Pettit brings to IUP outstanding leadership experience and a superior knowledge of public higher education," Dixon said. "He is an excellent addition to IUP and to the entire State System management team."

State System Chancellor James H. McCormick said Pettit has an innate knowledge of the workings of higher education.

"Pettit understands the importance of providing students with a sound education while

Former dean accused of sexual harrassment

By Christine Leninger
Special Assignment Writer

The former dean of SIUC's College of Communication and Fine Arts has been accused of sexual harassment by two former secretaries at the University of Wisconsin at Stevens Point in a case that could redefine the current terms of sexual harassment.

Keith Sanders, chancellor of UWSP, has been accused of pressuring civil service employees in his office to keep an alleged extramarital affair a secret.

Sanders says the accusations are "without merit," and "every effort was made to establish a positive working environment for Patricia Erdman and Jean Sindorf," the two university employees who filed the charges.

Erdman and Sindorf stated in a report to the Wisconsin State Personnel Commission that Sanders had an affair that created a hostile work environment for them because mail he had received was of an explicit nature Sindorf also claimed

Bush signs $1 billion emergency aid agreement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush Monday signed the $1.1 billion emergency assistance bill to aid riot-torn Los Angeles and flood-ravaged Chicago and other inner cities, and to fund summer jobs for youths in big cities.

The Dire Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for the 1992 fiscal year was signed in a Rose Garden ceremony where congressional leaders were hastily gathered.

The legislation was approved 249-168 by the House and then passed by the Senate last week on a voice vote after yielding to the administration's refusal to provide $2 billion for the aid program.

In his remarks, Bush acknowledged that he "turned aside efforts by Congress to spend more," saying, "The urgent need is to provide for fundamental change...hope and opportunity for the people in the inner city. These supplemental funds are only a beginning for 'the New America Plan."

The act replenishes funds for disaster programs of the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the Small Business Administration, which will be used to provide disaster-affected individuals and families with temporary housing and grants to repair and replace their property damaged in the calamities.

The act also provides for:

—$300 million for FEMA disaster assistance.

—$500 million for the summer youth jobs program, under the Labor Department, which is expected to provide 414,000 jobs with funding to begin immediately.

—$143.8 million for SBA

Burnin' rubber

Jim Swain of Paducah, Ky., leaves rubber in the burn-out competition. Swain took first place with his 1970 Chevelle Sunday afternoon. See story, page 8.

No. 1 seeds Courier, Seles advance

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Jim Courier anchored his bid for the third leg of the Grand Slam Monday with a straight-sets victory over Germany's Markus Zöcke at the $8.2 million Wimbledon Championships.

Halfway to a Grand Slam with victories at the Australian and French Opens, Courier won 6-2, 6-3, 6-3 in a 1-hour, 52-minute match filled with blistering exchanges.

"He has a very big serve, but I felt very confident getting on the return and I was on stride all the way," Courier said. "I couldn't envisage a better start."

Courier, the top seed, stretched his winning streak to 24 matches, including 14 straight in Grand Slam play.

Edberg strolls to second round at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Stefan Edberg, his superb volley game in fine form, strolled into the second round of the Wimbledon Championships Monday with a clinical 6-1, 6-3, 6-0 dismissal of American Steve Bryan.

Edberg, the No. 2 seed and titlist in 1988 and 1990, barely broke a sweat as he brushed aside Bryan, a former NCAA champion who was making his debut at the famous grass courts.

"That was quite good, I think.

"That was a reasonable match for me," said Edberg, who was defeated last week on grass at the Queen's tournament in London by Japan's Shuzo Matsuoka.

"Serving was okay. There was just a little patch in the second set where I lost rhythm a little bit."

"Apart from that though, it was quite good, because it's not that easy first day on grass.

"I think I'm playing a little better than I did at Queen's. I feel a bit more comfortable and things are going to be different here," he added.

Edberg began his match with an ace against the 20-year-old Texan, and breezed through the first set.

Jimmy Connors, the oldest player in the draw at 39, made his Wimbledon exit before barely getting a chance to say hello. The two-time Wimbledon champion fell to Luis Herrera of Mexico, 6-2, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Tyson's rape victim files suit, seeks unspecified damages

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The beauty contestant whose rape charge sent Mike Tyson to prison filed a civil suit Monday against the former heavyweight champion, seeking an unspecified amount of money for her pain and suffering.

Tyson's lawyer called the action a "phony lawsuit by a phony plaintiff" and said these proceedings will finally vindicate his client.

Attorneys Thonia Withrow and B. Keith Shake filed the suit in federal court in Indianapolis on behalf of Desiree Washington, 18, of Coventry, R.I., a Black Miss America contestant when she was raped, in association with her Boston lawyers.

"Ms. Washington decided to bring this case only after much soul searching," said her Boston attorney, Deval Patrick. "She wants to put this sordid episode behind her and move on with her life, but 'the glib, disrespectful and remorseless attitude of Mr. Tyson keeps staring back at her.'"

Alan Dershowitz, Tyson's lawyer, says the lawsuit exposes Washington's real motives.

"(The suit) proves what we've been saying from the very beginning — that this case was always about money," Dershowitz said from Boston. "This is about a greedy young woman who is trying to parlay a false accusation into punitive damages and a large bank account."

