Union head Fitzsimmons dies after 14-year term

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons, a high school dropout who ruled the nation's biggest union for the last 14 years, died Wednesday, several weeks after he was hospitalized for lung cancer. He was 73 and a month away from the end of his term.

Reports of Fitzsimmons' death came as the executive board of the 2-million-member union was meeting in Washington to consider a successor. Union sources said Roy Williams, head of the Central Conference of Teamsters in Kansas, is the front-runner.

Fitzsimmons had been hospitalized since Easter at the Scripps Clinic near here. He died about 11:10 a.m. CDT.

Funeral arrangements are pending and will be private, said a spokesman for the clinic.

Fitzsimmons died a month before his latest five-year term would have expired. Until his death, he had been saying through a spokesman that he intended to seek another term at the union's convention next month in Las Vegas, where some 2,000 delegates will elect top officers.

During Fitzsimmons' leadership, the federal government brought a civil suit against him and other former trustees of the Central States Pension Fund, alleging mismanagement of retirement money. That suit was filed by then-Labor Secretary Ray Marshall in February 1978.

Born in Jeanette, Pa., Fitzsimmons joined Teamsters Local 299 in Detroit in 1934. Jimmy Hoffa headed the local at the time and named Fitzsimmons the business agent in 1937.

In 1964, Hoffa was sentenced to 13 years in prison for jury tampering, fraud and conspiracy in connection with the use of union pension funds. He remained free for three years pending appeal.

Hoffa began serving his term in March 1967, and Fitzsimmons moved into the top job, although he had not been elected president.

Hoffa was pardoned Dec. 23, 1971, by President Richard Nixon with the stipulation he not be involved in union politics for 10 years.

Experts to speak

Coal topics highlight seminar

A seminar examining coal related topics such as production, marketing and use is scheduled for Friday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at Ballroom B of the Student Center.

Government and coal industry experts will speak at the seminar, sponsored by the Illinois Energy Resources Commission and SIU-C's Coal Extraction and Utilization Research Center.

The seminar will emphasize the role of government in developing coal resources, air pollution control technologies and fluidized bed combustion of coal.

State Sen. Kenneth V. Buzbee, D-59th, chairman of the Illinois Energy Resources Commission, will start the afternoon's activities at 1 p.m.

Immediately following Buzbee's talk, Richard J. Grant, supervisor of environmental affairs for Central Illinois Public Service Co., will discuss "Air Pollution Technologies and Associated Problems."

L. Erick Kanter, president of Energy Concepts Unlimited will speak at 1:30 p.m. on "The Image of the Coal Industry."

At 2 p.m. Gerald Peterson, general manager of Allis Chalmers' Coal Gasification Systems Operations division, will address "Pollution Control and the Combustion Process for Utility Size Operations."

Stance toughened on SIU-C pet rules

With a rabies quarantine still in effect for Jackson County, questions have arisen about pets on the SIU-C campus. Lt. Amos Covington of SIU-C Security said that all pets brought on campus should be attended and on leash at all times.

Covington said the only animal allowed in SIU-C buildings by a University regulation are "seeing-eye" dogs.

Pet owners are prohibited from bringing animals on campus without a leash and tying animals outside while entering a building also is forbidden, he said.

If Security discovers an animal on campus it will have the animal taken to the Humane Society by the Carbondale Animal Control Warden's office, Covington said. He said the owner of the animal would be charged for storing the pet.

Murphysboro had been under a rabies quarantine until last Friday because of the discovery of several rabid skunks.

SIU public broadcasting awaits cuts

Editor's note: This is the fourth part of a series examining the Radio-Television Department. This story deals with proposed federal cuts in the public broadcasting budget and the potential effects on SIU-C's public broadcasting.

By Liz Griffin
Staff Writer

IT'S BUDGET TIME again for public television. This year, instead of increases for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, the funding agency for public radio and television, the issue is how much to cut, when to cut, and where.

The budget bills are still in Congress and their full impact won't be felt until next year. But at SIU-C's Broadcast Service, headquarters for three public broadcasting stations, WSIU-TV, WSIU-FM, and WUSI-TV, in Olney, station managers are waiting to see where the budget ax will fall.

In Southern Illinois, over two million people could see and hear a change next year in public broadcasting.

IN HIS FISCAL 1982 budget, President Reagan requested a 25 percent cut in CPB funds, from $172 million to $129 million.

According to Ann Pincus, a spokesperson for National Public Radio, an arm of the CPB, the Senate Subcommittee on Telecommunications unanimously opposed this rescission about a month ago. The full Senate Appropriations Committee is expected to vote on the CPB budget this week.

Meanwhile, the House Appropriations Committee voted to leave the budget at $172 million, but it voted to rescind the 1983 budget and reduce it by $60 million—to $110 million.

By approving annual appropriations two years in advance, Congress provides insulation from political influence, besides allowing station managers time to plan how to spend their community service grants. Pincus said any rescissions would threaten the advanced funding concept.

Other bills in Congress would affect the 1984 budget, but even the most liberal bill would set the CPB's budget at $160 million, $12 million less than the 1982 budget.

CONGRESS IS ALSO revising the Department of Commerce's National Telecommunications Information Administration grant program for station equipment. Although Reagan's budget called for the rescission of NTIA's entire $25.7 million budget, the House Appropriations Committee voted last week for a $12.85 million budget, and the Senate's State, Justice and Commerce Appropriations Subcommittee voted Tuesday for a $21.7 million budget.

Ken Garry, director of development for the Broadcast Service, said he is encouraged by Congress' move to cut some of NTIA's budget instead of all of it.

He estimated that WSIU-TV's $248,663 NTIA grant proposal, with a matching fund of $203,453 for a switcher, a telecine camera, and four helican scan tape machines, has a 20 percent chance of being funded this year, because the request for replacement equipment is low on the list of grant priorities.

"It's the only remaining federal source of monies for public production equipment," said Garry.

HE SAID THAT since the NTIA equipment grant program was started in the early 1970s, the Broadcast Service has been upgrading its equipment. The first grant of about $100,000 expanded WSIU-TV's broadcasting radius from 60 to 70 miles and changed it from mono sound to stereo. Last year's NTIA grant helped buy a transmitter antenna for WUSI-TV, he said.

Of the equipment to be replaced, Garry said, "Does it work? Yeah, probably. But is it reliable? No. There would be a very visible improvement in the local production technique and the cost effectiveness because every time you have to stop and re-do something, it costs more."

Jimmy Moore, director of the Broadcast Service, said that if the NTIA grant is withheld, WSIU-TV would still operate, but it would operate at a less efficient level than if it had the new equipment.

"We have our share of technical problems. In practice, 15 years is a long lifetime for a piece of electronic equipment and 20 years is an eternity," Moore said of WSIU-TV's broadcasting equipment.

GARRY SAID THE equipment that needs to be replaced was bought between the late 1960s to mid-1970s.

Jerry Parks, business manager of the Broadcast Service, said that since the lion's share of CPB's community service grants go to the Public Broadcasting Service, cutbacks on PBS programs are likely.

"Between the CPB and the PBS, they give you most of your money and they take back over half of it in membership dues and programs," Parks said.

Britain airlifts crack troops, fearing renewed IRA violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Britain airlifted 600 troops of the crack Royal Welsh battalion to Northern Ireland Wednesday to strengthen security in case new violence breaks out in the troubled province when hunger striker Bobby Sands is buried.

Throughout the day, Roman Catholic mourners filed past Sands' open oak coffin, flanked by two masked IRA honor guards in the living room of his home.

The Royal Welsh troops flew from a Royal Air Force base in Oxfordshire Wednesday evening, in advance of Sands' Roman Catholic funeral Mass and Irish Republican Army burial Thursday.

Sands' coffin was being moved Wednesday night from his family's home in the Catholic Twinbrook area to his church, nearby St. Luke's.

Thousands of Catholics were expected to turn out for the burial of Sands, 27, who died at 7:17 p.m. CDT Monday on the 66th day of a hunger strike aimed at forcing Britain to grant political status to IRA prisoners.

Sands' imprisoned comrades vowed to follow him to their deaths if necessary in the war of wills with the British government, according to a statement issued by Sinn Fein, the political front of the mainly Catholic IRA.

A Defense Ministry spokesman in London said the troop reinforcements called for by Ulster army commander Gen. Sir Richard Lawson, were "a precautionary measure" to back up the 11,100 British soldiers already in the province.

