Gas stations drop prices
by five cents

By Karen Gallio
Stafl Writer

If you need a gallon of gas can be considered cheap, then Carbondale's independent gas station may be having a "price war." According to a sampling of gas stations in the Carbondale area, gas prices have been reduced by 5 to 5.5 cents per gallon over the last two weeks.

Station owners and managers are saying the reduction is the result of a price war, a contest between gas stations to have the lowest prices in town.

Price ranges between 90 cents per gallon and $1.12 per gallon were steady during the first three weeks of fall semester. When gas stations lowered its prices, others followed suit to keep their prices within a competitive level, according to station managers. The range is now between 90 cents per gallon and 95 cents per gallon. As of this week, the lowest-priced range is between 95 cents per gallon to $1.12 per gallon.

Amoco supplier is Carbodale said for the first time since this time that he has no plans to increase his allocation.

"Two months ago we had a hard time getting gas," Cochran said. "Now the cut-rate stations (independent stations) are getting a lot of gas."

Larry Hake, retail manager of Martin Oil Co. in St. Lo, said larger supplies and the public's increased interest in conserving energy have contributed to the "little gas war in Carbondale."

Hake said the gas stations are a little more competitive since there is more gasoline available now than there was during the summer. Due to a decrease in gasoline stems from the fact that more people are conserving energy, according to Hake.

"There is just more competition since there is more gas," Cooper said. Reductions in the price of gasoline in Carbondale began about two weeks ago, according to

Mace cites need for proposed fee hike

By Charity Gould
Stafl Writer

Part of the proposed athletics fee increase would generate approximately $400,000 for SIU-C. This is an increase of 50 cents per semester. Apart from the expected number of students who will do away with the fee and a decrease in the number of part-time students who paid no fees, the athletics budget was approximately $25,000 more than last year. The proposal would raise the fees for the current school year.

If the increase is approved by the Board of Trustees, the athletic fee would increase from 20 cents per semester for each student to be raised to $0.

Addressing the Graduate Student Council Wednesday, Mace said because of the unexpected number of students who will do away with the fee and the increase in the number of part-time students who paid no fees, the athletics budget was approximately $25,000 more than last year. He said he had expected a similar deficit for the current school year.

In addition to diminishing the two-year $25,000 deficit, the remainder of the fee increase would be split equally between the men's and women's athletics programs.

Mace cited Title IX, the 1972 law forbidding sex-based discrimination in intercollegiate athletics, as a problem which hampers funding for athletics programs. Mace told the SGA that the athletics fee has not been raised since 1978. Since 1978, the fee has been redistributed in the men's and women's programs. From each $2 or $4, the men's athletics allocation dropped from $15 to $12.90 in 1978, while the women's allocation rose from $5 in 1978 to $20.

Mace said the planning committee voiced their disapproval of the proposed fee saying they didn't like funding "as few people" and that the money should be used for academic purposes.

Mace says the athletics program collects data, it is a relief to the general public and it indirectly makes important contributions to academic programs.

One student suggested the University could also generate funds by spending $10 million to try and find a Safari. Mace replied, "Give me the money and I'll do it."

Senator approves new USO constitution

By Diana Penner Staff Writer
A new constitution that will determine the fundamentals of the Student Organization and its members has been approved.

The senate approved the constitution at its meeting Wednesday. The constitution had been tabled three times, once to be reviewed by the Campbell Intern Affairs committee and twice because there were not enough senators present to make up the two-thirds majority required to approve the constitution.

Chris Blankenship, vice president of the 1500 several ambiguous points are closed up in the new constitution. Wording that had previously been up to interpretation is now more precise, Blankenship said.

The new constitution requires the vice president to assume the duties of the office at the beginning of fall break rather than during summer school. The president will not be required to work during the summer break, but must work half of the fall break and part of the summer break.

Student jurors are now appointed for one year rather than two years. Several senators felt that two years was too long for a judge to serve. Also under the new constitution, student jurors will be chosen and approved by the present Senate. Previously, only the chief Jurist was chosen by the senate, while the president appointed the jurors.

The senate changed the new constitution to prevent Campus Student Advisory Board members from taking part in their own impeachment proceedings.

The senate decided not to approve proposed changes for voting districts and election procedures. The voting districts will remain East Side, West Side, East Campus and Thompson Point as outlined in the old constitution. The proposed changes would have combined Thompson Point and Small Group Housing to form the West Campus District, Small Group, Housing would remain part of the West Side District.

The senate postponed consideration of the new statutes and bylaws until next week's meeting. Changes in election procedures are also proposed in the new bylaws.

In other business, the senate approved funding requests from the Student Environmental Center and the Forestry Club. The Forestry Club received $1500 for equipment improvement. The SEC was allocated $3000 for the group's operating costs for the entire year.

The senate voted not to approve the Sahibs Jaycees as a recognized student organization. The resolution of the group's "non-compliance of Title IX" and failure of the senate's policies on age and sex guidelines.

