City incumbents beat students

By Tony Gordon
and Scott Canon
Staff Writers

Incumbent Carbondale City Councilmen Charles Watkins and Archie Jones appeared headed for easy victories over student challengers Matt Coulter and Paul Matalonis and election in the race for two council seats, early returns indicate.

With only 13 precincts reporting late Tuesday night, Watkins and Jones lead the student candidates by a substantial margin, a lead which they held since the first precincts began reporting. Watkins had 833 votes, Jones had 796. Coulter had 465 and Matalonis had 359. Most of the heavily student-populated precincts had reported in, with Precinct 25 showing Coulter with 132 votes. Matalonis with 100, Jones with 29 and Watkins with 25. Precinct 22 showed Coulter with 30 votes. Matalonis with 25. Jones with 12 and Watkins with 10. Precinct 23 showed Coulter with 80 votes, Matalonis with 62, Jones with 13 and Watkins with 19.

Aides to Coulter issued a statement of concession at 10:40 p.m., saying that "It was an energetic campaign which achieved the worthy goal of a increasing voter awareness. Congratulations to the winners Archie Jones and Charles Watkins."

In the Carbondale Township races, with only 18 precincts reporting, it appeared that Democratic incumbents would sweep to easy re-election along with Republican incumbent John R. Parish, the only Republican incumbent in the race.

In the races, Democrat Robert Kelly had 1,092 votes to Republican B. Joe Barringer's 786 votes to lead in the race for supervisor; Democrat Virginia

Dreher had 966 votes to Republican Pat Tindall's 899 votes to lead in the race for clerk; and Democrat Vernell Bloodworth had 1,107 votes to Republican Ralph Richard's 703 votes to lead in the race for highway commissioner.

Republican Parrish was running unopposed for re-election as tax assessor and received 1,176 votes.

In the township trustee races, where four seats are at stake, Democrats Clara McClure, with 977 votes, Charles Leming, with 970 votes, Gerald W. Compton, with 953 votes, and John S. Holmes, with 927 votes, led Republican challengers Evelyn R. Engelking, with 838 votes, Maurine S. Olson, with 817 votes, Atlas Laster Jr., with 766 votes and Nelson R. Gilman, with 762 votes.

With 12 precincts reporting for the Carbondale Park District, where two six-year terms are at stake, Alice Mitchell lead with 614 votes followed by Larry C. Jacober with 577 votes, Charles Warren with 557 votes, Douglas McEwen with 254 votes, and Donald E. Dalessio with 174 votes.

Many colleges help raise University funds

Editor's note: Raising the necessary funds to help keep SIU-C's various colleges operating is a major concern among administrators. The following article is the last in a series concerning methods of raising funds.

By Bill Turley
Staff Writer

Most of SIU-C's colleges are involved in raising funds for the University, and the "traffic cop" involved in this effort is the Office of Development and Services. J.C. Garavalia, director of the office, said his department tries not to duplicate the individual colleges' fund-raising efforts by contacting the same potential donors. The donors are usually alumni who "are individuals with a considerable amount of loyalty to SIU athletics and the University," Garavalia, a 1956 SIU graduate, said.

Allowing individual colleges to do their own soliciting makes for more personalized fund raising, he said. Many of their fund-raising efforts were started by "seed money" from his office. The donations they raise are mostly entered into accounts in the SIU-C Foundation and can be drawn upon by the colleges, Garavalia said.

Since the ODS was established in 1974, more than $7.6 million in cash and gifts-in-kind have been raised. Garavalia said the number of donors has increased each year and he calls that "a good trend."

Some bizarre gifts have been offered to the University, Garavalia said, but he declined to elaborate on the refused gifts. He did say that some Arabian horses were once accepted and ended up being sold.

He said, "Some schools have accepted gifts like buildings that have brought legal and maintenance problems." Gifts-in-kind are inspected before they are accepted, Garavalia said.

Another cog in the ODS fund-raising machine is the Office of Alumni Services. Jacob King, assistant director of the office and head of fund raising, said telefunds are the main means Alumni Services uses to raise funds.

Corporations in cities and counties targeted for a telefund are asked to donate the use of their telephones. Then alumni, faculty and student volunteers call potential alumni donors, soliciting support for the University.

Garavalia's view of a good fund raiser is a person who is methodical, creative and flexible enough to deal with many types of people.

Garavalia said, "The economy has a very definite effect" on fund raising.

"One has to work harder to get better results each year if inflation and the uncertainty of the economy continue," he said.

Brezhnev says Poland can 'handle its affairs'

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Fears of Soviet intervention in Poland diminished significantly Tuesday with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev declaring that Poland's Communist Party could handle its own affairs and the Warsaw Pact maneuvers officially ending after three tension-filled weeks.

Walter Stoessel, undersecretary of state for political affairs and a former U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union and Poland, said in a TV interview in Washington that Brezhnev's remarks meant the Poles "have some more time to put their house in order, according to Soviet lights."

A Western diplomat in Moscow said Brezhnev's speech and the end of the maneuvers indicated the Kremlin intended to "calm the waters." But the source, who requested anonymity, said the end of the maneuvers "doesn't close off the threat of invasion."

The Warsaw Pact carried out similar exercises in Czechoslovakia in June 1960, two months before it intervened in Prague, and the source said, "it may very well have been a pressure tactic to begin with."

The Soviets still have at least 20,000 troops stationed in Poland, and Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger told the NATO defense ministers in Bonn, West Germany, that if the Soviet Union intervened in Poland the United States would not consider future arms talks with the Kremlin.

The announcement on the end of the "Soyuz 81" maneuvers was made by the Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka.