It was the first time Britain sent reinforcements to the province since the summer of 1978, following a wave of bombings on British army barracks in the province during a widespread surge of violence.

Except for scattered stone-throwing in Catholic areas of Belfast, police reported the city relatively calm after an eruption of gasoline-bomb throwing overnight. There also was rioting overnight in Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second major city, and Dublin, capital of the neighboring Republic of Ireland.

21 killed in military jet explosion

WALKERSVILLE, Md. (AP) — A military jet exploded into a "ball of fire" over a farm Wednesday, killing all 21 crew members and scattering bodies, debris and classified documents over a wide area, authorities said.

Air Force Major William Campbell confirmed all those aboard the sophisticated missile-and-satellite tracking aircraft were killed, but he said authorities had recovered only 14 bodies by late Wednesday.

Residents who witnessed the crash just north of this western Maryland community described the $50 million EC-135-A plane as a "ball of fire" before it struck the ground.

"There were bodies all over the place," said state police Lt. Grover Jenschbaugh.

"It apparently blew up in the air," said A.E. Appleby, police communications officer at the Frederick state police barracks.

The Pentagon said the jet was based at Wright Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio, where it was assigned to the 4950 Test Wing.

A Wright Patterson spokesman, Air Force Maj. Euiwa. Robertson, denied earlier reports that the jet was carrying classified documents. "There were no classified documents on board the airplane," he said. But a source in the Pentagon, who asked not to be identified, said Wednesday evening that there were classified documents aboard the aircraft.

The identities of the victims were not released, and Robertson said he did not know when they would be made public.

The cause of the crash remained undetermined. Robertson said he had no evidence that the plane had been sabotaged. "I don't have anything that would go one way or the other on that one," he said.

News Roundup

House budget vote expected Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House worked on virtually futile liberal attempts to boost spending on social programs Wednesday as it neared a final vote on President Reagan's austere budget outline for 1982.

"Only the Lord himself could save this one," said Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., the leading opponent of the administration's spending blueprint. He said the final tally was likely Thursday.

Any lingering doubt about whether Reagan would prevail appeared to dissipate when nine Republicans who said last week that they were wavering released a statement pledging their votes to the president.

Tension mounts in Mideast conflict

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian soldiers held war games and Israeli jets flew over Syrian surface-to-air missile emplacements in Lebanon Wednesday in twin warnings that time was running out on superpower efforts to avert a Syrian-Israeli clash over Lebanon.

Israel has demanded that Syria withdraw the SAM-6 and SAM-2 missiles, wheeled into Lebanon aboard half tracks after Israeli forces shot down two Syrian helicopters and killed four Syrian pilots. Syria has refused.

Hinckley wasn't stalking, sources say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigators have "no hard evidence" that accused presidential assailant John W. Hinckley Jr. had been stalking Ronald Reagan or other political figures, federal law enforcement sources said Wednesday.

These sources, who declined to be identified, said that federal investigators have established that Hinckley was in three cities last October at roughly the same time as President Carter, and that he had visited Washington three times in the months before his arrest March 30.

Southern Illinois carpenters strike

MARION (UPI) — "Tens of millions of dollars" in construction projects in 13 Southern Illinois counties have been shut down by a strike of some 1,500 carpenters.

The strike began Tuesday after a breakdown in negotiations between representatives of the carpenters and the Southern Illinois Builders Association Monday night. The carpenters' contract expired March 31.

Non-tenured faculty questioned on SIU-C working conditions

By Randy Roguski
Staff Writer

A Faculty Senate survey is giving the University's 750 non-tenured faculty a chance to say what they think about working for SIU-C.

About 200 faculty have responded to the survey, which was sent out April 30. The deadline for returning the survey to the senate's Faculty Status and Welfare Committee is May 13.

Herbert Donow, committee chair, said the survey will identify concerns of non-tenured faculty and may discover that some think they are being treated unfairly.

"We didn't start with the supposition that they're being treated unfairly, but we may find that out," Donow said.

Donow said some visiting professors have previously complained of unfair treatment. Because some have the same qualifications as permanent faculty, there is inevitably some aggravation, Donow said.

"Many that are here feel exploited," Donow said. "This doesn't mean we will discover all sorts of discontent, but there may be some."

The questionnaire asks for opinions about evaluations, teaching load, office space and services, research facilities and salary increases.

It also asks what non-tenured faculty like and dislike most about working for the University.

"Something may come out of this, and something may not," Donow said.

He said compiling the survey's results will take most of the summer, with a report and possibly recommendations to the senate to follow.

Energy aid available to low income residents

By Sandra Stone
Student Writer

SIU-C students may be eligible to receive up to $290 to help pay their fuel bills through the Low Income Energy Assistance Program. John Stewardson, program coordinator for Jackson County said.

Any resident of Jackson County, including University Housing residents, may qualify for a grant from the LIEAP, which is funded from federal money received by the windfall profits tax, Stewardson said.

Stewardson said the LIEAP still has $65,549 to allocate by June, which is when the program is expected to end.

Eligibility for the program is determined by multiplying by four the total income of all household members for the past three months to reach an annualized income for the household, Stewardson said.

Income is determined by adding wages, money from parents, social security benefits, unemployment benefits and any government aid to old or disabled persons or families with dependent children. Grants, scholarships or loans that students may receive do not count as income, Stewardson said.

A person living alone with an annual income of less than $5,386 may qualify for a grant, Stewardson said. The maximum income allowed to qualify for the program is $5,994 for a two person household, $8,168 for a three person household, and $10,000 for a four person household, he said.

Stewardson said that $95 is the maximum grant that a household may receive if their fuel bill is included in the rent. This money would then be sent directly to the household.

The program, which started in January with $214,679, spent only $129,330 as of April 29. Stewardson attributed this to a mild winter.

Commission suspends bar license

The Carbondale Liquor Control Commission suspended the Spanish Key's liquor license for five days, as a result of a gambling and another charge brought against the bar at a commission meeting Monday night.

Spanish Key, 622 E. Main, will be closed beginning 2 a.m. on May 22 in connection with a charge of allowing gambling with dice, according to Assistant City Attorney Elizabeth Byrnes. On a related charge of allowing persons to remain on the premises after closing time, a warning letter was placed in the bar's permanent file.

A plea of no contest was entered for both charges.

According to Byrnes, a warning letter from 1978 for another after-hours charge was already in the bar's file and contributed to the council's decision to suspend the license for five days. The two letters and any other license violations which may occur will be considered when the license comes up for renewal, she said.

The charges were brought as a result of a Feb. 20 incident in which police officers entered the bar at 2:20 a.m. and found five people allegedly rolling dice. The officers arrested the five and confiscated about $352, Byrnes said.

Grain sale campaign announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John Block announced Wednesday an "intensified campaign" to sell more U.S. grain to five countries which experts believe represent a growing market potential.

Block said the countries being targeted for the push are Algeria, Brazil, Chile, China and Morocco. He said the campaign will be extended to other countries "when plans are developed."

Asked about a report that the USDA is preparing to sell surplus butter to the Soviet Union, Block said no decision had been made.

Comparatively, U.S. exports of all kinds of grain — including wheat, rice, corn and other feed grains — are expected to reach a record of about 118 million metric tons this year.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal, for example, to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

The token witness spoiled the day for HLA supporters

James J. Kilpatrick

IT WAS A LOVELY picnic until Leon Rosenberg came along. Everything had been so beautifully planned. Here was the Human Life Bill, and here were all these distinguished witnesses to support its principal provision and here were the batteries of TV cameras and the squads of eager reporters. And then!

And then came Dr. Rosenberg, chairman of the Department of Human Genetics at Yale, intruding upon the hallelujah chorus with all the effrontery of a Sousaphone in a string quartet. Who invited this guy to the picnic?

Perhaps Dr. Rosenberg's presence before a Senate subcommittee was a staff mis. ke. or to treat the matter kindly, perhaps Chairman John East of North Carolina actually intended to hear eight witnesses "pro" and a token one "con." In any event, Dr. Rosenberg's emphatic dissent greatly enlivened the whole proceedings.

Senator East's picnic as you will have surmised, was planned as a pleasant introduction to a bill sponsored by his fellow North Carolinian, Jesse Helms. The bill begins with a finding by Congress "that present day scientific evidence indicated a significant likelihood that actual human life exists from conception." The bill continues with a finding that the 14th Amendment to the Constitution was intended to protect all human beings.