"We're delighted with the opportunity to get her on a deposition at this point."

Stuart named All-American

By Jay Reed
Sports Writer

SIUC track and cross country captain Mark Stuart worked hard on the books and on the track.

For his achievements he was named to the GTE Academic All-American At-Large first team.

Stuart, along with 14 other athletes, was selected from over 300 nominations. The Maceo, Ky., native graduated this fall in electrical engineering from SIUC with a 3.97 grade-point average. He was the only athlete from an Illinois university or the Missouri Valley Conference to be chosen for the honor.

Stuart felt a key was his strong commitment to succeed.

"Both academics and athletics were based on strict discipline," he said. "They were my two priorities and they fed on one another."

Stuart was a Missouri Valley all-conference selection the past two seasons while captaining the Salukis to 1991-1992 Missouri Valley team titles in cross country, indoor and outdoor track. Stuart was voted SIUC's Outstanding Male Student-Athlete in 1991 and 1992.

Stuart had the best time for the Salukis this year in the 3,000 and 5,000 meter run in both the indoor and outdoor track seasons. He finished first for SIUC and fourth in the conference in the 8 kilometers at the Missouri Valley Outdoor Track and Field Championships in November.

Stuart said that Track Coach Bill Cornell was a big reason that he was able to juggle the the responsibilities.

"Coach Cornell stressed academics very early in his talks with us," he said. "He stresses no. 1, academics; no. 2, athletics and no. 3, social life. He says that athletes often tend to switch those priorities around."

"My academic background at SIUC was high quality, and my instructors were very understanding of my athletic situation," said Stuart.

Stuart is employed as a technical engineer by Kentucky Utilities in Danville, Ky.

The tent-dwellers, who have been protesting alleged anti-communist bias on the Commonwealth of Independent States television channel Ostankino, were evicted from their encampment.

VIOLENCE CONTINUES IN SOUTH AFRICA—Thirty-five people were killed in a black township outside Johannesburg, and the government Thursday blamed the African National Congress for creating an atmosphere conducive to such bloodshed. The attack was carried out late Wednesday by about 200 black men armed with long knives and firearms who descended on Biopatong, an ANC stronghold 37 miles south of Johannesburg, police spokesman Capt. Piet van Venter said.

SERBIANS ATTACK SARAJEVO—Serbian gunners killed at least five people and injured 55 Monday when two shells exploded in the capital's main street near a crowd waiting to fill buckets from a water truck, doctors and witnesses said. At least six other people died and more than 50 were wounded elsewhere in the city by the dozens of rounds fired from hilltop positions of the Yugoslav army, Serbian Democratic Party, police said.

CLINTON OUTLINES ECONOMIC PLAN—Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton Monday told the U.S. Conference of Mayors that his economic plan reflects many of the group's own fiscal recommendations for the federal government. The Democratic presidential candidate also said that, if he is elected, he will trim the White House staff by 25 percent. Clinton outlined his economic plan to cut the federal deficit in half by cutting wasteful government spending.

DISCRIMINATION CASE REACHES SETTLEMENT—Attorneys representing the owners of a demolished Chicago Heights apartment complex and the town's former mayor and other city officials have reached an out-of-court settlement of their lawsuit. A federal court jury last week found former Mayor Charles Panici and city officials engaged in a racially motivated plot to demolish the 160-unit Sunset Apartments, owned by Donald Crotty and Donald Schak.

SEARS AUTO REPS LOSE COMMISSION PAY—Sears Roebuck and Co., took auto service advisers off commission and put them on salary Monday to eliminate any potential motivation to sell customers unnecessary repairs. He said Sears' auto centers experienced a 15 percent drop in the 10 days since California authorities announced they had found systematic overcharging at the auto shops and would seek to revoke Sears' license to perform auto repairs.

Street Machine Nationals hosts well-behaved crowds

By John McCadd
Police Writer

Du Quoin police say the crowd at the Street Machine Nationals this year was "unusually well behaved."

Police departments reported 420 related arrests in the Perry County area, down from expected totals of 500 to 600.

Illinois State Police District 13 Captain William Powers said because of minor changes over the years, the number of arrests were fewer than in the past.

"We didn't have any major problems with the crowds," he said. "At 2:30 a.m., after the crowds had left, it looked like any other Saturday evening."

The Illinois State Police reported 282 arrests during the weekend—124 were for illegal transportation of alcohol and eight were for driving under the influence, Powers said.

"We expect a large number of alcohol arrests at these kinds of events," he said. "The largest problem comes from overindulgence. This year we were pleased that we could control it and nothing happened out of the ordinary."

Powers said previous problems with traffic were nearly eliminated by a police-devised pattern that only permitted one-way traffic on main streets surrounding the fairgrounds.

"It was a better situation than we've had in the past," he said. "There were no back-ups or delays. The new system allowed people to come in quickly and enjoy themselves and go back home without having to wait."

Du Quoin Police Chief Kenneth DeMent said in the past, problems rarely have occurred on the fairgrounds and most changes to control the crowds were aimed at the nighttime party-goers.

One of these changes was a camping restriction at a lot near the Southtown Mall where several alcohol-related arrests occurred in the past.

