Final Decisions Expected in February

SIU Trustees to Review Report On Major College Sports Status

By Al Manning

The SIU Board of Trustees will hear a report from acting President Robert W. MacVicar concerning the report from the Study Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics at its regular meeting Saturday. The report, submitted to President Delyte W. Morris on May 9 and made public August 18, has yet to reach the Board of Trustees for formal action. The trustees will make the final decisions concerning the recommendations.

The Study Commission urged major college status in all sports and conference affiliation. It recommended an increase of $178,000 in the 1967-68 inter-collegiate athletics budget and an increase of 108 NCAA scholarships. Other details and recommendations were made in the nine-month study.

John W. Voigt, chairman of the study commission, said, "The apparent tardiness of President Morris will not bring bad results. It won't be too much longer and I don't think the people will be unhappy. Every possible University segment is considering the report, and I'm confident the results will be good," said Voigt.

Other University segments considering the report include the faculty, graduate, student and university councils. Before any definite action can be taken, these committees must present their opinions to Morris who in turn will make recommendations to the Board. The athletic director and Athletic Committee's comments will also be considered as will the National Collegiate Athletic Association policies.

According to Kenneth Davis, chairman of the Board, "There is no necessity to act on the president's recommendations. According to the by-laws, if a majority of the Board wants to take the initiative, they may do so," said Davis.

However, Davis and Melvin Lockard, Board member from Mattou, left the impression that the Board would not take any action until the recommendations from Morris have been received. Apparently the Board wants to take action as soon as possible. This would be at the February meeting after Morris returns in January from his world tour.

Paul Morrill, assistant to the president, said, "There was no definite time limit put on it (committee results), but I had the impression they would be in by the first of the year."

Willis Moore, chairman of the Faculty Council, said a subcommittee has been reviewing the Study Commission report since September and it will be brought up at the next meeting December 12. The subcom-

Dean of Students States Role of Judicial Board

Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton has defined the Judicial Board's role in the decision-making process of the University.

His action was prompted by statements made in the Campus Senate Wednesday night indicating that the J-Board should recognize only the authority of the Student Government in controversies with the administration.

"I don't want to speak for the virtues of either position," Moulton said. "But I think that we need to clarify a couple of points."

"One is that the current

Winners Notified Of State Awards

The Illinois State Grant Award, formerly the Upper Class Scholarship Award, has announced the recipients to the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office.

Recipients will be notified through a letter which is being sent to both their campus and home addresses. Qualifying students must sign an additional form by Dec. 13 before their scholarship award is formally approved.

situation is that the Judicial Board position is advisory," he explained. "The terms of the responsibility for student conduct is vested in the vice-president for student affairs by action of the Board of Trustees."

"In terms of whether this is democratic or not--the responsibility is vested in the trustees by the duly elected citizens of Illinois who are members of the State legislature. The responsibility is then, in accordance, delegated down.

"The Judicial Board arrangement as it now exists is at a primarily low level. We would hope very much that would be a full spectrum of Judicial Board. But until there is change in the Board of Trustees directives, the Judicial Board action is advisory.

"Discipline is vested in a chain which goes through the president, the vice-president of student affairs, and the dean of students.

"If you wish to move in the direction of changing, I think that it's clear that the action must be directed to the Board of Trustees to get that ruling changed," Moulton concluded.

Ban on Recruiting Asked in Petition Backing Objectors

By Tim Ayers

A petition requesting the administration to ban the armed services from recruiting on campus is currently being circulated among the faculty.

The statement asks that the University to take such stand until the Selective Service System agrees to instruct local draft boards not to reclassify and induct deferred students who have been involved in protests.

The petition has been circulating this week and will be mailed to acting president Robert W. MacVicar today.

The letter was circulated by Barry Sanders and Robert Griffin, both members of the Department of English.

Griffin said the letter is similar to one that was circulated at Columbia University, Yale and Princeton Universities have barred campus recruiting until the present rule is changed.

Criticism at these universities and in the SIU petition are aimed at a memorandum sent out by Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey to the nation's 41,000 draft boards.

In it, the national draft director suggested that they declare delinquent and reclassify for induction those deferred students who obstructed Selective Service procedures.

