Lions question deal

If the Department of Corrections succeeds in establishing a work camp at Touch of Nature, it would affect very greatly" camps for handicapped children operated there, Norman R. Dahl said Thursday.

Dahl is executive administrator of the Lions of Illinois Foundation, a group that has sponsored camps for visually and hearing impaired children at Touch of Nature for the past five years.

The Lions have been trying for several years to lease or purchase a camp at Touch of Nature, but the group was "tired of believing it really wasn't for sale" and had been negotiating a 12-25 year lease, Dahl said. The Lions had received no word from the SIU-C administration, but had received phone calls from others telling them that a sale to the DOC was being negotiated.

John Guyon, SIU-C vice president for academic affairs and research, said Thursday that the Lions group had not been ruled out for Touch of Nature and the administration was "looking at a whole host of options.

Dahl said if the Lions leased Camp One at Touch of Nature, the camp DOC would have to fully redevelop the property and ensure that they would have to conduct "considerable renovations" including a new waterfront area, boat dock, cabins and improvements in the kitchen. But if the DOC has a work camp there, Dahl said that the Lions would have a problem.

"I think the parents of the handicapped children would be upset by the DOC, said Dahl.

"They are hearing impaired children who would be upset by the DOC."

Johns: University suggested BSC

By Anne Flasza

State Sen. Gene Johns said Thursday that University officials had suggested that prisoners could be housed at the Baptist Student Center and used as maintenance workers on campus - but the official in charge of campus services denied that was the case.

Clarence "Doc" Dougherty, vice president for campus services, said University officials had mentioned to the state Department of Corrections not only the Baptist dormitory, but also the Walmart building in Carbondale and the Bracy grocery warehouse in Marion as emergency minimum-security prison sites.

"I have never had the University suggest BSC as a possible site, said Johns, D-59th District, said that President Albert Somit and Dougherty made the suggestions during discussions with the DOC about possible facilities for housing inmates.

Dougherty said no suggestions were made about using prisoners as maintenance workers for the University. He said DOC officials had come to the University looking for possible sites and were in the process of touring the Touch of Nature Environmental Center when the buildings were mentioned.

Johns declined to reveal where he got the information, except to say that it came from a high authoritative source in Springfield.

"When the University and the DOC were discussing the buildings available, they (Somit and Dougherty) suggested that one so that they could use the inmates as maintenance workers at the University," Dougherty said the charge by Johns was "a misconception.

"At no time have we talked to the DOC about using inmates as maintenance workers," Dougherty said.

Dougherty said inmates from the House of Glass, a minimum-security prison on Mill Street, have been involved in community projects in the area, but have never been employed as maintenance workers on campus.

"If they were, they would have had to go through the full employment procedures," he said.

Johns said he was opposed to the idea of employing inmates in jobs that require the high employment rate in the woods and from University employees.

"It will throw some good men out of work in the University," Johns said.

Dougherty said the buildings were permitted Sept. 20 when he, acting president of the Student of Glass Director Howard Saver on a tour of Touch of Nature.

"We told them that the Baptist Student Center was for sale. We don't know if they knew it at the time, but it was public information," said Dougherty.

"We did not suggest that they house inmates at the Baptist Student Center at all because he felt the community is very concerned about the suggestion," Johns said.

Dougherty said there have been additional conversations with the DOC about the possible use of the Baptist Student Center and there has been no proposal.

"They have never looked into it and shown a great deal of interest.

Petitions circulated opposing housing of prisoners at center

University student groups are united in their objection to the Department of Corrections plan to house prisoners in the Baptist Student Center.

The Undergraduate Student Organization and the Graduate Student Council are circulating petitions opposing the DOC plan to be mailed to Gov. James R. Thompson.

The USO has tables near the north escalators of the Student Center Thursday and Stephanie Jackson, USO vice president, said students can sign petitions there Thursday and Friday.

The USO has written a resolution opposing the DOC lease Wed.

The USO, in letter to the executive branch to work with the city to stop the sale to the DOC.

Jackson said students have expressed their displeasure with the proposed move to move housing.

"The main feedback I've heard is why are they doing this on a major university campus," she said.

GPSC President Ann Greeley said GPSC representatives will oppose the sale are being asked to circulate petitions within their departments.

"We discussed it, said Dougherty, Executive Board is opposed to the sale of the Baptist Student Center to the DOC."

"We are not negotiating for a sale to the DOC, said Dougherty, "and there has been no proposal."

Board wants more city funding

By Patrick Williams

Local government should commit its own funds to social service programs rather than depend on federal funding, an Attacks Community Board member said Tuesday.

"We feel the community can no longer be dependent on what takes place in Washington," Abdul Hagg, chair of the board's coordinated youth services program, said at a press conference held by the board.

Attacks, which administers social programs for the disadvantaged in the Carbondale area, is facing removal from the Euruca C. Hayes Center because of funding shortages.

The board unsuccessfully went before the city Council Sept. 19 to get money to keep its social service program alive. That program, funded last April for $10,500, expires Oct. 31.

When the money runs out, the program will lose its director, Jackie Armstrong. Attacks will have greater difficulty in getting grant money from sources other than the city, Armstrong said.

The board has brought over $50,000 in grants into the city this year, board Chairwoman Martha Farris said.

The funding crunch facing Attacks also jeopardizes its manpower program, which provides jobs for 46 people and employment counseling for over 200. Money for the manpower program had come from the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, which expired Oct. 1.