Upon the basis of these findings, says the bill, and in the exercise of its powers under Section 5 of the 14th, "the Congress hereby declares that for the purpose of enforcing the obligation of the States...not to deprive persons of life without due process of law, human life shall be deemed to exist from conception, without regard to race, sex, age, health, defect, or condition of dependency; and for this purpose, 'person' shall include all human life as defined herein."

A SECOND SECTION of the bill would prohibit the lower federal courts from hearing any case involving a state law that protects the rights of human persons "between conception and birth." Neither could federal judges interfere with any state law prohibiting abortions at private or public expense.

Except for Dr. Rosenberg, who "firmly disagreed" with the bill's predicate, other witnesses were friendly. Dr. Watson A. Bowes Jr., professor of obstetrics at the University of Colorado, said that the beginning of human life "most assuredly is at the time of conception." Dr. Hymie Gordon, chairman of the Department of Medical Genetics at the Mayo Clinic, said the same thing: "By all the criteria of modern molecular biology, life is present from the moment of conception." So it went. On the second day we looked at movies.

But with deference to Senator East, who avowed his determination to develop a full and fair record, the question of "when human life begins" would appear to be a question primarily for theologians and metaphysicians, and not a question for senators even from so great a state as North Carolina. The issue goes to a question of law; it is a Constitution we are construing—and the notion that the framers of the 14th Amendment meant the word "life" to embrace a fetus at the microscopic age of one split second is a hairbrained notion if there ever was one.

IT WOULD BE easier, in truth, to argue that the word "liberty," which appears in the 14th in the same breath, embraces the liberty of a woman to decide whether to have an unwanted child. And while we're on the subject of the 14th Amendment, whatever became of the historic opposition of states' rights to congressional intervention under Section 5? Whatever became of strict construction?

At some point along the line, Senator East promises, these questions of law will be examined. At that point, though it surely would spoil another picnic, perhaps the subcommittee will hear from such eminent lawyers as Paul Freund, Laurence H. Tribe, Erwin N. Griswold and William Van Alstyne. As a matter of fact, these authorities already have been heard from. In a public letter dated April 21, they agreed that the Helms bill would represent an attempt by Congress "to exercise unconstitutional power." That's a terrible thing to say about a couple of nice guys from North Carolina. (c) 1981, Universal Press Syndicate.

Pro-lifer uses twisted logic

I couldn't believe my eyes when I read Mr. Wayne A. Helmer's views on the pro-life issue. Mr. Helmer is in full support of the Human Life Amendment which gives the state power to have control over a woman's reproductive function and to disallow abortions if the state has a "compelling interest." The part which I was most enraged about is how he feels when a woman is raped and becomes pregnant. Mr. Helmer feels that it is a shame to kill an unborn baby for the "crime of the baby's father." He also does not feel that aborting the baby will solve the victim's problems. Mr. Helmer, how do you think the "mother" will feel after giving birth to a child that was forcibly conceived out of hate? Wouldn't this tend to reinforce the nightmares of being raped?

Mr. Helmer, you also went on to say that if the mother's life is endangered that an abortion is not "the original intent to kill the child, but to save the mother's life." I ask you Mr. Helmer, what is the difference? Aren't you the one who is using twisted logic now?—Mark Dystin, senior, Dental Technology.

Doobies are good, brother

Since when has the privilege of being a music critic for the Daily Egyptian evolved into a personal forum for Randy Lynch's near-sighted point of view? In his review of April 30 regarding Tom Johnston's new album "Still Feels Good," he refers to the present Doobie Brothers band as a "dissipated middle-of-the-road monster." How dare he! Since Mr. Johnston's departure from the band some years ago, the Doobies have produced three critically acclaimed albums, one of which, "Minute by Minute," received the Album of the Year Award. Dilapidated indeed. Lynch's title as WIDB Music Director merits some respect, but also a sense of responsible appraisal. However, how can he call the present Doobie Brothers "middle-of-the-road" when it is evident, even to the casual observer of the state of modern music, that Michael McDonald, et al, is recognized by the industry as an important creative force in the development of popular music? In the future please, bestow credit where credit is due.—N.P. Wave, senior, Advertising and David Merkel, junior, English.

Airwaves are for educating

I was pleased to read your articles on the problems WSIU-TV and WSIU radio have been facing.

they are charged with educating listeners and viewers.

There is one thing, however that must be pointed out. As far as the FCC is concerned, contrary to the belief of the Broadcasting Service, there is no such thing as "Public" radio or "Public" television.

Most non-commercial educational stations find it in the public interest to allow the station to educate broadcasting students. Why not the SIU-C Broadcasting Service?

WSIU-TV, WUSI-TV and WSIU (FM) are officially licensed as "non-commercial educational" stations. Like their commercial counterparts, they are mandated to serve the public interest. But in addition,

SIU-C is not in the broadcasting business. The mission of this university is to train students and provide service to the surrounding area. This should be the mission of the Broadcasting Service, too.—Bill Andrie, senior, Radio-Television.

Petty, Heartbreakers succeed in keeping 'Hard Promises'

By Randy Lynch
WDB Music Director

Tom Petty is surely a man of patience. For the second time in a row, the release of a new Heartbreakers album has been delayed. But when a man of Petty's integrity makes some "Hard Promises," you can bet he'll keep them.

Two years ago, the Heartbreakers' "Damn The Torpedoes" LP was kept off the shelves because of Petty's legal hassles with a bankruptcy case. That album was so successful that it put to rest any financial fears the band may have had. But someone wasn't satisfied.

This year MCA, the Heartbreakers' record company, decided they were so successful that they could charge an extra dollar for their new album like they did with Steely Dan's latest. But Petty disagreed and personally held back the release of "Hard Promises" until MCA agreed to sell it at the standard inflated price.

And again, the album's release has been worth waiting for. Those who have come to like Petty get the chance to know him on "Hard Promises." In the past, Petty had an air of confidence about him. These new songs are more emotionally charged than any previous ones. They show Petty to be a hopelessly vulnerable romantic.

The majority of the tunes revolve around a triangle involving Petty, his one love and the guy she leaves him for. As the album opens, Petty is happy with his lady. He has finally lasted through "The Waiting," the holding on and holding out for real love. Petty is ecstatic.

But on the next tune, "A Woman In Love (It's Not Me),"

Abe Martin talk set for Thursday

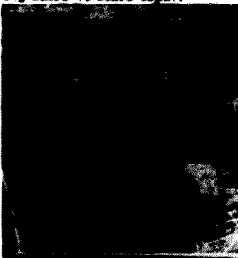

David E. Gray, vice president for Administration and Staff Coordination of California State University, Long Beach, will be the featured speaker at the Glenn "Abe" Martin memorial lecture at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Davies Auditorium.

Gray's topic will be "Leisure, Recreation and Education."

During his 26 years with California State, Gray has served as Professor and Chairman of the Recreation and Leisure Studies Department and Associate Dean of the School of Applied Arts and Sciences. He accepted his current position in 1989.

Review

Hard Promises, Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers, Backstreet Records. Reviewer's Rating: 3 1/2 stars (4 stars tops).

Petty's bliss has turned sour. His girl has left him for a guy who's "gonna break her heart to pieces," but her love is blind.

Petty spends the rest of side one ignoring his pain, but it eventually overwhelms him, and he deals with it honestly and compassionately in "Letting You Go." He explores a more positive side of his feelings in the raucous "A Thing About You."

Petty sings a duet with Stevie Nicks of Fleetwood Mac on "Insider." He finally seems to realize that his ex-won't be coming back.

Petty finally goes all out in "You Can Still Change Your Mind." He wants to either love his girl or live with his love unrequited.

Tunes like "Nightwatchman" and "The Criminal Kind" have a twangy flavor that showcases the band's Florida roots, but unlike the gator-boogie of Molly Hatchet or the Outlaws.

Unlike Petty's previous three albums, "Hard Promises" is not often fun. The group members' lives have had some down times. With the perspective they offer here, the Heartbreakers can make the tough times a little easier for all of us.

TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE ACCOUNTING SOCIETY:

Southside Johnny's album is a somewhat flawed success

By Bill Crowe
Staff Writer

The best live albums do not strive for studio slickness and polish; they're raw, passionate and gritty. Chalk up Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes' new two-record set, "Reach Up and Touch the Sky," as a sweaty and soulful, albeit somewhat flawed, success.

