Chase Comedy Begins Feb. 27

Invisible Harvey Causes Space Problems

"Harvey may be an invisible rabbit, but he has already caused problems just in rehearsing," laughed Joyce Freed, leading actress in the Southern Players' production of the Mary Chase comedy, "Harvey," a Pulitzer Prize winner, which will be presented on Feb. 27-28 and March 1-7.

"In planning and arranging the action of the play, we have to 'block in' Harvey's positions," said Miss Freed, a sophomore speech major. "Even though he is never seen, he sometimes gets in the way."

The production, the season's fourth, also has another problem. Dr. Sherwin F. Abrams, director of the play, developed the mumps recently and was replaced by Dr. Chris Moore. Both men teach in the theater department.

Freed Has Lead
Mrs. Veta Louise Simmons is the primary feminine role and is played by Miss Freed, who is a minor role in the play. She had parts in "Picnic" and "Dark of the Moon." Veta Louise is a matronly woman of about 55 who is caught in the circumstances of a curious situation.

The main source of the situation is her brother, Elwood P. Dowd, played by graduate student Como Inserra. Inserra, who was Duncan in "Macbeth," has been in all four productions this year.

Elwood frequently sees Harvey, the 6'4" foot white rabbit, who is "quite a remarkable rabbit," according to Miss Freed, who knows what is going to happen before it happens in the play.

Elwood himself is a simpleton character who drinks a lot, loves people, and who constantly introduces Harvey to his friends.

One of the characters of the play describes Elwood as "Take your average man looking up and seeing a big white rabbit. He'd do something about it. But not Elwood. He takes that calmly too."

Another important character of the play is Myrtle Mae, played by a Freeburg Freshman, Janet Schmitt. Miss Schmitt was one of the winners in "Macbeth."

Myrtle Mae is the 25-year-old daughter of Veta Louise and can not seem to find a man, in spite of her mother's efforts.

Ruby Ballentine, freshman from East Alton, plays the part of Mrs. Chauvenet, a society family. Mrs. Chauvenet is sometimes known as "Aunt Ethel."

Sophomore Sharon Dennis of Springfield performs as Ruth Keller in "Harvey." She and Jim Kilby, who plays Lyman in "Macbeth," create the romantic interest in the play as a young doctor and a nurse. Kilby is a senior sociology major from Murphysboro.

King, Elder Team
William Chumley and his wife Betty own and operate a sanitarium called "Chumley's Rest." Don King of Carlini and Pat Elder, Eldorado sophomore, play these parts.

A comedy role is performed by John Gump in the role of Duane Wilson, attendant at the sanitarium. Veta Louise calls him a "white slave" because of his white insouciant jacket. Judge Geoffrey, family attorney and old friend, and E. J. Leifgren, philosophical cab driver, are the two remaining characters of the play.

Frederick Misch, senior theater major from Evanson, plays the judge, and the cab driver is performed by freshman Phil Holmbeck, Chicago marketing major.

Mrs. Simmons finally decides to report Elwood's strange sights. Upon telling the doctor of his problem, however, she admits that she has seen Harvey too. Naturally, Mrs. Simmons is put in the sanitarium instead of Elwood.

When the mistake is discovered and Elwood comes out of hiding, plans are made to give Elwood an injection to stop him from seeing Harvey.

Scenery in "Harvey" is to be built around three movable pieces. The two scenes used in the play, the Dowd home and Chumley's Rest, are built back to back. The crew needs only to revolve the flats and set up the necessary furniture for the new scene.

Student assistant of the play is Ken Swafford. No crew list has been made at this date.

Tickets for the play may be obtained between 10-11 a.m. and 3-4 p.m. weekdays at the Playhouse beginning Feb. 20.

Wallfishs Give Concert

Ernst and Lory Wallfish, who performed for several hundred people in a concert Sunday afternoon at Shryock Auditorium will appear again tonight with the Southern Illinois Symphony Orchestra.

The recital at Shryock Auditorium, beginning at 8:15 p.m., will mark the American premiere performance of Gian Malipiero's "Dialogues."

The new work by Malipiero is entitled "Concerto for Viola and String Orchestra," one of eight by Italian composers on the program.

Showcasing Malipiero's distinctive style, the contemporary treatment of 16th and 17th century harmonics features a 15-minute dialogue scored for strings, piano, flute, oboe, clarinet, two bassoons and two horns, in addition to the viola, played by Wallfish.