Sanders cited the recent remarks of Kingman Brewster, president of Yale, who called Hershey's action "an absolutely outrageous usurpation of power."

Griffin also pointed out that the petition may "give students who don't believe the faculty gives a damn some evidence to the contrary."

According to Griffin, the statement has come under criticism by some of the faculty members for not being strong enough. He said, however, that it was meant to be a simple statement and not go into detail.

Sanders indicated that he was pleased by the number of people who have signed it.

He said they were limiting the petition to members of the faculty on continuing assignment. Graduate students might be too open to criticism, said Sanders.

Residents to Move Belongings

Visiting Cagers to Use Dormitory

Approximately 200 residents of Stevenson Arms dormitory will have to move their belongings out of their rooms during the Christmas break, but only two students have said they are upset about the move.

W.B. Giles, director of the dormitory, said residents have been asked to place their personal belongings in two storage areas of the building so that the rooms can be rented to some 175 visiting basketball players who will be in town for the annual Carbondale high school holiday tournament.

Fritz Albert, a University housing official, said the action by the Stevenson dorm management was "perfectly legal" since the housing contract is not binding between quarters.

Although the contract does permit students to leave their belongings at the dorm over breaks, the management can request that the belongings be moved out of the rooms.

Future University housing contracts may prohibit dorm owners from renting their facilities between quarters, Albert said.

Giles said that by renting out the rooms during breaks, the management is able to keep prices for the regular school terms at a minimum. Giles said if the dorm were not permitted to do this, rental prices would have to be raised.

The dorm will receive $4 a day for each basketball player housed during the three-day tourney, Carbondale high school athletic director Reid Martin said.

Larry Mandel, student government housing commissioner, said two occupants of the dorm had complained to him about having to move out, saying that they were afraid that their valuables might be stolen if left in a public storing place. Giles said if students are concerned about theft, they can take their belongings home with them.

Giles also said students who wish to remain in the dorm over the Christmas break would be permitted to do so.

De Gaulle-- Time to Retire

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has resigned his cabinet position. French President Charles de Gaulle should follow suit.

According to a one-time de Gaulle intimate, Jean-Raymond Tournoux, the French President has an exalted opinion of France, but holds a low opinion of Frenchmen and has no confidence at all in their readiness to maintain what he has done to boost the grandeur of France.

Any president of any country who considers his people "imbeciles" (and admits to it publicly as de Gaulle has) has no right to be that country's president.

Hard as he is on the French, de Gaulle apparently displays at least equal contempt for most other peoples in private. Tournoux says he has called the Americans "strong, courageous and stupid," the British "mere domestics," the Germans "pigs," and the Italians, he says, "don't even exist."

A 77-year-old man, who is so pessimistic and contemptuous about the world and his own people, is more than ready for retirement, especially if the position from which he must retire is the highest public office of his country.

Years ago de Gaulle commented on U. S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, "He botched everything up because he saw himself declining. . . The great thing in politics is to know enough to retire in time." McNamara took the hint, de Gaulle himself should be next to take his own advice.

Communists Don't Believe In Peaceful Christmas

The leaders of the Communist world don't believe in the spirit of Christmas and it's about time that the Western world waked up to the fact.

If history means anything, the upcoming holiday truce between the SEATO allies and the armed Communist camp in Vietnam only means that the Communists will be receiving a gift which will only be returned with a stab in the back.

Letters Welcome

The Daily Egyptian solicits letters to the editor. Any subject can be discussed. However, letters should be brief, not more than 200 words or about one and a half typewritten pages, double spaced, will be accepted.

All letters must be signed, including writer's address and, if possible, telephone number. The editors reserve the right to apply routine editing procedures to make the contributions conform to the law, decency and space.

Communist cease-fire tactics likely will include the usual patterns of sabotage, espionage, infiltration and ambushing. They will, in all probability, take advantage of the relaxed allied pressure to build-up, realign and supply ground troops and build new supply lines from the north.

In conflicts in Asia with the Communist world, the record shows violation after violation of cease-fire agreements in Vietnam, Korea and in the Indonesian campaign.

It is commendable to show the rest of the world that we want peace and that we have the ability to compromise with the enemy once in a while. But if an offensive letdown once again results in an unexpected loss of American soldiers' lives, then it's no longer worthwhile to maintain the nice guy image.