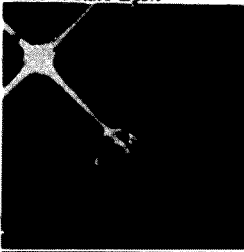

Southside Johnny Lyon is a passionate, yet fun-loving performer who turns the Jukes' live performances into a singalong party. Set into high gear by a precise and punchy brass section, strong rhythm setters and Billy Rush's emotive lead guitar and backing vocals, a Jukes performance is a rhythm and blues celebration to be savored.

This album, a compilation of the best material from six concerts, shows the band at its most powerful.

The album's first three sides read like a greatest hits list from the Jukes' song catalog.

Review

Reach Up and Touch the Sky, Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes, Mercury Records, Reviewer's Rating: 3 stars (4 stars tops).

Such tunes as "I'm So Anxious," a fast paced version of "I Don't Want to Go Home" and the Bruce Springsteen compositions "Hearts of Stone," "Trapped Again,"

"The Fever" and "Talk to Me" are all excitingly dedicated to the cause of good R&B.

Although there are some obnoxiously obvious segues within the album's mix (Southside somehow says good night to everyone three or four times), "Reach Up..." somehow retains its immediacy amid the garble, which is no small accomplishment.

Side four—consisting of a medley of Sam Cooke favorites, Chuck Berry's "Back in the U.S.A." and the happy "Havin' A Party"—closes the album appropriately with an interesting tribute to the band's roots and good time rock 'n' roll.

However one may personally feel about the Jukes and their music, one thing is unquestionably evident on "Reach Up..."—these guys mean business and take their music seriously. Such 24-karat phonies as the Blues Brothers had better step aside and let some true masters take over.

Urban Verbs borrow plenty from style of Talking Heads

By Alan Sculley
Staff Writer

It was only a matter of time before the innovations the Talking Heads created would spawn a band borrowing its style.

Fortunately, the Urban Verbs do a good job of using those innovations on most of the songs on "Early Damage," the band's second album.

Like the Heads, the members of Urban Verbs have a background in arts other than music. And sometimes one can't help but wonder with similarities like that if all this is just a cheap rip-off.

Even vocalist Roddy Frantz sings like the Heads' David Byrne on several songs. On a few other songs, Frantz borrows the style of vocalist Richard Butler of the Psychedelic Furs, another avant-garde group.

Musically, the Verbs' sound borrows plenty from the off-metered rhythms that contrasted distant instrumentals on the Heads' "Remain in Light" and the Byrne-Brian

Eno album, "My Life in the Bush of Ghosts."

However, the Verbs do use a much more rock-oriented beat, whereas the Heads and Byrne-Eno installed African rhythms into the rock formats on their albums.

So the Urban Verbs don't have a sound they can truly call their own. Still the majority of the album is filled with good music.

Only the songs that finish up both sides of "Early Damage" are failures. Those songs are tedious, droning exercises in boredom.

The rest of the album takes on a more upbeat pace, highlighted by the detached vocals of Frantz and electric guitar fills styled after the Police.

The music is solid, but you won't find the beauty that some of Byrne's music has. You also won't find Byrne's sharp wit in the lyrics the Verbs composed.

What you do find is a band that is synthesizing elements of other bands into its own music. Once Urban Verbs settle on a style of its own, the promise that the good music from "Early Damage" shows indicates that this could be a band to watch. (Album courtesy of Plaza Records)

Sphinx Club to tap leaders at ceremony

By University News Service

The Sphinx Club, SIU-C's oldest honorary organization, will hold its "Spring Tapping" of 30 new members at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Old Main Room in the Student Center.

A freshman and sophomore of the year also will be selected and an election of the 1981-82 club president will follow the tapping ceremony.

The club honors exceptional leadership and contributions in campus activities, student government, community projects, academic life and special interest groups. Newcomers are unaware of their acceptance until they have been "tapped" by a member and conducted to the spring initiation ceremony.

The club was formed in 1939 to honor students for "unselfish service in the interest of the University."

Lindley's debut album shocks listeners with reggae and rock

By Rod Smith
Entertainment Editor

"Hey Rocked out Rod, check out the debut album by David Lindley I just bought."

"OK, so he's not a snappy dresser. But this guy is one of the most innovative and Shout, 'Mercury Blues,' 'Tuber-cu-lucas and the Sinus Blues,' 'Your Old Lady.' Real soft stuff."

"Well the guy wants to have fun, too."

"Yeah, with a bunch of garage band tunes. Speaking of a garage, it looks like they designed the album cover in a garage. I'd flunk graphics class if I turned in a project like that."

"Let's just give it a listen and then make judgements."

Twelve songs later...
"Dammit, Elektra Records put a Bob Marley album in this Lindley cover."

"Look again. It's Lindley alright."

"But what happened to his influences, Browne, Taylor, Ronstadt? How could I ever fall asleep, wake up or be romantic to these simple bass lines, congos, bongos and high-pitched choppy vocals?"

"You can't. But hey, it doesn't sound too bad."

"I just can't understand it. Lindley, who I thought was Mr. Mellow, is putting out reggae, straight-ahead rock, oldies, ska, Spanish and French lyrics. It's just weird."

"Oui, le disque est tres interessant et tres unique."

"Oh, cut it out."

"Don't be so bummed out. Just because the guy isn't a carbon-copy clone of the Southern Cal breed isn't any reason to get upset. You know, it's really kind of good. He gives a reggae style to 'Bye Bye Love,' sings some silly lyrics and generally has a good time with some different touches to old tunes. He's just trying to do his own thing, get out of that mellow rut and have some fun."

"Rod, you record reviewers are all alike."

"Hey, just because he looks a little bizarre, don't discount his music. Jackson Browne uses him on almost every album. James Taylor needs him to put some pizzazz in his stuff. So does Crosby & Nash, Linda Ronstadt, Ry Cooder..."

"The guy is probably so mellow his skin is yellow."

"Well, sure, that's why I bought it. After being around the big names of sentiment, I'm sure some of their style has rubbed off on him."

Officer won't be prosecuted in shooting

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A Belleville police officer who shot and critically wounded a deaf man during a drug raid two months ago will not be prosecuted, Illinois officials say.

St. Clair County State's Attorney John Baricovic refused Monday to say why he would not prosecute Belleville Police Chief Barry Biehl, who fired the shot that wounded Glen Mattila, 24, of Rockford, Minn.

On his way home from South Carolina last March, Mattila stayed with Scott Killup, 30, in Belleville when about 20 federal, state and local law enforcement agents burst into Killup's home.

(CLIP & SAVE) 1981 Spring Semester Final Examination Schedule Information

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Some questions might develop for which answers can be provided at this time

1. Classes that meet longer than one hour on Tuesday and Thursday, such as four credit hour classes, should use the examination period established for the earlier of the hours. For example, a class meeting from 11:00 to 12:50 on Tuesday and Thursday would hold its examination at 3:10 p.m., Wednesday, May 13. This applies also to non-lecture type courses such as laboratory or seminar type courses. Classes that meet for one of the 75 minute periods on Tuesday-Thursday are assigned a specific examination period. For example, 12:35 to 1:50 Tuesday-Thursday classes have their examination at 8:00 p.m., Thursday, May 14.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in the regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold their examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

The following points are also pertinent to the final examination schedule:

1. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

2. Student who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given students who miss a final examination and are not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimeographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

Inconsistent policies on tuition for refugees may be reviewed

By Colleen Moore
Staff Writer

SIU-C has an inconsistency in its policy concerning Indochinese refugees who live in Illinois, because while some of them are paying in-state tuition, others are required to pay out-of-state tuition.

Steve Schumacher, program manager for adult education at the Evaluation and Developmental Training Center, said SIU-C is the only state university that requires refugees to pay out-of-state tuition.

Those who pay out-of-state tuition at SIU-C are paying $703 more than those who pay the in-state cost.

Tom Busch, assistant to the president, said there is a proposal to change the policy regarding refugees. Busch said the new policy would allow refugees to pay in-state tuition if they plan to become permanent residents of Illinois.

The Board of Trustees is expected to make a decision on the proposal this summer, he said.

If refugees are awarded an Illinois State Scholarship, Busch said, they are allowed to pay in-state tuition.

If refugees don't receive the scholarship, they are supposed to hold a permanent residence status before they may pay in-state tuition. Another way for them to be considered a state resident is to marry a resident of the state.