Sunday's program included Antonio Vivaldi's "Sonata," Franz Schubert's "Sonata 'Arpeggione,'" Georges Enesco's "Concertino" and Paul Hindemith's "Sonata Opus 11."

UNION SPONSORS MARDI GRAS PARTY

A free Mardi Gras party is being sponsored by the Student Union Friday night from 8:30 p.m. to 2 p.m.

"Students can just come and do what they want," said John Crowell, chairman of the Friday night activity committee.

"It will be sort of like New Year's Eve after one o'clock, except there won't be any booze," Crowell said.

Prizes will be given to the students who wear the best costumes. Any type of costume similar to those worn at the Mardi Gras in New Orleans will be in style at the Union party.

The court is maintained by student workers, many of whom are residents of the court. Plans are being made now for some type of enclosure to surround each trailer from the ground up to the bottom of the trailer. This would add to the attractiveness of the court as well as serve as a guard against refuse accumulating under the trailers.

Jackson said the residents are going to help maintain the present condition of the court by co-operating in a community work day.

Resident manager of the court is Donald Diver.

Plans are underway to establish a governing body of the court. The Chautauque Council might meet with the trailer council to discuss similar problems in the near future.

USES IBM MACHINES FOR STUDENT HOUSING

The Office of Student Affairs announced today that IBM machines may be used to handle housing procedures by next fall.

The machines would be used for room assignments and organizing housing directives.

400 Watch Rabin Play

Michael Rabin, 22-year-old violinist, gave a Festival of Five Arts performance before a crowd of 400 Friday evening at Shryock Auditorium.

Rabin played "Fugue in A" by Giuseppe Tartini, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's "Sonata No. 10 in B flat" and "Concerto in G minor, Op. 26" by Max Bruch to open the program.

The New York City native also played "Havaneise" by Camille Saint-Saens, Chopin's "Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 2," Zamparetti, Op. 23" by Pablo de Sarasate, "Sea-Shell" and Habanera, Op. 21."

He played "Burelesca" and "La Plus de Lenti" as encore numbers.

Rabin, whose father has been violinist with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra for more than 30 years, made his official American orchestral debut with the Philharmonic at the age of 14. He became the youngest soloist to appear on "The Telephone Hour."

One of the most traveled American violinists of his generation, Rabin's current schedule includes his eighth transatlantic North American tour, his fourth extensive European tour and his second tour of Israel.

A featured recording artist since he was 13, he has since interpreted much of the major violin repertoire for Angel recordings, and this season makes his debut with Capitol records.

The first program will be devoted to John Ciardi, controversial poet, professor, translator and poet editor of the Saturday Review. Ciardi's latest volume of poetry, "I Love You," was on the best seller list, and his recent translation of Dante's "Inferno" has been acclaimed by critics.

Moore has several other reviews planned for the future.

BUSINESS STUDENTS TAKE PROFICIENCY TEST

English Proficiency Examinations, which are required for all sophomore students in the School of Business, will be given Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the University School Auditorium.

In addition to sophomores, all juniors who have not taken the exam should do so, according to Dean H. J. Rehn.

Students should bring activity cards for identification.

Senator Folkerts Hints That Convo Sleeping Is All Right

Says Only Attendance Asked; Four Oppose Card-Jerkers

By Clarence Pratt

The place of the "card-jerker" in college life was questioned by the Student Council Thursday.

Senator George Folkerts, speaking for Dowdell, said students should be required only to attend Freshmen Convocation stressing the word attend; sleeping and studying at convocations should be allowed, he intimated.

Lately, faculty and staff members are patrolling convocations, particularly the Thursday morning sessions, and retrieving credit cards from offending freshmen. The patrolmen have been nicknamed "card-jerkers."

Folkerts said that rules state only that freshmen must attend a certain number of convocations. It is not always possible for students to attend convocation in which they are interested, he said, and if a student is not interested in a particular convocation program there is no reason why he or she should be required to pay attention.

Folkerts said that rules state only that freshmen must attend a certain number of convocations. It is not always possible for students to attend convocation in which they are interested, he said, and if a student is not interested in a particular convocation program there is no reason why he or she should be required to pay attention.