The senate approved petitions to recognize the Southern Illinois Therapists Assistants and the Coalition Against Registration and the Draft as student groups.

Faculty Senate conflicts with procedures

Shaw: No exception to search guidelines

By Paula D. Walter Staff Writer
Despite conflicts with Faculty Senate, Senate President Kenneth Shaw said he will make no exceptions to the guidelines for nominating members of the Presidential Search Committee.

According to the guidelines, each of the eight campus constituency groups that will have representatives on the committee is to submit twice the number of recommendations as it will have places on the committee. Shaw will then select the 12 committee members from the recommendations.

Shaw also requested recommendations for the constituency group that has been allowed three representatives on the search committee.

Shaw said Thursday that he felt it was very important to abide by the guidelines.

"Dr. Dennis has pointed out to me the necessity of going by guidelines and that's the reason I honored the 1976 guidelines," Shaw said.

The present presidential search guidelines are very similar to ones developed in 1976 under the administration of Warren Brandt.

"Obviously when you have guidelines like those there are differences of opinion, but I really feel it wouldn't be fair to the other constituencies if I didn't honor the guidelines," Shaw said.

Shaw said the reason he asked for twice the number of names is to ensure proper diversity and balance within the committee.

"We need to be sure there's a balance between males and females, that there are representatives from the different colleges within the campus and that minorities are represented," he said.

Shaw also said that he made a valid comparison between the groups since "we're the only group that has this policy."

He said he had no idea how the senate will vote Tuesday.
Pope: Limit priesthood to men

DE SMONOHAL, I. P. — Pope John Paul II flew from the big city of the East to the small towns of America's heartland today after reaffirming church opposition to women priests. He said that limiting the priesthood to men is the way "God has chosen to shepherd his flock."

The Pope came to Iowa for an afternoon of prayer — first at a rural church in Carroll, about 35 miles from here, and then at Living History Farms, a 600-acre area near Des Moines dedicated to those who work the land. The 59-year-old pope ended his day in Chicago, the next to the last stop on his week-long tour that already has taken him to Boston, New York and Philadelphia.

Even before John Paul arrived, a crowd estimated at 300,000 — more than 3 times the number of Catholics in the entire Archdiocese of Des Moines — had gathered at Living History Farms.

Approval expected for energy board

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, moving toward final approval of President Carter's Energy Mobilization Board, rejected Thursday moves to weaken the agency's authority to speed energy development.

By a 63-28 vote, it refused to accept a logjam of amendments that would have split the powers of the new four-member board.

Pope takes over Rock Island Line

CHICAGO (AP) — The Kansas City Terminal Railroad Co., made plans Thursday to take over the ailing Rock Island railroad at midnight, deciding what lines to get into service first.

The KCT, a switching company owned by 12 other railroads, has been ordered to take over the Rock Island for 40 days while a presidential board tries to iron out a labor dispute and striking workers return under a presidential order.

The order, from the Interstate Commerce Commission, means that farmers and elevator operators in the 13 states fed by the Rock Island can begin moving record harvests of corn and soybeans, as well as other crops, to market and that about 14,000 commuters in the Chicago area can resume riding the trains.

The railroad has been shut down for more than a month by a strike.

Faculty Senate’s delay petty and poorly timed

CAUGHT BETWEEN a rock and a hard place, Chancellor Kenneth Jacobs faces a dilemma. The SIU community will have to wait a little longer before they can find out how astounding is, Ills’er’tiDJ; replaces Y’!8f-olds tc<!!

The Edwardsville campus has been a rock—no boulder—in the path of SIU’s progress as a competitive institution by insisting on the reorganization of the Carbondale Senate in the presidential selection process.

The Edwardsville Senate may stand hard on their own internal policies on selection committees, thereby effectively showing what had been a smooth process for the other campuses.

REALIZING HIS political strength within the SIU system has been lauded by emotional furious created by the governance change committee, who have tried to strike a balance between accepting the diverse interests of SIU without alienating the powers that do belong to the chancellor’s office. Now the faculty have gained the balance with diametrically opposed demands on the same subject. The Edwardsville campus bemoans that they were allowed only a one nomination for each open position on the presidential search committee. At the same time, the Carbondale professors are disinterested because they were allowed no nominations beyond their own.

This sort of petty political maneuvering places Shaw in the obvious position of being the choice of the old and new regime to be at the same time. In regard to the Carbondale faculty, part of the conflict was no doubt due to Shaw’s unfamiliarity with the policies of the Edwardsville Senate. But when Shaw announced that he would follow the existing guidelines for the “Carbondale campus and that he would ask for two nominations from each constituency group, there was no protest; only that he stepped on Faculty Senate policy.

Faculty Senate President Lawrence Dennis said he spoke to Chancellor Jacobs last week about the violation of Shaw’s intention to seek two nominations in early September—therefore preventing Edward Shaw and associates from being nominated until the official announcement was made on Sept. 26.

YET THERE was no special meeting called to deal with the differences. There was no apparent concern with meeting the demands of the Edwardsville faculty.