Student issues discussed

Presidential hopefuls debate

By David Murphy
Staff Writer

Candidates for Undergraduate Student Organization president Monday debated their views on a variety of topics, including the student athletics fee, formation of a student tenant union and a possible mass transit system for Carbondale, before a crowd of 130 students at the Student Center.

The four candidates are Gary Shadid of the Universal Party, Steve Hatter of the Penguin Party, Todd Rogers of the Maverick Party and Chip Anderson of the Cobra Party. The election is scheduled for April 15, at which time 26 student senators also will be chosen.

On some questions, such as what to do about the temporary $10 athletics fee increase, the candidates agreed more than they disagreed. All of them said that any action they would take would depend on the results of a student referendum concerning the increase, called for by President Albert Somit, to be held next fall.

"Whatever the results of next fall's referendum may be, that is what I would actively pursue as president," said Rogers. The other candidates also said that their actions would reflect how the majority of students voted in the referendum.

However, two of the candidates, Hatter and Anderson, said they feel the results of the referendum should be binding to the administration. Somit has said that the results of the referendum will be advisory, and not binding on any policy decisions.

When the candidates were asked if they favor the formation of a student tenant union to handle on- and off-campus housing grievances, there was more disagreement.

Anderson and Shadid both favored the idea of such a union, citing their belief that the problems of student renters don't get enough consideration.

Reagan officials 'breathe easier' following Soviet announcement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four days after warning that a Soviet invasion of Poland might be imminent, Reagan administration officials breathed easier Tuesday following signs that the Kremlin was prepared to let Poland work out its problems on its own.

At the State Department, spokesman William Dyess responded more cautiously to Brezhnev's speech, delivered at a Czechoslovak Communist Party Congress.

"If he meant to say that the Poles should be allowed to solve their own problems without outside interference, we would welcome this," Dyess said. "That's been our consistent position."

Other officials, speaking privately, said they were encouraged by other developments. They noted that hours after Brezhnev's speech, East European news agencies announced that Warsaw Pact military maneuvers were completed Tuesday and that "participating forces were returning to the places of their permanent stationing."

That announcement, combined with Brezhnev's speech, apparently eliminated, for the time being, the prospect of a full-blown crisis in East-West relations.

It was just last Friday that the Reagan administration seemed to have resigned itself to an imminent Soviet intervention. Despite an easing of tensions inside Poland, the Warsaw Pact troop maneuvers had gone well beyond what U.S. officials said was required for the annual spring exercises.

The Soviets flew a number of military transport planes into Poland, Dyess, the State Department spokesman, said the Soviets were "capable of moving at any time."

Man admits desire to kill Reagan

NEW YORK (AP) — A man who shared John W. Hinckley Jr.'s affection for actress Jodie Foster told authorities, after he was arrested Tuesday with a loaded revolver, that he was on his way to Washington to kill President Reagan, according to a federal prosecutor.

Edward Michael Richardson, 22, of Drexel Hill, Pa., was ordered held in lieu of $500,000 bail on a charge of threatening to kill the president, after U.S. Attorney John Martin said in court that Richardson told federal agents that if he was released, "he would go to Washington to kill the president."

Failing that, Martin said, Richardson vowed to kill Secretary of State Alexander Haig Jr. and Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Secret Service agent James D'Amelio earlier had described Richardson as sharing an "affection" for Miss Foster with Hinckley, who is accused of shooting President Reagan last week in Washington.

Richardson was arrested at 1 p.m. carrying a .32-caliber revolver aboard a bus in Manhattan's Port Authority terminal, agents said.

News Roundup

House panel rejects Reagan budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Budget Committee dealt President Reagan his biggest congressional defeat to date Tuesday as it dumped his budget blueprint in favor of a Democratic alternative with smaller deficits and tax cuts, more spending on social programs and less on defense.

The House panel took its action over the solid opposition of outnumbered Republicans as Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill predicted that House Democrats would be able to pass their own plan on the floor as well.

30 dead in El Salvador massacre

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Men in uniform and civilian clothes drove into a poor suburb of San Salvador before dawn Tuesday, pulled 23 people from their homes and shot them dead in the street, witnesses said. Seven more people were slain in their homes in front of their families, they said.

A Defense Ministry spokesman denied there had been a premeditated massacre, and the shooting started when an army patrol was fired upon. He said four government soldiers were killed in the exchange of fire, but he did not identify them.

UMW stalemate provokes fistfight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tensions within the striking United Mine Workers erupted into a fistfight Tuesday between UMW President Sam Church and the union's safety director, sources said.

Several well-placed sources at the union's international headquarters here said Church was incensed by a letter he received from Safety Director Everett Acord, in which Acord accused Church of fleeing the UMW's headquarters after the contract setback and of leaving the "dirty work" of ordering 133 staff layoffs to his assistants.

Hoffman sentenced to three years

NEW YORK (AP) — Abbie Hoffman, the political activist and former Yippie who surrendered last September after nearly seven years underground, was sentenced Tuesday to three years in prison for a 1973 cocaine sale. He must serve at least one year before becoming eligible for parole.

In a hushed Manhattan courtroom packed with Hoffman's supporters, acting State Supreme Court Justice Brenda Soloff said the graying 43-year-old Hoffman "knowingly, willingly and deliberately" sold the narcotic Aug. 28, 1973, and jumped $10,000 bail a year later.

Man denies battery charge; says police didn't tell his story

By Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

A man who was arrested Sunday afternoon by Carbondale police for reckless driving and battery refuted the police report of the incident that was released.