In light of their past actions, there is no real reason to believe that the Communists are about to change their ways all of a sudden for the sake of peace.

John Belpedio

Letters to the Editor:

In Search of a Thief

To the Editor:

Like C.D. Schmulbach, whose letter to the editor appeared in the Egyptian on Thursday, Nov. 30, I had the unfortunate experience of having articles of my personal property "borrowed" by some thoughtless, inconsiderate individual. In my case, however, it wasn't merely a matter of someone picking up something that didn't belong to him, but it involved the illegal act of breaking and entering, a very serious offense indeed.

Unfortunately, one of the prevalent attitudes of contemporary society is reflected by the statement that "it isn't what you do that counts, it's what you get away with," or that "anything is legal, as long as you don't get caught." Should you get caught, you are subject to prosecution and punishment by law and civil law is based on accepted standards of morality and is supposedly enforced with the best interests of the public in mind. It is true that there are certain laws that are obsolete or unreasonable, but no law, no matter how interpreted, advocates, justifies or condones thievery.

It would appear to this writer that all to many people make the error in judgment of neglecting to think before they act, or at least of acting on impulse, not fully realizing or comprehending the consequences of their act.

As schmaltzy as it may sound, the Golden Rule is still applicable and represents a pretty good rule of thumb for us to follow. Or, as Walt Disney's philosophical cricket put it, "Always let your conscience be your guide." By exercising your will according to the dictates of your conscience, you are achieving one of life's most desirable goals, that of being true to yourself.

Aside from the academic process that has come to be known as education, one of the primary functions of a university is to help its students mature through broadened experience and increased awareness. We, as college students, American citizens and future leaders have the golden opportunity as well as the responsibility and obligation to take over where those who have gone before us left off. Society is ours to look in the best way we see fit--and irresponsible, childlike behavior is not compatible with the goals of society.

By the way, if the individual who relieved me of my tools last Thursday night in the Anthony Hall parking lot is through with them, I would be more than happy to have them back. I assure you that there would be no police involvement or other repercussions from me. It would take a real man to own up to his mistake and to correct it. My telephone number is 549-2640. I'll be awaiting your call.

Rick Northway

Another Steal

To the Editor:

Last week a small light blue statue of a devil was stolen from an art exhibit in the Magnolia Lounge of the University Center. This shows only another example of the lack of integrity shown by some of the students at SIU.

I find it a great sorrow that in a school where there has always been a lack of student art work on display, such a thing so often happens.

It seems a shame that we students who should enjoy seeing the artistic endeavors of fellow students must do without, because of a few who are lacking in morals.

There has never been a lack of space for displaying art works at SIU. But persons are hesitant to put their works on display without some assurance they will not be defaced or stolen.

Most art students hunger to show their work, but cannot because of the fear of losing it or having it damaged.

"Vietnam Triangle"

More Vigorous Peace Efforts Needed

By Antero Pietila

The controversy about Robert McNamara's change from Secretary of Defense to the influential, if less visible, post as head of the World Bank hardly will calm down until his successor has been named and has been in office for some time. But after a week as a central topic of the cocktail circuit, the McNamara affair this week was outchatted by guesswork about the possibility of another White House wedding.

In the world outside Washington, there were some indications of a new series of secret soundings about peace in Vietnam. Quickly denied as they were, they aroused suspicions in South Vietnamese officials about Washington trying to play the game behind their back. So these very same gentlemen in Saigon, who a couple of days earlier saw McNamara's removal as a possible turn to a tougher line were uneasy. The recent capture of a high-ranking Viet Cong official who was believed to be serving as an emissary of Hanoi and the National Liberation Front added dubiousness, although both U.S. and South Vietnamese officials were busy denying that he had any special mission this time.

But these days before the beginning of the six-week period of overlapping Christian and Buddhist holidays have been a customary time of swapping "seasons greetings" between the Allied and the Communists that in some years have resulted in a halt in fighting. This year little has been said about a prospective pause during Christmas. The war drags on notwithstanding the holidays.

Much eloquency has been wasted again this year in speaking about South Vietnam's "passionate desire for democracy" and her citizens' "unending efforts in fighting against atheistic Communism." At the same time official Washington has made it increasingly clear that the war is being waged for America's own security reasons.

