Protesters march for right of abortion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tens of thousands of demonstrators from across the country ascended on the nation's capital Sunday to demand a continued right to legal abortion in what organizers heralded as the largest march ever for women's rights.

The massive protest began at 10 a.m. EDT under brisk, sunny skies with a rally at the Washington Monument before the demonstrators, most of them women and many bands to honor the suffragettes before them, walked slowly up Constitution Avenue to the Supreme Court.

The marchers protested the Supreme Court's decision to hear a case that could effectively overturn many of the protections granted women under the court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade case that legalized abortion.

"The main reason I'm here is that I had an illegal abortion 22 years ago," said Joan Garrity of Baltimore, who attended the rally with her 11-year-old son. "I feel I'm speaking out for the women who can't speak.

"I don't want anyone to have to go through what I went through," Garrity said. "It's like u-v want to force us to make that point again with our blood and our lives."

On April 26, the court will consider Webster vs.

Reproductive Health Services, an appeal by the state of Missouri of a lower court decision that struck down the state's restrictive abortion law as unconstitutional.

The National Organization for Women, organizing the event, had initially estimated 50,000 to 100,000 people would participate in the demonstration, but activists later predicted the crowd would swell to unprecedented numbers.

At 10:45 a.m., the U.S. Park Police estimated 25,000 people had gathered at the Washington Monument. By 1:30 p.m., the police estimated the number had reached 85,000.

"The anti-abortion forces are determined. They're organized and they never give up," Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, told about 500 people at a pre-march brunch on Capitol Hill.

Former Republican state senator dies at 77 after battle with cancer

By Denise Wellenberg
Staff Writer

Services will be held at 2 p.m. today for John Gilbert, a former Republican state senator, who died Friday at the age of 77 following a battle with cancer.

Gilbert died at 3:35 a.m. Friday in the Jackson County Nursing Home. Services will be held at the First United Methodist Church, 214 W. Main.

Gilbert represented the 58th senatorial district in Illinois, the office now held by Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin.

Dunn said Gilbert encouraged him to get into politics.

"I'm really going to miss him. He was a really good friend of mine," Dunn said.

"I hope I could be known around the state as being as good a senator as he was," Dunn said.

University President John C. Guyon agreed and said the contributions Gilbert made to the University were "immeasurable."

Because of Gilbert's work in education, Guyon said the University was "deeply in his debt."

"His contributions will be remembered in perpetuity," Guyon said.

Memorials can be made to Southern Illinois University Foundation, the Gilbert Memorial Law Scholarship Fund, the American Cancer Society or the First United Methodist Church.

He served on the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Gilbert was born Feb. 4, 1912 in Carbondale and married Helen Dollins in 1939. She died in 1983.

Gilbert married Margaret Terpiniz in 1985 and she survives.

Insufficient insurance may sink sailing class

By Alicia Hill
Staff Writer

Financial problems for the Sailing Club could result in cancellation of the sailing course offered through the physical education department.

"Anything is premature from our standpoint. Possibilities (to maintain the course) are being negotiated," Ronald Knowlton, physical education chairman, said.

According to Donald Beggs, dean of the College of Education, the issue lies in what priority sailing takes in the physical education department.

The problem has arisen because of insufficient funding for insurance on the boats.

In accordance with a contractual agreement between the Sailing Club and the Board of Trustees of the University on behalf of the Department of Physical Education, the club is required to carry sufficient insurance on their boats to protect the club as well as the University from lawsuits which might arise from injuries caused by the club's sailboats. The amount would be specified annually by the University.

According to Paul Fox, the Commodore for the club, last year's insurance payment on their 11 boats was $702. The annual payment, which Itchy Jones goes to bat for the American Red Cross today.

The University baseball coach, fresh from his 700th career win at SIU-C, will roll up his sleeve and give the gift of life at 10 this morning during an opening ceremony to kick off the University's week-long blood drive in the Student Center.

Jones is one of many local dignitaries who have volunteered to help students and faculty raise the 2,500 pints necessary to beat a rival university which has challenged SIU-C's record as the nation's No. 1 school for blood drive collections.

The University of Missouri at Columbia has vowed to exceed the number of SIU-C donations during its upcoming blood drive, coordinator to Vivian Ugent, coordinator of blood drives in 10 Southern Illinois counties.

Alan Elias, manager of the Missouri-Illinois Regional Blood Services, will formally make the challenge to the University at the ceremony, immediately following a parade through the Student Center.

Carbondale voter turnout on the rise

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

Voter turnout for Carbondale's general election is on the rise with 22.2 percent of the registered voters coming to the polls April 4 compared to 13.5 percent in 1985.

Of the 19,097 Carbondale registered voters in 1985, 2,586 cast ballots for City Council candidates Archie Jones, John Yow, Keith Tuxhorn and David McNeill.

News Analysis

In the 1989 council race with Keith Tuxhorn, John Yow, Carl Flowers and Marvin Tanner, 2,594 ballots were cast out of 11,638 possible voters in Carbondale.

This rise of 8.7 percent contradicts the national voter turnout, which has fluctuated up and down by less than 1 percent since 1976.

National voter turnout went from 53.5 percent in 1976 down to 52.6 percent in 1980 and back up to 53.1 percent in 1984, according to the Statistical Abstract published by the Bureau of Census.

Political science professor John Jackson said he was surprised at the increase on the local level because national and state voter turnout has been declining.

But, because of a bill passed by the Illinois General Assembly in 1981, voter turnout should be increasing as local elections become less confusing to voters.