The senators, it seems, don’t want to set a precedent by nominating two persons for one position and letting the chancellor make the final decision, which would create a precedent that would allow one campus group to let their internal policies be overruled by the Chancellor.

Get on with it. The Senate will meet Tuesday. It is hoped that at that time, it will learn the art of compromise and settle what should be a rather simple task of picking a master to nominate the six persons that are needed to get the presidential search underway.

‘Clash’ review great

‘Having been a fan of the “Clash” for months, now, I was delighted to read of today’s critical shortage of a DE’.

The reason that The Clash is a likely candidate for Top 10 radio is because of the FCC’s purging the worst out of major radio stations not to play punk rock, last the youth of this country start getting some wild ideas about being “bored in the U.S.A.”

At this point, I don’t think revolutionary ways of such rock performers as Ian Dury, Tom Robinson Band, Elvis Costello, and The Clash are apparently less desirable to radio executives than having the popular culture press try to hit the image of a “no band” or a “punk kid”...

After going to Chicago Sept. 17, I saw The Clash in concert. I find myself agreeing with the writers from Rolling Stone and the Village Voice who called The Clash “the most exciting rock band around.”

A laudable commend DE staff and the City Council proper such an accurate review.

Investigative stories needed for citizens

Many of us would appreciate it if the Department of Communications would encourage local newspaper ownership and teach in journalism classes the technique of investigative reporting.

The Mary-June Carbondale Communicate, which organ of the local government, published a list of streets to be given an asphalt chip treatment this summer. A simple check of the City Council’s resolution on this project revealed that for Charter Street alone the City Council approved a request to the State Department of Transportation for funds to treat a non-existent street, to treat an inappropriate surface, and for widths greater than it exist.

One wonders what excesses might be uncovered through proper investigative reporting techniques. One wonders if students would be raised to ferret out problem areas in city government projects and expose them to public scrutiny. While the majority of the citizens generally seem to know about their losses through misgovernment, an informative press would greatly diminish this apathy and in reality be the last recourse concerned citizens have as their source of information.

Technology aids functional illiterates

By Jim Barshart
Managing Editor

A man stands among a crowd of people at a carnival party. He holds a good conservation because television or radio has brought him up to date with the day's news. He dresses well because advertisements have shown him pictures of what is fashionable. He knows how to conduct his business by observing those around him. He may even hold a responsible position with his company. All of these things sort him apart from those present. He is functionally illiterate, and he has been since 1879, a Harr Poll identified 18.5 million adults over age 16 as functionally illiterate today. About 22 million American adults and an estimated 13 percent or 17-year-olds are classified as being functionally illiterate.

The number of functional illiterates being produced in this country is astounding. What is more astounding is the fact that these people, without the ability to read or write beyond elementary levels, can survive in today's society virtually unnoticed.

Illiteracy, the inability to read or write a simple message, is nearly vanished. However, it is being replaced by functional illiteracy, the inability to read or write well enough to be a productive citizen.

A Letter to the Editor of this paper stopped its presses this year.

The number of functional illiterates are being produced in an alarming rate. Numbers what is even more astounding is the fact that these people, without the ability to read or write beyond elementary levels, can survive in today's society virtually unnoticed.

Letters present them with the days current events and other vital information. Television news replaces the written message. Tape recorders have replaced CDs for those who have skipped the written music with graph illustrations. In short, the American society itself is contributing, if not promoting, this functional illiteracy.

In the modern classrooms, teachers have been replaced by television sets. Calculations of math problems, beginning as early as the first grade, are done with the assurance of a battery-operated calculator. In today's highly advanced technology, the basic skills of reading and writing are steadily being replaced by electronic devices. People no longer have to rely on the basics to learn, they simply plug themselves into the most complex terminal.

It would be interesting to see what would happen in the face of the most major current events, all the electronic gadgets of education were to suddenly stop.

The Village Voice made The Clash “the most exciting rock band around.”

Short Shots

Alternative sources of energy are not free from problems. The loss of 250 pounds of uranium from the Nuclear Fuel Services plant is one glorious example.

What better place for Andre Kole's "World of Illusion" show than SIU, which already shows how to stage dramatic episodes from Title IX, pollution, control deadline, as well as impossible locations of the year.

DOONESBURY

By Garry Trudeau
The fall dinner meeting of the Southern Illinois Reading Council will feature a speaker from the Department of Curriculum, Instruction and Media.

Diane DeFord, an assistant professor of education, will deliver a lecture titled, "Comprehension: A Matter of Clarifying, Not Simplifying." DeFord's current research includes exploration of language cues utilized by readers with limited language available, such as blind and deaf readers.

DeFord's other research interests have included the reading process, comprehension in reading, developing reading strategies and writing from pre-school through adult. The dinner meeting will be held from 6 to 8:30 p.m., Oct. 25 in Ballroom A. Reservations may be made by contacting Evelyn Jackson.
Museum hosts exhibits and lectures

The University Museum and Art Galleries will host exhibits, lectures, and music from Oct. 8 through Oct. 13 in celebration of Arts Week '79.

