Sadat murder attributed to 'isolated' group

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egyptians said Wednesday that an isolated group of four soldiers, including a fanatic assassinated President Anwar Sadat, and that the government quickly scheduled a referendum next week to approve Vice President Hosni Mubarak as Sadat's successor.

Sadat's body was held at the military hospital, and officials said there were no details about his condition. It was said it would be taken to a mosque near the parade ground in the section of Cairo known as Nasr City and interred in a mausoleum there.

Sadat's family remained in seclusion, with the slain president's only son, 25-year-old Gamal, running home from a vacation in Florida.

In Parliament, still 290 votes counted in the special session endorsed Mubarak.

House rejects arms sale, Reagan presses Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—While a House vote was rejected his $8.5 billion request to sell Saudi Arabia, President Ronald Reagan prepared Tuesday to ask Senate Republicans to reverse the congressional limit on arms sales.

"I need you, the country and the world need you on this decision," the president was quoted as telling 42 Republican senators at a White House meeting that coincided with the 2-3 recommendation by the House Foreign Affairs Committee to cancel the arms sale.

After hearing Reagan's appeal, Sen. Alan Simpson of Wyoming switched to the opposition ranks to support the sale. The 82-36 roll call vote was the first similar turnaround from Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah a day earlier.

In addition, six previously uncommitted senators declared that they would back the president. All had been committed to opposing the arms sale because of the Reagan administration's resistance to the congressional limit which would allow the president to sign a treaty involving arms sales.

President John Warner, R- Va., Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., William Fulbright, R-Ark., Thad Thurmond, R.S.C., Gordon J. Humphrey, R-N.H., and Harry F. Byrd, R-Va., have said they would support the sale.

The board met Tuesday, Alvin said, but the amount for the fee increase was not decided on.

The increase is "accorded a lot of factors, basically the fact that everything is going up, and in order to keep the Student Center breaking even," the fee increase is necessary, Alvin said.

"The Student Center is losing money because of the planning of outside tuition and because of inflation," he said. "At this point, the Student Center has a lot of major renovation projects due.

The current Student Center fee is $24.40. The last time the fee was increased was in 1979, when it was raised from $20. In 1979, the fee was reduced from $29 to $24. Alvin said the Student Center Board meet at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Wellness Room of the Student Center to decide on the final amount of the increase.

The Student Center Board is only an "advisory committee," Alvin said, and it will make a recommendation on the increase to the full board of Trustees of the Student Center, and will seek "negotiation input from the Undergraduate Student Organization and the Graduate Student Council." The SIU Board of Trustees must approve the increase before it could be added to student fees.

City considers options on energy policy

Editor's Note: This is the first of two stories on a subject frequently debated in Carbondale.

By John Schrag Staff Writer

Energy conservation, a buzz word a decade ago, is once again a major subject in Carbondale.

All across the country, communities are considering comprehensive energy plans. The city should adopt one to best serve its residents.

Gus Bode

Gus says energy plant won't mean anything until the people believe OK'd by Exxons, Mobil, Shell, Standard, Texaco and Kerr-Mec.

Two plans are being considered by the Carbondale City Council. The first, proposed by the Shawnee Solar Energy Center in Carbondale, calls for the establishment of a comprehensive municipal solar utility. It includes free energy audits for all homes and businesses, and a provision for an interest loan program to finance energy conservation measures, a community energy education effort, and the development of a plan to act as a catalyst for energy sources at the local level.

While the comprehensive plan, presented to the council in mid-August by a group of four professors, Hans Fischer, the other council member, the three board members, and Carroll Fry favor a smaller-scale energy plan.

The plan uses solar energy plants only the size of a vegetable garden. It proposes a gradual increase in funds each year, with more than $150,000 requested for the 1984-85 fiscal year.

The energy prices alone represents an increase of $2 million dollars from Carbondale as money that would be spent in the city. It would increase energy bills by 5 to 10 percent.

