Nine Coeds Seek Queen's Crown

Winner Will Be Announced Oct. 25 During Ceremony In Shryock

Nine coeds who are candidates for Homecoming Queen will face the "Days of Decision" tomorrow and Thursday as campus voters go to the polls to settle their fate.

When the polls close at 5 p.m. Thursday, one of the nine coeds will have been elected to the honor. The Homecoming Queen will be announced and crowned at ceremonies in Shryock Auditorium Thursday night, Oct. 25.

Here is a brief description of the nine women running for the queen's crown:

Freshmen Seek Election In 2-Day Balloting Starting Tomorrow

Voting in campus elections will begin at 8:45 a.m. tomorrow. Elections will continue through Wednesday and Thursday, with polling hours from 8:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days.

Four polling places will be provided. They will be at the University Center, Lentz Hall, the Main Gate and a location at Group Housing.

There is no pre-registration for the election, but voters must present either a certificate of registration or a valid fee statement to be qualified to vote. Election officials said either a brown-bordered or black-bordered Certificate of Registration entitles a student to voting privileges.

Every person voting will receive a ballot with candidates for Homecoming Queen, Homecoming attendants and Spring Festival chairman listed.

Freshmen students will also receive a separate ballot for electing a Freshman Class President, Freshman Vice-President, Freshman Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Freshman and Miss Freshman.

A total of 43 persons have filed for the five Freshman elective positions.

The voter is instructed to place an "X" only in the box in front of the candidate of his choice. The "X" must cross in the box.

Candidates for positions other than Homecoming Queen and attendants are:

Spring Festival Chairman--Linda Brummett, Penny Donahue and Ann Strawn.

Freshman President--Dave Born, Bill Carel, Daniel Coleman, Sandy Gill, Bernie Gilula, James Hanson, Nicholas Maniscalco, Ted Orf, Bryan Shechmeister, William Springheart, Don Theobald and Kenneth Wiegand.

Freshman Secretary-Treasurer--Laurie Brown, Jane Chenoweth, Judith Ann Delap, Theresa Gautreaux, Pat Hammons and Nancy Sutton.

Miss Freshman--Margaret Luigs, Fay Williams, Nancy Dain, Linda Laswell, Judith Pope, Nancy Reno, Betty Ann Stumph, Penny Weber and Jan Whadcock.

Mr. Freshman--Paul Bunning, John Lane, Art Karsel and Paul Larson.

Space Scientist Is Convo Speaker

Laurel Van der Wal, holder of the highest feminine position in the nation's space program, will speak at Thursday's Freshman Convocation.

She will discuss "Mysteries of Space" at 10 a.m. and at 1 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium. A tall, attractive young woman who looks more like a high fashion model than a space scientist, Miss Van der Wal is a specialist in engineering problems of manned space flight.

She heads the bioastronautics group at Space Technology

Laboratories, Inc., in Los Angeles, where she seeks to solve such problems as definition of space environment, radiation protection, weightlessness phenomena and design of manned space craft.

Project MIA (Mouse in Able), which carried the mouse Benji in a missile nose cone where he had his heart rate measured and telemetered back to earth, was conceived by Miss Van der Wal. This launch returned valuable data on the physiological effects on space flight.

Graduated from the University of California at Berkeley with honors in mechanical engineering, she went on to study at the Royal Institute of Technology in Sweden and at UCLA where she received her Ph. D.

Miss Van der Wal has written many technical papers, many of them classified. She has also appeared on many radio and television shows, including Dave Garroway's "Today" and Art Linkletter's "Houseparty," "Science in Action," and Paul Coates Show.

Wallet Finder Isn't Keeper

If special awards were given for honesty on the campus, Larry Ghidoni should be in line as one of the first to be honored.

Ghidoni, a sophomore from St. Louis, found a wallet containing $28 in cash at the University Center during the first week of school. Joseph F. Zaleski, assistant dean of student affairs, said Ghidoni took the wallet, owned by Morris Tarrino, another student, to the Campus Security office.

The wallet and $28 was returned to Tarrino.