The museum, located on the C-wing of Pomeroy Hall, will exhibit "The Illinois Travelling Sculpture Exhibition" throughout the week.

The exhibit, which is on loan from the Illinois Arts Council, is a collection of creations made of wood, metal, and handmade paper. The diversity of ideas is the theme of the show.

In addition, Donna Curtis, a researcher in the School of Medicine and a member of the Southern Illinois Earth Science Club, will talk on collecting rocks, minerals and fossils at noon Oct. 1 in the museum's auditorium. Curtis' collection of specimens will be on display in the Collector's Corner in Pomeroy.

Faculty violin recital planned

By Bruce Healey

Two School of Music faculty members will be performing rare heard violin works in a faculty recital at 8 p.m. Monday in Shryock Auditorium.

Helen Poulos, assistant professor of music, and Kent Werner, associate professor of music, will play the piano.

The rare pieces are works by Czechoslovakian composer Leo Janacek and British composer Benjamin Britten.

The piece by Janacek is the "Violin Sonata," which was written between 1912 and 1913.

It's considered to be interesting, particularly in the melodic and rhythmic development of speech presented musically.

The other piece, "Suite for Violin Op. 7" by Britten, is composed of five movements.

Britten wrote the piece when he was 24 years old. In this piece, Britten displays a rather lighthearted humor, particularly in regard to his fondness for puns and diction and sly association with certain well-known composers.

Poulos explained that very few violinists play these pieces because most of the music is written and that today's students are so busy learning the traditional pieces for their repertoire and recitals that it leaves the Janacek and Britten pieces out.

Outdoor concert slated

Arrow Memphis, a group that dubs its music "danceable and listenable," will appear in concert Saturday immediately after the football game in the Free Forum Area. Admission is free.

Formed in the summer of 1976, Arrow Memphis consists of Glenn Harris, lead guitar and vocals; Steve Williams, piano, acoustic guitar and vocals; Denny Koell, fiddle, acoustic guitar and vocals; Bob Jones, bass and vocals; and Gary "Six" McCaw, drums. All of the players have been with the group since its inception.

The band's music consists of original material written by Williams and material from such people as Jackson Browne, Little Feat, Charlie Daniels, Dan Hicks, The Band, Marshall Tucker and The Grateful Dead. Arrow Memphis' interpretation of the music can be categorized as "hillbilly jazz," "country rock," or "western swing."

Arrow Memphis has appeared with such artists as Tanya Tucker, Doug Kershaw, Vassar Clements, Hartfield and Brewer and Shipley. The band has appeared throughout the midwest and in Arizona, Colorado and New Mexico.
MOVE to host benefit concert

Dr. Bombay will perform at 9:30 p.m. Monday at Hanger 9, in a benefit concert for the United Way sponsored by the campus Mobilization of Volunteer Effort and radio station WILU.

The event is part of M.O.V.E.'s United Way Week, which is meant to raise funds for local volunteer organizations. A $1 donation will be expected at the door.

Dr. Bombay will be joined by other musicians from area bands including members from Vision and Morning Thunder, according to Patti Sundquist, M.O.V.E. coordinator.

"Sometimes in the evening it will turn into a straight-ahead jam," she said.

Also, WILU will be holding a $1 trivia contest throughout the evening with prizes furnished by Rand Distributors. Sundquist said that Pabst will be providing the beer and that a portion of the profits will go to the United Way.

Sundquist said that the money collected from the benefit and the entire week-long effort will go "to support the vital services of the community. People have really come to the call," Sundquist said, citing the efforts of WILU, Pabst, the Graduate Student Council (which donated funds) and Dr. Bombay.

Poet reads works for Calipre Stage

Poet Daniel Dahlquist will read one of his own works, "Poems from the Zoo," at 8 p.m. Friday at the Calipre Stage on the second floor of the Communications Building. Admission is 50 cents.

Dahlquist, a graduate of SIU-C, is currently artistic director for "Neeshla," a federally funded project for the furtherance of Indian culture in the Wisconsin Delta.

"Poems from the Zoo" was written while Dahlquist worked as a zoo guide for a zoo in Chicago. It describes life in the zoo from an adult perspective.

Telpro seminar planned

Telpro, a student radio and television production organization, is sponsoring a seminar on radio, television and industrial production Friday in the color studio in the Communications Building.

At 10 a.m. Ted Garcia, advertising manager for television station KMOX and recipient of an Emmy Award, will speak about an advertising magazine which covers primarily producing commercials about news broadcasts.

Royce Russeil, the owner and operator of Trace Master recording studios, along with colleague Jamison Brown, will speak and give demonstrations about audio production.

Free Cartridge Clinics

During the clinic the following tests will be performed:

- Cleaning and inspection of the stylus
- Turntable sled
- Arm balance and stylus tracking
- Phase check
- Electronic balance
- Spherical alignment
- Assembling
- Trackability

These tests are performed in turntable and magnetic cartridge of any make.

The above Cartridge Clinic will be held Saturday October 6 12-6 p.m.

