USO OKs Health Service fee plan

By James Derk
Staff Writer

The Undergraduate Student Organization has approved a plan that would require students visiting the Health Service to pay a $3 users fee. USO President Jerry Cook said the user fee is an alternative to a $13 fee increase for the Health Service.

"There is no question that a user fee for patrons of the Health Service is better than an across-the-board increase of $13," Cook said. Both the USO Executive Cabinet and the Student Senate have approved the plan.

The plan would also introduce a 10-percent reduction in coverage for off-campus care.

Cook said that in the face of rising tuition costs, students cannot afford a $13 increase in the Health Service Fee.

Cook said only 52 percent of the undergraduates use the Health Service at all, so the user fee would raise the additional funds needed for the Health Service without burdening the entire student body.

"It is really a philosophical question whether we simply charge only those using the service or charge everyone equally," Cook said. "I feel that the students that utilize the Health Service should bear more of the financial responsibility for the services it provides."

Cook said the Health Service

Policy Board also approved the plan. Sam McVay, director of Student Health Programs, was unavailable for comment on the proposal.

The reduction in off-campus coverage would affect students who seek medical care from agencies other than the Health Service. Current policy allows students to be referred off-campus for specialized care. The student's Health Service Fee pays for that visit. The new plan would pay 90 percent of that cost.

Kaskaskia Island faces 'critical' floods

Water from recent flooding continued to swamp Kaskaskia Island Thursday — a situation authorities described as critical.

As of 4 p.m., the Mississippi River had risen to a level of 40.91 feet and at least four feet of water covered roads leading from a bridge to the island.

Sandbags were placed on a 40-foot levee to hold back flood waters on the northeast side of the island, increasing the height of the levee to 41.5 feet, according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

One thousand acres of the 10,000-acre island were covered by water, most of which has seeped from the levee.

All residents of the island have evacuated and only emergency personnel remained on the island, as well as about 30 to 40 volunteers who helped sandbag parts of the island.

Stan Hurst, levee and drainage commissioner for Kaskaskia Island, said danger from the flood waters is high.

"The way everything stands now, we're in danger of losing the island," Hurst said. "If the levee does break, the damage could be in excess of $10 million."

The biggest dangers facing the island were high winds expected Thursday night and more rain forecast for Friday and Saturday.

According to the Army Corps of Engineers, the recent flooding is worse than that of last December.

All barge traffic on the river from Cairo to Chester was halted at dusk Wednesday to prevent washes from washing over the levees.

Traveling to Kaskaskia Island may have proved a bit difficult Thursday afternoon, with a flooded Mississippi River standing in the way. The river was a reported 40.91 feet deep.

Keep ombudsman, GPSC urges

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

The Ombudsman Office should be maintained, the Graduate and Professional Student Council unanimously agreed Wednesday night.

The GPSC, in a resolution passed at its meeting in the Student Center, opposed a recommendation made in the Report on Non-Academic Priorities Committee to eliminate the office.

Dan Venturi, GPSC vice president, said that the Ombudsman Office offers valuable services through counseling, solving grievances and helping people through the University bureaucracy.

Ingrid Gadway, University Ombudsman, said Wednesday that she personally felt the administration would not find anyone else who will spend the energy to follow through on the services her office provides.

The Ombudsman Office, which has provided a community service since 1969, handles problems dealing with grade complaints, registration, alleged academic dishonesty, appeals to University suspension, just to name a few, she said.

Gadway said the office would also handle complaints regarding the recently approved Sexual Harassment Policy. The policy was approved by the Faculty Senate in March.

"Since we don't advocate but mediate, we can handle student versus student conflicts," she told the council. "Since every grievance has two sides, we mediate to solve the problem."

Gadway said the GPSC recommendation proves that the office has constituency support to be maintained.

In other business, the GPSC approved a proposal that would require anyone using the Career Planning and Placement Center to pay a $15 user fee.

The center assists students and alumni seeking employment, with the maximum benefit of the services to those students who file resumes one semester prior to graduation.

The regular services the center provides, such as access to portfolios and pamphlets, would be free, according to the proposal.

But Nick Rion, a graduate student in community development, said the council shouldn't rush into this without considering the proposal in depth.

"We're already paying for this indirectly," he said. "It's a service provided on campus, we don't know the history."

Dave Rodgers, a graduate student in accountancy, disagreed with Rion.

"Some things are legitimate to pay for," Rodgers said.

Grad Council approves amended pay raise plan

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

The Graduate Council amended and then accepted a plan Thursday from President Albert Somit for distributing faculty and administrative professional salary increases.

The council accepted the amended plan at its last meeting of the semester held in the Student Center.

According to the council's plan, similar to the first of four sent to campus constituency groups by Somit, 60 percent of the salary increase pool would be allocated for general merit and outstanding performance increases. 10 percent would be used for promotions, equity and market value, and 30 percent would be used for cost-of-living adjustments allocated across the board.

John Utgaard, professor of geology, presented the motion, saying that he felt outstanding performance and general merit should be included together.

"I feel those two are quite similar and are just different degrees of merit," Utgaard said.

Somit's plan would have allocated 50 percent for general merit and a separate 10 percent for outstanding performance increases. A disadvantage of that plan, the original proposal stated, is that it may provide more or less allocation than needed in any of the categories, with "wide swings" in the size of the salary pool.

David S. Clarke, director of comprehensive planning and design, said that the council should make a recommendation to the Faculty Senate to see what the faculty preference is regarding the salary plans.

"We shouldn't subdivide the faculty to create an ambiguous response to the administration," Clarke said.

The Faculty Senate has a committee working on an alternative plan to those being solicited. Somit had asked that constituency groups have a response to the plans ready by May 15, in time for the Board of Trustees meeting in June.

The council accepted a resolution suggesting that the University use the machinery already in place — financial exigency — for calling salary reductions, instead of establishing a new policy. The Faculty Senate passed a similar resolution last month.

"We ought to support the concept of financial exigency and not proceed with fiscal necessity," said William Klimstra, professor of zoology.

The University had drafted a separate plan for reducing salaries to meet a short-term problem, because, Somit said, using the financial exigency clause would not solve a short-term crisis.

"It's not clear we can invoke that clause for cutting salaries" to meet a possible budget problem for next year, Somit said Thursday.

William Hardenbergh, council chairman, said that he agreed with the idea of handling the problem with the machinery already in place.

"We have no alternative but to accept that which already exists," he said. "The board lawyers say we can't do that, but I say we can."

In other business, the council accepted a report from its Research Committee explaining the problems that researchers encounter when general furloughs and other forms of salary reductions are declared.

Jack Snowman, chairman of the committee, said that while such developments may be viewed positively by some people because they improve the University's financial situation, their long-term effects are likely to be quite negative, especially on researchers.

The council also accepted a report from Educational Policies Committee which suggests several amendments to the Sexual Harassment Policy approved by the Faculty Senate in March.

One of the recommendations states that informal complaints must be filed within 30 days, but 60 days or one week after the end of the semester should be allowed for filing a formal complaint. This is intended to make it possible for a student, fearing a lower grade, to file a complaint against an instructor after the semester has ended.

Another recommendation suggests that a timetable be listed in the policy to clarify the times and procedures to follow when filing any complaint of sexual harassment. The report states that the Ombudsman Office should handle these complaints.

Southern Illinoisan reportedly becoming morning publication

The Southern Illinoisan newspaper is reportedly making plans to become a morning publication beginning in June.

Neither Peter Selkove, editor, nor John Gardner, publisher, would confirm reports Thursday that the newspaper's staff had been told the changeover was definite and a date set. One reported date was June 13, another was June 1.

The newspaper has been studying the possibility of morning distribution for about three years, according to Selkove. Gardner said that although a final decision has not been made, a study of the feasibility of instituting morning operation is under way.

"It has been looked at several times, but I asked that we do more detailed planning to determine if it is possible to implement in June," Gardner said. "If there are problems, it will be delayed."

