Liquor commission approves two licenses

The Liquor Control Commission approved two Class A liquor licenses Monday—one for Italian Village and one for a yet-to-be-named bar at the previous TJ's Waterloo Hole location.

R.M. and Dona Bridges, owners of Italian Village, 405 S. Washington, plan to install a lounge, eating area, and bar on the present eating area that could be open in about two months.

Health for all goal slowed, experts say

By Elizabeth Cochran  Staff Writer

Many obstacles must be overcome before the World Health Organization's goal of "health for all by the year 2000" is reached, experts say.

Several University of Evansville and Rupp-Kidd, D. III., suggested steps to reach the goal at the World Health Day panel discussion Monday in the Student Center. It was SUC-U's first participation in the day that has been celebrated worldwide for 36 years. Other events included the largest aerobics session, international meetings, and an international bowling tournament.

The panelists discussed topics directly related to word health including economic problems, nutrition, conflict, cultural values, cigarettes, smoking, prenatal care and health-related politics.

Roger Beck, professor in sociology, focused on food production and distribution problems in the world, "health for all." He says "our remedies are not ready made for all." He emphasized that the United States is part of an international system and that other economic conditions affect those of the United States.

He is worried that people think hunger problems are short-term when they are actually long-term and complex. He said the wave of "foodmdics only fill a minute part" of the need for food.

He suggested that incentive programs be implemented to focus everyone on the goal of producing food. He said the United States and other countries to combat hunger.

Leila Saldanha, professor in food and nutrition, spoke about the nutritional aspects of the goal. She said many U.S. health problems, such as obesity and cardiovascular diseases, are related to the Western diet. Most diseases in developing countries result from malnutrition and infections.

The student trustee's influence on the Board of Trustees depends upon the number of students who speak out on issues facing the board, said Ed Lance, the unopposed candidate for the position.

Lance, Undergraduate Student Organization East Side senator, said more students are needed to speak out on issues such as rising tuition costs, cuts in financial aid and low those issues affect them personally.

Commissioneer Patrick Kelley said Vance appeared to be familiar with the underdog candidate for the position that once plagued the location, and was aware of the commission's concerns in that area.

Vance said he plans to open a "sit and eat" establishment that would have an older clientele; graduate assistants, professors and people from the community—as opposed to the undergraduate patrons of many bars on the Strip.

Folk music, backgammon boards, and chess tables will be available at the establishment, he said, although rock music is not out of the question in the large bar.

The beer garden and small bar may open about May 1, but the larger bar still needs remodeling work, he said.

The two bars are accessible through a doorway, but Vance plans to seal it and operate the bars separately.

The lounge will be staffed with a bartender and a waitress and patrons could order food and drinks from the lounge.

JAI, Limited, headed by D.A. Vance, was granted a license for the previous TJ's location, 313 S. Illinois.

The highest-security federal prison in the nation, Marion Federal Penitentiary, will have a new warden in June.

Jerry P. Williford, warden at Carbondale since April 1984 and former part-time instructor in administration of justice, learned Monday that he has been accepted as director of the Federal Bureau of Prison's Western region.

In his new job, Williford said the executive assistant for the bureau's assistant warden, George F. Wilson. Williford will serve the administration of nine institutions operated by the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

Williford taught a course last fall on the federal correctional health system.

The level of responsibility will increase somewhat for Williford, 43, in his new job, said the executive assistant for the bureau's assistant warden, George F. Wilson. Williford will serve the administration of nine institutions operated by the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

But Williford said the new job, probably will be less intense than his current position. Marion house the worst of the worst prisoners in the federal system, Williford said. Marion holds about 36 inmates, out of about 39,000 federal prisoners nationwide. The prison has been under lockdown since two guards were murdered by inmates in 1982.

Williford is among a number of former wardens named in a lawsuit filed by inmates charging that the state prison have beaten inmates in that the lockdown is inhumane. A preliminary hearing on the lawsuit is now pending a ruling by a federal magistrate.

Improving the morale of the staff is one of his most memorable accomplishments at Marion, Williford. When the staff can operate comfortably, not fearful or insecure around the inmates, everyone benefits, he said. The staff can establish better relations with the inmates, who then gain more from more personal support and from the staff.

Wilson said one of Williford's best assets was his commitment to restore a good image of wardens. Williford has dispelled the image of the

The Red Cross collected 334 units of blood Monday as part of a weekend blood drive in the Student Center Ballroom D. Vivian Ugant, blood drive coordinator for Southern Illinois, Monday, said.

She said the blood drive coordinators, who hope to collect 5,000 units of blood are "looking for more people and better things" during this week's drive and hope to set another blood collection record.

The drive was held in November collected more than 3,479 units of blood at the SHUC, which is a peace time blood drive donation record.

Ugant added that 251 people donated blood at the drive.

The blood drive will be held from 10-30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. through Friday.

Libya suspected in killing despite lack of evidence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has suspicions but no specific evidence that Libya ordered a weekend bombing that killed an American soldier in West Berlin, the State Department said Monday. The State Department also renewed charges that the Soviet Union has given "indirect support" for terrorism, but said it has no evidence of any direct planning or orchestrating by the Soviets of any terrorist acts.

Israeli warplanes strike Palestinian targets

MIYEH MIYEH, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli warplanes Monday bombed and destroyed several bases used by Palestinian guerrillas near the southern port of Sidon, killing at least two people and injuring eight others, without any immediate Israeli casualties.

The raids came one day after 100 Lebanese Red Cross workers staged a nationwide 24-hour strike to protest the kidnapping of five of their colleagues. It was the first such action by the group since its founding 41 years ago.