Two films slated for weekend

Andy Warhol's "Bad" and Krzysztof Zanussi's "Worn in a Decision" are Student Programming Council's films for the weekend. "Bad" will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and "A Woman's Decision" at 7 and 9 p.m. Sunday. Both films are slated for the Student Center Auditorium. Admission for each is $1.

"Bad" is said to be a movie with something to offend absolutely everybody. The 1976 production stars Carroll Baker as the ringmaster of a gang of suburban hitwomen who get their kicks performing a series of grisly murders until a punk, played by Perry King, disrupts the group.

"A Woman's Decision" is a highly acclaimed work that features Maya Komorowska as Marta, a married woman whose marriage is falling apart. She meets a man who wants to have an affair. The movie explores liberation and the choices involved in achieving it.

An advertisement that appeared in yesterday's paper said that "A Woman's Decision" will be shown Friday and Saturday, but it will be shown Sunday. "Bad," as mentioned, will be shown Friday and Saturday.

Public library to hold book sale

By Ron Lindsey " '67 " "W" Student Writer

Books of all kinds will be available for sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Carbondale Public Library, 304 W. Walnut St.

According to Loretta Koch, adult services librarian, the library is offering a variety of books for sale to the public at "very reasonable prices," Koch said. The books will range in price from 5 cents to $1, with most falling below the 50 cents range.

The books to be sold are either library discards or books which have been donated throughout the year to the library for this purpose.

"A large portion of our donations come from the University community," Koch said. "Students who are leaving Carbondale or students with textbooks that they just don't need anymore contribute for the sale."

"We reserve the right to limit quantities," Koch said. "Good thru Sunday, October 7."

Shaw to talk at Law School retreat

By Michelle Goldberg
Student Writer

The SIU-C Law School will hold its annual faculty retreat Friday and Saturday to discuss current issues and future plans of the school.

The retreat, held at Touch of Nature Environmental Center, will start at 5 p.m. Friday with an opening speech by STU Chancellor Kenneth Shaw. According to Law Professor Darrell Dunham, coordinator of the retreat, Shaw's address will probably cover the role of the chancellor at the University.

"It will serve to introduce Shaw to the Law School, and to introduce the Law School to him," Dunham said.

Dunham said he feels the most important issue will be the anonymous grading system currently used in the Law School. Under this system, students give themselves code numbers after each exam that are used in place of their names.

Campus Briefs

The Veterans Club will meet at 1 p.m. Sunday at Evergreen Park. A time table for Homecoming will be discussed.

The AppleTree Alliance is sponsoring a benefit, anti-nuclear concert and bake sale at 5 p.m. Friday in front of Shryock Auditorium. Joe Harding will speak on his experiences as a worker at the Paducah nuclear power plant. At 9:30 a.m. Saturday a series of seminars on nuclear power and related issues will be given in the Student Center River Rooms by members of the Alliance.

The Southern Illinois Orienteering Club will begin its fall season of local meets at Touch of Nature. Those interested in attending should meet at noon Sunday in front of the Student Center, where rides will be available. Compasses will be furnished.

The photographic works of nine SIU-C graduate students are on display in Nicholas Vergette Gallery in Allyn Building. The students are working toward master of arts or master of fine arts degree in cinema and photography.

Appletree Alliance informs public of dangers from nuclear power use

By Diana Penner and Nick Wetzel

Growing concern about the increased use of nuclear power prompted the formation of citizen groups throughout the nation.

In Carbondale, representatives of the Appletree Alliance say that the goal of their group is to inform people about the dangers they feel are posed by nuclear power.

Don Gallagher, a spokesman for the group, said he feels that nuclear power is causing "irreversible health effects" by affecting the genetic system. Karen Greenberg, a group organizer, said that although these effects may not become evident for a few generations, the Appletree Alliance wants to ensure the safety of today's children.

The group formed last spring and was associated with the Prairie Alliance, a group based in Clinton, Iowa, working to halt construction of a nuclear power plant there. About 20 people are active members of the group, and 50 to 100 others become involved in activities, Gallagher said.

The summer, the group organized a 16-mile march from Metropolis, Ill., to the site of a gaseous diffusion plant. Gaseous diffusion is one of the last steps in making nuclear power available from uranium. Gallagher said about 50 people participated in the march, which ended with a rally in Paducah.

The representatives said that nuclear plants in Southern Illinois are an important link in the chain of nuclear power in the United States. Greenberg said nearly all of the uranium mined in the United States is trucked from St. Louis to Metropolis on U.S. 51.

In Metropolis, the uranium is fluoridated and then sent to the Paducah plant for further processing. Appletree Alliance is opposed to these local plants because "radiation that is routinely released may cause ill effects in the people of Metropolis and Paducah," Gallagher said.

"Even if Metropolis and Paducah are relatively safe, the end products of each of them are so inherently dangerous that the plants are among all plants that need to be shut down," Gallagher said.