The Southern Illinoisan, which is currently an evening daily newspaper, is considering the switch because marketing research has indicated that it would be appealing in the market and because of a number of editorial advantages, Gardner said.

"It is a good solution when covering a broad geographic area," Gardner said.

A morning edition also appeals to retail advertisers because the paper has a longer shelf life. Morning operation would allow for timely breaks on advertising specials, Gardner said.

The Southern Illinoisan is owned by the Lee Newspapers division of Lee Enterprises, which owns 17 newspapers in the West and Midwest. The Southern Illinoisan has a circulation of 33,000 daily and 35,000 on Sundays.

Lebanese forces called out after Beirut bombardment

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Amin Gemayel alerted his fledgling air force and artillery Thursday night for their first combat after Christian-Druse fighting in the hills spilled over into Beirut. The capital suffered its heaviest bombardment since the end of the Israeli-Palestinian war last summer.

Senior military sources said Gemayel ordered the air force, which consists of eight Hawker Hunter jet fighters and a squadron of missile-equipped helicopter gunships, and the army artillery to "attack and silence" the batteries that rained shells on Beirut if they resumed the attack.

It had not been determined who was responsible for the firing.

Dozens of rockets and shells were fired into the site from the hills over a period of more than five hours Thursday afternoon, killing at least seven people and wounding 25, police said.

One shell landed near an Israeli convoy southeast of the city, killing an Israeli sergeant and wounding nine others, the Israeli military command announced.

Three machine-gun rounds hit a helicopter carrying Col. James M. Mead of Boston, commander of U.S. Marine peacekeeping force, who was trying to find out which side was shelling the city. None of the Americans was hurt, but Mead had to terminate his mission abruptly.

The hills where the shelling originated are occupied by rightist Christian and leftist Druse militias as well as the Israeli army. All denied any involvement, and there was no way to prove who initiated or kept up the shelling.

Most of the shells fell in Christian neighborhoods and suburbs on the north and east sides of the city, indicating the Druse were hitting their Christian foes' relatives and allies.

The Lebanese Forces, the coalition of Christian militias dominated by Gemayel's Phalange Party, blamed the bombardment and accompanying fighting in the hills on the Druse Progressive Socialist Party. It said Syria instigated the attacks to sabotage Secretary of State George P. Shultz's attempt to negotiate an agreement for the withdrawal of foreign forces from Lebanon.

The Druse party blamed the Lebanese forces, saying the Christian militia "began shooting at people in the streets or working in their shops and fields" in the Chouf and Aley regions. The only Druse member of the Gemayel's Cabinet, Finance Minister Adel Hamiyeh, said the bombardment was aimed at wrecking any chance for peace.

News Roundup

Airliner avoids water crash

MIAMI (AP) — A jetliner carrying 172 people lost power in all three engines Thursday and nearly ditched in the Atlantic Ocean before the pilot restarted one engine and limped to a landing. Federal officials said oil seals had not been placed on the engines before takeoff.

No injuries were reported as the Eastern Airlines L-1011 plunged 17,200 feet — to within 2,800 feet of the water — while panicked passengers donned their life vests. After one engine was restarted, the pilot turned back and landed safely in Miami.

Two nuclear plants face shutdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two nuclear power plants in the densely populated area around New York City will be shut down next month unless their owners improve plans for responding to an emergency, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said Thursday.

The Indian Point power complex in northern Westchester County, 30 miles north of New York, would be the first in the nation to be closed for failure to meet a requirement that a surrounding 10-mile zone can be quickly evacuated.

Reagan courts voters in Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — President Reagan, courting Mexican-American support in vote-rich Texas, pressed his military and economic policies in Central America with a warning Thursday that the region is threatened by "enemies of democracy."

The president, attending festivities marking Cinco de Mayo, a Mexican holiday commemorating the May 5, 1862, defeat of French troops, claimed credit for repairing U.S. relations with Mexico, appointing 130 Hispanics to high-level jobs in his administration.

Birth control-teen bill advances

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois General Assembly edged closer Thursday to approving a bill that would require parents to be told when teen-agers receive birth control services from government-aided groups.

The House Executive Committee voted 14-1 to send the measure to the floor, mirroring action taken by a Senate committee earlier this week.

SIU-C dean takes new post

Jewell Friend is resigning as dean of General Academic Programs to take a position at East Tennessee State.

Friend, who has served as dean since 1979, will assume her post as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at East Tennessee, located in Johnson City, Aug. 1.

No decision has been made on procedures to replace her at SIU-C, according to Vice President for Academic Affairs and Research John Guyon.

Friend was unavailable for comment Thursday, but she stated in a news release that "the position is a challenging one and I already feel a commitment and kinship with the school, its fine faculty and students."

"Their academic soil is fertile and I would like to be a part of their growth," she said.

Friend, 55, a native of New York City, came to SIU-C in 1967 as an instructor in English and was promoted to professor in 1982. She directed undergraduate programs in English from 1974 to 1976 and was associate dean of the College Liberal Arts from 1976 to 1978.

She graduated from the University of Miami in 1959 and holds a master's degree from Tulane University and a doc-

She is a founding member of the National Association for Remedial and Developmental Skills and has served as director of the Language and Applied Linguistics Institute in Belleville.

Mothers, others to march for peace

Mothers and others who want peace can unite in a Mother's Day March for Peace at 1 p.m. Sunday beginning at the main door of the Student Center.

Mother's Day was initiated as a protest against the needless death of children in wars. Consequently, having a march on this day is significant, says Nick Rion, director of M.d-American Peace Project, the group sponsoring the march.

Participants should be prepared to hike to the Federal Building.

Marchers are being encouraged to creatively express their desires for peace by decorating T-shirts, posters, etc. and bringing suggestions for peace songs or chants to the march.

A rally at the Federal Building featuring speakers and possibly a reading of poetry is scheduled after the march, Rion said.

said, and was reportedly stolen between April 1 and Wednesday.

The owner of the tool, Charles Hall, Route 5 in Murphysboro, was an employee of Otis Elevator Co., 201 W. Kennicott St. in Carbondale.

'V' for Victory

HOORAY FOR Harold McFarlin. Hooray for Southern Illinois. Both have a reason to shout for joy this week.

For Harold McFarlin the week brought the incomparably good news of life — an unexpected grant of $40,000 from the National Institute of Health had been made or McFarlin's behalf enabling him to obtain the heart transplant operation he so desperately needs.

For the Southern Illinois community the news of the grant was a "feather in the cap" of every group that raised money (and there were plenty) and every individual who donated to the cause (and there were plenty of them, too.) Whether it was a quarter or a dollar dropped in a can passed around or a $25 ticket to a dinner-dance, every person who donated and worked in McFarlin's behalf ought to be proud of themselves. And proud of their community. In light of these times of economic uncertainty, the $40,000 the people of Southern Illinois raised was a miracle.

The front page of Tuesday's Daily Egyptian showed a picture of a confident, smiling Harold McFarlin, fingers raised in a "V" fashion. "V" for victory. It was a victory for Harold McFarlin. And it was a victory for Southern Illinois. Both have a reason to shout for joy this week.

The Greek life

IF EVER THERE was a misunderstood and maligned group on campus, it would have to be the 22 fraternities and sororities that make up the Inter-Greek Council. Though not a major part of campus life at SIU-C, Greek life, for many, is an important one.

Devoid of the stereotypical campus elitism that often is associated with fraternities and sororities on other campuses, the Greek bunch at SIU-C is a community-minded group.

They participate in initiating incoming SIU-C students through Welcomefest, the Inter-Greek Council open house and Watermelonfest. They play a big part in organizing and running Parent's Day, the Miss Ebonyess Pageant and the Theta Xi Variety Show. In December, they sponsor Operation Merry Christmas for the children of the area. In order to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, they annually sponsor a dance-a-thon. Next Halloween they plan to hold a 10-kilometer run for the March of Dimes.