CETA has been replaced by the Job Training Partnership Act. The Attacks board has a proposal before the Illinois Farmer's Union, JTPA's administering agency, for a practical matter they will not come before the Planning Commission. However, they might have to come before the planning commission, he said.

One Carbondale man was listed in critical condition Thursday night with multiple stab wounds in the chest, while another remained in Jackson Memorial Hospital after being stabbed.

Carbondale police said. Ivan Garcia, 28, was arrested at 1:30 a.m. in front of his residence after witnesses identified him as the man who stabbed Smith, then fled the scene.

A White House spokesman said Thursday the Senate is "welcome" to vote on whether James Watt should be fired, but President Reagan won't feel bound by it. Another source said the interior secretary will resign, however, rather than be nominated at Capitol Hill.

This administration official, who spoke on condition that he not be named, said Watt probably will step down in the next two weeks, in light of what looms as a lopsided margin against him in the Republican-controlled Senate.

Israel accused of violation of pact

BEIRUT (AP) -- Prime Minister Shafiq Wazzan accused Israel Thursday of a "flagrant violation" of the May 17 troop withdrawal accord and indicated Lebanon might scrap the pact.

In southern Lebanon, Hussein Wabbe, an Israeli-backed Shiite militia commander, switched on the ignition of his car, set off a bomb blast killed him and critically wounded his wife in a towering ball of flame.

relinquent to send their children," he said.

A replacement for the Touch of Nature campsite is being sought in case the JOC purchase goes through, Dahl said. "We can't just sit around. We have to look for something else."

"The Lions camping program is free for the 150 children sent each year and has won a national award for camping excellence," Dahl said.

The camping program used Camp One last year and Camp Two the previous four years and the group has "a feel for what needs to be done," he said.

"I want the campsite. We need the campsite," Dahl said.

Service for McFarlin planned

By John Schrag
Staff Writer

Friends of Harold McFarlin have planned a memorial service to be held sometime on campus, for Wednesday at noon. An exact location for the service is still pending.

The 41-year-old SIU-C history professor died Tuesday morning at Good Samaritan General Hospital in Carbondale, Ill. Scott Ratter, acting city manager. Carbondale has an ongoing tree-planting program, and Ratter said that the city will work something out to designate any trees donated in memory of McFarlin.

McFarlin's survivors include two sons: Eric, 27, of Alaska, and Kirk, 25, of Milwaukee; his mother, Josephine; his sister, Marguerite Buntrok; two brothers: Clyde, of West Bend, Wis., and Dale, of Menomonee Falls, Wis.

Buntrok said her brother has several nieces and nephews who "love Harold very much."

He was preceded in death by his father, Harold, and his older brother, Donald.

The resolution states that the senate approves of the name of a local facility "after all efforts to secure money for an on-campus facility have been exhausted."
Letters
Why waste energy on personal issue?

Gay is again the word of the day. The Gay Rights Union, like the one before. If you don’t know the date, one must only look in the letters section to be assured of the approximate time of year. This letter is in response to all the letters of the past few days addressed to gays, straights and, as they’ve been called, bible amateurs. I strongly believe in freedom of speech. It is ridiculous to even suggest that the DE or any paper should forbid any article based on the use of religious interpretations or quotes. We all have a right to our written or spoken views as we also have the right to read or ignore others’. I appreciate the opportunity to believe and respond to the possibilities on the availability of others’ facts and opinions.

Once again the gay faction on campus has decided that the best method for gauging support for their cause is to bring about a Blue Jean Day. This they seem to think will provide an accurate assessment of the number of people who support the cause. However, the people that are either uninformed or indifferent; anyone in jeans was to be counted as a supporter. I feel that this particular plan is both unfair and impractical. Personally, I don’t give a damn what the gay division does or doesn’t endorse. I am a firm believer in the right to do my own thing. This is my wholehearted objection to being categorized in support of any group I do not endorse. I choose to wear.

It seems that by pulling a stunt such as this, the gay community is in danger of changing at least some people’s attitudes of indifference into those of opposition. This hardly seems a victory that they can afford.

Blue Jeans Day unfair, imprecise

I felt that this was a beautiful idea to bring about an awareness of the freedom of sexual orientation. Everyone should fight for their freedom. Prejudice in any form is unacceptable. No one has the right to stop me from doing what I want, unless it infringes on the rights of others. Therefore I am against Blue Jeans Day.

Regardles of the availability of biblical quotes to condemn or condone homosexuality, I feel there is a much greater issue at hand. I am appalled by the waste of great energy on an issue that involves the personal lives of consenting adults. I am discouraged to find such energy and passion wasted on condemnation of homosexuals, instead of on rape, abuse, murder, prejudice and the innumerable crimes which involve victims. The overall point of Blue Jeans Day is that we show our support of the fight against prejudice and persecution. I haven’t found a quote in the Bible that supports either of these injustices. We have the right to decide our own morals but not those of others. I am, of course, able to comfort myself with the thoughts of the people who believe in more important issues than those that go on in our beds, or anyone else’s.

Trivia gives way to new Mr. Controversy

Oh! the Trivia.
Sometimes I know how to write.

I have decided that every day that state prisoners may be housed close to campus, the Student Center is going to be the arena in Lebanon and that President Reagan may as well talk bilingual resolutions. What did I write about? Bugs Bunny.

Over the summer, coeditors went to Nicaragua to approved the Memorial Hospital suspect.

I don’t think that the Department of Corrections is doing a poor job with this. I believe in freedom of speech and freedom of the press. A complete fatwa of editorials and letters, including Quasar, is being written by students, and it is not possible to have a complete fatwa of editorials and letters, including Quasar.