The plan is expected to increase energy prices by 5 percent. He said the expected increase of $2 million dollars from Carbondale as money that would be spent in the city. It would increase energy bills by 5 to 10 percent.

Burris accuses Thompson of holding up treasury deposits

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - A spokesman for Gov. James Thompson on Wednesday denied an allegation by Illinois Comptroller Roland Burris that Thompson held up deposits to the treasury last month to make the state appear poorer than it was.

"There was no overt action to hold up treasury deposits," said Helen Adorjan, state Revenue Department spokeswoman. "It just has to do with the date that taxes revenues come in."

Burris, a Democrat, said Tuesday the state's $118 million daily treasury balance on Sept. 30 was artificially depressed and could have been as high as $288 million.

He said financial data showed treasury receipts in September were $75 million below normal for this time of year, and collections and about $32 million short of expectations for federal welfare aid.

Education funding bill passes House

By Liz Griffin
Staff Writer

An $87.3 billion appropriation bill that includes increased funding for student aid in 1982 passed its first general assignment hearing Tuesday, despite the apparent "breaking of rank" between some Republicans and the Reagan administration, according to Vicki Otten, legislative aide for Rep. Paul Simon, D-Dist. 24.

The appropriation bill, $177.8 million more than the administration's request for this year, includes an about $40 million increase from the administration's request for college student aid.

Funding for college student aid in the House appropriation bill is $22.2 million more than the fiscal 1981 level. Otten said the vote was 349-39 Republicans against the bill and 32 Republican Democrats voted to send the appropriation bill back up to a conference committee to be reworked.

The bill now goes to Senate education committee.

Otten said that as the appropriation bill is now, "The President has definitely said that he'll veto it."

"It is clear that the Senate will come up with its own distribution of money," she said.

The appropriation bill provides $2.52 billion for Pell Grants, down from $2.65 billion in fiscal 1981 and $2.96 billion for National Direct Student Loans, down from $3.19 billion. The $500 million for the college work-study program and the $270 million for Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants are at about the same level as in 1981.

ICC delays rail abandonment to decide between procedures

By Liz Griffin
Staff Writer

The Interstate Commerce Commission has put the abandonment of about 143 miles of Consolidated Rail Corporation track on hold until Nov. 2.

Conrail has been attempting to abandon the property between Lawrenceville and Cairo this year, saying it is a proven money loser.

By Nov. 2, the ICC must decide whether to allow Conrail to follow the older but lengthier abandonment procedure or the new one established by the Reagan administration. The new procedure would have almost guaranteed the abandonment of the track within 90 days, according to David Carle, press secretary to Paul Simon, D-24th District.

The delay will also allow the U.S. Department of Transportation time to decide whether to negotiate a sale between interested parties, and time for written comments to be sent to the ICC.

"It will provide extra incentive for the several parties involved to reach some accommodation to head off legal challenge that would delay a sale," Carle said.

Conrail filed on May 1 for the original abandonment procedure but withdrew on Sept. 4, according to a Conrail spokeswoman.

The Northeast Rail Service Act, signed into law Aug. 13, applies only to Conrail. The new law, unless overridden by Congress and the administration to shrink its route system to only the most obvious profit-makers and, ultimately, turning over its rail properties to the system over to the private sector.

"Therefore they don't want to keep rail properties in their system which would require any rehabilitation or investment, which the Cairo branch would require," he said.

Paul Simon believes that the two leading contenders to purchase the line would very aggressively seek new business and improve service and that means that many customers that have switched to other transportation would come back to the rail line," he added.

Former Vice President Mondale to visit Mt. Vernon

Mondale, currently with a Washington, D.C. law firm, will tour the Vern-Wood Press in Mt. Vernon with Simon before the breakfast.

The delay will also allow the U.S. Department of Transportation time to decide whether to allow Conrail to follow the older but lengthier abandonment procedure or the new one established by the Reagan administration. The new procedure would have almost guaranteed the abandonment of the track within 90 days, according to David Carle, press secretary to Paul Simon, D-24th District.