"We didn't have the camping problems we had last year," Powers said. "As a matter of fact, there wasn't anybody in the Southtown parking lot this year."

Perry County Police Lt. Earl Overton said the large police presence was the determining factor of crowd control.

"Everyone was unusually well behaved," he said.

Two University vice president positions merge

By Rebecca Campbell
General Assignment Writer

Two University vice president positions are being merged in an effort to keep administrative costs from increasing, said SIUC President John C. Guyon.

The duties formerly under the jurisdiction of Vice President for Campus Services, Clarence G. Dougherty, and interim Vice President for Financial Affairs, William S. Capie, will be combined under the new title of vice president for administration.

Agriculture Dean James Tweedy will take over the new position Aug. 1, subject to the approval of the SIUC Board of Trustees.

Dougherty is retiring, and Capie will return to his position as the University's personnel director.

Tweedy is capable of carrying the responsibilities of the new position, Dougherty said.

"(Tweedy) is a very capable man, which he has proven in the past," he said. "He's a very good choice."

Tweedy said one of the many challenges he will face is merging the two areas into a single, efficient functioning unit.

Tweedy came to SIUC in 1966 as an assistant professor in plant industries and was promoted to professor seven years later. His administrative duties began in 1974 when he became the assistant dean for research in the School of Agriculture.

Tweedy went on to become the assistant vice president for academic affairs and research, then took over as associate dean in the School of Agriculture. In 1986, he became the dean of agriculture. The School of Agriculture gained college status while he was dean.

Guyon said Tweedy will bring a full range of experiences to his job.

Tweedy and his wife, Mary, live in Cobden. They have two children.

Students could learn from Du Quoin party

THE 1992 ANNUAL STREET Machine Nationals in Du Quoin ended Sunday without a bang.

Authorities said the event, which drew more than 106,000 visitors, was the least problematic of any in the last 16 years.

Minor accidents, 124 citations for illegal transportation of alcohol and some screeching of tires were among the activities for which local police issued tickets and citations during the weekend.

SIUC STUDENTS COULD LEARN A lesson in civics from the visitors of the event, who cruised, had fun and guzzled beer in much the same fashion as crowds did at Carbondale's past celebrations, yet mostly kept their cool, knowing the difference between a good time and a riot.

THE EVENT WAS FIVE TIMES the size of SIUC's Springfest party, but streets were not taken, beer cans were not thrown and cars were not burned.

MUCH OF THE CREDIT for the success of the Street Machine Nationals should go to Du Quoin city and law enforcement officials, who took measures to keep the crowd under control and prevent disturbances that had marred the event in previous years.

Traffic was re-routed and specific areas were designated for alcohol consumption. Camping in one of the town's parking lots, which had created problems in previous years, was forbidden.

The result was a mostly peaceful celebration, where people were considerate enough to let others enjoy the party.

THAT IS WHY THE STREET Machine Nationals will return to Du Quoin in 1993, but students will not see another Springfest at SIUC.

Giving blood worth donors time, effort

IT ONLY TAKES HALF AN hour, but spending some time giving blood might save a life.

The Red Cross is holding a blood drive this week to make up for the shortages the summer season brings to its blood reserves.

AT A TIME WHEN more Americans are on vacation and spending time outdoors, the number of traffic, sports and farm injuries, and the demand for blood dramatically increases.

At the same time, the number of donors in university campuses goes down.

SIUC STUDENTS, FACULTY and staff can lend a hand by giving a pint to help alleviate this shortage.

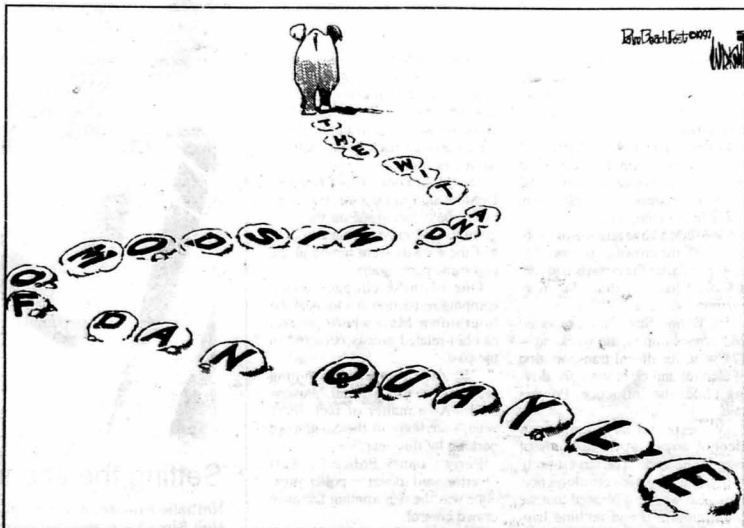

The American Red Cross' efforts to provide relief for those in need deserve the time it takes to get a pinch in the arm.

Sanctity of law ends at border

By David J. Scheffer
Los Angeles Times News Service

Kidnapping, torture, murder. All of these crimes were committed against Drug Enforcement Administration agent Enrique Camarena Salazar in Mexico seven years ago.

Last week the U.S. Supreme Court delivered an outrageous judgment that undermined the very principles for which Camarena died.

