5-7-1985

The Daily Egyptian, May 07, 1985

Daily Egyptian Staff

Follow this and additional works at: https://opensiuc.lib.siu.edu/de_May1985
Volume 70, Issue 153

Recommended Citation

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Daily Egyptian 1985 at OpenSIUC. It has been accepted for inclusion in May 1985 by an authorized administrator of OpenSIUC. For more information, please contact opensiuc@lib.siu.edu.
Reagan to address future of bases in Spain

By David Liss

The line of people extended all the way out the door at the TCI Cablevision, Inc. office in Carterville Monday, as customers brought in complaints regarding their new bills.

When asked what her complaint was, "SIU-C graduate student" Vennie Rainville said, "bills, service—you name it."

The Carterville office serves about 13,000 cable subscribers in nine towns, said David Bach, plant supervisor. Those towns are Carterville, Cairoville, Eldorado, Energy, Harrisburg, Herrin, Johnston City, Longwoods, and West Frankfort, he said.

"We're going through some changes," Bach said. "We've added some services and increased the price," he said, so "a lot of people don't understand the bills." The rate for basic cable service went from $7.76 to $10.95 this spring, and several new channels were added.

One irate customer related her problem. "I can't get Home Box Office disconnected," said Eldorado resident Rich Clark, even though she asked for the disconnection some time ago. "I'm still getting billed for it."

A backlog of work orders has caused problems on number of bills, Bach said. "We had a tremendous amount of paperwork," he said, receiving 8,000 to 12,000 work orders per month in April.

"People are changing their services left and right," he said. "Our primary objective is to get all the information into the business computer. When a person requests the disconnection of a particular service, he said, the date that request is written on the work order. However, until the information is entered into the computer, the bill will continue to show a charge for service, Bach said.

When the disconnection is entered into the billing computer, the charge will automatically be erased back to the date of the request, he said. As a result, many customers are getting premium services for free between the date disconnection is requested and the date the computer accounts for it, he said.

Pro rated charges are also causing much confusion with the new bills. When TCI Cablevision installed the new cable converters, many were installed in the middle of a particular month, Bach said.

The customer's first bill pays for the following month in advance, he said, but the charge for the portion of the month the customer is in disconnection is prorated, or added to the next bill.

The new system and the additional services available make the bills more complex, Bach said.

Another problem has been in hooking up video cassette recorders with the new cable converters. "We got a 590 video cassette recorder sitting on top of my television that I can't use because I'm out of the new (cable) converter," Wiggins said. "I'm getting no response from service."

By John Krukowski

Staff Writer

The SIU-C Coal Research Center and other places of interest in Southern Illinois could become attractions for camera-wielding tourists who will visit the site in 1992 to see the Chicago World's Fair, a fair authority said Monday.

John D. Kramer, general manager of the Chicago World's Fair, spoke at a press conference Monday morning at the SIU-C Student Center. He said that the Fair Authority is looking into developing Southern Illinois as a "satellite site" so that the money the Fair generates will spread all over Illinois, and tourists will have some attractions outside of Chicago.

"It seems to me that while they're in Chicago we ought to show them what the rest of Illinois has to offer," Kramer said.

Kramer listed Giant City State Park, the Du Quoin State Fair and the Coal Page 3

Museum reviews holdings in nation in corporations or banks that do business with or in South Africa.

Jack Dyer, executive director for University relations, said, "SIU couldn't divest if it wanted to because it doesn't hold any stocks in South Africa. The foundation holds no direct investor, not in South Africa. They may have money invested in American corporations that do business in South Africa. They may divest in the future. I think the president was asking for the University to divest all funds from South Africa. We may have money invested in South Africa. There may be no investments there, he said.

Kramer said, "According to the public record, the SIU Foundation was established for the purpose of assisting the University in its financial affairs."

Lewis said a boycott of the 300 American businesses that do business with South Africa will probably experience American divestment and change the government there "within the next few years."

Lewis said the organization is willing to ask SIU alumni to stop donating funds to the SIU Foundation. I feel that strongly about it," she said.

Dyer said the SIU Foundation is a separate entity from the "Fair Foundation is a not-for-profit organization. None of its employees are University employees, including the president. Dyer said. See S, AFRICA, Page 16

Student conference argues investments in South Africa

Barbara Goodman of West Frankfort discusses her bill with TCI employee Shannon Lyons.

.This Morning

Miss Gay Illinois picked at pageant

Baseball Salukis end poor season

Sports 20

Hins in the mid 80's with a chance for thunderstorms.

By By Justus Weatherby

Staff Writer

The Student Coalition to Free South Africa called on SIU and the SIU Foundation to divest its interests in South Africa at a press conference Monday. Rae Lewis, spokeswoman for the organization, said according to figures taken from the 1984 SIU Foundation's annual report, the University's investments in corporations or banks that do business with or in South Africa.

Jack Dyer, director for University relations, said, "SIU couldn't divest if it wanted to because it doesn't hold any stocks in South Africa. The foundation holds no direct investor, not in South Africa. They may have money invested in American corporations that do business in South Africa. They may divest in the future. I think the president was asking for the University to divest all funds from South Africa. We may have money invested in South Africa. There may be no investments there, he said.

Kramer said, "According to the public record, the SIU
Tuesday Special
Booby Special w/Med.
Soft Drink or draft beer
$2.89

Finals Week Delivery Special
Call between 7:00 and 10:00 PM for delivery and receive a FREE medium soft drink.
549-3366

Thursday Special

Happy Hour
11:30-8:00

All Drafts
75¢ Jack Daniels
$2.00 Pitchers
75¢ Speeds
50¢ LOWENBRAU
75¢ Scagrams 7

ON SPECIAL TUESDAY AFTER 8:00 PM
Tanqueray
80¢
CONGRATULATIONS GRADUATES!

Notice — SIU Students
To Discontinue Telephone Service

For all off-campus Salukis about to race for home —
If you rent equipment from GTE:
• Save time
• Save the missing instrument charge
• Bring your phone to:

GTE Phone Mart: Murdale Shopping Center
HOURS — 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.
DAYS — Monday thru Friday

If you own your phone - there is no need to place your remove order in person.
• Save time
CALL: 457-1232
HOURS: 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. — 100 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.
DAYS: Monday thru Friday

Newswrap
nation/world

Christian-Moslem fighting rages for ninth straight day

BEIRUT. Lebanon: (UPI) — Christian and Moslem militiamen battled Monday with rockets, mortars and machine guns in Beirut, killing at least six people and forcing hundreds of residents out of their homes. President Amin Gemayel held emergency talks with army officers on ways to end nine straight days of violence in the Lebanese capital, but the militia leaders then kept fighting throughout the city.

U.S. to begin military training in Costa Rica

SAN JOSE. Costa Rica (UPI) — About 20 U.S. military advisers will arrive this week to teach the Civil Guard counterinsurgency tactics, establishing American military training programs in all three nations bordering Nicaragua, officials said Monday. It would be the first large-scale American military training program to develop in Costa Rica since the U.S. Army rushed its military in 1949 after a civil war between the two main political parties. Costa Rica now is protected by its 5,000-man Civil Guard.

Program may help farmers selling overseas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Robert Dole said Monday he will recommend President Reagan initiate a bonus program for companies that sell farm products overseas, rewarding them with surplus commodities. Dole, citing French refusal to permit a new round of trade negotiations unless agricultural products are exempted, said the bonus program would allow the United States to compete in foreign markets under existing conditions.

Shuttle astronauts and new friends land safely

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE. Calif. (UPI) — The shuttle
Challenger glided to a gentle landing on a dusty desert runway
Monday with a crew of seven, 24 healthy rats and two tiny monkeys on board. NASA officials described the mission as successful.