Reagan signs $18 billion deficit-reduction bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan signed an $18 billion grab-bag deficit-reduction bill Monday that continues the 16-cent-a-pack cigarette tax, releases income to states from offshore oil leases and slightly increases Medicare payments to hospitals. The new law also requires states to lift their drinking age to 21 to qualify for federal benefits.

John Gavin, U.S. ambassador, resigns

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador John Gavin, the former film actor whose appointment by President Reagan stirred heated controversy, said Monday he is resigning to return to private life. The surprise announcement came five years after Gavin — known for his role in the anti-war movement, done without comment, brought to an end more than four months of congressional and administration wrangling over the bill.

Eastwood says his campaign is looking good

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Clint Eastwood said Monday things were looking good for him as he wound up his campaign for mayor of Carmel, an idyllic village on the scenic California coast. Most of Carmel's 4,124 registered voters are expected to go to the polls in a local election Tuesday to choose between incumbent Mayor Charlotte Townsend and challenger Eastwood. Both candidates tried Monday to fight off a circus atmosphere on the village election that brought television crews from as far as Japan, Italy and Great Britain.

Comet probe begins 28-year trip home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American space probe that made history by flying through the tail of a comet last September was maneuvered Monday onto a path that should bring it back into orbit around Earth in 28 years. Robert Farquhar, flight director for the International Cometary Explorer, said a series of rocket firings put the four-ton spacecraft on a course in its orbit around the sun that should send it whipping around the moon on Aug. 10, 2014.

Former Scientologist sues for $25 million

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A former Scientologist suing the church for $25 million testified Monday that his introductory training in the group was as mind-bending as taking narcotics. Bush ends trip without oil pricing agreement

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Vice President George Bush ended a visit to Saudi Arabia Monday without an agreement on oil pricing strategy and declared the Reagan administration would not dictate to other countries "what the price of oil should be." Bush, asserting "no change in administration policy," espoused free-market principles as he wound up his Saudi Arabia visit and flew to the Persian Gulf capital of Manama for the third stop on a four-nation tour of the Arabian Peninsula.
U.S. aid would win war in 18 months, Contra says

By William Walker

If the United States would give $50 million to the Contra "freedom fighters" in the southern part of Nicaragua, the Sandinistas would "faucet" defeated within 18 months, says Laidni Star, a former Nicaraguan track star turned Contra rebel.

"If we receive $50 million within 18 months we will win," said Teller, who was in southern Illinois recently to drum up support for U.S. aid to the Contra forces trying to overthrow the Marxist Sandinista government.

The problem so far, he said, has been that U.S. assistance has gone to the Fuerza Democrática Nicaragüense (FDN) or Nicaraguan Democratic Force, in the northern part of the country, instead of to the Democratic Revolutionary Alliance led by Teller, who is still considered a national hero.

Pastora has a great deal of popular support, Teller explained, and if he had the means to provide more and better weapons, he could get many Nicaraguans, including Sandinista soldiers, to join the Contras.

But without money, Pastora, who led the Sandinista party in the fight to overthrow the Somorza regime in 1979, is unable to attract enough support, especially from Sandinistas afraid to defect without more assurances of success.

The result, he said, is too few troops to fight with the World War II vintage weapons against a modern, Soviet-equipped Nicaraguan army.

Teller's statement was made from the offices of the Sandinistaantu in southern Illinois Thursday with Marion City, Illinois, as the Board District race in November.

"All we are asking for is that you give us the money, you give us the means, so your children do not have to fight tomorrow," Teller said. "If they (the Soviets and Cubans) consolidate power in Nicaragua, do you think they will come to us?" They didn't come to Nicaragua because we are rich.

Teller's statement echo those of Reagan, who has warned of "sea of red" lapping at U.S. borders if the Sandinistas are not overthrown.

Critics argue, however, that all diplomatic solutions should be exhausted before any aid is given, and they point to the fact that other Central American countries have asked the United States to pull back its support for the Contadora peace process instead of sending aid to the Contras.

But Teller said the neighboring countries need to tell the United States not to see CONTRA, Page 16

City can-ban recommendation expected

The Liquor Advisory Board is expected to decide whether to recommend a can-ban on the Strip during Halloween weekend at a special meeting, at 7 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall.

The board delayed action on the subject at last week's meeting after two bar owners told the board that it would cause more problems than it would solve.

Doug Dingee, owner of Old Town Tavern, and Steve Hoffman, owner of AR Liquor Mart, said the creation of existing laws would be better than the ban.

However, the board is concerned because several people were injured last year when they were hit by thrown beer cans.

Several board members said they had not decided whether they favored the ban at last week's meeting. The board's decision is set to go before the Local Liquor Control Commission before the end of the month.

He said direct intervention will work because the Sandinistas are not stopped, because the Soviets and Cubans, who support the Sandinistas, have long-term plans to reduce the U.S. by exporting revolution beyond Nicaraguan borders.

"All we are asking for is that you give us the money, you give us the means, so your children do not have to fight tomorrow," Teller said. "If they (the Soviets and Cubans) consolidate power in Nicaragua, do you think they will come to us?" They didn't come to Nicaragua because we are rich.

Teller's statement echo those of Reagan, who has warned of "sea of red" lapping at U.S. borders if the Sandinistas are not overthrown.

Book bills belong on bursar balance

Whoa. Stop right there. If USO President-Elect Phil Lyous has his way, not having enough ready money for textbooks could be a problem no more.

The solution is to place the bill for textbooks on the bursar's statement. A simple and effective solution. And that goes for all students, just to eliminate any possible confusion over who is privileged enough to have their book purchases placed on that list!

LET'S NOT HAVE ANY special stipulations that allow only certain students; to have book purchases make it a standard practice that all textbook purchases from the University Bookstore be placed on the bursar's statement.