Trung Phan, who came to Carbondale as a Vietnamese refugee, said, "It takes us about two years to get permanent residence."

Phan, a graduate student in mathematics, has had a permanent residence status for over three years.

His brother, Thanh Phan, who came to Carbondale from Vietnam about a year ago, said, "I thought I was classified as an in-state student, but I was not."

Thanh Phan, a freshman in computer science, said he has been awarded an Illinois State Scholarship for fall, therefore he will no longer have to pay out-of-state tuition.

Quy Loi, a refugee from Vietnam, said "I don't think I should pay out-of-state tuition because he has lived in Illinois more than one year."

Many Indochinese refugees have had to leave SIU-C because they couldn't afford to pay the out-of-state tuition, said Trung Phan. He said about 15 Indochinese students are attending SIU-C this semester.

Another problem for refugees may be finding a job on campus. Thanh Phan said he couldn't get on-campus employment because the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance mistakenly classified him as an international student rather than as a refugee.

Loi, a freshman in computer science, said he couldn't get a job on campus because he didn't have the necessary skills for the available jobs.

Water heater blowup death yields settlement

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A federal judge has approved a settlement payment of $1.2 million to an Oceana County woman from the makers of a water heater that exploded and killed her husband.

Judy Ann Stratton, of Shelby, and her six children will receive most of the settlement from A.O. Smith Corp. of Kankakee, Ill., manufacturer of the water heater, and White Rodgers Co. of St. Louis, Mo., which designed a safety valve that was supposed to stop leaking gas.

Forestry group offers job search services

By Marie Wolf
Student Writer

Job opportunities in forestry may be scarce, but the Society of American Foresters offers its members employment and career services which aid in the job search.

SAF is a national organization which represents all segments of the forestry profession. Members include public and private practitioners, researchers, administrators, educators and forestry students.

The SIU-C student chapter of SAF is a subdivision of the national chapter, according to Jon Walker, campus chapter chairman. The student chapter was inactive for several years before it was reorganized at the beginning of this semester, he said.

SAF members receive free employment referral service as well as opportunities to exchange ideas with forestry professionals.

"One of the main benefits of SAF membership is a distinct advantage in job placement," Walker said. "Next year we will head the Forestry Department placement service. We are hoping to give our members an opportunity to apply for jobs before they are open to other forestry students when the job opening is discovered by SAF."

SAF helps students pay their travel expenses to forestry conventions where students get a chance to get acquainted with prominent professionals. This may help students obtain employment in the future since many practicing foresters are SAF members, Walker said.

Military events set for ROTC Day

Future airmen, soldiers and marines will fall in for a day of military activities Saturday in observance of SIU-C's ROTC Day.

Air Force and Army ROTC cadets, as well as student members of the Marine Corps' Semper Fidelis Society, will participate in the day of ROTC-oriented activities set to get underway at 10 a.m.

A presidential review, parade, military music and a fly-by of Illinois Air National Guard jets will highlight the activities.

Activities will get underway with a presidential review of Air Force and Army ROTC cadets and a parade on the Old Main Mall in front of Stryock Auditorium. SIU-C President Albert Somit will review the troops along with Air Force ROTC Detachment Commander Lt. Col. Frank Christian, Army ROTC Commander Capt. Marcia Webb and Marine Maj. George Babac, commander of the St. Louis recruiting station.

The parade will feature a color guard of Army and Air Force ROTC cadets and members of the Semper Fidelis Society—a group of student members of the Marine Corps' Platoon Leaders class. The Scout Air Force Band also will participate in the parade. Four Illinois Air National Guard F4 Phantom jets will perform a fly-by during the review, and the Air Force ROTC's Black Phantoms drill team will demonstrate precision drills.

Awards will be presented to the Army ROTC detachment's outstanding cadets at 11 a.m. in the Student Center Auditorium. Also at 11 a.m., the Air Force ROTC detachment will host an open house at its facility on South University Avenue.

The Air Force ROTC's annual formal "Dining Out" and awards presentation is scheduled to begin with a 6 p.m. reception in the Student Center Ballroom D.

A dance will follow the dinner at 10 p.m. and will feature a section of the Scott Air Force Band.

Mother has learned to cope with son's rare skin disease

By Charles Chamberlain
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — When Ricky was born 12 years ago his mother at first was kept from seeing him.

"They were handing out babies to other mothers in the maternity ward, but where was mine?" Karen Tummillo said. "The next day they let me see him. He weighed 8 pounds 5 ounces, but they had him in an incubator. He had a blister on his nose and on his chest.

"His arms and legs were tied to the sides so he couldn't move and rub his skin off.

"There was no skin on the top of his hands or on his neck. I couldn't pick him up by his sides and fondle him. I had to put my hands under him and sort of scoop him up. Any undue pressure, and another water blister would form and his skin would rip off.

"He looked like he had been burned," said Mrs. Tummillo, who was 18 at the time. "They didn't know what he had. Two weeks later we took him from the hospital in Niles (Mich.) to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

"They said he might not live more than two weeks. But I saw a sparkle in his eyes and noticed an ...-ian temper, and I knew he would live.

"They said don't break the blisters. If he rubbed his eyes, he even got them on his eyelids. But when we got Ricky home, I had to break them open all over his body — the skin under them was raising up. And I've been breaking blisters ever since. Ricky now has learned to help by breaking them himself with a sterilized needle.

"I worry about what will happen to him. He has more guts than most kids. He's a fighter. He never gives up, and I'll never give up fighting for him," said the mother. "I hope there never is another child born like Ricky. But in a way, we may be lucky. He can talk; he can see; he can hear; he can tell me his feelings.

"God sent Ricky to me as a gift. He knew I could take care of him," said Mrs. Tummillo, who had Ricky and Tony by a first marriage. The two sons live with her and her second husband, Frank, a city employee. They have a 4-year-old daughter, and Ricky is beloved by them all.

But outside the house, the pitiful little boy with red blotches, flaking, peeling skin and webbed fingers and toes is shunned by many and teased by some.

He is in a sixth grade special education class along with 18 other children with handicaps. And his mother, trying to put him on his own as much as possible, lets him take a bus to a store to buy a few groceries, and to go to a nearby park where he sits in a swing.

"The other kids know not to touch him and they don't have much to do with him. Some even are mean enough to call him 'snake' because his skin is peeling," said Mrs. Tummillo. "His skin seems to be toughening up, but it becomes very fragile in the heat and sun of summertime. Sometimes we must use non-sticking, sterile pads under his clothing."

Mrs. Tummillo said she once was accused of child abuse by a man who saw Ricky for the first time and thought he had been burned by lighted cigarettes. Child welfare officers went to the house to investigate, and finally were convinced by the mother of her son's medical condition

4 arrested for robbery of desk clerk

By Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

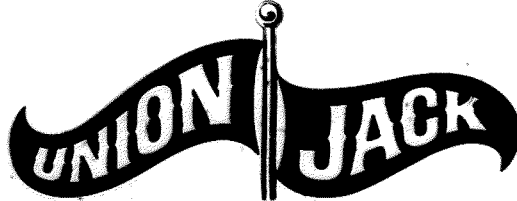

Three brothers and a juvenile were arrested Tuesday for an armed robbery Monday night of the registration desk of the Ramada Inn motel, 2400 W. Main St., Carbondale police said.

William J. Johnson, 18, of Alto Pass; John J. Johnson, 19, of Jonesboro; Peter D. Johnson, 20, of Murphysboro; and a 16-year-old boy from Gloversville, New York, were arrested by Union County Sheriff's deputies, police said. William was arrested at about 3:30 a.m. Tuesday and the others were arrested at William's home later that afternoon, police said.

According to police, two of the men, one armed with a revolver that was reported stolen in Murphysboro, allegedly entered the Ramada Inn at about 9 p.m. Monday and robbed the registration desk clerk, 1ed Szeligowski, of $127.97. The other two men allegedly waited outside the motel in two vehicles, one of which was reported stolen May 1 in Arkansas, police said.

Bond for each man was set at $75,000, and all are being held at Jackson County Jail.

Police said the men are suspects in a string of crimes that have occurred between Ft. Worth, Texas, and Carbondale.

Maine residents fear impact of cigarette ads

By Jerry Harkavy
Associated Press Writer

PORTLAND, Maine — A full-page ad for Camel cigarettes showing a virile young man paddling a canoe through the frothy rapids of northern Maine's Allagash Wilderness Waterway has Down Easterns fuming.

