PLO sniper attack reported

Marines man Beirut port

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — U.S. Marine snipers smoothly took over Beirut's port Wednesday and guarded the evacuation of nearly 1,000 PLO guerrillas, who left the Israeli-occupied capital by sea for an Arab sanctuary after a thund­erous build-up of gun­fire.

Nearby, eight hours after the 800 leathernecks swarmed ashore at dawn and took control of the port from French paratrooper colleagues, tanks and 500 Palestine Liberation Organization fighters braving automatic rifles boarded the Cypress passenger ship Sol Georgios bound for the Syrian port of Tartous. They jammed the decks and declared "revolution until victory." Two hours later, an estimated 500 PLO guerrillas left aboard the Greenpeace vessel, waving Palestinian flags and portraits of PLO chairman Yasser Arafat. PLO and Syrian government spokesmen said the evacuation for Saddam Hussein.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli military command reported an Israeli soldier was killed by a sniper Tuesday night at the Cabinet Semeama crossing point between east and west Beirut, where PLO and Israeli forces face each other a few dozen yards apart. But there was no indication Israel would retaliate by attacking PLO targets or by stopping the evacuation.

In Damascus, the Syrian government warned Lebanon's Christian President-elect Bashir Gemayel against signing a peace treaty with Israel if Gemayel, whose Christian forces supported Israel's 3 1/2 invasion, has been quoted as saying he wants peace with Israel after he takes office Sept. 23.

Verification forms needed for Social Security benefits

By Andrew Herrmann

Students receiving Social Security benefits are being urged to return their enrollment verification forms to Woodway Hall "as soon as possible," said Bob Drone, director of the PLO and Lebanese Social Security Office.

Failure to return the form could result in an immediate cutoff of Social Security benefits, he said. The forms, which the students should have received recently, should be brought to the Financial Aid Office at Woodway Hall for verification and processing, he said.

If the student has not yet to receive the form, they should call a pickup a 12 P.M. at Woodway Hall or contact the Social Security office located in the Federal Building.

The form is being mailed by the University within 15 days of the date that the student received the form.

Six European nations charged with unfairly subsidizing steel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department ruled Wednesday that six European nations unfairly subsidized steel sold in the United States, a finding certain to exacerbate a trading relationship already strained by the dispute over the Soviet natural gas pipeline.

In its final ruling, the department charged that steel products shipped here by 13 European steelmakers were subsidized by their governments through a variety of means, including low-cost loans. Twenty-five other producers were found to have given either no subsidies or negligible ones.

The ruling is a step toward imposition of antidumping duties in an amount aimed at offsetting the subsidies. The European steelmakers had argued that their product was inextricably linked to the Soviet pipeline project and France’s order to install equipment to the Soviet Union’s Siberian natural gas pipeline.

The steel industry has complained it is being hurt by the imports while producing at less than half its capacity, the worst slump since the Great Depression of the 1930s. The European steel industry, too, is weak.

But after the preliminary ruling, the Commerce Department also has found that steel producers from six European countries have sold their products at unfairly low prices — prices below the cost of production, or “dumping” prices — in the United States. A dumping margin is due in that case by Oct. 25.

MEXICO GIVES U.S. $1 BILLION FOR OIL

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico will sell the United States 60 million barrels of oil at special prices in return for financial help which will move to maintain supplies of basic goods in border towns whose shelves have been cleared by Americans seeking cheap-peso bargains, the government said Wednesday.

Treasury Secretary Jesus Silva Herzog announced the additional oil sale as part of a program to keep the nation afloat in the current economic crisis and avoid default on its $30 billion foreign debt, largest among developing countries.

The shipments of Isthmus crude will cover an advance of $1 billion made by the United States last week as Silva Herzog and other Mexican officials met with international bankers to reschedule debt payments.

Under the agreement, signed Tuesday with the U.S. Department of Energy, the state Pemex oil monopoly will ship 60,000 barrels of additional oil a day during the last quarter of 1983, 140,000 during the second quarter and 120,000 during the third quarter.

Silva Herzog said the price would fluctuate with international levels, but would cost no more than $2.65 a barrel.

The oil is destined for the U.S. strategic petroleum reserve and sources said the additional supplies will make Mexico the largest supplier of the reserve.

The nation was the largest single supplier of crude oil to the United States in May, the latest month for which statistics are available, shipping a total of 767,600 barrels a day.

A $10 billion shortfall in revenues — partly the result of the world oil glut that has sharply reduced oil revenues — is causing a severe shortage of dollars. With its huge debt Mexico cannot borrow as readily as before and is having trouble meeting payments due on the debt.

The hordes of American shoppers have caused shortages of basic goods in some Mexican border cities.

Commonwealth Department officials met on Tuesday with representatives of chambers of commerce from Mexican cities along the 1,740-mile border. The semi-official newspaper El Nacional said Wednesday that the Commerce Department would announce a plan soon to prevent lack of supplies on the border, but no details were available from department officials.