Writing for the majority, Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist would have us believe that the U.S. government can pay Mexican thugs to kidnap a Mexican doctor in Mexico—without the Mexican government's knowledge or consent—and dump him across the U.S. border to stand trial for the crimes committed against Camarena on Mexican soil. No matter that an extradition treaty between the United States and Mexico requires due process of law.

Rehnquist has stripped the treaty of all meaning by arguing that it does not explicitly prohibit kidnapping a suspect from one country to face charges in the other.

The court's tortured reasoning would verge on the comical if it were not so devastating to this country's reputation as the citadel of law.

No matter either that common sense had earlier prevailed in the federal courts in California.

The U.S. 9th Circuit understood that international law is not an empty shell, that the U.S.-Mexico extradition treaty is part of the law of this land, and that the DEA-arranged abduction of Dr. Humberto Alvarez Machain violated the most fundamental purposes of the treaty.

So, if the beating of Rodney King and the acquittal of the police officers still shocks you, the Rehnquist opinion will only compound your bewilderment.

In effect, the Supreme Court has given the green light to U.S. authorities to commit crimes in other countries in the name of enforcing U.S. statutes.

In a stinging dissent joined by Justices Harry A. Blackmun and Sandra Day O'Connor, Justice John Paul Stevens wrote that courts "throughout the civilized world will be deeply disturbed by (this) monstrous decision...."

The consequences are dreadful. The Lone Rangers of the DEA have long been frustrated by foreign corruption and ineptitude.

Now cooperation between U.S. and Mexican authorities has collapsed, and enforcement of drug laws won't be the only victim. Unilateral expeditions ultimately invite lawlessness of all sorts.

The court, prodded by the Bush Department of Justice, has undermined U.S. interests in the free-trade agreement being negotiated with Mexico.

This decision gives Mexico leverage to use drug-enforcement cooperation as a bargaining chip in exchange for U.S. trade concessions.

Other countries may now consider it entirely appropriate to kidnap U.S. citizens on U.S. territory in order to stand trial in their courts for violations of their laws.

If the rule of law was a pillar of President Bush's "new world order," it is no more.

Attorney General William P. Barr, who in 1989 authored the secret legal opinions that set the stage for Alvarez Machain's abduction, can now sponsor such vigilante tactics without fear of judicial scrutiny.

There are two ways to blunt the Supreme Court's miscarriage of international justice.

The president can issue an executive order prohibiting forcible abductions on foreign soil without the consent of the foreign government.

Alternatively, Congress has the power, granted in the Constitution, to "make Rules concerning Captures on Land and Water." Given the Supreme Court's disdain for international law veto-proof majorities in Congress should enact a statute clearly prohibiting such egregious behavior by or at the behest of any U.S. official. The Bush administration will have only itself to blame for the inconvenience.

Student worker upset over cuts in job hours

I have worked for the physical plant as a student worker on the grounds crew for almost four years. Over breaks, we usually have worked 36 hours a week—until this last inter-session.

The physical plant neglected to let us know that they were cutting our hours to 20 a week until the week after finals, but by then it was too late to find another job. The plant also continued to hire more students instead of giving the ones who have worked there more hours. What is the difference between hiring more students who can work 20 hours or giving us the hours that they would use?

Cutting our hours put a financial burden on my fellow student workers and me. We went from an expected income of about $600 a month to an income of $300 a month. I was wondering if whoever decided on these cuts could live on $300 a month. We have bills to pay, just like you.

Just this week, a new temporary was hired for the summer. I found out that he is the vice-chancellor's son. A temporary makes about three times more an hour than student workers and basically does the same work. Why couldn't they move up a student worker who has put in his share of labor and let the vice-chancellor's son start at student worker wages? It upsets my fellow student workers and me that the physical plant has no respect for us. — Robert Colvis, student worker maintaining quality and affordability in the process," McCormick said. "He possesses great insight into the dynamics of a public university system."

Since its creation in 1875, the IUP has become the fifth largest university in Pennsylvania and the largest in the State System. Its current enrollment exceeds 14,000 and includes students from every state and more than 60 countries.

Pettit served as chancellor of SIU from 1986 to 1991 and also has served as chancellor of the University System of South Texas.

He has held positions as deputy commissioner for academic programs at the Texas College and University System, Commissioner of Higher Education for the Montana University System and associate director of government relations for the American Council on Education, with which he currently is serving as senior fellow.

Pettit holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in history from the University of Montana. He earned a Master of Arts degree in political science from Washington University of St. Louis and a Doctor of Philosophy degree in political science from the University of Wisconsin.

He is active with the American Association of State Colleges and Universities and previously served on the Committee on International Programs, the Committee on State Relations and the Committee on Governance.

Other professional and community activities include serving as chair of the American Council of Education's Commission on Leadership, president of the National Association of System Heads and chair of the Illinois Council on Education and Economic Development.

Pettit's salary as chancellor of SIU was $122,584 a year.

disaster loans.

The act provides non-emergency supplemental funding for SBA's business loan program, the cost of which is fully offset.

The White House said the funds will provide up to $1.45 billion in loan guarantees for qualified small businesses. This additional funding will ensure that sufficient resources remain available for the remainder of fiscal year 1992.

