Hall wins battle for election eligibility

By Tony Mancuso
Staff Writer

Student Trustee Bill Hall is back on Wednesday's student election ballot after an appeals committee overturned an earlier decision that removed him from the election.

"I'm gonna roar now," Hall said about his newly begun campaigning moments after the decision was handed down Friday morning.

Document, testimony verifies candidates enrollment status

The three-member committee, consisting of computer science professor Albert L. Crawford, graduate student Joseph Huskey and undergraduate Mike Fraser, decided Hall would be let back on the ballot after listening to testimony from Hall and Darrell Johnson, chairman of the committee that removed Hall from the ballot.

The members based their decision on article 1-101 of the student trustee election laws, which states, "...undergraduate status and standing is defined by the Office of Admissions and Records."

Hall presented a document from the office that certified his enrollment at the University between the inclusive dates of Jan. 16 through May 11.

"The rules (for election eligibility) are not crystal clear, that is quite obvious," Crawford said in handing down the decision. "But since status is defined by the Office of Admissions and Records, we will reinstate Mr. Hall."

The student trustee election commission based the original decision on Hall's temporary withdrawal from the University for three weeks because of a late tuition payment.

Hall was granted permission to continue attend classes during the period from Associate Dean of the College of Liberal Arts A. Kyle Perkins and his instructors, and received a cancellation waiver from Vice President for Student Affairs Harvey Welch.

He attended all his classes and enrolled again April 2, but the commission removed him from

Ryan White dies of AIDS complications

Young victim fought discrimination, fear

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Ryan White, the 18-year-old "boy next door" who waged a five-year battle against both AIDS and unreasoning fear of its victims, died Sunday morning.

President Bush, who last Tuesday planted a tree in White's honor in Indianapolis, issued a brief statement from Camp David, Md., saying his "death reaffirms that we, as a people, must pledge to continue the fight, his fight, against this dreaded disease."

Gov. Evan Bayh ordered flags in Indiana flown at half-staff Wednesday, the day of the funeral for the youth whose battle to overcome discrimination and attend school while fighting AIDS was made into a 1989 television movie, "The Ryan White Story."

White, who had been struggling with a severe respiratory disease related to his AIDS affliction and had been on life support for a week, died at 7:11 a.m., said Dr. Martin B. Kleiman of Riley Hospital for Children. Kleiman had treated the youngster since he contracted acquired immune deficiency syndrome at age 13 from a tainted blood clotting agent dur-

Blood drive record sought by SIU at week-long event

By Michelle R. Walker
Staff Writer

Responding to the University of Missouri at Columbia challenge to surpass the 2,455 pints collected in its blood drive last week, SIU-C's blood drive is underway.

For the third time in a row, Mizzou has challenged SIU-C to exceed its total pints collected.

Sunday was the first day of the SIU-C blood drive. Vivian Ugen, American Red Cross blood drive coordinator for the Southern Illinois area, was pleased with the turnout. Ugen said 134 pints were donated, exceeding the daily goal of 125. Of those donors, she said 23 were first time donors.

SIU-C blood drive coordinators are trying to make this semester's drive more fun. On Sunday all donors were treated to Domino's pizza and during the rest of the week donors will be treated to food. This marks the first time more than just a cookie and juice has been offered.

Today, at the University Museum, blood drive volunteers will send 2,456 balloons into the sky in an effort to show Missouri that SIU-C will win the challenge. The 2,456 balloons will symbolize SIU-C's goal.

A parade will begin at the University Museum, moving to the south end of the Student Center.

In April 1989, Missouri challenged SIU-C for the first time. Blood donors at Mizzou donated 1,942 pints over six days while SIU-C collected 2,071. Then in November, 1989, Missouri challenged once again and collected 2,849 pints while SIU-C collected 3,033.

Now the competition is on once again and Missouri has increased their chances of taking first place by collecting 513

Police begin removing bodies from burnt ferry

LYSEKIL, Sweden (UPI) — Workers began removing bodies from the smoldering decks of the Scandinavian Star ferry Sunday and officials feared the confirmed death toll of 75 in Scandinavia's worst post-war maritime disaster likely would double to 148.

Firefighters were close to extinguishing the suspected arson fire that erupted early Saturday aboard the 10,000-ton Scandinavian Star as it carried Easter holiday-makers from Norway's capital, Oslo, on a trip to Denmark's northern port of Frederikshavn.

Lysekil Police Commissioner Rcar Onso said 75 passengers were confirmed dead after a count of bodies in one section, but said he feared the toll would reach 148 as officials searched other decks for 73 missing passengers.

"All the figures, apart from the body count, are uncertain since there was no precise passenger list," Onso told reporters from a site overlooking the ferry, which still belched smoke at its Lysekil harbor anchorage.

"The captain has told us there were 493 people on board," Onso

Apology

Realizing the press should not play judge and jury, the Daily Egyptian regrets publishing the accusations in its editorial Friday.

We ended by generalizing about landlords in Carbondale. Specifically mentioned in the editorial was Bonnie Owen, manager of Pyramid Apartments, and the fact that students living there in fall 1989 did not receive their damage deposits after a change in ownership.

Owen has been working with the Office of the Illinois Attorney General so the students who did not receive their damage deposits may get what they are entitled to.

The DE regrets any damage the article has caused.

Thompson leaves to dedicate hall at SIU-C's sister school in Japan

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

Gov. James R. Thompson may be eating sushi this year for Easter dinner.

The governor is leaving Illinois today for a nine-day trip to Japan where he will dedicate a new hall at the University's sister school in Nakajo and explore new trade and business developments.