Business in U.S. border towns, where most stores accept pesos and depend heavily on Mexican trade, also has suffered because many Mexicans can no longer afford to shop there.

Although the original budget blueprint was announced by Thompson in March, it has been revised several times since then.

“There are plans and there are plans,” Mandeville said. “We’ll have a plan ready for the administration to work out.”

We’ll probably give the employees a couple more days. Then we will take about a week to get the information into the computer,” Daugherty said.

Approximately 30 percent of the total employees answered the questionnaire, he said.

Information or announcements that departments want published in the NewswEEKLY should be sent to the University News Service at least two weeks ahead of the desired publication date.

Cutting library hours at 'school of learning' doesn't make sense

Operating hours at Morris Library will be cut back beginning Monday, Oct. 18.

No longer will the person with two exams and a term paper due tomorrow be able to work at the library until midnight. It will now close at 11.

Kenneth G. Peterson, dean of library affairs, has placed the blame on the loss of 15 staff positions and $9,700 in support-cost funding over the past two years.

According to Peterson, the reduced hours will mean lowered student and staff use and a lightening of full-time staff.

There is a question raised by this. Why is an academic institution at which library hours are cut back not there be other places much more deserving of the axe?

Many people study exclusively at the library and need that extra help in preparing. In fact, people often express a desire for the library to remain open around the clock.

Cutting back library hours at an institution of higher education is similar to removing lab time at a hospital. But was an integral part of their respective institutions.

Gone going, administratively. That's the way to run a place of learning. Who wants to study late anyway? If you have to cut something, why library hours?

Malaysian students a credit to their home

Responding to Charles Victor's editorial Aug. 21: Re Malaysia's contribution to Americanism, I think one is faced with an embarrassing question: why is it that Malaysia, a country of 15 million people, is so articulate and so well spoken about in the United States? The answer is simple, the people of Malaysia are open-minded and broad-minded.

Malaysian students are a credit to their home.

Express your opinion but please don't deface

Although we do not wish to deny anyone their constitutional right to free speech, this does not include the right to deface public property. We are referring to the anti-Khomeni posters which have been pasted on the white columns, doors, lightpools, and sidewalks of the Engineering and Technology Buildings. It should be noted that several thousand dollars of the taxpayers' money was spent for repainting the building just a few weeks ago. Community bulletin boards are supplied for display of such posters. Responsible people, if they are truly responsible, should take heed and remove the posters to more taxpayers' money is not spent in an effort to employ them to remove them. -- Dennis Champagne and Kirk Simon, Graduate Students, Engineering Mechanics and Mechanics

Orgasm advice program causes stink in Colorado

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — University of Colorado students say a member of the Board of Regents is out of touch with the lines for trying to stop a campus program that promises better sexual enjoyment for women students.

For Mr. Dietze, a Boulder lawyer and member of the Regents, said Tuesday the university has no business sponsoring the Women's Orgasm Concern Group and other sexual counseling sessions at the campus health center.

"I believe these are unnecessary, frivolous and absurd offerings," Dietze said at a news conference Tuesday. He first voiced objections to the services at a Regent's meeting last Thursday.

Some students disagree and point out that funding for the sessions comes from student fees.

"What gives him the right to classify certain programs as frills?" said Gloria Giger, a junior who serves on a campus health advisory board. "What students are looking for today is very different than 20 years ago."

Ms. Geiger said students are upset over Dietze's effort to reduce sexual enrichment programs, including sexual counseling, must pay an extra 85 cents a session.

In addition to the sexual programs, which account for $7,000 of the center's annual budget, Wardenburg offers individual and group counseling in losing weight, quitting smoking and aerobics dancing.

"It offends the fundamental notion of an institution of higher education," said Dietze. "I couldn't look the voters who selected me straight in the face if I approved that dollar amount every semester without asking some questions."

Politicians too have been calling about removing blocking seats, which League members have said they cannot do. "Trying to be fair and equitable isn't going to be easy," Klain said.

Heart appealed to crowd, but Cougar lacked tact in concert

By Cynthia Rector

Staff Writer

John Cougar’s “American Fool” is in its eleventh album chart, and he was, without a doubt, hot at the Arena Tuesday night.

Being from the “heartland,” which for Cougar is Bloomington, Ind., was the backbone of his act. It was the primary way he connected with his audience, and was the way he introduced his current hit “Jack and Diane.”

The show performed with all the energy of a man who, after recording five albums, is now commercially successful and doing a major tour. Sharing his gusto, his female back-up singers are already charting, have their tight-clad bodies and lights to his audience: “Hold on to sixteen as long as you can. Changes come around, it’s too fast.”