Some Maine residents familiar with the 92-mile chain of lakes and rivers, a favorite haunt of whitewater canoeists, resent the connection with cigarettes. Others say the ads give a false image of the waterway. Still others fear the ad campaign could bring droves of tourists to the remote region.

"The Allagash was created as a protection against the encroachments of commercialism and Madison Avenue and everything that represents," said Herbert Hartman, director of the Maine Bureau of Parks and Recreation, which administers the waterway.

A series of "Camel Expeditions" advertisements in a $1 million campaign aimed at enhancing the masculine image of Camel cigarettes is starting to appear in some of the better known men's magazines, such as Playboy, Esquire, Sports Illustrated, Signature, Money and Sports Afield.

The Allagash ad carries the heading "Camel Expeditions — Where a man belongs," followed by a graphic description of the Allagash experience:

"No man alive should miss it. For here you can prove just what kind of man you are. Here on the wild and awesome and profoundly majestic Allagash."

Even the Maine Publicity Bureau, which applauds the promotional tie-in with one of the state's major outdoor attractions, acknowledges the ad portrays the Allagash canoe trip as being a lot tougher than it really is.

"It makes it appear that it's just a brutal, macho thing to do," Bruce Taylor, a bureau spokesman, said. He said the ad seems to put the Allagash experience on a par with the kind of rugged adventure portrayed in the novel and film, "Deliverance."

"To try to turn it into something it really isn't is perhaps a disservice to the Allagash and also a disservice to us," Taylor said, noting that women, children and entire families are a familiar sight along the waterway.

The marketing campaign, launched this spring, involves R.J. Reynolds, the nation's largest cigarette manufacturer; Thomas Cook Travel, the world's largest travel agency; and Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, one of the premier ad agencies on Madison Avenue.

The purpose, according to Reynolds spokeswoman Betsy Anness in Winston-Salem, N.C., is to enhance "brand image." In the case of Camels, she said, the appeal is to men between the ages of 21 and 35. "These are men who are young, adventurous, very independent — someone who wants a very masculine lifestyle."

To appeal to that lifestyle, Reynolds teamed up with Thomas Cook to create "Camel Expeditions" — vacations that provide particular adventures. Besides the Allagash trip, the trips include a windjammer cruise in the West Indies and a trek through the steaming jungles of Ecuador.

The 10-day Allagash trip costs

$798 per person. It is booked through Thomas Cook and conducted by Maine Wilderness Paddlers Inc. of Mount Desert.

The state publicity bureau sees the ad as a legitimate tool for promoting Maine tourism. Taylor equates it with a recent television commercial for Miller beer featuring a Down East lobsterman.

"I don't think people make a direct connection between Maine and cigarette smoking," Taylor said. "Any time we can have a legitimate tie-in with a commercial interest, I'm certainly not going to kick it out the door."

Others disagree. "What bothers me most is the smoking connection," said Rob Gardiner, executive director of the Natural Resources Council of Maine, the state's largest environmental organization. The NRC played a key role in the establishment of the Allagash Wilderness Waterway two decades ago.

"I find the association of smoking with the wilderness experience to be totally incongruous," said Gardiner, who expressed concern that the waterway and its campsites are already operating near capacity and cannot withstand any tourism boom resulting from the ads.

Farmers expect only average strawberry crop
EDWARDSVILLE (UPI)—The strawberry harvest is expected to start around May 15 and the outlook is for an average- to below-average crop, depending on rainfall. With adequate rainfall between now and harvest, an average crop can be expected, Chris Doll, University of Illinois fruit and vegetable specialist, said Wednesday. "But if there is weather stress, the harvest will be below average," she said. Continuing drought conditions since last summer in Southern Illinois will affect this year's crop, Doll said. The harvest should last about 21 days if temperatures are normal, rise to 28 days if temperatures are cool and drop to about 18 days if hot weather prevails during the harvest season, Doll said. Dry conditions should mean smaller berries, but smaller means sweeter, Doll added.

Public works department aids residents in spring cleaning

By Melody Cook
Staff Writer

As spring necessitates cleaning, people who find themselves with too large of a winter accumulation may get some help from the city.

In what the Carbondale Public Works Department calls its Spring Clean-Up, residents of single-family dwellings or duplexes can have household items or other refuse hauled away this month.

On May 8, the clean-up area is west of Oakland Avenue, south of Main Street and east of Little Crab Orchard Creek, including the Murdale Shopping Plaza and the Winkler School area.

On May 15 the route will cover the area south of Sycamore Street, north of Main Street and west of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad tracks, including the Carbondale High School area, and also the area south of Main, west of the railroad tracks and east of Oakland Avenue, including the West Cherry Street area.

On May 22, the coverage area will be north of Sycamore Street and west of the railroad tracks, including the Oakland Cemetery area; and west of Little Crab Orchard Creek and south of Main Street, including the Carbondale Clinic area.

The area east of the railroad tracks was collected from on May 1.

Anything that is brought to the curbside will be removed by the city collectors. Wayne Wheelers, street superintendent, said.

"If you can get it out there, we'll pick it up," he said.

1980 University property loss down $22,000 from 1979

By Sandra Stone
Student Writer

More than $180,000 worth of University property was reported missing in fiscal year 1980. Property Control records show.

An inventory of all SIU-C property for fiscal year 1980—which began July 1, 1979 and ended June 30 1980—showed that 1,020 items, valued at $185,480.66, were reported missing.

The value of missing items in fiscal year 1980 was a decrease from the $208,007 losses reported in fiscal year 1979, said Joseph Elliott, Property Control coordinator.

Since the University does not pay taxes, missing items cannot be used as tax deductions, Elliott said. If an item must be replaced, the money must come from the operating budget of the account which lost the item, he added.

The most common item reported missing was office furniture and equipment, which included chairs, staplers and tape dispensers. Elliott said 253 such items, valued at $30,272, were reported missing. Two hundred and seven pieces of audio visual equipment, valued at $43,726, also were reported missing, Elliott said.

The Chemistry and Biochemistry Department account reported a loss of $27,965.53, the highest among the 270 University accounts. The Vocational Education Studies account was second with a reported loss of $18,181.25 and the Physiology Department account was third with a loss of $12,929.67.

Each account has a fiscal officer who takes inventory annually, according to Elliott. All missing items are reported to property control, which is a section of the General Accounting office, he said. Many of the missing items are not reported to the Security Office because they are not discovered missing until inventory is taken, Elliott said.

"The inventory is usually the first source that shows that something is missing," Elliott said.

The values of the items reported missing are original costs which inflate some of the values because depreciation is not taken into account, Elliott explained. For example, a typewriter that may have been purchased in 1950 for $100 would be reported as having a value of $100 even though it may be worth only $20 in 1980.

Some of the amounts also may not reflect the true value of missing items because of the cost to the University to replace items may be much higher than the purchase cost, Elliott said. Frequently used items are reported missing less frequently, he added.

Some of the items reported missing include 41 typewriters, valued at $11,911; 163 pieces of scientific equipment—including telescopes—valued at $26,200;

23 adding machines and calculators valued at $12,437; and 132 pieces of maintenance machines and tools, valued at $25,437.

However, some of the missing items may have been discarded rather than stolen, Elliott said. When University property is to be discarded, it must be reported to General Accounting and then sent to a state inspector who determines if it should be discarded or retained. If this is not done, the item will be reported missing in an inventory since there would be no record of it being discarded, Elliott said.

of a $326,800 CPB community service grant given to WSIU-TV in fiscal 1980. Parks said about $135,000 went back to PBS for programming, about $18,000 went to other programming and $2,000 went to dues and other charges not connected to PBS.

Parks said community service grants funded half of WSIU-TV, one-third of WSIU-FM and one-fourth of WSIU-FM in fiscal 1980. The remaining amount of money was provided by the state and the University. Smaller portions came from underwriting and other fundraising activities.

Al Pizzato, WSIU-TV station manager, doesn't foresee a cut in WSIU-TV broadcasting hours, but he said he does foresee an increase in locally produced programming.

PIZZATO SAID THAT after about 4 p.m., when instructional television for local schools goes off the air, about 75 percent of the programs which are broadcast is from PBS. The rest is local programming.

"The percentage won't change drastically because it's awfully expensive to do that. You can't run local programming all day long," Pizzato said. "We are going to be more sensitive to what is in our viewing area to what people want to see."