The Nakajo campus, nestled on the western seaboard of Japan's largest prefecture or state, Niigata, was completed almost a year ago.

Now the Illinois-Niigata Friendship Hall, a multi-million dollar cultural center is set for dedication in a two-language ceremony Friday.

The new hall will be accessible for both students as well as citizens of Nakajo. Facilities in the hall will include satellite communications equipment that links up to the Carbondale campus, a library, a computer laboratory and an auditorium-performing arts center.

Herrin: Last year good for recruiting

By Kevin Simpson
Staff Writer

The Salukis are looking for a few good men.

The spring signing period for NCAA basketball recruits begins April 11 and lasts until May 15.

Saluki head coach Rich Herrin would like to fill his remaining four scholarships with high school players. That is not to say the Dawgs will not sign a junior college player or two along the way, but that they are leaning towards high school talent.

Depth at the point guard position is not a big concern for Herrin, who expressed a need for a shooting guard, small forward, power forward and a center.

"We feel that we have a solid nucleus coming back," Herrin said. "We played eight players a great deal this year — we have six of them coming back. It's going to be very competitive for playing time next year."

SIU-C signed two players during the early signing period in November. Chris Lowery, a 5-10 high school guard and Marvin Kelley, a 6-6 all-America junior college forward will be coming to SIU-C next season.

SIU-C captured the Missouri Valley Conference regular season crown and a school-record 26 victories against only eight losses in 1989-90. Despite a quick exit from the National Invitation Tournament, the conference championship and 26 victories should help the Salukis when it comes time to draw national letter of intent signatures.

"This has been the best PR (public relations) this University has had in years," Herrin said. The fact that we won the Missouri Valley will help tremendously."

The Salukis lost two players, Freddie McSwain and Jerry Jones, who used up their eligibility and now are directing their energy toward graduation.

Numbers don't tell the whole story of a player's contribution to a team but Jones and McSwain combined to average 31 points and 15 rebounds a game. Their leadership void will have to be filled by junior starters Sterling Mahan and Rick Shipley.

While verbal commitments are a confidence booster, Herrin knows not to count on anything until they sign on the dotted line.

Before a player's name can be released as being signed, both the player and a parent or legal guardian must sign the letter of intent.

"We feel very good that we'll sign three or four players during the first week of the signing period," Herrin said. "It doesn't mean anything until they give you the ink."

Maule named 'Senior Player of the Year'

Top Saluki player overcame illness, injury to succeed

Mickey Maule, senior standout for the SIU-C men's tennis team, has been named the NCAA Region V "Senior Player of the Year." The award was announced Friday by the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association.

Maule, who began the season ranked 43rd nationally, was selected to play in the 1990 Rolex Indoor National Tournament earlier this year. The Aledo native also is a regional candidate for the Van Nostrand Memorial Award.

SIU-C men's tennis coach Dick LeFevre is glad his senior is getting some deserved attention.

"Mickey has done a great job, and has accomplished things on the court despite some injuries and illness," LeFevre said. "He has battled an abdominal muscle pull and played around it. He has developed the confidence to win."

Maule said early in the season that he plans to join the professional circuit after graduating this spring.

Cardinals should edge Cubs this year

As usual, St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs fans are entering the baseball season with high expectations.

Last season was memorable because, for the first time in a long while, Cardinals and Cubs fans could boast of having a team in the pennant race during the same season.

The teams were hooked up in a critical three-game series during the first week of September. Visions from this classic series will remain in the memories of Cardinals and Cubs fans for a long time. Maybe it was Pedro Guerrero's hot bat leading the Cardinals to an 11-8 come-from-behind victory in game one. Or maybe it was a daring rookie like Dwight Smith challenging the strong arm of Tom Brunansky in a crucial situation in game two. And there was Mitch "Wild Thing" Williams shutting down a Cardinal rally in game three. But last year is in the past. And with the 1990 season under way, Cardinals and Cubs fans have set their sights on a new decade.

Once again, the arrogant but talented New York Mets are picked as the team to beat in the National League East. The Mets are darn good but they will get a run for their money from the Cardinals.

Sure, the Chicago Cubs are the

Press Box

Greg

defending champions. This proves that it is sometimes better to be lucky than good.

The Cubs did not win because they were the best team in the division. They won because lady luck was on their side. Who would have thought two rookies like Jerome Walton and Dwight Smith would make the contributions they did last season? Who would have thought Williams would save 37 games? Who would have thought a guy like Mike Bielecki would win 18 games?

The Cubs received career years from a number of players. They were a big surprise last season. But 1990 will be different. Players like Walton and Smith are not secrets anymore. Opposing pitchers will adjust and it won't be as easy for them this season.

Williams may throw hard, but National League hitters know him now. I can't see him saving 37 games again. It may be a tough situation for Williams. Here's a guy with a bigger ego than Hulk Hogan. Bielecki has never had two good seasons in a row.

Too bad the Cardinals weren't as lucky as the Cubs last season. Two of their top pitchers, Greg Mathews and Danny Cox, spent the whole season on the disabled list. During the crucial month of September, the Cardinals played without their best all-around player Willie McGee and ace reliever Todd Worrell.

If the Cardinals had been half as lucky as Chicago last season, things would be a lot different. The Cubs would have been the champs instead of the champs.

The Cardinals, with an injury-riddled pitching staff, were counted on many times last season. Despite their problems, they were just one-half game behind the first-place Cubs with 20 games remaining in the regular season.

Why were the Cardinals able to stay in the race despite these problems? The Cardinals have something in their corner the Cubs and Mets don't ... a "White Rat."