Now, none of this means仙女 financial aid. It amounts to a constant shuffle through Woody Hall. If only certain people are to receive determinants for how few they have probably have to go through some sort of financial aid hassle at Woody Hall. What the following would probably be asked: "Are you registered for this semester?" "Have they added an ACT requirement?" "What grants will you be receiving, and for how much?"

THESE QUESTIONS would probably be followed by the usual amount of paperwork. To avoid the whole confusing process, let just everyone buy books on the standard SUIC credit plan.

Think about it. You can charge medicine tuition. You are billed for parking tickets. Why not books? They are important and don't depend on the bursar's Office, so it seems only natural to change textbook procedures as well.

We don't need the usual administration dodge on this issue, either. The Bursar's Office is completely computerized, so there wouldn't be that much about more paperwork. It is doubtful that, if any, additional employees would have to be hired, so there goes the "It's too expensive" excuse.

THE ARGUMENT THAT OFF-CAMPUS bookstores didn't charge books to the bursar's statement is not a valid one either. Students with ready cash could still buy their texts there, while the University helps those who need books but can't readily afford them obtain their texts at the campus bookstore.

The bottom line is that there is a need for this service. Not all students can afford to buy books at the beginning of the semester, usually because their financial aid money is being held for two or three weeks so the University can decide if they are indeed going to attend school. It is easy to fall behind in classes because you are too broke to afford books.

Take book administration. Mr. Lyons has a good idea, one that will serve the students well.

Phoenix Party prejudiced?

While campaigning for the Trojan Party I was told by several black people that they were going to vote for the Trojan Party. Why? They were told that the Trojan Party was known to be prejudiced and was against the Black Affairs Council. They were a member of the USO for the past 21 years.

In this time I have become friends with the candidates from the Phoenix Party. I would like to developed a workable friendship with candidates from the Phoenix Party. However, they would not speak to me until two weeks ago when they began their campaign. Why? They do not speak to black people until they need something from them. They are the prejudiced ones.

Blood drive record set

I'm writing this note as a representative of the blood drive committee but as a student. For the last several years, the student blood drive has been most successful in the nation. After last semester's very successful drive, the Red Cross had the potential to set a world record.

After much thought on the part of those on the steering committee, we decided this was the time to make a Blood Drive record at the record. From the beginning we were aware of the potential for the weather to be nice and therefore encourage people from giving donate blood. We also knew that there would be an increase in community support if we were going to break the record. Yesterday we collected just over 300 pints of blood. Sunday we received only 25 donations. While this blood was collected over 3,000 pints being used up in this area. As you can tell, this is not a very good ratio. With the increase in open heart surgeries, the many frequent attempts at transplant operations, and the everyday growing demand on the blood supply, it is obvious that sooner or later a shortage like that which occurred last semester will happen.

Why pick on field hockey team?

The eliminations of the women's gymnastic program was indeed a tragedy, and as a member of the field hockey squad, it hit home in a much more personal manner. However, I was somewhat surprised by several of the responses to the (Sport Section) 26 questioning why field hockey was chosen, and even angered by the ignorance of a statement printed in the paper which implied that field hockey should not be played by women anyway (March 27).

After thinking about this for awhile, I began to recognize the senselessness of the situation. I began to see it as defeating its own cause. Field hockey is growing in popularity in this country, as displayed by the bronze medal performance in the Olympics, and the very existence of women's squad in the 1984 Olympics.

The sport originated in 1902 under the influence of Connecticut Agricultural College students in the only sport in this country governed by an organization (the United States Field Hockey Association) which is run solely by and for women.

By no means are women discriminated against when it comes to field hockey. It is a rather the men who fall into this category, as they have been too well-known for taking away from the finances and enervation which gives the game its beauty.

What astounded me even more about the articles that was that there was no unity that I have always found to be one of the most admirable qualities about the Women's Intercollegiate Athletics program here at SU!.

I want to see this as a whole organization, not as 11 separate teams. Charlotte West has undoubtedly displayed her abilities as a coach in 21 seasons over the past 30 years, and I have more than enough confidence in her abilities to know that any cuts that she may have to do as simply are not needed. It is a great deal of consideration, out of necessity, and strictly for the betterment of the women's sports program as a whole.

The decision for an exclusion was certainly not a contest, and by no means should it be served to eliminate any of the remaining 10 teams. The determinations of the gymnastics team is unfortunate and on behalf of the twenty-four-year-old hockey squad, I would like to offer my sympathy to all the athletes and the gymnasts. Yet at the same time, I would hope that the public does not cause this to become the main emphasis for the athletic program.

In addition to economic and nutritional problems, cultural problems also arise in the process of reaching the goal. Robert Rush, health education professor, says Westerners must respect other cultures' perceptions of health and avoid inflicting their ideas on them.

He says the Western culture is supreme at defining personal health, but must realize that other cultures might not see things the same as problems.

Westerners define health problems in medical terms with causes that can be changed. Therefore they think they can do away with all diseases, he said. Some cultures see health in terms of "fate, spiritual retribution on God's will." He emphasized that they are not "dumb or illogical" but they just see things differently.

LaRouche critics fear reprisal from politician's "cult" following

LEE SBURG, Va. (UPI) — Pauline Girvin, once an outspoken critic of Lyndon B. Johnson's Vietnam policy, said at a recent news conference that she had been "safeguarded" by many commercial effects such as skin cancer, a biochemist, without burning. May still any propaganda new study shows indoor tanning de vic es that emit Green peace.

"How dare you criticize Lyndon Johnson," she asked: "Do you feel safe?"

Although LaRouche has warned that such protective effects are often cited by politicians to counteract his efforts to close down the global nuclear arms race, a new study shows that indoor tanning devices emit much higher levels of ultraviolet light than necessary for a suntan.