"It won't save money to produce local programming," he said. "The key is to get the community more involved with the station so they support it. If you sit there and do nothing, even if it costs money, why should they support you?"

Ed Subkis, WSIU-FM program director, said that the radio station is the only one in Southern Illinois that broadcasts a major amount of black, folk, jazz, and classical music, and in-depth and live news.

SUBKIS SAID THAT if funding for National Public Radio is reduced, the station won't be able to produce programs of such high caliber to replace NPR programming. About 95 percent of the NPR budget is spent on programming for 244 radio stations across the country. Besides, Subkis said, if community service grants to local stations were reduced, there would be less money to produce local programming.

One avenue that could lead to more money is underwriting. Another option would be to tap more public and private grants.

The Federal Communications Commission last week took a step to liberalize the underwriting regulations for CPB stations, but a spokesperson for PBS said the CPB governing board must decide whether to allow the full range of the new rules.

Basically, the FCC would allow CPB stations to use logos and slogans to identify products of the underwriting companies. It would drop the prohibition against promoting the sale of products or services, except when payment in cash or in kind is received.

SUBKIS EXPLAINED, "If they take something away, they'll have to give us something in return, and this is one of the trade-offs."

Garry cited statistics from the Los Angeles-based National Grantsmanship Center, a non-profit organization that trains people how to write grant proposals. In 1980, the federal government gave about $90 billion in grants, the private sector gave $46 billion, foundations gave $2.1 billion, and corporations gave $2.3 billion.

Shuttle astronauts cheered on during tickertape parade

CHICAGO (AP) - Space shuttle astronauts John W. Young and Robert L. Crippen brought back visions of V-J Day Wednesday in a tickertape parade cheered by thousands of people on street level and leaning out building windows honoring the duo's achievement in space.

A blizzard of tickertape and shredded paper fell on the white Cadillac convertible containing the astronauts and Mayor Jane M. Byrne as it wound its way through the financial district to City Hall in sunny but chilly weather.

Young, a 50-year-old retired U.S. Navy captain, and Crippen, a 43-year-old serving Navy captain, waved good-naturedly at the crowd estimated at 25,000 which roared its appreciation at the pair's pioneer shuttle flight into space and lasted months.

The parade dissolved into a ceremony and awards presentation in Richard J. Daley Plaza at noon. As the U.S. Navy Band from Washington cranked out the themes from "2,001-A Space Odyssey," "Star Trek" and "Star Wars," the jam-packed plaza reverberated with explosions of fireworks shot from the roof of the Cook County Building across the street.

Then Byrne presented the astronauts with 18-inch, Baccarat crystal obelisks symbolizing the takeoff of the space shuttle Columbia from the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

Young, honored here twice before for previous space missions, told the assembled crowd of 12,000 that Chicago's skyline had changed, "but your warm hospitality proves to the astronaut corps that Chicago is our kind of town."

Byrne called the astronauts "our two new national heroes. We appreciate the leadership you both have provided the country and the world. We're a little bit prouder and a little bit bigger for your efforts."

After the 20-minute ceremony, the mayor and astronauts were whisked to the Museum of Science and Industry for a question-and-answer session with high school students and a lavish luncheon with the city's political, civic and business leaders.

During the 10-minute question-and-answer period on the museum steps, zoology student Eugene Sampley asked the astronauts if contingency plans had been readied in the event they were unable to return to Earth.

"No, but we did have our wilds made out," Young said with a grin.

New Irish grid coach ignoring job pressure

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—There are a few gray hairs visible in the sandy, brown locks but Gerry Faust insists it's not Notre Dame football pressure but only that time in life.

The 45-year-old Faust, who replaced Dan Devine as the Irish head coach, already has a problem, a happy one at that, but says that for the time being "the idea is to keep sane. I'll spend June and July with my family."

"Comes August, I'll start worrying and that's when the pressure will start," said Faust, who was deliciously pleased with the results of his first spring game Saturday in which the first stringers slugged the reserves, 48-7.

"We kept it simple," said Faust. "The kicking game was excellent. We've had no serious injuries. The quarterbacks and the receivers did a good job. The defense did a good job. The hitting was crisp and what impressed me the most was we made few mistakes and had few penalties." The quarterbacks were so good they left Faust with his first problem.

"I'd like to say who the quarterbacks are 1-2-3 but I can't do it after this game," said Faust, who started sophomore Blair Kiel with the first unit and followed with senior Time Koegele who he coached at Cincinnati's Moeller High.

Kiel completed 6 of 11 for 106 yards and one touchdown but the big surprise was sophomore Scott Grooms.

Grooms started for the reserves and completed 11 of 17 for 72 yards against the No. 1 defense. Then he switched in the final quarter and while working with the first unit he completed 7 of 8 for 76 yards including touchdown passes of 14 yards to Mike Boushka and 16 yards to Dave Condeni.

"Blair and Tim have been ahead of Grooms," said Faust, "but Scotty has improved rapidly. Right now I don't think I can rank them 1-2-3, they looked pretty balanced. I wouldn't lack confidence to put any of the three in a game."

The Irish didn't show too much in case there were scouts from Louisiana State, Purdue, Michigan, Penn State, Michigan State, Florida State or Southern Cal in the throng of 35,675. But they couldn't hide their depth even with the likes of linebacker Bob Crable, wingback Tony Hunter and tackle Tim Marshall sitting out the game.

"We have depth but we're going to need it with the schedule we have to play," said Faust. "I wouldn't mind using two offenses that can move the ball or two defenses if they can play defense."

Since this is Faust's first try at college coaching after posting a 173-17-2 record at Moeller in 18 seasons, he is constantly asked about the differences in the two levels.

"I haven't had to adjust yet," he said. "We'll have to wait until the first season is over."

Prep baseball star signs with SIU

Rich Koch, a senior at Kankakee Eastridge High School, has signed a national letter of intent to play baseball at SIU-C next year.

Koch, pronounced "Cook", signed last month, and has attended Saluki Coach Itchy Jones' summer baseball camps the last four years. His strength appears to be versatility, as he has played virtually every position except catcher at EHS. As a pitcher, Koch compiled an 18-11 record through his junior year, with 19+ strikeouts, 102 walks and a 2.27 earned-run average.

Koch throws and bats right-handed. Through his junior year, he had stolen 47 bases in 50 tries. As a junior, he hit .402 and swiped 25 bases in 27 attempts. Jones feels Koch's versatility will play a big part in his future with the Salukis.

"I think he can be at third base, first base or the outfield," Jones said.

The Salukis will be losing several starters to graduation after this season, including shortstop Bobby Doerrer, catcher Gary Kempton, and pitchers Paul Evans, Harold Brown, and Jerry Halstead.

Reitz, Durham deliver key hits in Chicago victory

CHICAGO (AP)—Ken Reitz hit a two-out RBI single in the 11th inning Wednesday to lift the Chicago Cubs to a 2-1 win over the Houston Astros.

The Cubs began the 11th against Frank LaCorte, 1-1, with a walk by Steve Dillard. Tim Blackwell sacrificed Dillard to second, and Reitz delivered the game-winning hit to left.

The Cubs broke a scoreless deadlock in the fourth. Bill Buckner beat out an infield hit and moved to second when Astros starter Nolan Ryan threw wildly to first on a pickoff attempt. Buckner took third when Steve Henderson flied to right field, and Leon Durham singled to right, scoring Buckner.

The Astros broke through in the sixth. After issuing walks to Gary Woods and Alan Ashby, Cubs starter Bill Caudill retired Kiko Garcia on a fly ball and Ryan popped out attempting to sacrifice. Terry Puhl punched a single into right field, scoring Woods.

After walking Craig Reynolds to load the bases, Caudill gave way to left-hander Doug Capilla, who struck out pinch hitter Mike Ivie to end the inning.

Wills axed as manager by slumping Mariners

SEATTLE (AP)—Manager Maury Wills was fired by the Seattle Mariners Wednesday and the club called a press conference to announce an interim manager.

Wills, the fleet-footed base-stealing king of the Los Angeles Dodgers in the 1960s, was named manager of the Mariners Aug. 4.

The club has a 6-18 record this season, the worst in the American League. The Mariners were in last place in the West, 14 games behind first-place Oakland, going into Wednesday night's games.

The Mariners said Wills' contract runs through this year.

Wills became the third black manager in major-league history when the Mariners selected him to replace Darrell Johnson, who had been manager of the expansion club since it was created in 1977.

because everyone had a good time. I think you should play' to have fun," Stang said.

