Dance, Auction, Final Round In Campus Chest Campaign

An auction and dance will highlight a week of campaigning and fund-raising for Campus Chest, Monday through Friday, April 23-27.

Faculty, staff, and other services, will donate items or services which they think will be of interest to students: a week of free parking, a term paper typed free, and other valuable services. Students are then given the opportunity to bid against other students for the possession of such items or services. This year the auction will be held in the Roman Room of the University Center during the intermission of the Campus Chest Dance, Friday, April 27.

The Campus Service Commission, appointed by the student government, organizes the Campus Chest Drive. This year Doris Perry is in charge. Campus Chest is the only charitable fund-raising drive or soliciting permitted by the University to operate on campus. Campus Chest eliminates the operation of other charitable drives, by combining them into one--Campus Chest. This year proceeds will be donated to World University Service, Southern Student Freedom Fund, or UNESCO. The auction furnishes approximately one third of the revenue, while area canvassing and soliciting provides the remaining two-thirds. Solicitors and banks may be recognized by their blue and gold decorations, and will circulate from April 23 to 27. Last year $500 was raised, and the aim this year is to exceed that amount, Miss Perry said.

Get More Out Of Reading: Medley

"Emotionalism is one of the strong forces which shape human events, and we must realize this to get more out of what we read," Kenneth W. Medley, associate editor of Nation's Business magazine, told a Journalism Day convocation Thursday.

Medley, a Carbondale native and an SIU graduate (class of '47), was the Elijah Parish Lovejoy lecturer at the 10th annual campus Journalism Day, honoring alumni and parents.

In his speech in honor of Lovejoy, the abolitionist editor killed by a mob while defending his press in 1837 at Alton, Medley said the reader must realize four areas in which the news can be distorted: by the writer, the source of information, the publisher and the reader himself.

"All have opinions and prior judgments which can get in the way of objectivity," Medley said.

"I have certain opinions, but how well I write is determined by how well I recognize these opinions and keep them from coloring the story," he said. "Most reporters don't distort news intentionally, but it sometimes happens through their prior judgments."

"You," Medley told the audience, "are influenced by your own views when you read an article. Your opinions can get in the way of reading open-mindedly.

Medley suggested Lovejoy's motto, "Hear both sides and may the right win," as a guide to better reading. "You should study opposing views," he said, "and remember that because a thing is published doesn't make it true.

"Develop a balanced reading habit," Medley urged his audience, "and don't get caught up in emotional hysteria as did the mob which caused Lovejoy's death after some of his slavery views became distorted."

White Says HUAC Like 'Salem Witch Hunt'

rgen Denison, Joliet Junior College; Martin Joe Gogie, Edwardsville Intelligencer; Ronald Jacober, Auto Club of Missouri, St. Louis; Don Hecke, Wisconsin Sun-Prairie Star-Countryman; Warren Talley, Rockford Register-Republic; and Richard Lee, SIU's Edwardsville branch.

Audience Peppered Speaker With Heated Questions

A discussion on the abolition of the U.S. House UnAmerican Activities Committee, Wednesday night in the Studio Theater of University School, turned into a free-for-all debate.

Burton White, the speaker, said the House UnAmerican Activities was somewhat like the Salem Witch Trials of the late 17th century.

"The only basic difference is that in those days anything UnMassachusetts was an unloyal act," White said. "Today the same thing applies to HUAC," White added.

He went on to trace the history of the committee. White said his main objections to the committee, was that it did not conform to the Constitution and that it usurped the duties of the House Judicial Committee.

White also accused the committee of being anti-Negro and anti-semitic.

His talk was sponsored on campus, by the SIU Student Peace Union.

A group, headed by State Sen. Paul Broyles, R-Mt. Vernon, peppered the University of California doctoral candidate with questions about his association with a number of alleged communist. White acknowledged that he had spoken on numerous occasions denouncing HUAC, asking for its abolishment.

Several members of SIU chapter of Young Americans For Freedom (YAF) also challenged White on his statements concerning the film, "Operation Abolition."

As the debate progressed, several members of the audience asked White to disclose the source of his travel funds. White told the audience his expenses had been backed by the Midwest Student Civil Liberties Union.