Scholarship plays an important part of Greek life, too. Most chapters require members to maintain a minimum grade point average. The Council annually recognizes the fraternity or sorority with the best scholastic effort with the Scholarship Award. This year the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity captured the award with a 3.1 grade point average.

Dick Gregory, comedian and civil rights activist; Harvey Welch, dean of student life; and Nancy Hunter Harris, director of the office of student life, are all former SIU-C Greeks.

It is good that at SIU-C, unlike some other major universities, students do not feel "forced" to join a fraternity or sorority in order to be socially active. But for the students who are interested in the Greek life, SIU-C offers one of the best and one of the most constructive.

'If not for the military, America could be communist'

In the DE Tuesday, May 3, I read a letter entitled "ROTC Glamorizes War" written by Maryann Horowitz. This letter made me see that something should be said for the military and our country.

I graduated high school in 1979 and signed up for the Illinois Air National Guard I do not feel I am against peace, I feel I am for freedom, all of our freedom. The way the USSR is moving in around us we need to defend our rights and freedom.

It may be easy to speak poorly about military but if it were not for our military we might not have the luxuries we enjoy today. I realize that some people are not meant for the military but those people who are in the Army ROTC, Air Force ROTC or any other branch of the military should be praised for their commitment to peace. We cannot live in a utopian world, so we must protect our rights. The United States means something to other countries in the world, the chance to be free.

I guess the key word is loyalty because without this loyalty and commitment we could be a communist country. — Donald Ernest Alberda Jr., Junior, Aviation Technology.

Letters

Pro-war ROTC a myth

This is in regard to the letter entitled "ROTC glamorizes war" by Maryann Horowitz. I think Miss Horowitz is criticizing the wrong people.

First of all, I don't believe that the article "glamorized war," however, that is personal opinion. The question is whether or not ROTC glamorizes war, and the answer is certainly not. The people to be criticized, if anyone should, is the DE staff.

These ROTC cadets were involved in a training exercise. If military personnel did not train for the possibility of war, this country would not stand as a democracy for long, as a conventional war would be not only possible but also winnable for our enemies. The Russians would not hesitate to attack the United States if we had an untrained military.

Secondly, contrary to popular belief, ROTC cadets are not "war mongers" bent on the destruction of human life. I am an Air Force ROTC cadet and I do not know anyone in the Corp that is pro-war. No one wants to go to war. Deterrence is the key, the kind of deterrence that only a fully trained, ready-to-fight military can be.

I am not in ROTC to go to war. I am in ROTC because I want to fly, I want to see some of this world I live in and I want to see my country. I also want to protect human beings, such as yourself, children, nature, and our healthy peaceful environment that Miss Horowitz advocates. — Kris Ingmausson, Sophomore, AFROTC cadet

Why no participation?

This letter is intended for all undergraduate recreation majors. As this year's president of the Student Recreation Society, I was amazed by the lack of interest and participation by you. Don't you realize this is a professional organization?

Some of the benefits include getting to know students and teachers in the other recreational areas; meeting professionals in the field; making job contacts for future field work, internships and full time positions; and, of course, your involvement looks good on your resume.

I hope that there will be a Student Recreation Society in the years to follow. I'd hate to see this organization fold because of the students lack of interest. — Michelle Metzler, Student Recreation Society.

In artist's eyes, Morris is just right

Had it been a couturier who criticized the Morris Statue for not having "legs nor feet" she might have had a greater knowledge of art. She didn't compare sculpture to sculpture, but to art.

I wanted to show President Morris as a representative of knowledge and so dateless, ageless. The academic gown does just that. It took me one year to decided how to represent President Morris in his modern garb and produce a work of art.

In the statue of Morris, I wanted the onlooker to focus on the head, the hands and the seal of SIU. The feet were irrelevant. Hands often say that which words do not express. A psychoanalyst knows how to watch the body that doesn't speak but says a lot. This might have been my profession had I not chosen a more complex medium: Thoughts in mute form.

The critic of legless and footless art, had she seen sculpture in museums or even in books, might have noticed Rodin's "Man Walking." She would have wanted to walk with him, even though he has no head.

Michael Angelo's favorite sculpture, which he called his "Teacher," was a torso. Does one have to add bodies to portray heads or busts?

The critic might have seen in classic paintings — as she compared President Morris statue to such — that some angels are painted to the waistline only, but one can't criticize this art because those angels can fly even with heads only as long as they have wings attached.

To enhance her knowledge, I'm showing a statue of mine with legs and feet included. They belong to an Indian statesman in his native garb. Here the feet are essential. The chappels (sandals) he wore were part of his national attire and he is in a pose as if about to walk.

However, I must say something about President Morris's character, as will be described in my forthcoming book, "Biographies in Bronze," to be published by Vikas, New Delhi. A man who could stand for one and a half hours almost daily — stretched over a year — with his head only a few inches from the ceiling, with perspiration like a waterfall in temperatures of up to 100 degrees and no air-conditioning showed a great patient foresightedness.

On the other hand, the sculptor, who had only two feet to move back for perspective and was forced to use a diminishing glass to achieve that perspective, was no less foresighted in her patience. They both knew the outcome.

Morris was born on April 11. I was born April 7. Once I said to him: you pull down two days and I'll pull up two days so we can celebrate our birthday on April 9. We did! On that day was the unveiling of the statue of President Morris. The sculptor too celebrated in her heart with a joy no one could comprehend — all to herself. — Fredda Brilliant

Collecting city's odds and ends fills Tim Miller's home and life

Empty beverage cans fill his house, his wheelchair and his life.

Almost every day, 33-year-old Tim Miller navigates his wheelchair to the Student Center, talks to people and then spends 10 to 15 hours collecting cans and other objects in Carbondale.

"Mostly I like to pick up cans, but I also take bottles, newspapers, wood, little pieces of metal or anything that looks like it might be useful for making something."

Miller, who was born with no legs and no arms below the elbows, uses a pole with a hook on one end and a point on the other to pick up odds and ends to cart home in a box attached to the back of his wheelchair.

"About four years ago, I got tired of getting flat tires on my wheelchair from broken bottles in the streets, so I went to the police and asked them if I could start gathering bottles and other stuff," Miller said. He sells cans, bottles and newspapers for recycling.

"I collect about 600 to 800 pounds of cans each month, but my business is starting to go down because college students have started doing this, too," he said. "Believe me, you can't get rich off it."

Almost every corner of Miller's home is filled with things he has collected. Boxes of broken glass, pieces of wood and metal, cans and old bicycle tires are stacked up to the ceiling in a bedroom and several small storage areas.

Miller said he often uses bicycle tires from his collection to repair the ones on his wheelchair.

Miller feels he has broken down a wall that had existed between University students and him. He now considers many students friends and even has some of them saving cans for him.

"In the beginning, though, people weren't all that nice," Miller said. "A lot of people don't like to see the handicapped and act like they are afraid or something."