Mullins, Senators Oppose
Opposed to Folkerts' viewpoint, three senators and Miss Elizabeth Mullins co-ordinator of Student Activities, supported the opinion that convocations may serve to broaden a student's interest; and "card-jerkers" should not be necessary for supervision of college freshmen.

Some discussion was held concerning SIU's curriculum. At the previous Council meeting session had been asked to collect student opinion regarding the curriculum.

The discussion was held as a guide to the student committee looking into curriculum studies for the Council.

The discussion which the senators feel should be looked into include: duplication of course content within a department (often courses unnecessarily overlap or duplicate another course).

Need for survey courses. Often courses listed as survey courses are said to be beginning courses, as is the case in the zoology court which many students take.

VII credits: some course credits obtained on the VTI campus are not transferable to the Carbondale campus—the reasons are unclear. Minor course of study: often students are effectively restricted to choosing a minor within their major field.

In other Council activity: A preliminary report from commission shows that waste cans are usually found in offices on campus and not in classrooms. Pencil sharpeners are especially scarce in the older building on campus.

Possibilities for erecting a sign at the IC station calling attention to SIU was referred to commission.

A declaration of support to National Student Assn. recommendation on selective service legislation was read to the Council and approved. Details of the legislation were made clear to senators present at a special meeting two weeks ago.

Muddy Parking Lots

Concerning muddy parking lots, senators had complained about the lots to Student Body President Bill Berry several weeks ago. Berry, through Director of Student Affairs I. Clark Davis, referred the complaint to the president's office. No official word from the president's office has come to the Council yet.

Davis assured that the administration is "well aware" of the situation. Weather is the big factor right now, he said. Workmen can do little with the parking lot situation while the rainy weather keeps up, he added.

Ken Dry, president of the Student Union, was commended by the Council, for the successful dinner-dance Feb. 7.

It was announced that agendas for the next Student Council meeting will be available on Wednesday afternoon outside the student government office in the Student Union. Senators and interested students may obtain the agendas.

Two Others Injured

Student Dies In Auto

James R. Fowler, an SIU student, was killed instantly and two others were injured in an auto accident Sunday morning just south of Sesser.

Halsey K. Dulaney, Mt. Vernon junior, was still unconscious late Sunday night, suffering from a possible skull fracture.

John Latta, sophomore majoring in fine arts, received a broken nose and arm.

Both injured men were taken to Miner's Hospital in Christoper.

Fowler, a freshman from Ina, was trapped in his small General Motors car after it was struck by a truck which skidded into the wrong lane attempting to avoid hitting a dog.

According to State Patrolman Robert Pappas, Fowler died instantly.

Pappas, in a telephone conversation Sunday night, said the accident occurred when a pickup truck, driven by Stanley Gossett, 31, Sesser, swerved to avoid hitting a dog on the main-ditch Rt. 148, south of Sesser, 10:35 a.m.

Gossett's brakes locked a wrong lane, striking Fowler's north-bound Volkswagen, according to information by Franklin County Coroner Jess Britton.

Gossett was only slightly injured. The Volkswagen overturned and Fowler was trapped in the driver's seat.

SWEETHEART OF SIU

president of the off-campus student council, after being crowned 1959 Sweetheart Dance Saturday night.

Barbara Gill Is Sweetheart

Barbara Gill, junior from Clay City, was crowned 1959 Sweetheart Queen at the Sweetheart Dance Saturday night.

An overflow crowd attended the annual event at the Anthony Hall Eaves and danced to the music of the Delta City Fire.

Miss Gill was crowned by John Baker, president of the off-campus student council chairman, after the five finalists had been introduced.

The queen was selected by balloons cast at the door.

Tom Greenwalt, co-chairman of the dance, announced the winning contestant, and Sherry Reichert presented Miss Gill with a dozen red roses.

The queen's court consisted of Judy Easley, Pat Hoerdt, Karen Johnston and Joe Moir.

Complaints of many in attendance were aimed at the crowded conditions and lack of ventilation.

Miss Gill, who lives at the Haven, is an elementary education major. A member of the Alpha Phi chapter, she was one of the original candidates for the AFROTC Queen last year.

The five finalists were chosen by the off-campus social chairman last month.

Moore Reviews On WSRV-FM

Dr. Harry Moore, reviewer for the New York Times and Saturday Review, will begin a weekly book review program on WSRV's radio station, WSRV-FM, Wednesday at 745 p.m.