For example, a test of a typical indoor tanning booth showed that it emitted 10,000 times more ultraviolet light than the sun does at midday. This level of exposure is known to cause skin cancer and other health problems.

"We are concerned about the health effects of indoor tanning," said Dr. Michael J. Zeiger, a dermatologist at the University of California, San Francisco. "There is overwhelming evidence that excessive ultraviolet radiation is a major risk factor for skin cancer.

"We urge all consumers to avoid indoor tanning booths," he said. "The risks outweigh any potential benefits."

The study was conducted by a team of researchers from the University of California, San Francisco, and was published in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The dinner will be held in the Student Center Old Main Room, and tickets are $15 per person. For more information, please contact the Student Government Association.

Scientist warns of tanning booth danger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new study shows indoor tanning can be dangerous, killing ultraviolet A light, advertised as a safe way to tan without burning, still has dangerous long-term effects on skin, a government scientist said Monday.

"When they first came on the market they were assumed to be safe primarily because they were marketed as 'UV-free'," said Dr. C. David Lytle, a Food and Drug Administration biophysicist, said the study suggests the UV radiation emitted by many indoor tanning booths and beds can cause mutations in animal cells, and may develop in the future.

"It is a question of whether these mutations are dangerous," Lytle said of UV, tanning devices.

"We have said that even the lowest wavelength of UV has the potential to cause cancer," he said.

The longest wavelength of ultraviolet radiation, UV-A, is invisible to the human eye. Ultraviolet A is slightly shorter in wavelength than UV-B and UV-C. UV-C is emitted by many older model tanning booths, while UV-A penetrates only the surface of the skin.

Skin cancer is mostly UV-A, radiation, and sunburn, the burning of the surface of the skin, is not caused by the percentage that is UV-B, UV-A is the primary cause of sunburn, but more dangerous because it is believed to damage deeper-lying cells.

Damage is believed to be cumulative — the more exposure, the more damage. A person who gets one sunburn a year and then extends it for three months of exposure will have a 50% risk of developing skin cancer in their lifetime, the study said.

"We need to test in less important than our need to stop the other side from testing," said Lytle. "We can't expect the world to exercise restraint if we don't."

The Union of Concerned Scientists also was concerned about the pendulum.

"The Reagan administration, in an interest in arms control," said President Ronald Reagan. "The simple truth is that tests can undermine our weapons, not less.

The last U.S. underground nuclear test was conducted March 2, 1969.

"When the United States stepped up testing," said Lytle, "the world announced that the United States planned to expand a 2.3-kiloton bomb.

The Soviet press criticized the announcement, saying it was going ahead with the test."

"The news agency, saying Moscow's U.S. nuclear explosion serves as a "mirror" for the United States, said American policy in arms limitations and reduction appears in its true colors without any propaganda embellishments."

Kids’ dirty fingers to help thwart abductions

By John Tindall
Staff Writer

Smearing hands with black ink and stamping them on clean white paper may sound like fun to kids and a nightmare to parents, but the University Mall and the Carbondale Police Department are providing such an opportunity this week during the Kids Identification Sign-up campaign.

Volunteers began setting up stands in 2,800 shopping malls across the United States and Canada Monday to begin Child Safety Week. The campaign, sponsored by the International Council of Shopping Centers, is an effort to fingerprint 10 million children to assist police in identifying children in kidnapping and runaway cases.

CARBONDALE POLICE officers are staffing a literature table and a video-taping and playback center at the mall and fingerprinting children of all ages from noon to 5 p.m. through Friday.

Police fingerprint children without charge. The prints are put on 8-by-8 inch cardboard, the size recommended by the FBI. Children under three have their palms printed. The prints are given to parents for safekeeping, along with tips on child safety.

A TELEVISION monitor and video player are provided so children and their parents can watch one of three videos, which give children suggestions on home safety, what to do if separated from their parents in shopping centers and one starring Henry “the Fonz” Winkler, on how to deal with strangers.

Art Wright of the Carbondale Police Department said kidnapping is not a problem in Carbondale, but that the fingerprints would be of considerable help in locating and identifying runaways.

IN THE CASE of runaways, the parents could contact Carbondale police, who would enter the child’s name into an interstate computer network. If the child is picked up in another state and the name were entered into the computer, it would kick-back the name with a notice to contact authorities in Carbondale. The fingerprints would then be sent to the agency holding the child and a positive identification could be made.

IN OTHER CASES, Wright said, if children are abducted when they are small, the prints could be used to identify them if they were found several years later.

Don Strom of the Carbondale Police Department said it wouldn’t be a bad idea for everyone to have a set of fingerprints on file somewhere, in case of an emergency in which a person might have to be positively identified.

Susan Pellerite, marketing director for University Mall, said the program was mainly a community service project on the part of the mall, in cooperation with a declaration by Governor James Thompson proclaiming April 7-12 Child Safety Week in Illinois.

“As much as we hate to say it,” Pellerite said, “kids sometimes get lost in shopping malls, and we’re trying to help out as much as we can in finding lost children.”

Local groups set picnic to benefit ecology safety

A pot-luck picnic to benefit conservation and toxic waste control will be held from 3 to 10 p.m. April 27 at the Giant Eysamore Shelter at Evergreen Park.

Dinner is slated for 6 p.m. A minimum donation of $5 per person is requested and children under 12 are admitted for $2.50. Country, bluegrass, blues and folk music will be performed by the group Aztous.

An auction of donated goods from local merchants will be held. Volleyball, badminton, horseshoes, touch football and softball games will round out the day’s events.

The picnic is sponsored by a coalition of local environmental groups, including the Sierra Club, Illinois Native Plant Society and Illinois South. Proceeds will go to benefit the Illinois Environmental Council, a group which voices conservation issues at the state capitol.