The Consolidated Election Law passed in December 1981 creates five different election dates over a two-year period for local elections.

In odd years such as 1989, non-partisan election for school boards and junior

Large areas of oil spill await cleanup attempts

VALDEZ, Alaska (UPI) — Vast areas of the biggest oil spill in U.S. history remained untouched Sunday by any attempt to recover the oil, and an aerial inspection of the area revealed otters, seals, sea lions and birds swimming in the blackened waters off southern Alaska without a cleanup boat in sight. The spill has touched more than 3,000 square miles in the Prince William Sound and the Gulf of Alaska.

Administration cautious on Soviet stance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration staked out a middle-of-the-road approach Sunday toward the Soviet Union that is rooted in continued doubts over the long-term motives behind the dramatic reforms of Mikhail Gorbachev. Commenting on a comprehensive policy review still under way, national security adviser Brent Scowcroft indicated President Bush plans no "sharp, dramatic changes in policy" to either warm up to the Soviet leader or exploit his domestic problems.

Moscow claims 42 died in submarine accident

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union indicated Sunday that 42 sailors died when a nuclear attack submarine sank in the Norwegian sea Friday and commended the crew for its efforts to keep the vessel afloat. The official Tass news agency, without specifically giving the death toll, said: "It transpired that the crew of the torpedo-carrying nuclear submarine comprised 69 men. Twenty-seven of them were saved."

Agreement reached in withdrawal of Namibia

WINDHOEK, Namibia (UPI) — South Africa, Cuba and Angola agreed Sunday on procedures for the immediate withdrawal of guerrillas from Namibia to end eight days of fighting and put the territory's independence plan back on track, the South African Broadcasting Corp. said. Coming at the end of an urgent two-day meeting by representatives of the three countries as well as U.S. and Soviet observers, the accord calls for U.N. peacekeeping troops to oversee withdrawal of SWAPO guerrillas.

Haitian loyalists bomb barracks killing many

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — About 60 soldiers have been killed and many more seriously wounded since late Friday when troops loyal to President Prosper Avril began shelling a key army barracks occupied by rebellious soldiers, medical sources said Sunday. Loyalist soldiers of the 1,100-member Presidential Guard appeared to control the Dessalines Battalion army barracks Sunday, a day after the government said it had retaken the downtown facility in Port-au-Prince and foiled the six-day revolt.

Moslems fire at port amid tension with France

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Moslem forces Sunday fired rockets at a Christian port north of Beirut where a French shipment of medical supplies and fuel was expected to arrive Wednesday, police said. The shelling followed a threat by the pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad to bomb the French vessels when they arrive, and came amid escalating tension between Moslem leaders in Lebanon and France.

Syria-based group suspected in 103 bombing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI and European investigators believe those responsible for the bombing of Pan Am Flight 103, which killed 270 people, were associated with a Syria-based group led by Ahmed Jibril, The Washington Post said Sunday. But national security adviser Brent Scowcroft, interviewed on the NBC news program "Meet the Press," indicated investigators were close but not yet to the point of naming those responsible.

Eastern's unions reach internal agreement

MIAMI (UPI) — The major unions at Eastern Airlines representing machinists, pilots and flight attendants have reached agreement among themselves on the size of the concessions they will grant Peter Ueberroth, who is trying to buy the airline, a newspaper reported Sunday. The Miami Herald said the three unions also agreed on how to divvy up the 30 percent employee ownership stake in a revitalized Eastern envisioned by the former baseball commissioner and his investor group.

NeXT party office-seekers on quest for seats

USG chief of staff vying for position of president

By Miguel Alba

Running under a party ticket name inspired by a computer system, Brian Skinner is vying to be the NeXT person to hold the office of president in the Undergraduate Student Government.

the president could not perform his duties," Skinner said, adding that his duties include interviews and problem solving at the USG office on a daily basis.

"During that first term of office some problems came up in the office that I took a look at," Skinner said. "If I had been USG president I would have done things a little bit differently."

"We were lacking in a lot of things, I thought. Our organizational communications was very bad," Skinner said. "There was no real harmony. There was no real commitment by several of the members that eventually left USG."

A senior in speech communications specializing in public relations, Skinner said his classes and personal experience have convinced him a need to improve communications exists in the USG, the students and all of its constituencies.

He said the experience he gained through work at a human resource consulting firm has given him insight into communication problems within the USG. Skinner has since established his own human resource consulting firm, which he runs from his home.

Skinner said he encourages all students to participate in the USG in order to obtain full student representation.

"The basic student out there doesn't even know what USG is out there for," Skinner said.

Skinner said he encourages all students to participate in the USG in order to obtain full student representation.

Skinner was appointed to his current office of USG chief of staff in the fall of 1988 by USG President Bill Hall. Skinner has not served in any office within student government before the appointment.

Skinner said the chief of staff position has allowed him to work closely with Hall and gain insight into the organization.

Entering the race with several years of experience, Chuck Hagerman is taking on the competition in his quest to be the NeXT vice president of the Undergraduate Student Government.

In last year's elections, Hagerman ran for president and came in last place.

Hagerman, a senior majoring in biology and microbiology, is currently the chairman of the committee for internal affairs and the senate pro tempore, holding two of the top four positions in student government.

During his time as CIA chairman, Hagerman said he has resolved problems between student organizations and the University. He said he also has helped student organizations resolve internal problems.

Hagerman has played a leading role in trying to restructure the Student Programming Council.