This of course helps to explain why it is the Americans that fight. And one could reason that the reason the South Vietnamese brass get the medals is just to reassure them that, in spite of their apparent inefficiency and love of Saigon over battle fields, it is, after all, their country the war is ravaging. Otherwise they have relatively little say in the course of the war as it remains the game of the big boys.

About these big boys Donald S. Zagoria, Director of the Modern Asia Research Institute at Hunter College and a former analyst with the RAND Corp., has written an important book. Called "Vietnam Triangle" (New York: Pegasus, 286 pp. $1.95 paperback), it clarifies the factors governing the relationships among the Communist parties and states involved in Vietnam.

The triangle itself--Russia, China, and the United States--emerged after the once monolithic Communist camp divided and turned the great-power relationship from bipolar to a triangular one.

Zagoria asserts that although they sometimes overlap, China's interests and those of North Vietnam have never been identical. This, he says, is because China has always looked on Vietnam in terms of its worldwide competition with the two superpowers. China has consistently sought to use the war less to reunify Vietnam under Ho than to embarrass the Soviet Union, to weaken the United States, and to prevent expansion of the Soviet-American detente. In trying to avoid both an enlarged war, extending to China itself, and negotiations, China has promoted a prolonged war of attrition.

About Russia's role Zagoria has this to say: "Moscow's recent policy in Vietnam, like its policies elsewhere, seems best defined by what it seeks to avoid rather than what it seeks to gain. It seeks to avoid both a Chinese 'victory'--that is, an outcome which would greatly enhance Mao's 'liberation war' thesis and leave China with dominant influence in North Vietnam--and on American victory, which would greatly undermine Soviet prestige. In pursuit of these negative goals, Moscow provides North Vietnam with just enough defensive weaponry to make American bombing costly while it supports those leaders in Hanoi who think in terms of a political rather than a military victory in South Vietnam."

Zagoria sees considerable evidence that there has long existed in Hanoi a moderate group inclined to strike a bargain with the United States if the bargain were a genuine one and not a concealed demand for capitulation. In sitting at the negotiations table, both sides would have to be prepared to make major concessions concerning future political arrangements in South Vietnam. The eventual outcome of such an arrangement would be a coalition government.

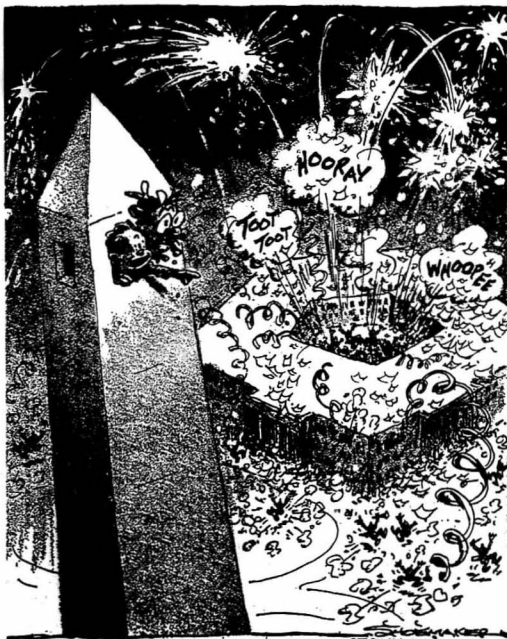

He does not deny the risks of a real compromise solution: "But such risks need to be measured against the costs of escalation or a protracted war of attrition. My own judgement is that the risks of such a compromise would be much smaller. The first step toward compromise on our part must be the cessation of American bombing of North Vietnam and the indication of our willingness to recognize the NLF."

Zagoria, whose earlier work "The Sino-Soviet Conflict" has become a classic, gives a detailed account of the Communist interest in Vietnam. Moscow paid scant attention to Ho Chi Minh after he proclaimed Vietnam's independence in 1945; Stalin even gave the French Communists a guiding hand in Indochina. So it was French Communist party chief Maurice Thorez, the then Vice-Minister of his country, who countersigned the order for military action against the Communist-led Republic of Vietnam, in March, 1947.