Amnesia linked to brain ridge

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI) — Amnesia appears to be caused by damage to a small curved ridge in the brain, a discovery that could lead to medication to prevent memory loss, a group of research scientists said.

Researchers at the Veterans Administration Hospital in La Jolla based their conclusion on a two and one-half-year study of the brain in 1985 after suffering from amnesia for five years.

“the heart of Southern Illinois”

Record Setting Blood Drive

Today-Friday, Student Center 10:30am-4:30pm

The need for blood in this region has increased dangerously this past year. The Red Cross has again urged this community to meet this ever increasing demand on its blood supply. Join this united University and Carbondale community effort to collect 5,000 pints of blood and establish a new world record. Together we can prove that this truly is the Heart of Southern Illinois.

Van Halen tones down comedy on latest wax offering, ‘5150’

By Ken Seaber

With Sammy Hagar as their new lead singer, members of the Van Halen have said that they hope their Southern California-based heavy metal foursome will be less of a comedy act and more of a band.

Van Halen’s hope has come true. With the release of their seventh album, “5150,” Van Halen’s wish comes true. Their seventh album, “1980,” is returning the group to the chart, and it’s the strongest effort since 1980’s “Women and Children First.” “5150,” police code for “criminality insane,” is the name of guitarist Eddie Van Halen’s studio where the album was recorded. Produced by Van Halen, former guitarist Mick Jones, and with the help of Van Halen engineer Don Landee, the album is aptly titled, providing 10 brutally raw-energy heavy metal. Van Halen is more musically minded and technically polished than most of today’s party-animal groups.

NOW THAT Van Halen is rid of David Lee Roth, possibly the most obnoxious lead singer in the history of rock ‘n’ roll, the energy level of the group is at a new high. Drummer Alex Van Halen whips himself into a frenzy in “Get Up,” a break-neck rocker that is easily one of the strongest tracks on the album. And guitarist Eddie Van Halen’s easily identifiable “brown sound” is in rare form. Although the group could have used the talents of bassist Michael Anthony to better advantage, the album is technically good and is more music conscious than most of Van Halen’s past efforts.

A few tracks on the album, most notably “Dreams” and the single “Why Can’t This Be Love,” are written with Top 40 radio in mind. The tracks are heavily layered with synthesizers and sound more like Hagar’s earlier material. But for the most part, the songs on “5150” mark a return to the Technicolor circus that brought Van Halen an audience of teeming millions on its 1980 debut album, “Van Halen I.”

THE ALBUM’s opening track, “Good Enough,” sets the tone for the rest of the record. Eddie Van Halen’s patented guitar attack blasts out with gut-wrenching power chords more typical of his older style and the lyrics are guaranteed to offend most of civilized society. This is rock ‘n’ roll music that makes your ears bleed, and it should be cranked up loud enough to rip the upholstery off the living room couch and peel the paint off the walls.

Singer and guitarist Sammy Hagar, left, and guitarist Eddie Van Halen announce that Hagar will join the rock group Van Halen, replacing lead singer Dave Lee Roth. They made the announcement at the Farm Aid benefit concert on Sept. 22.

Album Review

Of course, Van Halen has never been known for deep, meaningful lyrics, and thankfully this album does nothing to change that image. If you want profound lyrics that make meaningful social statements, listen to Bob Dylan or Pink Floyd. When it comes to music that is designed for fun and games, Van Halen is still one of the best.

THE ONLY real losers on the album are the title track and “Love Walks In.” The title track goes nowhere, with contrived lyrics of a bitter love affair adding nothing to the genre of songs dealing with love gone wrong. “Love Walks In” has just enough sentimentality to make it a strong track. Van Halen is at its best when doing the songs the group is known for — songs about partying, sex and having fun.

Sammy Hagar fans also will not be disappointed with his performance as a member of Van Halen. He puts in an impressive debut performance as new lead screamer, making it clear that the name of the game is having fun. His rough vocals reach out and command attention. Atrocious as all the canard of a whiskey-swigging madman. He makes no attempt at being serious, and everything he has ever done has been tongue-in-cheek. “5150” is no exception.

BUT IN the end, Eddie Van Halen’s guitar wizardry and Alex Van Halen’s powerhouse drumming make the album worthwhile. It’s obvious the band members are enjoying themselves more now than they have in a long while. They know who their audience is, and they do a good job of getting their fans to join in the carnage.

Van Halen’s April 26 appearance at the SIU Arena will be a fitting way to end Springfest ’86. Let’s hope Carbondale can survive the attack.

Gunman, hostage killed in seige

EULESS, Texas (UPI) — Tactical officers ended a 48-hour standoff by storming a food store and shooting to death an unemployed waiter, who had killed his ex-wife and wounded an officer, because they feared he might harm a second hostage, authorities said Monday.

The Tarrant County Medical Examiner’s Office Monday conducted autopsies on the bodies of the man and woman killed in the incident in a suburb between Fort Worth and Dallas, said Bill Fabian, a spokesman in the medical examiner’s office.

Marlon Mataele, 25, a native of the Pacific Island of Tonga, died in a rum gunfire after tactical officers from nearby Arlington blew open the lock door of the Kwik Pantry store Saturday night.

The body of his ex-wife, identified on her Texas driver’s license as Sandra T. Lobendahn, 26, of Euless, was found in a closet at the back of the store. The woman also had a Hawaiian license listing her name as Sandro T. Mataele.

Relatives said the couple had been divorced for six years and had four children.

Mataele flew to Texas Wednesday or Thursday and bought the gun and two boxes of ammunition Thursday, investigators said.