Thomas Grant Mings, 24, a farmer from Broughton, near Harrisburg, told the Daily Egyptian that he did not start a fight with two occupants of a car that he allegedly forced off the road and denied that he forced the car off the road.

Mings is scheduled to appear in Jackson County court at 9 a.m., April 20.

Police arrested Mings, who is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 250 pounds, in a parking lot adjacent to Illinois Route 13, at about 5:20 p.m. Sunday. According to the information released by police, Mings was traveling west, entering Carbondale, when he allegedly used the shoulder of the road to pass a car driven by Robert Abney, an SIU-C student.

Abney allegedly made an unfriendly gesture toward Mings, who in turn allegedly sideswiped Abney's car, forcing him off the road at about 100 E. Main St. according to information released by police. Both men then allegedly got out of their cars and began fighting, during which Abney's wife, Julie, who was in the car at the time of the incident, broke a soda pop bottle on the back of Mings' head, according to information released by the police. She then struck Mings in the head with another bottle before police arrived.

Mings, however, denied forcing Abney's car off the road, sideswiping their car or starting a fight with the Abneys.

Mings admitted passing the Abney car on the shoulder of the road while traveling at a speed "under 60 mph." After he was in front of the Abney car, the occupants allegedly began "giving obscene gestures and yelling profanities" at Mings, he said. He said he then slowed down and the Abney car passed him. Mings then pulled next to the Abney car to observe who was in the car, he said.

"I could see he was a little guy," Mings said, so he pulled in front of the Abney car and began to drive away. The Abney car then allegedly struck the back end of Mings' car, and Mings kept driving, he said. The Abney's allegedly motioned Mings to pull over, so he did, he said, to see what they wanted.

When all the people got out of the cars, the girl allegedly began to hit Mings, he said, so he pushed her away.

"I wouldn't strike a girl, so I just sort of pushed her back," he said. Mings then pushed away the man, who had allegedly "come forward" at Mings, he said. The girl then allegedly hit Mings in the head with a soda pop bottle, breaking the bottle and knocking Mings down to the ground, Mings said.

When Mings attempted to get up, the Abneys jumped on him, he said. After he got up, Mings said the girl allegedly hit him in the teeth with a different soda pop bottle. Mings then grabbed the girl "to keep him between me and her," he said. The fight ended when the police arrived, Mings said.

Mings said he did not get to explain his version of the incident to police at the scene of the fight.

importance, because of the housing problems students have with unresponsive landlords in Carbondale," Shadid said. "I think we should have a board where students can come and air their grievances."

Rogers felt that a tenant union should be formed only if it would work in direct cooperation with the student attorney.

A student tenant union is unnecessary, according to Hatter, because of the laws now existing to protect renters and the failure of plans for tenant unions in the past.

"We've got an attorney for students, and laws on the books," he said. "I don't think a tenant union would be any more effective than that."

When asked if they favored the formation of a local mass transit system funded by a $10 per semester student fee, the candidates expressed a variety of views. Such a system is presently being looked at by the USO.

Citing problems with on-campus parking and the need to conserve energy, both Shadid and Anderson said they would support such a plan.

Give student trustees a vote that really counts

IN A SMALL ROOM of the state capitol building in Springfield, a room called the Legislative Reference Bureau, there is a draft of a bill that would give students a real say in how state universities are run. As yet unsponsored, the bill would lift student trustees from "advisory serfdom" and give them a binding vote in state university governance.

Small potatoes, you say? Think again. One of the best kept secrets on campus is the importance of the position of student trustee. It is the most important student office on campus, bar none.

The SIU Board of Trustees provides a good example of the power lay boards of governance (and student trustees) have in determining policy at a state university.

As currently composed, the SIU Board is made up of nine members, seven of whom have binding votes and two of whom are student representatives with advisory votes, one from SIU-C and one from SIU-E.

The board has broad powers. It is the board that created the post of chancellor in January, 1979, and then named Kenneth Shaw, formerly SIU-E's president, to the post on July 31, 1979. It is the board that approved next year's 13 percent tuition hike and last year's $10 increase in the student athletics fee. It is the board that administers SIU-C's millions of dollars in trusts, trust property and gifts and it is the board that has the final say in the hiring and firing of faculty.

CLEARLY, EVEN WITHOUT THE POWER of a binding vote, a student trustee is the most powerful student official, simply because he or she has the opportunity to persuade the other board members to vote a certain way on matters of vital importance to students.

But is that enough? We don't think so. Student trustees should have a binding vote on university boards of trustees, for several reasons.

The first reason centers around the concept of credibility. Rhetoric aside, it is unlikely that most board members give student trustees' views the full consideration they deserve. Student trustees are not involved in bargaining over votes, like other board members, simply because their vote is only advisory. It carries less perceived and actual weight.

It is no slap at the other board members, most of whom are hard-working and amazingly generous with their time, to say that most student trustees are better able to see and understand how the board's decisions actually affect a university. Student trustees have an invaluable advantage—proximity. They can see how different decisions have affected their university; they can talk and meet with faculty, administrators and students seven days a week. Regular board members cannot.

THE IMPENDING CRUNCH in state and federal aid to students, along with constantly increasing tuition and fees, are the basis for a second argument in favor of a binding vote for student trustees. Students in the future will be putting an increasing amount of money and effort into getting an education. It only seems fair that students should have a larger say in how their future is determined.

And increased student input into the decision-making process is a good thing, we might add. With the coming to power of SIU-C President Albert Somit, students have had far greater input into University decisions in recent months, simply because of the nature of the man. The University and the community are the better for it. Wise decisions on matters such as the athletics fee increase and fee statement-identification cards have resulted, thanks, in part, to student input. Students have been and are making productive and constructive contributions and, funny thing, the more responsibility that students are given, the better they respond. When students feel like contributing partners, they contribute.