Pentagon preparing plans to reduce pensions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department is preparing contingency plans to cut back military retirement pay if budget-cutters in Congress require a reduction, Pentagon officials said Monday. But the officials emphasized the Pentagon opposes any reductions in pensions for retired officers and noncommissioned officers despite the necessity to prepare for a possible cutback. In part, the contingency plans are being prepared in response to a request following a proposal by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., to reduce pensions by $4 billion beginning next year, a senior Pentagon official said.

Murdoch buys seven Metromedia stations

NEW YORK (UPI) — Australian publishing magnate Rupert
Murdoch Monday bought seven Metromedia television stations for more than $2 billion, but left undecided his ownership of newspapers in New York and Chicago. The Federal Communications Commission, which must approve the deal, prohibits any one party from owning both a TV station and a newspaper in a major market.

state

Suspension a possibility with drunk driving laws

CHICAGO (UPI) — Secretary of State Jim Edgar and lawmakers said Monday they have reached accord on tougher drunk driving measures that would suspend offenders’ driving privileges for three to six months. The proposal calls for a three-month suspension for a first-time conviction if the driver fails a chemical test by registering over .10 alcohol blood concentration. The suspension doubles to six months if a motorist refuses to take the test.

Fate of Saturn plant to be decided this week

CHICAGO (UPI) — Illinois will know whether it’s out of the running for the General Motors Corp. Saturn plant after this week, if GM representatives “stop returning our phone calls,” the head of the state’s commerce agency says. Michael Woelffer, director of the state Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, said GM is expected to narrow its choices for a site for the 6,000-job plant sometime this week.

Daily Egyptian

Published daily in the Journalism and Egyptian Laboratories Monday through Friday during regular semesters and Tuesday through Friday during summer term by Southern Illinois University, Communications Building, Carbondale, Ill. 62901, Second-class postage paid at Carbondale, Illinois and additional offices located in Communications Building, North Wing Phone 36-311, Vernon A. None, fiscal officer.
Subscription rates are $30.00 per year or $17.50 for six months within the United States and $5.00 per year or $3.00 for six months in all other countries.
Postmaster: Send change of address to Daily Egyptian, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill. 62901.
Smithsonian board reviews holdings in South Africa

WASHINGTON (UPI) -

The governing board of the Smithsonian Institution took action Monday to review its st investments in companies that do business in South Africa, said the Smithsonian's secretary. The Board of Regents called for inquiries into those companies that have failed to sign the Sullivan Principles, a voluntary code by which American companies pledge to provide fair wages and conditions for black workers in South Africa.

The Smithsonian's $141 million endowment is invested in about 150 companies, including about 40 that do business in the white-rulled nation. Smithsonian secretary Robert Adams told a news conference following the three-hour board meeting.

About 14 of those firms do not adhere to the Sullivan Principles and the Smithsonian's board wants them to explain why, Adams said. Smithsonian officials declined to name the 14 companies.

"It would be inappropriate to give out the names until we're exactly sure" if they subscribe to the principles, said Smithsonian spokesman Alvin Rosenfeld. The 17-member Board of Regents meets three times a year in the Smithsonian's original building, a 180-year-old red-brick castle with spires that has overlooked the Mall between the Capitol and the Washington Monument grounds since 1886.

The Smithsonian runs 13 museums and the National Zoo. Its board is chaired by the Supreme Court's chief justice who is joined on the panel by the vice president, six members of Congress and nine citizens.

Adams said the investment inquiries will be a "first step" in determining the Smithsonian's policy toward South Africa, a nation whose black majority is segregated from the ruling whites under a policy known as apartheid.

"This is an area where the Smithsonian should be responsive to various federal policies," Adams said. "We ought not to be out in front of whatever positions are being taken in Congress and the executive branch."

The Sullivan Principles, developed in 1977 by General Motors board member Leon Sullivan in 1977, are considered "an excuse for continued investment in South Africa" by anti-apartheid groups, said David Scott, a spokesman for the black foreign policy lobby TransAfrica.

TransAfrica is the sponsor of daily anti-apartheid protests at the South African Embassy in Washington.

Managua, Nicaragua (UPI) - A Sandinista leader called Monday for a "national dialogue" — including leading businessmen and government opponents — to devise strategies to combat the U.S. economic boycott.

As the call was made, a Soviet cargo ship docked Monday at the Pacific coast port of Corinto, the first Soviet freighter to arrive since President Reagan ordered a total trade embargo of Nicaragua last Wednesday.

The freighter, loaded with 21,000 tons of wheat, other grains and diesel fuel, was expected to ease food shortages and reduce long lines at gasoline stations throughout the country.

"This shipment will ease the situation provoked by the American commercial embargo," a Commerce Ministry spokesmac said.

The embargo cuts off some $8 million in imports and ends more than $10 million in annual exports of U.S. goods to Nicaragua. It also ends direct flights between the two countries.

SIUC Vets Club and Carbondale AMVETS Post #6 -VS-

The WCIL "Record Breakers"

in a

BENEFIT SOFTBALL GAME

7pm, Tuesday, May 7, 1985

Jaycee Field (Evergreen Park, Carbondale. Take Rt. 51 south of SIUC Arena to Pleasant Hill Road. Turn west on Pleasant Hill Road. Field is approximately ½ mile west on left side of road.)

Game is being played as a fund-raiser for the planned Illinois Vietnam Veterans Memorial. Tickets are available at the field for a $1.00 donation each.

Drawings will be held between innings for "door prizes."

CANDLE-LIGHT CEREMONY IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE GAME

Tuesday, May 7, 1985, is the tenth anniversary of the United State's withdrawal from Vietnam. To commemorate this date and to honor the sacrifice of those Illinoisans who were killed or who are still listed as missing in Southeast Asia. There will be a candle-light ceremony at the field immediately following the game. Persons wishing to participate in the memorial service, but who can't attend the game, we expect the candle-light ceremony to begin at approximately 9 pm.

POW-MIA

YOU ARE NOT FORGOTTEN

Daily Egyptian, May 7, 1985, Page 1
Letters

Vietnam tragedy offers lessons

I appreciated many of the insights provided by Vietnamese veterans in the article “Vietnam vets see parallels in Nicaragua” in the Daily Egyptian May 3.

I concur with the statements that we need to learn as much as possible from (a variety of sources) about the situation in Central America. Perhaps the Vietnam tragedy could have been averted had we been better informed about the history, political structure and culture of the country.

I must, however, take exception to the inference that Nicaragua is a communist country and therefore it is necessary to support corrupt dictators. Nicaragua is not ruled by Communists. A communist party does not exist there as it does in the United States.

A misconception touted by the Reagan administration is that the facts that Nicaragua has established trading relationships with the Soviet Union—which we also have—and that Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega has sought economic assistance from Moscow is communist.

This is a tired party line which has little attention from U.S. efforts to destroy Nicaragua through an East-West confrontation.

Lost in the rhetoric is the fact that Nicaragua is a free, internationally recognized country that is desperately trying to build a government responsive to the needs and wishes of the majority of its population. Also overlooked is the fact that the majority of trade and assistance to Nicaragua come from Western Europe. Clearly the United States is not interested in understanding Nicaragua. Direct military involvement is drawing near; economic sanctions have been applied, a plan is being prepared for U.S. aid to Honduras in the event of war, $14 million in “non-lethal” aid to the contras is part of the foreign aid bill (to be voted on May 7) and some 800 U.S. troops and National Guardsmen are in the area.

Not reported in the news is the fact that nearly every single Nicaraguan—man, woman and child—is armed. These people have clearly and repeatedly stated that they will fight to the death to defend their country.