As long as Whitey Herzog manages the Cardinals, they will be a force in the National League East. Despite the Cubs' banner year, it took everything they had to dispose of the Cardinals down the stretch.

Herzog isn't like Davey

Johnson and Don Zimmer. Herzog can win without getting banner years from his troops. Last season, he kept his team in the race with "household" names like Rick Horton, Ted Power, Bob Tewksbury and Frank DiPino. These guys will never do the cover of Sports Illustrated, but under Herzog's guidance, they almost won a division title.

Skeptics don't like the Cardinals chances without Worrell who will miss at least half of the season. But the Cardinals are used to non-believers. In 1985 they won the pennant despite losing star relief pitcher Bruce Sutter to free agency. In 1987 the Cardinals won the division, but slugger Jack Clark injured his ankle and was unavailable for the playoffs. The Cardinals defeated the San Francisco Giants though, for the National League championship. (By the way Cub fans, the Giants had Will Clark in 1987, too!)

Herzog has the talent this season. He has the shortstop of the 1980s (Ozzie Smith), one of the league's best clutch hitters (Pedro Guerrero) and a Rookie of the Year candidate (Todd Zeile).

The starting pitching looks good. St. Louis picked up free agent Bryn Smith (10-11, 2.84

Men's track wins 5 relays at SEMotion

By Peter Zalewski
Staff Writer

The Saluki men's track team was a force to be reckoned with at the SEMotion Relays this past weekend. The Salukis captured first place finishes in six events.

The team left Cape Girardeau, Mo., with a lot of confidence in its relay teams for the conference championship.

Coach Bill Cornell saw his Dawgs win three events on Friday against a field of teams that included Missouri and Kansas.

The hard practices the athletes have endured finally are starting to pay off with improved finishes.

Mark Stewart won the 10,000-meter run with a time of 30:36. Evan Taylor came in fourth with a time of 32:44.

"I can attribute the win to consistent hard work," Mark Stewart said. "I figured I had a chance of winning the event, but I entered the event to get experience for the conference championships."

The 5,000-meter run was won by Mike Kershaw with a time of 14:52.1. The 100-yard dash was won by Guy Sikora with a time of 10:93.

Kershaw and Sikora ran a good time, Cornell said.

The Salukis continued to dominate Saturday with first-place finishes in three events.

Guy Sikora, Eric Pegues, Ed Williams and Garrett Hines won the 4 x 100-meter relay with a time of 41:39. The same team also won the 4 x 200-meter relay with a time of 1:25.54.

Cornell said the first place finishes in the 4 x 100 and the 4 x 200 could be attributed to the continuing improvement in the baton exchange each week.

"We still have some room for improvement, but each one of the guys is doing his part. I was really happy with the relay events," Ed Williams said.

The team of Sikora, Pegues, Bernard Henry and Hines won the sprint medley relay with a time of 3:22.76.

Williams continued to run well by placing second in the 110 high hurdle with a time

Election officials: Hungarian center-right candidate wins

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI) — Election officials projected the center-right Hungarian Democratic Forum as the winner in runoff elections Sunday for Hungary's first democratically elected Parliament in four decades. Based on exit surveys at polling stations across the country, the Election Commission predicted the Forum would capture 37 percent of the vote, compared with 27 percent for its closest rival, the liberal Alliance of Free Democrats. The forecast was supported by early partial returns from 117 of 171 districts.

Ligachev slams plans for united Germany

MOSCOW (UPI) — Politburo hard-liner Yegor Ligachev mocked Mikhail Gorbachev's idea of a common European home Sunday and said a united Germany would be destabilizing for Europe. Ligachev, once the No. 2 man to Gorbachev in the Politburo, told the agricultural newspaper Selskaya Zhizn that socialism was being abandoned in Eastern Europe. Ligachev was in charge of ideology in the Politburo until he was demoted in 1988 and placed in charge of agriculture.

French researcher cites progress on AIDS

MARSEILLE, France (UPI) — A leading French medical team said Sunday it has developed an antibody that may help prevent carriers of the AIDS virus from becoming ill, but cautioned his work is still in its early stages. The antibody, named anti-beta 2 microglobulin, was discovered by a team at the state-run Institute for Science and Medical Research in the southern French city of Marseille, said the team's chief, Jean-Claude Chermann. Preliminary results of laboratory work suggest the antibody could prevent the virus responsible for acquired immune deficiency syndrome from reproducing itself, Chermann told French newspapers Sunday.

Cuban nuclear reactor startup postponed

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — A senior Cuban official said that operation of Cuba's first nuclear reactor, being built by Soviets at a site about 230 miles south of Miami, has been delayed by two to three years. "Our nuclear program is 100 percent for peaceful energy uses. We do not have nuclear arms," Cuban Deputy Foreign Minister Ramon Sanchez Parodi said in an interview over the weekend. "The operation of first reactor is delayed by several years. ... I think that first reactor will start functioning in two or three years."

Recently discovered comet to near sun

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A recently discovered comet will pass close to the sun on Monday but astronomers doubt the celestial visitor will put on much of a show. "As far as exciting the public, they're going to have to be very clever to see it," said Fred Whipple of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass. "I doubt if they will see it with the naked eye," Whipple said. Amateur astronomer Rodney Austin of New Zealand discovered comet Austin on Dec. 6.