But Heart’s attitude may have been anti-climatic for many reviewers might feel, as long as much music may not be listened to the radio within the last six years. “Crazy on You” and “Straight on for Yet.” “Magic Man” and “Barracuda” probably rang familiar chords. Ann Wilson must breathe through her diaphragm, or she didn’t know the “heartland.”

But Heart was anti-climatic for many reviewers might see the words to the song, sometimes offering, always listening. The band maintained a fast pace, seasoning it with 1970’s ballad “Dreamboat Annie,” and “Dog and Butterfly,” perhaps their best song of the evening.

Those who came to the concert thinking they didn’t know much Heart music were probably surprised, but much Heart music seemed and continued to, with the success of their latest album, “Private Audience.”

Ann Wilson took the lead: “Build that calling to your telephone answering machine leave a message. It may be that your message is too formal, too sterile, says communications expert Gary Goodwin. Instead, he recommends a little music or a clever message to get your callers to speak up.

Concert Review

imitating Bruce Springsteen is the mirror at night, as most reviewers seem to feel, but rather from experiencing Midwestern life and writing about it. He may have a bit of the Boss’s energy, and he may sing about frustrated love, but he lacks the Boss personality and last.

Judging from initial applause, it seemed that Heart was anti-climatic for many audience members, who came to see chart-topping Cougar. But the Wilson vocals quickly reminded the audience of the charts they’ve topped and continue to, with the success of their latest album, “Private Audience.”

Expert Offers Answering Machine Tips

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Does the recording on your telephone answering machine leave callers tongue-tied? is too formal, too sterile, says communications expert Gary Goodwin. Instead, he recommends a little music or a clever message to get your callers to speak up.
Thieves sell ‘hot’ garlic on the streets

GILROY, Calif. (AP) - Legend has it that garlic will ward off vampires, but a new breed of criminals is finding it a more practical use for the smelly herb - stealing it from the fields and selling it on the streets.

"Four or five cars drive up and all the people jump out with sacks and run into the fields," said Bill Christopher, whose father, Don, owns the A&D Cooperative Arts Association ranch. "If we don’t get to them within 10 minutes, they’re gone.

A&D, which produces 10 million pounds of garlic a season on 300 acres, is the biggest grower in Gilroy, the self-proclaimed “Garlic Capital of the World.” It’s 19 miles south of San Francisco.

Don Christopher says the theft problem has gotten so bad he has had to hire security guards to patrol his fields.

"Without the guards, we wouldn’t have any crop left to harvest," Christopher said. He said last week the guards halted a pickup truck loaded with 800 pounds of garlic.

No estimate of the total loss to growers is available, but Christopher says he lost 2,000 to 5,000 pounds of garlic this season.

The wholesale price of garlic this season ranges from 80 cents to $1.15 a pound.

Health information available in the Student Center

You may be feeling lousy and yet not be sure if the cure is worth the trip to the Health Service, or you may just want to talk to someone if it’s just a case of some mild blues or a bit of a cold coming on.

The Student Health Assessment Center, located on the south end of the Student Center, is in place to go on a walk-in basis for answers to health questions. “We see students who, if they’re not really sure whether they need to see a physician or not, can stop by here first,” said Chris Berkowitz, a full-time nurse at the center. “Or if they just need someone to talk to about a health problem they’re not really sure of.”

The center, which replaced the Student Outreach Program in Trueblood Hall at the beginning of this semester, is located in the Student Center so that more students can have access to the services and information it provides.

Berkowitz said, “It was being utilized a lot over at Trueblood.” she said, “so we wanted to centralize it so that everyone had access.”

Students who need health advice, information about preventative care or just general information about the way their bodies work can get it at the center, part of the SIU-C Student Wellness Program, rather than making an unnecessary trip over to the Health Service.

“In a survey we took, we found that only 30 to 34 percent of all the students who came into the center at Trueblood needed to go to the nurse practitioner,” she said. “The idea is to encourage preventive utilization of the health services and the utilization of the health center.”

Berkowitz said that the center has a large stock book about health, a pamphlet rack on specific health problems and a cold counter, all of which are there for all students to use.

“Cold, she said, cannot be cured by antibiotics contrary to cold care center can inform students about how they can take care of themselves when a cold is coming on. See heath, Page 13.

Two SIU-C professors begin agronomy studies in Zambia

By Anita Jackson
Staff Writer

Two SIU-C visiting assistant professors in agricultural science have begun research in the South African country of Zambia. According to Maro Seta, secretary to the Depart- ment of International Food and Agricultural Development, Robert E. Hudgens and Paul Gibson are participating in a $12 million project, sponsored by the U.S. Agency for International Development, in which SICU will help improve food production in Zambia. SIU- C is working with the University of Illinois and the University of Maryland on the project. Hudgens and Gibson will spend a year in the country, where they will work with local farmers to improve agriculture.

Coal conference to promote greater worker participation

By Robert Green
Staff Writer

The possible benefits of "workplace participation" in the coal industry will be the main focus of a conference to be held from Aug. 2 to 3 in the Student Center Auditorium.