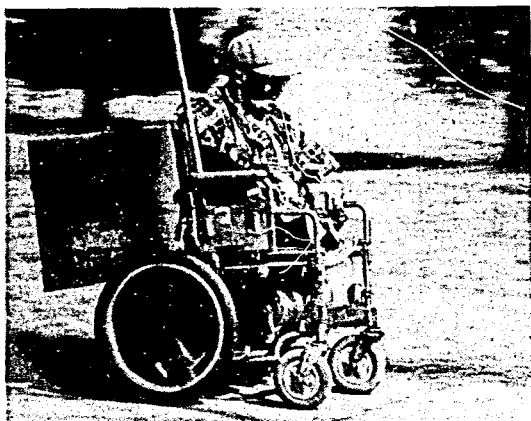

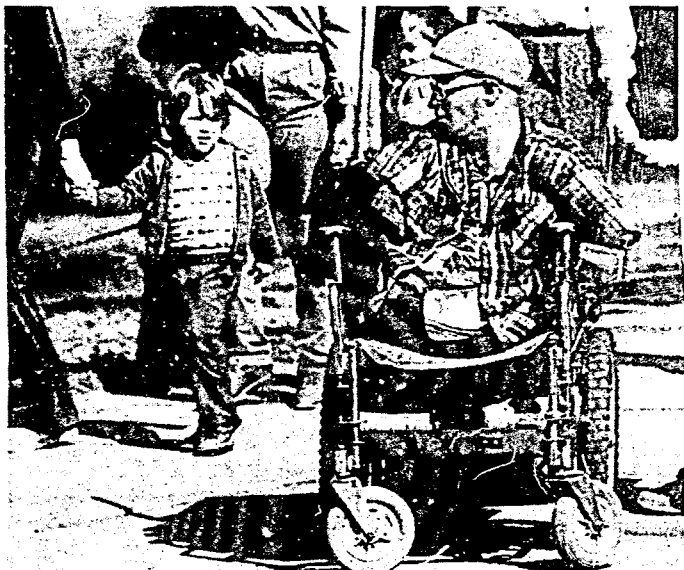

Miller tries not to let the reactions bother him. After all, as he said, "I'm the only one like me."

To many students, Frisbee and spring are synonymous. This year spring is late, but the Frisbees have been flying for six weeks. Die-hard Frisbee freaks can't wait for balmy, sunny days. They are "ultimate" players.

Ultimate is a graceful and intense sport. It is a game that spectators can't help but be drawn into, maybe because it is so fast-moving and uncomplicated.

Ultimate is played on a field 40 yards wide and 70 yards long, with 30 feet deep end zones. Seven people make up each team. The object is for the offensive team to throw the disc up the field and catch it in the end zone, while the defensive team attempts to block or intercept passes. A catch in the end zone is worth one point.

No referees interrupt the flow of ultimate. An honor system is used instead, in which players call their own fouls, and calls are nearly always honored.

It is sometimes described as a "gentlemen's" sport. During one intense game, a player was being unnecessarily rough and physical. The crowd booed him into submission and play continued in a more sportsman-like fashion.

Jane Larlewig, 22, explains ultimate as being "like soccer, basketball, and football. It has the speed of soccer, the moves of basketball like pivoting, and it's played on a field similar to football, with end zones."

A lot more goes into ultimate than simply throwing and catching. There is a saying among ultimate players: "If you're not horizontal, then you're not playing." Good ultimate players are expected to "get horizontal" and to feign impossible catches.

Although last weekend's weather was hardly conducive to Frisbee playing, rain and wind didn't stop Divine Wind, Full Tilt and 14 visiting teams from Gainesville, Fla., Springfield Mo., Kentucky, Lawrence, Ka., and Chicago from playing ultimate at the Southern Ultimate Jam III.

Five teams participated in the women's division. Divine Wind swept through their pool Saturday with a 4-0 record. They won second place in the tournament.

Full Tilt finished their pool Saturday with a record of 2-1, losing to the Windy City men's team.

Full Tilt won third place in the tournament after beating Daddy Ultimate from Springfield, Mo., in Sunday's consolation game.

Both SIU-C teams will compete in East Lansing on Memorial Day weekend. In August, Divine Wind will cruise to the World Disc Championships for a week long competition in San Jose. Divine Wind qualified for San Jose when they took first place in St. Louis, April 23 and 24.

Ultimate has become more competitive since 1972, when Princeton lost to Rutgers in the first recognized intercollegiate ultimate game. Incidentally, this game was held exactly 100 years after the first intercollegiate football game, when Princeton also lost to Rutgers in 1872. History does repeat itself.

The roots of ultimate originate in a New Jersey high school in the 1970s. This may explain why the East coast teams are some of the strongest in the nation. The Eastern ultimate tournaments are also the most prestigious in which to compete.

Graduate student finds new fossil

By Jeanna Hunter
Staff Writer

A dream came true for Joe Devera when he discovered and named a new fossil.

Devera's fossil is a new genus, a rank in the naming of a new species. The fossil is actually both a new species and a new genus, he said, because it is part of a problematic species closely related to green algae.

Although he named the fossil, Devera said he couldn't release the name because it hasn't been published. Until it is published in the Journal of Paleontology, a professional publication, the name can not be released.

The fossil was discovered during Devera's thesis work about a half mile north of Grand Tower.

Based on research he had done two years ago, Devera, a graduate student in science and geology, consulted other geologists. He said he determined the fossil was a new genus of algae.

"I was surprised to find a new species in Grand Tower," he said. "I've been working there the last two years, but the school's been working there on and off for the last 20 years."

Upon the discovery, Devera, 29, said he felt elated.

"At first I wasn't sure, but then I realized it was quite new," he said.

Devera said that his goal is to add to science and with this discovery, he feels he has done that.

Devera is a 1980 graduate of Northern Illinois University. He plans to graduate from SIU-C in August with a master's degree in science and geology.

Growing credit union to offer greater number of services

By Patrick Williams
Staff Writer

The SIU Employees Credit Union has been growing lately. Recent changes in the union include allowing alumni to become members and plans to join an automatic teller network.

"As we get bigger, we're able to offer a greater number of services," said Dale Schumacher, president of the union.

The union has been growing so fast, it is now ranked 34th out of the 924 credit unions in Illinois.

Three years ago, the union had a five-member staff. Sixteen people now work for it, Schumacher said.

"A few years ago, part of the problem was staff training," Schumacher said. Trying to find enough qualified people to fill positions was a major consideration, he said.

Trouble in staffing may have been because of the unwillingness of professional bankers to recognize a credit union as a legitimate financial institution, Schumacher said.

He said some credit unions do not have the staying power to gain a place in the banking industry.

But apparently that is not a problem for the SIU credit union, since it has been in existence since 1938. It formed first as the Jackson County Teachers Credit Union and began with seven people.

The union has been growing in spurts since then, Schumacher said.

"We had a period of pretty rapid growth in the '60s" he said.

In 1979, when the union first offered checking, it experienced another period of fast growth.

"We have people who are interested in our services," Schumacher said. "I think our quality has picked up tremendously."

He said he has dealt with banks in the area who did not realize the union was over 40 years old, but thought it had just begun in the 1970s.

Before expanding its membership to include alumni, the union serviced nearly 50 percent of its potential market, above the 39 percent average for credit unions in Illinois. Swelling the possible number of members by adding alumni has sent the union's percentage down.

Credit unions, which began during the depression, limit their potential members and do not have stockholders so they may earn tax breaks. Dividends from their investments are paid directly to members.

Any person who is an SIU employee or an alumna, or a family member who lives with either, may join the union.

The SIU Employees Credit Union currently has 6,524 members with assets totalling over $13 million.

The union will begin issuing VISA credit cards to its members by the end of June in addition to joining the teller network by fall, Schumacher said. The only other services offered by full-service banks that the union does not offer are safe-deposit boxes and first-mortgage loans.

"We have done a number of things and I guess we've done them right," Schumacher said.

playwright, well-known for stage thrillers who hasn't had a hit play in 17 years and is willing to kill for one.

The story follows the writer's discovery of a sure-fire hit written by a student of his — a student he is willing to kill — appropriate the work. Out of this beguiling set-up, springs a plot full of interesting and surprising twists that lead to more than a few victims sprawled around the stage.

This murder-mystery will be directed by Cal McLein and will be performed July 14-17 at 8 p.m.

THE FINAL PRODUCTION of Summer Playhouse '83 will be the musical comedy "Guys and Dolls," based on Dan-on Runyon's tales of the Big City. Through score and lyrics by Frank Loesser, the musical tells the tale of two "romances." The first revolves around slick, big-time gambler Sky Masterson and a Salvation Army lass, with the second concerning the 14-year engagement of crap-game entrepreneur Nathan Detroit and his girl Adelaide.