Controversial photo exhibit to continue

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A federal judge Sunday conditionally barred law enforcement officials from taking further action against an art gallery for exhibiting erotic photographs taken by controversial artist Robert Mapplethorpe. U.S. District Judge Carl Rubin gave the Contemporary Arts Center of Cincinnati 24 hours to provide the county with copies of the 174 photographs in the exhibition, said gallery spokeswoman Amy Banister. If the center complies, Hamilton County Prosecutor Art Ney, Sheriff Simon Lies and Police Chief Lawrence Whalen were not to seize the photographs, close the exhibit or intimidate gallery patrons, Rubin said.

Stretching properly helps avoid injuries

Exercise focus of World Health Fair at University

Almost all sports injuries could be prevented by stretching and proper prevention methods, an orthopedic surgeon said Friday.

Dr. William Thorpe, who specializes in exercise and sports injuries, told a group attending World Health Day at the University Student Center that those athletes exceeding in their sport usually don't get injured.

"If you don't like the exercise, you are probably going to get hurt," Thorpe said.

Exercisers also should stretch for at least 1/3 of the time they spend exercising, Thorpe said. In other words, if a person plans to run for 30 minutes, he should stretch for 10 minutes of that time.

In choosing an exercise and fitness program, Thorpe said three types of exercise put different strains on the body.

Exercising for strength is the most risky exercise, followed by exercising for power. The safest form of exercise is endurance.

"You can exercise for a longer period of time in a safe zone," Thorpe said.

But in doing any exercise, people need to be aware of the point at which they become fatigued, he said.

"If you can do what you are doing and talk, you are not fatigued," Thorpe said. "After that, though, you begin breaking down muscle and protein and can do anaerobic damage to your heart."

Thorpe's lecture was the opening feature of World Health Fair.

Exercising for strength is the most dangerous, followed by exercising for power. The safest form of exercise is to build endurance.

The theme of the fair was "Our Planet, Our Health: Think Globally, Act Locally."

Sponsors of the fair included the University Wellness Center and Safety Center, Jackson County Health Department and Illinois Department of Public Health.

McDonald's of Carbondale, Murphysboro and Anna sponsored Ronald McDonald magic shows for area school children during the day.

The Jackson County Health Department and TIP of Southern Illinois held blood pressure, blood sugar and cholesterol screening.

Other participants such as the American Cancer Society, American Lung Association, Illinois J-Search and Southern Illinois Center for Independent Living displayed booths at the fair.

Exercise Myths

1. The best activity to improve physical fitness is jogging.
2. No pain, no gain.
3. Any kind of exercise can help trim off body fat.
4. Women who exercise excessively will build bulky, masculine-looking muscles.
5. You stop exercising, muscles will turn to fat.
6. The way to get ready for competition is to get psyched up.
7. You can tone muscles with passive exercise.
8. Weight lifting is bad for your cardio vascular system.
9. You can't hurt yourself doing low-impact aerobics.
10. Some people were just not meant to be athletes.

Exercise Truths

1. Jogging is a jumping exercise that wears out the knees. Swimming is the best way to improve fitness.
2. Pain is nature's way of telling you that something is wrong.
3. Some exercises such as power lifting and running don't help trim body fat.
4. Women have smooth muscles.
5. Muscles never turn to fat; they just weaken.
6. The way to get ready for competition is to stretch.
7. You can't exercise without effort.
8. Weight lifting is good for your cardiovascular system.
9. If you become fatigued in low impact aerobics, you can hurt yourself.
10. We are all athletes.

Student Party goals meet student needs

IT'S THE MIDDLE of April and, if you follow Undergraduate Student Government, you know what that means. Yes, it's time for the undergrads to select who they want to lead their government for the upcoming school year.

The president and vice president of USG are very important positions, for they are the official representatives of the student body at SIU-C. They oversee the internal workings of the governmental body which represents student concerns to administrative and other authorities, proposes alternative courses of action to solve campus dilemmas, allocates over $300,000 collected as student fees to different registered student organizations.

IN THE PAST, there have been some questionable people elected to office. Some administrations were obviously better than others. This year, however, voters are faced with a particularly difficult choice. We have eight very concerned, capable individuals running for the presidential and vice presidential seats. These hard working students represent four political parties with diversified agendas, but they all have one thing in common: a desire to better the lives of students on this campus.

However, one of these parties has taken a platform that must be recognized above the others. The Student Party candidates, Lissa Kuethe and Ed Walthers, have shown an extraordinary concern for and knowledge of the problems and questions University students face every day. Their platform includes realistic goals that are within USG's power to accomplish.

WITH KUETHE as president and Walthers as second in command, the students stand only to benefit. Both candidates have extensive experience within the USG infrastructure.

They also will provide a balanced ticket that they both represent different factions of the student body. Kuethe, a junior in marketing, is a member of Delta Zeta sorority and is involved in several campus groups. Walthers, a senior in education, is a non-traditional, married student and parent who lives in Murphysboro. Between the two, they should be able to represent a wide variety of concerns from students with all types of lifestyles.

BEYOND THE initial characters of these two running mates, let's look at the issues. The two have pledged to support plans for campuswide recycling efforts and a shuttle bus and a mass transit system to alleviate any problems with availability of parking spaces. They also want to begin a campaign to improve the overall image of SIU-C, sounding the final death knell to the party school myth.

The Student Party pledges to establish more student control over the Student Center. While concrete plans have yet to be formulated, this concept is only fair, since student fees have funded 91 percent of that facility. Those who foot the bills should be the ones to reap the benefits, right?

THEY ALSO want to fight campus apathy and increase student involvement in USG by more effective communication with the whole campus. This last point is extremely important, because an effective student government needs input from all factions of campus life, especially a campus as unique and diverse as SIU-C. With only a few, select groups in power, not all concerned voices are being heard.