Conference coordinator Ronald Mason, associate professor of political science, said that the conference will bring together over 100 coal industry experts from many fields.

"This will be an important national conference," he said. "We've been able to assemble people from government, rank and file workers, labor leaders, consultants, and mine operators, as well as some of the best academics. I think it will be a success."

Mason said the workplace participation concept is helping management and workers help make management decisions.

"It has been tried on a limited basis in the coal industry and other industries, with semi-autonomous teams participating in the management process," he said.

Mason said that the concept of workplace participation has become a small but growing movement in the United States and abroad and is being initiated by both labor and management.

"The movement is worldwide in scope, and we're beginning to see it take root here in the auto industry and other industries," he said.

U.S. Rep. Paul Simon and John Conyers (D-Mich.) will make special presentations during the conference. Simon will speak during the luncheon break scheduled from 12:30 to 2 and Conyers will make his presentation from 10:30 to 11:00. A television documentary of the entire conference will be made by WSUI-TV.

Mason said that many of the conference sessions will center on a two-year experiment at the Ruston Mine in Pennsylvania, sponsored by the United Mine Workers and the University of Illinois. Other sessions will focus on possible benefits of workplace participation in the coal industry and how the two can work together.

A discussion about possible obstacles to the incorporation of workplace participation in the coal industry will be from 3:45 to 5:30. The keynote address, scheduled for 8 p.m., will be given by Eric Trudel and will be entitled "The Future of Workplace Participation in the Coal Industry." Mason said.

The conference is sponsored by the Coal Extraction and Utilization Research Center and the Graduate School. Mason said that many people at the University have worked to put the national conference together.

"This indicates that if we at the University can work together, we can still do high quality work and research, even with budget cutbacks," Mason said.

The Salukis are trying out for this year's team.

Tryouts for the Salukis are looking for a few good pilots--ground events personnel.

The SIUC Salukis are seeking for a few good pilots--ground events personnel. Tryouts for the Salukis are being held in two parts: a ground events session at 5 p.m. Thursday, and a flying even on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. Friday. Both sessions will be at the University Flight Training Center, north of the main terminal building at the Southern Illinois Airport.

Any SIUC student with a current pilot's license is eligible to try for a spot on the Salukis flight team. Captain Tony Mason, coach of the Salukis, said there will be a fee to cover the cost of aircraft time. Any students trying out must be able to show a current University single engine aircraft, Young said.

Persons holding flight instructor or higher license ratings are not eligible to try out.

No advance registration is needed to try out.

The ground events will include aircraft recognition tests and a flight computer examination.

Center Duffy Volkman, who had quit the SIC football team last week, did an about face this Monday and returned to practice.

Volkman rejoins squad

SIC Sports Information Director Don Reimund confirmed Volkman's return Wednesday afternoon. The fifth-year senior had entered the fall practices as the Sabak's number two center and fullback, with starter Steve Phia currently nursing a knee injury.

The Sabals will hold their second open practice Friday at 3 p.m. at McAndrew Stadium. It is expected to be the team's last fall practice before they open the season Sept. 4 at Western Illinois.

Cubs can't stop winning

CHICAGO AP - Streaking Bill Buckner stroked two hits Wednesday, giving him 16 in the last four games, and Randy Martz and Lee Smith held San Francisco to four hits as the Chicago Cubs posted their fourth straight victory, a 4-2 triumph over the slumping San Francisco Giants, who lost their fifth in a row.

San Francisco took a 1-0 lead off Martz, 8-1, in the third inning. Bill May led off with a double, moved to third on Guy Sullens sacrifice fly and scored on a safety squeeze by losing pitcher Jim Barr, 5-3.

Chicago came back with four runs in its half of the inning. Jody Davis and Larry Howard hit consecutive singles and, after Martz's bunt forced Davis at third, Bump Wills doubled off the wall in left field to score Davis and tie the game. Ryne Sandberg followed with a sacrifice fly and Buckner singled Wills home for a 3-1 lead.

Leon Durham, who had three hits, tripled off the left field wall to score Buckner with the fourth run and chase Barr in favor of Fred Brenning.

Reggie Smith pulled San Francisco within 4-2 when he slammed a 1-1 pitch from Martz into the left field seats in the seventh inning for his 14th home run of the season.

said.

The remainder of the squad is comprised of Kathy Blasingame, a junior from Harvey, and freshmen Chris Haugen, Lisa Reimund and Karen Russell.

Even though Blasingame was ineligible to run last fall, her experience as a freshman on the squad and the maturity she has as a junior should add a sense of stability to help the freshmen get adjusted to collegiate competition, Blackman said.

Blackman also said that Hangren doesn't have as much experience as Reimund and Russell but has a lot of "stick-to-it-ness."