Included in this tale of seams, dreams and romance, are such songs as "Luck Be A Lady," "Take Back Your Minks" and "Adelaide's Lament." "Guys And Dolls" will be performed July 22 through 24 and 28 through 31. It will be directed by Judith Lyons and conducted by Mike Hanes.

SEASON TICKETS will be on sale May 16 through June 17, with tickets for individual shows going on sale June 13. Season tickets will be $21 for the general public and $18 for students and senior citizens. Individual performance tickets will be $7 for the public and $4 for students and senior citizens.

The McLeod Theater box office will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays, beginning May 16. For more information call 453-3001.

'Harvey' to kick off season of plays in Summer Playhouse

By Thomas Sparks
Entertainment Editor

Summer Playhouse has become a tradition on the SIU-C campus. Each summer, residents of Carbondale and surrounding communities are treated to major productions of Broadway plays and musicals. This summer will be no different.

Beginning June 4, a company of more than 50 actors, technicians and production staff of McLeod Theater will begin a long schedule of rehearsals, meetings and critiques that will lead to the production of two plays and two musicals for Summer Playhouse '83.

Summer Playhouse is a joint venture of the School of Music and the Department of Theater. Company members for the productions are selected by auditions and interview conducted on campus and at several Midwest theater festivals.

KICKING OFF THE SUMMER schedule will be the Pulitzer prize-winning comedy "Harvey," by Mary Chase. The play is the story of Elwood P. Dowd, a pleasant, friendly sort of gentleman, who also just happens to hang around with a six-foot invisible rabbit named Harvey.

Elwood's sister, Veta Louise, takes it upon herself to have him committed and the story takes off from there. "Harvey" will be directed by Calvin MacLean, a faculty member of the Department of Theater. Performances are scheduled for June 23 through 26 at 8 p.m. in the McLeod Theater.

NEXT IN LINE will be Lores Bart's "Oliver," the much-beloved musical tale based on Charles Dickens' story of an orphan boy's adventures and misadventures in the underworld dealings of 19th century London.

Mild-mannered, proud but naive Oliver is swept into the world of crime when he's invited by a lad known as the Artful Dodger to join a gang of young pickpockets shepherded by the eccentric Fagin.

Music from "Oliver" includes such unforgettable classics as

GUYS AND DOLLS

"Consider Yourself," "Where is Love" and "Food, Glorious Food."

"Oliver" will be directed by Darwin Payne and will be presented July 1 through 3 and 7 through 11 at 8 p.m. in McLeod Theater.

THE THIRD PRODUCTION of the Summer will be the suspense-thriller "Deathtrap" by Ira Levin.

Summer exhibit to highlight SI forests

By Michele Inman
Staff Writer

Plant and tree fossils, old photographs and historical maps and samples of different species of trees are just some of the items that will be displayed this summer in the University Museum's South Gallery in Fane Hall.

The exhibit, which will be displayed the first week in August, is "The Forest: Southern Illinois." It focuses on three major aspects of Southern Illinois forests: science, history and modern conservation techniques. It will chart the process in time from when the pioneers used forests in late 1800s through the 1950s when the wood-product age ended and conservation techniques were first developed for depleted forests.

The exhibit includes a model of a fire top tower, which was used by people in the 1940s "to site forest fires and to fight them," said Bonnie Krause, curator of history and researcher for the exhibit. According to Krause, up until the 1930s "forests just naturally burned. Then they started to fight forest fires and started to replant them."

The School of Agriculture's Department of Forestry played a large part in gathering information for the exhibit, Krause said. George Weaver, chairman of the department, "Helped us find a good mature forest to photograph and he supplied research and manuscripts," she said. Dwight McCurdy, professor of forestry, is negotiating with the Forestry Club, Krause said, for demonstrations on how early loggers sawed lumber and other early practices.

Professors in the Forestry Department, Krause said, "gave us Latin names of trees, made sure our drawings were correct, helped us find specialists and other resources. They also know of references, such as botanists in the state who were working on setting up exactly what virgin forests looked like." Persons in the department also recommended "sites of good stands of representative timber, such as bottom land or upland forests."

Materials for the exhibit were largely obtained from the museum's own collection. Krause said, but items were received from companies, such as a railroad tie company which contributed old tools used to remove ties. Most of the items received, Krause said, were photos and maps.

The exhibit features photographs by Robert Ridgway, the first photographer of trees in Illinois, and early maps of how many trees were in Illinois before settlement and how many there are now, Krause said. The exhibit will include a model of an early logging camp and a partial full-scale model of a sawmill.

According to Krause, research for the exhibit, which began fall 1981, is funded primarily by the University Museum's general operating fund. But, she said some money has been obtained from companies such as Burlington Northern Railroad and Pioneer Seed.

The exhibit will be on display for about two years and was developed as part of a series of exhibits focusing on major historical industries, Krause said.

"Every couple of years, we may change over," she said. "Tentatively, we'll deal with the industrial revolution, the steam age, in Southern Illinois next."

23. CLOSED MONDAY

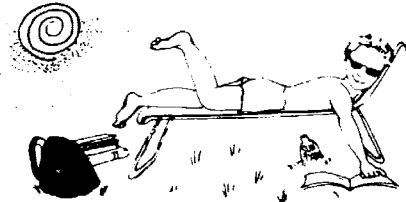

Create your own kind of summer.

Try Triton's "5-8-5" plan.

Don't let summer get away from you this year. You've probably got dozens of things you want to do...earn some money, take a trip, spend time with your friends—even hit the books a bit to ease the load at school next fall!

How will you fit it all in before September?

Triton can help you out with "5-8-5"—a summer plan that lets you earn some college credit and still have time for work, play or both.

Lighten your load.

Are you dreading next fall when you have to take that impossible course along with all your other classes?

By taking one or two of your more difficult courses at Triton this summer, you can put all your study time where you need it most so you're sure to have an easier load next fall.

Triton courses are equivalent in content and quality to any that you'd take during the school year.

Cut your costs.

You can take classes at Triton at a very low cost. Tuition rates for in-district residents are much less than you would pay at state universities and a lot lower than private college tuition. And since you'll be living at home, you won't have to worry about dorm or apartment expenses.

Going to Triton this summer could be the best inflation fighter you've found yet.

Pack work and school together.

Triton's summer classes can fit into any work schedule. If you choose a 5-week class, you'll still have almost two full months for a job. The first 5-week session could be especially good for you since many employers wait to hire summer help until the peak vacation period—July and August. By then, you'll be done with summer school and ready for work.

Even if you decide to take classes during all three sessions, you'll still be able to work. We've scheduled a lot of popular courses during evening hours, so you can leave the daytime open for your job.

Pick up some extra credits.

Graduation day seems years away and you're in a hurry. The courses you take at Triton this summer can bring that degree a lot closer.

The credits you earn here are fully transferable to four-year schools. We have a staff of advisors who can answer your questions about which Triton courses best fulfill your school's requirements.

With our "5-8-5" plan, you can rack up lots of credits by taking classes during all three sessions.

First 5 Weeks: May 31 to July 1
8-Week Plan: June 13 to August 5
Second 5 Weeks: July 5 to August 5

'Certain death' makes return to Iran impossible for student

By Morgan Falkner
Student Writer

He is what some romantics would call "a man without a country," a man whose political beliefs have made him a foreigner in his own land.

He will simply tell you it's a bad time for Iranian students to return home.

"Certain execution" will be the only result, he says, if he returns to his war-torn country. Not an appealing idea to a man who has come to abhor the "senseless killing" the Khomeini regime has brought.

Who is he? Fear for his family's safety in Tehran has forced him to demand his real name not be used in this article. For the purposes of this story, his name will be Abdul.

Abdul is an electrical engineering graduate student and a member of the Iranian Students Association of the United States (ISAUS), primarily an educational organization unafraid to speak out against repression in Iran — repression by whichever regime is in power.

