Egyptian Not Guilty Of Suppressing News

Several times in the past few weeks, the Egyptian has been accused of promulgating facts and of discrediting the newspaper. These charges have been made by various members of the Board of Trustees, including the President. The charges range from mere statements of fact which the newspaper has not been able to verify as well as statements which actually are false.

Looking Elsewhere...

By Joe Boyer

At such a crucial time in our nation's history as this, it seems fitting to turn our attention to world events. Yet there is a remarkably small amount of discussion of them in the newspapers. This is not due to any lack of interest, but to the complexity of the issues involved. It is clear that the student body at Wheaton is well informed about the current events, and yet there is a surprising lack of debate on these issues. The only person who can do anything about this is the student body itself. Only by discussing these issues can we hope to understand them and to take effective action.

Vet Enrollment High in '49

By Bill Welch

When will we reach the peak of veteran enrollment? With rising costs and the high school graduations of the veterans, the peak will surely be reached soon.

Some estimates put the peak at 1948, while others predict a decline in the years to come. It is difficult to predict the future, but it is clear that the current trend is downward. The peak enrollment may have already passed, or may not be reached until the years ahead.

Clouds, Rain, and Wind are Harbors of The Winter's Coming Bad Weather

By Fred Sanders

With the winter chill enveloping the land, the sky above the earth becomes a stage for a drama of clouds, rain, and wind. These elements, once the signs of the season, can now be seen as the harbingers of the winter's coming bad weather.

Clouds, in particular, are a good indicator of the weather to come. As they form and grow, they bring with them the potential for rain or snow. Rain, on the other hand, can be a sign of a cold front moving in, bringing with it the chill of winter. And wind, a force to be reckoned with, can bring with it the harsh conditions of the season.

The winter's coming bad weather can be a challenging time for those who must travel or work in the elements. But for those who can stay indoors, it can be a cozy time to enjoy the warmth of the hearth and the CDs of SWEET MEMORY (Tropical Night) or SWEET MEMORY (Soft Memory) by the CD Club.