Hagerman initiated legislation that would put SPC on Registered Student Organization probation because it is in violation of some student organization guidelines. If SPC is placed on probation by the senate, its funding for the 1989-90 year could be frozen until it complies with the rules.

Hagerman said SPC has to be restructured to better represent the students.

However, the legislation was tabled in the CIA in order for USG to work with the SPC in finding a solution.

Hagerman also helped submit controversial legislation to the senate, such as a resolution supporting the removal of Satanic Verses from the Morris Library shelves.

Hagerman abstained when the resolution came up for a vote, but said he had an obligation to represent of-fended Muslim students at the University. The resolution failed.

One of the issues in this election will be the future of the Black American Studies program, Hagerman said.

NeXT party outlines proposals, concerns

By Miguel Alba
Staff Writer

The NeXT party platform includes:

■ Educating students on the activities, goals and purpose of the USG.

■ Encouraging involvement from all constituency groups to ensure a more equal representation in the USG.

■ Creating equal opportunity for international students in getting on-campus jobs.

■ Adopting a fall break after midterms.

■ Reorganizing the Halloween celebration.

■ Opposing the University in its assumption of a parental role over student behavior at events.

■ Supporting diversity of ethnic and cultural experience through a viable African-American studies program.

■ Opposing further tuition and/or fee increases excepting those with student support through a referendum.

■ Restructuring the Student Programming Council.

■ Implementing a Mass Transit system by Spring 1990.

■ Instituting a year-round USG senate.

■ Working with the administration to accomplish these and other student concerns.

Voting made easier, accuracy improved

THE STUDENTS WHO didn't vote in last year's Undergraduate Student Government and student trustee elections because the polls weren't convenient have no excuse this year.

Polls will be set up in all three cafeterias, the Student Center, the Communications Building, the Tech Building and the School of Law.

Multiple polling places have been a controversial issue in the past because of the possibility that students could vote more than once, but Election Commissioner Debbie Hughes has a foolproof plan.

HUGHES SAID SHE got the idea from elections in her native Australia. Students will be given ballot forms and two envelopes, one large and one small. They will complete the ballots and seal them in the small envelope, then fill out the large envelope with their names and seal the smaller one inside it.

The envelope with the names will be checked against a list of students. If a student's name is already marked off, meaning that student has already voted, any other ballots with that name will be discounted.

The small envelope will be opened at a later time to ensure the voter's confidentiality.

HUGHES SAID THE ballots will take longer to count, but the envelopes will ensure that students only vote once. Now why couldn't someone have come up with this idea sooner?

The multiple polls won't cost much more than a single polling place either, except for the cost of the envelopes. But the voter turnout should be greatly increased.

The election commission has optimistically planned for 5,000 voters. Wouldn't it be great if the envelopes ran out. That's not an unreasonable number considering there are four times that number of students on campus.

LAST YEAR ONLY 2,003 students voted when there was one polling place, so 5,000 voters should be no problem. It only takes a minute to vote, and most students will have to pass a polling place sometime during the day.

The College of Liberal Arts Council elections will also be held in conjunction with the USG and student trustee elections on April 19.

So vote. It's easy, it's convenient and it's your right and duty.

Opinions from elsewhere

Minneapolis-St. Paul Star Tribune

When members of Congress cravenly rejected a 51 percent pay increase for themselves earlier this year, they did more than sell themselves short: They also discounted the value of services provided by the nation's federal judges, whose salaries are linked to theirs. The financial hardship federal judges suffer so threatens the quality of the nation's courts that Chief Justice William Rehnquist has made an unusual public appeal for relief.

The chief justice, speaking as chairman of the Judicial Conference of the United States, urged that judicial salaries be separated from the politically sensitive issue of congressional pay. He appealed for quick action by Congress to grant federal judges an independent 30 percent increase. Under Rehnquist's proposal, a federal district judge would go from $89,500 to $116,550, an appeals court judge from $95,000 to $123,500 and an associate Supreme Court justice from $116,000 to $143,000.

Over the past two decades, Page 4, Daily Egyptian, April 10, 1989 inflation has so eroded the value of judicial salaries that beginning lawyers in private practice can quickly surpass the $89,000 that a federal district judge now earns. Pay has become "the single greatest problem facing the judicial branch today," Rehnquist said. Talented lawyers are declining appointment to the bench while increasing numbers of experienced judges are returning to private practice, putting the quality of the federal bench "at risk."

Federal judges deserved the 51 percent pay raise originally recommended for them. They need very badly the smaller 30 percent increase that Rehnquist now seeks. Unlike members of Congress, judges have no lucrative special-interest lecture circuit to pad their insufficient salaries.

Congress failed to raise its own pay when it had the opportunity. The consequences of that failure should not be borne by members of the federal bench who have no say in the outcome. Rehnquist is right: Federal judges urgently need higher salaries. Congress should urgently act to see that they get them.

Basis for diversity of religions should be discussed in studies

As reported in the DE March 23, Professor Dale Bengtson's recent lecture on "The Place of Religious Studies in a State University" was enlightening — but perhaps not quite in the way Bengtson intended.

If his views were accurately conveyed by the quotes and paraphrases used by your reporter, readers have now learned that Bengtson appears either unable or unwilling to confront any religious faith on its own terms.

Bengtson declares himself and his department to be in favor of "pluralism," by which he appears to mean the toleration of differing religious viewpoints. Fine; so are we all, particularly at a public institution officially draped in the First Amendment. But precisely for that reason, we are not in the business of undermining whatever religious faiths our students carry with them into the University.