The measure was put on a fast track to help Los Angeles recover from the riots that struck that city in late April, and for Chicago, where an underground flood caused major damage to the downtown area in mid-April.

The bill was almost derailed when Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., offered an amendment to add $50 million to make certain there is enough money to deal with disasters created by tornadoes that ripped through parts of Minnesota and other states.

Wellstone withdrew his amendment after receiving assurances from the agencies.

Hired-time professors have been paid instead of full-time professors, and other professors will take added classes to teach in order to keep classes, Tweedy said.

Juh Wah Chen, dean of engineering and technology, said the college has faced some difficulty because of the unfilled positions, but it is not a major problem.

"We have arranged for professors to teach more than they already do," Chen said. "I hope we do not have to cut any classes."

Gerald Stone, dean of communications and fine arts, said he is looking at retaining as many classes as offered last year.

"We lost faculty positions because of budget costs, but we have hired faculty to teach the classes for the expected large enrollment of students," Stone said. Increased enrollment could further burden the system.

John Haller, vice chancellor for academic affairs, said he foresees a great increase for freshman and undergraduates in the fall.

New freshman admissions will be well ahead of last year, Haller said.

Haller said there also will be an increase in transfer students.

"An added 800 to 900 transfer students are figured to come to SIUC in the fall," he said.

Jerre Pfaff, associate director of admissions and records, said SIUC has 11,000 freshman applications this year, compared to 10,000 last year.

"I expect around 200 more freshman on campus this year than last year," Pfaff said.

The 1991 fall semester was a record breaking enrollment year, with 24,869 students enrolled at SIUC.

Sanders relocated her office to an alleged "broom closet."

Jared Redfield, the attorney representing Erdman and Sindorf, declined to comment on the complaints.

Because sexual harassment and discrimination are new issues to the courts and are still being defined, it is not unusual for people to try to expand the definition to fit their cases, said Betsey Streeter, student's attorney with SIUC's Students Legal Assistance.

"Although I cannot predict the ladies' case will prevail, it is always possible they could win because there is usually some give in the statutes," Streeter said.

According to Wisconsin statute, any employer is forbidden from permitting sexual harassment to substantially interfere with an employee's work performance, or from creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work environment.

Sanders said the claims Erdman and Sindorf made will not be sustained in court.

"The work of the secretaries wasn't up to my standards after being at SIUC with the excellent support staff, so I had to get the secretaries to improve the quality of their work," Sanders said.

"There must be some financial motivation for these ladies because they both are retired," he said.

Pansy Jones, administrative assistant to the dean of CCFA, worked with Sanders when he was at SIUC, prior to accepting the position at UWSP.

Jones said she had not experienced any sort of sexual harassment or discrimination when she was Sanders' assistant.

"I feel bad about the allegations that have been made against Sanders, because I know nothing of the sort happened when he worked here," Jones said.

The allegations were two among nine reported at UWSP during the past year.

The Sanders case is pending before the Wisconsin State Personnel Commission where there will be a hearing to decide the case.

Pat Hodulik, senior assistant controller for the University of Wisconsin system, is representing the University in the allegations and said if the complaints were to reach court, the state's law would prevail.

"In defending the claims (legal counsel) will present them on the grounds that they do not present sexual harassment and age discrimination," Hodulik said.

Quayle: Perot will damage nation, federal agencies if elected president this year

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Vice President Dan Quayle on Monday portrayed undeclared independent candidate Ross Perot as a man with a penchant for snooping and implied the nation would be endangered if Perot had federal investigative agencies at his disposal.

"The Perot campaign is being exposed for what it is," Quayle told reporters at an airport news conference. "Look at recent revelations: He investigated (then) Vice President Bush's children, he's investigated his employees and former employees."

"Ross Perot has a compulsion for investigations," Quayle said. "Imagine him as President Perot with the power of the FBI, the CIA and the IRS."

Quayle said Bush campaign strategists initially considered the Texas billionaire a formidable opponent but he said recent news reports have exposed Perot as a temperamental leader.

Quayle arrived in Los Angeles Monday afternoon to promote President Bush's "Weed and Seed" urban renewal program, part of a $1 billion urban aid program that Bush signed earlier Monday. In his first stop in Los Angeles, Quayle tempered remarks he made earlier in the day in San Diego.

In an address to the National Sheriff's Association, Quayle took to task media giant Time Warner for releasing rapper Ice-T's "Coq Killer" recording.

"Let me reiterate how strongly I feel about one particular issue: it is wrong for a corporation like Time Warner to make money off a record that says it's OK to kill cops," Quayle told the law enforcement officers in San Diego.

"It is almost impossible to believe that the entertainment industry would produce something so revolting and outrageous," he said.

He cited the lyrics: "I got a twelve-gauge sawed I got my headlights turned off. I'm 'bout to bust some shots off. I'm 'bout to bust some cops off."

"Others have criticized the rap singer and rightly so," the vice president said, noting that Time Warner is a $30 billion corporation formed in a major merger.

Music camp emphasizes appreciation, techniques

By Ronn Byrd
Entertainment Writer

SIUC's 28th annual summer music camp offers high school and elementary students a chance to learn new skills.

The summer music camps are designed to give young music students specialized instruction in band, piano, guitar, orchestra and choral techniques. All camp workshops feature classes, small group work, live performances and student recitals.