Economic criminals are not part of Reagan’s ‘jungle of crime’

Colman McCarthy

IN HIS speech on fighting crime, President Reagan said that in this age of "the human predator in the heart of America" he is always there waiting to take us over. He listed the types of criminals lurking in the dark: "the street criminal, the drug pusher, the mobster, the corrupt policeman or public official." Excluded from the predator list were corporate criminals, the executives and managers of some of America's most honored companies whose decisions recklessly endanger public health and safety. Excluded also were "white-collar criminals," many of whom steal more in a year with pens than muggers do in a lifetime with guns.

The exclusion wasn’t the mere oversight of a presidential speechwriter. It was a reflection of administration policy that finds thugs and street punks fit for the presidential scorn, but not economic criminals whose predatory drives can be just as lethal.

ON THE DAY the president was in New Orleans en banc Supreme Court criminal, the Wall Street Journal carried a story about a "block of interest in the uncommon kind. "Reagan Team Plans To Slash Efforts To Catch White-Collar Criminals," ran the headline. In a recent article, Justice Department plans a 25 per cent reduction in the number of white-collar crime specialists working in U.S. attorney offices around the country.

The same day also, Attorney General William French Smith, who rarely speaks in public about economic crimes, told a good-government critic that he is strongly supported a draft of the criminal code revisions. Missing from the draft, it turns out, is a provision for strict penalties and corporate felonies.

In exempting crime in high places from his wrath and asking citizens to worry only about crime in low places, the president, as is customary, was taking his lead from his powerful friends in corporate America. It was the business lobby that helped delete from the proposed criminal code revisions a clause requiring prison terms for violators of certain environmental or coal mine safety laws.

Known as the "endangerment" provision - from decisions by corporate officials who knowingly place another person in imminent danger of death or serious bodily injury - it economized the few "waste" pages of print in the immense bulk of legislative garbage that was prepared after eight years of debating a new code. But the tiny clause was large enough to represent one of the Business Roundtable's most sacred cows, an organization of some 200 major corporations.

With the kind of stealth that any street mugger would admire, Roundtable officials pressured the Senate Judiciary Committee to put on its hands and fork over such valuables as a strict "endangerment clause." In 1978, the committee approved - as did the full Senate later - such a clause. One that went far beyond environmental and even some safety laws. But in 1979, when the Roundtable now involved its primary goal became an act to join the Senate and House.

To protect or to abuse?

To serve and protect or to harass and abuse - which is the function of the police? I believe the latter to be the case. Your editorial appears to be the latter.

I have been home much while hard at work in my studio and in the Allyn Building printshop. I have C.O.D. bills for reasons of that sort that you would be shocked at! It is my firm belief that the police should not be considered as a service for free but a service to pay.

Unfortunately, the police are often unwilling to listen to all sides of the issue and come into the meetings with prejudices or preconceived notions that are just not true.

Dear Mr. Strang,

I have been home much while hard at work in my studio and in the Allyn Building printshop. I have C.O.D. bills for reasons of that sort that you would be shocked at! It is my firm belief that the police should not be considered as a service for free but a service to pay.

Unfortunately, the police are often unwilling to listen to all sides of the issue and come into the meetings with prejudices or preconceived notions that are just not true.

I respect the police very much, but I don’t think we should have to stand up to them like that.

Sincerely yours,

Cutting football is logical

I am extremely outraged at the tactics being used in the administration's campaign against tax cheats. I object to the subversion of democracy to put a stamp on a whim.

However, we have been given a chance to speak.

First, indications were that, because the IRS-C might be dropped. Administration spokesmen have said "major" or "significant" cuts would be aimed at, cutting the football payroll is logical.

I disagree. I believe cutting the football budget is a bad idea, I don’t think it can be justified, but the logical alternative.

Football is an extremely expensive sport. Since the president has tightened the student's belt, only those who wish to support the team should do so. Money should not be extorted from students.