Three Southern Profs Write Articles For 1962 Encyclopedia Britannica

Three faculty members of Southern are among the new contributors to the 1962 edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Harry Ammon, associate professor of history, wrote the article on "Morris, Gouverneur"; Richard E. Blackwelder, associate professor of zoology, collaborated with others to write the article, "Colorado potato beetles"; and Harold E. Briggs, professor of history, wrote the article on "North Dakota" and "Rockford."

"North Dakota" and "Rockford" are examples of the particular attention which was given during the 1962 revision to articles on cities, states and regions of the United States. In this type of article pertinent statistics revealed by the 1960 U.S. census reports were included.

"Founded by New Englanders in 1834, Rockford, was named for the rock bottomed ford, and was the site of a stagecoach stop on the trip between Chicago and Galena," writes Professor Briggs. Of Rockford today the author writes that it is a manufacturing city, its products include machine tools, hardware, furniture, farm implements, household appliances, leather goods, and paint.

These three articles are among 3,849 which were revised for the 1962 edition, as part of Encyclopedia Britannica's continuous revision policy. There are 411 completely new articles, 1,193 which were rewritten or given major revision and 2,156 which received minor revisions.

Nominations Accepted For Woodrow Wilson Fellowships

First year graduate study awards, offered by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundations, are now open for nomination, states Dean Willis G. Swartz of the Graduate School.

Eligible for nomination are men and women of outstanding ability who are graduates of or seniors in colleges and universities in the United States or Canada. At the time of nomination candidates cannot be registered in a graduate school.

Among benefits a Fellow receives is a living stipend of $150.00 for one academic year. If the Fellow is married an additional allowance is made.

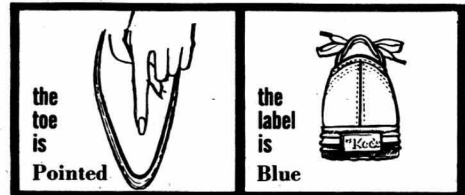

Faculty members have until Oct. 31 to nominate candidates in the humanities and social science field. Professional study is barred. Deadline date for returned applications is November 20, 1962.

Interviews of about 25 per cent of the nominees are held in January, and notifications of awards and honorable mention are sent out by March 15, 1963.

Also the Graduate School is now accepting applications for National Science Foundation Cooperative Graduate Fellowships for the 1962-63 academic year. These fellowships are for $2400.00 a year plus tuition and fees.

For further information on procedure students may contact Dean Willis Swartz or Dr. David Kenney at the Graduate School Office.

GARY MILLER

Miller Family A Tradition At Southern

The family history of Gary Miller, and Southern Illinois University are intertwined for the fourth time in the last 80 years.

Gary, a freshman from Lake Bluff, Ill., is one of the few, if not the only, fourth generation student at Southern, according to Wilbur R. Venerable, acting director of admissions.

Gary is the son of E. E. Miller, immediate past president of the Chicago Area Alumni Association Chapter, who was graduated from Southern in 1939.

Gary's grandmother, Mrs. Della E. Miller (nee Della Etherton), attended the old Normal Training School (now University School) around 1900.

Gary's great-grandmother, the late Mrs. William Etherton (nee Lillian Williams), attended Southern Illinois Normal University in 1882-83.

40,000 Miles, 30 Tournaments Mark Most Extensive Debate Season Yet

SIU's debate squad opens its most extensive debate schedule in history next Thursday, when the debaters compete at the University of Kentucky Thoroughbred Tournament.

Coach Jack Parker's squad will travel some 40,000 miles during the coming debate season and will debate in over 30 tournaments. Parker says, "some of these tournaments will have as many as 50 schools entered." As a climax to the season, SIU will host the Golden Anniversary Convention of Pi Kappa Delta, a national debate festival expected to draw 1,000 competitors on March 19-23.

Four senior varsity members and five experienced competitors form the nucleus of this year's SIU squad which Parker expects to have "an outstanding year."

Four times in the past six years SIU has qualified for the national championships at West Point, and the two top varsity debaters who made the trip last year head the 1961-62 squad. They are Dick Fulkerson, ranked 10th in the nation, and Phil Wander. Other front-liners are Glenn Huisinga, ranked top speaker at last year's Dartmouth Invitational meet, and Barbara Ellmore.