This week, I’m going to change all that. Something must be wrong with the way I write, because nobody ever writes back. I have an argument about things I say. My partner-in-crime Jeff agrees with me. Boy, did Andrew get letters. Lots of ‘em. John Schrag wrote one political column with a little bite to it and was instantly liked to that superstar of columnists, Jay Small — not to mention "second-testers" Mike Royko and Bob Greene.

"Big" Dick.

Well, consider this: I believe in the right to do our own thing, not to have some others decide for us. I feel the word of the day is Blue Jean Day. This, they seem to think will provide an accurate assessment of the number of people who support the cause.

Perhaps I should stop burdening you with this soul-waging editorials and letters because this is still not the George Will Method. Representative. Alienation to try: befrend a president, then profess to be a student. Millions of people believe "Nightline." No, that’s not it. I have size 12 feet — I can fill just about anybody’s shoes. I guess the real problem with being controversial, in my book, is that you have to mean it. The things in life that matter to me are so often simply details to others and I make too much of them at times. I know I’m saying what I feel, not just putting on a display. Being outrageous doesn’t seem to work for me.

Gays want 'walls torn down'

By Jennifer Phillips

Sandy described the relief she felt when she told her mother she was gay. Her mother accepted the fact, she related, and enthusiastically told Sandy to bring her her new lover home for Thanksgiving break.

"I just wanted to share a positive story about coming out," Sandy told a health education class Thursday at SIU-C.

Sandy and three other members of the speaker's bureau of the Gay and Lesbian People's Union were speaking about gay lifestyles and their personal experiences with "coming out" and admitting their homosexuality.

Awkward silence, open hostility toward gays and embarrassed curiosity displayed by students -- the speakers are used to it.

"For some reason, people feel it's okay to be rude to gays," Sandy, a graduate student in psychology, said. "But if there is a person speaking about the black movement, for example, the reaction is different. People are more polite. It's just more accepted to be anti-S.

Sandy and Pat, a GLPU steering committee member, said the speakers bureau serves several purposes.

It is an effective tool for increasing awareness that gay people exist, supplying information about gay lifestyles, presenting gays in a positive image, dispelling stereotypes and increasing support and visibility of the GLPU.

"We can't speak for all gay people and we don't try," Sandy said. "But the bureau fulfills an educational aim of the GLPU and is effective in breaking down stereotypes. Attitudes about gays change when people come in contact with individuals."

The bureau has existed for at least three years, according to Pat. SIU-C teachers -- usually of health education classes -- invite the bureau, which presently has about 10 members, to hold informal question and answer sessions.

Last year, the bureau spoke to about 12 classes a semester, Pat said. For just this October, they have about 15 speaking engagements scheduled and he expects the numbers to be at least 20 by the semester's end.

"I'm one male and one female, attend a class," Sandy said certain questions are always asked. Whether gay people have children, how parents and friends reacted when they came out of the closet and how homosexuality fits in with religion.

Four bureau members attended the Thursday session with the health education class. Because it was Blue Jeans Day during Gay Awareness Week, the first question was predictable.

"If you people don't know it, there's a hate campaign going on against us," Bradford said to reference a gay and lesbian speakers bureau, a woman named Sandy, who, like others, assumed that we need birth control devices, or if we are open about lifestyles without being hassled with friends unless they" (in many cases) take us out for a night on the town, or "know what we are doing.

"We can't support us or they are living together. They want the government to say, 'It's Blue Jeans Day.'"

In her letter, Sandy had written of the inconvenience that many felt had been caused by the invention of "Blue Jeans Day."

"We share with you just a few of the ways in which the gay community in inconvenient everyday," the letter said. "We can't walk around campus or curl up in our rooms without being disturbed by the GLPU..."

"They want the government to say, 'It's Blue Jeans Day.'"

"We can't speak for all gay people and we don't try," Sandy said. "But the bureau fulfills an educational aim of the GLPU and is effective in breaking down stereotypes. Attitudes about gays change when people come in contact with individuals."

"This is his interpretation of what talk about our lifestyles; we can't dance together at the bars; we can't hold hands in public. He's doing worse. They want the government to call for the death of homosexuals."

A member of the GLPU speakers bureau, a woman named Sandy, who, like others, desired that her last name not be used, read a letter that she had written to the Daily Egyptian last year about "Blue Jeans Day."

As she read the letter, some passers-by stopped to listen. One blonde-haired girl poked up and down the sidewalk and occasionally barked out contrary remarks to what Sandy was reading.

"People talk about walking around campus. We can't hold hands, but how often do you see a man and a woman holding hands campus or curbed up together on one of the corners of the Student Center?"

"If you made that sort of display, if we held hands with our mates we got our asses kicked," he shouted.

"We've always been on this campus. The GLPU started on this campus," Bradford said. "We've been here since 1971."

"Bradford - whom some call the most outspoken of all GLPU leaders -- cited several examples of how he said gay people are discriminated against on the job, in University Housing and elsewhere.

"This is an example of discrimination on this campus in using funding for RSO's," he said. "Last year they gave the Black Affairs Council nearly $200."

Two women embrace during the gay rally Thursday.
$1,000 of the student fee monies. They serve a little more than 2,000 students. We only receive $16 and we serve many more than that.

Many members of the GLP, estimate that their numbers are over Carbondale above the normal norm of 10 percent or 5,000 locally.

"WE WOULD LIKE to see this University's administration pass an anti-discrimination rule and enforce it. We would really like to see a Gay Rights Amendment in the legislature," Hickerson said.