The U.S. did no better than the French Communists. Writes Zagoria: "For all our pretensions at the end of World War II to be the champions of national independence and anticolonialism, we supported the French colonialists in Vietnam against the patent aspirations of the Vietnamese people. We did this because after 1948 France became our NATO ally in Europe. We were so anxious to insure French support against Russia in the bipolar world that we avoided pressing France to give genuine independence to Vietnam."

Had the United States the foresight to come to terms with Ho after 1954, when the U.S. replaced France as the dominant Western power in Indochina, the present tragedy might have been averted, Zagoria reasons. As it is now, the United States must remain in Vietnam, he says. But he also claims that much more vigorous efforts can be made to bring about a settlement of the war.

"Why the big celebration at the Pentagon, Pa? Is the war over? No, just Secretary McNamara resigning."

Coeds Claim Unfair Treatment

Landlord Gripes May Be Voiced

SIU students should not be afraid to "speak up" to proper authorities if their landlords unfairly attempt to evict them, says Larry Mandel, student government housing commissioner.

According to Mandel, many students are accepting eviction without question because they fear retaliation by their landlords.

Recently, Mandel said, four co-eds who shared an off-campus apartment were told by the owner that he no longer wanted them for renters and they had a day to move out. The landlord told the students that if they went to the University to object to the eviction, he would see that they were tossed out of SIU, Mandel said.

"The landlord has no bus-

Mandel also pointed out that by state law any renter must have a 30 day notice that he is to be evicted and that no-

Any students, says Mandel, who feel that they have been unfairly evicted or threatened by eviction should contact the University housing office or the student government office.

Major Policy Shift

French May Sell Arms to Iraq

PARIS (AP) -- French officials said Thursday negotiations are under way for an arms deal with Iraq in what appeared to be a major shift in French Middle East policy. The news caused dismay in Jerusalem.

President Charles de Gaulle imposed an arms embargo on the Middle East in June at the outbreak of hostilities between Israel and surrounding Arab states. Israeli forces quickly won a stunning victory, thanks largely to French-made Mirage fighter-bombers.

Shortly afterward, Israel sought delivery of 50 more Mirage planes it had ordered from France and on which it had made a down payment. But the Israelis were turned down and relations between Jerusalem and Paris became severely strained when De Gaulle accused Israel of being the aggressor in the June 5-9 war.

French sources now say the sale of arms to Iraq is considered "desirable" and indicated the other Arab nations would also receive a more favorable response to arms requests, breaking the June embargo. France does not want to "close itself up" in an "exclusive alliance" with Israel, one source said. There was no official word when Iraq negotiations would be terminated, but an Iraqi military mission, headed by Gen. Hassan Sabri, assistant chief of staff, is now in France. Some reports, neither confirmed nor denied, said Iraq is asking for 50 Mirage V fighters, 15 Mirage E3 fighters, 8 Nord-Atlas troop carrying planes, 4 training planes and 150 armored cars.

Ceausescu in Power in Romania

BUCHARIST, Romania (AP)--Communist party chief Nicolae Ceausescu emerged triumphant Thursday in a power struggle and will take over as president in a role combining supreme state and party leadership.

Ceausescu is expected to oust the Old Guard dogmatists who often have stood in the way of his ambitious campaign for national identity and independence from Soviet domination.

Ceausescu's elevation to the presidency was proposed by outgoing President Chivu Stoica, 67, one of his chief adversaries in a confrontation between veterans of the post-war hierarchy and the Young Turks-Ceausescu followers.

Stoica, his voice sometimes down to a whisper, told a national party conference Thursday the takeover, which will be confirmed formally by Parliament on Saturday, had been prompted by the need to "eliminate parallelism" in state council, government and party activities.

For Ceausescu, 49, the rise to ultimate power meant realization of his plan to replace the Soviet-inspired fashion of collective leadership in party and state by "unitary leadership," putting the party in complete control of the nation's life.

The collective system adopted after the death in 1965 of the president and party chief, Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, will be abolished under new party rules.

These functions are still combined in East Germany, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia, while other East European countries and the Soviet Union maintain the rules of collectivism.

Ceausescu's takeover is certain to touch off an avalanche of reshuffles on all levels of the party and government structure. Officially the purpose is to streamline bureaucracy, improve economic management and foster party supremacy.