Can we sanction our military and National Guard to decimate the population of this small Central American country because our presidents want to hear them cry “Uncle”?

Take to heart the words of a Nicaraguan mother, “Please do not send your sons to the mountains like my sons. If we here become filled with prejudice, they will kill us and they will die, too.”

Let us learn free “Vietnam.” Let us learn about Central America before it’s too late.

Shalle Schrums, graduate student, Development-Health Education.

Food shortages caused by politics

At first glance, the “wasting” of food at Springfest seems morally wrong. How could we use food for recreation and mock the starving of the world? But this is purely an appearance-based attitude which ignores the underlying reasons for starvation in Africa and the world.

Let’s take Ethiopia for example. Why are people starving there? Because of the wasteful American playing in the game of the world’s food surplus.

The starvation in Ethiopia is caused by capitalism under a Marxist government using food as a weapon to wage against government opposition. The Ethiopian government has spent much on building up its military and constructing lavish housing for the powerful, while withholding supplies from their citizens who oppose their unconstrained power.

The starvation is a third world political problem and not an American moral problem. We Americans have always been very generous to the world and we would have been doing much more in Ethiopia if we didn’t have our hands tied by our government.

Let’s quit making moral judgments by appearance and be more toward the real causes and solutions. Starvation needs to be fought mainly on the political front with food aid and by sufficient food for the poor. We deal with oppressive governments, not hunger or food for fun. It is not a sacred item that once produced must never find a lesser use.

In view of the American dairy farmer struggling with low milk prices and overproduction, I suggest next year we should include a cheese fight and a milk spilling contest. Poverty at home will last five years when starving people in Africa are no longer talking. —Steph Surjewski, senior, Electrical Engineering.

Letters Policy

All letters must be signed. Letters submitted by mail must include the author’s address and telephone number. Letters for which the author’s address and telephone number cannot be obtained will not be published.
Soviets are having too much fun to ignore shooting of U.S. officer

As U.S. Army Maj. Arthur D. Nicholson Jr.'s life bled slowly this past East Sunday, the soil last month, two Soviet generals arrived from a three-star, arrived at the scene separately. These generals — not the slow-motion murder — nor the slow-motion murder or the three-star general asked Nicholson's sergeant, who was being kept away at gunpoint why he had shot his major.

The Reagan administration's response to this crime has been to treat it like a traffic accident covered by a report in the Daily Egyptian. The Soviet's response was too much fun to do what the administration wants to do. The Soviets now say, with exaggerated malice, that the administration wrongly reported that they have agreed not to use force against someone else.

But now the Soviets, who clearly are enjoying this, say no, the consent we said at the time. The United States is bound to Nicholson's death by treaties negotiated properly, we retain the right to act similarly, the so-called "morality" by the way, the State Department statement also "do not change the subject" of "as it was when they said in the first place." Were the State Department ever to concede that the Soviets mean what they say (e.g., Nicholson's death is not the fault of the "something" that is said they used the killing as a place. Were the State Department ever to concede that the Soviets mean what they said, Nicholson's death is not the fault of the "something" that is said they used the killing as a factor in negotiating about the "non-lethal"...-

What is never unexpected is State Department speculation that Soviet malice is merely a "something" that is said they used the killing as a factor in negotiating about the "non-lethal"...-

The Washington Post story about this shambles contained the generic paragraph found in all such stories: "State Department sources said they were puzzled and taken aback by the unexpected Soviet death, and speculated that it arose from differences between military and civil authorities in Moscow.

One serious diminution of a President's stature subverts him. The weaker response to a Nicholson's murder has something to do with the fact that all 14 Soviet states, he and aides are engaging in eight-hour bargaining sessions with legislators, parcelling out policy positions to the man who might administer "non-lethal" purchases from the minimum ($14 million) at issue in the Nicaragua controversy?

There is a civil war on there, the most bitter sort of war, the sort least susceptible to negotiation. In a dizzying series of retreats, the Soviet's unprecedented president has been negotiating about "non-lethal"...-

Words, the carriers of ideas, have consequences. When you call the contras the moral equivalents of the Founding Fathers, and call Nicaragua a Soviet "beachhead," and then ask for a trivial sum trivialized by restrictions, and describe the principal alternative plan as "wrong as nothing" and a "shameful surrender," and then demand in the hope of splitting the difference with this sham deal, more than nothing, you are asking for trouble of the most ruinous kind, in the form of snickering.

Congress, too, is in the process of negotiating about this. The Soviets voted to destroy Nicaragua's beachhead. Moreover, I voted 39 to proclaim that the "murder" of Nicholson was the fault of the Reagan administration. Congress considers such, or, in consistencies to be, well, unacceptable.

Congress, too, is in the process of negotiating about this. The Soviets voted to destroy Nicaragua's beachhead. Moreover, I voted 39 to proclaim that the "murder" of Nicholson was the fault of the Reagan administration. Congress considers such, or, in consistencies to be, well, unacceptable.

Letters

Article on mental health center gave misinformation, misquotes

I was appalled, angered and embarrassed by the student writer Kelly Beatty's article "Mental health center helps outcastes cope", which appeared in the Daily Egyptian, March 27.

The article was written from a phone interview Ms. Beatty had with the director of the center, Ms. R. A. J., and appeared in the Daily Egyptian.

The information I gave Ms. Beatty was distorted in the article. I was misquoted, and I was attributed with making statements I never made.

I also object to the article that the writer does not understand the information I gave her and that the article was reconstructed using much of "as her" and sketchy notes from the interview.

One of the main messages I was attempting to convey in my concern about the stigma attached to seeking and receiving mental health and counseling services. I believe the article inadvertently job of reinforcing the stigma. If I didn't work at the Jackson County Community Mental Health Center, I know of the quality of the interviews we pooled after reading the article I don't think I'd want to come here.

Please be assured that people do recover from major mental illness and please be assured that we do not focus counseling on peoples ' weaknesses and shortcomings. Also, a better understanding of the article would have been, "Mental health center helps people cope."

During the almost twelve years I've been at the mental health center, I have given numerous interviews to students and staff writers which were used for articles in the Daily Egyptian. However, during this time the information in the Daily Egyptian article was neither "as her" nor have been attributed with quotes I never made.

I realize the Daily Egyptian is a student newspaper with the purpose of providing journalism experience for students. However, after this experience I will want to see the copy before it is printed. Ed Davis, adult outpatient program coordinator and former student, Jackson County Community Mental Health Center
Miss Gay Southern Illinois
picked at local pageant

By Sarah Rohrs
Staff Writer

"These girls are out for blood," Michelle McCahsland, the emcee for the Miss Gay Southern Illinois Pageant, told the excited crowd that literally packed Mainstreet East for the event. McCahsland is one of 32 contestants, whom she characterized as "a female impersonator and a freelance designer in St. Louis."

"I was very entertaining and slick, including a medley of Barbra Streisand's blockbust show tunes. Female impersonation is hard work, McCahsland said, and the men spend enormous amounts of money on their clothes."

The four contestants participated in four areas of competition — sportswear, evening gown, talent and interview competition. Vanessa DeLoren won the title and the first runner-up was Buffy VanBuren.

GUIDELINES REGARDING ALCOHOL POLICY/FOOTBALL GAMES

The University Alcohol Policy prohibits all possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages on campus unless an exception is specifically authorized. As done by many colleges and universities for football games, the University has permitted what is known as "tailgate" activities in designated areas. The University has permitted this to give persons attending football games the opportunity to arrive early, park and have their own food and beverages (including alcoholic beverages if they wish) prior to the game. Since these events are permitted through exception to the University Alcohol Policies, the following guidelines have been formulated and will be in effect for your health and safety throughout the football season.

1. Possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages within the intent described above will be permitted only during the period from three hours prior to kick-off up to fifteen minutes prior to game time on Saturdays of home football games and during the half-time of those games in the following areas: these areas will be available for set-up three hours prior to kick-off:
   a) Parking Lot 13, directly west of stadium.
   b) Lots 10A and 10B, north of the stadium.
   c) The Free Forum Area.
   d) Lot 13A, south of the stadium.
   e) Lots 33 and 43, near the Physical Plant.

2. The above limited exception applies only to those persons of legal drinking age (21 years of age or older). Underage possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages in any public place is illegal. Violators will be subject to prosecution.

3. The sale or delivery of alcoholic beverages, direct or indirect, is strictly prohibited. (Sale of other items are permitted only if approved in advance and meet the other requirements of the University Policy on Solicitation.)

4. It is recommended that containers be limited to individual servings, but kegs will be permitted, except in the Free Forum Area, subject to provisions of number one above. Only individual servings will be permitted in the Free Forum Area.

5. For safety reasons, the use of non-glass containers is encouraged for all beverages.
Historical importance of photos focus of museum exhibition

Photographic images and their importance in recording events through history are the focus of a major exhibition on display at the University Museum.

"The History of Photography" traces the evolution of photography from its early beginnings of the 18th century through the 20th century in both the scientific and artistic fields.

Much of the photographic equipment in the exhibit is from the collection of Charles A. Swedlund, professor of cinema and photography.

Backpacking trip set

A backpacking and white-water rafting excursion through the Appalachian Trail has been scheduled for May 30 through June 3 by the Touch of Nature outdoor adventure program.

The trip will take adventurers into the oldest mountains in the East and through the same waters that were seen in the movie "Deliverance."

Experienced instructors will show participants the basics needed to negotiate safety on foot through the woods and navigate fast-paced rapids and calmer stretches of Appalachian rivers.

Cost of the expedition is $295 per person and includes all specialized equipment, food, transportation, insurance and instruction.

Reservations are open to the public. For more information and registration, call 529-1061.

Lately a whole lot of Yuppie humor films — "The Big Chill," "My Mom" — have been hitting the movie theaters. And, surprisingly, they have been pretty good. Now there is another one which, while it won't win any Oscars, is good for a few chuckles.

"Lost In America," which is currently playing at the Sahuki Theater, is a cutesy, hilarious little movie about a Yuppie couple, David and Linda Howard (Albert Brooks and Julie Hagerty), who take to the highway to "find themselves after the husband is fired from his $90,000-a-year job at an advertising agency."

ALL IS FINE until the couple get to Las Vegas and Linda blows their life savings — $190,000 — in a gambling casino. The Howards then discover what poor people have known for ages: that it is easy enough to find oneself when one is loaded.

"Lost In America" works because of the wonderful whimsiness of its neurotic suburban hero and heroine, David Howard, while a loyal and stoody bureaucrat, has as his improbable icon the movie "Deliverance."

Linda Howard, a repressed personnel director, makes a Jekyll-and-Hyde transformation into a wild-eyed gambling fiend who mysteriously insists on putting all her chips on Number 22.

THE SCENE IN which David, outraged over Linda's extravagant behavior, rails on about the "Nest Principle" and commands her never to use the term "nest egg" again, is sidesplitting.

After they lose their entire life's savings, the Howards, determined not to give up the dream, look for jobs in a tiny Arizona town to support themselves.

Julie gets a job as an assistant manager at a fast-food chain working under an adolescent boy, while David works as a crossing guard in a neighborhood.

Albert Brooks plays the alternately practical and impulsive suburbanite with true zeal. He is absolutely believable, as Hagerty is in her role of the somewhat goofy Linda.

WHILE THIS movie ends with an affirmation of The American Dream — a big house, a nice car, a good job — it acknowledges, with gentle humor and sympathetic sarcasm — the dream that many of us have to drop out of the rat race and experience the finer qualities of life.

Whether dropping out of the rat race is a smart move to make, the movie does not say, but it acknowledges that it is brave and, at some times, necessary — to try.

In all, "Lost In America" is a light, humorous look at an often too hectic world and the dream that often prevails in that world. Brooks and Hagerty provide the chance for everyone to laugh a little at that all-important American Dream.
Marion man forms group to deal with MS problem

By Sarah Rohrs
Staff Writer

Jake Lonnie Jacobs of Marion said he is living the problems of multiple sclerosis and would like to help others cope with the physical and emotional symptoms of the disease.

He is forming a support group for other MS victims, said other family members, friends and doctors to grapple with the emotional and social problems the handicap can have on people's lives.

"People need to know how to treat people with MS," Jacobs said, who was diagnosed in August 1984 as having MS. There are two existing support groups in Southern Illinois, one in Carbondale and one in Herrin, he said.

Jacobs said he can help MS victims because he adjusted rapidly to the shock of being told his symptoms were those of MS.

He said the doctors were surprised at how quickly he was able to cope with the debilitating disease. Humor and faith in God have helped him cope, he said.

Jacobs said he often refers to one of Jesus Christ's verses "Be of good cheer." He is married and has two sons. He said his wife, Christina, has been of tremendous strength for him since he was diagnosed.

"The biggest help my wife has given me besides just being there is making me do things I could do instead of spoiling me," he said.

Jacobs belongs to the Church of the Nazarene in Herrin, commonly known as the Mormon Church, which advocates a healthy diet of no alcohol, caffeine or nicotine.

These substances dry out the nerve fibers, Jacobs said, and make the MS symptoms worse.

Jacobs described MS as an analogy to an old lamp cord with insulation around it. The brain is like a bunch of lamp cords containing nerve fibers connecting to all parts of the body and MS acts as age does by breaking the lamp cords and the nerve fibers within them.

The symptoms of MS vary widely. Jacobs is almost blind and uses a walker, other MS victims become disabled, lose their speaking ability and have frequent headaches.

The disease can lie dormant for an undetermined amount of time and strike without any warnings, Jacobs said.

Jacobs detests being pitied for his struggles with MS. "I just want to be treated as a member of the human race. If they don't love me, my walker can be a 4-pronged spear."

Laser used to treat cancer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Researchers reported Monday they used a laser beam to treat 12 patients with usually fatal cancer of the esophagus, restoring the ability to swallow and allowing them to eat.

Although not a cure, the treatment enables the patients to eat normally, doctors from the University of California, San Francisco, and San Francisco General Hospital reported in the journal Annals of Internal Medicine.

The high-energy beam from the neodymium-YAG laser burns the cancerous tissue on contact, opening up the passageway and allowing patients to swallow food, they said. The light energy is transmitted by a quartz fiber as wide as a human hair and passed down through the center of a tube into the esophagus.

The five-year survival rate of patients with esophageal cancer is less than 10 percent, said Dr. John Cello, UCSF associate professor of medicine and chief of gastroenterology at San Francisco General.

"Patients are frequently in their 70s and 80s and are good candidates for surgery," he said. "In addition, the disorder is usually diagnosed after the cancer has spread beyond the confines of the esophagus, further ruling out surgical intervention."

With the laser, doctors restored normal swallowing to patients whose esophagus was almost completely obstructed, Cello said.

"Even in patients with a high risk of metastasizing cancer, the laser will allow us to make an opening large enough to enable them to resume normal eating."

Otherwise, the patient would have to be fed a liquid diet by tube through the abdominal wall or the nose, he said.

According to the American Cancer Society, cancer of the esophagus is expected to strike 9,400 people in 1985 and cause 8,800 deaths.

MSU president to speak

"Women on the Rise" and "The Making of a University President" will be the subjects of a speech by the president of Murray State University at Western Illinois University in the SIUC-Women's Caucus.