With bleak times for higher education on the horizon, it is time for students and university administrators across the state to form a bond of trust. Tough decisions are on the agenda.

With trust, however, also must come responsibility. Students deserve a binding vote on university boards of trustees. SIU-C Student Trustee Mark Michalic travels to Springfield next Tuesday to line up sponsors for a bill giving student trustees a binding vote. He's got our support.

An academic publication enriches only the publisher

By Richard Taylor
Professor of Philosophy
University of Rochester, N.Y.

A COMMON MISCONCEPTION of a university is that its faculty not only conveys knowledge, through teaching, but discovers it too, through research. It is therefore a privilege, on this view, for students to attend a university, as distinguished from a college, whose professors perhaps take teaching seriously but research less so. Students at a university can be at "the forefront" or "frontier" of knowledge, or at its "cutting edge," or whatever metaphor seems apt.

From this it of course follows that a proper university professor disseminates his hard won knowledge through the publication of articles. One who isn't publishing articles is presumably not learning much either, so no matter how inspiring he might be as a teacher he nevertheless falls short. Hence the cherished "list of publications" that every university teacher assiduously compiles and augments, particularly when questions of his promotion, tenure or salary increase are impending.

This idea of a university may have some validity so far as the sciences are concerned, for in that realm there is such a thing as knowledge to be discovered and published even though the bulk of it may be trivial. But what of the humanities? Among various imputations of prejudice in the Turner thesis, or alleged discoveries of onomatopoeia in the poem "Patterson," or of the possible authorial meanings of Shakespeare's sonnet cycle, or a novel interpretation of Cherkhov, or imaginative historical explanations, what is going to count as knowledge, what as ideology, and what as mere hokum? The answer is, of course, that while rather little is pure hokum, very little is genuine knowledge, either.

AT THE "FOREFRONT" of what "cutting edge," then, do we find ourselves? At the forefront of sheer volume of publication, and it is a dull edge indeed. Sometimes what is published is clever, sometimes amusing, sometimes insightful, sometimes the fruit of much research, sometimes (very rarely) it is profound. Most often it is just trivial. And it is hardly ever knowledge, even in the broadest sense.

It is the pure quantity of publication that counts. A committee convoked to consider someone's appointment to tenure is likely to be sitting around a table on which are spread the candidate's publications. Rarely are they actually read, except in a perfunctory way. Mercifully so, for they are likely to be deadly boring. Members thumb through them, ask a few questions of any expert who might be present, and try to form an impression of God knows what. Professors can count, however, and it makes a very great difference whether they have before them one or two published articles, perhaps from an obscure journal, or ten, or fifty. Quantity does most effectively enhance any academic's claim to promotion. So there exists the strongest incentive for a professor to grind them out in great number, and keep a list of them all.

Someone will say that a philosophy professor (which I am) is in a poor position to point a finger, and I agree. Indeed, my finger is pointed first at academic philosophy. I recently heard a philosophical lecture here in which the speaker, from another continent and generally considered distinguished, argued that if a given man is six feet tall, then there also exists something called "his being six feet tall." Others denied this.

Now obviously, no question of knowledge arises here, for there is nothing to know. It is only a matter of rival modes of expression. Another well known philosopher came here not long ago to defend, among others of similar kind, the proposition that "the actual world is (actually) actual if and only if the actual world is actual in the actual world." Still another has twice visited this campus to put forth his entertaining view that non-existent objects are quite real after all. "There are lots of them," he is fond of saying—a line that always evokes merriment. Another philosophy professor, generally considered an outstanding representative of the subject, lectured at various universities in this area not long ago, to the effect that a person—any person, such as Ronald Reagan for instance—is really nothing more than an invisibly minute particle of matter in the brain. And only last week I participated in a philosophical conference where the question before us was whether anyone can really claim to have any hands (or legs or ears or whatever).

I NOTE THESE FAIRLY characteristic expressions of contemporary academic philosophy not to ridicule them, but to drive home the point that they are hardly expressions of knowledge, or even of wisdom. They are subject to controversy, for those who can make sense of them, but hardly to confirmation. The publication of such material disseminates a lot of ink, but no "frontier" of anything is thus illuminated.

There were, the last time I counted, 93 periodical journals devoted to academic philosophy in the U.S. alone, most of them edited by professors. (It is my privilege to help edit one of them.) Half were started in the last 15 years, a third in the last 10. What these journals have in common is that hardly anyone reads them. I suspect the same is true in other fields.

For the past two years, whenever I have gone to philosophy meetings, I have taken with me the names of the authors and titles of four recent papers published in the leading philosophical journals, and I have asked everyone I encountered whether he has read any of them. To my astonishment, I have yet to find a single person who has! Beyond serving an occasional gris for graduate student dissertations, this veritable mountain of philosophical publication appears to serve little purpose beyond enabling academics to expand their lists of publications. One such journal, in fact, does not even bother to go into print. Articles accepted for "publication" by its editors are simply microfilmed, and then made "available" to whomever might request them, in the unlikely event that anyone actually does. You have to pay $30 just to submit an article there. Not surprisingly, this "journal" accepts nearly half of all the manuscripts sent to it—and a great many "lists of publications" grow larger, the "frontiers" of something or other are presumably pushed back, and universities reach for metaphors of "the cutting edge," etc.