According to Blackman's plans, Reimund and Russell should start this season running in the top ten. How much they improve, she added, depends on their confidence.

The women harriers open the 1982 season Sept. 10 in Normal where they will face Illinois State University and the University of Illinois in a triangular meet.

Racing fills Du Quoin slate

Racing, both auto and tractor, will be among the activities scheduled for Labor Day weekend at the Du Quoin State Fair.

On Saturday, Sept. 4, the second edition of the World Driving Derby will be held with four-year-old trotters by owners of a win in the recent 10-year-old Trotters Trot at Myrtle Park. Myrtle Park has shown the consistency of the group of four-year-old trotters by having a win in the recent 10-year-old Trotters Trot at Myrtle Park. Myrtle Park also adds a chance to become a Triple Crown winner since Super Bowl, speed bowl's father, accomplished that feat in 1977.

Jack Donlan, Garvey's counterpart with the owners' group, had said he would not make a proposal until the union had provided a specific response to the owners' first offer, made July 13.

Garvey also said the union's executive committee would hold an emergency meeting Sunday to decide its next step. One member of the committee, Detroit's Stan White, adhered to a possible strike.

Darnell has been in the top-10 in the season point rankings of USAC Stocks for 11 consecutive seasons. His best finish was in 1979 when he was the series runner-up. He was sixth in the 1981 standings.

Another scheduled USAC event will be held Monday, Sept. 6 when the USAC Gold Crown Championship Dirt Car race is held.

Drivers for the event include Rich Vogler of Indianapolis, Vogler, the runner-up in the 1981 USAC Silver Crown Championship series, will be trying for his second consecutive Du Quoin State Fair victory.

Another driver competing in the race will be Kenny Schrader of Kenton, Mo.

Schrader was tied for the point lead in USAC Silver Crown series with Larry Dickson after the first four races of the 1982 season. The Du Quoin event will count for Silver Crown as well as Gold Crown points.

In 1981, Schrader finished third in the USAC Stock Car race, fifth in Midget series and 12th in Silver Crown points.

When Students Compare, We Gain A Customer
Saluki line weakened as Wetzell injured

By Dan Devine
Staff Writer

Before this week, Scott Wetzell probably wasn't aware that he had a weak elbow.

Monday the sophomore defensive end found out, and in a bad way.

Wetzell suffered what assistant trainer Ed Thompson called an "avulsion fracture" of the right elbow during practice and was operated on Tuesday morning. During surgery, doctors discovered even more damage and placed two pins in the elbow. Wetzell will be in a cast for a month, and won't be able to play for at least eight weeks.

The injury puts a cramp in the Saluki's already thin defensive end contingent. Wetzell was battling junior Dan Dobbe for one spot while converted linebacker Ashley Sledge had won the other job. Now there's little depth from the Saluki starters.

"The position I'm concerned about are those ends because they haven't been tried," said SICU Coach Key Dempsey. "We're worried about our depth. Somehow we've got to get more competition up there."

Besides, that the Saluki defensive line is SICU's return to strength started in a unit that was second in the Missouri Valley Conference against the run and fifth in total defense. Only one team, Indiana State, surrendered more points than the Salukis.

"We've usually been high on defense," said Dempsey. "We think we're sound."

But though the secondary is the secondary, which return all four starters, the team will miss Wetzell's capable junior college transfer. Greg Schupp, an all conference selection all four years, was moved to the strong side, while sophomore John Wilson has edged out returning starter B.T. Thomas for the weak side job. Starting cornerbacks Terry Taylor and Dennis Leacock will also be missed. Although Haywood is still a key for a defensive front line, Daniel for a starting spot. And with senior Eugene Walker also available at the corner, the Salukis are loaded in the secondary.

"It's going to be a good unit," said Dempsey. "They're competitive, they like to hit and they've played together."

The injury to Wetzell was SIU-C's second major injury of the year. Center Steve Burris, a.k.a. "Burris Bowl" from minor knee surgery and may miss the season up until August, with the Salukis at Western Illinois.

SIU-C looks solid in the secondary, although an injury to last year's nose guard, Tracy Oakley to step in. Oakley was expected to challenge Leavester for the job any way, but Leavester, should he respond to treatment and be available, to play.

The key figures in Dempsey's defense are seniors John Grandberry and Granville Butler. Harper, an all conference defensive end last year, is being moved to linebacker this year.

"They would run away from him last year," said Dempsey, who remembers Harper chasing ballcarriers across the field to make tackles. This year he won't have to go.

Dempsey's defensive strategy is based on getting penetration from his linemen, and tackles from his linebackers.

"We try for penetration," said Dempsey. "We're not a 'hit and hold' type team."

Not that Dempsey allows his peers to get away. First they have to protect their own. Dempsey also likes to shield his linebackers behind the tackles.

"We try to protect our outside backers to make a lot of tackles."

In the secondary, Dempsey expects to make veteran starting players, and man-to-man coverages.