Kala Stroup will speak at noon in the Illini Ballroom on Monday, March 21.

Stroup became the first woman president in Kentucky's state system of higher education in 1983. She has held positions in campuswide administrative, academic administration and student affairs, both at the state and national level. She is also an author and consultant.

Before going to Kentucky, Stroup served as vice president for academic affairs at Emporia State University; as assistant to the chancellor and assistant executive vice chancellor at the University of Alabama; as director of Oliver College and associate dean of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the University of Kansas; and dean of women and associate dean of women at the University of Kansas.

Virus claims 30th victim

STAFFORD, England (UPI) - Medical authorities said an air-conditioning system at a hospital in central England was the source of a two-week outbreak of Legionnaires' disease that claimed its 30th victim Monday.

Legionnaires' disease, first recognized when it killed 34 people at a 1976 American Legion convention in Philadelphia, is contracted by breathing contaminated water vapor.

Scientists said they believed bacteria was harbored in the water in cooling towers on the roof of the Stafford district general hospital in central England. The system was treated with chlorine over the weekend and is now "definitely clear," hospital officials said.

A 60-year-old woman died from the disease early Monday, the 30th victim since the epidemic began April 22. More than 120 people have been hospitalized with symptoms of Legionnaires, a disease recognized as a major form of pneumonia treatable with antibiotics.

According to Dr. Spence Galbraith, director of Britain's Communicable Disease center, everyone who contracted the disease at the hospital had attended the outpatient department.

Scientists speculated that contaminated spray from the cooling towers blew in through the open windows of the outpatient department, he said.

Some 350 people a day visited the department prior to the outbreak and doctors have urged anyone who visited the department since April 22 to seek medical advice if they did not feel well. Hospital consultant John Francis said the hospital remains indefinitely closed to all but acute heart and cancer patients.

The Dance Contest Semi-finals at
The Dance Contest Semi-finals at
The Dance Contest Semi-finals at
The Dance Contest Semi-finals at
The Dance Contest Semi-finals at

Tuesday Night Specials All Night
Free admission Free pop corn
In the SL Bowl
Carterville 529-3755

The Dance Contest Semi-finals at
The Dance Contest Semi-finals at
The Dance Contest Semi-finals at
The Dance Contest Semi-finals at
The Dance Contest Semi-finals at

School Day Sale
Your Year for Gold
Now Save $25 on 14K Gold College Rings

Now it's time to purchase your college ring, think about choosing the finest - an ArtCarved 14K gold college ring from ArtCarved.

Designed and handcrafted for lasting value, an ArtCarved 14K gold college ring is affordable than ever. For a limited time only, you can save $25 on many styles of your choice. Stop by to see the entire ArtCarved collection and custom options. Remember, it's your year for gold!
Today's Puzzle
Puzzle answers are on Page 17.

Societal factors contribute to view of eating disorders
By Karen Wittberger

Too many Americans view anorexia and bulimia simply as starving and purging, when in fact the physical and psychological effects of the eating disorders touch on the very surface of underlying emotional problems, said Kathy Hotelling, counseling psychologist at the SIUC Counseling Center.

Many people picture anorexics as 60-pound weaklings who refuse to eat and bulimics as overweight monsters who clear a refrigerator in one sitting, she said. Though the eating disorders may evolve to those stages or even worse, Hotelling said, it is not the norm for women, who make up about 95 percent of anorexics and bulimics.

HOTELLING said women are affected more by the societal-cultural factors than men partly because of the American concept of an ideal woman—thin.

Twelve students, one who is recovering from anorexia and the other bulimia, agreed that starving to be thin was the original reason for excessive dieting.

But they didn’t stop there. Both women went overboard—one into anorexia and the other into bulimia. The student with anorexia not her real name, 27, who suffered from anorexia off and on for 14 years, went something like this:

Susan and her family moved to a new town when she was in third grade. The summer before seventh grade, they returned to their hometown. Here by this time Susan had gained weight. So for the entire summer she went on a strict diet.

BY FALL, she had accomplished her goal—she was thin. She had good grades. She became popular. She was a cheerleader, captain of the basketball team. Toward the end of her high school years, Susan remembered, she paid less attention to her “miracle game” or counting calories, pounds and pants sizes.

But after high school, the obsession flared up again twice. For two years during the most recent obsession, Susan said, she kept a diary recording her daily weight and number of calories—usually about 900—and each piece of food that she consumed.

“I FINALLY started to realize something was wrong about two months before I sought counseling,” said Susan, who has been battling anorexia since September with the help of the SIUC Counseling Center.

Susan, who said she is a perfect example of an anorexic, said a large aspect of being anorexic was her desire to control things, including her emotions. As a result, her personality had changed from outgoing to inhibited, she said.

“I was always the good daughter, the good student,” Susan remembered. “I never used to get mad because perfect people don’t get upset.

Susan, who is 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs 124 pounds, gained about 12 pounds since she began counseling. Each pound she accepts in a step toward recovery, she said.

“THE MOST painful thing is coming to grips with that by starving myself I could have killed myself,” Susan said. “I don’t like to see myself that way.”

People still think I’m very thin,” said Susan. “But sometimes when I get depressed, I still feel fat.”

Though Susan sometimes feels far removed from being anorexic, at other times she still has the desire to be thin so that everything will be all right.

“I wish there were something I could do to reverse the damage,” she said. “I could say so that other girls wouldn’t have to go through this nightmare,” she said.

THE STORY of Pamela (not her real name), 24, who has suffered from bulimia since she was 17, differs from that of Susan’s, but the feelings of wanting to be thin, coupled with isolation, depression and tension are the same.

At 17, Pamela, who always dated to some extent as an adolescent, purged for the first time. Though it didn’t happen again until four or five months later, the act became a habit for Pamela—one which occurred from once every two weeks to as often as three times a day.

“T was totally preoccupied with being thin. I got the idea that everything would be fine if I was thin,” said Pamela. “After a year, I realized I had a problem and I wanted to stop, but I couldn’t.”

PAMELA BEGAN counseling also in September at the SIUC Counseling Center. Since then, the 5-foot-6-inch woman who weighs about 130 pounds has gained about 10 pounds.

Bulimia was not induced by hunger, said Pamela, but by frustration, tension, emptiness and boredom.

“Fasting and purging will dispel the tension,” recalled Pamela. “Women, who otherwise restricted herself to three small meals a day. ‘Not everyone that is bulimic empties out a refrigerator.’”

Pamela said the most painful part of bulimia was not being able to talk about it, which contributed to her isolation from family and friends.

“I REALIZE now that it (bulimia) obscured the real problem of not dealing with my feelings and not doing the things I wanted to do,” Pamela said.

“When I think of my past, I think of the color black—dark and gloomy,” she said. “But it hasn’t been all negative. I feel I know myself better than most people know themselves.”

People with anorexia and bulimia have to learn again how to recognize signs of hunger. Hotelling said. Instead of masking their emotions through starving or purging, they must understand and accept their feelings, she said.
Doctors to give free voice surgery to cancer victims

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) - It's getting a new voice, thanks to a conspiracy of goodness among doctors and numerous other medical care providers...

Blom and Singer decided they would try to make the device available to as many people as possible, even those who cannot afford the surgery needed for its implantation.

Blom started the Head and Neck Cancer Rehabilitation Institute, affiliated with Methodist Hospital, and the two surgeons worked with the mannequin voiceboxes.

"We've raised a reasonable amount of money to do a significant number of charitable things," Blom said. "But they're only a few miles away from our voice Monday.

"They're tied to a close and the others are there for the cure of cancer.

Lacey is a belated Christmas story, he said.