Reflections of this sort might be expected from some bilious professor who has never managed to publish much, so let it be added that my own list of publications is suitably immense, and has won me professorships on 12 campuses. Sometimes I look at it, 13 pages long, and I think, "How impressive! What a lot of ink! And—how sad."

Former City Attorney Womick to get $31,510 in legal fees

By Tony Gordon
Staff Writer

Former City Attorney John Womick will be paid almost as much by the city this year as the present city attorney receives, as a result of action taken by the City Council Monday night.

Womick, who resigned as city attorney in August, 1979, will be paid $31,510 in legal fees during the fiscal year ending April 30 under a contract approved by the council in April 1980. Womick, who said he resigned his city post to devote more time to his private practice, handles cases he initiated when he was city attorney as well as other legal matters assigned him by the city manager.

Present City Attorney George Kiriakos' salary is $32,101. Assistant City Attorney

Elizabeth Brynes will earn $24,398 this year and Assistant City Attorney Mary Ann Midden will be paid $18,001. The remainder of the legal department's $94,196 budget for salaries, not including contracted work, goes to a legal secretary, a law clerk and two department interns.

The contract originally approved by the council set an $18,000 limit for Womick's services, and Monday night the council approved a payment of $13,511 to cover his additional fees over the original amount. Womick worked on 18 cases for the city this year.

Womick was paid $8,035.10 for defending the city in the Walker vs. Carbondale sex discrimination suit, $3,839.50 for work on land acquisition for the Drainways and Greenways project, $2,765 for his work on the downtown convention center and another $2,262.50 for handling the city's contract negotiations with the Carbondale Patrol Officers Association.

In other action, the council approved a $1.85 million contract with E.T. Simonds Construction Co. of Carbondale for construction of the Pleasant Hill Road overpass. Construction is scheduled to begin in the first week of May.

The Simonds company bid was 11.7 percent under the engineers' estimate for the overpass, which is part of the city's Railroad Relocation Project. The Simonds firm also was awarded the construction contract for the $773,537 railroad passenger depot in September, presently under construction.

Sirens to be installed by mid-July

By Melody Cook
Staff Writer

Although this year's tornado season peak will have passed, it looks like Carbondale's three storm-warning sirens will be installed by mid-July.

The $46,700 installation contract was awarded to B & D Electric of Eldorado Monday night by the city council.

According to William Moss, assistant city manager for purchasing and property, the contract deadline is 60 working days and the equipment is scheduled to be delivered in mid-May.

The sirens will be installed on city property on West Willow Street, at the YMCA on West Sunset Drive and at Carbondale Community High School's east campus on East Walnut Street. The pole-mounted, rotating sirens are designed to supplement the only existing sirens, now on SIU-C property. The council also approved writing-off about $30,000 in uncollectable water and sewer bills and filing liens on other property for bills totalling about $11,500.

City Manager Carroll Fry

added that the percentage of the loss is small when compared to the amount of business the city handles each year.

"There is no other business in this town that has this small of a bad debt service on the volume it has done," Fry said.

The council also adopted the Energy Futures Task Force report as part of the "Goals for Carbondale," the city's statement of policy, with a footnote stating the report's origin. Councilwoman Helen Westberg said that in five or six years it "might be a good thing to know."

Media should return to values of liberalism, journalist says

By Mike Anton
Staff Writer

A return from profit making back to "the general values and objectives of liberalism," is needed to raise the professional standard of the media in the United States, said a member of Finland's Institute of Journalism and Mass Communication Tuesday.

Kaarle Nordenstreng, of the University of Tampere, also said that the American press is dependent on government because government "controls what will be the topic of discussion."

Nordenstreng's lecture Tuesday. "The Media—Backstopping Official Policy," was part of a symposium on "International Perspectives on News," a series of lectures and seminars sponsored by the School of Journalism.

He said that the press should go back to the objectives of pre-World War II journalism, and that when necessary, work with government "instead of being dogmatic," when social values are at stake.

"I don't blame the American media for backstopping the

'Final Conflict' ends trilogy in contrived, undramatic style

By Bill Crowe
Staff Writer

When you get right down to it, there are basically three kinds of films—good films, bad films and big dumb films. "The Final Conflict," a silly and pretentious conclusion of the so-called "Omen Trilogy," is one of the biggest, dumbest films I've seen in quite a while.

Surely you must remember the saga of Damien Thorn, the son of the devil who was placed on earth to destroy the Second Coming of Christ. He first surfaced as a murderous little brat in 1976's original "Omen" movie, which was a well-orchestrated shocker with plenty of thrills and sincere acting from a cast headed up by Gregory Peck and Lee Remick. Two years later, the kid returned as a young monster near puberty in "Damien: Omen II," a boring, money-minded rehash of the original film's plot twists that distinctly lacked originality.

Now, for us unlucky viewers, Thorn (now played by Sam Neill) returns as a wild-eyed 32-year-old philanthropist with his mind geared toward the murder of the soon-to-be-born Second Coming and eventual global dominance by the forces of evil.

All of this must sound great to the fans of the previous films' blood and guts melodrama. However, "The Final Conflict" gets bogged down all too often in its contrived subplots and a stop-and-go dramatic pace set by director Graham Baker. We're also treated again to that familiar offensive soundtrack.

A Film Review

The Final Conflict, starring Sam Neill and Rossano Brazzi, directed by Graham Baker, Saluki Theater, Reviewer's Rating: 2 stars (4 stars tops).

an "Omen" staple, dominated by the choral chants of what sounds like a group of Mormon Tabernacle Choir rejects who've just had a bad chili dinner.