The first program will be devoted to John Ciardi, controversial poet, professor, translator and poet editor of the Saturday Review. Ciardi's latest volume of poetry, "I Love You," was on the best seller list, and his recent translation of Dante's "Inferno" has been acclaimed by critics.

'Tough Luck For Commuters'

Two phases of SIU's registration center and the sectioning system were discussed at the Student Council meeting Thursday night.

A brief but intense discussion concerned the University requirement of "night or Saturday classes" and personnel working at the sectioning center.

Jim Shirley, president of the Commuters Club, said that sometimes commuters have been refused Saturday classes and given night classes instead, even though registering early when most class section are still open.

"This is unreasonable, and tough luck for commuters who, making use of a car pool, have a transportation problem when required to attend night classes," he said.

Shirley made it clear that complaints brought to his attention involved personnel as well as policy. Some of the sectioning center personnel appear to be unreasonable and less than courteous, reports indicate.

A student senator, Yvonne Anton cited personal experience in which her proposed schedule had been changed by one of the workers at the sectioning center for no apparent reason. When this senator threatened to appeal to the director of the sectioning center her schedule was quickly changed back.

Six of the senators at Thursday's meeting voiced complaints about personnel in the sectioning center. Complaints centered around two persons.

The opinion of the whole Council was that the sectioning center has been doing an excellent job, but that there is need for an enlightened public relations attitude among the workers at the center.

Police Investigate Seat Theft Of Student Car

Campus police are investigating the theft of front and back seats from a car owned by Charles Cluser last week.

Tom Liffert, Security Officer, said a window had been kicked out and both seats, plus a $50 pair of binoculars, were taken.

Liffert said the theft took place sometime between 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Saturday noon at the Thompson Pent parking lot. He said footprints were left on the window where it had been kicked out.

Liffert said clues are being investigated and suspects noted. The Security Officer also said that two "hit and run" cases have been reported to the Campus Police. He said two cars have been hit in parking lots and have not been reported by the people who hit them.

KARSON SAID STUDENTS SHOULD NOT hesitate to approach their major professors with curricular problems. And much of the confusion over class prerequisites could be avoided if students would talk with the course teacher before signing up for a course under that teacher.

VII, home economics and the design department may have part of the answer to students' department contact—these three departments have committees of students which act as a complaint department between students and the department, Karson stated.

Separate Students, Prof.

Concerning the academic advice center, senators said that the present curriculum guidance set-up may serve to divorce a student from his own major department and generate a feeling that major professors are remote personages unavailable to students for consultation.

Two faculty members present at the meeting, Mark Karson of government and James Hendricks of botany, said that there is a need for closer contact between the student and his major professors.

Hendricks in particular felt that curriculum guidance should be more on a departmental basis than is now the case. Some other department heads also feel this way, he said.

Hendricks pointed out that often professors and persons in charge of departments don't even know all the students majoring in that particular field, and this may be due in part to the advisement system.

Karson said students should not hesitate to approach their major professors with curricular problems. And much of the confusion over class prerequisites could be avoided if students would talk with the course teacher before signing up for a course under that teacher.

The Editors' Opinions

Conduct At Game Uncalled For

It is one thing to be enthusiastic, but it is another thing to be downright dirty.

The conduct exhibited by the Eastern Illinois fans at the Eastern-Southern game Friday night at Charleston certainly seemed out of character and uncalled for.

The first time that Charlie Vaughn, Southern's high scorer, shot the ball, the lights in the gymnasium were turned on in an apparent effort to make him miss.

Throughout the game, especially in the second half of the game, the fans were throwing paper and just about anything they could get their hands on at the Southern bench.

In the final ten seconds of the game with Southern leading by one point, a Souther player committed a foul after missing a shot. According to collegiate rules, the time clock should be turned off as soon as a referee calls a foul. The timekeeper apparently "forgot" to stop the clock and the final seconds of the game ran out when there should have been at least five seconds left, enough for Southern to get a shot off.

Fans at Southern in the past have been rabid and highly partisan, but have never gone to these extremes—less hope they never do.

Side Glances at SIU ★
By RICHARD DARBY

Nothing on campus is growing as fast as enrollment. But other parts of campus are catching up. Probably most advanced and nearly sufficient for student needs is the judicial development here.