"A few Christmas there was a story in the Chicago Tribune about a Mrs. Lacey who had a laryngectomy. They were trying to find someone to make a voice for the phone.

...not so good..."
Don't be confused about where to sell your books. Ask a friend and they will tell you that 710 is the store that pays TOP CASH. We'll pay top prices for your text books, no matter where you bought them.

"When students compare, We gain a customer."
Illinois preacher killed

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — Three suspects were arrested Monday in the slaying of an American preacher who died last week in a showing to a group of Liman in an apparent robbery attempt, police said.

A woman who witnessed the slaying of Thomas Daily, 43, said the group of attackers shot him as they lay unconscious on the ground and his body. Brown had lived nine years in Peru as a preacher for an evangelical missionary group called the Baptist Bible Society. He was from Jacksonville, Ill., U.S. Embassy sources said.

Brown's missionary group holds bible study sessions in various parts of the country.

Classifieds

DAILY EGYPTIAN CLASSIFIED MAIL-IN ORDER FORM

Print your classified ad in the space provided. Mail along with your check to the Daily Egyptian Classified Department, Communications Building, SIU, Carbondale, IL 62901.

Then wait for your results!

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>3 lines</th>
<th>4 lines</th>
<th>5 lines</th>
<th>6 lines</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>$3.90</td>
<td>$4.60</td>
<td>$5.30</td>
<td>$6.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>10 days</th>
<th>7 Days</th>
<th>3 Days</th>
<th>1 Day</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>$8.50</td>
<td>$6.50</td>
<td>$5.50</td>
<td>$4.50</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Return Postage.

Start Date

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>City</td>
<td>Star.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Get Results With The D.E. Classifieds.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Riding your dreams can make you smile.
MALIBU VILLAGE
NOW RENTING FOR SUMMER AND FALL
Five Locations
Rent Starts at $165

1. Hwy. 51, S5 Mobile Homes
12 & 14 wide, locked mailboxes next door to laundromat, 9 or 12 month lease. Special summer rates. Satellite dish, MTV and FM channel and HBO available.

2. 100 E. Park Mobile Homes
12 & 14 wide, fully furnished, across street from laundromat. 12 month lease, cablevision available.

3. 210 W. Mill Apartments
Two bedroom, across street from campus. Medecol lock system for extra security, 12 month lease, cablevision available.

4. Hwy. 51, S5 Townhouses
New large two bedroom townhome apartments. Just completed.

5. Townhouses, Located Behind Murdell Shopping Center

CALL 529-4301

MOBILE HOMES
Hwy 51 North

NEW SIGNING 9 Month Contracts For Fall & Summer

CARBONDALE MOBILE HOMES
Highway 51 North

LAUNDERMATS
CABLEVISION
CITY WATER AND SEWER
TRASH PICK UP
LAWN SERVICE
OFFICE BOXES
INDOOR POOL

HOTEL ROOMS

INN AT SPRING MILL
Spring Mill Campground

352-9322

TAKE OFF 19931b15.
4086bl54

for Sunday and fall/spring.

RENTALS STARTING AT $145/month

CALL 529-4301

NOW
Men charged in burglaries

Three Carbonible men were arrested early Monday morning and charged with burglary to an auto after an SIU-C crime lab had police of a possible burglary in progress.

SIUC Security Police arrested Antonio and Milton Payton, both of 595 N. Main St., and Rodney Smith of 590 E. Willow St., at 4:14 a.m. in connection with an area that was burglarized in a parking lot behind Washington Square.

The three suspects were being held in Jackson County Jail pending a bond hearing Monday afternoon.

The Paytons and Smith are suspected of stealing two tires and wheels from an SIUC student’s car and a cassette player, hairbrush, lighter and radio knob from another’s car. The three were once parked in SIU-C parking lot 100.

Police also recovered several items out of Milton Payton’s vehicle including a car stereo, two speakers, two tool boxes containing numerous tools, automobile airbags, lug nuts and a cassette recorder.

Cap. Kirk of the Security Police said most of the items were stolen. The Paytons and Smith are suspects in other local auto burglaries, Kirk said, but there is no evidence of an auto burglary ring at this time.

The investigation will be continued. Other charges may be filed against the men, he said.

FBI joins expanded state search for escaped murder case suspect

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) - State police are searching far escaped murder case suspect Dana Marmino of Carbondale, who they have expanded to Champaign and East St. Louis in connection with an escape from state Division of Criminal Investigation offices last week.

Officials are searching for 21-year-old Marmino, who was charged with murder and kidnapping in the shooting of a Troy man. Haley escaped Friday by bolting through a second-story window at the DCI offices in Springfield.

“He’s been known to have operated out of both areas,” said Bob Fletcher, a spokesman for the state Department of Law Enforcement, of increasing the search to Champaign and East St. Louis.

Fletcher said local and county police agencies, as well as the FBI, have been brought into the investigation.

In addition, an internal investigation into the escape is being conducted, Fletcher said. He said an “appropriate action” would be taken in the case, but he declined to say what that action would entail.

In addition, state and local authorities still are searching the Springfield area for Haley. Fletcher said several calls have been made from people who have seen Haley in the Springfield area, but have been turned up at dead ends.

Haley, is black, stands 5-foot-6 and weighs 140 pounds. He has been charged in Madison County with three counts of murder, one count of attempted murder, two counts of attempted armed robbery, and one count of armed violence in the fatal shooting Thursday of Donald Miles, 24, Troy, and the wounding of Dana Marmino of Wood River at the Interstate 70 rest area near Highland.

A 16-year-old girl, who was also arrested and charged in the murder, was transferred Monday to Madison County, by Sangamon County authorities. Authorities said Haley’s brother, William, is a DCI agent, but they said he was not in the area and works in the DCI’s northern Illinois offices.

“The department has no comment on what has to be regarded as an extremely unfortunate personal coincidence,” Fletcher said. He said William Haley’s responsibilities as a DCI agent is “beyond reproach.”

FAIR: Area could share in gains

Continued from Page 1

would be included in the $90 million the fair has budgeted for marketing.

Kramer said that the Fair Authority would try to encourage energy industries to help fund the Coal Research Center project if the center is approved as an attraction. The center would be used as a showcase of energy resources of the future, he said.

JAMES SWISHER, director of the Coal Research Center, said Monday that he had not yet been contacted by fair officials about the idea.

Kramer estimated that the fair will be dependent upon “several hundred thousand dollars” of state money, which he said makes it more logical that the fair involves the entire state in its planning.

“Once we’re going to ask for the help of the state we’re going to have to benefit the entire state,” Kramer said.

Kramer questioned the wisdom of funding the fair from private funds only, as was done in California Thomas Haley, the 1984 Olympics. He said that public opinion polls indicate that the fair would win such a referendum.

“IF WE’RE going to have a referendum on the fair, where does it stop — will we have referendums on public aid and hunting?” he said.

Kramer said that a financial feasibility study is being conducted. The study is expected to be completed this month and will show that the fair is capable of turning a profit, he predicted.

“It doesn’t, we shouldn’t” have it, he said.

Kramer said that there are several differences between the proposed Chicago World’s Fair and the Knoxville and New Orleans fairs of recent years, which had less than spectacular results.

THE CHICAGO event will be of much larger scale than the other fairs, he said, and will be located in a much larger economic market. The planners of the Chicago World’s Fair also have the advantage of being able to learn from the other fairs’ mistakes, Kramer said.

“TO COMPARE a mini-fair such as New Orleans or Knoxville with Chicago, to me is like comparing apples and oranges,” Kramer said.

S. AFRICA: Divorce urged

Continued from Page 1

said, “Its board of directors is entirely separate also.”

The University raises funds through state appropriations or through fee and tuition increases, Dyer said.