The group is sponsoring a benefit concert featuring local bands from 5 p.m. to midnight Friday in front of Shryock Auditorium. Appletree Alliance representatives Joe and Jeannie Harding, a former worker at the Paducah plant, will also speak at the concert. Several seminars are scheduled to be held from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday in the Student Center River Rooms. Topics to be discussed include constitutional issues and zoning regulation, as well as other subjects related to nuclear power.

Signs will be posted to direct people to the seminars.

General studies program examined to determine relevancy, structure

By Shelley Davis
Staff Writer

What should the role of general education be at the university, and how should it be structured? These are just two of the questions that are being asked by schools across the country in an effort to judge the relevancy of their general education programs. SIUC has formed the General Education Curriculum Committee to find answers to these questions.

James McHose, chairman of the GEC, said its goal was not to revamp the present general studies program but to draw up a philosophy of what general education should accomplish. That philosophy could then form the academic program of the present general studies program.

"We were to develop a rational in a vacuum that would not be constructed as a review of general education," McHose said. "The statement is independent of the program we have now."

McHose said he defines general education as core knowledge and the arts of expression and modes of inquiry. "We want to employ general education to include inductive and deductive logic in philosophy and mathematics."

"The real sense of the committee is for the student to develop, to have as a component of a college education, a certain amount of science, humanities, and social science and seeking new knowledge," McHose said.

Jewell Friend, dean of General Education Programs, feels there are three abilities a student should have in completing a general education curriculum, a student should have a sense of his own identity in a historical spectrum.

"A student should know where he comes from, where he is now, and where he is going in the future," she explained. "He should know who he is and what he is going to be in social and historical spectrum."

Next, a student should have the ability to grasp a principal and the extent of that principal. Friend said this includes principles of natural science and human made laws as well as principles of value systems and courses such as mathematics.

Finally, a student should have the ability to recognize arts such as dance, painting, sculpture, literature, and music. "The need to be aware of the arts as a result of the best and the worst that human beings have been, and or could be," Friend said. "A student ought to be able to articulate some of these modalities," she said. "He ought to be able to articulate the personal and social commitments that he makes."

The philosophy drawn up by the GEC tries to bring together these feelings expressed by McHose. Friend and other faculty members on the committee, Frank Horton, vice president for academic affairs, and the person who formed the committee, said the philosophy will have implications on the present general studies program.

"The committee will be asked to produce a program that conforms to the philosophy," Horton said. "If it fits what we have now, then see it. But I don't believe the committee views it as reflecting the present general studies program."

Sexuality week designed to increase awareness

By Jarqul Koscak

Next week has been designated Human Sexuality Week by the Human Sexuality Service division of the Student Wellness Center. For the fifth consecutive year, staff members have set aside one week for a series of workshops and video presentations designed to heighten sexual awareness and understanding, said Blanche Freund, graduate assistant for Human Sexuality.

The activities will begin on Monday and continue throughout the week. Human Sexuality staff members will conduct all of the activities at the Student Center. On Monday an open discussion in the area of sexual relationships, contraception, sex roles, and rape will be held from noon to 2 p.m. in the Mississippi Room.

Job Interviews

The following on-campus job interviews were left out of the listing Thursday in the Daily Egyptian.

The interviews are scheduled at the Career Planning and Placement Center. For interview appointments and additional information, interested students should visit the center at Woody Hall, Section B, Middle Wing, second floor. Room 2-28. A student must have a resume on file with the Placement Office before calling for an appointment.

Resident believed tied to shooting

(Continued from Page 2) There was no motive for the killing as it was an attempt to rob the victim's daughter, Veronica, an 18-year-old freshman in pre-med, who lives in Schneider Hall.

No motive for the killing has been established by the police department, White said. He described the shooting as "very, very strange.

"There is simply no reason for this kind of thing to happen. There is nothing to indicate a reason for anyone to do anything to this man," White said.

Increase in housing costs proposed

University housing rates from $1,000 to $1,500 per year. Sam Rinella, housing chairman, will be addressing on-campus and family housing issues to the Student Council next week on next year's proposed housing increases.

Vice President for Student Affairs Bruce Swinburne announced the possibility of a housing increase after an increase in the number of students residing in on-campus housing. Student worker increases is approved.

Swinburne said one of the reasons for the housing increase is the University will begin to pay off a $5.3 million bond issue for new housing areas, which is being installed at Thompson Manor and the Triads. Payment on the bond issue comprises $174 a month for the increased residents per year. Salary increases for University housing personnel who are paid by the state, will make up $7 of the new housing rates. Swinburne said the anticipated savings for these workers will be 1 percent less than the actual increase.

Swinburne cited an increase in food prices as another reason for the increased housing costs. Food price increases will cause residents to pay an additional $50 a month. The new housing rates are approved. A wage increase for student workers was another reason cited by Swinburne as a cost which will hike the housing rate. The increase will be $14 of the additional housing cost per resident. Current rates include increases for telephone service, laundry service, utilities and insurance, which are $25 per month. University housing residents will be charged the increases even though they are currently paying.