Bengtson is reported to have said that "religious studies are supposed to point out that there are no 'right' or 'wrong' religions." I hope he did not say anything of the kind, because this is nonsense.

The principle of toleration forbids a teacher to point to this or that religion as "right" or "wrong." It is quite another thing to tell students that any faith in which they might believe is essentially indistinguishable from the ones they do not. The latter is not only an insult to any believer who sits in the classroom, it is also less than sound intellectually.

Religions are founded upon, and stand or fall by, the beliefs of their followers, whether firm or afflicted with doubt, that they are true — true because they are divinely revealed to be so.

To fail to recognize this defining characteristic of all religions is to fail to come to grips honestly with religion as such, or with any particular religion as it presents itself. True, the teacher of toleration in a public university faces the dilemma of a bewildering variety of claims to revealed truth.

But the solution is not the cop-out of moral relativism, declaring religious faith as relevant to the conduct of life as a taste for broccoli over cauliflower.

Who wants to teach something that trivial? Toleration, rightly understood, requires us to adopt a policy of official neutrality to the religious, not a policy of freeing students from their religions.

I suspect Bengtson was going for a laugh when he said "I can find commonalities between Christ, Buddha, Moses, Santa Claus and Superman." But when we're all through chucking, let's consider seriously what underlies such a statement.

One of the goals of his department, we are informed, is "being objective in its teaching" and producing the same virtue in students. This would be wonderful, except that Bengtson's notion of objectivity seems to be to toss all religious beliefs into a sack together, shake vigorously and produce, miraculously, a teaching with no recognizable interest in real religiosity, i.e. the vital faiths of real human beings who are concerned about the state of their souls. This breed of "pluralism" is in fact quite intolerant.

I do not know what religion Bengtson professes, nor do I care to know. But I detect another sort of faith at work in his remark that "unless people are able to tolerate other ideas, a world state will never be achieved" (reporter's paraphrase).

In the bad old days of intolerance, this hope of paradise on Earth used to go by the name of heresy; nowadays we are content to call it mere utopian folly. — Matthew J. Franck, lecturer, political science.

Picture was worth more than words

I am writing in response to Danny Herbst's, Eileen Wucker's, Diane Dunham's and Kelly Ann Christensen's letters that appeared in the April 5 DE. I am sure that the death of Steve Schaefer was a tragedy to all that knew him. My deepest sympathy goes out to anyone who has been pierced with pain over such an unfortunate event.

Some readers might describe the picture of Steve Schaefer's body, wrapped in a bag and being transported from the scene, as tasteless and irresponsible journalism.

Some might say that such graphic realism is unnecessary. But the fact of the matter is that death is here and death is there.

I can remember not too long ago, I was sitting in class listening to a lecture when at precisely 10 a.m. the civil defense sirens began to blare. My heart skipped a beat, and within a second I realized that the day was the first Tuesday of the month, which is when those sirens are tested.

I was relieved, but I began to wonder why those sirens are there. Whether it be a storm or an attack by foreign forces, the deterrent of death is the reason for those sirens.

If a little girl walks out into the street and is struck down dead, and a newspaper prints a picture of her twisted body laying on the pavement, readers are surely going to object.

But what rights or principles do journalists use to decide if a picture, graphically depicting death, should be printed.

Perhaps the deterrent of more death is the reason for the picture's publication. Perhaps a father, having seen the dead girl, will set his child on his knee and explain the dangers of playing in the streets.

Although the picture of Steve Schaefer's body was offensive to his family and friends, the majority of readers were probably not offended.

The picture was printed as a warning to how death can occur in anyone's life. A little practical wisdom says that a picture is worth a thousand words.

Maybe the picture of Steve Schaefer speaks a lot louder than a thousand-word article on the deterrence of death caused by fire. Perhaps one tragedy can spare another.

Let us live, then, and be glad. — Sean Connolly, freshman, journalism.

President of ISC re-elected by wide margin in assembly

By Fernando Fellu-Moggi
Staff Writer

M. Ali Firouzi will lead the International Student Council through another year as president of its executive committee.

Firouzi was re-elected Thursday night by the general assembly of ISC, 21-8 over his opponent, Paul Adalikwu, president of the African Student Association.

The general assembly of ISC is composed of the presidents of all international student associations and the members of the executive committee.

Before the election, the candidates to the executive committee were given time to present their agendas and answer the questions of the assembly.

The unopposed runners for the two vice presidential positions, Akhtar Zaman and Nabarun Ghose, who were seeking re-election to their position of vice president I and vice president II respectively, were the first to defend their candidacies.

Adalikwu was the first of the two presidential candidates to present his agenda to the general assembly.

Adalikwu, a graduate student in political science from Nigeria, said his priorities as president of ISC would be towards international students.

He said one of his objectives would be to move the council away from the policies of excluding some organizations from the council decisions and conflicts created by the administration presided by Firouzi.

Adalikwu reminded the council of the resignation of staff members and executive committee members that occurred last November in ISC, and assured them that a similar situation would not take place under his administration.

He proposed that the council work together to discuss and propose solutions to issues of international policy, and suggested bringing money into ISC from sources different than the regular associations, a way to allocate more funds for ISC activities.

After Adalikwu spoke, it was Firouzi's turn to present his goals for the council if elected president.

Firouzi based his candidacy on the success of the ISC programs under his administration.