Lewis said, “We believe in a government, we shouldn’t support a country whose policies are based on racism. I don’t understand why we debate this (apartheid issue) everyday.”

Under the apartheid system form of government, Lewis said, “Twenty-four million blacks can only live on 12 square miles of land.”

Advertise in the Daily Egyptian

Advertise in the Daily Egyptian Thursday and Friday of any week and receive a special rate plus...

3 Free Yard Sale Signs

Your ad will appear under a special “clip & save” column in the classified section. This column will be clipped by eager bargain hunters in search of that special treasure.

For information call 536-3311

3 lines for 2 days......Just $4

Advertise in the Daily Egyptian Thursday and Friday of any week and receive a special rate plus...

For information call 536-3311

The Daily Egyptian is located in the northwest corner of the Communication Building just off Chautauqua.

All ads must be preprinted.
By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

In the second semester of SUC intramural sports came to a conclusion last week with the championship of various sports. Softball, soccer, and ultimate frisbee were a few of the sports.

"I'm very pleased with the intramural sports season this year," said Intramural Sports Coordinator Bill McMillan. "The sports teams and officials did an outstanding job and participation was up in many events.

On Friday four teams came away with championships, while two division champions were crowned in ultimate frisbee. This is it! Bowa's ultimate frisbee team, with last quarter winning the B title by defeating the Whalers 8-3. No Names 2 knocked off Whiff Way 20-19 in the women's A final, and Freebase won the co-rec B crown by beating Bowa 7-3. Second place went to the team of Randy Osborne, Sally White, Joanne White and Tae Chac. In the co-rec race on April 24, the duo of Steve Segner and Armando Pellerano won both the men's race and obstacle course competitions, with the team of John Dine and Mike Cherry finishing second in both events. The women's title in both events went to the duo of Nora Lee and Linda Parley.

Bowa could return to Phillies

CHICAGO (UPI) - Larry Bowa is unsure of his future with the Chicago Cubs despite General Manager Dallas Green's claims that he has no plans to trade the veteran shortstop.

Bowa's future with the Cubs again became an issue Monday when one report quoted Bowa as saying that he thought it would be in the best interest if he was traded by the Cubs. But Bowa backtracked some Monday evening by quizzed by reporters before Monday's game with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I understand that Shawn (Green) said he had no plans to trade me here," Bowa said. "I am understanding my role with this club and I know I'm going to play once a week."

Green, who acquired Bowa from the Phillies in 1981 as one of his first deals to rebuild the club, said he had no plans to trade Bowa.

"There are no talks at the present time involving any trade with Larry," Green said. "The report was just as shocking to me as it was to Larry."

But Monday Phillips President Bill Giles and his assistant Paul Owens denied having any interest in obtaining Bowa. Owens said he thinks Bowa is saying the Phillies are interested in an attempt to force a trade.

"I haven't even thought about it," Green said about a deal with a club he has traded with frequently - and successfully - to build the Cubs into a contender.

"I think the Cubs have a pretty good team," Green said. "I don't think I owe Larry Bowa (or his agent) anything."

Bowa was quoted by a local radio station (WBBM) as saying he believes a deal would be in the best interests for all concerned.

"He said if I was unhappy, I could pull it out for a week," Bowa was quoted as saying. "I'm thinking for his balls, for Larry Bowa, for (Manager) Jim Frey and for all concerned it would be best for me to be with another club."
Saluki softball team signs high school pitching recruit

The SIU-C women's rugby club ended its spring season last weekend by placing fourth in the Midwest National Qualifying Tournament at Iowa City.

The top two teams were advanced to the National Women's Rugby Tournament in San Francisco during the final week of May. SIU-C defeated the University of Wisconsin in its opening round match before losing to the University of Minnesota and host Iowa. It closes the season with an 11-4 record.

The club gained its seventh consecutive shutout by beating Wisconsin 10-0 Saturday. Anita Coleman opened the scoring late in the first half when she hit a try.

Coleman's scored another try in the second half and Barb Cavoto added the conversion kick to finish the scoring. SIU-C faced Minnesota in the semifinals and lost 8-6. Minnesota scored two tries in the first half to post an 8-0 lead at halftime.

The club rallied in the second half as Cavoto scored a try and Britt Van Buskirk added the conversion kick. But SIUC could not come any closer after that point.

SIUC lost 12-10 to Iowa in the third-place match Sunday. Coleman got her team out to an early lead by running for 50 yards for a try. Cavoto made the conversion kick to give SIUC a 6-0 advantage.

Iowa rebounded by scoring two try s and led 8-6 at halftime. Iowa extended its lead to 12-6 before Cavoto scored the final try late in the contest.

Women's rugby team finishes fourth in Midwest tournament

Kay Brechtelsbauer, SIU-C softball coach, has announced the signing of Lori Day, a pitcher from Bloomington, to a national letter-of-intent to play at SIU-C next fall.

Day, who plays at Bloomington Community High School, has compiled a 42-5 career won-loss record. She sports a 1.94 record this spring. Her teams have won three consecutive regional championships and is currently ranked 11th in the state in the latest Chicago Sun-Times poll.

"Lori is the caliber of player who is capable of coming in as a freshman and stepping into our rotation," Brechtelsbauer said. "In addition to her athletic ability, Lori is a class person who comes from a real family." Bloomington has compiled a 58-12 record while Day has played at high school. She is a two-time all-conference pick and holds six single-season pitching records. She also batted .397 last season with a school record 25 runs batted in.

"Lori can help us in a lot of different ways," Brechtelsbauer said. "Not only can she pitch, she can also hit well. When she is not pitching, she is a candidate for first base or the outfield."

Day's primary pitches are a drop and a curve but she has been working on a rise and a change-up, Brechtelsbauer said.

Day chose SIUC over 13 other colleges and universities, including Indiana, Oklahoma, Missouri, Oklahoma State, Illinois State.

Louisville Redbirds may be sold

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — The owner of the Louisville Redbirds, one of the most successful minor league teams in history, said Monday he may sell the St. Louis Cardinals farm club at the end of the season.

A. Ray Smith, who turned 67 May 1, said his advanced age is the reason he is looking to get out.

Smith brought the American Association team from Springfield, Ill., in 1982. That year the team shattered the all-time minor league attendance record of 670,383 set by San Francisco in 1948 by attracting 688,418 to their home games at Cardinal Stadium.

In 1983, the Redbirds became the first minor league team to break the one million mark by drawing 1,002,438 fans. Last year, they set the third-highest minor league attendance record with 846,717.

Smith said the selling price for the team is negotiable, but added it might top the $1 million the Wichita, Kan., club brought from Buffalo, N.Y., interests last fall.

The only stipulation Smith has is that he would like to sell to local interests.

"I'll bet I could have an eighth-of-a-page ad in the Wall Street Journal and have 50 entrepreneurs from the East want to buy it," Smith said. "But I am going to insist on local ownership, where possible."
Saluki 10

Sixers gain
everything at collegiate level.

BASEBALL: Costello. Sophomore and RBI (47). led the team in hitting al .351 batted .315 with five homers. 26 in 26 games. after batting .312 injur y. batted Burch batted a combined Finley. who missed Verschoor. another player played three.

De neuers will slide back and wait for home runs. extra doubles and

Sixers gain early entry into conference finals

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Having won their conference semifinal series in four straight, the Philadelphia 76ers will sit back and watch for three other survivors to emerge.
The Los Angeles Lakers and Detroit Pistons will compete for the respective playoff series and

BASEBALL: Salukis look to 1986

Continued from Page 20
home runs. eight doubles and 24 runs batted in to go along with a .276 average. Chuck Verschoor, another Saluki, hit .361 with 15 RBI and played three infield positions for the Salukis.