King's Wok should be strictly BYOB

During the March 20 meeting of the Carbondale Liquor Control Commission, an application for a Class "A" liquor license for the King's Wok Restaurant was brought before the commission.

It should be noted that King's Wok is part of the 611 Bar-B-Q, Inc., which is owned by Lin Chang.

There were people present at the meeting who were opposed to the issuance of this or any liquor license in the South Highway 51 area, where King's Wok is located, and dissenting statements were made to the commission on their behalf by Rev. Les Pappas, Tommy Glisson and Mrs. Clyde Arnold.

In the discussion that followed, Commissioner Mills, Commissioner Morris and Commissioner Tuxhorn all made statements to the effect that although liquor had been allowed on the premises of the King's Wok in a "bring-your-own" format, no problems had arisen. However, there has been a noise problem in the past, with complaints being filed with the Jackson County Sheriff's Department.

Also, on further investigation, it has been found that, although there have been no liquor arrests or violations filed against King's Wok, Lin Chang or 611 Bar-B-Q, juveniles taken into custody for curfew violations who stated they could have purchased beer from 611 Bar-B-Q if they had so desired.

A 16-year-old also was found to be intoxicated when stopped for a traffic violation, who told the arresting officer that he had consumed the alcohol at 611 Bar-B-Q.

In fact, according to public information officer Art Wright, there were a total of five underage drinking arrests made at 611 Bar-B-Q in 1989.

Although there have been no formal charges of liquor license violations against Mrs. Chang or her businesses, any right thinking person would consider the above mentioned incidents a problem.

The area on south Highway 51, known as the South Highway Water District, has been a "dry" township as far back as anyone can remember.

Since that area was annexed to the city, however, Mrs. Chang was able to petition the city to make her property "wet."

This does not necessarily mean that a liquor license should be issued in that area. Concerned citizens have been passing petitions, collecting signatures to show the Liquor Control Commission that the citizens are opposed to alcohol sales of any kind in the South Highway area.

If you wish to personally support the opposition to this liquor license, please make sure you attend the April 16 meeting of the Local Liquor Control Commission in the City Council Chambers, 607 E. College, Carbondale, at 7 p.m. Your presence at this meeting is both needed and appreciated.—Tommy Glisson and Velma Halstead, Carbondale.

Student: City police need pointers on etiquette

I am a junior in administration of justice. This semester I am taking AJ 316, a research class in crime. Our class has been assigned an extra credit project that we have known about for a few weeks. Our project is to go to our local police station and locate arrests related to the phase of the moon, specific dates from last summer and to classify them accordingly. There are about thirty people in my class, each of us going somewhere different. I chose the Carbondale Police station. I didn't have an appointment, but I went into the station early in order to have enough time available to collect all my information. I had been to the station the previous week and the dispatcher told me to come back

Monday through Friday before four, I didn't need an appointment. When I arrived I was introduced to the lieutenant, "Oh, another student," he said. "Why can't your whole class come in at once to do whatever you need to, it's such a hassle for us when you come in every day." His continuing comments were directed to AJ professors and SIU in general, stating they should "get their act together." I went into this station for help, as you would think police would give you. All I felt was uncomfortable and unwanted. This lieutenant wasn't even the person I was to see, but I waited in his office for over a half hour. Not a word was spoken, and the person who was supposed to be "just a minute" never showed. I

Growing up we were taught that policemen were good people, always there to help you. Being a student in Criminal Justice I was not very impressed or pleased by the way I was treated. SIU students make Carbondale the size it is. Some of those officers wouldn't have jobs without those extra 25,000 people. Policemen are supposed to help citizens, not be rude or hassle them. AJ students respect that quality, but I've lost all respect to the ones that are supposed to protect me.

I'm wondering if there are other students who have had similar experiences, or maybe even a response to the way I was unjustly treated.—Kim Steging, junior, administration of justice.

Campus recycling trying to combat huge waste

In response to the many questions and comments that have received in the past month, I would like to make the following clarifications concerning the SIU-C Recycling Program:

1) SIU-C currently has in place a recycling program collecting paper and drink cans from campus offices.

2) The program is "small" now due to the fact that an infrastructure is being worked out that will insure the continued success of the program.

3) The program is and will continue to be expanded until it encompasses the entire campus.

4) Any office that wishes to take part in this program is welcome to and needs only to contact the Recycling Manager at 536-7511.

5) The program has the full support of the SIU-C administration.

6) All funds generated by the resale of materials collected are being put back into the program.

7) The dorms are currently not being pursued, but will be in the future.

These are questions that I have been most frequently asked in the past. If you have further questions I will be happy to answer them for you.

The solid waste crisis did not develop overnight nor will it be solved overnight. While the program is small in size it is a large success. In office paper alone, Pollution Control is collecting and recycling over 2,000 pounds a week!—Patrick C. Glisson, Recycling Manager.

University administrators said they see the opening of the new branch as bridge between the two countries.

Charles Klasek, associate vice president for academic affairs, said he saw the opening of Friendship hall as "a catalyst to open up the channels of trade and economic cooperation between the two nations."

SIU Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said the new hall is a step toward cementing the relationship between Illinois and the Niigata prefecture.

"Its importance is well represented by the Illinois delegation with Gov. Thompson in the lead and our board chairman A.D. Van Meter leading the SIU contingent," Pettit said.

Pettit and University President John C. Guyon will remain in Illinois for the Board of Trustees meeting later in the week.

Thompson said although he will be there to help dedicate the building, he will be primarily attending business development meetings. He said he was particularly excited about the first meeting of the Illinois-Niigata Council on Education and Economic Development.