Returning veterans to anchor fielders' 'traditional' season

By JoAnn Marchesewski
Sports Editor

Tradition will be the name of the game for the Saluki field hockey team this year. Shorts will be back, custom t-shirts and the Great Pumpkin will be on hand as the team makes an appearance during a season which should find the Salukis returning to the ranks of their winning ways. hopes Coach Janice Illner.

"I'm very optimistic based on the fact that we have so many returning players," Illner said. Ten starters are returning including co-captains Ellen Massey and Barb Smith. Illner enters her seventh year as SIU-C's all time second leading scorer with 60 goals still far behind the 125 of Helen Meyer. Massey, who holds the SIU-C record for goals scored in one game with six against Principia, will be a key to the starting lineup. Smith, an All-American Honorable Mention last year, returns to her position at midfield.

The return of returning players figure into the Saluki attack are Cheryl Cuozzo (goalie) and Lisa Geppert, a key factor in the backfield. Also returning include halfbacks Brenda Brown and Ruth Nowak, fullbacks Doris Well and Nancy McAuley, and goalie Lois Less Cates.

"We have good young players, too, who can push the returning players," said Illner.

All the Saluki players will participate in scrimmage games 11 a.m. Sunday at Wham Field with other clubs.

"There will be games every 45 minutes, and everyone will see a lot of action," Illner said. "It should be a good preview of the team before the season starts." The Salukis will open the season by hosting Purdue at 1 p.m. Sept. 1 at Wham Field. Other home dates include Sept. 28, Oct. 5, 6 and Oct. 27 at Western Illinois, and Sept. 30. The Salukis will also host the SIU Hockey Fest Oct. 1-3 and the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference Tournament Nov. 4.

"A lot of teams will be playing at the Hockey Fest," Illner said.

"We'll be playing five games, we can get to play 15 games. We're not determined winners, it's just a weekend for the teams to get together."

The scrimmage Sunday will be the first time we're back for fall workouts. The team started off Aug. 15 with morning and afternoon practices, weight training and conditioning.

"We had practice at 4:45 a.m. every day the last week," Illner said. "It was a hard way to start, but we got a lot done."

Besides being prepared for the physical aspects of the game, any team needs to be ready mentally and emotionally as well.

"Our team has always been a team that has been so driven by spirit and enthusiasm," said the coach. "But this year we lost some energy. Last year we weren't as competitive and being inside at practice was hard."

Last year the Salukis repeated their fourth place finish in the Illinois AIAW Championship.

Field hockey tradition helps provide part of that spirit, and one of those traditions are the kilts that the team wears. Illner said. "A Sports Illustrated article said the Olympic team said they were planning to use shorts, but we're still wearing our kilts. Illner commented, "It would take a lot of convincing to make the girls to give them up,"

Another tradition, unique to Illinois' Saluki field hockey teams, is the appearance of the Great Pumpkin. The Great Pumpkin first showed up in 1969, when Illner first became the coach, and she's been here every year since. His presence has added spark to the team.

"This year will be the first time when the pumpkin, who is the mascot for the field hockey team and the girls are excited about it," Illner said. The Salukis host West Virginia at 1 p.m. Sept. 28, so an appearance could be likely.

The veterans are back, kilts have been put away, and the team is both ready to win and to have fun. Illner hopes the winning tradition will get back on track.

Harriers to stick together to win

By Dean Kirt
Staff Writer

If any word can sum up the strategies of this year's Harriers' "crouched country squad," it's teamwork.

"I'm not counting on an overall team effort," said Coach Carl Moulton. "But being a Harriets is being together as a team, and being together as a team, she added, is the most effective way of running because it enables the team to get the best performance possible. She also said that the closer the runners are kept together during a meet, the higher the team will score.

But even though Blackman is not playing in full strength, having any, standout runners such as Patty Sargent and Tracy and 4,000-meter runner Jan Cottrell, is not as far behind last year's All America team, she said. Blackman added that the squad's seven sophomores, Oda Ann Bertram and Laura Falci, will be the deciding factor of the squad's performance this season.

"The sophomores will tell us the tale of what the team does," said Coach Carl Moulton.

We have a good young players, too, who can push the returning players," said Illner.

All the Saluki players will participate in scrimmage games 11 a.m. Sunday at Wham Field with other clubs.

"There will be games every 45 minutes, and everyone will see a lot of action," Illner said. "It should be a good preview of the team before the season starts." The Salukis will also host the SIU Hockey Fest Oct. 1-3 and the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference Tournament Nov. 4.

"A lot of teams will be playing at the Hockey Fest," Illner said.

Science fiction group offers members chance to see future

By Jeanna Hunter
Staff Writer

Monster loving, outer space adventurers are alive and well and living in Southern Illinois. The Science Fiction Club is a haven for all types of science fiction fans and fanatics, but its subject matter, although spectacular, is a lot more down to earth.