Jim Peel, a member of the Peace Union, said the only expense of the local chapter was money from his own pocket to print placards.

Another member of the audience asked "who allowed the hall to be used for such a thing as this kind of talk about great American things like the House UnAmerican Activities Committee?"

One person asked White directly if he was a member of the Communist party. White hastily replied that he was not. He stressed that opposition to HUAC does not necessarily mean disloyalty.

There's Something Fishy Brewing Here Saturday

The one that got away probably won't be able to during the annual fishing derby scheduled at the Lake-on-the-Campus all day Saturday.

Students wishing to enter the contest must register their catch at the boat dock between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Any SIU undergraduate or graduate student who has a valid Illinois fishing license is eligible to participate. Gift certificates of $5 will be given to the student who brings in the heaviest fish and to the student who catches the most fish.

The derby is sponsored by the University Center student programming board's recreation committee. Lyn Ye Crin, chairman, said that a limited number of rods and reels will be available free of charge for check-out at the boat dock. Students may rent at the boat dock the seven school rowboats for fishing, but they will not be allowed to use their own boats on the lake.

Last year's derby attracted 50 contestants and many fishermen, most of whom fished from the several docks surrounding the lake. "Reports indicate that the fishing this Saturday will be great at Campus Lake," said Ye Crin.

☆ ☆ Bailey Hall Is For The Bird(s)-- Lady Robin Decides ☆ ☆

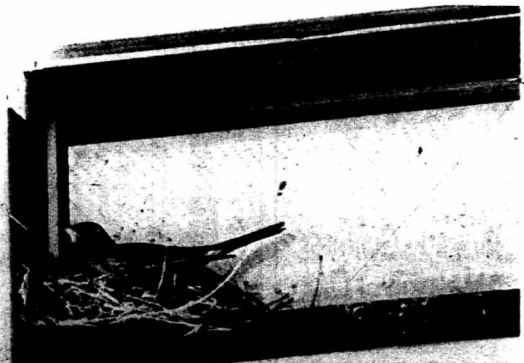

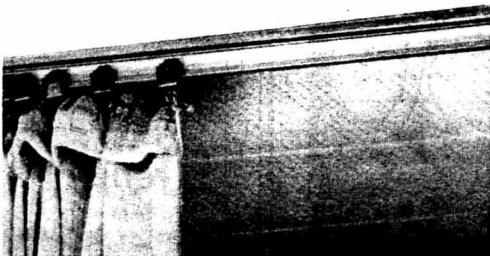

Ray Foster, counselor at Bailey Hall, reports an unregistered female is now living at Bailey.

She set up her residence on the counselor's apartment window in full view of all the male students.

And despite the almost constant prying eyes of the opposite sex she just sets there.

You see, she's a lady Robin.

And while no one has been able to get close enough to count the number of eggs in the nest, Foster estimated that judging from the time she arrived and started building the nest that her eggs will be hatched this weekend in time for Easter.

Design Students 'Make Mud Pies' With A Real Purpose

TO PASSERS BY it may have looked like Sandbox 101 but it was far from it. In fact, the students shown above outside the Design Department were hard at work on their assignments for Design 100, taught by Richard Hunter. The five-hour course required that students make plaster molds of their own design as part of their class work. Holo Godby (left), an interior design major, stirs up the mixture for her mold in what may look like a child's overgrown sandbox. In the next picture (left to right) Rennie White, Pam Greenshields and Bob Cline take their turn at the box. Miss White and Miss Greenshields are interior design majors. Cline is a design major. In the final picture, the products of the students' creativity and labor dry in the sun.

SIU Enrollment Figures Tell 'Where The Boys Are'

There's good news for girls at SIU.

Men outnumber the women almost two to one, according to the latest figures released by the Registrar's Office.

SIU now has an enrollment of 13,667, some 1,500 more than were enrolled the spring term a year ago, according to Loren H. Young, assistant supervisor of the reports section.

Try Flying - - It's Fun And Safer Than Driving

Business Magazine Editor

Learned To Fly At SIU

Kenneth Medley, associate editor of Nation's Business, believes everyman should take flying lessons and learn to pilot an aircraft.