State extemporaneous speaking champion Jeff Barlow, sophomores Pat Micken and Winston Zoecckler and Carol Lee Williams round out the varsity.

Parker said the team will compete for the first time in the University of Pittsburgh Invitational with Notre Dame, Dartmouth, Cornell, William and Mary and the host school, Nov. 29.

VTI Library Doubles

Not to be outdone by the addition on Morris Library, the VTI library has also done some expanding itself.

According to Mrs. Wilma Lampman, chief librarian of VTI, their library space has been doubled. This increase has meant that there can be an additional thirty students studying in the library.

In addition, VTI's textbook service is now inside the building so that students will not have to stand outside in lines to receive their textbooks as they did in the past. Also, the building is scheduled to be air-conditioned and will receive new lounge furniture for the browsing section.

The library is designed to serve the 697 students who are divided among the fourteen departments of the institute. Because of this, the library's material is mainly technical. Any VTI student has access to the stacks at Morris Library if they wish other than technical material and anyone on the Carbondale campus has access to the VTI library as well.

Council Endorses Southern's Off-Campus Housing Policy

A resolution concerning off-campus student housing was edited and approved by the Student Council at its meeting last week.

The resolution notes that enough housing of acceptable quality is not available for students, that the university has provided housing and set standards for off-campus housing, and that bus service between Carbondale and Murphysboro was set up through student activity fees.

The resolution approved the university policy and urged continued efforts to raise housing standards.

Student body President Bill Fenwick read petitions for recognized off-campus housing units, submitted by Bunker Hill and Coed's Corner. An objection of irregular procedure was raised when Fenwick called for a vote instead of referring the petitions to a committee.

Fenwick said there was no reason for delaying recognition of the units that long. He added that the committee didn't usually investigate each housing organization for such things as "communist infiltration". He said calling for direct action was proper.

George Graham said that parliamentary procedure could be hidden behind by some-

Model UN, Other Issues Approved

The Student Council appropriated $400 for a model United Nations to be held in February, 1963. The move was made in spite of objections that the council was bypassing regular procedure in calling for an immediate vote instead of referring the motion to a committee.

Fenwick defended his veto of the council's action to accept Charles Novak's resignation as National Student Association associate coordinator. Fenwick said it was not the function of a legislative body to accept resignations. Although the body's motion was vetoed by Fenwick because of the technicality, he accepted the resignation when it was submitted to him.

Carolyn Kruse asked that a resolution to the student editor of the Mississippian be called out of committee and be passed upon. The resolution referred to an editorial stand against student riots at Ole Miss.

The motion to bring the resolution to council was defeated and it remained in committee hands.

one who didn't want to come out and oppose an issue. Fenwick replied he wasn't hiding anything.

The petition for a student organization, Students for Democratic Society was voted on and approved.

In other action, Fenwick appointed Wayne Comstock and Marion Dean as co-chairmen of Parent's Day, scheduled for November 10.

George Graham moved that Southern Hills be included on the University bus route, since it would lessen the congestion of cars and make Southern Hills available to those without cars. It was voted on and passed.

Other council activity included motions to consider student representation at Thompson Point, to examine the possibility of placing more telephones in the University Center, to change the VTI bus schedule, and to acquire badly needed "brand new pool table" for the VTI student center. The motions were referred to committees for further study.

U Thant's Under Secretary Discusses UN Problems, Goals

Prior to that he served as Under Secretary for Special Political Affairs, Associate Managing Director of the UN Special Fund, and Executive Secretary of the UN Commission for Asia and the Far East.

The 47 year old Indian was educated at Madras University in India and at Oxford. He held several government positions in India.

Housing Resolution

The Student Council passed a resolution Thursday night, backing the university on its housing policy. The resolution makes no mention of the Carbondale Taxpayer's Association, but it should certainly answer their questions.

The CTA is made up of householders who have vacancies in their student houses and those who fear future vacancies in their homes. They blame the university's dormitory building program for attracting students away from housing they provide. The simple fact is that students have chosen to stay away from substandard housing.

The university can hardly be condemned for taking note of the lack of sufficient good off-campus housing, and then as the council's resolution states, seeking to provide on-campus housing and to improve off-campus units by setting up standards for acceptance.