The story is unbelievably loaded with unrelated action which is supposed to mesh as the curtain falls, but never really does. Check out some of the "action" which goes on in this film:

—In the movie's lone effective scene, Thorn takes over his dad's old job of ambassador to Great Britain by having his big black dog put the present ambassador into a trance which leads to blowing his brains out at the beginning of a press conference.

A group of astronomers predict the Second Coming as three stars collide while some "heavenly music" left over from "The Ten Commandments" plays in the background.

Italian actor Rossano Brazzi leads a group of aggressively pious priests on a mission to kill Thorn with seven sacred daggers, but they keep getting killed or killing each other—a true bunch of bumblers.

Two exhibits open at Faner museum

Two new exhibits will open at the University Museum in Faner Hall Sunday.

"Adelaide Hanscom Leeson, Pictorialist Photographer 1876-1932" is an exhibition of photographs, rare books and paintings. Leeson, a member of the Photo Secessionist Society led by Alfred Steiglitz, drew or painted on dry glass plate negatives in trying to create a new visual effect.

"Mapping America" is an exhibit of more than 30 maps dating from 1584 to 1840 which reflect developing ideas about geography during that period. Also included in the exhibit are 18th Century household items, Revolutionary War guns, Plains Indian artifacts and other historic items.

A public reception for the new exhibits will be held from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the museum. Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sundays. Admission is free.

Poplar Creek seeks help for summer

Poplar Creek Music Theatre in Hoffman Estates is hiring between 500 and 750 people for summer work. Applications can be picked up at the Career Planning and Placement office in Woody Hall B-204.

Michael Smierling, house manager for Poplar Creek, said positions including telephone operators, ushers, security personnel, maintenance workers, parking attendants and box office workers are available.

Smierling said applicants should send their applications as soon as possible. An interview with each applicant will then be arranged.

Work hours for these jobs vary between 20 and 40 hours a week, depending on the job a person is hired for, and pay will be minimum wage, according to Smierling.

Poplar Creek is located at 4777 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates, Ill. 60195.

MIND AS HEALER MIND AS SLAYER

A LECTURE BY BESTSELLING AUTHOR DR. KENNETH PELLETIER, PH.D.

—Can the mind really affect the body and the body affect the mind? Can we learn mastery over the body through systematically training the mind? What is stress and what role does it play in our health and illness? How can techniques like biofeedback and meditation be used to help alleviate daily stress? Dr. Kenneth Pelletier, internationally known expert on holistic health will address these questions and more. Come join us.

What makes our flame-broiled 1/4 pound Double Cheeseburger so great?

Lots of zesty cabbage and tangy mustard

A big, toasted four-inch sesame seed bun

Two four-ounce squares of tangy cheese

Two crunchy slices of pickles

Two flame-broiled top round meat patties, one of them 100% pure beef

That's the meat, that's the cheese, that's what you get when you order the big Double Cheeseburger. See into it. Enjoy the blend of flavors, the meat juices and the tangy taste of cheese with a secondary flavor. This is the cheese-lover's cheeseburger, and it's yours at Burger King. Come and get it!

Board to consider keeping $10 fee
to fund athletics

By Randy Rogaski
Staff Writer

A vote on retaining the temporary $10 athletics fee is scheduled for a meeting of the Board of Trustees Thursday in Edwardsville.

Continuation of the temporary fee would mean that students would pay a fee of $30 per semester for at least one more year. A student referendum expected in the fall will help President Albert Somit decide whether the current level of fee should be continued longer than one year.

The temporary fee was initiated last June and must be approved by the board before June 1981 or it will be abolished. The fee was enacted to prevent a deficit in the athletics budget.

Somit has said that the fee, combined with slashes in the athletics program, is necessary to maintain a balanced athletics budget of $2.6 million for next year. Cuts will reduce the men's athletics budget by 14 percent.

Included in the budget cuts for men's athletics are a reduction of the number of football scholarships by 20, and cuts of $10,400 from publicity, $12,000 from training and $3,000 from student wages.

The pared budget provides for budget increases for women's athletics of $109,000, or 3 percent. However, cuts in store for women's athletics include a 33 percent reduction in publicity and slight reductions for track, badminton and volleyball.

Somit said he hopes to further reduce athletics costs in the future by dropping football from Division I-A to Division I-AA and by scheduling athletics contests with schools closer to Carbondale.

The board is also scheduled to vote on proposed improvements to two campus parking lots. The board will vote on $133,000 of resurfacing and restriping of the circular lot south of the Arena and on $283,000 of similar work on the gravel lot northeast of the new Law Building.

Improvements to both lots have been approved by the Illinois Board of Higher Education. Funding for the work would be provided from traffic and parking revenue.

-Campus Briefs-

The Laboratory Theater will present "An Evening of New Plays," two original one-act plays, at 8 p.m. Thursday through Sunday at the Laboratory Theater in the Communications Building. Memorial Hospital of Carbondale will present the third in a series of four lectures and discussions on prenatal and infant care at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the first floor conference room of the hospital, 404 W. Main. Attendance is limited to those couples who have registered for the entire series.

Bob "Doc" Spackman, former SIU-C athletic trainer, is now available for athletic injury consultation and advice 8 a.m.-4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Appointments can be made as much as a week in advance by calling 453-3020. The service is sponsored by the Student Wellness Resource Center and the Office of Intramural-Recreational Sports.

Henson signs contract, pursues Illini recruits

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Coach Lou Henson, who guided the University of Illinois basketball team to its first 20-victory regular season since 1908, has a new five-year contract.

Henson has completed six years at Illinois, and his 1980-81 team played in the NCAA tournament, finishing with a 21-8 record.