South African Heart Patient May Leave Bed in Two Weeks

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)--Louis Washkansky, "wisecracking and chirpy," may leave his bed within two weeks if he continues to recover steadily from the first recorded human heart transplant, a doctor said Thursday.

The 55-year-old wholesale grocer was removed from an oxygen tent and wheeled out of his sterilized room in Groote Schuur Hospital Thursday for the first time since the heart of a traffic victim, Denise Ann Darvall, 25, was implanted in his chest Sunday.

Dr. Christain Barnard, who headed the surgical team that replaced Washkansky's failing heart, told newsmen the patient has been chatting in good humor with hospital attendants.

Barnard said Washkansky, asked how he felt, replied, "Fine. I'm going to pull through."

Washkansky was pushed in bed a quarter-mile through a tunnel connecting the hospital's main building with its radiotherapy center. He was returned to his room 40 minutes later after receiving cobalt radiation to suppress his body's natural tendency to reject the foreign heart.

The patient was in the second day of a critical week-long period when what doctors call "immunological rejection" may occur.

After Relative Quiet

DMZ Threatened Again

SAIGON (AP) — A heavy Communist shelling of U.S. Marine positions along the demilitarized zone has re-emphasized a possibility North Vietnamese regulars will try another invasion in force across that short-cut into South Vietnam.

After more than two months of relative quiet in the DMZ sector, North Vietnamese gunners loosed 276 rounds of mixed mortar and artillery fire Wednesday, with most of it apparently centered on the Leatherneck base at Con Thien.

Northeast of Con Thien there was a four-hour fire-fight between elements of the 4th Marine Regiment and a North Vietnamese company estimated at about 150 men.

The shells from the heavy Communist weapons and the ground clash left seven Marines dead and 77 wounded, the U.S. Command said Thursday.

In the area of the fighting, the command said, a Marine plane accidentally dropped a

House, Senate Agree to Up Postal Rates

WASHINGTON (AP)—House-Senate conferees reached a compromise Thursday night on a sweeping postal rate-federal pay bill that will send the cost of mailing a letter to 6 cents on Jan. 7.

Final congressional action is expected next week.

The two sides settled the two thorniest issues when: --Senate conferees agreed to a House plan for naming a commission to recommend pay levels for members of Congress, top officials of the executive branch and the federal judiciary. It could lead to a recommendation for a pay increase in those categories in 1970.

--The House accepted, after obtaining modifications, a Senate proposal that the minimum rate for bulk third-class mail be raised from 2.87 to 4 cents.

The changes are part of a bill that will raise postal rates more than $900 million and give federal employees a pay boost that will total $2.7 billion a year.

In addition to an increase from 5 to 6 cents for a first-class letter, the bill will send the rate of first-class cards up a cent to 5 cents.

Airmail letters will go from 8 cents to 10 cents, and airmailed cards from 6 cents to 8 cents.

bomb on the edge of the U.S. positions. The explosion killed five Marines and wounded two.

The flareup along the once neutral buffer strip between the two Vietnams bore out predictions that new fighting could be expected there soon. U.S. intelligence officers consider North Vietnam still has 35,000 or 40,000 regulars poised in and north of the DMZ for a possible thrust into South Vietnam.

Marines have beaten back several heavy incursions in the last two years.

Con Thien, two miles south of the strip, was under artillery siege through September. Nearly 1,000 Marines were killed or wounded. In their most active day Sept. 25, the Red gunners lobbed over more than 1,000 shells ranging up to 120mm projectiles 4.7 inches in diameter. The barrages Wednesday were the heaviest since.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman said earlier this week: "In the DMZ, the situation tends to erupt again." The U.S. Command, in its weekly war summary, noted that action had been building up along the frontier.

Dear Mary,

It takes a long time to win respect, admiration, and friendship. For some people it takes longer than others. But there are fifty girls who respect, admire, and consider you a very good friend.