A $10 athletics fee would allow for sports that don't pay their way, like tennis, football, baseball, soccer, track and field, gymnastics, swimming and wrestling, and basketball. Football is expected to support itself by selling good good supply-side economics.

The sports and especially the football budget should not be cut. The students should not be made to pay a price for the revenue...unless they hold a bake sale. -Benjamin W. O'Connell, Cinema and Photography,

Students appointed to membership on IBHE committees
By David Murphy

Appointments by the Illinois Board of Higher Education have added several Southern Illinois residents, including four SIU-C students, to the ranks of five state advisory and special committees.

The students were named to the IBHE's Student Advisory Committee at the board's meeting Monday in Bloomington.

They are Rick Hampton, a law student who served on the committee last year; Stan Irvin, a graduate student and SIU-C student trustee; Glen Stolar, an undergraduate Student Organization Senator; and Deborah Gore, a member of the Graduate Student Council.

Hampton was also named to the Off-Campus Program Committee, which makes recommendations for effective state funding of off-campus programs.

Named to the Medical Education Committee were Jane Hayes Raden of Cobden, an IBHE member, and William Norwood of Elk Grove, chairman of the SIU Board of Trustees.

Paul H. Morrill, professor of higher education and an SIU-C representative to the IBHE, and Eleanor Hall, a Rend Lake College representative, will serve on the Faculty Advisory Committee.

John Gilbert, a Carbondale attorney and IBHE member, was previously appointed to the Joint Education Committees, whose purpose is to enhance coordination between state elementary, secondary and post-secondary education.
‘Dark Continent’ is unique but good

In the song “Red Light,” Wall of Voodoo proclaims, this modern world deserves a modern attitude. That line could serve as the declaration that guides this band’s debut album, “Dark Continent.”

Wall of Voodoo has done something very rare in rock music today; it has taken the enormous risk of presenting a style starkly different from any other band’s on its first album—the one that usually indicates whether a band has what it takes to compete in the congested rock and roll market. On “Dark Continent,” Wall of Voodoo is playing with its rock and roll future.

held together by an electronic beat which does something Kraftwerk's never did—it just starts.

The style is pure avant-garde. And obviously this is not a brand of music that a fan of mainstream rock and roll bands, such as Journey or REO Speedwagon, is going to enjoy. Wall of Voodoo forces the listener to search in unusual places for the power in its music. Unlike most bands, which are driven by a rhythm section, Wall of Voodoo is sparked by the stunning melodies of the keyboards and guitars.

Sometimes the electronic beat can be a catalyst, such as in "Good Times." But the album's three brilliant songs feature striking guitar and bass interplay.

In "Weather causes Siskel's absence," the stunning guitar and a catchy but powerful bass line make the song an exhilarating success. In "Back in Flesh," the guitar and bass line make the song an exhilarating success. In "Crack the Bell," the guitar and bass line make the song an exhilarating success.

The programming committee had a plane in St. Louis to bring back to the SUC, but his flight was diverted to Kansas City to avoid severe storms, according to assistant programming coordinator Graaneman. About 300 people had tickets. Graaneman said attempts are being made to reschedule Siskel this semester. If not, a spring date will be sought. Ticket holders can get refunds at the Student Center ticket office.

until economic and social pressures create a demand for a comprehensive energy plan.

"What we have is a complex, socially and economically threatening problem and a proposal by the city administration which fails to address the magnitude of that problem," he said.

Mayor Fischer, the lone city council member actively supporting the comprehensive plan, said he thinks it makes sense in the long run.

And that plan is one that will eventually lead to a "near-emergency local economy" if not handled properly, he said.

"There's got to be a mechanism for people to implement the suggestions of the energy audits," Fischer said.

The low-income families are the ones that live in the least energy-efficient homes, and yet they also are the ones least able to go to the local banks and get the low-interest, long-term loans they need to make improvements.

Opponents of the administration's plan also question the ability of the program to be run on city funds without jeopardizing other city services. Robertson said an energy program that is "run at the expense of social services" is "totally unacceptable".