"All science fiction has a basis in reality," Marcel Jacobs, radio and TV major, and club member, said. "It's a way of looking at current world problems.

Derrick White, president of the Science Fiction club, said, "It is an extrapolation of reality, distanced only because it is fiction." White said that the issues and subjects discussed are very real.

Science Fiction club members have been known to drift in and out. White said. But the weekly meetings provide perfect opportunities to discuss or argue about the deeper meanings and technical aspects of popular science fiction works of art.

Because a lot of media students are involved in the Science Fiction club, White said that discussions tend to focus on the merits and problems of the latest movies.

The big crop of summer science fiction movies have given members of the Science Fiction club a lot to talk about. And, what do club members think about this summer's hit, "ET"?

"ET" is great, the best I've seen in a long time," White said. "It does everything right. It gives you something to think about."

But Jacobs found grounds to disagree. "I was not that excited by it," he said. "It was a nice film, a good film, but not fantastic." Because the Science Fiction club is a recognized student organization, "we must occasionally do activities for the school, but basically we discuss science fiction," White said.

In the past the organization has co-sponsored such films as "Goldfinger" and "The Last Days of Man on Earth," with the Student Programming Committee.

The biggest project the Science Fiction club puts together is the magazine Alternatives, which prints original fiction. White, editor-in-chief of the magazine, said that problems with printing regularly have risen in the past.

But, he said, "we are trying to get an issue out for fall semester." Alternatives is funded by the Science Fiction club members themselves. White said everyone usually pitches in some money to cover printing costs.

Science fiction fans are a growing sub-culture, said White. "And the Science Fiction club is the answer for many people who share this interest."

White said that anyone who has any interest in science fiction is welcome to attend one of the weekly meetings.

Southern Illinois is not the only place where interest in science fiction is increasing. Jacobs said, "right now, it's not as good as it could be. Over one half of the films released are science fiction and the world Science Fiction Group has its biggest membership ever."

Jacobs said, the science fiction craze started for most people when they discovered the deeper meaning in "Star Wars."
Despite stereotypes, blacks composing variety of music

When the names of black composers are mentioned, most people think of finger-snapping music—jazz, rock or spiritual blues. However, have you ever heard black music, often incorrectly referred to as classical music, and their efforts, have gone virtually unnoticed.

Art music is written by trained composers and is in contrast to jazz, folk and popular music. Said Jan Douglas, an SIUC graduate student majoring in choral conducting. Although similar, art and classical music are not the same. Classical music is that music which was written during the classical period from 1720 to 1800, he explained. Douglas was scheduled to teach "Music and America," a course on black composers of art music, this fall. But lack of enrollment caused the class to be cancelled.

"This is true in all the arts and especially in music," he said.

"I am concerned in the music establishment has been that art music reflecting black cultural influence is not written by blacks, is considered by blacks, said Douglas. This is one of the stereotypical attitudes toward black music probably stem from the initial introduction of the music into the western culture.

Western culture's first experiences with black music was through minstrel shows, which were created by whites in their own image, he said. The music was written in a ragtime genre, which though written as serious music, was not viewed as such because "it most often was heard in gambling joints and whore houses."

Jazz is probably the most influential and permanently identifiable kind of black music in this progression, Douglas said. It has affected popular, folk, and classical music from the turn of the century up to the present, he noted.

However, the popularity of jazz and its association with black music has worked against art music. He Douglas the logic for placing art music by black composers in a distinct category is flimsy, especially when compared to white composers such as Bach and Beethoven. It is viewed as part of a ballet and Aaron Copland has composed several pieces including "Three Blues," that are clearly influenced by black music.

Douglas said. In fact, almost every white American composer has included black elements in some of their music, and their works are performed right along with Bach and Beethoven, he added.

Very rarely is art music written by black composers included in American symphony programs. However, it was performed sometimes in special programs focusing on the black experience such as salute events during black history week, Douglas said.

It is a Douglas belief that art music written by black composers is overlooked because of cultural reasons and not aesthetic ones.

The diverse range of art music written by black composers includes works for orchestras, ensembles or solo instruments as well as choral and vocal arrangements.

Prominent among the black composers of this music are William Grant Still, George Walker and Harry Burleigh.

Grant-Still, a Chicagoan, won many composition awards for his works and his music has been performed by major orchestras—but rarely, Douglas said.

Walker has written works for every conceivable music medium, according to Douglas. "His piano sonatas are significant works, but they're never heard."

Known as an arranger of spirituals, Burleigh took traditional Negro spirituals and re-arranged them into art form.

Psychologist calls PLO chief politically pragmatic, flexible

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Harvard University psychologist who has talked with Arafat said he was impressed by the Palestinian Liberation Organization leader's flexible style of thinking and political pragmatism.