Life at Neely has been an experience. It would never have been the same if it weren't for you. It's true, you were our R.F. But to most of us you were more than an R.F. because you helped to make life on Neely 17 more enjoyable. We will remember you as a friend and not an authoritative figure. We'll remember the times you stayed up late helping us study so we could pass that important history exam by providing us with some incentive. We'll remember you as the little R.F. who always wanted to fly and almost did one time. We'll remember the girl whose door was always open day or night to us. And your efforts to learn the Boo-galoo and the African Twist and how your stereo was always playing shall not pass from our memory easily. Your impersonation as our Santa Claus this year and last helped make those Christmas parties even merrier. Yes, there have been many enjoyable times on Neely 17 and most of those good times were because you were our R.F.

We've only known you a short time. But in that time you have come to know us and understand each and every one of us. You helped some of us face things when they came with honesty and good grace. You have helped some of us see ourselves as we really are and have provided us with more incentive to study and to be responsible girls. You have remained a warm personal contact between ourselves and this big cold university. Mary, you have been very generous with us and we all will be forever grateful.

We've called you Mimi, Buffalo Ballance, Ethiopian Queen, and Ballanceski. But you'll always remain simply "Mary" to us. It's going to be hard to say good-bye to you next week. It's especially hard to say it to a person who was understanding and warm, who took time out of her own for us and who sacrificed much of what she had for fifty strangers.

You're the best R.F. in the world and we hope your marriage will be a happy and prosperous one. We want to say "Thanks" and wish you the best of luck. No matter where we are we will always remember you 'cause you hold a special place in the hearts of the girls from Neely Seventeen.

Brewer, 1106 N. Carico, trailer no. 2, reported that his place was burglarized between 10 p.m. Monday and 1 a.m. Tuesday.

Police records list as missing a radio, hi-fi, an undetermined number of record albums, a portable tv, typewriter, attache case, and numerous articles of clothing.

Police said Brewer reported that the trailer was locked when he left and was still locked when he returned. The police report recorded no sign of forcible entry.

Sun Devils to Show Salukis Unorthodox Offense Pattern

When you go to the Salukis' game against Arizona State Saturday night don't try to figure out which player is playing what position for the Sun Devils.

No matter what combination of players at guard, forward and center you come up with, you'll be wrong, because the Sun Devils don't use the conventional names for positions.

Arizona State uses inside and outside players.

Basically the setup is that two men play in back of the free throw key, similar to what guards play. Three men play in the area of the free lane.

"Of the three inside men, each athlete can play anywhere, so there would be no way to differentiate between them," Arizona State Coach Ned Wulk said.

Coach Wulk is a believer in the fast break and his Sun Devil teams of the past have been successful at it. Going into his 11th year as head coach, his record at Arizona State is 166 wins and 102 losses for a .619 winning percentage.

Wulk's best team at State was the 1962-63 team which finished third in the nation and was highlighted by Joe Caldwell, now playing with the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

The Sun Devil mentor favors the fast break for many reasons.

"It's more interesting to watch, demands greater conditioning on the part of the athletes and lends itself better to flexibility when the tempo of the game changes," Wulk pointed out.

"I think it's easier for us to slow down," Wulk continued, "than for an opponent to speed up, if neither is accustomed to the others' style of play."

In summing it up, Wulk says that "we're always looking for the quick basket."

With all the talk about the fast break, one would think that the Arizona State players are small, but such is not the case, as their roster lists eight players who are 6-5 or over.

The tallest of these is 6-11 Bob Edwards, who will start for the Sun Devils against the Salukis at one of the inside positions.

The junior had an 8.1 scoring average last year and was the Sun Devils leading rebounder with a 7.2 average.

Other returning lettermen who may see considerable action include Roger Detter, who had an 11.3 scoring average as a sophomore last year, second best on the team; Frank Bailey, who averaged 8.4 points per game last year; and 6-5 Willie Harris, who averaged 2.8 last year as a sophomore reserve.

The bulk of the Sun Devil roster is sophomores, who comprise eight of the 14 members.

The best of the lot could be Seaburn HHL, 6-2, who averaged 20.9 points as a freshman and is considered the fastest man on the team.

Three other sophomores will probably see considerable action, and all are former All-State or All-Americans in high school.

Ron Johnson, who stands 6-7, was a former high school All-American his senior year, and was sought by many colleges and universities. As a freshman, he averaged 13.2 points per game and pulled down an average of 8.1 rebounds per game.