He pointed out that most of members, who had resigned from the council the previous year because of a disagreement with his veto of a bill to retain a member of an executive who was on academic probation, were back in ISC and there had not been any other conflicts in the council under his administration.

In regard to his opponent, Firouzi said Adalikwu was trying to bring politics into ISC, an activity that is specifically forbidden by the constitution.

"The purpose of ISC is to bring harmony to the international community through our cultures, not through politics," he said.

provided $1 million in coverage expired on April 1. Fox said the club will not be able to purchase the insurance this year.

The Sailing Club which formed in 1966 was very successful in the 70s but has experienced financial problems since 1982. In 1982, the newly managed Playport Marina on Crab Orchard Lake began charging a docking fee; a cost which hadn't been anticipated, Fox said.

The club now pays $250 per boat per season for docking privileges, Fox said.

Prior to 1982, Jim Cameron at the Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge said, the marina was managed by the Crab Orchard Lake Sailing Club through an agreement with the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife, United States Department of the Interior.

The contract included a clause allowing the Sailing Club a 2.5 acre tract of land and water to dock boats for no charge.

In 1982, the Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge, under the direction of the Bureau, sold the marina to Playport Marina, a private concessionaire.

According to the agreement between the club and the University, students enrolled in the sailing course are required to pay a $25 membership fee to the Sailing Club.

"I guess at the time the contract was signed the students' fees helped the club to cover the insurance cost. That's the only benefit for the club I can see. I would have never signed that contract," Fox said.

Today, with the additional docking costs and an increase in insurance premiums, the student's fees don't go very far.

According to Richard Davis, insurance manager for the University's risk management department, the possibility exists that the club could find cheaper insurance rates.

colleges are held in November. Primary elections for municipal government are held in February while city and township elections are held in an April consolidated election. Any referendums also are introduced during the April election.

During even years, county, state and federal primaries and general elections are held.

The law also hands over to the county clerk election duties, including preparing ballots, securing polling places and selecting election judges. These duties used to be performed by the city clerk.

City clerks are left with conducting the filing of petitions and hearings of objections to the petitions for local candidates.

Prior to the 1981 law, polling places were changed for different elections and no set structure for holding individual elections existed.

County Clerk Robert Harrell said, "Voters back then were mixed up."

The law takes away much of the confusion, leaving voters with stationary polling places and predictable local races.

Harrell said the increase from Carbondale's 1985 to 1989 election proved that the legislature was right.

This increase in voter turnout also is visible by comparing separate Carbondale precincts.

Southwest precincts 12, 13, 14 and 15 usually have a heavier turnout with voters coming from a middle to upper middle class residential area, Harrell said.

Precinct 12 showed a 7.3 percent increase in 1989.

Precinct 15 had the largest turnout of voters in 1989 with 42.4 percent voter turnout compared to 35.3 percent in 1985.

Voter turnout in student precincts, however, showed a slight decrease from 1985 to 1989.

Harrell said turnout in student precincts is a swinging pendulum with turnout going from high to low depending on the election.

Center.

SIU-C was crowned the nation's No. 1 school for blood donations by the American Association of Blood Banks in 1986 after collecting 3,706 pints, a record which still stands unbroken, Ugent said.

Although blood donations actually started Sunday, Jones, who organizes on a regular basis, will be the spring drive's first "official" donor, Ugent said. The coach also will act as keynote speaker at the opening ceremony.

Mayor Neil Dillard is urging all Carbondale citizens to donate and help the University achieve its goal.

Dillard will issue a proclamation at the ceremony designating the next five days as Blood Drive Week in Carbondale.

Other highlights of today's ceremony will include comments by Harvey Welch, vice president of Student Affairs, and Nancy Hunter Peice, assistant dean from the Office of Student Development.

Donations are being accepted today through Friday in Ballroom D. Blood drive hours are 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily, except Wednesday when the doors will be open from 12 to 6 p.m.

Each person must wait at least eight weeks before donating again and must be in "good health" to donate, Ugent said.

To make an appointment for donation, phone the blood drive hotline at 529-2151 or 453-2633.

Bon Jovi rocks energetic crowd at packed Arena

Rockers please excited teenagers in weekend jam

By Kimberly Clarke
Staff Writer

I went to a concert Saturday night, but I am still not sure who I saw.

The music sounded like Bon Jovi, but the lead singer looked like Richard Simmons.

The way Jon Bon Jovi moved, it looked like he took his stage show from a Richard Simmons aerobics tape and added black spandex pants, headband and tiger-spotted tennis shoes.

I must be getting old, though, because Jon Bon Jovi in spandex just doesn't do anything for me. However, it did do something for the majority of fans at the sold-out concert.

Crowd participation was great, and Bon Jovi, consisting of Jon on vocals, Richie Sambora as lead guitarist, Tico Torres on drums, Alec John Such on bass and David Bryan on keyboards, did do a good job of arousing the crowd with their music.

As soon as the lights dimmed, lighters were held high, waiting for the band to begin this leg of its New Jersey tour, named after its most recent album.

"Lay Your Hands On Me" started off the concert with an appropriate, yet vulgar gesture by the pop-rock singer, but also with a roar of approval from the crowd.

Explosives highlighted the floor show, giving the concert a touch of excitement, while Jon played on the emotions of the young crowd and asked what the chances were of him finding a place to stay should he decide to remain in town. You can imagine the response the rock idol received.

But the most exciting part of the show, besides the grand finale, was when a catwalk descended and Jon, with guitarists Sambora and Such, danced around above the crowd.

"Let It Rock" was played as the performers made sure everyone got a good look at them while they paraded around on the catwalk.