Medley, who is visiting Southern as a Lovejoy lecturer in journalism, believes that flying broadens a man.

The Carbondale native and SIU alumnus learned to fly while attending school here as a teenager.

"I learned to fly in 1940 in a course which gave physics credit," Medley said with a smile. "O. B. Young was our instructor and it was an exciting time."

Medley went on to pilot more than 65 different kinds of aircraft as he put in a total of 5000 hours of flight time. He still flies on occasion.

During World War II, Medley flew C-87s, C-54s and C-109s over the "Hump" in the China, Burma, India theater. He visited many parts of China and India during his wartime service.

"Flying is part of me," Medley said. "I just can't describe it, I think anybody that does flying has the same feeling--it's indescribable, I feel," he added.

The magazine editor also thinks that flying is a good deal safer than driving. He cited a recent advertisement showing a crowded highway, then another picture beneath showing only two cars. The text said, "if drivers were trained like our pilots are, this (pointing to the two cars) is how the nation's highways would look."

"That's it. You have to train yourself. A fellow who takes flying has to be extremely cautious. He can't take chances. At the same time, flying is safer than ever," Medley pointed out.

He said the new advancements in flying procedures and the constant surveillance by the Federal Aeronautics Administration has helped to minimize the dangers of aviation.

Medley also pays tribute to Southern as another of the major influences in his life. He says everything is intertwined. He gained an education and learned to fly. Both factors have contributed greatly to his career.

"We live near astronaut John Glenn," Medley explained. "This has really been a profound experience for my son. He really admires Glenn," Medley added.

Girl Contests Liquor Law:

Right to Drink Case Meets Dry Decision

From the wires of the Associated Press

CHICAGO -- A-19-year old stenographer lost the first round Thursday in a court fight to void the Illinois liquor code which bans serving of alcoholic drinks to women under 21.

A Circuit Court judge held the constitutional rights of Diana Lee Brown have not been impaired by denying her a social sip of spirits now and then.

"If a woman at the age of 19 may marry, sell real estate, serve as executrix--she should be allowed to drink," Miss Brown's attorney told newsmen.

ALGIERS, Algeria -- Moslem mob marched on a police station Thursday, shouting threats to take it by storm as 15 persons - all but one of them Moslems - were killed in another day of terrorist action.

Police finally succeeded in dispersing the mob and heavily armed French troops sealed off the turbulent Moslem quarter of Belcourt in an effort to prevent a new outbreak.

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. -- Pilot Joe Walker flew an X15 3,920 miles per hour, over six times the speed of sound, in a warm-up for an upcoming attempt to soar 50 miles into space. Walker successfully tested a new emergency control system.

RANGOON, Burma -- Ne Win's revolutionary military government decided Thursday to do away with the activities of two American organizations in Burma, the Ford Foundation and the Asia Foundation.

The foundations, which have been here for eight years, were told to withdraw their staffs of teachers, advisers and specialists by October.

WASHINGTON -- The Kennedy administration has come out against a fair trade law on the grounds it amounts to retail price fixing and would alter the traditional free enterprise system. The bill would permit owners of brand names to forbid price cutting of their products by retailers.

WASHINGTON -- Senate-House Republican leadership accused President Kennedy Thursday of using methods characteristic of a police state to "blackjack" the steel industry into calling off its price increase.

The Republican spokesmen, in a formal statement, said the President directed and supported a series of government actions that "imperilled basic American rights, went far beyond the law, and were more characteristic of a police state than a free government."

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. --Skybolt, the air-launched ballistic missile designed to increase the nuclear strike range of United States and British bombers, was fired successfully on its maiden test flight Thursday from a B52 Stratofortress streaking high above the Atlantic Ocean.

VATICAN CITY -- The biggest Holy Week crowd in recent years pressed into St. Peter's Basilica for Holy Thursday ceremonies. Pope John XXIII did not take part in the St. Peter's ritual this year because he was consecrating 12 cardinals at another service.

Researcher Given $36,340 Grant

Research grants totaling $36,340 have been awarded to Isaac Shechmeister, Southern Illinois University virologist, for studies of animal and bacterial viruses.