There was a time when practically all student discipline problems were handled by the Office of Student Affairs.

Today, most houses have judicial systems, and many living areas are arranged to handle student discipline cases.

The most recent addition to the judicial system, of course, is the Judicial Board. The board was authorized last May with the adoption of the three-branch student government.

Although the Judicial Board has been slow to organize, it has been meeting for a month, eight months after it received the okay. No cases have been brought before the board to date. The lack of cases at the start of Judicial Board meetings has given the board time to organize a philosophy.

Just last week the Office of Student Affairs announced that all living areas are expected to have judicial systems.

With the courts established, there will be four separate structures on campus—the floor or house system; living area system; Judicial Board system; and Office of Student Affairs system.

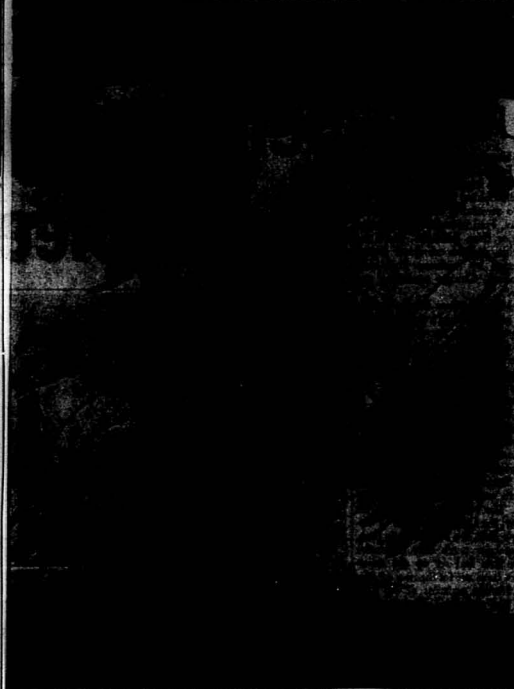

Officials estimate that it will be two years before the overall government will work smoothly, but once it does get into full swing, the results will be better justice for students.

For instance, a student tried by a hall board may appeal his cases either to the Judicial Board or the Office of Student Affairs, even though the floor court may have operated correctly in procedural matters.

Another advantage is the fact that the Office of Student Affairs has given the lower courts full authority. A decision of a lower court which satisfies the student may not be over-ruled by the upper courts.

It should not be assumed, however, that violators of University regulations will "get off easier" under student jurisdiction.

The Office of Student Affairs reported that student courts have operated "competently."

Paul Black Wins Debate Trophy

Paul Black won a championship trophy from a field of 40 contestants at a debate tournament at State Teachers' College in Pittsburg, Kans. last week.

Black was the only winner in the tournament, as Keith Sanders came in second in television speaking. Black won his trophy in extemporaneous speaking.

Black is a freshman and Sanders a sophomore.

Southern sent four debate squads to one of the largest tournaments in the country last week-end, the Owen Coon Tournament in Evanson, Northwestern University was host for the event which consisted of over 50 of the top colleges in the country, including Harvard and Dartmouth.

Spring vacation will be observed March 22-29. SIU has two extensions, one at Alton and the other at East St. Louis.

The Student Union has a classical music hour each Sunday afternoon at 3.

THE PEN IS MIGHTIER THAN THE SMOOCH

Back in my courting days (the moonoon coat was all the rage, everybody was singing Good Morning, Mr. Mister Mr. Mister, and young Bonaparte had just left Corsica), back, I say, in my courting days, the standard way to melt a girl's heart was to write poetry to her.

I don't understand why young men today have abandoned this gambit. There is nothing like poetry for moving a difficult girl. What's more, poems are ridiculously easy to write. The range of subjects is endless. You can write a poem about a girl's hair, her eyes, her lips, her walk, her talk, her clothes—anything at all. Indeed, one of my most effective love lyrics was called To Maud's Pencil Box. It went like this:

*In your dear little leatherette pencil box
Are pencils of yellow and red,
And if you don't tell me you love me soon,
I'll hid you on top of the head.*

Honesty compels me to admit that this poem fell short of success. Nothing daunted, I wrote another one. This time I pulled a switch; I threatened myself instead of Maud.