Also present were Sue Hickerson and Cindy Johnson, members of the Shawnee branch of the National Organization for Women. Hickerson said that NOW supported efforts to ratify gay civil rights.

"In 1971 we supported a measure that spoke on the topic of a dual oppression for women who are lesbians," Hickerson said.

Reading from a prepared text, a gay man named Jenny said, "we all have inalienable rights. Among those rights are the right to express your sexuality. We all have inalienable rights. We are all equal, and enforce it. We would really like to see a Gay Rights Amendment in the legislature," Hickerson said.

"I'm very aware that I'm going against what society wants. It wants me to be a wife and a mother. Now it will allow me a career but it still wants me to be a good wife and mother," she continued. "I've gone against that but I feel a lot more strong, self-reliant and nurturing because of it."

WSIU-TV fund-raiser

The "soft-sell" approach has won WSIU-TV more friends than it has ever had before.

The station received about twice as many contributions and memberships to "The Friends of WSIU-TV" during the last fiscal year as the previous year.

Erv Coppi, promotions director of the station, cr said, "we brought in a lot of movies instead of making it look like a telethon."

Coppi praised Channel 8's fund-raising efforts which ended June 30. wiD be used to obtain contributions.

"During Festival '83," he said, "we brought a variety of movies instead of making it look
like a telethon."

WSIU-TV and its sister station WUSI-TV in Olney received an award for "Overall Membership Improvement"
from the Public Broadcasting Service at the PBS convention in Phoenix, Ariz. last month.

Festival '83, which ran for 18 days last March, was hosted by Coppi and former Chicago
newspaperwoman Virginia Marmaduke, who Coppi praised as "a booster for Southern Illinois."

Coppi said that Channel 8 and Channel 16's fund-raising efforts have differed from those of other stations in that they don't use the hard sell approach.

"People always stand there," Coppi said, "and say their contribution is only a lot of money.

Of course they do. WSIU shows what happens with the money that is used. I don't think we turn people off."

Kenneth J. Garry, WSIU development director, said that the $60,000 that was raised during the last fiscal year, which ended June 30, will be used for programming and programming guide purchases.

The station received $80,000
the previous year.

Garry said that WSIU is very viewers who respond and conduct random phone surveys to find out what programs and movies people in Southern Illinois want.

"There is no sense in putting something that won't be watched," he said.

One of the programs paid for in part by viewers is "Vietnam:
A Television History." Garry said that the program used for Vietnam War documentary footage.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Due to illness, Steve Goodman will not be able to appear with John Prine as scheduled for Friday, October 7 at Shryock Auditorium.

Michael Johnson, a performer in the same "folk-rock-country" genre as Steve Goodman, is now scheduled as the opening act for John Prine. Johnson has eight albums to his credit; the latest, entitled "Lifetime Guarantee" was rec-commended by Billboard magazine in its September 24th edition. Two singles from "The Michael Johnson Album" ("Bluer Than Blue" and "Almost Like Being In Love") hit the Top 10 in 1979, and the single "I'll Always Love You" from his "Dialogue" album garnered a Gold Album in foreign distribution.

Shryock Auditorium will make every effort to schedule Steve Goodman at a later date. If a rescheduled performance is possible, Shryock will give a $2.00 discount for the rescheduled concert to any person possessing a ticket stub from the October 7 performance. KEEP YOUR TICKET STUB: IT MAY BE WORTH $2.00.

Shryock Auditorium regrets any inconvenience this may have caused our patrons, but most of all we wish the very best for Mr. Goodman.
Choice cuts on new releases feature electric jazz, ‘popabilly’

BONGOS — Numbers with Wings

Hoboken, N.J. is fast becoming the pop-music capital of America. With its grimy streets, dilapidated buildings and generally disgusting industrial excesses, Hoboken seems hardly the logical candidate. But then again, neither did Liverpool.

Hoboken has spawned at least two major pop acts in the past couple of years. Beat Rodeo and the Bongos. The latter released an acclaimed debut, “Drums Along the Hudson,” in 1982 on the Jem-distributed PVC label.

Freshly signed by RCA, the Bongos are back with a near-brilliant mini-LP, “Numbers with Wings.” Produced by Richard Gotteher (Marshall Crenshaw, the Go Go’s, Robert Gordon), the five tracks on “Numbers” showcase the smart songwriting and top notch guitar work of lead Bongo, Richard Barone. Barone’s compositions tend to stay within the thematic boundaries of love and romance, but are quite moving nonetheless. No cheap displays of emotion here folks. The best cut is “Tiger Night,” which Barone co-wrote with James Mastro, the newest member of the band.

Another standout cut is “Barbarella.” Its melodic hooks and searing harmonies by Barone and bassist Rob Norris could actually garner the boys from Hoboken commercial airplay. It’s a shame that the Go Go’s, Richard Barone and bassist Rob Norris.

The resulting material recalls the best work of Buddy Holly and the Crickets, especially “Do You Mean It?”

Keep an eye out for “Beat Rodeo.” Incidentally, they are on the Coyote Records label.

Stage Company opening night boasts successful ‘Rainmaker’

By Terry Leweke
Entertainment Editor

The man who founded the SIU-C Theater Department and was instrumental in developing the radio portion of the Radio-Television Department was on hand Wednesday night to mark the beginning of another theater in Carbondale.