The other two sophomores are 6-0 Jay Arnote and 6-6 1/2 Gerhard Schruer.

Arnote averaged 15.6 points as a freshman and Schruer, who was born in Denmark, averaged 13.4 as a freshman and pulled down 12.3 rebounds a game.

The Sun Devils have split their two games they have played this year, not including their game with Creighton University Thursday night. They have defeated Peperdine College while losing to San Jose State in Arizona State's season opener.

Saluki Tankmen's Weekend Starts Against Evansville

The SIU swimmers start a tough weekend tonight when they face the University of Evansville and then go against Indiana State Saturday, both away meets.

"The Evansville meet will go right down to the wire," Coach Ray Essick said.

This will be the opener of the regular season for the tankers. They met both Evansville and Indiana State in the Illinois State Invitational last Saturday in a pre-season team meet.

Indiana State finished 19 points ahead of the Salukis and Evansville, who tied for second place with 31 points.

"The Indiana State team is much improved over last year," Essick said.

The Saluki lineup for the meets is unsure, and will probably not be decided until the time the meet starts, Essick said.

Trustees Review Athletic Study

mittee is not seeking new information, but simply reviewing the report by confining itself to the library resources made available by the Study Commission, according to Abraham M. Mark, chairman of the subcommittee.

The Graduate Council will discuss the Study Commission report as a whole at its meeting Friday and hopes to have a written report submitted to the University Council by the end of January, according to David T. Kenney, chairman of the Graduate Council.

Richard Karr, chairman of the Student Senate, said Dean Wilbur Moulton requested the Senate to make recommendations concerning the report about two weeks ago. Because the Senate has not had full membership since that time, a subcommittee has yet to be formed. The Senate plans to finish its report by late January, Karr said.

Athletic Committee chairman Elmer J. Clark, Dean of the College of Education, summed up the situation by reminding everyone of its complexities. "There were some false starts but the decisions will be wise and the president is concerned with all the students."

Matmen Enter Sooner Meet

SIU will send 11 wrestlers, three of them recent first-place winners, to Stillwater, Okla., this weekend to compete in Oklahoma State's Invitational tournament.

The tournament, involving eight teams, begins tonight and ends Saturday night.

Rich Selover, Al Bulow and Ben Cooper—champions in the heavyweight, 191-pound and 177-pound weight divisions, respectively, at the Illinois Invitational last weekend—are SIU's prime candidates for this weekend's tourney.

Other schools entered in the tournament include Oklahoma, Arizona State, Brigham Young, Wyoming, Colorado State (Ft. Collins), Western State (Gunnison, Okla.) and host Oklahoma State.

SIU wrestlers making the trip are Steve Sarossy, 115-pound division; Tom Stengren, 123; Terry Magoon, 130; Al Murdock, 137; Bill VanNattan, 145; Tom Duke, 152; Julian Gabriel, 160; Al Lipper, 167; Cooper, 177; Bulow, 191; and Selover, heavyweight.

AP Picks Three Trojans

NEW YORK (AP)—Three stars from the nation's No. 1 college football team, the University of Southern California, including the peerless O.J. Simpson, head the 1967 All-America announced Thursday by The Associated Press.

Ron Yary, offensive tackle, and Adrian Young, a line-backer, fellow Trojans from the national championship eleven, joined Simpson, one of the greatest of modern running backs, on the first team.

The only other school to place more than one man on the first team was Notre Dame, represented by Kevin Hardy, 270-pound defensive end, and Tom Schoen, a defensive back.

Two players are repeaters from the 1966 all-America: Wayne Meylan, Nebraska, middle guard, and Frank Loria, Virginia Tech, defensive back.

In 1967 it is Gary Beban of UCLA, the Heisman Trophy winner, as quarterback; Leroy Keyes, Purdue's versatile halfback; Larry Csonka, Syracuse's great, 230-pound fullback; and Simpson, sometimes known as "Orange Juice," whose real name is Orenthal James, and who scored 11 touchdowns and threw three scoring passes.

Beban, a 6-foot, 191-pound clutch performer, led UCLA to a 23-5-2 record over three seasons and in 1967 scored 11 touchdowns, passed for eight, and ran up 1,586 yards total offense.