Mataele’s two brothers flew Saturday from Los Angeles to help negotiate with their brother. One brother, Joe Mataele, had entered the store against police wishes to talk to the gunman and was inside when police burst in but was not injured, said police Capt. Tommy Free.

Police decided to storm the building after they learned from the other brother, who had talked by telephone with the gunman, that the ex-wife had been killed and that Mataele was drinking beer while the woman was on duty.

Marcos defends lifestyle, says opponents spread lies

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Deposed Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos explained in an interview broadcast Monday his wife, Imelda, never lives in his estate in Switzerland and that what is Filipinos found so contradictory is reported 3,000 pair., at the presidential palace.

In the course, Marcos said in an interview on ABC's "Good Morning America," Monday that a couple fled an uprising by the following opposition leader Corazon Aquino.

The interview, conducted on Honolulu Sunday, Marcos also said he planned to return to the Malacanang Palace and fight when he and his family were airlifted by U.S. helicopters to Clark Air Base; he did not believe President Reagan knew about a threat to use American Marines on the Marcos family over desde as "a monstrous lie" that he had billions of dollars in Swiss banks.

At the same time, Marcos said the Shah of Iran's Emir, Farah Diba, told the Marcosses she had been unable to get any of the shaft's money deposited in Switzerland and that the Shah's government prevented her from taking her money.

Asked by interviewer David Hartman about the Marcosses' lavish lifestyle, including the reported 3,000 shoes and the billions supposedly deposited in foreign banks, Marcos accused the "people of Cory Aquino," the new Philippines president, of planting the information as a deceptive foreign correspondents.

The ex-president suggested that 10,000 correspondents call on Marcos. "I can tell you this. Everyone a new model came out, by any shoemaker who was foreign or not, a pair or two was given to the first lady. ... She doesn't throw anything away. "In fact, there is a standard joke in the family. Probably we should go into selling second-hand shoes," Marcos said laughingly.

Asked how much he regretted the way they had lived, Marcos said, "It is a matter of style that gets rubbed off on you by the people you deal with. I don't think our people blame her (Imelda) for looking beautiful "in an international conference," Marcos said. "Even before the elections, they tried to destroy us by creating foreign correspondents," Marcos said. "And you picked it up, tidy American foreign media. You never give us a chance to explain."

Marcos, 68, looked fit and handled questions with ease, brushing aside some critical queries with "Oh, come on, Americans". "Marcos said Imelda Marcos is "having a spirit of the Aquino's," adding with their exile. "She has been crying all the time," he said. "She is extremely depressed."

As to the charges that he has sailed away billions of dollars in real estate and in foreign banks, Marcos said he intended to fight the court cases, and "...I know I will be vindicated."
Oil prices up over a $1 a barrel as strike reduces production

By United Press International

Oil prices soared by more than $1 a barrel today as a strike in Norway's North Sea oil fields removed almost 1 million barrels a day from the glutted world market and Vice President George Bush sounded an uninvited checkpoint into Saudi Arabia.

Analysts said the strike by kitchen workers on Norway's offshore oil rigs began Sunday would bolster prices — at least temporarily by shutting down all 960,000 barrels a day of North Sea oil.

But observers were divided over whether the strike represented a backdoor accommodation on the part of the Oslo government with OPEC, which has driven down prices more than 50 percent since November by flooding the market in a campaign targeted at forcing Britain and Norway to curb their output.

In Disnaro, Bush ended his visit to Saudi Arabia, OPEC's principal producer, by saying the world could not dictate to the kingdom or other countries "what the price of oil should be."

Bush said he had not found "any common solution" in talks with King Faisal and senior Saudi officials on ways to end the oil price collapse in part on the kingdom's overproduction.

"We don't have any plan for stabilizing prices," Bush said.

In the European market, Britain's benchmark Brent crude for April delivery surged by $1.35 to $14 a barrel as the North Sea oil strike entered its second day and Norwegian government officials said they had no immediate plans to intervene.

In London, for May rose $1.25 to $13.25 a barrel.

On the New York Mercantile Exchange, West Texas intermediate — the key U.S. crude for immediate delivery — jumped by $1.59 to $14.33 a barrel. Regular leaded gasoline jumped 3 cents to $1.82 a gallon.

Despite Monday's rally, Mobil Corp. cut the price it will pay for West Texas intermediate by 50 cents to $13.75 a barrel and Amoco Oil Co. dropped its buying price by 75 cents to $14.25 a barrel.

Domestic oil postings averaged $28 a barrel in December.

Pasteras' forces, which, unlike the FDIN, do not have the stigma of having former Somozan leaders in their ranks.

He admitted that some members in the FDIN are former leaders from the Somozan regime, although he said they were not involved in wrongdoing under that leadership.

Nevertheless, he said just the perception of possible wrongdoing confuses the Nicaraguan people and has made it impossible for the FDIN to garner enough popular support.

F-Senate to name review board

The Faculty Senate will nominate five members to the Undergraduate Review Oversight Committee at its meeting at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Student Center Illinois room.

Those expected to be nominated are: Kendall Adams, marketing professor; K.N. Coe, associate professor of English; Patricia Elmore, professor of educational psychology; David Koster, professor of chemistry and biochemistry; and Millie Van, art professor.

The committee was created to examine the effectiveness of the Undergraduate Education Studies program.

James Tweddy, SIU-C representative to the Faculty Advisory Committee of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, will give the committee's annual report.

William Coscarelli, associate professor of learning resources, will give a report on the changes in the instructor evaluation forms.

Coscarelli said there will be no changes in the content of the form but he would like to change the way information obtained through the forms is related to faculty members.

University Studies to move

By Kay Riesch
Student Writer

The University Studies degree program director, Marj Kilker, said she has been told that as of May 15 she will no longer hold that position and that the program will be relocated.