Shechmeister, associate of microbiology at SIU, received $31,740 from the Office of Naval Research to continue investigations of white blood cells as agents of native resistance to viral disease in animals. The two-year grant is a continuation of a previous $15,000 award from the same agency.

The Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases of the National Institutes of Health awarded Shechmeister $4,600 for similar research dealing with bacterial viruses. It marks the third year that NIH has supported his studies.

Shechmeister reported on his research findings Wednesday (April 18) at the annual meetings of the American Association of Immunologists in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Progress On The Campus Chapel

It is appropriate on Good Friday to inquire as to how plans are developing for the proposed "Campus Chapel." (The consensus of a steering committee was that the term "all faiths" was misleading if not impossible.)

The SIU Foundation has been designated as project coordinator and has established a chapel fund with a $200 donation as the nucleus. The Foundation is presently planning a Faculty Talent Show for next November, with all proceeds to go to the Chapel Fund. Some 50 faculty members have already indicated a willingness to work in the show by means of answering a questionnaire for the Foundation.

A questionnaire filled out by students at Textbook Service at the beginning of Spring Term is expected to be compiled within a week.

The first step in getting the chapel built is to secure funds for the hiring of an architect specializing in chapel design. Working with the University architect and with ideas from students and faculty, the specialist will be asked to present the Foundation with blueprints and cost estimates.

There are at present no preconceived ideas concerning the chapel, except that it will be small and simple, will avoid the use of religious symbols, and will attempt to represent the relationship between faith and intellect. Its planned use will be non-denominational, of course, and probably for individual meditation and small weddings.

Interestingly enough, similar chapels have been built at seven of ten universities, all but one of which were state institutions, recently visited by K.R. Miller, executive director of the Foundation. All the chapels have been built within the past three years and are now "booked solid."

Thus, the idea of a Campus Chapel is developing. A coordinator for the project has been named and is at work toward getting something done. Ideas are still needed as to the kind of chapel to be built--it's design and use--and of course contributions are welcome.

Unnecessary Class Officers?

Plans for spring elections are already being made. Soon the campus will be one large display of campaign posters.

From the standpoint of duties and necessity, some of these posters are unnecessary. The reference here is to the offices of secretary-treasurer and vice-president of the classes.

These offices have no particular duties or functions connected with them. They are merely titles that look impressive on a student's college record.

In many cases, a student is unaware of the fact that these offices do not offer opportunities to work in student government until after they have been elected. Thus, the time and money spent on a campaign brings merely a title and a picture in the Obelisk. This hardly seems fair to the student who has a true interest in the affairs of the campus.

The freshman class officers this year have made some attempt to alleviate the situation by forming a freshman student council, with senators representing the various living areas. Just how much this council is accomplishing may be debatable, but at least a step has been taken.

The presidents of the classes become members of the Student Council, which is a worthwhile function. Occasionally, the vice-president or secretary-treasurer is asked to attend council meetings when the president is unable to be present. But this is the one and only duty of these two officers, which hardly seems adequate.

One of two steps could easily be taken by the Student Council to alleviate this situation. The election of these two officers could be abandoned entirely or specific and valuable duties could be assigned to them. Just what these duties might be is unknown, but considering the large number of activities, services, and duties performed by student government, the logical conclusion is that a few more hands could surely be used.

On a smaller campus, class officers actually work for their class as a whole. But at a university as large in enrollment as Southern, a class does not function as a group in itself. No complaint can be offered because of the impossibility of working as a class for a definite purpose.

While this situation has caused no heated controversy in the past and may not in the future, certainly some evaluation should be made of whether or not class officers should continue to be elected. If the answer is yes, then offer them a chance to work by assigning worthwhile duties. If the answer is no, then abandon this unnecessary election.

Easter

Easter is a dress parade-- This, the cynic feels is just a time to get a whole new outfit!

Easter is hunting for colored eggs.

Easter is the time for the Easter Bunny to come.

Easter is a vacation for tired workmen and students.

Easter is a "rat-race" says the florist.

Easter is the end of the austere season of Lent.

Easter is different things to different people.