"We'll cut the ribbon and let the future begin," said retired theater professor Archibald McLeod, who, along with Bank of Carbondale President William Whitson, conducted the ribbon-cutting ceremony at the old Bank of Carbondale building at 101 N. Washington for The Stage Company.

The community theater group obtained the building from the bank early last summer for the cost of $1 per year. Since then, hundreds of hours of work from the group's members and donated services from local craftsmen and tradesmen have gone into turning the bank lobby into a theater.

AI DI MEOLA — "Scenario"

Al Di Meola, of Return to Forever fame, is back with his seventh LP. This is definitely not your average Al Di record. It seems DiMeola wants to hit a larger audience and may succeed. DiMeola has shunned his classic jazz guitar and flaring riffs of the past and debuts his Roland guitar synthesizer. The compositions are by DiMeola and keyboard extraordinaire Jan Hammer. Seven out of nine tunes are DiMeola and Hammer duets. The other tunes have Phil Collins (thank God he’s not singing) playing drums.

The LP opens with "New Electric India," written by guitarist G.E. Stinson. Stinson presents a very powerful electric guitar with drummer Bill Bruford’s back beat. "Brown Rice" illustrates Stinson’s proper use of vocals that are not overpowering. Included on the record are two re-recorded tunes from "Watercourse Way" and "Song for My Brother." Shadowfax presents a fantastic follow-up to the twin Windham Hill releases.

SHADOWFAX — "Shadowdance"

This is the third release from Shadowfax. Their first LP was "Watercourse Way" on Passport Records in 1976. Windham Hill Records presents "Shadowdance," the band’s second release on that label.

Shadowfax is a classy group loaded with intricate sounds. They put on a marvelous show at SIUC this past spring, and the "Shadowdance" album contains most of the tunes they performed.

Ragtime sound to come to Shryock

The spirit of the time when the country was young and ragtime music was at its peak will be recaptured Saturday at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium by The New American Ragtime Ensemble.

The Ensemble is a 12-member orchestra that employs the traditional ragtime instrumentation of flute, piccolo, clarinet, trumpet, trombone, tuba, violin, viola, cello, piano and percussion to capture the atmosphere of America at the turn of the century.

Ragtime music evolved in the 1890s from a blend of two different cultures’ musical traditions — the African musical tradition brought to this country by slaves and the European-derived white American musical culture.

After 20 years of popularity, ragtime music began to evolve into a more improvisational form. But, in style, ragtime music, as preserved on the printed page, was revived in 1976 to celebrate the nation’s bicentennial and is once again enjoying popularity with American audiences.

Tom Maguire, conductor of the ensemble and principal percussionist for the Oklahoma Symphony Orchestra, has unearthed the past and dusted off the brittle sheets of music to recreate the captivating sounds of Scott Joplin. Joplin was the musical genius whose popularity was rekindled when his composition “The Entertainer” was used for the theme song of the Redford- Newman film, “The Sting.”

Dressed in turn-of-the-century formal dress, the Ensemble will perform such tapping tunes as Joplin’s “The Maple Leaf Rag,” the first piece of sheet music to sell over a million copies, as well as tunes by Blake, Stravinsky and Gottschalk.

The show will also include European compositions by Satie and Debussy, and several xylophone rags and works by the early 20th century cornet virtuoso Herbert Clarke.

Tickets for the performance, which is supported in part by a grant from the Illinois Arts Council, are $8.50, $7 and $6 and can be purchased from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday at the Shryock Auditorium box office.

Destination: Shryock Auditorium. Music Director Tom Maguire and his ensemble will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Concert to feature John Benischek

Singer, songwriter and acoustic guitarist John Benischek will perform a Parents’ Weekend concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Ballroom B of the Student Center.

Benischek became a quarter-finalist in the American Song Writing Festival with his keen sense of humor, strong melodies and witty lyrics. He has also performed at Chicagofest and several regional coffee-house festivals. He made his way into the media with an appearance on NBC’s “Entertainment Tonight” and several radio broadcasts.

Free international coffees will be served at the performance. Admission is free to students and $1 for the general public. The concert is sponsored by SPC Center Programming.

Radiothon, dance will raise funds for St. Jude center

By Dave Sales Staff Writer

With a variety of activities ranging from a radiothon to a road race, the week-long fund-raiser for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital will kick-off next Monday with a goal of $10,000.

Sponsored by WCIL-FM and the collegiate chapter of Pi Sigma Epsilon, the professional national fraternity specializing in marketing, the fund-raising events will seek to raise $1,762 more than last year's goal of $14,238.

E. Miriam Wayne, vice president and underwriting manager of PS&E, said each year they try to raise more money than the year before.

Wayne said the week's events will start with a "hoot-a-thon" at the SIU Bowl in Carbondale at 9 p.m. on Monday.

Jim Selow, project manager for PS&E, said members will also hold a contest on campus at the beginning of the week where students can guess how much money they predict the fund-raiser will bring in. Wayne said PS&E will be setting up tables at the Student Center on Monday and at Quigley Hall on Tuesday for the contest, and the winner will receive lunch at the Prime Time restaurant.

On Friday Oct. 14, PS&E will sponsor a dance at Fred's

FRED'S

Remember how you told us FRED'S is a place where miners and college people, farmers and grocery workers, etc., all come to party together. Last week we told you how this of Neely 17 met Luke of Allen 17 you came back this Fit. Today, the statement is: "Fred's" is setting the pattern. Last of two of our men Tony, a bartender, & Ken, a fantastic classy Queen, were at FRED'S they met at FRED'S a few weeks ago. Instead of hot weather we were dancing at a wrestling match.