If the proposed housing rate increase is accepted, Swinburne said money saved on utilities and food, and paying off the bond for the air conditioning system in some on-campus housing areas, Swinburne said. On student workers, the new housing rates were given $125 in additional funding to the student activity fee proposed by Pete Alexander, Undergraduate Student Organization president. The fee was proposed to generate more funds for the USO.

Council members also agreed to give a small portion of a graduate student's fees back to each department to use as they see fit.

Two students from the Legislation Department were given $125 in additional funding to a conference on Mobilization of Volunteer Effort's program coordinating the United Fund Drive was allocated $159 by the GSC. However, the allocation may be revoked.

Gas stations lower gas prices

Several gas stations in town continue to issue gasoline in half-gallon increments, which means customers pay double the amount charged per gallon. The stations began this practice when prices soared to more than $1 a gallon.

The lower prices are only a local situation, according to gasoline distributors.

"The cost to us distributor isn't lower," said Forrest Crase, owner of Cruse Mobile Gas.

Crase said prices per gallon range from 90 cents to $1 for regular and $1.05 to $1.04 for unleaded throughout the rest of Southern Illinois.
Saluki golfers eye state crown

By Rod Smith
Illinois Sta.

The men's golf team will end their fall schedule this weekend when they travel to Champaign for the Illinois Intercollegiate Tournament Saturday and Monday. The Salukis, coming off an impressive 14-shot victory at the Sycamore Classic in Terra Haute, Ind. last week are the favorites to win the state crown.

For the second consecutive week, the Salukis will compete on a golf course known for high scores. The tournament will be held at the Robinson Country Club, home of the Robinson Open on the Professional Golf Association tour.

The course is characterized by narrow fairways, some to more than 30 yards wide, large and fast putting greens and many sandtraps. Last week's win at Terra Haute was on an even tougher course, Humalan Links.

Only three of SIU's golfers have seen the Robinson course. The Salukis' No. 1 golfer, Doug Clemens, who was medalist at Humalan Links, and Mike Thompson, a freshman, have never seen the Robinson layout. The team won't be allowed a practice round before the meet.

"I'll be nervous putting the ball going in there cold, but I'm looking forward to it since it is the state championship," Clemens said.

"The tougher the course is, the better it is for us," Coach Walt Semmlgls said. "Being a young team, we don't shoot the real low scores, we need the course to hinder some other teams."

Clemens said the narrow fairways would help him especially because he usually hits the ball straight. "I like the courses that you don't have to shoot low to win."

"We just want to stay close to the lead of the first round," Semmlgls said, "after playing the course once, we want to make our move the second day."
Golfers use tourney as regional test

by David Gabrich

Sparta, Ill.-City Airport

There are two reasons why the women's golf team going to the Midwest Regional in Friday- and Saturday at the Purdue, Invitational. One is to play against some of the best golfers in the West. The other is to gain experience playing at a course on which it will compete for the Midwest Regional title.

The Salukis, who defended their state title last week, will compete with colleges from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan, according to Coach Mary Beth McGirr. She said between 15 and 18 schools will be entered.

"Purdue will be one of the strongest teams there," McGirr said. "They have two players who can shot in the 70's." Lisa Lennien and Linda Bresnahan took the top two spots for Purdue in the Indiana State Invitational two weeks ago. Both should battle for the top spot on their home course, according to McGirr.

The first-year coach hopes her team can finish among the top team members will need to shoot scores in the 80's.

Six will enter six schools in the tournament. St. Mary's will compete in the No. 1 position. Lennien finished second at last week's state tournament. Lennien will be joined by Lori Beckman, Sue Falaro, Penny Porter, Judy Dohrmann and Kim Burch. Both Lennien and Dohrmann were named to the all-state team for their performances in the state meet.

The Salukis will still leave Friday morning for the tournament and will practice on the course Friday afternoon. The 36-hole tournament begins Saturday and will conclude Sunday.

"It is important that we get a chance to practice a day before the event starts," said McGirr, who doesn't know much about the layout of the course. "Our seniors played the course as freshmen, but don't remember the specifics."

McGirr said the team still has problems with consistency. She said lack of concentration is part of the problem.

"A golfer must have the ability to go out and concentrate, yet you can't concentrate that intensely for four- and one-half hours," McGirr said.

Correction

One of the figures in the "Statement of Ownership and Circulation" appearing in the Oct. 3, 1979 issue of the Daily Egyptian was error. Item G, the average total number of copies for the preceding 12 months, should have read 20,600 instead of 19,976.

Officials optimistic of decision allow Du Quoin to get a majority of the votes and keep the race.

"The theory of divide and conquer," Benedick said. There are two tracks in the East involved and not to let one track doesn't have a strict majority, we hope those members will throw their votes behind Du Quoin.

"People in the East want to keep it traditional. This is a great opportunity for strength. It'll be back in New York where it originally started and where the votes were there.

More than tradition is involved. Votes and media attendance are the prime reasons why some members of the society favor move to the Meadowlands. A total of three million dollars in attendance racing there in 1979. The track is a 2 3/4 hour trip from New York, the nation's media capital.