"We had the No. 2 year all-time from an attendance standpoint, and we are in a position to expand our television coverage, not only in the Chicago area, but in Rockford, the Quad Cities and Southern Illinois," said athletic director Neale Stoner.

Stoner announced Monday night at a basketball banquet that he was giving Henson a new contract.

Henson and his staff planned visits to at least three states in the next few days in hopes of signing at least four recruits.

George Montgomery of Chicago Corliss, a forward, already has announced he will attend Illinois. Other candidates include Effingham's 7-foot-2 center Uwe Blab; Jay Daniels, an all-state forward from Lake Worth, Fla.; and Anthony Welch, an all-state forward from Grand Rapids, Mich.

Welch, who just turned 17, is 6-foot-5 and weighs 175 pounds. He averaged 19.6 points and 14.6 rebounds a game his senior year.

"He has many of the same traits as Mark Smith," said Henson. "The comparison is good because Welch has excellent ball-handling skills, played some guard and is a good shooter with even better range than Mark."

Welch was expected to sign with Illinois Wednesday.

"He's healthy now and I'm hopeful that a more wide-open attack will make him that much more of a threat."

No.3 tailback Jeff Ware is also returning, but he may get some heat from Alonzo Bolden, a junior college transfer from Fort Scott Community College in Fort Scott, Kan.

Another offensive weapon who is returning is place-kicker Paul Molla, a senior given another year of eligibility by the MVC because he did not play enough his sophomore year. Plus, punter Tom Streigel is also returning.

Defensively, there will have to be some major rebuilding.

"We are going to be a little inexperienced on defense. We don't have a lot of starters back," Dempsey said.

Defensive end John Harper, a junior, is the only returning starter to the front four. Harper was the Salukis' leading tackler last year, and led the team with 13 quarterback sacks.

Bicycle races scheduled for this weekend

The SIU-Phoenix Cycling club will be hosting the third annual Central Section Intercollegiate Championships Sunday. The races will start at 2 p.m. on East Grand Avenue in front of the Student Recreation Center.

The championships will consist of a Men's intercollegiate 40-mile race and a women's intercollegiate 20-mile race. There will also be a five-mile intramural and citizen race beginning at 1 p.m.

The route will go west on Grand to Washington Street, north on Washington to Freeman Street, east on Freeman to Marion Street, south on Marion to the Recreation Center's north parking lot, east to the old water tower road, and back onto Grand.

Racers from colleges and universities throughout the Midwest will compete in the intercollegiate races. The SIU-Phoenix team is two-time defending champion.

record at 2-1. Her earned run average of 1.33 is the team's best. She has allowed 17 hits in 21 innings pitched, four earned runs, nine walks and two extra-base hits.

Sunny Clark has a record of 2-4 and an ERA of 2.06. In 40 and two-thirds innings, she has struck out 24, given up 34 hits, 12 earned runs and five extra-base hits. She has walked only two batters all season.

Sophomore Donna Dapson has a 1-3 record and an ERA of 2.10. She has pitched 30 innings and allowed 22 hits, four extra base hits, 10 walks and nine earned runs.

The Otahkians are a strong contrast to the Salukis. SEMO has questionable pitching strength while that is the Saluki strong suit. The Otahkians are a strong hitting team while the Salukis are struggling.

"They are a very strong Division II school," Brechtelsbauer said. "They don't have the pitching strength we have but they have a lot of long ball hitters who can break open a game at any time."

SEMO batted .290 as a team last season and compiled a record of 21-18.

Saluki hitters fail in clutch

By Scott Stahmer
Sports Editor

One statistic told the story of the SIU-C baseball team's 7-5 loss to Murray State Tuesday at Abe Martin Field. The Salukis left 14 men on base, an average of about a man and a half per inning.

"I don't think our pitching beat us," SIU-C Coach Itchy Jones said after watching his team drop to 14-8, while the Racers improved to 20-12. "It was our inability to hit with men on base."

The Salukis rapped 12 hits, but most of them didn't come in the clutch. SIU-C stranded two runners six times in the game, including the potential tying runs in the eighth.

Losing pitcher Dave Youngblood (0-1) probably could have sued his teammates for non-support. After relieving a struggling Tom Caulfield in the fourth with SIU-C trailing, 4-0, the 6-8 sophomore worked 3 2-3 scoreless innings until the eighth, when MSU scored the winning runs.

Behind 5-4, the Racers threatened when Lee Hutson walked and Carrel Boyd doubled to start the inning. David Scheer drove them in by cracking a single, and advanced to second when left fielder Mike Blumhorst booted the ball. After Paul Evans replaced Youngblood, Jeff Oakley singled in Scheer.

Jones still was pleased with Youngblood, who had pitched just three innings before Tuesday. He said the 240-pounder could see action in relief this weekend at Indiana State and might start in several weeks.

"Dave gave us a plus today when we really needed it," he said. "He did an excellent job for us. Youngblood is making a contribution."

The Salukis fell into an early hole when the Racers took advantage of three first-inning Caulfield walks and took a 3-0 lead. MSU added another in the fourth on a walk and Clay Boone's double.

SIU-C pulled to within 4-1 in the bottom of the fourth when Bobby Doerrier drove in Blumhorst with a single. Mike Mesh's single knocked in Dwayne Flowers and P.J. Schranz in the fifth to make it 4-3, and Doerrier tied it with a windblown solo homer, his first of the year, in the sixth.

The Salukis took their short-lived lead in the seventh, when Blumhorst scored on Joe Richardson's sacrifice fly. SIU-C had men on second and third in the eighth with two outs, but its bid to tie was thwarted when Mesh grounded out.