Established in October by Thompson and Niigata Gov. Kiyoshi Kaneko, the council was designed to promote educational and cultural exchanges between the two places.

"Niigata is a hub of culture and education," Thompson said. "SIU has already established the first American university branch campus in Nakajo. This council expand upon these beginnings, promoting further educational and business exchanges between Japan and Illinois."

Klasek said University officials attending the council meeting would discuss future exchanges and projects for the 1990s. A possible exchange of elementary and secondary school teachers will be on the agenda.

ing treatment for hemophilia in 1984.

"His death ... followed a slow deterioration which began yesterday," Kleiman said at a news briefing late Sunday morning. "At the end, his family and a few of the others who loved him were close at his side. He never regained consciousness, and I am confident that he suffered no pain at the end."

"He was the boy next door who first showed to a stunned nation that no one is safe from the risk of AIDS," the doctor said. "He had no bitterness. With an honest simplicity, his was the voice that many—if not most—first heard, even though his was not the first voice."

Kleiman declined to say who, besides his family, was present at the time of White's death, but a family friend said singer Elton John was at the hospital during the night. John had been in Indianapolis all week, visiting White's family and other patients at the hospital.

John, making an unscheduled and emotional appearance at Saturday's Farm Aid concert in Indianapolis hours before White's death, introduced the song "Candle in the Wind" by saying:

"This one's for Ryan."

In 1985, parents and administrators fought White's effort to enter the seventh grade at Western Middle School in Russiaville, Ind., forcing him to continue his education at home by a computer-telephone hookup.

White returned to school for one day in February 1986 and was so excited, his mother said, that he picked out his clothes a day early and couldn't sleep the night before. But he had to suffer indignities that included a community "yard sale" held to raise money for the legal fight to keep him out of class and the absence of nearly half the school on that first day back.

In April 1986, a court cleared White's return to class permanently and he finished the year without incident.

Hostility subsided in Russiaville, but the Whites nevertheless moved south to Cicero, Ind., about 25 miles north of Indianapolis, in 1987. Students at Hamilton Heights High School, who had been educated about AIDS before White's arrival, welcomed him with open arms.

White, then 16, said his only Christmas wish in 1987 was that others afflicted with the deadly human immunodeficiency virus receive the same treatment.

"I hope that AIDS victims are not discriminated (against) any more," White told reporters.

John Thomas, executive director of the AIDS Resource Center in Dallas, said Sunday that White's struggles had taught Americans that AIDS patients said. "We know that 345 were saved. We can only say the rest must be dead."

He said officials would wait until Monday to conduct a full search of the ferry, which was cited for safety and fire violations after a 1988 blaze.

"The process is going to be a very slow one and we do not know when it will be finished," Onso said. "Until we have had a chance to look through the entire vessel, we will not know exactly how many have been killed."

The bodies of several children were among the dead, Onso said.

Onso and other officials said they were unable to comment on the theory of the vessel's captain, Hugo Larsen, that the fire was set deliberately.

Larsen told rescue officers he suspected arson, saying that only a short time after the crew extinguished a fire on the Caribbean dock a second blaze broke out on a deck directly above.

"The captain has told us that there were two fires on board," said Sven Voxtop of Denmark's Naval Rescue Service. "The first was put out, but the second took hold 15 minutes later and was more serious."

"In the captain's view, we are looking at a deliberate act of arson," Voxtop said.

Officials also declined to comment on speculation that an arsonist might have been motivated by resentment over the composition of the crew, which comprised mostly Portuguese and Filipinos.

Sailors' organizations in Denmark and Sweden criticized safety and crew conditions on board the Scandinavian Star, which had been serving the Oslo-Frederikshavn route for only six days.

"The (Filipino and Portuguese) crew could not understand each other and, from the reports we have received, did not seem trained for such an emergency," said Henrik Berlauf of Denmark's Sailors' Union.

He said the union was horrified by reports that safety devices on board the vessel did not appear to work.

Several passengers told Swedish media Sunday that fire alarms had not worked and the Filipino and Portuguese crew were unable to communicate with each other or with passengers.

When the ferry was under different ownership in 1988, an engine-room fire left the Scandinavian Star adrift in the Gulf of Mexico, although no one was seriously hurt.

A U.S. National Transportation Safety Board study found that the ship's smoke detectors apparently had failed, an automatic fire-extinguishing system did not work and emergency generators did not work for an hour after the fire.

face unwarranted discrimination and that the AIDS virus cannot be transmitted casually in settings such as the school.

"Has the discrimination and hatred gone away? No," he said. "But I think there's no question there has been some progress made. You just don't hear the stories about children like Ryan White today. I hope that's not because we're tired of hearing it."

White died 10 days after entering the hospital. He was sedated and put on life support in the hope that his body would respond better to treatment, doctors said.

He was responding to medication, but in the end he "began to respond less and less, and finally failed to respond and expired," still on the ventilator, Kleiman said.

the ballot because he was not registered March 30, the day he had to turn in his petition to run for re-election.

Johnson said his committee voted on whether or not Hall was enrolled on March 30, and came to "a very reasonable decision on the wrong question."

"In light that the bylaws do not specify a certain day, we should have asked, 'Was the day Bill was trying to have his requirements by unreasonable,'" Johnson said.

He said he was in a difficult position because he had to explain and defend his committee's decision, despite knowing he would have voted differently.

Collette D'Cruz-Endeley, a voting member of the committee, sent a letter to the appeals committee stating that upon further consideration she would have voted differently.

more pints than in the spring of 1989.