University Studies has been a part of General Academic Programs, now called Undergraduate Academic Services, under Kilker since 1979, and currently has an enrollment of 156 students. Plans are being made to place advisement for University Studies under Billie Jacobi, chief academic adviser for pre-major advisement.

Kilker said, "I'm not concerned with my position because I have other options, but I am concerned with the integrity of the program." She said University Studies has had one of the best retention rates on campus, running at over 80 percent, and that this year about 30 people will graduate from it.

Kilker said the director of Undergraduate Academic Services, Linda Lockhart, informed her of the decision to remove her from the directorship. The decision came from John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs, Kilker said.

Guyon said, "I know that the program is being restructured, and I know I have seen descriptions of the position to the new director will be, but I can't remember now." He said Lockhart had information on the changes.

Lockhart was not available for comment.

The SIU-C Handbook describes University Studies as an individualized education program for students seeking either a B.A. or a B.S. with a broad-based curriculum rather than a traditional specialization. The program was initiated to accommodate multi-disciplinary and non-traditional approaches to education.

Dan DeFosse, USO senator and a University Studies major, said, "What they are trying to do is get rid of the best and most knowledgeable adviser on campus." He added, "She treats adults like they should be treated: with respect."

Kilker began as director of University Studies under Vice President Frank Horlon. Now she is president of the University of Oklahoma. "I was given University Studies as a program to develop, and Horlon said I could make changes in the program with 100 majors and I'll show you an important program," Kilker said.

"Saluki men's tennis team with Memphis State Sunday afternoon at the Arena in the last of a three-match meet also against the MVC champion, Wichita State. Memphis State defeated the Salukis, 5-4, in one of SIU's closest matches of the season.

No. 1 singles player Per Wad, a redshirt senior, defeated freshman Jason Darr, 6-4, 6-1, in the first set of his singles match.

Wad, who has played on a sore ankle since mid-February, said, "I'm not sure. I need to talk to my coach Dick LeFever about it." Wadmark overtook MSU's Steve Martinez in the season opener for both clubs.

Lag, 6-4 and 7-6.

No. 1 singles player Lars Nilsson almost claimed victory, serving three match points at 6-3, 5-4 and 6-5 in the second set, but lost in three sets, 6-4, 6-7, 6-2.

Freshmen Jason Aldana, Fabiano Ribeiro, and Juan Martinez, Nos. 3, 5 and 6 singles, each won their matches in two sets after completing their doubles matches.

Singles matches are normally played before doubles at meets, but MSU coach Tommy Burod wanted to leave after either team scored five points, and LeFever wanted to experiment with some new doubles teams. So LeFever arranged to have doubles matches played first to assure his players a stab at doubles.

No. 2 singles player, Chris Visconi, teamed with Wadmark for No. 1 doubles to win the first set, 6-4. MSU's Lang served the second set, but lost, however, to take the next two sets, 6-4 and 6-1.

Ramos moved up to No. 2 doubles with Jason Aldana for another possibly successful doubles combination. They lost the first set, 6-3, but rallied in the second set before losing, 7-6.

After a month and a half on the injured list, Raul Olguin returned to the courts to play No. 3 doubles with Martinez.

OZZIE SMITH will be the Wizard of Oz with a lower back injury. Stealing home, he followed Tom Herr out of the box, and with Tommy Hottovy (Eddie) behind him, Smith might have a shot at $1.50 average. Tom Herr will squat so his eyes more often as he drags the ball. Willie "E.T." McGee will land back on Earth with a 3:5 average. The Mets' pitching looks great, but the team could have some trouble with their veterans.

Underachiever George Gibson leads Tigers to win over Boston

DELFTO (UPI) — Kirk Gibson hit two home runs and drove in five runs in a 4-4 tie for the Boston Red Sox over the Detroit Tigers in the first game of the 1986 American League season.

Dwight Evans hit the first pitch of the game to drive in the tying run, and six batters later, Tim Teufel hit a solo home run over the right field fence to take the lead back for the Tigers. Gibson then went up to the plate and hit a two-run home run over the center field fence to take the lead back for the Tigers.

Ronald Reagan threw out the first pitch of the season, and the Tigers went on to win the game 4-4.

Johnson was a wasteland at third.

Saluki men gymnasts forsee success in '87

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

James Preston Knauf and Jim Ulmer, the Saluki men's gymnastics team members who were named All-Americans in Saturday's NC Conference meet, agreed that the team showed promise and what the potential next year.

"We should be tough," said Knauf, "so we will have to work hard before he can give an opinion as to what SIUC will fare. Ulmer was named an All-American for his 9.55, sixth-place performance on the still rings. A main objective of Ulmer's is to raise his scores on parallel bars (8.95) and pommel horse (8.85) to within the 9.04 range. KNAUF, WHO scored a 9.555 on the vault for a third-place All-American honor, said that the two going into the meet, he did not give much thought to becoming an All-American. It was his concern focused on competing as a team member, Bill Meade. It also meant that he knew if he made it to individual competition, he would be an All-American.

Ulmer concurred that the Salukis went into competition to work as a team and that the overall final was more important. He pointed out that the team earned the championship with a higher score than its qualifying average of 272.90 by finishing sixth with a score of 278.00.

Also indicating Ulmer's influence in the competition was this: The Salukis were led by Bill Meade as an All-American and one of the five men's gymnasts cited Saluki coach Bill Meade as an influence in their success. Ulmer said that Meade instructed Ulmer's development and confidence in him and Knauf mentioned that Meade made him more consistent in his gymnastics.

Salukis look to get momentum in twinbill against Aces

By Ron Warnick
Staff Writer

The up-and-down baseball Salukis are looking to restore some self-confidence at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday when they play two against the Evansville Aces at Evansville, Ind.