City Councilman Charles Watson said the comprehensive plan should be viewed as "an ideal" that the city should gradually strive for.

"The city manager is not saying that we have to have a comprehensive program, he's merely saying that the most administratively responsible way to address the situation is to slowly work into it, build awareness, interest, and a readiness for the services that make a plan could someday provide," Fischer said.

Fischer said the city may eventually decide to levy an energy consumption tax like those proposed in the comprehensive plan.

"If the second or third year there is a demand generated that cannot be handled by the local community, we would definitely reconsider our position," he said. "My personal view is that if a big demand for a more comprehensive program develops, the city will have to look at ways to fund it, and that includes a tax.

Supporters of a more limited energy plan are also concerned by the lack of comparable existing comprehensive energy programs. Although municipal solar utilities exist in California, Minnesota and Michigan, none are comparable to Shawnee Solar's proposal.

Fischer, however, said he is not sure the city should not look into the thought of trying something different.

City officials agree that rising energy costs will continue to be a major concern in Carbondale, Watson said. "We're all working for the same goal, we're just proposing different timetables,"

Blues, rock are on tap for concert at Arena courts

Some people collect stamps. Others collect coins. Corky Siegel collects good reviews. Siegel, a blues pianist and harmonica player, seems to collect favorable notices everywhere he goes. Siegel and the other three members of the Corky Siegel Band will hold a free outdoor concert at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Arena Basketball Courts.

Siegel, often credited with being a rock blues, piano and harmonica genius, has been performing for 16 years. He has released 14 albums that display the versatility, talent and musical surprise that is so abundant in his shows.

His recent album, "Out of the Blue," combines Siegel's flair for humor with solid songwriting. Seven of his albums have recently been released in Europe.

Siegel has been featured and reviewed in virtually all major newspapers and music publications from The New York Times to Rolling Stone. According to one Chicago newspaper, "Corky Siegel charms the ears off anyone who hears him." The concert is sponsored by the Student Programming Council.
The following on-campus job interviews are scheduled at the Career Planning and Placement Center for the week of Oct. 12. For interview appointments and additional information, interested students should visit the center, Woody Hall B-204.

New rail depot to be dedicated

Carbondale's new railroad to bus depot will be dedicated during a ceremony at 2 p.m. Thursday. The new depot is the first portion of the Carbondale Rail Relocation Project to be completed. Construction has taken almost a year. The Pleasant Hill Road overpass, at the south end of the overall project, has been under construction since May.

Speakers at the dedication will include Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th, Mayor Hans Fischer and City Manager Carroll Fry.

The ceremony will not officially open the depot, said Eldon Goerner, UDIT director of the Railroad Relocation Project. "It will be deeded over to Amtrak before it can be used, but it should be in operation by the end of the month, Goerner said.

Women golfers to play at regionals

By Bob Morand
Staff Writer

The women's golf team will try to break out of its slump this weekend at the Midwest Regional at Forest Golf Club in Pleasant, Mich. Central Michigan will host 16 teams, many of which competed in last week's Lady Boiler tournament, where the Salukis placed eighth.

According to coach Mary Beth McGirr, the team looked improved in Monday's practice at the Jackson Country Club course.

"I'm very encouraged by the practice. It was a rough time with their tournaments, placed in even 12-hole tournaments," McGirr said. "I don't care how we place in the tournament, just so we place in the tournament and have to stop. We have to stop these things that affect our play.

"The girls have been having a lot of mental lapses during these games," McGirr added. "We have to stop thinking about other things and concentrate on golf."

IM softball champions crowned

The Sultans of Swing, Slim Whitman's Express, Ballbusters, B and B and Reynolds Stresses won division titles last week in the annual 2-inch Softball Championships.

In the Men's A division final game Sultan's of Swing beat presently undefeated Carbondale Rentals by a 7-4 score. Both teams had regular season records of 9-1.

The Men's B division championship was played between Slim Whitman's Express and the Manic Depressives. The Express won a 14-8 score and finished with a 12-6 record in the season. The Depressives had a 2-7 record.