During this, the crowd was once again intensely involved, which also was reflected when the band played "I'll Be There

For You" and the crowd members swayed their arms to the beat.

Jon Bon Jovi also portrayed a sensitive side when he took time out to tell the crowd how important friendship is and that "these are the best times of your life." The band then went into "Blood On Blood."

As the concert started to wind down, the band played a surprising tune that isn't exactly part of the Bon Jovi style of music. Their rendition of the rock classic "Shout" kept the crowd on its feet.

The concert's finale, after Bon Jovi had left the stage once, was by far the best part of the concert, not because it was in fact the end of the concert, but because the mouthy, obnoxious Skid Row members joined Bon Jovi for the last song.

The bands combined, sharing vocals, drums and guitars, to rock and roll on "Traveling Band," originally performed by Creedence Clearwater Revival.

Skid Row put on the opening show, featuring a rougher musical and performance style than the main attraction, but was quite popular among the crowd.

Jon Bon Jovi rocks the house as he plays in front of a sold-out arena of screaming fans Saturday night at the Arena. Skid Row opened the concert.

Poetry to be read in Faner museum

Carol Pierman, former teacher at SIUC and the University of Missouri, will read her poetry at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the University Museum Auditorium, Faner.

Pierman also is the former editor of "River Styx," a leading literary magazine.

The reading is sponsored by the Department of English.

Math roots to be topic of lecture

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

The origins of Greek mathematics will be discussed by Robert Hahn, associate professor of philosophy, in a lecture to the math club Wednesday.

Hahn will speak on "Rethinking the Origins of Ancient Greek Mathematics, or What Is Mathematical Thinking, Anyway?" at 5 p.m. Wednesday in Technical Building A, Room 219. The lecture is open to the public.

In his lecture, Hahn said he will show the relationship between mathematics and the architecture of monumental Greek temples. He said the temples provided the mathematicians with objects for speculation.

"Inventions and theories don't come from nowhere," Hahn said.

The president of math club, Dale Black, said Hahn is one of a number of lecturers the club hopes to have speak to them. He said he hopes the lecturers will provide an overview of different areas and professions available in mathematics.

"Math tends to be highly specialized; I'm trying to see math outside my own area," Black said.

Black, a junior in math, said the math club recently became a Registered Student Organization to draw more people to the club.

Wed. April 12

Dubbed the King of "White Collar Comedy" for his "Yuppie" Navy Jacket, Ten Pants appearance, Frank King entertains at social strata with the acerbic wit and congenial rapport. Originally from Raleigh, North Carolina, Frank received a bachelors degree in Political Science and Industrial Relations, but in his heart, he remained undecided. After a bout with the insurance salesman blues, he turned to what makes him (and his audience) happiest: making people laugh. "Look," he says with a rapid-fire Southern accent, "I'm WASP heterosexual, and a Southerner to boot—that's a tough row to hoe in comedy bars." With star performances at top comedy clubs from New York to Los Angeles and several national television appearances, Frank seems to be hoing his rows, quite well.

SIU-C runners capture honors in tough SEMotion relay meet

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

In a field filled with tough competition, the men's and women's track teams each came away with two victories at the annual SEMOTION Relays Friday and Saturday.

The men notched two relay victories against the 15-team field, while the women took two individual wins during the competition.

The Saluki men were led by the relay team of Erick Pegues, Guy Sikora, Donnell Williams, and Garrett Hines, which won the 4 x 100 and 4 x 200 relays. They won the 4 x 100 in a time of 41.59 seconds and came back to win the 4 x 200 1:26.89.

Coch Bill Cornell said that he was pleased with the surprise finish of the sprint relays.

"Both of the victories were unexpected," Cornell said. "We're not really a sprint team. I hope this is the start of a trend with the sprinters."

The Salukis did well against the large field of teams in the decathlon competition. Jocelyn Langevin scored a personal best of 6,948 points to take third, while Larry Holloway and John Bookout also posted personal bests to take sixth and ninth, respectively.

Cornell said that despite the number of athletes that placed, there was still some disappointment.

"The distance runners didn't come to run this weekend," Cornell said. "The sprinters showed them up. I was considerably disappointed."

Kathy Raske and Christiana Philippou led the women's team by winning their individual events.

Raske moved a step closer to another NCAA championship bid. Raske won the 100-meter hurdles, in a time of 13.67 seconds, seven one-hundredths of a second off the NCAA qualifying standard.

Philippou had her best triple jump of the year, leaping 40 feet 4 3/4 inches to take the top honor in the event. Philippou also placed third in the long jump going 19-6 1/4.

Coch Don DeNoon said that both Raske and Philippou outdistanced the strong field of athletes.

"Kathy won by half a second, and that's not even close," DeNoon said. "And Christiana, five of her six jumps were over 40 feet. They both had good days against strong competition."

The women also had a number of relay teams place well. The distance medley and the sprint medley teams both took second-place honors, while the 4 x 100 hurdle shuttle relay squad took third.

Both coaches agreed that the cold weather conditions had an effect on their athletes.

Defense dominates in second spring scrimmage

By David Gallianetti
Staff Writer

It would seem the football team's defense is taking over right from where it left off at the end of last season.

The defenders, who had a hand in several Saluki wins during the 1988 campaign, all but shut down the offense during SIU-C's second spring scrimmage Saturday.

The offense managed just one field goal, while the defense forced four turnovers and blocked another field goal try. Two of the turnovers, had they been playing an actual game, would have resulted in touchdowns.