Ugent said the success of the blood drive depends on the community. "We need everybody," she said.

While the Missouri challenge and the parade are an effort to make giving blood a little fun, donating blood is serious business. This time of the year poses a need for blood because of the increased number of agricultural and automobile accidents, Ugent said.

Lockhart said he thinks the Missouri challenge works well because it gives the community something to fight for. He hopes many people will be encouraged to give.

Today the blood drive moves from the Recreation Center to Ballroom D of the Student Center where donors can go any day this week from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. to give blood.

Phantom jet crashes at Lambert Airport

BRIDGETON, Mo. (UPI) — An F-4 Phantom jet taking off from Lambert-St. Louis International Airport veered off a runway Sunday, crashed and burst into flames, but the two crewmen escaped with minor injuries, officials said.

The pilot was able to leave the wreck on his own and his weapons officer ejected, said Capt. Darrell Shoultz, spokesman for the 131st Tactical Fighter Wing of the Missouri Air National Guard.

The fire was extinguished quickly after the crash at 11:16 a.m. and the plane never left the ground, officials said.

The pilot, Capt. Carl Arizpe, 31, of St. Louis, fractured his left leg in the wreck, Shoultz said.

Lt. Kevin Greeley, 28, a weapons systems officer who recently transferred from the Illinois Air National Guard, suffered minor burns when he ejected from the rear seat of the aircraft, Shoultz said.

The crew members were hospitalized at DePaul Health Center in Bridgeton but their conditions were not released.

"They were on takeoff," Shoultz said. "During the takeoff roll, the aircraft veered off the runway and there was a fire."

Shoultz said military investigators would search the plane and interview the crew to determine the cause of the crash.

One commercial runway at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport remained out of service Sunday due to emergency vehicles blocking the runway.

Arizpe crawled out of the plane while Greeley ejected from the rear of the craft, Shoultz said. The plane was on a training mission.

'Highway kill' subject of student play

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

If you happen to find a dead animal along the roadside, it may be nothing more than Fresh Highway Kill.

But don't tell that to student playwright Robert Kermnitz, the script for Fresh Highway Kill took him over two years to complete.

"I wanted to write something different for the theater," Kermnitz said. "The trend today is to do something about your childhood and I didn't want to do that."

Kill is a comedy about five animals and their life on the roadside of a dangerous highway. Each animal gives its philosophy about life and death before proceeding to run off into the heavy traffic of the highway.

Fresh Highway Kill starts at 4 p.m. today for one show only in the Laboratory Theater, Communications Building. The show is free.

Kermnitz said he used the title of Fresh Highway Kill because of what his father used to say every time they were in a fancy restaurant.

"He used to say 'I wonder what fresh highway kill is on the menu today?'" Kermnitz said. "I used that as the title to the play because it was funny to me."

Kermnitz commented that the cast and crew has only had two weeks to work with the script, which is a short amount of time compared to the three to four weeks for a regular rehearsal.

Tami Shelp, director of the play, said she sees a lot of possibilities for this play, but that this is also a work in progress.

"There were a lot of changes made from the original script," Shelp said. "Some things that look great on paper, just don't work on stage."

Kermnitz said he was very happy with the way everything came together at the last minute.

"It was nerve-racking to watch the play for the first time," Kermnitz said. "I didn't picture it the way it has turned out. But I'm very happy with the changes."

Shelp said the script was well-written.

"For a comedy, it was very good. It has a very strong comic tone," Shelp said.

Shelp said there is a lesson to be learned from each animal and their outlook on life.

"Each animal dies with a different thought on their minds. Each animal has a different human personality in their character," Shelp said. "For instance, the cat talks big on philosophy but would never tempt fate (and cross the road)."

Kermnitz said the Lab space is the perfect place to showcase a new play because the space allows for intimate relationships between the characters and the audience.

THE 1990 SENIOR CHALLENGE BEGINS TODAY!!

The Student Alumni Council is asking SIU's 1990 graduating class to make a donation to the Super Student Scholarship Fund.

The Student Alumni Council will be calling SIU's Seniors today through April 12th to ask for your donation.

Seniors! Your $15 pledge will include a discounted year-long membership in the SIU Alumni Association. The first $6.50 will pay for your membership and the remaining $8.50 will go to the endowment fund. Membership dues are normally $20.

Seniors... We hope you can help provide this scholarship to SIU's Super Students of the future.

The class of 1986 set a record with $2,600 in pledges. We know the class of 1990 can meet that challenge.

Prof visits Soviet Union in University exchange

By Omonpee O. Whitfield
Staff Writer

Political analysts believe the cold war is over, and the University is warming up to the Soviet Union.

David Lapeza, professor of Russian language and literature, left Saturday for the Vladimir Polytechnic Institute in the Soviet Union as part of the SIU-VPI Exchange, the newly implemented student and faculty exchange program.

The exchange was initiated in November when Harry Miller, associate vice president of academic affairs, elected a delegation of professors to accompany him to the Soviet Union.

The delegation, consisting of Joan O'Brien, professor of classics, Gerald Courvoisier, professor of technical careers and Lapeza, presented papers at VPI. Shortly after, Lapeza received an invitation to return to Russia and lecture later in the school year.

Lapeza said the University's main goal in the exchange is to enable University students to participate in a program that the Russians say will teach a student to speak Russian in four weeks. "I'd like to have Russian students to be able to come and stay with our students and vice versa. They could really benefit by sharing the living experience, as opposed to living with professors or in special housing," he said.