FRED'S truly is a place for people to meet and get together.

When it comes to rehabilitation, he makes beauty out of shambles

By Karen Terry
Staff Writer

The room was a mess. The visitors noticed the cracked plaster walls and broken windows, stepped gingerly on plywood patches laid recently to reinforce parts of the floor that had rotted and sunk.

But Gail White saw something else.

White, an architect and renovator, stood in a back room of the Prickett Building at Jackson and Washington streets, which once was Carbondale City Hall and now...
Thurston, is a skylight at the ceiling. Green half-circle awnings top the Main Street entrances, hidden interior, still under intersection of four corridors. Wood had been large to create visual interest, said White along the lower third of the continuity of color. Buildings are vivid illustrations of architectural design and restoration. Many of the buildings stood empty in 1980. The Bank of Carbondale had vacated its Main and Washington streets for a new facility. The LAJ Restaurant — now Tres Hombres — had closed. The building that now houses the Long Branch vintage clothing store had been without a tenant for years.

The uniqueness and historical significance of the structures spurred interest among landowners in redeveloping an area that had long been ignored, said White. And the owners were willing to invest the money needed to make the buildings more attractive.

White said he happened to be in the right place at the right time. "The area needed to be developed," said the rural Marion native. "I was here and have the skills that are useful in this type of redevelopment."

The Hunter and Prickett buildings are vivid illustrations of White's philosophies of architectural design and restoration.

The Hunter Building at Main and Marion streets until recently was the city public works garage. Owner Dick Hunter had White to develop the building into a mall-style office and retail shop complex.

White began by repainting the entire building — constructed of three different types and colors of brick — clay red to create a continuity of color. Wide stripes of tan and green were painted along the lower third of the building for a graphic effect, which had been large windows, were cut into the Marion Street side of the building at sharp angles to create visual interest, said White. Each window is framed with a kite-shaped awning.

Forest Wide circle awnings top the Main Street entrances.

The central feature of the interior, still under reconstruction, is a skylight at the center. The building will house a restaurant, Wood said. Wood sconces will line the lower three feet of the walls and hidden bulbs will wash light up along the walls toward the ceiling.

White's own office in the Prickett Building reflects the way he relates interior design to the function of a building.

Quiet, subtle colors help create a pleasant working environment in an office. White said. In his own office, White said he wanted classic colors he wouldn't tire of quickly and which were as relaxing as possible for a tightly-scheduled job.

Three-fourths of the walls are pale gray, the upper fourth is white. Bands of dark olive, darker gray and burgundy line the upper fourth. The color scheme extends even to the air conditioner in the window above the office entrance.

Compatibility is the guideline of White's work, one of which he has so often ignored. When buildings are renovated or new structures go up beside old ones.

For the past 30 years, change, not press values, has driven progress, said White. "Whether you've got money, you spend it, you're considered up-and-coming," said White. "If you're conservative, you keep what you have and keep it in a style."

White, who spent almost three years in the Peace Corps in South America, said, "The funds included $245 million for lock replacement at Lock and Dam 28, Second Lock, in Illinois. The project is designated "unauthorized" and such will require further legislation to have any money released.
Parents' Weekend specials give a chance to say 'thanks'

By Sheila Rogers
Staff Writer

"Come Visit Us" is this year's theme for Parents' Weekend, and that is just what SIUC students will be doing.

The Student Programming Council has planned a coffee house, brunches, an art and craft sale, tours of campus and other activities to keep parents busy, according to Tim Flood. SPC chairperson for Special Events Gene and Donna Biggs of Murphyboro, will reign as "Parents of the Day" on Saturday. Also on Saturday is a parade in honor of Shrine Hospital Day.

The movie "Gandhi" will kick off the weekend with showings at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. on Friday in the Student Center Auditorium. It will be shown Saturday at 7 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. and admission is $1, according to Flood.

The Coffeehouse Concert will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Ballroom of the Student Center. Entertainment will be provided by John Bensheck. Between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Saturday, SPC will have a hospitality, information and registration center for visiting parents in the Gallery Lounge of the Student Center.

The Shrine Hospital Day parade will begin at 10 a.m. at the intersection of Walnut Street and University Avenue.

"Harmonious Art" arts and craft sale will be at the Free Forum area, weather permitting. The rain location will be the Faner Hall Arcade, according to Tim Flood. The sale will be accompanied with a showings of the movie "Gandhi" at 5:30 in the Student Center, Ballroom D, SPC will host a "Desert Cabaret." All tickets are $1.50.

The Biggs are graduates and employees of SIUC and were chosen from about 35 entries after their daughter, Gay, a junior in education, submitted an essay about why her parents should be "Parents of the Day." Mr. Biggs, a flight instructor and his wife were "very pleasantly surprised" at winning the honor. "We're really excited. We're going to be involved in as much as we can." As "Parents of the Day" the Biggs will receive free tickets to all of the weekend's events as well as complimentary accommodations from the Carbondale Holiday Inn and lousaine service. They will be presented a silver serving bowl as a Parents' Weekend special.

Mr. Biggs, assistant to the business manager at the Student Center, said that she is looking forward to the weekend. "We're really excited. We're going to be involved in as much as we can."

Frey named Cub manager

CHICAGO (AP) - Jim Frey, who managed the Kansas City Royals to an American League pennant in 1980, was named the manager of the Chicago Cubs Thursday.

The appointment of the 59-year-old Frey, who worked as a coach for the New York Mets for the past two seasons, was announced by Cubs general manager Dallas Green in a news release.