Let us take a look at the cynic's view (he finds Easter the most difficult part of the Christian Year to understand) for he sees in the modern church all the ecclesiastical machinery being thrown into high gear with revivals, days of prayer, fasting, special services, attendance campaigns and special offerings. But this bothers him less than the fact that the Church asks him to believe the most incredible incident in history --that a person who stirred up the hatred of Jewish religious leaders and the anger of Roman occupation forces, was punished with death and then came right back to life again.

That is the remarkable thing about it, it is just not done! People don't come popping back to life again right after death. This demonstrates even more clearly that God was surely involved in Easter. He was having the last say.

Easter, to the Christian, is proof of how much God cares about man, it is proof positive that an ultimate goal of world Christianity can come. Man has gone on from the time of the crucifixion to invent many ingenious ways of killing enemies and unwanted human beings. He has even come to the point of being able to commit global suicide. But he is nowhere nearer being able to prevent God bringing man to life again.

Easter is God saying to man that he has the power of life, giving life, returning life, renewing life.

The Rev. Alec J. Langford in the METROPOLIS NEWS.

Suspicion Confirmed

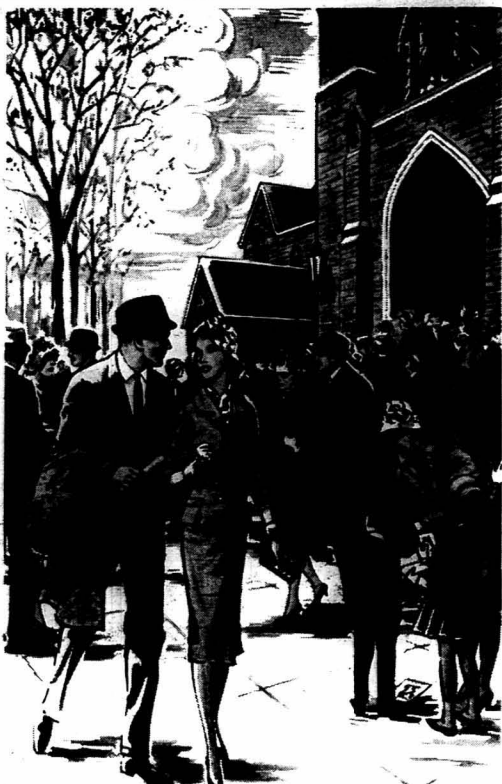

A long-time suspicion of ours was somewhat confirmed when we read that a painter in Florida recently sold, as an abstract "art work," a masonite board, dabbed countless times with brushes to remove excess paint from them.

The artist reported that she gave the board "a close scrutiny, turning it one way and then another until I saw a scene emerge. Then I improvised on it a bit and had a painting."

"Blind Flower Girl"--as the painting was named--was entered in a Miami art show. It brought a "nice price" and what's more was the first painting the artist sold.

This certainly seems to support the opinion that it doesn't take much to produce some modern art. Frankly, recalling that a finger painting done by a chimpanzee was sold for $50, this comes as no surprise.

Easter Services Open To Students

A trip to the annual Easter Sunrise Service at Bald Knob, 20 miles south of Carbondale, will be sponsored by the Educational and Cultural Committee of the University Center Student Programming Board, the student activities office said today.

Students of all faiths are invited to attend. Busses will depart from Southern Acres at 4:15 a.m. and from University Center at 4:35 a.m., Sunday morning.

In order to participate in the trip, students must have a trip permit on file with the University and must and sign up in the Student Activities Office in University Center by 5 p.m. Friday.

The Carbondale Ministerial Associations has extended an invitation to all SIU students to attend Easter weekend services at the Carbondale church of their choice.

The Rev. Jack Adams of the Association said that all area churches will present services of some sort during Easter weekend. The Carbondale Ministerial Association will present a Union Good Friday Service at 1:05 p.m. in the First Baptist Church at University and Main.

A schedule of religious functions on campus was printed in the Friday, April 13 edition of the Egyptian.

SIU Banks On 2-Mile Team To Dominate Kansas Relay

SIU continues its drive for national track recognition this weekend at the Kansas Relays. John Uelses, the pole vault sensation, will also be at the meet and competing in his usual event of the pole vault here he holds both the indoor and outdoor national records.