Outfielder Charlie Hillmann. also in his first year at the collegiate level. batted .315 with five homers. 26 RBI and was 12-for-12 in base stealing. Sophomore Steve Finley, who batted .287 with 12 RBI a year ago, finished the 1985 campaign with a .277 mark. five homers. and team highs in hits (64). doubles (14) and RBI (12).

Shortstop Terry Jones. who missed the second half of the season with a pulled muscle injury. batted .345 with 10 RBI in 36 games. batting .328 in 1985 and was a freshman a year ago. Former Illinois""
Baseball stars could be indicted in drug probe

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — U.S. Attorney J. Alan Johnson refused Monday to confirm reports that federal investigators are imminently planning an investigation of drug trafficking by prominent baseball names.

The New York Daily News reported Sunday that federal agents are set to raid the homes of former baseball greats for drug-related evidence. The report was based on sources who claimed the indictments will include the biggest names in Pittsburgh sports, but did not identify them by name.

WPX-TV in Pittsburgh also reported on its nightly news Thursday that in indications in the case, which has drawn national and major league ballplayers to the city to testify before the grand jury, could come soon.

"I have no comment," Johnson told United Press International Monday, the same response he has given to all prior related queries. "I've never acknowledged there is such an investigation. It's not the practice of our office to do that."

WPXI reported the traffickers have access to the Pittsburgh Pirates' locker room at Three Rivers Stadium and are familiar enough with members of the ballclub that they have traveled to meet them in other National League cities.

The television station said the indictments will include at least six people in the Pittsburgh area and at least one in Philadelphia and other cities.

WPXI said the drug transactions occurred regularly at several Pittsburgh restaurants. However, the TV station said the owners of the establishments were unaware of the dealings and were not targets of the probe.

Several ballplayers are known to have testified before the grand jury, including Pirates pitcher Rod Scurry and outfielder Lee Mazzilli: New York Yankees infielder Dale Berra, who was traded by the Bucs last winter; and Baltimore Orioles outfielder Lee Lacy, who left the Pirates as a free agent last winter.

Baseball Salukis hope to rebound in 1986

By Stan Golf
Staff Writer

Things may have ended on a rather sour note for the SIU-C baseball team this year, but with the fall season fast on the horizon, the Salukis have the potential to field a very strong club in 1986.

"We got some people coming back," SIU-C Coach Richard "Tichy" Jones said. "We'll just have to see how we accept what happened to this year's team, and try to go out next year and prove that we're a better club than we showed at the end her.e."

The Salukis, riding high with a 38-29 record after splitting a crucial four-game series with then-No. 3 Wichita State on April 26-27, fell apart in the season's final 12 games, losing all but one and finishing third in the Valley.

Missouri Valley Conference baseball with a 3-15 record (28-29 overall)."We've got a young team and we were hoping to start the kids off with a winning tradition," Jones said. "But our disastrous finish prevented that from happening."

"The 12 straight defeats, a school record, gave the Salukis their second straight losing season, but helped them surpass last season's team record total of 22 losses for one season. Last season's club finished 20-22, but went 9-4 in MVC play to win the regular season title."

After splitting the series with the Shockers, SIU-C was tied for fourth in the Valley at 5-7, and stood a good chance of qualifying as one of four teams in the post-season tournament. However, four losses at Creighton two weeks ago and four more setbacks this weekend at Indiana State buried the Salukis in the conference. In its last eight MVC games, SIU-C was outscored 96-23.

"Last year we struggled just before conference play opened and then got hot," Jones said. "This year it was just the opposite."

The Saluki bats, which were hitting .338 as a team at one time in March, slumped drastically the final 16 games, and the team finished with a .297 average. It was not just the bats that failed SIU-C, however, as opponents scored seven or more runs seven times during the recent 12-game skid.

Despite the late-season batting slump, the 1986 Salukis finished with some pretty impressive offensive statistics, and none of the regulars were seniors. In fact, three freshmen and two sophomores made major contributions to the SIU-C attack.

Jim Kating, listed as a backup first baseman when the season opened, won the starting catcher's job, and the freshman out of Rolling Meadows responded with four

See BASEBALL Page 19

Sports

Stuck names three finalists

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

Dean Stuck, SIU-C special assistant for intercollegiate athletics, Tuesday evening announced three finalists for the job as men's head basketball coach.

The three men chosen are Tony Barone, an assistant coach at Bradley University; Steve Cottrell, head coach at Western Carolina University; and Rich Herrin, head coach at nearby Benton High School.

The three finalists will visit the SIU-C campus Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Fred Huff, men's sports information director said.

Barone is a 1968 graduate of Duke University where he received three letters in basketball and was named Academic All-American his senior year. He has been the top assistant to head coach Dick Versace at Bradley for the past seven years.

Herrin, who has coached at Benton for 25 years and built a 106-200 record, set an Illinois high school record by winning 21 regional championships. Herrin is a member of the Illinois High School Basketball Coaches' Hall of Fame. Herrin was also a candidate for the coaching job in 1980 when Allen Van Winkle was hired.

Dodgers edge Cubs

CHICAGO (UPI) — Candy Maldonado singled and scored the tie-breaking run to ignite a two-run 10th inning Monday that gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Maldonado led with a single off Ray Fontenot, 2-1, and went to third on an error. He scored on Pedro Guerrero's sharp grounder that went through the drawn-in infield. Mike Marshall singled to center, scoring Landreaux with what proved to be the winning run.

Ken Howell, 2-1, relieved in the ninth to earn the victory despite giving up a solo homer to Ron Cey in the bottom of the 10th inning.

The Dodgers tied the score at 3-3 in the ninth off reliever Lee Smith on a leadoff single by Marshall and went on to win.

By Stan Golf
Staff Writer

Things may have ended on a rather sour note for the SIU-C baseball team this year, but with the fall season fast on the horizon, the Salukis have the potential to field a very strong club in 1986.

"We got some people coming back," SIU-C Coach Richard "Tichy" Jones said. "We'll just have to see how we accept what happened to this year's team, and try to go out next year and prove that we're a better club than we showed at the end here."

The Salukis, riding high with a 38-29 record after splitting a crucial four-game series with then-No. 3 Wichita State on April 26-27, fell apart in the season's final 12 games, losing all but one and finishing third in the Valley.

Missouri Valley Conference baseball with a 3-15 record (28-29 overall)."We've got a young team and we were hoping to start the kids off with a winning tradition," Jones said. "But our disastrous finish prevented that from happening."

"The 12 straight defeats, a school record, gave the Salukis their second straight losing season, but helped them surpass last season's team record total of 22 losses for one season. Last season's club finished 20-22, but went 9-4 in MVC play to win the regular season title."

After splitting the series with the Shockers, SIU-C was tied for fourth in the Valley at 5-7, and stood a good chance of qualifying as one of four teams in the post-season tournament. However, four losses at Creighton two weeks ago and four more setbacks this weekend at Indiana State buried the Salukis in the conference. In its last eight MVC games, SIU-C was outscored 96-23.

"Last year we struggled just before conference play opened and then got hot," Jones said. "This year it was just the opposite."

The Saluki bats, which were hitting .338 as a team at one time in March, slumped drastically the final 16 games, and the team finished with a .297 average. It was not just the bats that failed SIU-C, however, as opponents scored seven or more runs seven times during the recent 12-game skid.

Despite the late-season batting slump, the 1986 Salukis finished with some pretty impressive offensive statistics, and none of the regulars were seniors. In fact, three freshmen and two sophomores made major contributions to the SIU-C attack.

Jim Kating, listed as a backup first baseman when the season opened, won the starting catcher's job, and the freshman out of Rolling Meadows responded with four

See BASEBALL Page 19