SPIKERS from worked on team blocking and serving. "Blocking seems to ignite this team," Hunter said. "Once we get the team serving and blocking together, the rest of the team seems to come together."

"I promise under Jill Broker, of Carbondale, has been showing marked improvement and may see more playing time. I'm very encouraged by Jill Broker's play," Hunter said. "She has showed very improvement this week in practice."

Another Carbondale native, Mary Maxwell, is also playing well. The sophomore outside hitter led the team in passing and serving efficiency at the Iowa Invitational.

The Salukis will travel to Tennessee Saturday to play a match against Memphis State.

Ballhunters won the Women's title by beating Ballhunters 2-1.

3 Ballhunters finished with a 7-1 record. The Co-Rec A division king was 9-0 B and B. It defeated But Seriously, 12-10-4 for the title. The Polkas finished at 9-0, both of its losses were to B and B.

In the Co-Rec B division 10-0 Reynolds Stresses dumped 9-3 Coup de Gruau by a score of 24-6.

Expos dump Phillies in first game

MONTREAL (AP) — Tim Wallach and Chris Speier opened Monday with home runs as the Montreal Expos overcame the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-1. Wallach homered in the seventh and Speier in the eighth of their series

The Expo took the lead 2-1 in the second when Wallach, a .236 hitter in the regular season, led off with a double to center and raced home on a single by Speier, who hit .225 during the season.

Steve Rogers, who posted a 12-6 season record, was the winner. The only run off the Expos' right-hander was a leadoff home run in the second inning by catcher Keith Moreland.

Moreland hit a two-run double on a 2-2 pitch just eluded a desperate one-handed effort by center fielder Andre Dawson to make the catch near the 400 foot marker.

Montreal, in its first post-season game in the club's 13-year history, took a 1-0 lead in the first. Warren Cromartie, who hit .411 after being inserted into the leadoff spot Sept. 18, opened the inning with a single to left.

Cromartie was forced at second by Jerry White and Dawson struck out, but Cary Carter drove a double off the left field wall scoring White, who had stolen second.

After the home run by Moreland, who had three hits in four at-bats, tied the game, the Expo regained the lead on the hits by Wallach and Speier.

The Expo made it 3-1 in the fourth of Carlton as the Expos' Carlos Perez was tagged for the first-half Grand Prix, and his chance for a record-breaking fourth Grand Prix Young award as the National League's top pitcher.

Speier opened with a walk and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Rogers.

MVC appoints commissioner

Dick Martin, former athletic director at the University of West Virginia and former commissioner of the Big Eight Conference, has been named Missouri Valley Conference commissioner.

Martin, 49, succeeds David President, who is resigning his post. Martin will become assistant executive director of the Pac-10 Conference.

Martin, the seventh commissioner in the history of the MVC, was named to the post earlier this week. A native of LaCrosse, Wis., Martin has lived in Kansas most of his life. He graduated from Ottawa University in Ottawa, Kan., and coached football at Yates Center and Olathe high schools in Kansas.

The Missouri Valley Conference is comprised of athletic programs from SIUC, Drake, Bradley, Creighton, Illinois State, Indiana State, New Mexico State, Drake, Tulsa, West Texas State and Wichita State.

CARRY OUTS
Healthy Buffs ready for battered Salukis

By Rod Furlow
Staff Writer

The injury-tattered Saluki football team limps to Canyon, Texas, Saturday in an attempt to cool the West Texas State Buffaloes.

"It's tough to corral anybody with ice buckets and crotchets. These guys keep getting hurt and the Salukis have become acquainted with this season," Auld said.

Last season it was the 5-4 Buffs who were being injured. This season all the WTS players are healthy, and they're still struggling with the injuries.

"It's quite a switch for us from last season," said Keith Kuphall, WTS sports information director. "We're all healthy—not a single injury. I understand SIU has some.

The Salukis have some, all right—eight starters are injured. Which ones, if any, of the injured players will play Saturday isn't known.