Abdul says unlike other Iranian student organizations, the ISAUS is a non-partisan group opposed to any repression by any leader. Abdul said his group was not involved in any past confrontations between opposing Iranian student factions. He said the ISAUS is a non-violent organization.

Born in 1959 in Tehran, Iran, Abdul has known regimes all his life. The Shah of Iran, the Pahlavi family, had been in power before Abdul was born, and remained so until the revolution in 1979 when Khomeini's new regime assumed control.

"There is still killing and repression under the present regime," lamented Abdul. He estimates, by figures provided by Amnesty International, that some 20,000 Iranians have been executed since the theocratic regime gained power. The number of those jailed in Iran by Khomeini is estimated at close to 10,000.

"Khomeini is misleading the revolution," according to Abdul. A kind of martial law has been invoked in Tehran, and although it isn't written, no one goes out after 7 p.m. According to Abdul, the war with Iraq is very unpopular in general. Abdul claims the people no more approve of the present regime than they did the last.

How does Abdul feel about not being able to return to his country without also signing his death warrant? "Well, it's just something I've got to cope with," he said. Abdul has been in the U.S. for five years and as he approaches his master's degree and the end of his visa, he realizes his time remaining in the U.S. is short. But what to do then? Abdul cannot return home for fear of death, and he cannot remain here. "Europe is most definitely an option," says Abdul. "I will go wherever I can, but not to Iran."

Riot victims want memorial

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Some of those wounded 13 years ago in an anti-war protest at Kent State University joined about 300 others in seeking a memorial to the four people killed and nine injured in the demonstration.

Alan Canfora, one of the wounded in the demonstration, urged a gathering at the campus on Wednesday to push for the memorial. "Kent State has a new president, and Ohio has a new governor," he said. "That might make the difference."

On May 4, 1970, Kent State students rallied on the school commons in protest the U.S. incursion into Cambodia during the Vietnam War. National Guard troops opened fire during the demonstration, causing the four deaths and nine injuries.

Park to be given name of man who contributed ideas, money

By Sheila Washington
Staff Writer

Because of the actions of Doug Lee, Southeast Park will never be the same.

Before Lee died of a heart attack in 1977, he gave monetary contributions and ideas to aid the development of Southeast Park, despite his hectic schedule as a businessman.

To return the favor, the Carbondale Park District Board of Commissioners will rename the park after Lee and hold a formal dedication at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the 1300 E. Grand site.

"He was instrumental in the evolution and development of Carbondale Junior sports. He gave time, energy and monetary contributions to assist in the development of junior boys baseball and junior girls softball programs," said George Whitehead, director of the Carbondale Park District.

Whitehead said the dedication of Doug Lee Park commemorates a new beginning and a new direction for the Carbondale Park District in working with the Carbondale Junior Sports, Inc. to provide the best quality to local sports programs.

Because Lee had served as a former chairman of the Junior Sports, Inc. to provide the best quality to local sports programs.

Because Lee had served as a former chairman of the Junior Sports Board since the '60s and contributed to the development and implementation of the renaming honor, he was the most appropriate recipient of the renaming honor, Whitehead said.

"Doug Lee did a lot for the park district over the years, so when the time came to pick a name for the facility his was the only one considered," he said.

New name signs, a bronze plaque installed on the stonework of the site commemorating the dedication and a tribute to Lee will kick off the start of the 1983 Junior sports program, Whitehead said.

Marketing senior to be BAC head

By Ralph Robinson
Student Writer

The fact that Clive Neish is the new coordinator of the Black Affairs Council is possibly one of the better kept secrets on the SIU-C campus. This secret is not Neish's idea. "A lot of people don't know I am coordinator of BAC because a lot of people don't know BAC," Neish said.

Neish, a native of Chicago via Jamaica and a senior in marketing, has been assistant coordinator of the BAC. He was elected to succeed Karriem Shari'ati effective June 13, the first day of the summer semester. Though there is a difference in personalities — Shari'ati is outspoken, while Neish is quieter — Neish believes this will not prevent him from "getting my point across."

"I will give my opinion when needed," said Neish.

Where Shari'ati blasted the Undergraduate Student Organization for "blatantly discriminating" against BAC in terms of fee allocations, Neish also feels BAC was treated unfairly.

"I agree 100 percent with what Karriem said," Neish said. "In fact, we conferred on the subject before any comments were made. Karriem's concerns and opinions are not only his."

Neish said BAC concerns about the fee allocations are real, the charges of discrimination are valid and the incident "definitely demands investigation."

The BAC, according to Neish,

Clive Neish, newly elected coordinator of the Black Affairs Council, ... "I will give my opinion when needed."

was allocated $10,000 after requesting over $25,000.

The fact that the Black Affairs Council was not allocated what it requested has put the Black Observer, the area's only black newspaper, in jeopardy of folding, he said.

"The paper is in financial trouble," admitted Neish. "It has become a burden on our resources not designated to the Black Observer."

"But, I feel it's important for us to have a newspaper which appeals to black and minority interests. I plan to do everything I can to keep it from folding."

The Black Observer is not Neish's biggest concern.

"My biggest concern is the lack of awareness of the functions of BAC in the entire campus body," emphasized Neish. "That will be one of the issues I will be attacking."

SIU-C faculty members to help form ag school

By Patrick Williams
Staff Writer

Faculty members from the SIU-C School of Agriculture and the University of Illinois will travel to Peshawar, Pakistan to help create a new university of agriculture.

Howard Olson, coordinator of the SIU-C Office for International Food and Agriculture Development, and three other faculty members will travel to Pakistan to begin work on the design phase of the project at the end of May.

The project, sponsored by the U.S. Agency for International Development, will involve retraining faculty and developing programs for the new university.

Olson said the College of Agriculture at Peshawar will split from the university now there to form a new University of Agriculture, which will include new buildings.

SIU-C and U of I were chosen from a field of over 10 other universities that submitted bids for the project.

Olson said the Illinois schools were chosen because AID wanted universities which were best qualified for the job. SIU-C had worked on a similar project in Brazil from 1970-1976.

"The competition was very keen," Olson said.

Although no final dollar figures have been set, Olson said the seven-year project in Pakistan is one of the largest AID has sponsored in recent years.

The design phase of the project should be over "relatively quickly," Olson said.

Once the second phase of the project gets underway, faculty from Illinois will travel to Pakistan to do long-term research and students from Pakistan will study at various universities in the United States.

Other SIU-C members of the design team are: William Doerr, dean for instruction in agriculture; Herbert Portz, professor in the Plant and Soil Science Department; and Walter Wills, agrubusiness economics professor. Richard Kurin, visiting assistant professor in Community Development, helped draft the original proposal to AID.

Lasers aid coal research project

By Glenn Richardson
Student Writer

Three SIU-C professors will be spending some time in the next three years in a laboratory deep in the heart of the Technology Building, experimenting with lasers to develop a new method of scientific analysis.

Their goal is developing a tool for microscopy (microscope analysis): in the measurement of fluorescent decay in heterogeneous solids — in this case, coal.

The project is financed by a $100,000 grant of equipment from Leitz, Inc. of Rockling, N.J., an optical equipment manufacturer, and a $250,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Energy. The award was given to Robert Zitter and Walter Borst, physics professors, and John Crelling, a geology professor.

According to Borst, the project's principal investigator, ultra-short pulses of laser light are used to excite fluorescence in the small units that make up coal, called macerals.

The fluorescence decays, and the decay is measured. Measurement is aided by advanced electronics and computer data analysis. Knowing more precisely the composition of coal could aid in determining what kinds of coal work best in different applications, Borst explained.

Analysis of fluorescent decay has been used only "one other time in microscopic studies."

Beg your pardon

A story in Thursday's Daily Egyptian may have given the impression that General Telephone will be paying for a "phone Mom" service at the University Mall this weekend.

GTE is providing the phone service for the promotion, but the University Mall Merchants Association is paying for the calls.