The responsibility of the university is first to its students, not to the people of Carbondale. If the city does not provide all the necessary services a university of 11,000 students requires, then SIU itself must provide them.

And yet the city and the university must operate within a cooperative and working relationship. Both have commitments they must meet if they hope to keep up with the demands of a growing university. But these commitments are complementary and cannot be completely successful if they work against each other.

The building program is one example of the university's efforts to expand. Members of the CTA should be able to see that if they are to remain a part of the university's growth, they must improve too.

The Student Council's action shows an understanding of the housing problem. Their move to clarify their own feelings on it is to be praised. The council's urging that there be "continued efforts to raise housing standards" must be heeded.

Take Five And Vote

A proposal introduced at Thursday night's Student Council session could have the effect of making larger a small council.

The proposal would mean that votes cast by all living areas in the upcoming fall elections would be used to determine if any area should elect additional senators in the spring elections.

The number of council members elected to represent each living area is determined by the number of votes cast by the students of that area in the spring elections. Each area automatically gets one senator, but if 501 students votes from a given area, there is an immediate election of another senator. A turnout of 1,001 voters from an area means they can send three senators to council.

At present there are 18 council members representing 11,000 students. There are nine, five-member committees in the council. This requires that several members serve on three committees, a definite drag on the effectiveness of the council. The council's move toward increasing representation is a move in the right direction.

But the council's efforts to improve its representation cannot alone solve the problem. It still reverts back to the students. They must vote.

Students can complain about a do-nothing council, but if they don't do their part in establishing that council by voting, their complaints are not legitimate.

The Student Council has a lot of potential. The tragedy is that the development of that potential rests, in a large part, on do-nothing students who won't take five minutes to mark a ballot.

"I Saw Old Autumn"

It's autumn at Southern. Falling leaves and the scurry of younger feet stir the rumblings deep within this old cannon.

I have seen many autumns come and go, from my vantage point beneath the flag. Each brings an excitement, an anticipation that it will be a year better than the last; the hurrying, the preparation, a premonition of things to pass. Mornings are living memories of a hazy shroud rising from the lake and disappearing into a deep blue sky. Yes, "the scarlet of maples can shake me, like a cry of bugles going by."

And each autumn has brought more new students to add their names to the roll. Their quick pace, timid smiles and inquiring faces are refreshing; sometimes amusing. Students come wearing hats of bright green. But they don't last long, those conspicuous symbols of inexperience. Green beanies are soon discarded, their wearers seeking to be lost in the crowd, to identify themselves with what has always been.

Students come for many things; and some to give, some to take or borrow. And all but the rare are lost in the throng, crowding the busy sidewalks, part of the existing order.

Many come to stand next to me--some holding hands, others just to talk. They talk about many things--problems, the next class, the last one, tomorrow. I listen

Gus Bode Says . . .

He finally found a good place to live, but it's going to be hard commuting from Chicago.

The construction noise heard inside the library shouldn't bother anyone--it just drowns out all the conversation.

"Ma, we just ain't gotten no eggs anymore. Guess we'll have to sell the chickens and keep SIU students."

Letter To The Editor

Isn't it about time that the student council or the FBI investigated the questionable procedures of the University Textbook Service? Ask anyone you know and chances are that he has been unjustly charged for books that have never been checked out. Fines of $25 and even $50 are not uncommon. Certainly it is better to obtain the suggested receipt for turned-in books, but why should this be necessary unless the checkers of the books are careless or the system itself is faulty. One person I know of, when charged a large sum for "lost" books, went to the Textbook Service and found the books on their shelves.

If the present system of textbook rental is not working satisfactorily then it should be changed, but innocent students should not be expected to pad the textbook service budget.

Speak up, fellow students! If you feel there is an injustice here that needs to be brought to an end--then let's hear about it. The Egyptian is your paper, make use of its editorial page!

Salukis Defense Stymies Hillsdale - Win 13-6

"We're number one now," hollered a jubilant SIU player enroute to the dressing room after the Salukis handed top-rated Hillsdale College its first setback in five games.