"We forced a lot of turnovers today that we had not been doing," defensive coordinator Gerry Hart said. "We have been running to the ball since the start (of spring drills) well. We are not always in the right place at the right time, but we are usually running to get there."

Hart said the defensive structure is similar to that which the Salukis used all fall.

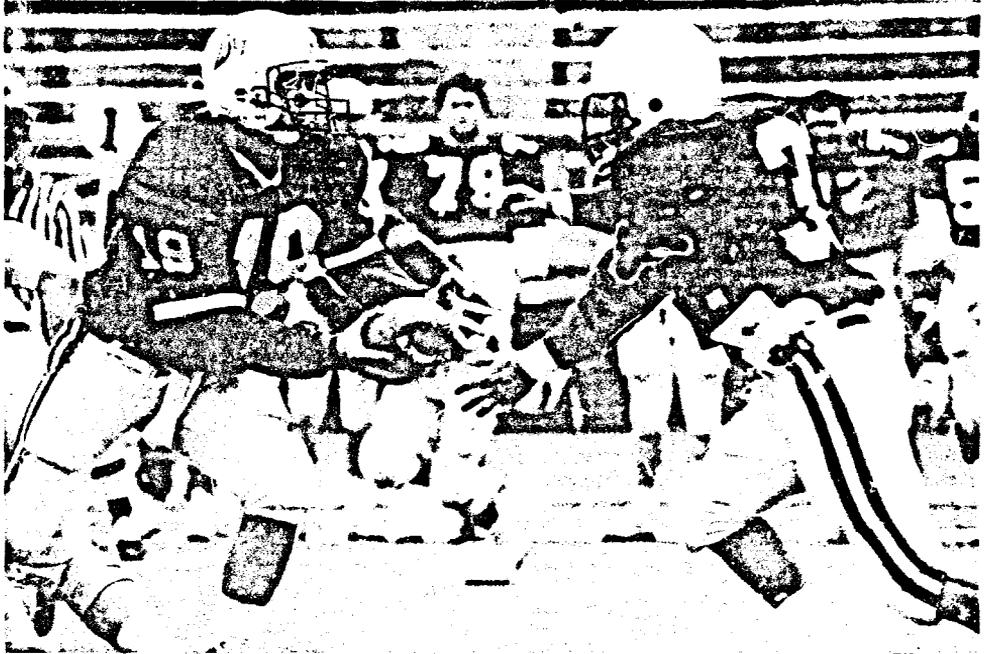

"The guys do not need a new system year after year," Hart said.

The Salukis were without the services of defensive lineman Ron Kirk Saturday, who Hart said will be sidelined for several weeks after shoulder surgery.

Hart said stiff competition within each position is keeping the team going.

"There is quite a bit of healthy competition for positions, and that is always a motivating factor," Hart said.

Head coach Bob Smith said he was impressed with the defenders' work.

trying to catch the eye of head coach Bob Smith before the conclusion of spring drills April 22.

"The defense had a much better day today (than last week's scrimmage)," Smith said. "They did real well with the option and did more with breaking up long yardage plays."

Offensive coordinator Bill

Callahan said the offense needed some stiff competition to get the feel of game pressure.

"This is just what the doctor ordered," Callahan said. "There was more from the secondary blitz and more pressure. We need that so we can get better."

Callahan pointed to fullback Marvin Billups performance, who stole the show offensively. The Salukis played without fullback Chuck Harmke, who did not show up for the scrimmage.

Callahan said Harmke does not practice very often, because of his heavy academic schedule this semester. Callahan said he felt Harmke's absence would pose more of a challenge for Harmke.

eventual loser Chris Bend (3-2), finished off the side.

Rick Damico led off the Salukis' ninth with a double that scattered chalk when it touched down on the fair-fool line deep in left. However, Shaun Lewis grounded out to third and following a walk by Matt Giegling, Tim Davis hounced into a game ending double play.

In Saturday's games: Meyer (3-3) struckout nine for the victory and Shields got the save after a three-run eighth highlighted by a Shields double, a Dave Wrona RBI single, a Jeff Nelson sacrifice and Lewis' RBI single to right. Lewis was responsible for the Salukis' run in the fifth.

for 159, good for sixth place. Lisa Meritt finished with an 85 and 80 good for 165 and 12th place overall. It is the first time this season Meritt has not been the low scorer for the Salukis.

"I am really pleased with the way Anne is playing," Daugherty said. "She had an outstanding tournament. Cina (Giacone) came back with an 86 that we really needed."

Giacone finished with a 96 and 86 for 182, Lisa Johnson with a 94 and 84 for 178, Julie Shumaker with two rounds of 90 for 180 and Peggy Ellsworth with a 90 and 91 for 181.

Tennis coach nets 400th career victory

By Paul Pabat
Staff Writer

Saluki men's tennis coach Dick LeFevre's 400th career victory came by way of a convincing win over the University of Louisville Saturday.

"It's just a number," LeFevre said. "Being up with some of the coaches who have won 400 is nice though."

LeFevre, who has coached at SIU-C since 1958, is one of only six active coaches to achieve the 400-win plateau.

According to LeFevre the number could have been much higher.

"I could have had 600 wins by now if I scheduled weak teams," LeFevre said. "I try to schedule as many tough schools as I can because the competition makes the players better. I would rather have 400 wins against quality teams, than 600 against mediocre teams."