Facts About Book Buy-Back

You Can Now Sell Your Books At The University Bookstore

1. The University Bookstore will buy back books at 50% of the current list price, based on information received from instructors*
2. Representatives of Follett Book Co., a major used book wholesaler, will be on the premises to buy those books not being used again. Prices for these books are determined by the national wholesale market and vary from approximately 10-37% of list price.
3. Minimum waiting time.
4. Cash for books.
5. We tell you how much you are getting for each title.

NO ONE PAYS BETTER!!

*Exceptions are those books which the bookstore is already overstocked or those that are discontinued.

HANGAR Friday & Saturday Nights Street Corner Symphony SUNDAY, MAY 8, 1983 HANGAR 9 PRESENTS THE NIGHTHAWKS

The Nighthawks are a Washington D.C. based blues/bocogie quartet. Never heard of them? Even after playing 300 dates a year for the past ten years, recording eleven albums, and appearing with nearly all the contemporary blues masters, the Nighthawks remain a well kept secret.

The secret will be out on May 8 as the Nighthawks blast into Hangar for a night of high energy urban blues. This is no pretentious nightclub concert act. There will be no opening act, no set changes, and no hype. The Hawks will perform 3 sets, and the $4.00 cover allows you to stay as long as you like. The doors open at 8:00 and the Nighthawks begin at 9:30. Don't miss it!

Colt conspicuous by absence

By Will Grilo-Jey
AP Special Correspondent

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — They wouldn't let the lady go out on a romp with the boys, so the season's best 3-year-old will be back in the barn munching oats when 20 nondescript colts go to the post Saturday in the 109th Kentucky Derby.

Princess Rooney thus becomes the reluctant, sophisticated feminist of America's premier horse race. "To run her in the Derby would be nothing more than an ego trip — it's not worth sacrificing a fine filly for," said trainer Frank Gomez, casting a sentimental eye at the magnificent gray in stall 11, barn 43 of the Churchill Downs backstretch.

She's quartered there — surrounded by the season's finest crop of thoroughbreds — aloof, poised and looking supremely at peace with the world.

In two years of racing, no one has come close to beating her. She's won all nine of her races by the combined margin of 76 lengths, one after stumbling at the gate in the Gardenia Stakes at New Jersey's Meadowlands. Railbirds have questioned Gomez's judgment and that of the filly's owners, Jim and Paula Tucker of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., arguing that this would be a propitious year to test the tradition that fillies cannot run against colts in the spring.

Regret was the first in 1915, then 60 years elapsed before there was another, Genuine Risk humbling the males in 1980.

a designated hitter, but after taking countless flyballs in practice, he was back in rightfield against Edwardsville without incident.

Those early difficulties might have been expected from any freshman ballplayer, even one who got so much advance notice. But his early struggles at the plate surprised some observers.

It took a while for Jones to start the process of ironing out the hitch in his swing and staying back at the plate. He's still working on that.

"I don't think I'm having a good season," said Jones, who is hitting .306 with four home runs, and some of the hardest hit balls of the year—but also a team-leading 28 strikeouts.

"The best thing I'm getting out of it is the learning," he said. "When I fail I say I failed for a reason. Try and learn from it. I want to learn as much as I can."

Jones has received invaluable defensive help from center fielder P.J. Schranz, and hitting tips from Jim Reboulet, Schranz, and Scott Bridges.

The hitting style of Jones and Bridges is a study in contrasts.

Jones, as quick on the trigger as he is, has a tendency to commit too soon and lunge at the ball, while Bridges, a junior and a two-year starter, is pure patience at the plate.

"His philosophy of hitting is to try to hit everything to right field," said Jones with only slight exaggeration.

Jones is destined to be a power hitting pull hitter, but according to his coach, he could use some of Bridges' smarts.

"When you've got a quick bat, it's an advantage," said Coach Jones, "and you should be able to wait."

Finally, if the word of Itchy Jones, and the opinion of the Cincinnati Reds front office still isn't enough, Jones has the tag of greatness pinned on him by the United States Baseball Federation. That organization has made him the only freshman on the national team that will play series this summer against Japan, Korea, and independent Alaskan teams, and will then cap the summer by playing in the intercontinental Cup in Europe and finally the Pan American Games in Venezuela.

If Jones does well enough, he could be selected for the US Olympic team. Baseball will be a demonstration sport at Los Angeles in 1984.

"Supposedly it's the top college players in the United States," said Jones. "I guess they think I'm one of the top college players in the US."

Jones takes that kind of talk, and the speculation of a major league career, in stride.

"I thank God for my ability," he said. "I'll go where He leads me."

Friday's other game in the winners bracket will pit Eastern Illinois against Indiana State.

The Salukis claimed the opener on the strength of only five hits. Defense won the game for them, however, as Brechtelsbauer's squad committed just one error, a minor miracle for a team that commits more errors than scores runs. The Redbirds, a club the Salukis split with in the fall but did not meet during the regular spring season, played errorless defense and collected 11 hits.

Women tracksters at Normal

The women's track and field team is off and running at the Illinois Intercollegiate Championships in Normal. Finals for the two-day event are slated for Friday.

Three-time defending champion Illinois State along with Illinois and Western Illinois are favorites for the meet. Expected to score high for the Salukis are sprinting trio Denise Blackman, Ann Layvine and Debra Davis and long jumper Nina Williams.

Coach Claudia Blackman is calling the meet a tune-up for the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference in two weeks.

more than enough runs to offset that, and the Braves could be running short of pitchers by that time too. SIU-C kept its team batting average at .296 following a doubleheader split in Edwardsville Wednesday.

Scott Bridges stayed within range of .400, at .394, and continues to lead the team in runs, hits, doubles, triples, and runs batted in. P.J. Schranz (.328 and 14 steals), Jim Reboulet (.314, 30 walks, six home runs and 33 runs), Robert Jones (.308) and Mike Blumhorst (.298 and second on the team in RBIs) round out the attack.

Saluki notes — Itchy Jones began his off-season campaign to fill out next year's pitching staff by signing Todd Neibel to a national letter of intent. Neibel is a righthanded pitcher from Waltonville, the first of the five pitchers Jones would like to add. "We're going after five pitchers and we're adding Koch as a full-time pitcher," he said. "Our emphasis this year is on pitching." Neibel, 5-10 and 165, was 3-0 and 2.70 this spring, and struck out 38 batters in 18 innings. "He has a good sinking action on his fastball and good rotation on his breaking pitches," said Green. "He has the potential to make a solid contribution to our staff." And maybe give Green one more pitcher to juggle.

Intramural officials honored

By George Pappas
Student Writer

The SIU-C Intramural Department has selected the winners of the Intramural Outstanding Official award for the year 1982-1983.

Tying for the Intramural Official of the Year were Pat Clary and Rob Motta. Winners in individual sports were: Ken Taylor, 12-inch softball; Rob Moltar, flag football; Tim Cleary, floor hockey; Ali Chinchian, mini soccer; Theresa Helander, volleyball.

Also, Jim Lewis, water polo; Tracy Rushing, basketball; Dal Finnestad, team handball; Eddie Pankin, 16-inch softball, and Ken Shaw, Ultimate frisbee.

"I was very happy with the officiating this year," said William McMinn, assistant coordinator for intramurals. "There were a few complaints by players but there's always complaints about officials in any sport, any time, professional or not."

The members of the Intramural Sports Student Advisory Board have also selected the Glenn "Abe" Martin Participation and the Women's Intramural Participation Award recipients.

The winner of the "Abe" award is sophomore Justin West, who participated in 20 out of the 36 sports tournaments offered.

Loyce Craven, coordinator for intramural sports, said, "Justin demonstrated excellence in leadership and sportsmanship throughout his active involvement."

The winner of the women's award was Carolyn Ulbert, senior, as she participated in eight events.

Heart Association race set

The Jackson County Heart Association and Vic Koenig Chevrolet will sponsor a 10,000-meter road race at 8 a.m. Saturday.