*Oh, Maud, pray stop this drink
And tell me you'll be mine,
For my smoothbreds they do afloat
And wind around my spine.*

*My heart doth come its beating,
My spleen uncoils and wrings,
My liver stops secreting
Soon I needs be a corpse.*

When this heart-rending ballad failed to win Maud, I could only conclude that she was cruel and heartless. It was better off without her. Accordingly I took back my H-Y pin, bade her adieu, and have not clapped eyes on her since. Last I heard, she was working in Galveston as a Pimlico line.

But I did not mourn Maud long, for after Maud came Doris—Doris of the laughing eyes, Doris of the shimmering hair, Doris of the golden throat!—Within moments of meeting her, I whipped up a torrent of trochaic telegrams:

*Oh, my sweet and dearest Doris!
I love you like a Philip Morris
With its wild and rich tobacco
In its white and coral pockets
I'd swim from Louisville to Natchez
For Philip Morris and you and matches.*

Well, of course, the dear girl couldn't resist a poem like that—what girl could?—and she instantly became my slave. For the rest of the semester she carried my books, washed my car, and cured my aches. There is no trifling when it all would have ended if she hadn't been so doted.

So, men, you can see the power of poetry. Try it yourself. All you need is a rhyming dictionary, a quill pen, and a second-hand muse.

Let's drop rhyme and turn to reason. The reason Marlboro has gone to the head of the filter cigarette class is simple: better "makin'"—A faster shot please. Filter that works. Marlboro—from the makers of Philip Morris.

Marshall Dillon Visits

Hide And Seek In Woody

By Betty Skelton
Marshall Dillon is a pretty boy bombast these days. It seems as if the delight of the crowd who line there, that he's making a hide and seek tour of Woody Hall. A paucity may notice his smiling face and 10-gallon hat peeking from behind a curtain on the third floor today, the first floor tomorrow, or the second floor the next day.

Buzzers ring, but no one answers. Guys fume and mutter "that Dillon guy" must be getting all of the attention again tonight.

The ladies vie for his attention, and throughout the dorm some whisper of "Rendezvous at 2:15 a. m." "He's in B-345." "We make the grab at mid night." You see, Mister Dillon is a prisoner of his fate. He never gets to rest his six-foot-plus frame in an easy chair or go down to dinner with the girls.

He stands alone behind a locked door or in a closet while his friends are out to class. He holds his breath hoping that the mauling tape won't peel off the back of his neck and let his handsome face droop. Clutched in his right hand is that same old carton of cigarettes, getting a little stale by now.

You see, big Matt is only cardboard, but what a piece of cardboard! He's the pride of Woody Hall, and must be kept under lock and key.

Where the big "statue" came from, nobody knows, but everybody wants his company, it seems. The girl who owns him one day may find him missing the next, and the search starts all over again. The ownership of "Mister Dillon" is a source of pride to whomever can successfully pirate him from her next-door neighbor.

Although his former home is unknown, it's pretty certain that the big Marshall is going to be living at Woody for a long time.

The Miss Thompson Point contest is slated for April 10-11

More men in high places smoke Camels than any other cigarette today. For the 10th straight year, America's real cigarette outsells every other—every filter, every king-size, every regular. The Camel blend of costly tobaccos has never been equalled for rich flavor and easygoing mildness. Today as always, the best tobacco makes the best smoke.

Salukis Blow Another Title Shot As Cagers Bow To Eastern, 72-70

By Ron Inaker
Sports Editor

Southern virtually blew another IAC conference title last Friday night as the Saluki cagers fell to the Panthers of Eastern Illinois University at Charleston by a 72-70 count.

Charlie Vaughn, despite the fact that the lights were turned out when he shot the first time, poured in 25 points to become the first Saluki ever to score 500 points in a season. Charlie has now scored 504 points to top the old mark of 485 points set by Tom Millikin during the 1952-53 campaign.

Trilled At All!
The Salukis, who seem to be making a habit of blowing title shots, trailed in the contest by a 40-33 count at halftime. During the first half, Southern hit a mostly .282 from the field as they made only 11 of 39 from the floor. Eastern warmed up late in the first half after getting off to a cold start and hit .357 from the field with 15 for 42.

Vaughn pulled Southern to a 70-67 lead with only 36 seconds left in the game. With 36 seconds remaining, Roger Beals made two free throws to make it a 70-59 game.