Injured or not, the Salukis and the Buffs have the Missouri Valley Conference race to worry about. The Salukis are 3-1 in the conference and Saturday's match will be the Buffs' first conference contest.

The McNeese State Cowboys have produced a surprising string of victories. McNeese State beat the Salukis back-to-back in the last season's opener, 17-14. Last week the Buffaloes stamped the Cowboys 31-24. Both games were at McNeese State.

"If we hadn't done in their other four games, the Buffs ran the ball most of the time against McNeese State Junior quarterback Victor McGee tried only 11 passes, completing six for 115 yards and a touchdown. That brought to 58 the number of passes McGee has tried in five games. He usually hands off to one of the many backs who see action—junior Tony Brasfield, junior Paul Bell, senior Danny Clark, sophomore Ron Baker, or senior Mark Tidwell.

Clark was leading rusher again in the 75 yards and a touchdown on 8 carries. The game made him the Buff's leading rusher for the season. He has gained 22 against the Cowboys to give him 296.

"Bell didn't do too well, like he had in the early games," Kuphall said. "Clark came on and did best for us against McNeese.

While the Buffaloes concentrate on a running attack, their opponents pass a lot. Going into the McNeese State game, the Buffs opponents completed WTS 6-23. Like SIU-C, the Buffs lack depth in their secondary. The WTS secondary also lacks experience.

One secondary player Buff Bill Jung doesn't have to worry about is senior Don Hemphill. Hemphill had four interceptions last season and is the Buff team captain for this year. "We have three new eyes on our coaching staff," Auld said.

Besides Hemphill, the Buffs have six junior starters. They are: Kevin Dennis, who's on the all MVC team the past two seasons, Offensive linemen Reggie McKee and Kevin Dennis are four-year starters. The two others are Junior Mark Baker, Tidwell, and Clark.

Test awaits softball team at tourney of 'power'

By Jim Cagle
Staff Writer

For most students, midterm exams are a week or more away.

But for coach Kay Brechtelsbauer's Saluki softball team, this weekend is the big test.

SIU-C travels to Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., and Sunday for a tournament that Brechtelsbauer said, "The skills levels of the teams are so well matched that we could finish anywhere from first to eighth.

The Salukis play Iowa and University of Notre Dame Friday and Northwestern Saturday. Depending on the results of these three games, the Salukis will play for either first, third, fifth or seventh place versus Iowa State, Illinois State, Northern Illinois or Minnesota Saturday evening.

The Salukis are coming off a doubleheader sweep of the Missouri-St. Louis 12-9 and 5-2 triumphs. The three games are coming off a doubleheader sweep of the Missouri-St. Louis 12-9 and 5-2 triumphs. The three games are Neither Mary Marable, in relaying the news, or Steve Tidwell, who's hitting .300, were looking for a lot of power from the Salukis.

"I'm not trying to take any of the pressure off our pitchers. I don't think they're seeing good batters up and down each team lineup," Tidwell said.

"But, the pitching has been good and I think our pitching will be up and running by the weekend," Brechtelsbauer said. But the key to the Salukis' success, especially defensive consistency, that's the key to the weekend is to make an error in either game against UMSL.

"No one's going to blow out any one person who has excelled defensively," Brechtelsbauer said. "I believe Gene is the glue that holds the defense together. I'm not saying Brue has made some really great plays. We've been on top, we've been on the bottom. It's just a matter of winning. It's a good win, but it's a great win. We've been on the bottom.

"But I can start there and try to work my way around the infield and that's the key to our defense. We can't put on the weak spot," she said.

"Everyone is contributing," Auld said. "I have to say we're not been awesome. However it has been noticeable, whether you can be said of last year's .167 team batting average.

"You can't expect everyone to have .400 probably as we did last year," Auld said. "But we're more than pleased with the way we were coming along. We've been hitting our way. We've been hitting well the last several games. But it has been a disciplined hitter, not bad that many bad balls.