The race, which attracted over 380 participants last year will begin and end west of J.C. Penny at the University Mall. Entry fee is $6.50 with proceeds going to the Heart Association. Over $350 of awards will be given in six age divisions.

There will also be an instant video replay of the race shown at the University Theater immediately afterwards.

For more information, contact the Heart Association, 1007 W. Mill St., at 457-2121.

Juggling act needed by baseball Salukis

By Dan Devine
Associate Sports Editor

SIU-C pitching coach Jerry Green took time out from watching his pitchers throw batting practice to juggle three baseballs. No mean feat, but it almost surms up Greens' handling of the Saluki pitching staff this season.

"Our pitching staff has been based on three pitchers," said Coach Itchy Jones, on the eve of the Salukis' final conference series.

SIU-C will play at Bradley in a four-game weekend set that will help decide which Missouri Valley Conference Eastern Division teams go to the playoffs. SIU-C, 19-16, enters that series at 2-2 in conference play, a game behind Indiana State at 3-1, and Illinois State at 5-3. Bradley is 2-6.

"If we win three we're in," said Jones. "If we win two then we'll need help."

If SIU-C splits with the Braves they would most likely tie with either Illinois State or Indiana State. A Saluki-Redbird impasse would be solved by a game at Illinois State Monday. A Saluki-Sycamore deadlock would be broken by a game Monday at Abe Martin Field. Should SIU-C drop three games the season would almost definitely be over.

Against that, unlikely possibility the Salukis have on hand a steady, one-run at-a-time attack, and the trusted triumvirate of Richard Ellis, Jay Bellissimo, and Gary Bockhorn.

Those three have accounted for 12 of SIU-C's 19 wins and almost all the innings since the spring trip. Without Ellis (58 innings), Bockhorn (51 innings) and Bellissimo (46 innings) Jones wouldn't have the pitchers to get through a doubleheader. Tom Caulfield and Dick Wysocki worked a lot of innings earlier but have since fallen into disfavor since. Caulfield is still a possibility to start the series finale, but a more likely candidate would be Ricin Koch, provided SIU-C can get through the first three games without his services in relief.

"We've got to try and win the first three," said Jones.

Koch, though, gives the Salukis some solid insurance if that doesn't work out.

"We're in better shape than we were three weeks ago," said Jones. "Koch's in a little better shape to pitch, both mentally and physically."

The sophomore righthander, who started the season as a shortstop before being returned to the mound, has now pitched 14 generally effective innings. He is 1-1 with a 5.14 earned run average.

Freshman right fielder sharpens natural skills

By Dan Devine

"He's got major league power," says baseball coach Itchy Jones of his prize freshman and future slugger Robert Jones.

The outfielder-firstbaseman says, "When I was struggling he (Coach Jones) told me that I was going to be a pro baseball player. He said it once."

If the word of a coach who has sent 10 players to the major leagues in 13 years at SIU-C isn't good enough, then there's the opinion of the Cincinnati Reds, who made Jones the 28th player taken in the summer free agent draft of 1982.

The Reds offered Jones, a graduate of Proviso, East in Maywood, anywhere between $70,000 and $90,000 to start in their minor league system. Instead, he elected to come to SIU-C, get an education, and sharpen his baseball skills.

He came here with a quick bat and has begun the painful process of developing into an all-around player, and learning things like throwing, catching flyballs, running the bases and pulling the ball.

Jones came back from the spring trip with a reputation for being a dangerous baserunner (he got picked off once on a two-step lead, another time while he looked at third base for the sign) and a risk in the outfield (he sometimes played flyballs into basehits). His outfield play forced Itchy Jones to make him

Softballers win GCAC opener face top-seeded SW Missouri

The surest way to avoid getting bumped from a double-elimination tournament is not to lose that first game. Teams that play encumbered with a loss tend to play a bit tentatively.

That's why Saluki Softball Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer wanted Thursday's opening Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference tournament game against perennial all-sports nemesis Illinois State so badly.

And get it she did. SIU-C came away from its inaugural contest in Macomb clean, sending the Redbirds, who came up on the short end of the 2-1 final, into the loser's bracket.

The contest was scoreless until the fifth, when Saluki catcher Val Upchurch singled off loser Lynn Thompson (5-7) to open the inning. Third baseman Diane Broe sacrificed Upchurch to second with a bunt, and center fielder Kelly Nelis tagged a double to left to bring Upchurch around. Pam Fiens then oonced a single up the middle, scoring Nelis and giving the Salukis all the runs they needed.

The Saluki defense, which has developed a reputation as of late for having the porotusness or Swiss cheese, took over in the seventh. Winning hurler Sunny Clark (7-5) pitched herself into a jam, loading the bases with none out. The Redbirds, however, could manage but a single run as Thompson attempted to help her own cause, collecting an RBI with a sacrifice fly. ISU's bid to send the game into extra innings failed when the tying run was gunned down at the plate.

"I was exceptionally proud of the way our defense played in the final inning," Brechtelsbauer said. "We had to continuously scrap. The team played with confidence. We went out there and executed the way we were supposed to. Everyone was really up for the game." The win keeps the Salukis in the winner's bracket with three other clubs, including top-seeded Southwest Missouri State, whom they will face in a 1 p.m. Friday contest. The Bears opened with a win over eighth-seeded Bradley. ISU, seeded fifth, dropped into the loser's bracket and will face the Braves on Friday.

Bradley claimed the tournament's single preliminary game, edging ninth-seeded Wichita State. In other first-round play, host Western Illinois, seeded sixth, fell to Eastern Illinois (third seed) 1-0. In the lone opening day upset, seventh-seeded Indiana State upstaged Northern Iowa, the tourney's No. 2 seed 3-2 in 10 innings.

In late games on Thursday, Bradley battled Illinois State while Western Illinois faced the survivor of the Wichita State-Northern Iowa contest in the losers bracket.

Women netters are back to 'Normal'

By Sherry Chisenhall

For the first time since early season, women's tennis coach Judy Auld is taking her "regular" lineup to a match.

Regular is a strange word to use in describing the roster for the team's conference tournament this weekend, mainly because Auld hasn't had that particular group on the court for over six weeks.

Illness has taken its toll on Auld's squad this season, but the Salukis have pulled themselves together in the nick of time.

The Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference championship in Normal marks Stacy Sherman's first appearance in singles since the end of March, when she was sidelined with mononucleosis. At the SIU-Edwardsville Invitational two weeks ago, Sherman and Amanda Allen played doubles for the first time since early season, when they sported the team's best win-loss record.

Auld said now that her team is back to full strength, it will be a force to contend with at the 10-team GCAC tournament. SIU-C and Wichita State figure as the pick of the litter in Normal, with Drake, Southwest Missouri, Western Illinois and Indiana State boasting a few strong individuals.

The other conference teams, Illinois State, Eastern Illinois, Northern Iowa and Bradley, are favorites to anchor the bottom of the finishers' slate.

Depth will be SIU-C's ace-in-the-hole and could be a deciding factor in its final resting spot. The Salukis took first at the SIU-S Invitational, a factor that

Auld said is working in their

"The girls are really psyched to win the conference tournament, especially after they played so well at Edwardsville," she said. "We're pretty healthy now, and they know they have a realistic shot at winning it. They're not taking it lightly by any means, though — they know they'll have to play good tennis, like they did at SIU-E, to do well."

Auld said a key factor in the team's tournament finish will be the seedings, which should work to their advantage. Alessandra Molinari and Mary Pat Kramer should be seeded first in doubles since they have beaten all of the top conference opponents.

In singles, Auld said Kramer, Sherman, Maureen Harney and Heidi Eastman should be seeded in the top four.

Auld said she put Sherman in singles so she wouldn't have to move Harney up in the lineup and lose her seed, even though freshman Kris S'aufter has done well in Sherman's slot for most of the season.