Lapeza said the exchange program would not be restricted to students in any particular major but would be open to students or faculty who need to know Russian for advancement in their fields.

Although Lapeza has already received a $40,000 grant to aid in the exchange of both University and VPI students, Lapeza said there are still a few details that need to be worked out so that the exchange can run as smoothly as possible.

Political parties legalized in Nepal

KATHMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — Nepal's King Birendra yielded Sunday to six weeks of massive popular demands for democracy and legalized political parties that had been banned for 29 years.

Following the announcement on government-run radio and TV stations shortly before midnight, thousands of residents of Kathmandu cheered and whistled from rooftops. Many burned torches, and fireworks exploded in the night sky over the Himalayan kingdom.

"This is the people's victory," many chanted. Rock 'n' roll music boomed from radios in many homes.

The king's announcement followed a wave of political unrest that began Feb. 18 and swept across the nation, leaving about 50 people dead and thousands jailed.

The demonstrators demanded an end to the kingdom's partyless panchayat system and the legalization of political parties.

"The present ban on political parties has been lifted," the royal palace announcement said.

"In view of today's international situation and taking into consideration Nepal's unity and the present desire of the Nepalese people, the word 'partyless' has been deleted from the constitution."

Parties have been illegal in Nepal since an 18-month flirtation with British-style democracy beginning in July 1959. That system was abolished by King Mahendra.

The announcement came after a day of meetings between opposition leaders and Achyut Raj Regmi, the chief palace negotiator. Regmi is minister of education and agriculture in the four-member Cabinet formed by King Birendra Friday.

Another of the negotiators, Yog Prasad Upadhaya, spokesman for the Nepali Congress Party, said the goals of his party and seven allied communist parties had been achieved.

"The (pro-democracy) movement has been called off," Upadhaya said. "The movement was launched to achieve a multi-party system and, since we have achieved that, there is no reason why it should continue."

He said leaders suggested to the king that Parliament be dissolved, but said the timing of the move would be left to the discretion of the monarch.

"It is the nicest thing that has happened to the country in the last 30 years," Upadhaya said. "The way has been cleared for fruitful negotiations with the party leaders. It is hoped that all outstanding political problems will be solved in the course of the briefest possible period."

RBI single by Hollenkamp that gave SIU-C a 2-0 lead.

The Salukis scored three more runs in the second inning on RBIs by Ed Janke, Davis and Dave Wrona. The Salukis led 5-0.

Bend experienced control problems in the third inning. After walking the first two batters, Bradley's Matt Quinn doubled to left to score both runners. Quinn scored later in the inning and cut the Saluki lead to 5-3.

But the Salukis scored two more runs in the third. After Derek Shelton walked and Boyd Manne singled, Kirkpatrick doubled to left center scoring both runs and the Salukis led 7-3. The Salukis closed out the scoring with a run in the fourth.

The Salukis and Braves split Saturday's doubleheader.

The Salukis won the first game 9-1 behind the strong pitching of sophomore right-hander Sean Bergman. Bergman (4-1) yielded one earned run and nine hits. He struck out two and walked none.

Davis sparked a 19-hit Saluki attack going four-for-four with a home run and four RBIs. Wrona was three-for-four with three RBIs. Shields and Kirkpatrick also had three hits each.

The Salukis lost game two 7-4.

The Salukis led 3-1 after three innings, but Bradley scored three in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth.

high degree.

The Yankees and Dodgers, the dynasties, kept their great players, the Mantles and Raschis, the Robinsons and Sniders, and kept their focus. You played for pride. You played for money. A World Series check often was a large percentage of someone's salary.

We don't know what we have until we lose it. What we had last year was special, unique, the Bay Area, a region once scorned, dominant in the National Pastime, a Bay Bridge Series that, tragically, ended without anyone being able to cross the Bay Bridge.

"We really played two different ballgames," SIU-C coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. "The first part of the ballgame we looked very, very bad. We just played poorly on defense. I was really embarrassed with our performance and so was the team."

"Then you had the second half, the last inning more than anything. They came back and scored five runs...that is almost unheard of in softball, particularly against a good team like Northern Iowa. They're not quitters, they have yet to quit in a ballgame. I'm real proud of the way they came back."

Sophomore pitcher Dede Darnell got the call in the nightcap and picked up her eighth win of the spring season in the Salukis' 5-0 rout of the Panthers.

Darnell threw 5 1/3 innings of shutout ball, allowing only two hits, before freshman Angie Mick came in to close the door on Northern Iowa.

Senior captain Shelly Gibbs had an outstanding day at the plate, going four for six with two doubles and five RBIs.

Sophomore catcher Billie Ramsey contributed three RBIs in her three for seven effort.

Mick, who has had hip problems, got her first start of the spring season against Drake.

"We've been eager for her to get back in the starting lineup," Brechtelsbauer said. "She's come through with some very critical relief appearances, but it's going to be nice to have her back on a regular basis."

Mick gave the Bulldogs a little taste of SIU-C's softball future as she threw a three-hit shutout, giving the Dawgs a 3-0 victory. Mick recorded three strikeouts and did not allow a walk.

The Saluki offensive attack was sparked by a three for three performance from senior designated player Jan Anich.

In the second game against Drake, the Salukis came out swinging when junior left fielder Shannon Taylor drove a triple to the left field fence and later scored on a wild pitch by Bulldog Laurie Bowden.

Taylor also stole two bases in the contest, giving her 12 on the season to lead the Salukis.

Brown, the Saluki pitcher, scattered six hits, while allowing Drake just one run.

Venorsky pounded two hits in the ballgame, including a triple to left in the seventh.