"It all depends on whether our players want to play or not," coach Richard "Tichy" Jones said. "We're trying to get some momentum to develop a long winning streak, but we haven't been able to put together more than five wins in a row.

Likely starters in Tuesday's games are Gary Bockhorn (4-11) and Lee Meyer (1-2). The 11-18 Aces have battled inconsistency throughout the year and are a shadow of last year's 36-26 team that received a post-season Mid-Continental Conference bid.

However, unlike the Salukis, seven-year coach Jim Brownlee's team has been devastated by injuries to three starting pitchers in the rotation and in the third base position.

John Schulteis, who was 6-3 with a 4.45 earned run average in 1985, is out with a sore arm. Dave Winncott, who had a 2.36 ERA last year, has had chronic hand trouble. Chris Antoszek, 1-1 with 3.63 ERA in '85, also has had elbow trouble.

Three-sacker and four-year pitcher Mike Watson is out with a dislocated shoulder. He is second on Evansville's all-time hits list, and because of his sore-winged shoulder, Brownlee has been forced to use inexperienced freshmen and sophomores (throwers). The Aces' team ERA (7.80) is second highest in the league.

Sophomore Jim Burger Mitt's brother, has taken up some of the lost innings with a 6.53 ERA, but Junior Paul Lee has a 2-2 record with three saves with a 6.23 ERA.

Several other young pitchers have been turned to, including Dwight Goodens when Evansville took the championship in last weekend's Tri-State Classic round-robin tourney.

Ron Warnick

Freshman Andy Berens (2-3, 7.36 ERA) struck out 10 en en last year against Wright State, and sophomore John Fluharty (5-1, 6.75 ERA) scattered three Kentucky Wesleyan hits for a season-high 1.00 score.

Leading the Aces' batters is designated hitter Keith Anlozsek. He is hitting .328 with six home runs and 28 RBIs. He is second in Evansville's all-time runs batted in and he is third in career doubles with 23.

The Salukis will face a deep and talented bench, which is superior to the Cardinals' and better than the Mets'.

"If we can get the league in errors like in 1985, but the No. 1 reason the Cubs will win it is because they have a deep and talented bench, which is superior to the Cardinals' and better than the Mets'."

"It all depends on whether our players want to play or not," coach Richard "Tichy" Jones said. "We're trying to get some momentum to develop a long winning streak, but we haven't been able to put together more than five wins in a row.

Although the Salukis will face a tough opponent in the Aces, the team has showed some improvement over the past two weeks.

The SIU-C women's golf team will be making its first appearance in over two years Tuesday when they enter the University of Evansville Invitational in a shot to enter the Jackson County Country Club.

Coach Sonya Stalberger said the team welcome and encouraged" to attend the meet and root the Salukis on. Stalberger said the meet would be scored by adding the four lowest scores of the six participating team members on the 18-hole course.

The Salukis will be led by Jill Bertram and Tina Kowalski, both Gateway Golfers of the Week in the past two weeks.

Cubs emerge ahead in pick for NL East pennant crown

Thousands of sports reporters have done it, and this writer will be no exception. So I'll call this my Obi-gatory Baseball Predictions column.

Partly because of space limitations, but mostly from lack of interest with the other divisions, I'm limiting my picks to the National League East.

So get ready, here it is: the Chicago Cubs will win the division crown.

Before you dig out the cyanide pens, hear me out. Instead of using pure speculative hunches, I'm nailing my predictions on careful statistical analysis. It's still speculative, but it's more logical, and it looks good, something dear to each sports reporter's heart.

I have seven predictions on the Pete Palmer Linear Weights Method. To explain it in a very simplified version, it takes hits, homers, earned runs allowed, etc., and converts them into wins or losses above 900.

I USED 1985 as a base year for each player's performance and estimated what they would do in '86. I see the Cubs taking the division with 95 wins, while St. Louis will finish second and with 94. New York will be the games back with 92 victories.

Why? Well, last year the Cubs had so many pitchers on the disabled list at back down at the time that they needed to call the MASH choppers. Such an event probably won't happen again for another century or look for Steve Trout to finally have a big 17-9 year with Rick Sutcliffe right up there with 25 wins.

THE KEY for Chicago will be shortstop Shawon Dunston. Far and away he had the best year of all NL shortstops. A big plus for the Cubs since the days of the stationary Larry Bowa or Chris Speier. All he needs to do is commit six or seven fewer errors this year, and he'll be valuable even if he hits just as a Robert Jones home run.

A full season from humorously-gymnastic Gary Matthews will help the team tremendously. His ability to (groan) run a walk, since he can hardly run with his floating knees, will set up a lot of big rallies.

MANAGER Jim Frey needs decent hitting from the equally-gibby Ron Cey. A defensive zero with the range of a slug last year, Cey needs to move back to better handle the hot grounder. If he can, he'll get more chances and won't lead the league in errors like in 1985.

But the No. 1 reason the Cubs will win is because they have a deep and talented bench, which is superior to the Cardinals' and better than the Mets'.

They need mord h when they see Davey Lopes (4-7, stolen bases in '85), Jerry Murphy (1-11, 3B, 32B, seven home runs) and Gold Glove Catcher Manny Trillo when they need replacements for his tired, unboned players.

TEN-YEAR gold winner and practicing baseball clearing house, Dwight Gooden in is thankfully gone from the Cardinals, but replacement Tim Curnen is a bust. Slingshot-armed Mike Heath, however, will be the Cardinals' best defensive catcher since Tim McCarver.

The Cardinals will be smarting in these two months with weeding out of three of these shortstop hot shots and their sure thing, Ken Singleton.

Every other Cardinal has had their best seasons ever in 1985, and it's time for them to settle back on terra firma.