When it came state tournament time, the underclassmen's nerves began to flare again. Although SIU-C was seeded second for the tourney, they finished a dismal last place in the five-team field.

Stang made the all-tournament team both years.

Stang has one mo. semester at SIU-C before looking for a job.

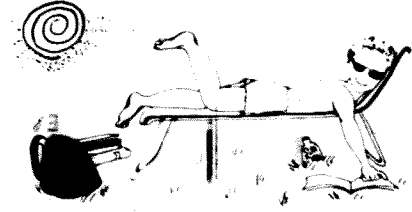

Create your own kind of summer.

Try Triton's new "5-8-5."

Don't let summer get away from you this year. You've probably got dozens of things you want to do, earn some money, take a trip, spend time with your friends—even hit the books a bit to ease the load at school next fall.

How will you fit it all in before September?

Triton can help you out with "5-8-5"—a summer plan that lets you earn some college credit and still have time for work, play or both.

Lighten your load.

Are you dreading next fall when you have to take that impossible course along with all your other classes?

By taking one or two of your more difficult courses at Triton this summer, you can put all your study time where you need it most so you're sure to have an easier load next fall.

Triton courses are equivalent in content and quality to any that you'd take during the school year.

Cut your costs.

You can take classes at Triton at a very low cost. Tuition rates for in-district residents are just $15.00 per semester hour—much less than the costs at state universities and a lot lower than private college tuition. And since you'll be living at home, you won't have to worry about dorm or apartment expenses.

Going to Triton this summer could be the best inflation fighter you've found yet.

Pack work and school together.

Triton's summer classes can fit into any work schedule. If you choose a 5-week class, you'll still have almost two full months for a job. The first 5-week session could be especially good for you, since many employers want to hire summer help until the peak vacation period—July and August. By then, you'll be done with summer school and ready for work.

Even if you decide to take classes during all three sessions, you'll still be able to work. We've scheduled a lot of popular courses during evening hours, so you can leave the daytime open for your job.

Pick up some extra credits.

Graduation day seems very away and you're in a hurry. The courses you take at Triton this summer can bring that degree a lot closer.

The credits you earn here are fully transferable to four-year schools. We have a staff of advisors who can answer your questions about which Triton courses best fulfill your school's requirements.

With our "5-8-5" plan, you can rack up lots of credits by taking classes during all three sessions.

Rainy day feeling

Rain brought the SIU-C baseball team's home season to an early close Wednesday when the Saluki's doubleheader against Illinois was canceled. The Hill Gang will have to wait until next spring, and the new scoreboard (upper right), won't get a real workout until then, either.

Illini ponder withdrawal from Big Ten

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Talk that Illinois may withdraw from the Big Ten continued to circulate Wednesday and Chancellor John Cribbet said the university is "quite serious in considering it an option."

"And we don't really have many options," Cribbet said in an interview. "We would like to stay in the conference if entirely possible. We have not received any feelers from the Big Eight, nor have we put any out. We have not reached the point of looking where we might land."

The university community still is reeling from the "severity" of sanctions imposed on it by the Big Ten in the eligibility case of quarterback Dave Wilson. The junior college transfer student played last season after taking the Big Ten to court when it failed to grant him permission to play. Among charges the conference has levied against Illinois are misrepresentation, deception, lack of cooperation and failing to abide by conference rules.

A defense prepared by Charles Brown, chairman of the faculty senate's Committee of Athletic and Recreation, said the school never was guilty of willfully breaking any rules or deceiving anyone.

In addition to banning all Illinois teams from postseason play for two years, the Big Ten placed the school on probation for three years and denied the Illini their share of the conference football and basketball pot for two years—a $1 million rap. Attached to the sanctions was an "understanding" the university can petition to have each penalty reduced by one year.

Cribbet said the penalties are far out of line "even if the findings were true. They are as bad as if we had done something evil."

"The tragedy of this thing is that it has taken a decade in coming back from the slush fund incident," Cribbet said. "Just when things were beginning to turn around, now comes this and we have done nothing to deserve it. Under the penalties we run the risk of another decade of struggling back. We want quality teams. We are not out to build an athletic powerhouse. So we have to give a good look at our options, and a serious look at withdrawing from the conference."

The revelation in 1966 of under-the-table payoffs from a slush fund brought the previously harshest penalty to Illinois. The school was told to fire football coach Pete Elliott and basketball coaches Harry Combes and Howard Braun or get thrown out of the Big Ten.

The three coaches departed and so did Athletics Director Doug Mills.

The Daily Illini, campus student newspaper, quoted a "reliable source" Tuesday as saying that Neale Stoner, athletics director, Mike White, head football coach, and his entire staff would resign if the university accepted the sanctions without a fight.

"Stoner never made such a threat—and, of course, we are fighting," said Cribbet. "But we can see the effect (on Illinois athletics) over the long haul. And given the consequences of events, we can see where they would be thinking of leaving Illinois, maybe not this year, but in the future."

"At this time, we simply have to consider the consequences of dropping out of the Big Ten and its ramifications against the consequences of staying in under the findings and the sanctions which we think are inappropriate," said Cribbet. "We are trying to proceed with as much concern and caution as we can, but it is obviously a complex matter and it is not something that can be decided overnight."

"I must point out, this is not a decision which I or President (Stanley) Ikenberry can make alone. This would be a Board of Trustees decision. The board's next meeting is in Chicago on May 21."

Stoner, speaking Tuesday on behalf of himself and White, issued a statement calling the sanctions "totally unacceptable" and "unusually severe." He said the Big Ten charges were "basically untrue."

Only senior was spark for young softball squad

By Cindy Clausen
Staff Writer

When Pat Stang came to visit SIU-C from the College of Lake County near Grayslake, she found everything she wanted. A fine softball team, a beautiful campus and a fine recreation program in which to pursue her major.

With just one exception, everything has worked out well for first baseman Stang since she decided to attend SIU-C. Take a look at this year's softball team's win-loss record and you'll know the exception.

Stang was the only senior on this year's 11-22 team. She was also the team's captain.

So, when the losses kept piling up, Stang was the one required to keep a stiff upper lip.

"At times, I was really depressed about it," Stang said. "Since it was my last year, plus being the captain, I had wanted it to be a good year. When we kept losing, I'd think, 'What's wrong? Why aren't we winning?' I felt like there was something I wasn't doing."

Stang may have felt the pressure of being the lone senior and captain, but she also realizes a team of eight freshmen, six sophomores, and one junior amounts to inexperience that is difficult to overcome. Even the junior, Lucy Poprawski, was a first-year player after transferring from the same junior college Stang was from.

The lack of experience was most evident in the team's apparent inability to hit the ball. In fact, their defensive efforts were considered second only to the state champions, Illinois State.

The team mustered a mere .176 batting average to the opponents' .215.

"When I talked to the freshmen about the state tournament, I said we'd be up against (Bonnie) Kramer from ISU. She's the top pitcher in the state," Stang explained. "A lot of the freshmen would go, 'Oh, no. We don't have a chance,' just by hearing her name. I wished I'd never told them then."

Stang was not quite so intimidated. Her batting average of .291 was the highest on the team. She scored 14 of the team's 67 runs and accounted for four of the team's seven home runs, including a grand slam.

Still, Stang did not achieve her goal for the year.

"I wanted to go out with at least a .300. I think back, if I'd have hit it one more time..." Stang said.

Technically, Stang is going out with a .303 average, combining her junior average of .327 with this year's average.

"I think hitting is usually a mental thing," Stang said. "If you go up thinking, 'I can hit off her,' you'll have a better chance to do it. A lot of the players went up thinking how good the pitcher was."

Because there were so many young players on the team, Stang's title of captain and senior standing were serious responsibilities.

"I really didn't feel that much older because last year was my first year down here. They would always call me the 'Old lady' though, especially when I was running to first base," Stang said. "They would come to me a lot with questions and problems, though. I kind of liked that. All except for the 'Old lady' part."

Stang said despite the team's poor record, the pain was lessened by the team's sticking together.

"It was still fun. Everybody was friends and got along even though we lost," Stang said.

After a 21-inning marathon with seventh-ranked Missouri, it almost appeared the team could pull together and salvage the season. The Salukis won their next four road games, two of which were against powerful Western Illinois.

It was at Western that the team decided to loosen up and have fun, according to Stang.

"When we have fun, we do well. At Western we won