While Uelses, who will be the SIU next year, will be the top individual attraction, SIU and Kansas will be fighting it out for top honors in the two-mile relay. Two weeks ago at the Texas Relays, Kansas barely edged the Salukis in the event with the time of 7:27.7. SIU was given the identical time while finishing second.

It will be the usual quartet of John Saunders, Brian Turner, Jim Dupree and Bill Cornell running the two-mile event for the Salukis.

Hartzog has also entered his squad in the four-mile relay where Alan Gelso will replace John Saunders in the lineup. Hartzog is confident that SIU can win the four-mile race.

At Texas, Cornell and Bill Dotson, Kansas' top miler, ran the last 100-yards stride-for-stride and shoulder-to-shoulder until Dotson lunged at the finish line to beat Cornell.

"With the break in weather I'm sure the boys will turn in faster times than in any previous outing," Hartzog said. "The two-mile should be quite a race with Dotson and Cornell again fighting it out for first place."

Hartzog has also entered the two-mile relay team in the distance medley but might scratch the team since the race comes right before the two-mile relay.

Hartzog wants the quartet in the best shape possible in order to run Kansas. The meet should be a preview of what to expect when Kansas comes to SIU May 5 for a dual meet.

Houston Keeps Running Into Same 191-Pound Blockade

Only Wayne Baughman of the University of Oklahoma has been able to beat SIU's wrestler Ken Houston for the past two seasons. For the past two years Houston has finished third in the NCAA wrestling championships and each time it is only loss came at the hands of Baughman.

Houston entered the 1962 NCAA wrestling meet undefeated and had beaten Baughman in an earlier match at the 177-pound class. But in Stillwater, Oklahoma and the NCAA tournament Baughman turned the table on Houston at 191-pounds.

According to Jim Wilkinson, SIU wrestling coach, "Houston is the first man from Southern ever to place in the NCAA. We've had other men score but none placed until Kenny did it in 1961."

In 1961 Houston finished third at the 177-pound class losing to Baughman in the first round. However, in 1962 Houston figured to do better at 191-pounds so he moved up thinking he might also place higher. He didn't know at the time that Baughman also was wrestling at the same weight.

"Both Kenny and Baughman are the same type wrestlers and evenly matched," Wilkinson said. "If they wrestled five times one would win three and the other two, their that close."

Last year Houston was named to the NCAA All-American Wrestling squad and then in February he was chosen on the Amateur Wrestling News mid-season All-American team.

The Salukis lost only a handful of seniors from last year's outfit, but two—Ron Winter and Amos Bullocks—established new offensive records during their SIU careers and Piccone is anticipating some difficulty in finding adequate replacements.

"We're expecting a real dog-fight to develop among our back-field candidates here this spring," Piccone said,
"and that's the way we like it. They know every position is wide open and several feel confident they're going to win the race."

Vern Pollock and Dave Harris have the current inside track on Winter's quarterback berth, but Mike McGinnis showed well with last year's freshmen team and may push the more experienced veterans.

Six lettermen will be among the large group of halfbacks seeking Bullock's vacated spot. Carl Kimbrel has been switched, by Piccone, from fullback to halfback in an effort to fill Bullock's vacated shoes. The other halfback slot appears to be in the hands of Charles Lerch at the present time.

SIU Judo Club Wins 5 Trophies At Granite City Tournament

SIU's judo club won five trophies and the "Most Outstanding Judoka" award at the fourth annual Judo Invitational Tournament in Granite City.

The club, coached by Cecil Franklin, won three first place awards in the White Belt division. Jerry Ackerman, Lombard, Gordon Cummings, Highland Park, and Frank Bates, Joliet, each took titles in their weight classification while Tom Trevena, Joliet, was a second place winner.

The Wally Barr Trophy to the most outstanding player in the meet went to Ackerman.
He won his event with three clean-cut "Ippons," each with a different throw.

Two SIU club member competed in the tougher Black Belt division, but both lost to the same man, Jim Shannon, second-degree Black Belter from St. Louis.

Franklin's son, Ross, a University School student, did well in the White Belt intermediate division, losing only to the eventual champion.

Some 175 judo players from Illinois, Missouri and Wisconsin, including a group of high-ranking Japanese Black Belt holders from Chicago, took part in the meet.