Robert Weiss, assistant director of the School of Music, said the summer programs are very motivational.

"The students get to hear and play music they normally wouldn't," Weiss said. "Some of the students are from very fine programs, but some are from very small programs. They get to study with professional musicians and strong performers. It's a different experience and at the same time, if you talk to them, they'll tell you they enjoy being on the campus and their freedom."

Some of the programs offer a residential camp option that includes housing, meals and the use of campus facilities. The on campus housing option also includes supervised after-hours activities.

"They are free to use the facilities on campus," Weiss said. "They have to pay a small fee in addition to the tuition."

The camps are divided into weeks that cover each area of instruction of interest.

Art Schmittler, assistant camp director for the last 27 years, said the program was created because there was no music instruction in summer.

"We wanted to provide an opportunity for the students to have summer music experience on a college atmosphere and a chance to study music with the college staff."

The camps draw students not only from the Carbondale area, but much of Southern Illinois as well.

"A number of our presently enrolled students have gone through the program," Weiss said. "We have hundreds of students go through each summer, and we try to recruit the best of those students for the School of Music."

String Week runs June 21-26 and is open to both junior and senior high school students.

It features orchestra, chamber music, music theory and technique classes.

Junior High Band Week is June 21-26 and includes for its students band, master classes, music theory and technique classes.

The Composer's Workshop runs from July 5-11 and involves instruction in music theory, orchestration, improvisation and composition techniques designed to expand the creativity of young composers.

The workshop concludes with a public performance and a take-home recording of each student's work.

Senior High Week is from July 5-10 and has band programs for both concert and jazz band with classes in theory and technique.

Campers may enroll in a musical theater workshop featuring classes in vocal technique, staging and scenes.

The Weekend Instrumental Workshop is from July 11 to 13. It involves study for advanced high school students in trumpet, trombone, clarinet, flute and percussion.

Youth Band Week I and II runs from July 13-18 and July 20-25 are both open to students in grades four through six with at least half a year of band experience.

Classes involve three hours of instruction in technique, sectionals and recitals. Students can enroll for either week at $30 or both weeks for $50.

The two new offerings of the summer music camps are the Children's Choir Camp and the Beginning Guitar Camp, both from July 27-31.

The Children's Choir is for students entering grades 4-8 and includes handbells, Orff instruments movement and a keyboard lab.

The Guitar Camp is open to students 11 and older and covers chords, right-hand picking and song accompaniment techniques.

Tuition for the camps averages at $55 dollars and includes campus housing for 7n average of $100. Anyone wishing to sign up for the camps should contact Weiss at his School of Music office.

Schmittler said the music camps were beneficial because of the campus situation.

"They are actually experiencing music education in a college setting," Schmittler said. "If someone were to do a study of this camp, they would be amazed at how many of our students have become full-time SIUC students."

"A lot of them learn the basic music skills and they develop in their over all musicianship and appreciation for music."

Amtrak prepares for threatened union walkout, negotiations continue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiators for Amtrak and unions representing employees of the long-distance passenger train service met over the weekend and continued sessions Monday in an effort to avert a nationwide strike.

The rail service announced it is taking a number of actions to either cancel or curtail rail service to avoid stranding passengers, should a strike take place at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday.

A spokesman for Amtrak said it was his understanding that "some progress" had been made during weekend negotiations, but he added it was not enough by Monday morning to prevent a walkout.

Both sides agreed to meet in Washington Monday and Tuesday.

The talks have gone on for four years. Two cooling-off periods have been imposed by the Bush administration to avoid strikes, but a third, the last permitted by law, is running out.

There is concern in union circles that simultaneous strikes against Amtrak and by the International Association of Machinists union against Conrail, could disrupt not only passenger lines, but also freight lines across the country, triggering intervention by Congress.

A union source said more than 100 members of Congress have written letters to the parties involved, in effect, warning that they are reluctant to intervene because such an action would reduce the incentive to bargain in good faith. But picket lines by the machinists against Conrail and the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees against Amtrak could be honored by other unions at rail yards across the country.

The unions are asking for wage increases they say would make up a 12 percent difference between their wages and those of employees of freight companies.

Lawyer submits $3.8 million bid to rescue ailing UPI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A New York lawyer Monday outlined a $3.8 million rescue package for United Press International that he plans to submit to a bankruptcy court to acquire the ailing news agency.

Leon Charney told a news conference he will submit the bid at a hearing set for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday before U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Francis Conrad in New York.

London-based Middle East Broadcasting Centre Ltd. is expected to make a separate $3.5 million bid for the 85-year-old wire service at the hearing, which religious broadcaster Pat Robertson requested to force UPI to sell his name and some other assets for $500,000.

UPI is operating under Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection for the second time in seven years.

Charney reiterated that he and his acquisition group want to keep UPI running as a vital wire service, which he said his financial adviser told him would cost $2.3 million for the next six to seven months.

"We feel UPI should be kept alive," said the 53-year-old lawyer, who moderates and produces a public television show, on Middle Eastern affairs.

Charney said his plan is to create a corporation called "New UPI," purchase the news agency's assets for $600,000 and put up $3.2 million in capital to keep the company running. Charney already has given $180,000 in non-refundable money to UPI to keep operating while he reviewed its financial records during a 10-day period that expired at midnight Monday.