LeFevre's players gave him the milestone with a 7-2 victory over the host Cardinals. A possibility for win No. 401 was taken away when a match with Western Kentucky, the other team the Salukis were scheduled to play, was rained out.

The Salukis were paced by four singles victories, but the win was sealed by the three doubles teams who won all of their matches. LeFevre said that the play of his doubles was a pleasant surprise.

"The doubles put the match away," LeFevre said. "They woke up and played well. I hope it continues."

Mickey Maule, Jairo Aidana, Fabiano Ramos and George Hime each notched wins versus Louisville. No. 1 singles Joe Demeterco lost his match.

"The kid Joe faced was ranked 39th in the nation earlier this year," LeFevre said. "He fought hard, but couldn't pull it out. All our singles played well, I'm happy with the winners and the ones who lost."

Salukis drop 2 to Redbirds

SIU-C at 2-2 in Valley after weekend openers

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

The baseball team's 5-game win streak and a 2-0 jump in the Missouri Valley standings both got short-circuited Sunday — victims of the Salukis' own offensive power failure.

The Salukis, who are averaging more than seven runs per game, found nearly every attempt to push runs across the plate stymied by the pitching and defense of the Illinois State Redbirds, who walked away from Abe Martin Field with 3-2 and 2-1 victories.

"We were flat with our bats," said Saluki coach Itchy Jones. "Our offense has to score more than one or two runs per game."

For Jones, it was a bittersweet ending to a weekend that had started with promise.

Amid blustery winds that brought Saturday's afternoon temperatures to a brisk 40 degrees, the Salukis captured a 5-4 come-from-behind victory over the Redbirds behind the sturdy right arm of pitcher Dale Meyer.

In the second game, a seven-run rally in the fifth inning provided plenty of cushion to give the Salukis an 8-1 blowout, that also doubled as Jones' 700th career coaching victory.

However, all that offensive punch fizzled out Sunday in the face of Illinois State pitchers Cory Tasche, Ed Stryker and Paul Wagner, who collectively held the Salukis to only two extra-base hits in the twin-bill.

"I'm definitely disappointed that we didn't come out with a desire to put them away," said Jones, who saw the Salukis' season record fall to just one game above .500 at 14-13.

As for Illinois State, which entered the Valley schedule as the conference coaches' pick as most likely to finish last, coming through with a split and a 13-14 mark was a good bargain for first-year coach Jeff Stewart.

"See, the whole idea was for Itchy to get 700 and have his day, and then let us win two today. It was all prearranged," Stewart quipped.

In the first game Sunday, Illinois State catcher Don Prybylinski broke a 2-all deadlock in the eighth with an RBI single up the middle that scored Scott Lothery from second base. Lothery had originally reached on a double down the left field line.

"Don picked us up with a big hit. That's the kind of hits we need in the Valley," Stewart said.

The Redbirds threatened again in the ninth, putting runners on third and first with one out. Doug Shields, called in from centerfield to relieve

Jones ponders career after 700th win

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Baseball coach Itchy Jones — best known for his charming smile and nervous energy — was unusually melancholy Saturday following the Salukis' 8-1 triumph over Illinois State.

The victory, which among other things started the Salukis at 2-0 in the Missouri Valley and extended their win streak to five, also was Jones' 700th in his coaching career.

Sports Analysis

"I'm not very much of a person who looks at these things," said Jones. "I'm just a guy who goes to the ballpark everyday."

Coming to the park and doing his job has resulted in a 700-224-5 career record, three College World Series engagements, nine NCAA tournament appearances and five conference championships.

Jones, gray hair visible underneath his cap and the collar of his windbreaker pulled up around his ears, seemed to be in a reflective mood. He appeared to be analyzing those past accomplishments and measuring them against his current level of success.

For a moment, perhaps, the milestone brought to Jones' demeanor a feeling of respect akin to the occasion of one's 21st or 40th birthday — that this somehow is a turning point.

It's been three seasons since the Salukis have received an at-large bid to the NCAAs, and his present squad has had to make tremendous adjustments just to reach 14-11.

"I'm still learning, still learning about the players and how to handle them differently," Jones said. "Everyday is different, trying to get the right people in the right spots. This group is so young, we've had to teach them how to win and how to compete."

would be a rebuilding year. But we'll go with them so next year they'll be all that much better."

On this occasion, Jones pondered his future with Saluki baseball — the program founded by Abe Martin, honed and tuned by Joe Lutz, and finely polished by Jones himself.

"I've thought about getting out of it completely in about 10 years," Jones said. "I'm always thinking about leaving, and it's not an ego thing. The question is: Do I want to do something else that I haven't tried?"

A return to professional baseball is an attractive option to Jones, who played in the Baltimore Orioles organization after graduating from SIU-C in 1960.

"Working in pro ball has a lot of good points," Jones said.

Coach happy with golfers' comeback

By David Gallanetti

The women's golf team might have been in 11th place coming into the final day of the Indiana Invitational Sunday, but they sure didn't play like it.

The Salukis used a 331 score to cruise past several Big Ten teams and finish tied for fifth overall with Illinois. SIU-C, who with their 343 Saturday finished at 674, passed Gateway for Illinois State and Big Ten schools Purdue, Wisconsin and Michigan State in Sunday's surge.

"For us to come back like that is great," coach Diane Daugherty said. "We had an outstanding effort. There was a lot of stiff competition, and I am pleased to beat Illinois State again. "This is a real feather in our cap. We had a little better weather today and we really turned it on."

Individually, freshman Anne Childress led the Salukis with a 78 and 81