Hits Tips
Then came the clincher, the basket that brought the house down. With 11 seconds remaining Jerry Hise tipped in a rebound to give Eastern a 71-70 lead. Southern immediately called time to stop the clock with about 10 seconds to play. SIU threw the ball in and Bryson passed to Hepler who missed a jump shot from the key. Don immediately fouled Ken Christiansen who came down with the rebound. Ken made the second free throw in the intentional foul to give Eastern the 72-70 win. His free throw came after regulation time was gone despite the fact that the foul was committed with about six seconds remaining in the game. From all reports the time keeper "forgot" to turn off the clock.

Rough Treatment
Despite the fact that Southern received rough treatment from the paper-throwing fans, whistle-happy referees and forgetful time keepers, the Salukis missed their chance to win the game as Vaughn and Hepler missed the first charity toss on a one-and-one situation in the last two minutes.

Southern dropped to a 6-3 mark behind both Normal and Western in the IAC. They went into the game on top of the conference. Western and Normal still have one game remaining between them as well as three other conference tilts, but it appears that SIU's hopes for a cage title, their first in nine years, went out with the lights.

Even though the Salukis warmed up from the field in the second-half, they hit only .342 for the game with 26 for 77. For the season they have been hitting at a .440 clip. Eastern, however, didn't set any records. The Panthers hit 26 fielders in 73 attempts for a .355 mark.

Giants
SIU again looked like a grade school team from the free throw stripe. They hit 18 for 28 from the charity stripe and many of the misses were on the first of a one-and-one situation. The game previous to this one, Wheaton in the Chicago Stadium, SIU made only 13 for 29. Eastern cashed in on 18 for 25 gift tosses.

Bryson Hits 18
Captain Seymour Bryson tallied 18 points to finish behind Vaughn. No one else could swing the double figure total. Ruggles managed to get eight and

Felts, Pierce Tied For Top

By Charles Bundy

For a couple of hours last Wednesday night, Felts' Panthers were in first place in Men's Residence League No. 2. Their supremacy was cut short, however, when Pierce Hall 3rd Floor won their game to pull back into a tie with Pharoahs.

Bombers Fizzle, 56-52
Playing a 6:30 p. m. intramural game in the Amory, Pharoahs pulled out a 56-52 victory over Bailey Bombers. This brought their season's record to 6-0. Carl Meier scored 18 points. Pierce Hall won their 8 p. m. game from Little Italy, 95-51, by being their season's mark to 6-0. Mike Edl raked up 28 points for Pierce, and Phil Smith scored 21 for Little Italy.

Also Wednesday night, Illinois Avenue pounded Felts' Hall 2nd Floor, 64-56. Dowdell 8 Gamma "B" topped Phi Kappa Tau "B", 41-38. Kappa Alpha Psi defeated Delta Chi, 82-57. Sigma Tau Gamma rolled over Tau Kappa Epsilon, 72-42, and Happy Losers won from Brown Tigers, 67-51.

Locusts Undeclared
Happy Losers turned their eyes toward the forthcoming tournament as they extended their mark to 7-0 with their victory over Brown Tigers. Their nearest competitor in Men's Residence League No. 3 is Flat Broke Kuhl scored 28 points for Happy Losers. Jim Dehring pumped in 19 markers to lead the Brown Tiger scoring.

Illinois Avenue moved into a fourth-place tie in Men's Residence League No. 2 with their win over Felts' Hall 2nd Floor. High for Illinois Avenue was Phil Fair, 29 points. Carl Prose scored 26 for the losers.

Sig Tau's In Second
The two Sigma Tau Gamma teams playing Wednesday night made good showings. Sig Tau "B" stretched their seasons mark to 4-1 and remained in second place in the Fraternity League "B" division by beating Phi Kappa Tau, Leading the "B" division is another Sig Tau team, Sigma Tau Gamma "C". High for Sig Tau "B" Wednesday night was Dave Wheeler, 14 points. Earl Turnipseed, 14 points, headed the Phi Kappa Tau scores.

Gymnasts Drub Normal, Central

Beat Washington, Normal

Continuing their meticulous attack on the record books as well as their opponents, the Saluki tankmen swamped Illinois Normal Saturday in the University School pool, 67-27.

Last Friday, despite the fact that coach Ralph Casey left his top swimmers, Norbert Rumpel, Bob Steele and Walt Rodgers at home, defeated Washington University in St. Louis by a 52-32 count.