SIU-C had six stolen bases to bring its season total to 75. Mesh, who swiped three, hasn't been thrown out in 19 attempts.

The Salukis will play Southeast Missouri State at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Abe Martin Field.

Spring football is 'obscure,' but vital

By Greg Walsh
Staff Writer

Spring football. Although it's more obscure than Saluki baseball or track it serves a very valuable purpose according to football Coach Ray Dempsey.

"If we didn't have spring football the quality of football in August would be very low," said Dempsey, who is in his sixth year as head coach.

"It gives us a chance to work on fundamentals like stance and blocking assignments."

Monday, the Salukis had their first scrimmage, which lasted just over an hour.

Last Monday, a group of 100 gridders, including 40 walk-ons, started vying for eight defensive and six offensive positions. Prior to that all participated in a winter conditioning program involving weightlifting, running and later, agility drills.

College football teams are allowed 20 spring practices under NCAA rules. The Salukis will end their spring football season at the annual Maroon and White game May 2.

Dempsey will also be trying to overcome a dismal 3-8 1980 season, 1-5 in the Missouri Valley Conference. He has compiled a 28-27 record over his five years at SIU-C.

Dempsey feels with the loss of starting quarterback Gerald Carr the Salukis "should be more wide open and explosive this year. Our quarterbacks, Richard Johnson and Arthur (slingshot) Williams, can both pass, and we feel like our receivers are going to help us much more this year."

At this stage, Dempsey said, it looks like Williams is ahead of Johnson. Williams, a junior, was red-shirted last year so he would have two more years of eligibility.

Dempsey admitted he likes Williams' "rifle arm."

Johnson, a freshman, started as quarterback in two games for the Salukis last year. He completed 30 of 86 passes for a total of 400 yards, and was responsible for the Salukis only touchdown pass.

Both quarterbacks probably have a good chance of throwing more than the 177 total passes the Salukis attempted last year, as compared to 607 running plays. Dempsey is encouraged by sophomore split ends Javell Heggis, Marvin Hinton and Tony Adams.

One of the most important offensive returnees is No. 2 running back Walter Poole, a senior tailback. Last year Poole rushed for 552 yards and nine touchdowns.

Poole was injured in the sixth game of the season against Indiana State. Dempsey said

Painton qualifies for national meet

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

Even though the SIU-C women's gymnastics team failed to qualify for the 1981 Division I National Gymnastics Championship meet, Saluki co-captain Val Painton did qualify.

Painton, a two-time Illinois AIAW all-around titlist, was invited to compete in the national meet Friday and Saturday in Salt Lake City, Utah, on the basis of a 35.6 season average that ranked her eighth of 24 at-large all-around competitors.

Painton will be making her third consecutive appearance in the nationals. As a freshman in 1979, she was the only Saluki competing because an injury-laden SIU-C team declined a team bid. Painton competed only as a specialist in last year's national meet at Baton Rouge, La., because of an elbow injury.

Painton, a junior, said she wants to make a good showing because it is the last meet of the season.

"I want to make the finals in one or more events," she said. "I'll be competing in the afternoon so I need to throw some good scores together to stay in contention with the girls who'll perform in the evening sessions."

"I'd like to score anywhere from 9.25 to 9.4 in floor—my favorite event—and get around .36 points in all-around."

According to Saluki Coach Herb Vogel, in order for Painton to do well in the meet, she'll have to score in the 37-point range.

"Val has won all-around in most of our meets this year without putting four events together," Vogel added. "That tells you something about her potential. If she goes out and performs aggressively in Utah, she's capable of making All-American. Her best chance of making finals is in floor."

Painton said that it's a lot different competing as an individual, and added that she'll miss having the rest of the Saluki team behind her. This is the first time in SIU-C history that the Salukis have failed to receive a team bid to the national meet.

This season, Painton captured the Illinois AIAW all-around title with a career high score of 36.00. She also won first place on the uneven parallel bars at the state meet with a 9.10 score.

But floor exercise has been Painton's best event. She has broken the nine-point mark seven times this season to average 8.9 overall.

In 1979 at the national meet, Painton scored 32.45 to tie for 65th place among 90 all-arounders.

Struggling softball team gets second chance to beat SEMO

By Michelle Schwent

The SIU-C softball team will try to avenge a 5-2 weekend loss to Southeast Missouri State Wednesday when the Salukis travel to Cape Girardeau for a doubleheader against the Otahkians.

The Salukis lost three of four games in the Southwest Missouri Invitational over the weekend, which dropped their record to 6-8. SEMO knocked SIU-C out of the consolation bracket with the win.

Saluki Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said she was disappointed with the team's tournament play but she and the team are looking ahead to the doubleheader.

"In all honesty, it was disappointing," Brechtelsbauer said. "But the weekend is over and we are starting over again with the games against SEMO."

Three Salukis improved their batting averages but the rest of the team is still in a hitting slump. Brechtelsbauer said she was pleased with the hitting of Lisa Norman, Chris Brewer and Pat Stang but would have to be patient with the other players until the hitting comes around.

The team is batting .191 compared to .185 last week. The opposition is batting at a .240 clip against the Salukis and has out-hit them 85-67.

Individually, Brewer has a team-high batting average of .306. The freshman from Carbondale has 11 RBI. Stang is batting .293, has eight RBI, has scored nine runs and has 12 hits. She also leads in extra-base hits with three home runs and one triple. Norman is batting .270, has a team-high 13 hits and has three home runs. In eight at-bats, designated hitter Debbie Duncan is batting .250.

Freshman Dawn Michel is the only pitcher with a winning