He also proposed giving 40 percent of the new corporation to the creditors, 7.5 percent to UPI employees free of charge or for a nominal fee and the rest to his group of partners.

"These are the broad strokes we will present to the court tomorrow," Charney said.

His plan to acquire and operate UPI must be approved by Conrad, the wire service and its unsecured creditors, who are owed some $60 million.

Street Machines scream into Du Quoin

By Norm Smyth
Sports Writer

The 16th annual Street Machine Nationals was a splash from the past as car enthusiasts came from all over the country to look at and show off their hot rods.

This year pulled in an estimated 3,500 more spectators than last year, said Chris Beechy, publicity manager of The Promotion Company.

The crowd of 106,025 beat last year's attendance of 102,543, but fell short of the 106,865 spectators attending the event in 1990.

Jason Kruse, a senior in art and design, said he was inspired by the range of vehicles he observed.

"I saw a lot of cars that were out of the ordinary, which is the main reason I came. I would like to start my own project and enter my car in the event in the future," he said.

Beechy said the crowd was well behaved and no incidents occurred on the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds.

"There were no problems on the grounds, and I think there wasn't many problems outside of the fairgrounds," he said.

Prizes were given away in the Street Machine Nationals Pro Competition. The competition is divided into three divisions: Pro Street, Pro Engineered and Pro Show.

Oldsmobile. A 1950 Buick owned by Troy Trepanier of Manteno, Ill., took home first place in the Pro Show competition.

The McCord Engine Building Competition was won by Ron Viccaro of the Alan Kulwicki Racing team. Viccaro assembled a Ford 5.0 liter engine in 49 minutes and 18 seconds defeating Tony Cola of Cale Yarborough Motorsports. Viccaro was 11 minutes off the record of 38 minutes and 22 seconds, held by Eddie Lanier of RCR Enterprises and Rick Wetzel of Hendrick Motorsports. The record was established in 1991 at the Hot Rod Super Nationals held in Canfield, Ohio.

Husband, wife team qualify in 400-meter hurdles

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Sandra Farmer-Patrick and David Patrick, the husband and wife who four years ago suffered bitter setbacks at the U.S. Olympic Trials, both qualified Sunday for the Barcelona Olympics in the 400-meter hurdles.

The Patricks competed in two of the finals held on the second day of the trials, which continued to be overshadowed by the Butch Reynolds' controversy.

Farmer-Patrick won the women's 400 hurdles in 53.62 seconds, the fastest time of the year and an Olympic Trials record. Moments later, her husband placed second in the men's 400 hurdles behind Kevin Young. Young's time of 47.89 was the fastest time of the year and Patrick ran a 47.89. McClinton Neal finished third in 48.52 to gain the final berth on the U.S. team.

"I told myself that if he makes the team it would make up for '88," said Farmer-Patrick, who burst into tears when her husband crossed the finish line.

In the 1988 trials, Farmer-Patrick ran out of her lane in the semifinal and was disqualified. He thought he had finished third and made the team, took a victory lap and then was told he finished fourth.

The 400-meter heats at the U.S. Olympic track and field trials were pushed back to Tuesday. Reynolds, who is fighting a two-year drug suspension, had been cleared to run after a Supreme Court ruling Saturday but U.S. track authorities were worried all runners who competed against Reynolds would be ruled ineligible for the Olympics. U. S. officials hope the International Amateur Athletic Federation will waive its rule preventing athletes from competing against suspended athletes.

Other winners were Jackie Joyner-Kersey in the women's heptathlon, Tetta Clark in the women's 800, Tom Pukstys in the men's javelin, Charlie Simpkins in the men's triple jump and Tim Bright in the men's pole vault.

Joyner-Kersey earned a berth on her third straight Olympic team. It was the first heptathlon she had entered since dropping out of the event in the World Championships in Tokyo last summer.

Joyner-Kersey, who earned a gold medal in 1988 and a silver in 1984, scored 6,695 points, far below her world record of 7,291. Runner up Cindy Greiner, with 6,223, earned her third trip to the Olympics and third-place Kym Carter made the Olympics for the first time with 6,200 points. On the second day of competition in the two-day heptathlon, Joyner-Kersey long jumped 22 feet-10 3/4 inches, threw the javelin 153-3, and ran the 800 in 2:32.53.

"I was glad it was over," said Joyner-Kersey, who had been given intravenous fluids Saturday because of dehydration from the scorching heat. "I just wanted to finish."

Joyner-Kersey will compete in the long jump and 100-meter hurdles Friday.

Clark was boxed in behind the leaders for much of the 800 but finally went by on the outside to qualify for her second Olympics with a personal best time of 1:58.47.

Reynolds' debate still rages

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Butch Reynolds' ongoing battle to qualify for the Olympics was delayed again Sunday when U.S. track authorities urged the sport's international ruling body to soften its stand against the 400-meter world record-holder.

The 400-meter heats at the U.S. Olympic track and field trials were pushed back to Tuesday. It is now expected that other runners in the 400 will not jeopardize their Olympic eligibility by competing against Reynolds.