The terms and length of Frey's contract were not disclosed.

Frey replaces Charlie Fox, who last Sunday announced he would return to his job as Green's assistant in the National League club's front office after taking over the managerial duties Aug. 27 from Lee Elia, who was fired.

The Cubs finished the season with a 71-91 record for a .438 percentage and ended up 19 games behind to the Mets with a 71-91 record in the National League East. During his brief tenure, Frey managed the club to a 17-22 record.

"Jim was one of my choices from the start," Green said in a statement released by the team.
tougher of the two," she said. "It's hilly and tighter. It's a championship layout, much more challenging than the North Course."

Last spring the Salukis finished third at Purdue among 18 teams, and in the fall they were third of 13 teams. "We seem to like third, but we're going to try to get out of that this time," McGirr said. "I don't think Illinois State has a better team than us. The difference is that they get the couple of low scores, the 74 or the 76, while we keep scoring 80s."

"Our players might have a mental block about ISU. It's important for us to play well against them now, to give us confidence that we can beat them in the spring at conference time."

McGirr said the team going to Purdue this year is a step above the squad that brought home two third-place finishes. "The difference this year is that our leadership is better," she said. "With my time spread so thin between the men's and women's teams, their discipline must come from within."

"The way the team has come together and meshed this season is a credit to their maturity. They have good attitudes. Several of the players have come to me and said, 'Coach, I played well but I can do better.'"

"They're working together and encouraging each other and pushing each other. All I want is for us to keep playing well and improving." Playing at the top of the Salukis' lineup will be Barb Anderson, a senior who finally put it all together to finish 15th among 95 players last weekend at the Northern Intercollegiates. Anderson said she made the necessary adjustments in her short came, and has confidence for the rest of the season.

At No. 2 will be junior Lisa Kartheiser, who has virtually been the definition of consistency for SIU-C. She tied for second on the team and 17th overall at the Northern Intercollegiates tourney, carding rounds of 79, 75 and 76 for a 231.

Sharing second with Kartheiser was senior Lisa Bremer, who will play third for SIU-C Saturday. Bremer is followed by sophomore Jill Bertram and senior Sue Arbogast. Playing sixth for the Salukis will be walk-on Claudia Olgrin.

3-3 after a 5-4 overtime loss to Toledo Friday.

"We were not getting the job done with the 4-4-2 and that is the reason we switched," Illner said. "We have to get something to work for us and I think we did a good job against Indiana State (a 2-1 loss in double-overtime Sunday)."

The new midfield, which made its debut in a 1-0 victory over Western Illinois, consists of sophomore Mary Beth Meehan at left link, freshman Mindy Thorne at center link, and freshman Sue Solimine at right link.

Illner has been pleased with the progress of Thorne and Solimine.

"With experience Mindy will get stronger and there is no question she has the capabilities," she said. "Mindy has good stickwork, she has to learn to get the passes on better.

"I am really pleased with Sue's progress at link. She played exclusively on the front line at high school and I knew that it would take her some time to adjust to a new position. For four weeks, she is doing a nice job and is improving."

Jeanine Janos, who has done a steady job in the midfield at left link and is improving.

"In this system we have young players out at midfield but it doesn't put the pressure on them that it does on the deep defense," Illner said. "Dore, Jeanine and Nancy should be able to handle the responsibility."

The front line will be headed by left wing Sharon Leedy, who paced the team with seven goals. Left inner Patty Lauer and right wing Jennifer Bleyer, who have scored three goals apiece, and right inner Terry Draffkorn will round out the front line.

Illner indicated that No. 1 goalie Sandy Wasney will start against Davis and Elkins. Lisa Guevera, the No. 2 goalie, will start against Eastern Kentucky.

Davis and Elkins, in Elkins, W. Va., is ranked 14th and is 3-1 under first-year coach Pam Macfarlane.

The Senators have defeated Michigan State (5-1), Virginia (4-1), and Ohio (2-1) and their only loss has come to second-ranked Old Dominion (5-0).

In contrast to SIUC, the Senators have a strong midfield which is led by JoAnne Brink, Kim Farry, and Jan Vottsher.

"Our midfield is our strength," said Macfarlane, who was an assistant coach at Iowa last year. "If we control the ball in the midfield it is difficult for a team to get the ball away."

Rotating at goalie for Davis and Elkins will be Debra Gerder and Donna Burnn. The Senators finished 12-2 last season.

A strong field awaits the women's tennis team at Edwardsville, where SIU-E hosts a seven-team, invitational this weekend. At Edwardsville, top-notch teams such as defending tournament champion Illinois, Minnesota and Drake will compete with Louisville, Illinois State and Eastern Illinois. Coach Judy Auld would like to finish in the top four.

"Considering the competition we'll be going up against, I think we have a good chance of improving," Auld said.

The Saluki squad will carry an 8-0 record into the meet.

The invitational is a flighted tournament, meaning the players against each other and No. 2's head-to-head without the usual team versus team matches. Team points are awarded for individual wins in singles and doubles and added to determine the final team standings.

The tournament is different in that it gives our players some individual incentive," Auld said. "They can go out and play for both individual and team honors.

In last year's SIU-E Invitational, the Salukis placed fourth. They finished 17 points below the winning team said Auld would like to see strong efforts in singles and doubles.

Auld will send her customary lineup to the court at Edwardsville. Alessandra Molinari, 7-4 at No. 1 singles, will be the number one seed. She will try to keep the streak going for the Salukis when they play against seven losses.