Professor Herbert C. Kelman said he believes Arafat has the capacity and the will to come to an agreement with Israel, calling for mutual recognition and peaceful coexistence if he is offered the necessary incentives and reassurances.

Addressing a convention of the American Psychological Association, Kelman said he had met with Arafat and was engaged in an open, unstructured exchange of ideas during conversations while Kelman was visiting Beirut in January 1980 and December 1981.

Minister dies from bite after holding rattler

MULLENSVILLE, N.Y. (AP) - A preacher who handled poisonous snakes in his bare hands to demonstrate his faith died in a snake bite and died after refusing medical treatment, authorities said.

The Rev. John Holbrook, 38, of Oceana was bitten during Sunday evening services at the First Baptist Church in the same town.

Holbrook died at the nearby Presbyterian Hospital in North Webster, Indiana, Saturday.

"He said he had the bite in his right arm, from wrist to shoulder," the coroner said.

A snake charmer identified as a church member said Holbrook had routinely handled snakes as a demonstration of faith.

"He said it became the Bible tells us," the woman said, who asked not to be identified.

She said his idea for snake handling is found in the Book of Mark, chapter 15, verse 18, which says:

"They shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, they shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover."

Rogers said he was told that Holbrook had been bitten by snakes before, and that usually such persons develop an immunity to the venom. He said it appeared that Holbrook suffered an allergic reaction this time that had exaggerated the effect of the poison.

Snake handling has been a favorite for decades at a few small, rural churches scattered throughout Pennsylvania. Some states have outlawed the practice.

definitive formulations of official policy," he said. "What I gained was a concrete sense of Arafat's way of thinking, his cognitive style.

"I was most impressed by his non-dogmatic approach to problems - his ability to differentiate, his openness to alternative views, the flexibility of his thinking."

Bernardin installed as head of Chicago Roman Catholics

CHICAGO (AP) — Top church leaders from across the nation gathered Wednesday to join in a solemn tribute to Archbishop Joseph J. Bernardin, who was spending his first full day as head of the nation's largest Roman Catholic archdiocese.

Bernardin, who became the Chicago archdiocese's seventh archbishop on Tuesday, has been reunited with family and friends who have come to participate in the weeklong celebration honoring the new leader of 2.4 million Roman Catholics in the archdiocese.

Bernardin's mother, 77-year-old Maria, has moved to Chicago to be with her son.

Wednesday's installation mass at the century-old Holy Name Cathedral followed joyful Tuesday night prayer services attended by about 1,500 people.

Attending the service was the Rev. Pio Laghi, the Vatican's apostolic delegate to the United States. He carried with him a letter from Pope John Paul II appointing Bernardin archbishop.

In that letter — incorporated in the Tuesday and Wednesday Masses — the pope said the church community has come to regard Bernardin, 54, as "a bishop who understands how to build up a solid community of faith as God's gift drawing people ever closer to Christ the Lord."

"We have come to know you as a bishop who combines a deep priestly sense with prudence of action and a zeal to spread the Gospel with the greatest human sensitivity," the letter added.

During Tuesday's prayer service, Bernardin, a former auxiliary bishop of Cincinnati for the past 16 years, called for unity and reconciliation in a church community that has been marked by strained relations between some priests and his controversial predecessor, the late Cardinal John P. Cody.

Cody died April 25 at the age of 74. At the time of his death, a federal grand jury was investigating allegations that Cody diverted up to $1 million in tax-exempt church funds to Helen Dolan Wilson, his stepcousin and lifelong friend. Both denied the allegations and the investigation was closed after Cody's death without any indictments.

Later this week, Bernardin will continue his celebration with prayer services with dozens of priests and employees of the archdiocese.

Bernardin will have his first opportunity to meet a large group of his flock at a Sunday Mass and picnic at Grant Park, the same location in which the pope celebrated Mass for hundreds of thousands of Catholics in 1979.
Destructive behavior mirrors depression in young children

CHICAGO (AP) - Tommy was 4 years old and couldn't control his father, who was out of work, made bad decisions and was depressed. Tommy wanted to help - so he leased off the roof of a three-story building.

Tommy's mood had been depressed because his family was in financial trouble. He thought he could help by committing suicide, the youngest child in the family.

According to the psychiatrist who treated him, Tommy jumped in an attempt to save his family's life.

Tommy is one of a few 4-year-old, depressed and very young children who commit suicide.

Psychiatrists specializing in children's mental health have other examples: A 6-year-old slashes his wrists because he's afraid of death the thought of his parents' divorce. A 3-year-old's death is due to his parents' divorce. A 4-year-old commits suicide because his parents don't want him.

Some say an act of despair at a young age is a sign of maturity. Others say it's a sign of depression.

To commit suicide "takes a higher level of understanding of self," said Marvin Schwarz of Illinois, who studies child psychology.

"Children under the age of 5 are more likely to commit suicide," he said. "But children under the age of 10 are more likely to attempt suicide."