We have every major news coverage, both big and small included in the audio group which covers the races at the Meadowlands," Benedick said. "Sports Illustrated and all the major sports papers were there. We had 90 minutes of coverage by NBC television, and that is more than we've ever had before.

"I don't know of anyone else they'd get except the Paddock Stakes.

"The trouble with television is the present is a good mirror. All the things that happen in a race are shown. It gives us the ability to get our points across. We have our problem. We had our moment in the sun last year. We'll get another chance this year. We're going as far as we can go."

"It's only natural that if it was sold, some of the members of the society said, 'What's going on?'" Benedick said. "We are busting our butt to show what we're doing and don't plan on letting the fair go down hill or letting the Hamblinian deteriorate."

Benedick cites proof of this year's race as an example, saying he has heard "very favorable comments" from society members.

"Jerry Frederick, Al Hebert said the decision will be based on a balance of monetary and aesthetic values.

"When you move something, you should do it for a good reason," Benedick said. "Our track is excellent. We sold more world records (six of seven) for harness racing than any track in the world. There is no reason to move it."

Some, none, possibly, except money.

Flatter course awaits harriers

By Rich, Krist

Testing the slop is a hill.

When the SIU and EIU women's cross-country teams met last Saturday at the Illinois State Invitational, several runners won their team scores.

Both teams are expected as close as a race on a much flatter course this Saturday at the Central Illinois Invitational for the 5,000-meter race. The SIU team, which will be on the site for the dual meet, starting time is set for 11 a.m.

"There's no need to worry," Panther Coach John Curtis said. "This week's race will be much faster than that at EIU because the course is much flatter. Who will have the advantage because of the flatter and win the race will be determined on Saturday."

In the EIU Invitational, the advantage between the two schools was SIU's favor. The Panthers edged the Panthers for seventh-place with their team score of 138. The Panthers finished eighth with 165 points.

EIU held an individual advantage in that they placed two runners in the top five, Robe

c and Ruth Smith. The two sisters placed fourth, 18.09, and fifth, 18.11, respectively. EIU's top finisher was Lindy Nelson. Nelson took 15th place with a time of 18:32. Patty Prymire finished directly behind her teammate in 18:32.

"My top two girls are pretty good," Curtis said of the Smith sisters. "They're gonna be right up there at the end of Saturday."

Saluki Coach Claudia Blackman does agree with Curtis. "The Smith girls are really tough. Patty and Lindy are going to be pushed to the extreme to run with them."

Blackman said the Smiths' course will be a definite advantage for her runners since they practice on the Midland Hills course which is much flatter than the EIU course. She added that she anticipates faster times because of the type of course.

Whether the races results in faster times will probably be academic, because the winners of the race will demonstrate the team's depth. The times of the top five finishers for each team are used to compile the scores.

In the SIU Invitational, the Salukis 10-nominate Automatic team depth that EIU. SIU had Nelson's and 7th-mine's finish plus a 2th place finish from Helen Graf, a 4th from Linda Snover, and a 4th from Cathy Chiarello.

Eastern's top finishers after the Smith sisters were a 2th place finish from Gina Sperry, a 6th from Sonia O'ason, and a 7th from Linda Lomax.

The Smith sisters will probably be two of the toughest for the Salukis to face this season. Two weeks ago in Western Illinois' '41st Annual Invitational, Robin Smith set a new meet record with her winning time of 17:33." Smith's time is more than 12 seconds better than Nelson's season best of 18:46.

Ruth Smith, EIU's second-best runner, has a season best time of 18:01, compared with Prymire's season best of 18:33.

Stickhandlers to play on road again

The weekend will mean rest and less practice for the Salukis' men's field hockey team since they are coming off their recent trip to Philadelphia. Although the team played well, they have announced their decision to play favorite teams.

On Saturday at the Midland Hills course which is much flatter than the EIU course. She added that she anticipates faster times because of the type of course.

"I consider these games important because they are probably going to be tougher than the ones we'll play next week. Also, we are off this weekend so this will help keep the momentum going," Illini said.

Saluki in Indiana meet
By Scott Seabrook

Because of the success of the fall meet at Bloomington, ind. the home of Indiana University, has become a sort of home away from home away. Keeping that in mind, the IU-IU men's cross country team hopes to stage a successful performance Saturday's Indiana University Invitational.

The way road show drew rave notices in its debut three weeks ago against Illinois State. Bloomington home meets against Illinois State and Kansas, the harriers hope to be on the same terms this week. said Coach Lew Hites. The Salukis will well to place highly in the 10,000-meter race. Saturday, in this race, we could poorly the 30-mile mark. We could about finish 20th," said Hites. In this race, we could poorly the 30-mile mark. We could about finish 20th," said Hites.

Hartung said between 20 and 30 runners may probably be entered at Indiana, including Joe Tennessee Track Club, the Indianapolis Track Club, and the Illinois State, Murray State, Ohio University, Purdue and the host Hoosiers.