Reynolds, who is fighting a two-year drug suspension, had been cleared to run after a Supreme Court ruling Saturday. He had planned to race Sunday in defiance of two sanctioning bodies — The Athletics Congress (United States) and the International Amateur Athletic Federation (international).

TAC, an arm of the IAAF, feared the United States would be without any 400-meter runners at next month's Barcelona Olympics if all were deemed ineligible.

Shortly before the 400-meter heats, TAC President Frank Greenberg called a news conference to explain the postponement.

He spoke on the telephone with IAAF President Primo Nebiolo in Italy before announcing the program change. Tuesday was originally an off day at the trials.

Greenberg said he told Nebiolo that TAC must follow the ruling of the Supreme Court. Greenberg also conferred with TAC Executive Director Ollan Cassell and Leroy Walker, the nominee for president of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Kite wins Open title, respect

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Tom Kite's windblown victory at the U.S. Open last Sunday brought him something money can't buy. And he knows that as well as anyone since he has the money to buy "most anything he wants."

By surviving some of the most difficult playing conditions in the history of the tournament, Kite won a lasting place in golf history as well as the respect of his fellow pros and fans.

When Kite's name is mentioned from this point forward, he will not be thought of as the person who won more money playing golf than any other in history. After all, his record in that department, which now stands at $7.5 million, will eventually be broken.

Instead, he will be remembered for one of best rounds of golf ever played.

The two previous U.S. Opens played at the Pebble Beach Golf Links produced heroic winners — Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson. And their efforts were punctuated by spectacular shots that have gone down in the game's lore.

Kite's win, however, will be recalled not so much for a single shot, even though his pitch shot that ran into the hole for a birdie at the par-3 seventh was a memorable one.

Olympic skater denies working for secret police

CHEMNITZ, Germany (UPI) — Olympic figure skating champion Katarina Witt said Monday she would take legal action if German newspapers did not withdraw claims she had worked for the East German secret police.

An article in Sunday's Dresden Morgenpost am Sonntag said Witt was provided Stasi with information about East German athletes from 1984 to 1989.

The paper also reported the former hard-line communist regime had compiled eight files containing 1,643 pages on the figure skater, a gold medalist in 1984 and 1988.

A German news agency said Monday that Witt instructed her Frankfurt lawyer Heinz Duex to seek an injunction if the papers did not withdraw their claims.

The papers quoted Witt as saying that she had been unable to evade the Stasi because of her trips to foreign countries but that she rejected an offer to become an informal member.

his indecisive volleying in the opening game, but was never under pressure thereafter.

The 21-year-old American started to unload his booming baseline returns to break Zoczek for a 2-0 lead. He double-faulted to face a break point in the seventh game but escaped trouble with a forehand pass down the line and then took the next game to wrap up the first set.

The next set followed an identical pattern with breaks in the second and eighth games, and another early break in the third was enough to send Courier into the second round against Zimbabwe's Byron Black.

Last year, Courier was eliminated in the Wimbledon quarterfinals. He says the grass courts at Wimbledon pose more problems than the hard courts at Melbourne and the slow red clay of Roland Garros in Paris.

Stuart joins Saluki football players Jon Manley and Dwayne Summers as first-team academic All-Americans.

Manley and Summers were named following the 1991 season.

Athletes must have a 3.2 grade point average and starter or key reserve status on their athletic team to be nominated. College sports information directors from around the country nominate athletes and vote on the award.

The GTE At-Large All-Americans team includes the sports of track, cross country, golf, gymnastics, ice hockey, lacrosse, riflery, skiing, soccer, swimming, tennis, volleyball, water polo, and wrestling.

NATIONALS, from page 8

The no-touch, burn-out competition was won by Jim Swain of Paducah, Ky., with a 1970 Chevelle.

The BF Goodrich T/A Tires Precision Driving Challenge had winners for each day. Greg Bouhl of Carbondale won Friday, Clinton Bland of O'Fallon won Saturday and John Vaughn of Du Quoin won Sunday.

Ern Placklock of Murphysboro took home the crown of Miss Street Machine Nationals. The runner-up was Tassia Reed of Johnston City, and second runner-up was Dianna Glenn of Mountain Grove, Mo.

Because there were few problems, the event likely will return to the Du Quoin State fairgrounds for its eighth straight year, Beechy said.

Orioles manager Oates claims Yankee pitcher scuffed balls

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Orioles Manager Johnny Oates said he will send "evidence" to the commissioner's office which he claims will prove that New York pitcher Tim Lincecum doctored the baseball in Sunday night's 8-2 Yankee win.

In the fifth inning of Sunday's game, Oates came on to the field with a ball that had been fouled into the Orioles' dugout.

He showed the ball to plate umpire Terry Craft and requested that he check Leary's glove and hand.

The umpires checked Leary's glove and hand but found nothing.

However, a television cameraman did spot Leary lifting the glove near his mouth and he was seen taking something out of his right hand and putting it back in his mouth.

Leary said he was simply wetting his fingers and has denied Oates' charges.

"I have five balls under lock and key and gave a sixth to Phillips (umpire crew chief Richie Phillips) that show a scuff mark in the same spot," said Oates.

Oates protested the game and was further angered because his catcher, Chris Hoiles, suffered a broken wrist when he was hit.