SIU's dressing room filled rapidly with well-wishers pouring through, congratulating the players on their 13-6 victory.

When Coach Carmen Piccone came into the dressing room, the excitement and enthusiasm calmed down long enough for quarterback Vern Pollock to present Piccone with the game ball.

"Keep it, it's yours," Pollock said, "You deserve it with all the work you did preparing us for the game."

Piccone accepted the ball and then offered his congratulations to every player on the team. He went walking through shaking hands and smiling broadly.

"It looks like he's running for political office," one wag commented.

Sitting alone in the corner of the dressing room was captain Charles O'Neill. But like all his teammates, he was eager to talk about the game.

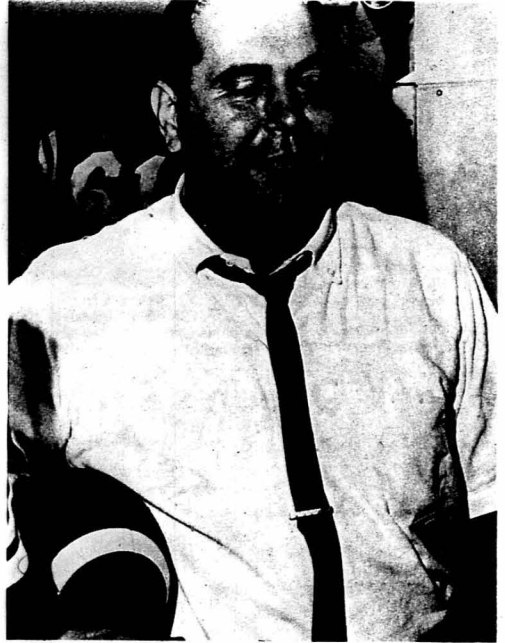

"Defense won the game for us," O'Neill said, "Boy what a job they did."

"Did you see the effort that Jim Thompson, Slobodnik (Nick), Jim Minton, Sam Silas, Harry Bobbitt, Larry Gazzall and Bill Lepsi put forth," O'Neill continued, "The defense was especially tough tonight and I'm glad, it was because we needed it."

One lineman asked how many points opponents are averaging against them? Someone answered "10 a game" and the lineman quipped, "I guess we are playing good defense."

Pollock was talking about the pass he threw to halfback Carl Kimbrel which set up the winning touchdown.

Pollock apparently was trapped on the Hillsdale 30-yard line but he eluded two crashing tacklers and threw a pass to Kimbrel on the eight-yard line.

CARMEN PICCONE BEAMS BLISSFULLY AFTER THE GAME

"Running at that angle it looked like he was miles away," Pollock said, "He barely reached it before stepping out of bounds."

Two plays later Jerry Frericks crashed over from the three-yard line to give the Salukis the victory. Bob Hight kicked the extra point to provide the final 13-6 margin. Jim Minton and Bobbitt were discussing the play after the game. "Harry and I worked out before that he would crash inside while I went outside," Minton said, "Important thing is it worked and we look great but it was the entire team that won the game, not individuals."

Here's How The Salukis Won Their First Varsity Home Game

SIU handed Hillsdale College its first loss in five games this season and probably knocked Hillsdale out of the number one position in the college-division ratings.

Southern scored its two touchdowns in the first and fourth quarters.

Jim Battle scored the initial touchdown by recovering a SIU punt in the Hillsdale end zone after a Hillsdale player had touched the ball. Bob Hight's kick for the extra point was wide to the left.

Hillsdale scored its first touchdown in the second quarter when quarterback John Lucadam carried the ball over the goal line from the one. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

Hillsdale threatened to take the lead late in the third quarter on a field goal. But SIU defensive halfback Harry Bobbitt crashed through to block the kick.

After exchanging punts, Southern took over on the Hillsdale 38-yard line and scored in five plays.

Vern Pollock's pass to halfback Carl Kimbrel set up the winning touchdown. The pass play went from the Hillsdale 30-yard line to the eight. Two plays later Jerry Frericks made the winning touchdown.

It was the second time this season that Southern had beaten a Michigan team. Two weeks ago Southern handed Central Michigan a 43-6 setback.

Defensive play from both teams highlighted the contest.