Sherman is 9-4 and Harney is on a tear after winning five straight matches to boost her record to 18-2. Last week she helped the Salukis to their first win record after gaining 70th victory against SIU-E's Patty Tiddy.
Dempsey prepared for dogfight

Although Al Pacino won't be calling the plays, it will still be a "dog day afternoon" at McAndrew Stadium Saturday when the Salukis take on the Drake Bulldogs at 1:30 p.m.

SIU-C. 5-0 and ranked No. 3 in the NCAA I-AA football poll, will take on its second Midwest Gateway Conference foe that has yet to win a game at 6-0, though the game appears to be a mismatch, Saluki Coach Roy Dempsey said. "We don't have a leddown prior to this game."

"At Southern Illinois, it's not hard to keep the players up for a game," Dempsey said. "Wayne at other schools where they're used to winning all the time, a loss this year would be hard, but here we're not used to this. These players want to win."

Dempsey said that his players have some type of letdown on Monday and Tuesday after a win, but by Wednesday and Thursday they are ready mentally for their next opponent.

"Every day we have to attack it with a professional practice," he said. "We have to concentrate in practice and we don't feel we have any es."

Comparing the two teams statistically, it would be hard to surprise the Salukis.

"I don't believe that Drake could surprise us," Dempsey said. "Hunter has an uphill battle with the little Carbondale with a win. But then the only statistic that matters is who wins the game is the score.

Dempsey said Drake could surprise his team if it is not in the right frame mentally. 'We don't want a loss happening if we're not careful,' Dempsey said.

"It's happened before to other teams and it can happen to us."

Seniors on the team, Dempsey said, 'are always a tough opponent. Although the Salukis have three of the last four games between the two squads, Drake has won three in a row.

Football fans can usually expect a close game, 'not the two teams. Only one of the last six games has been decided by more than a touchdown.

"The Salukis are not looking past Drake," Dempsey said.

Surprise the team's winning mentality since a touchdown dive.

"I don't think anyone's feeling all that spiffy about it," she said. "They've learned from it. Handling losses in a positive way is part of what being an athlete is about.

"That's one reason I want to go back to BUU next season," she said. "We'll be more relaxed, and we'll think."

"We've tried to expand a little. This has been our most extended practice period since the season began. The match with Ottawa will be a chance to see how the adjustments we've made will work in a competitive situation."

"Hunter said there's no sign of that on the team, despite the win-loss mark that is far from the 300 season goal."

Spikers face tough foe in international match

By Sherry Chisenhall Sports Editor

When she said she likes to play only the big ones, she was not joking.

Volleyball Coach Debbie Hunter is still feeling around with the guppies — she tends to go for the big fish. But this year, for a reason Hunter's club is 4-2, whatever she likes to call it, is in Kentucky, 11th-ranked Brigham Young and 16th-rated Smith.

"The Salukis will tear off another big Sunday afternoon and Monday night when they go at the University of Ottawa in international exhibition matches at Davies Gymnasium at SIU-C."

Hunter said the Salukis appear to have the advantage in size over the Gee-Gees, but she doesn't have much other information about the Canadian team. Ottawa was 27-0 last year, finishing sixth in the Balinese Classic and having three players named to the Ontario team for the Canadian Games.

Hunter said her team has not been as consistent in the fundamentals as she had anticipated for this point in the season. But the Saluki coach introduced a new offensive system this week and worked on defensive adjustments which will be used in the match with Ottawa.

"We'll be OK," she said. "We carefully weighed the decision, because we didn't want to get so much involved that we don't do the simple things well.

"We're trying to expand a little. This has been our most extended practice period since the season began. The match with Ottawa will be a chance to see how the adjustments we've made will work in a competitive situation."

If SIU-F field hockey Coach John Coulson didn't have nightmares recently, it's because of former players. Sherry Chisenhall, Barb Donohue, and Linda Brown must have flashed in his memory.

Those four players formed the senior class, which compiled a 20-9 record last season. Three of the mid fielders — Coulson and Donohue — were selected to the Gateway Conference team and were lost to graduation. Brown is a graduate assistant and hopes to transfer to SIU-C next year.

"The midfield is one of our senior classes and has two of the last three links to back up the midfield," Coulson said. "We don't have a leddown prior to this game."

"That is where our weakness exists. We have not consistently kept the ball in the offensive part of the field. The opening teams are getting the ball down the field against us and we felt we needed another three links to back up the forwards. Our midfielders haven't been covering the field enough.

"I used a 4-4-2 alignment for the first eight games of the season, before switching to a 4-2-"See HOCKEY, Page 22"

Middle Tennessee State and Illinois State will stay undefeated, then the No. 1 ranking is in reach.

Last week in the 35-28 victory over Arkansas State, the line did a good job in giving quarterback Rick Johnson plenty of time to throw. But the Bears did not allow Johnson to be sacked.

Dempsey said he thought the line was the strongest unit of the second half, especially in the fourth quarter.

On the team's winning touchdown drive in the fourth quarter, Dempsey put the ball for 5-30. The 60-yard drive consisted of 14 plays and 51 yards, including Johnson's 1-yard touchdown dive. "That was more driving better," he said.

Men runners attempt comeback after loss

"Losing to Indiana was a big letdown to the No. 3 team in the nation locally and only a point was considered a victory," coach Coryn said. "I don't care what line, another Saluki was not found until" Coryn ran 3,850 meters in the "killer instinct" back men showed.

"I put pressure on them Sunday with a pep talk," he said. "It was a different side of me after losing six HARRIERS, Page 29"
